

About the Author

About the Author, Erin Aleshire

On November 21st of 2004, I went to the hospital for a routine procedure. I opted to be fully awake for this procedure as my body had historically rejected most anesthesia as well as most pain medications. During this procedure, I was able to talk with the staff as they worked on me.

As this continued, I started to unexpectedly experience a great amount of pain and this was then followed by sweats and shaking. As I began to lose consciousness, the last thing I heard was "Erin, hang in there just a couple more....We're losing her! We're losing her!!" This incident then began my very first Near Death Episode, or NDE for short.

While I was experiencing this registered NDE in the hospital, God took me to the base of a mountain. There God told me that I was about to go through one of the darkest seasons of my life and as always the Lord was correct. Indeed, I began a journey with Him through the darkest of valleys for a seemingly endless seven years.

During this time, my heart condition continued to worsen and this initial event was really just the beginning of the first of a series of NDEs. We later would find out that this was as a result of an unusual arrhythmia which actually causes my heart to stop called Sudden Brady Response, or SBR for short.

During these SBRs, I would continue to experience these NDEs. Some of these NDEs were classified as 'registered events' and others were classified as 'non-registered events'. Whenever these SBRs occurred, I would be taken for visits to parts of Heaven and even God's City of Gold, the Home of His Throne.

At first, I kept these visits confined to my personal journals as I did not want to appear to be 'not of sound mind' medically speaking. However, these visits foretold of the dreams that were to later come and served as the basis for these books coming into being.

One incident in particular stood out when on the Good Friday of 2008 my heart suddenly stopped. This was an unusually severe SBR and just happened to occur during a presentation at work. Witnesses to this particular NDE included an architect, a builder and several of my co-workers that were at this presentation.

In this particular NDE, which was classified as a 'registered event', an angel of the Lord told me that I mattered to God and, even as I type this today, the memory is as vivid as if it happened within the last week.

Due to this particular registered NDE, I finally received a formal diagnosis from the doctors that this continued heart problem meant facing the very real possibility of death unless I agreed to have a pacemaker implanted. With three young children, I knew that this was something I would have to go through now even with the potential complications of the resulting surgery.

After the pacemaker surgery, my NDEs stopped and my visits to Heaven were temporarily suspended. I then went through a dry spell or a 'desert period' wherein I did not hear from the Lord for around two years. In many ways, this period of aloneness was unbearable based on the fact that these previous visits had meant so much to me.

During these two years, I inadvertently ended up making some decisions that my enemies saw as opportunities to attack me. While under these suddenly intensified attacks, I sought God with complete abandon and I chased after the Lord with my whole heart and every fiber of my being.

Nonetheless, I became quite concerned that my time of miracles had ended with my new pacemaker, but I still petitioned Him on my knees every day and sometimes literally for hours at a time. In my persistent cries to God, my long desert period finally came to a close and God once again began to work supernaturally in my life and to an even greater extent than ever before.

Indeed, in October 2012 I began to experience an amazing string of prophetic dreams and visions which have continued to this very day. My friends and I prayerfully soon after made the decision to finally gather up all of these dreams and publish them as I received them, starting in this same month.

As further background and in terms of how the dreams and visions all began, here is a brief outline of how the Lord grants me these dreams and visions:

First I have the dream at night and then after I wake up I take communion and pray. As I sit to write these dreams in my journal, Jesus then gives me an open vision of the dream that He wants me to focus on. During this time, this vision is so clear that I can experience and look wherever He desires me to.

Second, as I relive the dream I begin to write in my journal and somehow this all happens with me not even having to look at the journal as I am writing even as I am within these visions. Amazingly, my writing flows from the Holy Spirit and I am able to write in ink without any need for correction.

Third, these handwritten pages are then sent to my friends for typing and posting. In hindsight, I have no doubt that this all happened in this manner so that the dates these dreams were posted could easily be verified as actually happening on the date indicated by hundreds, if not thousands, of eye witnesses.

This way, no one could say that these dreams were posted after an event took place and was therefore written in hindsight. Instead this provided concrete proof that these dreams were all written in 'foresight' and on the date indicated that the dream took place.

Interestingly, if not humorously, if I ever try to write something differently from exactly what the Holy Spirit is requesting, my vision of the dream shuts down immediately and I am forced to stop writing. Whenever this happens, my memory temporarily goes completely blank and I must stop and pray before the Lord will allow the download to begin again.

This divine process has resulted in me becoming more like a reporter or scribe. In other words, I cannot influence or change these dreams or what is written even if I tried to as the Lord simply will not allow it. In the end, I can assure you that the details contained in these dreams are so incredible that it can only be God-inspired as I simply do not have the time, energy or education to take credit for any of this.

What is so wonderful about this incredibly divine process is that I am given a threefold check to everything I write about these dreams. Again, I first have the dream, I then relive the dream in a detailed vision and finally the Holy Spirit helps me write whatever the Lord wants me to witness.

As I experience these dreams and subsequent visions, I actually learn from the Lord as I go and all in live '3-D'. The downside of these dreams is that I also experience the darkest of events in 'live 3-D' as well. When it comes to these dark events that I am shown, this can often be quite horrific as all of the accompanying sounds and smells are often hard to bear or even to describe sometimes.

On a side note, my pacemaker continues to record my 'heart events' and these easily average about thirty events per day. Indeed, every few months I get an actual printout of these heart events and they register these events much like a seismograph. Interestingly, the events I am experiencing in Heaven are in a way even registered in my pacemaker's event log. Now the thing that is important to keep in mind is that I am not a prophet or even a self-proclaimed prophet, but merely a seer and a scribe. In reality, I am just a type of Heavenly reporter. Ironically, I do not even enjoy writing at all, yet for whatever reason that the Lord only knows He quite humorously chose me to write more often than I would ever have desired. Again, I am certainly not a scholar nor am I 'so special' that feel I even deserve this gift. However, as shown in Scripture, Jesus specializes in giving generously to undeserving people, so I will take this gift with a very glad heart.

Within the dreams, I really must stress yet again that I am merely being used by the Lord as an example, but almost really as more of an illustration. During these tragedies and losses, I have gained a love relationship with Jesus and He has forever changed me from the ordinary life I was leading. Indeed, I have now personally seen the beauty of Heaven, yet the Lord has told me that what I have been shown is still only but a tiny fraction of what is waiting there for those who love God.

As you will experience in these dreams, you will find that the Lord is so much more than what we have all been taught. While these dreams never contradict the Bible, hopefully they will instead help illuminate the Bible for you to become even more of a divine love story written on the tablets of our hearts. While very few have discovered the layer after layer of the love that God has given us already through His Words, I pray that these dreams will help you discover this as He has for me now.

Always remember that Heaven is a divine mystery and there is no lack. Indeed, Heaven is perfectly holy, a place of perfection and there is no death or decay of any kind. Heaven is a place of absolute beauty, precision and craftsmanship unlike anything on Earth. Not only that, and somewhat surprisingly to me, Heaven is also a place with state of the art technology that simply cannot be fathomed or matched by anything man can create...and all without a single 'electrical cord'!

Compared to Earth, Heaven is logical and intricately mysterious, yet infinitely grand and intensely personal at the same time. Again, this is a mystery to me as well, but these dreams will help you see all of this in a clearer fashion, or at least that is my greatest desire for each of you.

Through these powerful dreams and with the help of the Holy Spirit, I strongly believe that you will come to know your Lord and Savior much more intimately than you had ever 'dreamed' possible. Remember, Jesus is always the grand subject and this is no different in these dreams.

Given where we are and nearing the end, I sincerely believe that He is now making Himself and His Home for us in Heaven that He has planned for us known to people all over the world. By no means are these dreams a substitute for Scriptures in the Bible, but rather these dreams beautifully illustrate Scriptural truths.

1 Corinthians 2:9 summarizes what I have seen while visiting Heaven: "But as it is written, eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man (or woman), the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."

As you are reading through these dreams, you may find yourself asking 'now why would Jesus choose Erin, a common Gentile and sinner, for these dreams and visions?' You should know in advance that I too have asked the Lord this very same question too many times to count.

However, whenever I have asked the Lord this very same question, His reply has always been so simple, "Erin, why not you?" I have since learned to simply accept His answer, though often hard for me to, and I pray that you will too (smiles)...

About the Books & the Dreams

The Lord has taken me on a long journey with these dreams. As the dreams progress, Jesus shows me more and more details and unlocks complex mysteries. This did not happen suddenly, but rather over a course of many years and now with seven books and counting.

While many who find these dreams will at first believe that these dreams were given by God for those who already believe in His Son, Jesus, they are really for so much more than this. Amazingly, Christians are not even the Lord's intended primary audience for all of these dreams.

Since you have been somehow led to find these dreams, it is quite likely that you are currently disillusioned with people who call themselves Christians that you have seen acting over and over again like anything but Christians. Or perhaps you have attended a church and have been hurt by ungodly behavior as this is happening more than ever and at more churches than ever. Or perhaps you have struggled to read the Bible and have been told that this 'Book' is no longer relevant to a modern world.

If this describes you, just know that you are just one of many that are experiencing a religious system wherein many of these institutions have grown cold and stale over time! However, I can assure you that you are VERY welcome here as I can relate all too well to what you have experienced as I have experienced all of this myself and way too often, wherein this continues to get worse as we get closer to His coming for us.

Regardless of how you got here, I now ask you with all of my heart that you truly give these dreams a chance to help you see the Lord in a different light. Churches and people are imperfect, as am I, but God is perfect and I can assure you that Jesus is more than you could ever imagine and the opposite of all of these things you may have seen or been taught. These dreams will help you see this as the truth in an ever increasingly deceptive world.

Whether you are a skeptic here to investigate what these dreams are all about or you are someone whose very soul is crying out that there must be more to this life and the next life, I believe that you simply cannot read these dreams without being greatly affected. While these dreams are meant for Christians as well, the Lord has specifically informed me that these dreams are really meant for the lost and disillusioned like you.

Indeed, the Lord has also specifically informed me and warned me that my very worst critics and adversaries for these dreams will be 'other Christians'. While I will continue to have Christian friends who the Lord has assured me will continue to be faithful and stand with me in all of this, many of these 'other Christians' will soon publically say things like the following ...

- Why would the Lord pick someone like Erin who has experienced...(fill in one of many blanks as I will be the first to admit that I had quite an 'ungodly life' leading up to Him lifting me out of a ditch of despair)?
- Why would God not pick a Bible scholar for this purpose? Where is Erin's doctorate in theology?
- Why would God use a woman for this and not a man instead?

Really, these criticisms and so many more will soon come and without ceasing as I have already been told by the Lord to expect this. Now, it is not that I cannot relate to these criticisms as I too have asked many of these same things myself. However, each time that I ask these questions, the Lord quickly reminds me that He often chooses the most unlikely person at the most unlikely time and that, this time, this 'most unlikely of people' just happens to be me and for just this time.

The Lord then often reminds me that one just has to read all about what He did for Mary Magdalene, a former prostitute, to find out that He does not look at our outside, but rather what could be, through Him, on the inside. If these attacks describe what you have experienced when searching for the True God of the Bible, just know that these attacks are not from Jesus, but from the enemy who wants you to stay lost and distant from Jesus as He is the only One Who can save you.

I just know in my heart that these dreams are the answer for you as they only become more and more wondrous as God's glory is revealed as these books continue. While each dream is independent of each other, they are also interlocked and relate to previous concepts from earlier dreams. I am sure you will enjoy the journey from start to never ending conclusion as much as I did.

Thank you so much for taking the time to come here to investigate and read these dreams. May you be as greatly blessed by these dreams and books as I have! As you read and study these books, you will notice that the content is ever expanding in scope and wonder, but nonetheless this all had to start somewhere and, in this case, it all started with "The Invitation".

"The Invitation" has since progressed to the series that I am currently working on called "The Tribulation". Now over two hundred dreams later, these dreams work together to form the first seven books in the Heaven's Gate Series as follows:

- Book 1: The Invitation
- Book 2: The Blacksmith
- Book 3: The Mansions
- Book 4: The House of God
- Book 5: The Exodus
- Book 6: The Prophecies
- Book 7: The Final Hour

I just know that the Lord will speak to your heart in these dreams and books as He has spoken life into my heart and, more importantly, into my very Spirit and Soul. As you look through this website, you will find sample dreams for each of these seven books, along with all of the most recent dreams that are starting to form the eighth book.

I pray that all of the content that you find here is to His Glory alone and not for mine as Jesus and His Father are worthy of all of our praises and I am just a flawed vessel He is working with to bring this to you. To elevate me in anything would be foolish, but to elevate Him in all things is wisdom.

It is therefore my sincerest hope and desire that these dreams and books that the Lord has gifted me with accomplishes all of these things and brings you into a relationship with Jesus you never even thought possible! May you soon find out that even eternity will not be enough time for you to thank Him for all that He has done and will do for you and for the incredible love He has for you and each of those He loves and loves Him.

With love and blessings, Erin

Interview with Erin in June 2016

BY the School of the spirit updated with permission by Sparrowcloud9.com on April 7th, 2017

Who are you And what is your ministry?

Through time while in His Plan, I have learned to relate to so many different people from so many different walks of life. I know what it is like to live in poverty and in wealth. I know what it is like to lose everything and slowly gain it back by God's Grace. I know how to live with very little and to find joy in the simple things around me.

Many years ago, I had wealth and materials things, but these left me depressed and thirsty for more. I lacked wisdom, fulfilment and was hungry for Jesus. Now when I look back to when I was 18 and unsaved, I had asked God for something, something that would end up being the start of so many trials and tests ...

"To one day have a heart of gold, but, for now, it sits on a chain around my neck until the day I can love everything and everyone including myself."

I had publicly shared this desire in my high school yearbook. Well, God began to work on this as this request had pleased Him, but little did I know just how difficult this request would turn out to be.

When I later came under attack and became sick, I was stripped of almost everything I had. This included my marriage, my money, my beautiful antiques, rugs, furniture clothing and cars. They were all gone and in such a short time.

I was even forced to auction all that we had. I went through lawsuits, yet I could no longer pay attorneys to fight. I could not pay for the judgements from the medical bills. I lost all of my social status and a wealth of worldly and conditional friends. I almost lost my children as well once I had discovered that they had been abused, but God spared me from this. Quite simply, God has emptied me from any sense of self that I had. I was emptied of myself!

Since then, I have learned to be satisfied with what I have been given and I no longer chase after the things of this world. I have learned that God does not demand my self-sacrifice, but He does demand and bless my obedience. As soon as I had let go of myself and was severely broken and at the lowest position society had for me, it was then that Jesus showed up. He saved me from the miry pit and put my feet back on a firm foundation – Him!

My call from God is really to bring the Good News of Jesus coming soon for His Bride. Trouble will come and it is here now, but it will become far worse very soon. The Lord has sent some of us to point out Heavenly things to the unsaved or skeptical people hurt and wounded by Christians. They also need to know God is calling them.

He loves them and has prepared a beautiful place for us. Those who accept Jesus as their Lord and Savior will not perish. Those who claim to know God, but continue on their sinful lifestyles, and those who listen to false teachings of the 'Wide Gate' religions will fail to see the 'Narrow Gate' of Jesus.

I am here to share the Good News of Jesus. He will save you. He loves you. He loves you, not as the world loves you, but as the Father God loves you!

When did you start having these dreams and how long DO they last?

I have been a dreamer for most of my life, but the truly vivid dreams from the Lord began in 2012. The dreams can be as short as 30 minutes of sleep for hours of messages to several nights of the same dream over and over or continuing. I later wake up, have communion and then He downloads the details of the dreams in a 180 degree 3D vision while I write what He chooses me to from what I am shown.

If I begin to write something He does not direct, the vision immediately stops. When I then pray and go back to Him, He then redirects my attention to His lead. In the beginning, this was quite hard. I was so fascinated with my new gift that I spent too much time looking around and not enough time on His directives (smiles). Now the visions rarely shutdown as I have since learned to 'wait on the Lord'.

Why is God giving you these dreams?

Again, I think it is because I know a little bit about a lot of different things and so I can relate to so many people in their walks. I understand discrimination and abuse as I have lived out so much of this being directed at me. From being around family members who struggled, I understand substance abuse and addictions.

I was also an Interior Designer for over two decades. While I have worked on multi-million dollar mansions, I personally have lived in small homes (smiles). In turn, while I have an appreciation for 'the finer things', I still do not like the high price that needs to be paid to acquire these 'things'.

I believe that God also allowed me to have this gift simply because I am so eternally thankful to Him for all that He has done for us. I have seen His miracles and have even lived them. I have allowed Him to use me as a vessel for His purposes and this results in a life of no regrets when I do.

I feel like I have now done everything I have ever wanted in my life, so I no longer desire anything else but the Lord's Will for me and in me. Oops, look at all of the 'I's and 'me's I just finished used in that last sentence (smiles).

The way to hear clearly from God is when you die to your-'self' so that there is less of you and more of Him.

What is the purpose of these dreams?

Jesus is coming for His Bride very soon. These dreams are for those who have been hurt by Christians, for the lost and also for those who hunger and thirst for more answers from God. We have been misled to believe that Earth is real and Heaven is not. However, it is Heaven that is real and this Earth is 'but a chasing'.

How do people react to reading the books and the website?

Christians who live life in their comfortable lounge chairs hate these dreams since Jesus is requiring something from them. He is requiring them to step out of the pews and look up.

However, for those hurt by people preaching wrong doctrine and leaving the church as a result, for those hurt by people using Scripture as a weapon against them while they themselves are operating under demonic strongholds and for those who have seen the power of God and desire more than what church offers, these are the ones that will find these dreams and love them. Those who are searching for more miracles, signs and wonders as spoken about in the Bible for these, the last days, will find them in these dreams.

The Blacksmith

Dream Excerpt from The Blacksmith

The Blacksmith – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from January, 2013 to May, 2013

Prelude to “The Fallen & Satan’s Guidelines”

In these twenty six dreams that form this second book, the Lord seems to change the tone slightly from the first book in order to discuss how the enemy comes against us. This book is suitably titled “The Blacksmith” as our enemy continuously pounds us like a ‘blacksmith’ pounds metal into shape and removes its impurities.

However, we will learn that, while The Blacksmith does not do this for our good, God does allow this in order to help make us into who He wants us to be. Though I say this second book changed tone from the first book, in reality each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other.

For example, though the residing theme in The Blacksmith is the blacksmith as one would expect, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Mansions, The House of God, The Exodus, The Prophecies and The Final Hour, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The Blacksmith sometimes appears in each of these as well.

I picked the following dream as the excerpt from “The Blacksmith” in order to show that the enemy is only allowed to work in our lives under specific perimeters as laid out by God Himself. In other words, the enemy can do no more and can do no less than what the Lord sets in His Courts. However, such punishment can increase on us depending on our reaction to the test, but even this added punishment is premeasured by God Himself.

Now, do these limitations by God infuriate the enemy? Absolutely! Satan lusts for free reign to do as he wishes as he hates all of us so much that his hate cannot even be measured. So why does satan hate us so much? It is because we are the image of God and he hates God's image as He represents his defeat. Indeed, the whole struggle playing out between good and evil exists because evil wants to break free from God and even believes that it still can.

These dreams also reminds us that being hammered by 'The Blacksmith' is not always a heart or sin issue, though it can be, but could also be the Lord using our trials to make us who He would like us to become. Now, do I like The Blacksmith when he is coming against me? Absolutely not!

However, if I know that The Blacksmith is being used to bring me closer to Jesus by the Father, then this makes it easier to take. While the collection of dreams in The Blacksmith as a whole illustrates this, the following dream gives you a good glimpse into God's work in us using The Blacksmith...

Dream 40 – The Fallen & Satan's Guidelines

Received Thursday, January 24, 2013

I was again running barefoot on the darkened and snowy path and wearing only my white robe with the blue smock over it. I am once again running from something out of great fear. It is again about 30 degrees Fahrenheit in the atmosphere and I now I cannot even feel my feet due to the cold.

However, this time I can hear footsteps behind me along with the sounds of things coming after me. Even though I am running as fast as I can, they are beginning to close in on me as I see the Gate with the glory light ahead of me.

Instead of stopping like last time, this time I run right through the Gate and the two angels are waiting for me there. I instantly remembered my place, dropped to my knees and began to sob. I was so relieved to be safe here that I quickly bowed before the Lord on the 'safe' side of the Gate and I am in tears.

The angel to my right put salve in my eyes so I could see as the angel to my left put an ember to my lips. The ember loosened my lips and tasted like honey. I was feeling sad and overwhelmed when the angel to my right then poured the oil of joy over my head.

While my body was still wet from rain, this oil felt warm all over me and brought me instant comfort and peace. Tears began to stream down my face again as I was so happy to be back in front of the Lord of all Creation.

While I remembered that whoever was chasing me wanted me dead, I now could not even remember who I was running from and why as this no longer mattered as I was now in the presence of God Almighty and was completely protected.

The two angels then brought me to my feet and I saw that I was at the edge of the Sea of Glass. The glory light from His Throne shone over the landscape like a giant glowing ember or golden wave of light. This was so amazing to see that I suddenly remembered where my place was and I began to tremble in response.

The wind began to blow again and felt warm but with a hint of crisp coolness like a mid-spring day. The wind swirling from all four corners seemed to now encompass me and I heard the calm whisper of Jesus in it.

Jesus: "Erin, you have been given the honor of a gift. My Father has mysteries to show you. Do not be afraid as you have been given ears to hear, eyes to see and a hand to write. You are only to write what is permissible while all else will remain sealed until the proper time. You are loved so be strong and courageous and do not be afraid."

Just as quickly as the wind had started, it then ceased. I then heard a voice like the sound of rushing water with the intensity of a hurricane, but yet was also like a symphony at the same time.

Lord: "Erin, come forth."

I stepped forward with my feet as if to stand on the vast Sea of Glass, but my feet did not touch the ground as I was somehow above it.

Lord: "You are standing on holy ground."

I looked down and saw that my feet were as battered as if I had run through a battlefield. I knew that I had fled from my home quickly with no time to find shoes and it was quite apparent from the sight of my feet that I had run for miles.

My feet were cut up, bloodied and dirty when God instantly transformed my feet so that they were now beautiful. I became keenly aware of my feet because I had been too afraid to look up with my eyes but had remained looking down.

My blue smock that I was wearing had also been instantly transformed into a beautiful shimmering white robe and really needed no adornments or embellishments for it to be simply stunning. My skin, my hair and my feet were now beautiful and appeared like the luster of a pearl. I was wearing no jewelry at all and did not need to here.

Lord: "Erin, do not be afraid."

The angels to my right and to my left took my arms and began to move me closer to Him. I still felt afraid to look up, but I felt the angels to my right nudge me to do so. When I finally looked up, I saw a golden light around and coming from Him.

I then saw the slight outline of His Throne and it shined like a deep rich sapphire that I somehow knew had been cut and faceted by His very breath.

The brilliant mix of the golden rays of light reflected into the brilliance of the sapphire Throne and emanated from that.

The golden light and the deep blue of the sapphire mixed in the air as a beautiful circular ray of emerald that was completely around the area. However, this color was really even more amazing than the color of emerald but this particular color I was seeing really had no name or comparison on Earth.

Indeed, there was no name for so many of the colors I could see in Heaven as my limited knowledge of primary and secondary colors and mixes were based only on our palette from Earth. The best description I can come up with was that the color was 'an emerald from up high'.

In front of me now was the Creator of all things, God, but I still could not look upon His immense glory. I could not see Him but just around Him as not even His form was something I could assemble with my eyes. All I could see was a spectrum of brilliance from the Creator of Heaven and Earth and this made me tremble.

The angels stopped at a certain place over the Sea. While I felt that I was now extremely close to the Throne, in reality I was still quite far away. Without realizing what was happening, my body was actually weeping and tears streamed down my face

The very cells in my body were completely drawn to God and I knew that my body recognized God as the Creator and that my very cells longed to be back in His presence. There was no pain in my body and nothing contrary as everything here is perfect and in balance. My heart felt so much love that I was now overcome with the love from His very presence.

Lord: "Child, I have more for you to see. Are you ready?"

Without one ounce of hesitation, my body responded with a yes even as my brain was not quite there yet. The opposite is true here on Earth, but here I just knew that God would take care of everything.

Immediately as I stood at the vast golden sea, there was a great earthquake in Heaven right before my eyes as the ground split in two before me. I knew that this split was not at all permanent as the split I had seen from before had already been restored beautifully. Instead, this was meant for me to look into the actual part of the Earth He was directing my attention to.

There below me I saw an incredibly lush garden and I saw a covering or blanket of love, like a shield over the Earth like a giant tent. Through that and to the region of what looked like somewhere near modern day Iran, all of the land mass of the Earth was together before the separation of the regions had come.

I saw four rivers coming from a lush garden and going out like gates throughout the garden. I searched my memory banks of anything remotely like it that I have seen, but it was like the Lord God had allowed me to assemble my thoughts but for a moment.

In essence, if I were to take every beautiful place I had even been to or had seen from snapshots and put these all together, this composite would still be an insignificant comparison of the vast garden that was before me here in Heaven. Each river that I saw here is like Canadian glaciated water and is pure, cool, clear and sweet to taste.

I was suddenly being filled with the knowledge that these rivers had watered the Garden of Eden and there had been no need for rain. From these beautiful rivers, the roots themselves were watered.

There was an abundance of wild life and I saw every type of animal from all over the Earth present in the garden. Each animal was well fed, gentle and loving and I even saw a lion sitting next to a lamb. I saw an amazing array of trees that bore fruit and knew that this fruit was incredible.

However, one of the trees in the Garden stood out to me as it was at the very center of the Garden and was an amazing tree to behold. The fruit on this tree was both abundant and perfectly ripe. The main river that fed the four rivers watered this tree as well.

At the base of this tree, I saw a type of low illuminated fence surrounding it that looked like it was warning that no one should go beyond this point. I was not sure if I was seeing a fence in reality or if this fence was actually just in the spirit realm.

When I looked inside the fence, I saw a 'snake' that seemed to have legs. It was not as much like a real snake we see today, but more like a lizard of sorts but with a human like face. When I saw this 'snake', I then realized that this fence was actually there to confine the 'snake' to the tree and keep it within this fenced area.

As long as this 'snake' kept behind the fence, he was free to roam around the tree. I then realized that this was the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil. From my point of view, it looked as if the Lord had contained this evil 'snake' only to the confines of this tree.

Although I had not remembered anything quite like this in Scripture, this really seemed to make perfect sense to me upon seeing it. Strangely, I also then seemed to understand that the entire Garden was a paradise, almost as if Heaven was there on Earth.

I saw angels roaming freely and visibly amongst the Garden. I was amazed that I was being able to see this and felt extremely humbled by it all. I then felt my own eyes being drawn to this tree as if I too was being tempted to taste the fruit.

Here and after all this time I had thought Eve was ignorant to eat this fruit, but yet I found my own flesh now drawn to tasting it too. I actually found myself drawn to the fruit even with my prior knowledge of the ramifications of eating the fruit.

Eve then appeared and she was stunningly beautiful and even more beautiful than any woman alive today. Her skin was perfect and without blemish as there was no age to her. I will not get descriptive as there were no clothes on her, but speaking from one woman about another woman, I knew that I was looking at one of the most beautiful women ever created.

Eve walked freely in the Garden until on one particular day this 'snake' called out to Eve. I did not need to hear the conversation to know this, but I knew that satan was coaxing Eve and placing doubt in her.

I then saw her hand move through the protective barrier around the perimeter that was almost like a golden plasma-like shield. I watched as her hand hesitated for a moment, but then reached to take hold of the fruit. She removed the fruit outside of this barrier and finally took a bite.

Then next to me and in front of God, I saw two angels appear that I recognized and these angels were on either side of the crevice. One of the angels had scales while the other angel had a sundial. However, the sundial was now out of sequence of time like a perimeter and there were more marks originally than now. The days then became shorter and death was accelerated.

As I looked at the angel to my right, I saw the movement of the scales tip off balance against man as the fruit from the Tree of Knowledge tipped the scales against mankind. The perfect balance and the days of Heaven upon this Earth were now gone. As I saw the ultimate separation unfold before me, I began to cry with grief.

The sight of all of this seemed to affect me almost more than anything I have observed in these dreams other than Jesus' Crucifixion at Golgotha. I wept as I looked down at this scene from the viewpoint of Heaven. I saw things in the Garden begin to die as weeds began to overgrow the lush greenery and "choke out" all life.

The Garden was dying and life was now measured by the 'Clock'. I saw Adam, also beautiful in appearance, but strong, handsome and perfect as a man could be and in the very image of God Himself. I saw both Adam and Eve when Adam then partook also of the fruit and knew that he loved her so much.

They had now both partook in the eating of this fruit because they both had seen that the fruit was good. When they did this, I immediately saw the Heavenly veil over their eyes being lifted. Once the veil was lifted, this changed their focus from plenty to lack and from acceptance to shame. They were now focused on their flesh instead of God.

In that moment, I saw that the Spirit of the living God had been stripped from them and that they knew now they were naked. I saw angels in the Garden mourning as this occurred.

I then saw Jesus walking in the Garden and calling out to them. When He called to them, they became afraid and hid. He called out to them again and found them in their now disgraceful position.

I saw Jesus rebuking them, but He was also grieving the loss and could hear weeping from all over this now disappearing paradise. I then saw Jesus rebuke the 'snake' and curse it. When He cursed the 'snake', I saw this reptilian humanoid type object with power being without legs now and slithering about on its belly. I then saw the Lord removing Adam and Eve to outside the Gates of the Garden.

Lord: "Erin, look closely."

My sight then zoomed in and I saw a rewind of this event through amazing Heavenly technology. I saw the Lord Jesus saying to the snake that he would strike the heel of men continuously, but that he would be defeated eventually by the seed of Adam and the Son of God. While Jesus was speaking about himself, the snake lacked understanding and only knowing that eventually Jesus would defeat him.

The angel at the top of the great opening in Heaven brought the Bible to me. There I saw both the beginning and end in Genesis 3:15 and in Revelation. The snake had become much larger through time and was now a dragon. I saw the eventual destruction of the snake and, although I already know about the outcome of satan in advance, it was so reassuring to see his defeat taking place in person.

A then saw a part of Revelation being illuminated. First Revelation 2:7-10 was illuminated and Revelation 12:11-13 was illuminated. I saw from my vantage point that the snake's access for punishment came from the Garden and the open door came from Eve. In essence, satan's most effective open door came from Eve and continues to come today through women.

I then saw that the small golden fence around the base of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, as well as the plasma-like veil guarding the Tree, was not seen by Adam or Eve. Instead, these had been created by God so that the 'snake' was not permitted to roam freely throughout the entire Garden but just around this tree.

In essence, God had confined satan to this part of the Garden only, but the seduction of the Tree that was so beautiful with the fruit so perfectly ripe would be satan's weapon. By using this temptation, the snake knew that the only thing that he could do was tempt the one creation that was not in the original creation and that was Eve. Satan also knew that Adam loved Eve so he knew that if he could tempt her, he could use her to bring Adam down with her.

Eve came from Adam's side and was therefore his equal as she did not originate from Adam's head or his foot. If Eve had been created from Adam's head, she would rule Adam. If Eve had been created from Adam's foot, she would be under his foot or oppressed.

Eve instead was the perfect companion to Adam and the female perfection of Adam. Using this to his evil advantage, the snake had went for the weakest point of the heart of Adam by getting at him through Eve.

When this all happened, the Lord then cursed the snake with the spirit of satan and reminded the snake of his place and this would be low to the ground or dirt. Not only that, but satan would now be in conflict with women until the Lord comes and strikes satan's head in the end of days.

In the meantime, satan continues to inflict Eve's seed as well as all of Eve's offspring for life here on Earth. Satan therefore inflicts men mostly through women as women are man's weakest point.

Now I saw this formerly perfect and lush Garden growing weeds and thistles. These weeds and thistles choked out the life and death came as if in a fast moving wave. The spirit of satan was not cast out of the Garden, but rather slithered out of the Garden in pursuit of Adam, Eve and their eventual offspring.

The snake was upset at the Lord, but he was free to inflict harm on the seed of Adam and Eve as God had permitted this. Then, as I knelt in the presence of God, I became unsure about the time or order of all of this as I then saw another event that cannot be contained in time. When this event had occurred, time was not yet being measured by earthly standards.

The angel pointed to the Bible and I first saw Isaiah 14:12-15 illuminate and then I saw Ezekiel 28:12-17 illuminate. There was a section of the Bible illuminated after Malachi and then finally the Bible turned to Luke 10:18.

I was now looking into Heaven right after the Lord created the Earth and Adam, but before the day of Eve or perhaps right at her forming. I saw God as He created the Earth and saw that He truly enjoyed His Creation and thought of this as His work of art.

The Lord had been pleased with His Creation of the Heavens, but the Lord longed for something more that could have communion with Him. As the Lord is a masterful artist, He encompassed all life, all that is holy, all things good and beautiful and He is both perfect and pure into the original Garden. Indeed, all of this came from our Holy Father, the originator of both breath and life.

I then saw the angel point to Philipians 4:8 and I realized that this was the same way we were to be and to inspire close communion with the Lord God and to remain in this communion with Him. I knelt and watched the view of this Heavenly movie.

There I saw approximately seventy chief angels. These angels were created by the Father to assist Him and govern the angels assigned to each of these seventy chief angels. I saw this amazing hierarchy in Heaven as Heaven is highly organized, highly perfected and nothing like Earth whatsoever.

I saw the angels watch and serve the Father God as He gave breath to life and He spoke light into being. As I was watching this all transpire from this great observation deck of Heaven, I noticed that one or two of angels seemed to stand out.

One of these angels I recognized to be Lucifer as he was a smaller version of the Lord and had the similar type or pattern of light that emanated off of him as Jesus. The light of Lucifer was stunning and there really was no light like it except for the light of God and Jesus.

Over time, those angels that were under Lucifer's leadership began to praise him, wherein this praise eventually led to these angels worshipping him. Indeed, these angels began to worship him like God because Lucifer was similar to the image of God and more directly accessible than God to the angels that were directly under his care.

Lucifer was beautiful, but there were other angels equal to his beauty as well. It also appeared to me that there were another twenty or so chief angels that also had thousands of angels under them.

Now I should note that, while I am only seeing what appear to be seventy angels, I do not understand everything I am seeing because there are no earthly words to describe some of what I am seeing. God had created the angels for companionship and so that they would enjoy His presence, serve Him and worship Him in majesty.

Instead, these particular angels became so interested in the beauty and gifts of each other that many had stopped seeking Him at all. However, God desired to have something much deeper than what the angels could offer so He decided to create man in His image and for His delight. There the Lord could walk freely amongst man in the Garden and have full access.

Of the seventy angels besides Lucifer, twenty of these angels also began to look at God differently. These twenty angels knew that they could never be God nor be greater than He. However, they thought that, since the rib was taken from the side of Adam and Eve was then created equal Adam, then they too could become equal to God. They knew that they could not be above God, but believed that they could instead become equal.

I then saw that the other angels remained holy unto the Lord and worshiped Him in whole and not in part. These angels then took their observations of these twenty one angels to the Father on the Throne just after the Lord had just created Earth.

In the Courts of the Most High Father, the Father decided to cast down all twenty one chief angels along with those angels under their governance to the Earth. As the Lord stated in Scripture, I then saw Lucifer shoot out of Heaven as a falling star and just like lightning.

Lucifer landed on the Earth with approximately one-third of Heaven cast out with him. There was great mourning and sorrow as the angels that were cast out loved the Lord and believed by their works that they might after a time come Home and had hope.

As I stood in awe of what I was seeing, I too now had great sorrow as I saw that these angels were beautiful, had rebelled and were now grieved. I saw the hopelessness as these angels fell from grace and I watched Heaven mourn for the children of Heaven.

Heaven wept, but I knew that if these angels had stayed that Heaven would be divided. Regardless, there is no power like that of God, so I remained confident that God would have still ruled no matter what and that all of Heaven and Creation knew this as well.

Lord: "Erin, these mysteries are now being shown to you as they have been reserved for this time."

Just then, I saw a man in Heaven that I recognized as I had seen him here before. This man was one of the ancient of days and he had the favor of the Lord upon Him. He was like Jesus, but not Jesus. He was beautiful and young in appearance, but with the long white hair of someone much older. I then heard an angel of the Lord speak to me.

Angel: "This is one of the fathers of Noah. He will pray over you as a mantle. He has never seen death and the Lord's favor is upon him."

Lord: "Erin, now look with your eyes, hear with your ears and write with your hand."

I was trembling as I was once again reminded by this of my lowly place as a female and really 'a nobody'. I am no priest and no high position and I am even a Gentile. I felt small and the Lord heard my thoughts as I trembled before Him.

I saw a wave of light and an angel instantly put a type of covering over me. The angel then put salve in my eyes. Another angel came and gave me chalice of water from the River of Life.

Lord: "Erin, are you ready to go further?"

Me: "Yes, Father, glory be to God in the highest. Please bless my eyes to see, my ears to hear and my hand to write as You have said to Your Glory and will be it done unto me this day."

The angel pointed for me to focus again through the crevice on the Sea of Glass below to the Earth. I saw Adam and Eve have offspring and multiply. From my vantage point, this happened very quickly, but from Earth's perspective this took several hundred years.

During this time, I saw these fallen angels trying to find a way to get back to Heaven. They wanted to appeal to God, but God's ears were not open to their cries.

I then saw one of these fallen angels, but not Satan, govern over an area that had one of the larger populations of the offspring of Eve. However, the women in this area, Eve's daughters, were beautiful in appearance, kind and joyful.

This beautiful fallen angel had become attracted to one of the daughters of Eve and turned his thoughts to her more and more as every day he would watch her.

He then thought to himself, "If God has not allowed us back and we are to roam this Earth until the days of God's decisions concerning our fate, then I will take this woman as if she were created by my rib. Then I will become more like them in which the Lord loves."

This fallen angel then gathered up all of the other twenty angels except Satan and told them, "Let us take these women to be our wives and create our own race which the Lord too might come to love. Then the Lord might be merciful and love both us and the children born unto us."

The angels agreed to this together by oath. Even though the snake had betrayed Eve and the Lord said that there would be conflict between the two for eternity, they still continued to disobey God by looking toward women.

When the angels did this forbidden thing with these women, the last bit of any holiness that remained upon them left. By doing this, the favor of the Lord and their ties to Heaven and eternity were now subject to death and severance and the angels became corrupt as a result.

These fallen angels then corrupted the daughters of Eve. I saw angels using their gifts to change the course of mankind to now be adversarial. The angels, in their union with women, created hostility and the fallen angels began to even despise them as well.

However, Satan remained uninterested in women and therefore did not participate with the other twenty fallen angels and their followers. Satan's plan still had the same goal, but his was just a different course.

The fallen angels then began to teach men skills and crafts so that they would be worshiped by man as gods instead of them worshiping the one true God. The result of what these fallen had taught had the opposite effect of Heavenly worship.

I saw one angel teaching about makeup, adornments and beautification. This created vanity, envy and jealousy to destroy and eventually also led to lust and prostitution.

I saw one showing man how to create metal and form weapons for harvesting, but mostly for war and to war against each other and destroy each other.

I saw others creating healing sources from plants, flowers and roots. This was so man could heal themselves and would no longer need to cry out and depend upon the Lord for healing. This was the beginning of pharmaceuticals and medicine. Drugs, addictions, dependence and death came from this. This angel's gifts eventually morphed into blood and genetics testing, diseases and the likes.

I saw another teaching the maps of Heaven or the stars. This angel made the stars into graven idols to the fallen, thus worshiping the stars led to worshiping deities and then gods or images of themselves. The stars were another Heaven and became a veil that humans could not see beyond to the God of Heaven who could hear them, turn and save them.

This practice was the beginning of astronomy, which is good, and of astrology, which is bad, as well as the worship of the fallen as gods. Then the plan of the fallen was for man to then depend on the stars and the worship of other gods and thus no longer needing the God of all Creation.

I saw another with the gift of fiber works. The ability to weave fine linens separated people in a shameful manner by creating division of class according to clothing. Destruction through class, position, pride and vanity came also from this power.

Another was like a magician and could manifest things, conjure up images, creating miracles and illusions. This created fear and the worshiping of self-governing of miracles. This was the beginnings of witchcraft and magic and the worshipping of demigods with the illusion or appearance of power.

Another was a builder and architect of structures. This angel had been special in Heaven and this was a gift that God had delighted in. This angel erected a building to edify himself and he taught the humans to worship him and began the roots of slavery.

His plan and the others was to build temples of honor to themselves where people could travel to worship them. They would also erect tall buildings high enough that they could reach to Heaven. By teaching the humans and the offspring of angels this skill, they believed that they could even overthrow Heaven. They wanted immortal shrines so that the humans would be distracted and go to them for worship not God.

Another was the creator of complex government and order, the structure of wars, cities, states, regions, and tribes. This was also a part of oppression, slavery and rule. Out of this came monetary exchange, trading, taxes and gambling. This angel held the interest of satan the most. These two were in unison together as evil needed this type of structure to prosper.

Another angel taught weights and measures, calendars, clocks and related items to record or measure days. This angel grieved and measured the days as instructed by God after the fall. The angel kept track of the new order of time; the measure of weeks, months, years and the depth and height of things. This angel had the skills of mathematics and began to record the days until the permission was granted and the Lord would begin to execute judgments.

Another angel taught communication through language, writing of records, drawings, symbols and codes. This angel eventually brought technology and the further and swift decay of pornographic, the internet and the eventual access to homes without needing a key. This angel could get inside the mind of humans and destroy them from within.

These were just some of the gifts that were taught to the humans as previously granted to these fallen angels by the Lord. There were many more and each of these angels exchanged their knowledge to others in order to create a web of authority and the worship of the fallen by the humans.

The women that had relationships with the fallen angels soon bore sons that were giants. These giants then consumed more than the land could provide. These giants also had huge appetites of lust for the eyes and for blood. They became the chief devourers of the land and all that was in it.

The fallen angels were forbidden to share with mankind the secrets of Heaven, so when they did this introduced even more sin and death. Then when the fallen angels produced giants, they were also an abomination to the Lord and made it so that the advance of evil had become so pervasive that the Lord now had to intervene.

Everything was now dying and corrupting at an ever increasing rate. The fallen angels that had enjoyed the earthly women they took now knew they had committed a grave sin against the Creator of Heaven. After a time, the angels regretted this and wanted to stop with the hopes of returning from where they fell. The fallen angels then saw the corruption they had caused as the world began to experience all things contrary to Heaven.

One of the fallen angels then recognized that there was a particular human who walked closely to the Lord and even closer than even Adam had walked. Meanwhile, as I knelt and looked down at what I was seeing and really how fast all had turned bad, I began to cry before God in Heaven.

I had seen the origination of all things evil and I watched the acceleration of death. The angel to my left handed me a cup and I drank from the River of Life.

Lord: "Erin, speak."

Me: I was shaking. "Lord, this is not in Scripture. Man requires..."

Immediately my mouth no longer had the words as the Lord, in His holiness, was not allowing me to question what I was seeing. I became weak and I cried. Now I wondered if He would stop everything, including these dreams with Him.

Here I was at the edge of this vast crevice looking down through the Sea of Glass at Creation, in the presence of God and Creator of all things, and I suddenly realized my own rebellion and fleshly habits. Even as I felt this, I felt a warmth cover me and even as I write and still today.

This warmth was like a blanket of healing and, now with my head down and unable to speak, I felt a hand being placed upon my head from what I thought was an angel on my right. Then I felt a hand on my shoulder to the left.

Lord: "Erin, these favored men are praying and strengthening you for this difficult task of ascribing to mysteries. There has been a veil that I have allowed to keep hidden. The great mysteries that will now begin to be revealed to your generation is by My design.

"Now the two men of favor of both Heaven and Earth never saw death, but were removed from this place by a miracle. The spirits of these men are upon this generation as it is written. They will attest and witness to the likes of these."

The angel then pointed again to the fallen and their created children. I saw such disgusting things. I then understood with even greater clarity Sodom and Gomorrah. I saw these men in those cities propositioning angels to practice homosexuality.

I saw crimes against animals sexually as things so pervasively evil permeated the landscape. I even saw babies of prostitutes being tossed on the streets as garbage. The results of what the fallen did were everywhere and remains with us even today.

Lord: "Child, you have a question?"

I had many, but one was weighing on me.

Me: "Lord, who are these two with me?"

He began to a laugh and the ground quaked in response.

Lord: "Erin, to your right is Enoch and to your left is Elijah. They walked with Me and endured much."

I had something else to say to God and one thing I dare not. I questioned my worthiness again and my place as these great men of God prayed for me a mantle of protection and anointing over me. However, I was like the woman at the well. The other question was about to be answered, so I did not even speak it.

I then could see a close up view of a region very near where the Garden once stood wherein the canopy over the Earth had begun to thin out much like today with our own atmosphere. I saw the sun become much hotter, but not quite as hot as today, as I saw the angel with the Bible point to Isaiah.

I saw several fallen angels following Enoch everywhere because the Spirit of the Lord was upon Him and these fallen angels longed for reconciliation with God. In turn, Enoch had a humbleness and gentleness just like Jesus.

Enoch was kind, but many people were repelled by his holiness as he even emanated light. This was because the majority of humans enjoyed their sin and lusts and was in darkness and not exposed. Enoch made them uncomfortable in comparison.

One day, the fallen angels decided to go to Enoch to intercede for them since Enoch had now been taken up and walked with the Lord in Heavenly places. However, by doing this, the angels did just the opposite of what angels were supposed to do in that they were to serve man on behalf of God.

The Lord was angry and grieved by this and now He wished that He had never created man. The angel with the Bible then illuminated Genesis 6:6. As I stood staring at the Bible, another Book inside of the Bible emerged and I saw the writings of Enoch and the records of all of this.

I knew of the Book of Enoch, but I did not understand and was taught not to believe this book. I saw another angel contain the Book of Enoch in a glass jar and set this off to the side. I could see a valid record through the glass, but I could not touch it.

The Lord sent for Enoch and I later saw Enoch speaking to the angels. There was now great mourning, sorrow and wailing as the Lord had refused Enoch's petition on behalf of the fallen angels. Enoch reached down and pulled me in closer to what I was seeing for greater clarity.

I then saw that God was not upset that the angels were petitioning for forgiveness for themselves and for their children, but was upset that they were trying to use Enoch to intercede for them. This intercession was a role that the fallen angels should have known was not allowed in the Heavenly hierarchy.

When Enoch delivered this message, I saw the Lord send the seven archangels, of which satan was once one, along with a large army to assist. The Lord gave the command to send the angels beneath the ground for a time of later judgment.

One of the fallen angels was extremely angry at this and seemed like a leader of the fallen angels. As anger burned and grief overtook these angels, they mourned that they were no longer going to even enjoy the children that they had spawned and now loved. Despite all of their wickedness, the angels had somehow learned to love their wicked children known as the nephilim.

I then saw Heavenly angels striking down the children of this lead angel. This lead angel was then even angrier than the rest and so he was bound even more so than the others. From what I could tell, almost every angel was held captive and their offspring were scheduled for destruction, some immediately and some at a later date.

I then saw satan and noticed that he was the same spirit that was upon the snake in the Garden. Satan had now been granted the privilege as a snake to slither about and strike the heels of men. This snake or satan hated women the most because of his curse and because she was hand built by God and, not created like Adam.

Indeed, satan despised women even more than men. He was not swayed with lust for women like the other fallen angels that recognized the beauty of women or like Adam did. Satan was arrogant.

As satan did not fight during the battle with the other fallen angels and their giant sons. Instead, satan sat on the cleft of a rock above the battle. As a result, the Lord decided to temporarily give satan charge of the Earth. The area in which he sat to view the battle was red like clay in this particular valley. Once given charge, satan put himself in an earthly-like throne as a smaller image of God.

Then Enoch showed me satan's thoughts and he burned with hate because the Lord had the power that he lusted for. I saw one of the angels of the army of the Lord give satan a set of charges like laws and perimeters written on a scroll.

I then saw satan petition to God that if he were to now govern this land he had been given of Earth that he be allowed to be omnipresent like God and with the ability to be in several places at one time. God not only said no to this request, but satan was instead only allowed to slither to and fro only and take the shape of other forms. Not only that, but he would remain reptilian with blood as cold as ice.

Then satan requested a government to assist him. I saw the Lord was angry as He knew that satan was trying to trick Him. As satan thought to himself, his words read like scripts on a page to God and all of his evil thoughts were visible from Heaven.

The Lord then responded by telling satan that the course of each of His children and His Creation shall be determined by Him and Him alone. Not only was God not allowing satan freedom over the children of Adam, but also that each man's course was to be determined by God Himself and that satan would be subject to the Laws of the Lord. Satan would then have to appeal to God in his Courts in order to inflict trials of the children of the Lord and whom God had chosen with His mark prior to their birth.

Satan burned with anger as he realized that God had not granted him what he had asked, but instead was now restricting him even further. His plan was to eventually turn man against God and each other so that God would despise man and determine that they were too corrupt for Heaven and Salvation, thus stripping God of the children He loves.

After this time of sorrow, I saw satan choose several humans to govern with him. I then saw him search out the fallen angel's remaining offspring to revise the original foundations of the fallen. Even though they were confined and locked underground, they could still communicate.

As satan worked the Earth, evil then began to populate very quickly. There were now barely any humans left that seemed good as almost all were now under satan's rule. The Lord God from His Throne then decided that all living creatures were now corrupt and it was time to destroy the Earth.

Nonetheless, God still had close fellowship with Enoch as the Lord had granted him favor as well as his offspring. The Lord kept Enoch with Him and I watched as the length of man's life grew shorter. Death was accelerated as the first means of controlling evil. God shortened man's days and therefore his influence of evil.

The Lord then set Noah and his family apart as well. When the canopy of the Earth was lifted, the rains came. Before this occurred, and mostly in pairs, each of God's earthly creatures came upon an ark that had been built to withstand the coming flood.

When the flood covered the Earth, I saw the Lord to shape the Earth by breaking apart the once joined land mass. He broke them apart into regions as the flooding continued. When these land masses separated, I saw that the fallen angels in their chambers were separate along with the land.

Indeed, the Lord was separating them further apart in order to thwart their further communication. I then noticed that the temples that the fallen angels had erected to themselves were over the areas where the fallen were entombed underground until the judgment and were a type of marker.

I then saw the rain stop and the water recede into the crevices or divisive grid points of the Earth. Each grid point was a mass of property to the fallen and the Earth was now divided into continents and further separated by a grid of fault lines.

Literally, by putting in 'fault' lines, God was telling the fallen angels that this was their fault. Thereby these fault lines were their boundaries and marked their territories. Then each of the remaining heirs to the fallen roamed the land, devouring it over the regions of their fathers, carrying on the practices of their fathers until the day the Lord comes down.

The nephilim were not completely erased and they, along with their offspring and demons, powers and principalities, all govern and decay the Earth today.

Lord: "Erin, you must now get some rest, but take courage and write plainly what you have been shown."

I bowed to the Lord in thanks. I cried as I could not look upon Him directly due to the brightness of His glory, but He knew that I loved Him with all of my heart and that I was scared by what I was shown.

Enoch and Elijah, along with the angels, walked me to the Gate. Once there, Enoch poured a small vial of oil over my hands and Elijah poured out oil over my head. Enoch then spoke to me with no words.

Enoch: "Erin, I know that none of this makes sense to you right now, but soon this will be clear as you begin to see all of this."

I began to cry and the angel came up and wiped my tears with the small linen cloth.

Enoch: "The veil is soon to be lifted and there will be great fear. You and others are to spread the Good News about the love of the Lord and what awaits them and for them to persevere to the end. I know you have questions. Remember that not every word that came out of our mouths was well received either."

Enoch looked to Elijah and they both smiled at each other in agreement.

Enoch: "My words were allowed to be removed from the original Bible for this later time and the sign that it was once there is the references to the Book of Enoch in God's Book. Now I am able to see this time for the Words that the Lord has given to help make known the great mysteries. Do you remember when you saw us before?"

Me: I was crying. "Yes."

Enoch: "The Lord sent us to tell you to keep on your journey, but to remove the obstacles that were keeping you from all that the Lord had desired for your life. You were a child of the world, but now you are a child of God. You walk amongst us in high places and you are loved by the King.

"Many of you, like us, will never see death. This is a blessing and others will witness this, but this will not happen as some expect. Oh, yes, one more thing. Remember the fallen with the gift of calendars?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Did you happen to see which calendar was God's calendar?"

Me: "I believe so."

Enoch: "Erin, change your perspective. Watch Israel and remember the Hebrew calendar. Now, go back to your markers and revisit them in terms of this calendar. Go back and remember that Israel is your marker and the most hated enemy of these next to you the Bride. Also what occurs after the snow and what do you look for?"

Me: "Signs of spring such as blossoms."

I noticed then that Enoch was very handsome as was Elijah. They were also both so wonderful and so full of love and knowledge as they both had walked so closely to the Lord. Enoch squeezed my hand and Elijah squeezed my shoulder as both turned to go back to be in Holy Communion with the Lord.

Enoch: "We will see you again, Erin."

I was so happy about this. One of the winged angels then greeted me at the Gate.

Angel: "Erin, much has been modified over the years, even when the time of the day begins and it ends. Israel is your marker for the signs of Jesus' return. The Lord requests that, even though you doubt the order, you write this exactly as you have seen this.

"Do not listen to those that would have you veer to the left or to the right as they have not seen what you have been shown. They cannot speak and the Lord will keep them from you. When the trumpet sounds, not all will be ready and many will be stunned. Pray for these people.

"There are too many references as now the Scripts will begin to be illuminated like never before. The Body of Christ will be as one. You are given the gift of a seer and you are to write what you see. Others will be given the gifts to discern and testify.

"Do not be afraid. Take courage as a lesson from Elijah awaits. Learn about those who pray over you. Psalm 82 is a reference now that will make sense and take with this Psalm 83 together.

"Psalm 39 and 40 are a lament for this time and there is a message in Psalm 41 so do not turn the page. Psalm 104 is confirmation of what you were shown and is a good message. Remember to see the patterns in history as all has happened before and nothing is new.

"Now understand the roots of the evil practices and shy from these. Seek the Lord with all of your heart and soul and lead not unto your own understanding. In all of your ways, acknowledge Him and He will make your path clear even when it is dark and there is snow."

The angel squeezed my hand and put a shawl over me. This series of dreams occurred over the course of three nights, along with this personal message. There has been miraculous peace and a covering of love over me and my children these days. The enemy has been far from me and the only trouble I have had has been my own worry and my own flesh.

I pray this blesses you and may the mantle of the Lord be on all of those that are blessed by the Lord. May you have peace over your households as we wait patiently for the Lord to return for His Bride.

Love and blessings...sparrow

The Exodus

Dream Excerpt from The Exodus

The Exodus – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from February, 2014 to December, 2014

Prelude to “The Lion & the 50 Day Countdown”

In these thirty dreams that form this fifth book, Jesus frees me up from my prison in the desert under the hands of my enemies by the Hanford Nuclear Site in the Washington State. The Lord promised me that I would be delivered in a supernatural way to the land of the trees and be safe from my enemies there. This book chronicles my release, which included the very timing in advance of when this would take place with thousands watching as this transpired over the course of a few amazing weeks.

As I will mention in each of the excerpts, each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other. For example, though the residing theme in The Exodus is my personal escape from the desert as one would expect, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Blacksmith, The Mansions, The House of God, The Prophecies and The Final Hour, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The Exodus sometimes appears in each of these as well.

While there is so much in this book about battling the enemy and my escape from Pharaoh, the following is where the Lord publicly declared in advance exactly how and when I would make this escape. I am sure you will agree that my exodus, which is really an analogy to our eventual Rapture from the Earth, has all of the makings of a Hollywood movie thriller...

Dream 127 – The Lion & the 50 Day Countdown

Received Sunday, June 29, 2014

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Lord, I finally see the opening from this cave and the promise of freedom. While I still find it difficult to not focus on all that the enemy has done to destroy me, I can do nothing but wait in silence for Your voice to say, 'Erin, I am here. Come out, for you and your children are free.'

Lord, You showed me everything in advance and I now see it. Lord, even as my strength grows weak, my pain is great and my head hangs low, I smile and remember the love You have shown me. Lord, You are so much more than words can express as You are lovely, my light in the darkness and my everything.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

It was evening here and as I lay down at the base of an olive tree I could see millions of stars in the sky above me. These stars formed designs that were greater than any constellations seen from Earth. The grove of olive trees were completely lit up with small white lights and it was so beautiful.

Evening in Heaven is amazing and I even saw something like fireflies in every color and some color I cannot describe as there is no earthly comparison. In the distance, I could hear the children's choir and the angels singing the glorified version of "My Deliverer" and this brought tears to my eyes.

I was so glad to be pain free that I jumped up and ran down an illuminated path to the edge of the grove of olive trees. There before me were at least a hundred fountains, each lit up in a different shade of color. The sounds and sights these fountains made were simply amazing.

I could see God's Mansion in the distance and it was completely illuminated. The House of the King of kings was like nothing I had ever seen in my entire life. The twelve stones that were inlaid in the foundations of God's House were just like those in the City of God.

These twelve stones represent the twelve tribes of Israel and each of them were massive and were also illuminated at night. The large facets cut into these stones formed ribbons of light according to each color.

I could also see the massive stone staircase leading up to His Home and beautiful channels of water flowing from His Home into the pools of these beautiful fountains. I wanted to run through the fountains, but I was more curious to see the beautiful display of God's glory all around me.

It was such a relief for me to see how beautiful night is in Heaven as I had been incorrectly taught that there is no night here. While it is true that the City of God is always in light matching Scripture that there is never darkness there, I have since discovered that this was only referring to the City of God and not the surrounding landscape. I laughed and shook my head as the Lord created us to love lights at night, so intuitively it made sense that He would not have removed this in Heaven.

Me: "Lord, forgive us for we humans are so dense. In the Book of Genesis, You said in verse 5 that the evening and the morning were created on the very first day. Truly You said this was good and I am so glad that You never 'changed Your mind' on this."

I should note here that I refer to Jesus' Home or Mansion as 'God's Home' as He is God. Some may find this confusing, but all references to this has been to Jesus' Home here in Heaven. Really, words cannot describe how gloriously beautiful the Home of Jesus is here in Heaven.

I looked up at God's Home and expected Jesus to come out. Instead, I saw two massive lions walking down the channels of water fountains and then turn and walk back up the stairs side by side. I smiled with glee when I saw that, when these lions came up to the front door, each laid on their bellies and flanked the sides of the door.

Just as I thought this could not be topped, I then saw two tiny lambs barely able to walk, with no blemish and completely perfect follow the same path as the lions. These lambs then snuggled in for a rest with each lion on the platforms next to the door. I giggled as I marveled at this amazing processional.

Then in an instant above the Home I saw a ring of angelic beings with wings. Each angel had a Shofar of silver and gold. I looked contently at the sight and again marveled at God's majesty.

I looked down at saw that I was wearing a beautiful blue and white dress with a woven bodice of blue crimson and gold. My hair was long and wavy with a type of head band. I went to the water to see what I looked like in the reflection and noticed that the headband was etched with 'Lord, You are holy' and was surrounded with lace.

I looked at my wrist and I had six bracelets on my left arm and each had a cut gem. I had the same on my right wrist for total of twelve bracelets. These bracelets were absolutely beautiful.

The music then changed and became more of a glorious processional wherein it went higher and higher. I looked everywhere for the Lord as I wondered if I had missed something.

Suddenly I was met by Uriel and he was so stunningly beautiful that a human seeing him separately on Earth would be terrified as he is very much a warrior in God's army. I found myself speechless at the sight of him.

Uriel: Smiling. "Erin, when you ran from the olive grove, you ran away from the Lord."

Me: "I thought He was here at His Mansion. I thought I was running to Him."

Uriel: Laughing. "Yes, it seems you have been in error a few times in that regard."

Me: "Oh, I must go find Him."

I turned and ran the exact way that I had come and there ahead of me in the olive grove was Jesus sitting at the base of a tree. He was smiling and shaking His head as I approached Him.

Me: "Oh Lord, I am so sorry that I did not wait on You. I was so anxious to see You that had I ran ahead. You see, I felt so fantastic..."

I stopped talking when I noticed that He was clearly studying me and smiling.

Jesus: "Remember, Erin, it is very important to not run ahead of Me, especially in this season."

Me: "Well, how could I wait? It was so beautiful and I was following the music trying to find You."

Jesus: "Hmm, so did this work?"

I was quite embarrassed as He was clearly right that this had not worked at all.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, for You are perfect and Your ways are perfect and I am sorry for running ahead of You."

Jesus: "Come and sit beside Me."

Me: "But, Lord, there is a big event starting soon in Your Courtyard. Should we not go there instead?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, do you think they will begin without Me? Oops, someone's scheduling must be off. Are the angels saying, 'Wow, Jesus is late again. We did not see that coming. Oh no, the food at the banquet will get cold and the wine will grow sour. Where is that Savior of ours?'"

I could barely catch my breath as I was laughing so hard as I realized that He was completely right yet again.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, You are so wise."

Jesus: "Sometimes the obvious is painfully simple and right in front of you."

Me: "Lord, I will wait next time."

He looked at me with such compassion that I began to cry.

Jesus: "I know your heart, Erin, and that you are in pain on Earth, but alive, young and healthy here in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, help me to be patient while I wait on You. I have seen my enemy ramping up against me and the enemy even tries to use Scripture against me. My enemy has used Psalm 91 against me so many times to say that he is in Your favor that I cannot help but wonder, 'What if he is in Your favor as a lesson to me?'"

"Everyone believes that this man, my main enemy, is holy. In contrast, no one there knows that I love You even more than him. Many who used to be my friends from church are praying against me thanks to this man's lies and deception."

Jesus: "Erin, look at where you are right now and Who is with You. Where do you reside? Did I not show you that your children are here too? The enemy can 'pray' all he wants to and can quote Me or proclaim personal holiness, but do you remember a sign of deception that I had showed you long ago?"

Me: I was quiet as I thought about this. "Oh yes. If someone is claiming personal holiness and righteousness, he or she is usually the opposite."

Jesus: "Very good. Now who is humble? Is it someone who proclaims themselves humble? Probably not as this is a sign of a foundation on shifting sand. Now tell Me about shifting sand under a house foundation."

Me: Laughing. "Well, a house built on shifting sand would be very unstable as the foundation would be constantly moving and the walls would crumble. Eventually even the ceiling would fall and the structure would implode."

Jesus: Laughing too. "'Implode' is an interesting word to use and a very good one. This implies that the structure would fall on itself. Perhaps there is prophecy in your future calling."

Me: "Only if You go before me, Lord, as I could never do this on my own without You and this is an absolute I can confidently make."

Jesus: "Erin, this is an absolute to live by, so let Me go before you. Now let's look at Psalm 91 as perhaps your enemy really meant to say Psalm 90? Hmm..." He laugh at this and then looked into my eyes. "Now, Erin, do you trust Me?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, but I am having a hard time understanding the pain I am in. Why are You allowing this pain?"

Jesus: "This is a very good question to deal with first before we continue. Now, did I not specifically tell you that the method I will use to deliver you might not make sense to you? Did I not also promise you healing?"

"Erin, do not question My methods when I have already shown you what the outcome will be. You must always remember that My way is always the best way. At the end, you will testify to your friends about all of this and you will stand and be amazed.

"Now, did you notice that I said 'stand and be amazed' and not 'sit and be amazed' or 'lie down and be amazed'? However, you could faint after you stand amazed at all that is coming." He smiled, but I was still serious. "Erin, you can laugh now."

This broke me out of my seriousness and I began to laughing so hard at this. He laughed too and I could tell He was enjoying my lightened mood.

Me: "You are right, Lord, but this is the part where I feel abandoned."

Jesus: "Well then, there is no accident we are here in the olive grove."

Just then, I was downloaded an image of the Lord sweating blood the night before His trouble. I had tears at this thought of His turmoil.

Me: "So does this mean that things will get worse?"

Jesus: "There is a Scripture in Job 4 about the lion with broken teeth. What happens to a lion with broken teeth? Can you tell Me?"

Me: I thought about this. "Lord, You are clearly stretching my brain tonight. Well, if a lion has no teeth, it cannot break through flesh to eat."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, but there is even more to this. The lion cannot snap the neck of its prey in order to paralyze it. Even if the lion were to kill something with its claws, he still could not rip into the flesh to eat. The food would be there, but the helpless lion would concede to others, and even the buzzards, and would starve."

Me: "Lord, that is harsh."

Jesus: Laughing. "Oh, so, My 'gazelle', would you prefer to go against a healthy lion?"

Me: "No, no please." I was laughing too.

Jesus: "Now let's look at Psalm 91. I want you to open the Bible, but use the Bible that you have dates written next to the Scriptures."

I went to this particular Bible and opened it to Psalm 91. I saw the date June 5th, 2012 written there and I was instantly downloaded a few of the events that happened just before this date.

One of these events was my older son's eighth grade graduation, where I was sitting in the right side pews two rows back from a very large carved Cross. I sat in horror as my son's step mother was recognized as his mother and my stomach instantly became sick.

My younger son noticed this and shouted out, 'That's a lie!' I could see out of the corner of my eye that his father looked pleased with all of this. Rather than give him the satisfaction of knowing how crushed I was, I simply smiled and waved.

Though I looked completely unaffected, this was just a cover up as I was secretly devastated. My older son later came up to me, gave me a rose and hugged me. Later when I was alone by myself, I never ever, ever cried so hard in my entire life.

Jesus: "I remember this day vividly, Erin, as you have given God an ultimatum."

Me: "Lord, I had become tired of waiting and looking so I decided to stop. I told you in my thoughts, 'Lord, if You truly love me, then You will find me. However, I now do not even believe You actually care as here I am alone in my sorrow.' I was having a crisis of belief and I could not understand why."

Jesus: "Erin, name anyone from the Bible who had a perfect life free from trouble. Can you name just one?"

I thought long and hard, going from the beginning of the Bible to the end in my thoughts. I did this for several minutes when I saw the Lord smiling and watching me think.

Erin: "No, Lord, I cannot even name a single one."

Jesus: "So where is it written that you will have no trouble? I believe it is written 'in this life you will have trouble, but take heart for I have overcome the world.' Now let's focus on what I promised you then. What did I have you do? Look at your Scripture."

Me: I look at my Bible again. "You had me underline Psalm 91:9-16."

Jesus: "Yes, but there is more. What did I have you do from verse 14? Erin, I want you to speak this out loud."

Me: I was in tears as I read Psalm 91:14-15 out loud. "'Because she loves Me, says the Lord...'" At this point, Jesus pointed to His chest. "'I will rescue her; I will protect her for she acknowledges My Name. She will call upon Me, and I will answer her; I will be with her in trouble, I will deliver her and honor her. With long life will I satisfy her, and show her My salvation!'"

Jesus: "Erin, now do you believe Me?"

Me: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "When you suffer pain, headaches and numbness, do you still believe Me?"

Me: I paused. "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "When all looks dark and you feel I have left, do you believe Me still?"

Me: I paused even longer. "Do not leave me. Please show me signs."

Jesus: "I will, Erin, and I will send angels concerning you. Now read Psalm 91 from 1-8 and put your name or she in place of he just like you did for Psalm 91:14-15."

Me: "Lord, You are changing Scripture."

Jesus: "Oh, so is My Word only for men in trouble? Hmm, this does not sound like God My Father as He created females so are they not good? Are they not also mothers? Hmm..."

Me: Laughing. "Okay, Lord, I get it. Psalm 91:1-8 'She who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, 'He is my refuge and my fortress, my God, in whom I trust.'

"Surely He will save you from the fowler's snare and from deadly pestilence. He will cover you with His feathers, and under His wings you will find refuge, His faithfulness will be your shield and rampart.

"You will not fear the terror by night, nor the arrow that flies by day, nor the pestilence that stalks in the darkness, nor the plague that destroys in mid-day. A thousand may fall at your side, ten thousand at your right hand, but it will not come near you."

Jesus: "Erin, it will not come near you. Go on."

Me: "You will only observe with your eyes and see the punishment of the wicked."

Jesus: "Now stand up and close your eyes. Now open them."

I was in awe and there before me was the Lord was in full battle gear. His breastplate was gold and inlaid like the Ephod or priestly garment of Aaron. The etching and scroll work was amazing and He was wearing all of His armor except for no helmet.

Me: "Lord, You look incredible. This is how You looked from the beginning of my dreams. Where is Your helmet?"

Jesus: Laughing. "You are funny. What is the helmet? Am I not saved? Does the blacksmith whisper in My ears?"

Me: "Oh Lord, I am clearly like a child."

Jesus: Laughing. "Actually, quite a few children even know this. Now walk with Me."

With His armor on, He stood almost four feet taller than normal and He was easily the size of one of the larger angels. He was so tall that the top of my head only reached to the base of His rib cage. I looked at His breastplate and I was in awe of the beauty of His armor.

As we walked through the fountains, He motioned for me to wait at the base of the stairs. I wish I could adequately describe how incredibly beautiful this sight was. It was night time, but the Lord still shined like the sun.

As He ascended the stairs, His massive wings began to spread. I heard the choirs of angels singing, "Holy, Holy, Holy!" as He climbed the stairs. When He got to the top, He waved for me to come up to Him.

Suddenly I was out of my Heavenly body and back in my earthly state and in pain. I began to cry as I knew what He was doing. I paused as I walked up the stairs as my arms were numb and my neck was sore. My headache was so bad that I wanted to throw up.

I looked at Him and kept going as I wanted to be there with Him. I kept climbing slowly with tears, but there were so many stairs. This was too much for my earthly body and I began to fall.

I saw the Lord command His angels concerning me and they helped me ascend up the last of the stairs. As I got closer, the climb became easier and my pain was diminishing. With every step, I became healthier and stronger until I was finally in my glorified body when I reached the top. The Lord reached out to take my hand and He placed me under His wing.

Jesus: "Erin, remember your place. Look on your hand."

There was a signet ring with a beautiful beryl stone and etching on the stone like a signature.

Jesus: "Now remember My promises to you as I have not gone back on My Word and I have not removed favor from you. Take courage, Erin, as this is for your friends too. Each one of them can do the same with Psalm 91 as you did. Even better yet, they can place their name where your name is and I will be there for them too."

Me: I was so excited. "Thank You, Lord, please bless beyond measure all those who have helped me and my children as I have no way to thank them. Since You are the owner of all of our provisions, please bless them as some gave all they had. How can I ever repay this? I cannot."

Jesus: "All has been recorded, Erin, and their generous hearts will be rewarded. One day you will see everything and understand the recompense of God. As I have blessed you, you too will be a blessing to them so do not worry.

"There is not one person who gives to you that should be doing this simply so they can get something from you in return. As your friends are not bankers, their gifts to you should be love offerings only.

"You need to let these gifts simply be about that and surrender this back to me. Do not be burdened as not one should be requiring things of you in return for their gift. Anything else is the enemy using guilt as a yoke on you and you must not allow this. Please pray for your friends now."

Me: "Lord, I ask for supernatural blessings for my friends and that You heal their afflictions and pain. I ask that You promote their position at work and grant them youthful glorified bodies. Send Your angels concerning them and rain down from the Throne of God Heavenly wisdom and the wealth of nations so that we are all able to testify even greater to Your goodness."

Jesus: "Well then, Erin, it is done as this was a very good prayer. I will allow this on Earth as it is in Heaven."

Me: "Thank You, Lord.

He then turned and looked at the massive lions and the perfect lambs lying next to them.

Jesus: "They will be like strong lions and spotless lambs. Now take heart and take courage, Erin, as You are loved. Remember to let Me go before you for the next fifty days."

Me: "Then I am on my own?"

Jesus: "Where are you now?"

Me: I looked up and saw that I was clearly under His wing and smiled.

Jesus: Laughing. "Oh wait, look, you are still here."

Me: "Thank You, Lord, I love You."

Jesus: "I love you too, Erin. Oh, look to Psalm 45 & 46 again too."

Dream over...

Note from after the fifty days were over:

This was the most amazing fifty days as I had enquiries from so many people after posting this dream as to what Jesus had told me He was going to do during this time frame. I took a risk, and without feeling a check in the Holy Spirit not to, I told several hundred of my friends what the Lord had promised.

In summary, the Lord promised to release me from the desert with ALL of my children despite a fierce opponent to their relocation that can only be compared to Pharaoh. The last time I had battled this same enemy, it cost me many years in Court and thousands and thousands of dollars in legal bills. This was not an opponent to take lightly.

Keep this in mind as the Lord's next promise seemed even more ludicrous to me, but, at great personal risk, I also shared this with my friends. Jesus had also promised that, not only would Pharaoh release us, but he would do so with NO court battle AT ALL.

On faith, I fully shared these promises with my hundreds of friends and now there was no turning back. Now, you have to realize just how truly scary for me this was as I knew that some of these 'friends' were actually wolves in sheep's clothing that were waiting to use this 'date setting' of our move to finally prove I was not truly hearing from the Lord.

Again on faith, and about a week or so after this dream, I phoned around and booked a moving truck to come for ALL of our stuff in obedience to His instructions. After more prayer and again at great personal risk, I finalized the booking of the movers to come exactly 50 days from the date of this dream of June 29th, 2014. A large deposit was given to the moving company and Monday, August 18th, 2014 was 'written in stone'.

Faster than I could have ever imagined, Monday, August 18th, 2014 had snuck up on us and the movers arrived. However, a huge problem remained in that Pharaoh was still not even close to EVER giving his permission for any of the children to leave with me and had even publicly declared on social media that permission would never be given.

Apprehensively, and despite Pharaoh's threats, I decided to keep our August 18th moving commitment. Soon all of our goods were on their way for its final destination clear across to the other coast without us. Indeed, all of our earthly goods would soon be as far away from the desert as you can get without having to cross an ocean.

Adding to my nervousness and even some could say to my 'lack of faith', I was well aware that we had our first scheduled Court date coming up in early September and I had not forgotten that the Lord had promised me 'no Court'. What gave me even more anxiety was that my opponent appeared to be steadily ramping up for the same lengthy legal battle as the last time we fought. In reality, this could still take months if not years!

In despair, I finally went to the Lord on Thursday, August 21st, 2014 about my fears in a private Word with the Lord, of which I have many, and He specifically told me not to worry and that I would still be released on Saturday, August 23rd, 2014 as He promised to me three years earlier. The Lord then reminded me that He had also promised me back then that I would leave with all three of my children on that date as well; no court.

Okay, here I am, speaking to God Himself and even I was incredibly skeptical at this point. From my earthly perspective, it was already Thursday and somehow I was going to receive permission from my very worst enemy to take all of the children permanently clear across the country on a Saturday of all days when all of the Courts are closed. Pharaoh had vowed never to release my children and now there was just two days left!!

To make matters worse, I was still giving all of my friends, family and those posing as my friends from the enemy daily updates as to what was occurring. Most of them now believed that this was impossible as time had now almost run out and sadly I was starting to become one of them. For those who know about the incredible brutality of the personal Pharaoh I was battling here, my perspective was understandable.

Later that Thursday night, I yet again cried out to the Lord and He once again was steadfast in His promises and again assured me not to worry as things were about to take a positive turn. Nonetheless, I was still petrified at this point as all of my stuff was now driving across the USA without me and it certainly appeared that I was NOT going to be able to leave with ALL of my children now.

So now what? How was I going to live trying to be in two places at once? What about our goods? Will I have to register the kids in a local school? If I do, will I have to wait until the end of the school year? The questions and doubts continued to mount and mount as I kept apologizing to the Lord over and over again for my lack of faith.

Then without any warning, I unexpectedly received 'The Phone Call'. Out of the blue, on late Friday afternoon, August 22nd, 2014, I received a phone call from Pharaoh explaining that he had decided to allow ALL of the children to go with me on our move after all. Given our past contentious relationship, I nearly dropped the phone in surprise, but still felt that just had to be a trick as this person has done nothing but try to trick me so often in the past and often with great success.

I told him that the agreement would still have to be in writing and legally notarized even though it was much too late for any Court involvement to be scheduled. To my amazement, he agreed to this condition. On a side note and to this very day, I still do not have any earthly explanation AT ALL as to why Pharaoh would have ever suddenly released the kids, but I certainly have an abundance of 'Jesus explanation'. After we agreed to this and our conversation ended, I thanked and praised Jesus profusely.

The very next day, we met at a notary's office who had agreed to stay open just for us on a Saturday in the morning of August 23rd, 2014 and I watched in utter shock as Pharaoh actually signed the complete release of ALL of the children for moving on that very day. Again, all those who knew this man even just a bit knew the full magnitude of this miracle and even my non-believing friends and family were astonished and called it a miracle. Even my mom called it a miracle, which in itself is a miracle!

Sure enough, ALL of us were on the road that very day and left in 'The Final Hour' before midnight and on the exact day that the Lord had told me this would happen – and a SATURDAY no less. As such, you may notice that the next five dreams in this series leading up to our surprise release all have titles that reflect this on-going battle such as 'Faith', 'the Storm', 'Dream of War', 'Faith vs. Fear' and 'David vs. Goliath'. These titles truly reflected the troubling nature of these 50 days of uncertainty leading to our release.

Some had even noticed that I had the last of these five particular 'battle' dreams on August 3rd, 2014 and that my next public dream was over a month later called 'God's Quiver & Harvest' on September 9th, 2014. When you get to the September dream, please note that this was a particular satisfying dream for me as it was the first one after we had successfully fled with all of the children to the trees from the desert and against impossible odds, including no court just as Jesus had promised from three years earlier. I am now telling you, the reader, all of what happened here in order to help you to understand the full magnitude and true risks that were 'behind the scenes' in these next six dreams. When reading, try to put yourself in three different people's 'shoes': Mine; my friends that desperately want to believe these dreams are truly from the Lord; and my secret enemies that want to finally prove that these dreams were false.

If you do this with these perspectives in the back of your minds as these events transpired and that people were watching to see if all of this was real, I believe that these dreams will be that much more enjoyable for you. With this as prelude, the next dream is called 'Faith & the Fig' and took place two weeks later...

The Final Hour

Dream Excerpt from The Final Hour

The Final Hour – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from September, 2015 to May, 2016

Prelude to “God, the Bull & the Cobra”

In these twenty seven dreams that form this seventh book, Jesus continues to ramp up the prophecy of things that will be seen both as we approach the Rapture and after the Rapture. These are frightening in a way, but yet awesome in that God reminds us that He foretold of all of this to remind us that He is in control. He constantly reminds us not to fear, but always look to Him, especially when we worry.

As I will mention in each of the excerpts, each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other. For example, though the residing theme in The Final Hour is, well, prophecy related to this The Final Hour, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Blacksmith, The Mansions, The House of God, The Exodus and The Prophecies, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The Final Hour sometimes appears in each of these as well.

While there is so much in this book about the Lord’s plans and how mysterious they remain, the following is a prophecy that includes the hammering of the four corners of USA as the “Bull” (Trump?) arises to cause chaos.

While the actual interpretation of this dream cannot be known with certainty, there is interesting prophecy as to how this will all play out including an enhanced roll by the “Bull”. So far this summer of 2016 has been an interesting one to watch and you simply have to see for yourself if this dream from the winter before called it like we see it now playing out...

Dream 193 – God, the Bull & the Cobra

Received Sunday, February 28, 2016

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day and for all that You have done for me. Thank You for the fast as it drew me closer into You, but I so long to be even closer still.

I have seen many things and events in my dreams. These are disturbing as I watch our world transform into something so dark and then even much darker than now. I never thought it was possible to see all of this happen in my lifetime.

I thank You so much for showing me how wonderful You are. You drew me into a complete love relationship with You as my Father and Jesus as my Groom right before the coming times.

If You had not done this, I am not certain I would have been able to know that You are keeping us close and under Your mighty wings. Oh, how wonderful it feels to have You close. I love You so much and You are my treasure and my jewel.

The amazing thing about You is that You are right in front of us, all around us and in us if we invite You in. The gifts You bestow on us are those of great worth in the Kingdom of Heaven, but of little value in the material world as drawing near to You comes at a price.

There is a curtain between those You call Your own and the rest of the world. This curtain is the veil and this type of veil allows us to go further into Your presence into the Holy of Hollies. I once remained caught peaking inside under the curtain, then back out again.

Quite simply, I was afraid and for good reason as this is a choice which is bold, daring and courageous and takes sacrifice. When entering into Your presence, we know that our faith will be tested and these tests are allowed so we develop endurance.

I hear the enemy's voice calling from outside of the curtain. Even as I enter into Your presence, Father, I hear shouts of, 'Erin, you are not worthy to enter through the curtain or door into God's presence. This is an illusion and you are delirious as God would never choose someone like you.'

However, as I draw even nearer to You, Father God, and into Your Courts, I can no longer hear those voices. Instead I can only hear the choirs of angels, the smell of jasmine, roses and something like musk oil.

The aroma is amazing and the presence of God is light and airy, yet His anointing presence is thick like honey and I can taste it on my lips. I become overwhelmed at the fact that He would allow me to enter in. Who am I? Really, who am I?

Lord, I thank You for all that I have been given and for You not giving up on me. I even thank You for these constant trials. This hammering punishment over the years removed that 'self' who sought to consistently remove Your blessings over and over.

While I am still not perfect and never will be on Earth, I am learning to let go of the former things and let You take me. I thank You also for the memory of Your miracles in my journals. I thank You for these glorious records as without them Your miracles are lost by the world's troubles.

Thank You that Your miracles are greater than the world's troubles. I thank You also for my children, who keep me focused on You. When I am downcast, they remind me of Your promises and, when they are downcast, I can remind them also.

Father, I also want to thank You for one other thing. I thank You for my pain! Yes, I know this does not make sense from a worldly view, but pain is what pierces the very veil which can keep us from You.

There is a point with searing pain in which you either pass out from holding on tightly to it or you just give in and let it go. When you give it to God, He takes it and replaces it with peace. It is the most difficult thing I have ever had to do, but giving God my pain then allowed me to breathe and breathe deep.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Today I was up in Heaven just off of God's path and sitting beside a beautiful waterfall which leads into a beautiful stream. The sounds were amazing as some of the rocks sounded almost hollow as the water fell on them, which made music as a result.

I noticed that the bottom or bed where the falls meet the river was layered in gold sand like shiny gold. The light made the gold glimmer as the water was crystal clear. I decided to bend over and take a drink from the waterfall.

The water tasted more amazing than any water on Earth. I sat back down and watched the force of the waterfall pound the rocks. Each rock going down had a spoon-like dip in it from the force of the water over time.

I laughed at the thought of these rocks becoming concave and making gold dust at the bottom of the river from the pounding. The sound was beautiful, so I laid down to rest as the grass surrounding the river was soft and inviting. I could smell the sweet grass and the warm sun felt wonderful.

Me: "Thank You, Father, for bringing me here."

I then must have fell asleep as I awoke some time later to a tap on my shoulder. I sat up to see Uriel bent down with his arms resting on his knees.

Uriel: Smiling. "So, Erin, did you have a nice rest?"

Me: "How long was I asleep?"

Uriel: Chuckling. "A while."

Me: "Did I miss anything?"

Uriel: "No, as there is no 'missing' anything up here."

Me: "My rest was amazing and I have never slept so peacefully. I would like to sleep up here more often."

Uriel: "You still have time for this now or you can come with me as God requests your presence."

Me: I quickly jumped up to my feet. "Oh, I would like to go see God, please!"

Uriel: Laughing. "Okay."

He reached his hand out and I took his invitation. Instantly we were in front of God's door and it was open. Uriel put salve into my eyes and we entered into His Courts.

This time I saw something I had not seen before. I saw the entire surrounding area and it was massive. I saw something like beams of white light shooting out from God's Throne literally creating a massive corona effect.

I smiled as this must be where the idea of a halo or crown originated from. The searing light illuminated the elements of the room and I saw something like a Courthouse room, but more elaborate than anything I had seen in Heaven up until now.

I have been in earthly courtrooms and these pale in comparison to this. I could look around myself for the first time, but not in great detail. I was so small compared to God, just so small. I dropped to my knees and worshiped God.

The sound of the choirs of angels came from the other side of these massive columns. I felt myself shaking as the cells in my body moved to the music as every "Holy, Holy, Holy!" seemed to be absorbed by my body.

I began to weep as I thought I had failed during my fast when I became very sick. I was not sure I would be in His presence again after this. I then felt a rumble in the Court.

God: "Erin, speak."

Me: "Father, when I became sick during the second day of my fast, I thought You were unhappy with me and I did not understand it. Gall was coming up and I could not stop it. Then I would fall back asleep and I would have horrible dreams.

"Some of these dreams were with current and past enemies and others were with events I did not understand. I repented with all of my heart just in case."

God: "Erin, I heard your cries and I honored and will honor your prayer request. What did you learn during your fast?"

Me: "I felt I was literally vomiting out my enemies. I was so weak as You showed me attacks and it humbled me."

God: "On the first day, you submitted to Me and spent time in repentance. On the second day, you faced your enemies, stood your ground and obeyed. Then on the third day, you quieted yourself and worshiped Me. I do not understand what the problem was?"

Me: "You had given me easier fasts before, and although they were humbling, You had strengthened me to easily get through them."

God: "Perhaps this was the better fast as you had more to lose physically. You also have more enemies now and you purged them. Are you feeling better?"

Me: Smiling. "Yes, Father, much better."

God: "This was an important gift you gave to Me as I know how difficult it was for you, therefore I will bless you abundantly because of this. Now, you have questions?"

Me: "Thank You, Father, for allowing me to purge myself of these. I need help with the dreams I have had this week and I am uncertain what these mean. I had one of these dreams this Thursday morning..."

Dream description begins...

I woke up after an angel showed me the Earth in 3-D. It was rotating on its axis, but the angel stopped the Earth's rotation when we went over Africa and the Middle East. I saw several countries highlighted, but Libya was particularly highlighted.

The angel then told me that trouble is coming from here and not just a little trouble either. I then saw what seemed like a wave of God's hand and the floor in the Courts separated and now I saw a map of the Earth.

There God illuminated several regions. As I scanned the territories, I saw 22 countries surrounding Israel and they were highlighted in dark green. I then saw the country of Libya illuminate and pop-up and a massive black cobra with red eyes over this green illuminated country.

I then saw something like a plane or fast object land to the north of Israel, but off the shore and into the area of Lebanon. There I saw a plot against Israel and that something was about to come upon Israel.

I then saw something I did not understand. There were three great birds unlike anything I had seen before flying over Israel's dome. I saw two birds trying to take down one, but being unsuccessful. I then saw one of the birds fall.

I then looked to the west and saw the United States. I still saw the four massive angels continuing to pound the USA, wherein the middle and the south of the country received the worst hits. I saw news agencies editing out massive amounts of information.

I then saw something like a massive red bull with horns running across the land. It had been sent by God to stir up the landscape. I saw matadors wearing white, red and blue trying to spear it, but its muscles were like iron and nothing could penetrate it.

I saw something being signed and handshakes in meetings behind closed doors in the USA capital and that these angered God. The angel to the south stirred up the seas and the air and with force tried to humble the land, but it was not to be.

I then saw a massive business or entity with many colors leave the land to another land in the east. I saw massive immigration from cities to higher areas. I saw the ten leaders redirecting their strategies to circumvent God's attacks.

I then looked back down to Israel and I saw a massive canister. It was about to come upon the nation, but I could not tell if this was coming from Lebanon or elsewhere. Regardless, it came from nowhere and descended upon Jerusalem.

Dream description ends...

Me: "Father, will You not please send the Lord for us prior to all of this? Oh, please!"

God: "Erin, the time of Jacob's Trouble is coming and My judgment is coming upon the land. Her enemies will be consumed by the strength of Heaven's armies and these will suffer a seven-fold judgment."

I looked and I saw earthquakes, pestilence, blood-shed from fear, flooding rain, massive hailstones, fire and brimstone. These came as quickly as waves. I saw lines in angles sweeping the 22 enemies of God.

Me: "We will be gone before this, right?"

God: "Do not worry, Erin, as you will not see this happen on Earth."

Me: "Is this because the media will not cover it?"

God: "This too will happen as the times of the prophecies for the latter days have come."

Me: "So there is judgment on the land and the churches? Then will Israel be called into repentance and her enemies judged?"

God: "This is enough for today, Erin, as it is now time to search that which is written for your gauge."

Just then, I felt Uriel reach for my arm and bring me to my feet.

Me: "Thank You, Father. I love You."

God: "I love you too. Remember to write plainly. If you are uncertain, then pray to Me and I will illuminate this to clarify. Remember, you are loved."

Uriel took me outside of God's door.

Me: "I am scared, Uriel."

Uriel: "I understand, but do not be scared as this is from the enemy. Now these messages will not be as positive, but do not worry."

Me: "God is angry and there is trouble coming to the world."

Uriel: "This is written and is of no surprise. Now, you had a question about another dream?"

Me: "Oh, yes, I had a dream of a coiled up cobra of day-glow green. I saw it strike a phone and then become a case of illuminated green snake skin around the phone. Then I saw the snake go into the phone. What does it mean?"

Uriel: "There is a parallel world which was allowed by God during this time. There is the physical world you see, then there is the world of the air, not to be confused by the spiritual realm, but it is very much so the same and run by the prince of the air.

"Now the strength of this is that it can strike its venomous blows by lightning speed and many times then slithers out without a trace. There is no border with your land here other than the power in your on and off switch. Do not fall victim to the schemes of the enemy.

"Now remember to always be on guard with your whole armor. Remember who you are and that you reside here in Heaven. Remember that you are a clarion and you have received the clarion call.

"Now go forth in victory as in Psalm 45, Erin, as the Bride is soon to rise up. Look to the prophets in His Word, the Lamp. You will see these prophecies unfold before your very eyes as you are living in these days. God will have the last word, so do not be afraid.

"Now study the last eight books of the Bible through to Revelation ending in chapter 22. There are items the Holy Spirit will illuminate for you. Do not worry or be afraid, but take heart."

Dream over...

The House of God

Dream Excerpt from The House of God

The House of God – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from October, 2013 to February, 2014

Prelude to “God’s Front Door”

In these twenty three dreams that form this fourth book, Jesus takes me for a personal tour of His House up in Heaven. While I once again do my best to describe what His House looks like, words simply fail to adequately describe all of this. Put it this way; whatever I describe, make it much better and it still falls short.

As I will mention in each of the excerpts, each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other. For example, though the residing theme in The House of God is Jesus’ Mansion in Heaven as one would expect, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Blacksmith, The Mansions, The Exodus, The Prophecies and The Final Hour, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The House of God sometimes appears in each of these as well.

While there is so much in this book about where the Lord Himself already resides, the following is where the Lord first publicly takes me on a tour of His personal Mansion in Heaven. I am sure you will agree that this House is perfectly Jesus, wherein this Mansion is somehow unpretentious, yet still completely befitting of the King of kings and the Lord of lords...

Dream 104 – God’s Front Door

Received Saturday, January 11, 2014

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for Your great love. When I think of all You have done, Lord, I stand amazed and it brings me to my knees. You are the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, yet You are also my Father and Creator.

You knit my form in my mother's womb. You have taken special care with me and I am forever Yours. Just a few years ago, I would go through the motions of praying 'to God', but I had no real idea to whom I was praying to. Now, Father, You are alive to me and You live in my heart. I have seen Your face. I have seen the place You have prepared for all of us and I am speechless. I love You as much as I am humanly able, yet You love me even more than this.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Today, I stood at a very large door. It had a stone arch with a huge chiseled keystone in the center, wherein the keystone supported the arch. The door was ancient. It was made of a wood not indigenous to Earth, but it was something like cedar, acacia and olive.

It was carved in geometric patterns by skilled artisans. On Earth, this would be carved by lasers. There were two parts to the door. There was a large door knocker made of bronze, but polished into a deep patina.

The knocker was in the shape of a beautiful lion. The lion had a very kind face; not scary like some are. In the mouth of the lion was a very large ring of gold. The handles to the door were very large and, since the doors were about twelve feet high, the handles were easily eighteen inches high.

The handles were heavily carved in bronze and inlaid in gold. There was a key hole. This made me smile. The keyhole was made of pearl and framed in gold. As I ran my hand over it, I wondered what type of key went in this door. There was a very bright beam of light coming through the key hole.

Me: "Lord, is that You on the other side? Will You let me in?"

I heard nothing. I stood outside a moment and thought about Scriptures pertaining to doors. I thought about my season right now and wondered about things which I had been petitioning in my heart for, but not really seeking Him on. I heard music on the other side of the door and I began to laugh.

Me: "Okay, Lord, I know You are requiring something of me."

I bent over to look inside the keyhole, but It was too bright to see inside. I thought again about things that I had battled on my own and not handed everything to Him. I looked down at the place I stood. I was at the top of a very large scaled set of stairs.

I was at the entrance to a very large estate. My eyes focused and I began to look around me. I realized that this was one of the doors into the actual House of God. My heart pounded. I looked down at what I was wearing.

I was wearing a beautiful gown of linen and silk which went down to my ankles. On my feet were golden leather sandals, similar to espadrilles.

There were strands of gold woven over my feet in a crisscross pattern and up my calves.

My bodice of the dress was neatly gathered and woven with blue and gold braided cords. My forearms were woven with the same detail and the weave went across the top of my hands and around my finger. My hair was long and braided.

I reached up and touched the top of my head. While I could not see it, I felt something like a pearl woven into my hair. I also felt a pearl hanging down on my forehead. I was dressed beautifully. Now I wondered to myself, 'What occasion is this?' I then started to think...

Me: 'What if I came early? What if I am late? What if He does not know I am out here?'

I began to laugh. Okay, this is ridiculous. He is God and He sees all, so I know that He knows I am here. I sat down for a moment on the front step. I faced the most incredible scene my eyes had ever seen. I saw the beautiful Garden of God below.

I looked around and saw all the high mountain peaks around me. I began to laugh and then, just as quickly, I started to cry. The tears were brought on when I literally saw 'the cattle on a thousand hills'. Then I went back to laughing and shook my head.

Me: "He really does own the cattle on a thousand hills."

I just petitioned Him this week and used this in my prayer. I saw pastures of green velvet grass. I saw flocks of sheep in the distance. I saw a beautiful lake and the River of Life flowed into it. The lake sparkled like diamonds. I just knew that there must be diamond sand at the bottom.

I saw fountains flowing from distant areas in the Garden. Way past the forested trees and the beautiful path, I saw the Glass Conservatory in the distance. It was beautiful. In the air around me, there was something like a mist. The temperature was cool and crisp, but, miraculously, I was not cold.

I saw a grove of olives at the base of one of the mountains. The grove had paths of stone pavers going through it. It looked like the glorified version of the Mount of Olives in Israel. My eyes had so much to take in that I found myself wanting to share all of this with the Lord. I was becoming excited to see Him.

I turned back to these beautiful double doors. I thought to myself again.

Me: "What if I came to the back door?"

I looked to the sides, but, because this place was so massive, I had no way to see the other doors. I began to look around for the key to let myself in. I stopped and began to laugh.

Me: "Perhaps He placed the key under a pot."

I looked to what was next to the doors. Flanking them were two extremely large stone planters with something like a sculpted box wood tree. These were about as tall as the door. There were beautiful, fragrant white jasmine and something like gardenias trailing from underneath the trees.

The pots themselves were easily four feet square and the stone was something like lapis lazuli and concrete combined; very beautiful. I began to laugh so hard. There was no way I could check under the pots.

As I looked around again, I noticed the stairs dropped down to another landing with pots; and then another. There were very large stone channels about three feet wide flanking the stairs. Water flowed in these channels and the sound was amazing.

The channels were lined with hammered gold sheets or maybe even solid gold, but it made the water appear to be liquid gold. It was incredible. I looked down in the channels and I saw small white fish.

They looked like pearl onions with feathered fins and tails. They had blue eyes. I saw small sea shells in the channels. These were white as snow and looked like a small conch shell with spikes. I reached in and picked up one.

When I pulled it out, I thought I heard the laughter of a child. I turned the shell over to see the little animal inside. It was bright blue and it dripped something like blue Azul ink. The ink dropped on the stone pavers leading up to the door.

Worried that I hurt the little sea shell, I said I was sorry and put it back into the water. I looked around me and I was worried. I looked down and saw the beautiful blue ink on the pavers. It was the color of my robe.

The ink dissolved and disappeared before my very eyes. I was relieved. I was trying to figure out how I was going to explain marking God's entrance with the blue ink of that seashell.

I was shaking my head and becoming a bit impatient. I looked at the door carefully. I must have been there for an hour or more waiting.

Me: I thought. "Hmm, it is not like the Lord to make me wait. Wait, yes, it is exactly like the Lord to make me wait here.

Holy Spirit: Inside my chest. "It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out."

Me: "Holy Spirit, is that You?"

Holy Spirit: "Yes, Erin, I am here. Where are you?"

Me: "That is an odd question, Lord?"

Holy Spirit: "Really? Think about this and use your new gift of wisdom."

I was laughing. I looked at the doors again. I laughed so hard that I could barely stand up.

Me: "Oh Lord, I know what You are doing. Oh my goodness, this is Matthew 7:7, is it not?"

I shouted it out. As I was laughing, I picked up my dress, almost like a habit, and I ran up the stairs to the doors. I reached up and used both of my hands to grab the knocker. The knocker was the beautiful ring inside of the mouth of the bronze lion.

I knocked three times and I pressed my cheek on the side of the door. Perhaps I could hear Him walking? I heard music in the distance and it was a full orchestra. I then heard the door begin to open. It was a beautiful angel there to greet me.

Me: "Hi, I am Erin. I am here to see the Lord."

Angel: "Hmm, wait just a moment..." The door partially closed. I heard two angels discussing something. Then the door opened. "Yes, He is expecting you."

Me: "I am sorry I was late. I did not know what to do as He usually has me come in a different..." Then I began to look around me.

Angel: "You are right when He was expecting you; not too soon and not too late. Come with me."

We were in an entrance that was beyond human thought. I will try my best, but I am not sure I will be able to describe this. The floor was made of what I recognize as Jerusalem Stone. These pavers were very large, but the depth was greater than that on Earth. They were so perfectly chiseled.

There was a translucent quality to them. I could see into them, but I could not tell the depth. I realized that I was in God's front entry. There were tears streaming from my eyes. As my tears hit the pavers, the tears chimed like a bell.

Each tear had a different tone and note. Each tear illuminated in colors as they hit the stone. I bent down and untied my sandals. Then I shook my head as I realized that my shoes were in the middle of the path.

Me: I talked to myself. "Erin, we are in Heaven. No one, especially God, is going to trip over my shoes."

The pavers tied into a beautiful rug that looked Persian in design. The end tassels were beautiful and were made with linen and silver cords. The rug itself was a combination of colors; deep blue, navy blue and royal blue.

It had beautiful crimson and ivory geometric designs in it. The rug was thick like a Tibetan rug and the softest sheared wool that I have ever felt in my life. I stared at it.

Me: "Wow, this is just God's entry rug. It must have taken many earthly years to weave this? How..."

Angel: "Erin, come."

He was laughing, but he knew I would be there all day. There was a beautiful iron entry light made of faceted crystals and blown glass with the most incredible dripless wax candles. I thought this was funny because God certainly would not need an entry chandelier. Indeed, why would He even need lights?

Yet, as we walked down the hall, I saw tables with lights on them; beautiful lamps no less. Now, I love lamps, but I have never seen anything like these lamps. Fascinating; there were no cords needed for an electrical outlet. This made sense to me.

I saw quality in these lamps, like Chapman, but even much greater than those. They were beautiful. There were six large columns on each side of the corridor. The columns were at least four feet in circumference and made of something like natural uncut stone, perhaps unpolished marble, but very beautiful.

The base of each column had a pedestal and the area between that and the base, the 'die', was overlaid in carved cedar. The base was bronze. Each column was met by arcades, which are arched features that attached each column at the top.

Each column had a capital made of hammered bronze and the frieze or entablature above the capital had beautiful carved bronze pomegranates. I was in wonder as the very pages of my college architectural text books were literally coming alive.

There was so much more though. Between each architrave, there were long drapes of silk in white from the top to the floor. The columns were about thirty feet high and the architrave and above to the cornice-like area to the ceiling were easily another seven feet. The hallway itself was about twenty feet wide.

As I walked, I reached over and touched the silk drapes. The drapes were mysteriously blowing from a hidden wind source and I could not feel a breeze. As my hand touched the silk and linen drapes, a faint damask pattern illuminated, but in a faint blue and almost like iridescence.

In fact, as I walked down the hall, the fabric patterns illuminated. Then, after I walked past, they simply disappeared. The pattern was geometric, but also a type of damask. This is very difficult to describe as I have never seen a pattern like this.

As I walked, I barely caught glimpses of what was on the other side of the curtain arches. The curtains were covering my view. I was lagging behind the angel. At one point, I even must have been bouncing and skipping like a child.

I then saw one of my favorite things; jasmine tree in large pots. They had small white lights and the fragrance was incredible. I looked back at the front door to see how far we had walked and I smiled as I saw my tears illuminating a winding path down the entry. I had not even realized that I had been crying so much.

Finally, we arrived to a courtyard through arched double-crystal doors made of cedar and acacia. The woodwork was truly incredible. I saw that there were many such doors leading into this area. They were beautiful and stained a deep walnut with amber tones.

The walls on the inside of the Home looked something like 'Earth-Crete', a combination of plaster and a bonding agent, but, instead, this plaster was made of quartz crystals and hand troweled. The walls were smooth and luminescent and the color was light.

I would guess that colors on the walls would compete with the craftsmanship of the things inside; like the floors, rugs, columns and other items. The angel walked me out to the courtyard. There were beautiful fountains all over. The water came from holes in the floor of the courtyard.

Up above, there were balconies and other rooms. The sounds and smells were Heavenly. There, under a beautiful arched, was a 'Dome of the Rock' type gazebo with a table covered in linen. However, and more excitingly by far; there was Jesus!

I ran through the arches of the fountain. He got up and walked down the platform and stairs to greet me. He was wearing a long tunic and pants; all white linen. He wore a large woven sash of blue and silver thread. His hair was long and wavy.

His tunic sleeves were rolled up. He looked perfectly casual; a 'casual King'. I ran straight to Him as fast as I could and hugged Him. Of course, and as per usual it seems, I still had not stopped crying.

Me: "I was afraid You had shut the doors on me, Lord."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, what did you do this time? Is there something worthy here of having you outside the door to stew?"

Me: I was laughing, but then this turned into tears. "Lord, what if I did something wrong? You know I am not perfect. What if...."

Jesus: He stopped me and was smiling. "Shush, Erin, this is foolish. Have you done something worthy of being thrown out of the Kingdom? Did you not just listen to the Holy Spirit? Did you denounce the Holy Spirit? I think not!

"There is only one such way that you could stand outside the Kingdom. Do you not listen to the voice of the One who loves you? Am I not in you? Then, unless you remove the Counselor, your Holy Guide, My Spirit in you, how could this be?"

Me: "Okay, Lord, You have a great point. I was afraid I had missed the appointed time?"

Jesus: "Okay, so, did I say, 'Erin, come up'?" Then He crossed His arms and looked up. "Hmm, I believe I did. So was this not the appointed time?"

Me: "Lord, you did not greet me at the door and the door was not open. I thought You were mad at me."

Jesus: "Interesting. A closed door can sure bring many thoughts. Did you try the handle and just walk in?"

Me: "Lord, no, this would have been rude and I cannot do this. I was not in danger. I was in beautiful clothes by Your invitation and there was no sign saying come in."

Jesus: "Interesting. However, you still looked for a key to unlock the door, did you not?"

He was smiling and teasing me at the same time. He knew exactly what I would do.

Me: "Yes. Finding a key to Your door is fruitless. Everything is so large and heavy outside that I could not move anything to look for a key."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, remember the mustard seed. If you had faith like the size of even one, you could say to the flower pot, 'Move', and it would move."

Me: I was laughing. "Okay, Lord, You have me; I concede."

Jesus: "So, what finally prompted you to tap into the Holy Spirit?"

Me: I was laughing. "I had exhausted my options and I would have been out there for hours."

Jesus: "Okay, so, you only tapped into the Holy Spirit when you were out of options? All these times with Me so far and this is as far as you have come? Oh, Father, help Me; what do I do here?" He was laughing as He raised His arms up to the sky in fake exasperation.

Me: "Oh Lord..." I was laughing so hard that my tears continued to stream. "...forgive me."

Jesus: He was still laughing too. "Come on up here, Erin. Let's talk and have communion."

Me: "Lord, is it time for communion with You? Are You coming?"

Jesus: "Erin, relax and read that Scripture again. What did I say to the disciples? Where are you? We are not in your living room. I am not sitting physically with you there."

He was smiling as He waved for an angel to pour wine into His glass. He sipped the wine and motioned for the angel to pour some into my glass.

Me: I was smiling. "Lord, why do You test the wine first before having this poured into my glass? After all, the wine would always be perfect here. Is it not also harvested here in Heaven and watered from the River of Life? Is it not always perfect?"

I was laughing a bit, confident in my thinking that I finally had one on Him.

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, it is for you. Do you not enjoy knowing that I am your cup bearer also and not just a King?"

Me: "But, Lord, in Heaven, there is no need for a cup bearer, is there?"

Jesus: He was smiling. "Ah yes, you are thinking of an earthly occupation with deadly consequences. I bear another type of cup, as I did on Earth. This you know as you often drink from this same cup.

"This is to show My love for you, Erin. You must know that I will, and have, drunk from the cup before you do. Then I approve you to drink from your cup, but I sit beside you in this and we drink together."

Me: "Oh Lord, a simple kind gesture with You has so much meaning. This is amazing. You are amazing. So now, are we going to eat the bread of affliction together?"

He had an angel bring a large bread board with two types of bread. One of the breads was like a pita flat bread and the other bread was like a raised French bread.

Jesus: "Interesting question, Erin. Now, which one would you like? There is oil, olives, and butter also."

Me: "Lord, should You not be eating only the flat one?"

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, do you know why I am choosing both?"

Me: "Well, I know; because You taught me that, when the Israelites had to flee quickly to get away from Pharaoh, there was no time to raise the bread. This meant that they needed to have bread with no yeast."

Jesus: "So why call this the bread of affliction?"

Me: "Well, Lord, You gave bread as a symbol of Your body. You took communion with the disciples. It was a foreshadowing of Your afflictions and broken body. We take communion to remember what You did for us."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, but we are now here. Why conform to this tradition? It is symbolic of the Jews and remembered by the Gentiles, but, here, can we not just eat good bread?"

Me: "I like both types actually, Lord." He started to laugh at this. "After all, You did say, 'I am the bread of life and whoever comes to Me will never be hungry again and whoever believes in Me will never be thirsty.'"

Jesus: "Very good, Erin. So I guess, since you are dining here with Me, we do not need to worry about the types of bread." He continued to eat as more food was served. "Oh, I have a question for you."

Me: "Yes, Lord?"

Jesus: "You quoted Me above with such faith, yet you lack this. Why?"

Me: "Lord, You are right. I expected to be delivered from my trials instantly. I had faith to believe You would do this quickly."

Jesus: "So then, let's discuss you at the front door. Why did it take you so long to just ask, seek and knock? Why was this so difficult?"

Me: "Lord, well, I guess the bright side of this can be found in Revelations 3:20, right? At least if You knocked on my front door, I would let You in without hesitation."

Jesus: "Hmm, this is both interesting and thought provoking. So when I knock at your door, you will let Me in. However, if you need help or you are asking, you will not knock at the door, knowing Scripture says I will open it? Erin, seriously?" He looked hurt for a moment.

Me: "Oh Lord, please forgive me. What is wrong with me that I so quickly forget? I see only the obstacles and I do not look to You. Well, actually I do, but I confess that, when You do not do as I expect, then I grumble or act on my own."

Jesus: "Erin, this is what I look for. There are two types of forward moving. One way of moving forward is for you do on your own, with no one beside you, wherein you move ahead of God.

"Then there is another way of moving forward. This is one which requires a forward move of faith and a step out. Erin, there is a time to wait and pray and then there is a time to act and pray."

Me: "Lord, should I wait and pray or act and pray? I am not always that obedient."

Jesus: "You must wait on the voice of God, Erin. When you hear My voice, then move and move quickly. There is a word for this; 'Kadima'. If the Israelites did not walk and move forward when the Red Sea parted for them, exposing dry ground, then they would have been consumed by Pharaoh and taken back to work as slaves.

"Their courage to move forward and walk on faith with two massive walls of water on either side, possibly ready to consume them, required both faith and courage. You stood at my door, yet you were afraid to even knock."

Me: "Lord, I was not afraid; I simply forgot."

Jesus: "Erin, how long would you have sat outside My door?"

Me: "Oh Lord, if I had not heard from the Holy Spirit, then probably until You came on the clouds."

Jesus: "This is not too far off, but still this is a long time to wait and is unnecessary. This was a good lesson for you, yes?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. I feel like an Israelite right now. Here I saw all these miracles on my behalf, but I can do nothing without You. You are my pillar of light in the desert."

Jesus: "Interesting words. Erin, do you remember that there were two routes to the Promised Land? It was a pillar of cloud by day and fire by night on an indirect course. Why did I not take them on the shortest course?"

Me: "So You could show your miraculous power."

Jesus: "No, there is more than this. It was so they came to realize they were chosen by the King of kings and the Lord of lords. They were children of God, not slaves. They only knew slavery."

Me: "Lord, I did not suffer like they did, but I think like they do. I think like a slave rather than a child of God."

Jesus: "Erin, this is common. Be careful to not stay in the desert longer than necessary because you fail to hear Me. Also, stay clear of naysayers. These were brought by the enemy to thwart your joy and rob you of who you are in Me.

"Erin, you are a daughter of the King and a Bride. You are royalty and belong here in Heaven. Do not be robbed or deceived. Remember, ask, seek and knock. I also saw you looking around outside. You laughed with joy at seeing the cattle on the hills."

Me: "Lord, then You saw me the whole time? This is in the Psalms! Psalm 50 was in my petition."

Jesus: "Erin, are you asking?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I am."

Jesus: "Then this is granted. Believe it. Now I have more to show you, but this is enough for today. You are loved."

Me: "I love You, Lord. Thank You for dinner."

Jesus: "Oh, this is not over..."

Dream over...

The Invitation

Dream Excerpt from The Invitation

The Invitation – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from October 12, 2012 to January, 2013

Prelude to “Bitter words try to stop the dreams”

As you read these books, and even in this first book, you will notice that the content is ever expanding in scope and wonder as the series progresses. While each book, and even each dream, is independent of each other, they nonetheless work together to form a tapestry of what God is accomplishing in each of our lives and in the world itself.

In the first thirty eight dreams that formed this first book, I was amazed when the Lord began to speak to me in a clear and concise way, but so personal at the same time. Whereas I had been taught that the Lord was quite serious, which He can be, I also found Him to be humorous, engaging and loving like the very best of ‘friends’ or the very greatest of ‘dads’.

As these dreams continued, they became ever clearer and more elaborate, wherein each set of dreams in a book has a different theme, but yet still has the perfect amount of overlap. Nonetheless, all these dreams had to start somewhere and, in this case, they all started with “The Invitation”.

I picked the following dream as the excerpt from “The Invitation” in order to show that speaking with the Lord does not come with an easy life as many think it should. Indeed, the enemy continues his attacks on me and my family and even uses friends ‘with the best of intentions’ to do so. This dream highlights that accepting ‘The Invitation’ and being a welcome visitor in Heaven did not mean that all became easy for me here on Earth!

Dream 20 – Bitter words try to stop the dreams

Received Friday, November 23, 2012

One of my favorite Psalms that certainly fits this season of my life can be found in Psalm 119:145: “I call with all my heart, answer me, O Lord, and I will obey Your decrees. I call out to You. Save me and I will keep Your statutes. I rise before dawn and cry for help. I have put my hope in Your Word. My eyes stay open through the watches of the night so that I may meditate on Your promises. Hear my voice in accordance with Your love and preserve my life, O Lord, according to Your laws.”

Jeremiah 29: 13-14: “You will seek Me and find Me when you seek Me with all of your heart.”

Dream begins...

The path in front of me looked like an illuminated tent. The angels were standing side by side together. The snow was still five inches deep, crisp and icy. Above me was an amazing sight. There were angels in attack mode completely covering the dome.

The dome now seemed to breathe. This beast, still black and red, was using all of its force to try to crush the dome and all of us under its weight. There were two more large columns that had been added to the dome. With these, this now created four pillars, wherein each tipped and pointed north, east, south and west.

I could hear the ground thundering as it vibrated and shook. I stood still as I came to the entrance of the path. Outside of the path, there was great noise. Under the covering of the canopy, or tent, it was quiet. The two robins were still there.

One of the robins was even fatter than yesterday. Indeed, it was now ridiculously fat and there was no way it could fly. It could barely jump around. The other little robin lay on the ground on its side. I picked it up to comfort it and put it in my hand.

I could feel its tiny bones and its broken wings. I remembered a slogan used by the ‘fish and game department’: “If you care, you will leave them there.” I thought, ‘not this time’, as I picked the little robin up and put it into my flannel shirt pocket.

I frowned at the little fat robin. Just then, I saw the fat robin wander off of the path, right into the middle of the war zone, perhaps to look for even more food.

Breakthrough whistled to me while he stood at the base of the ladder. He motioned for me to hurry to him. I could see the forms of these dragons’ heads coming at me as I climbed the ladder.

As I was going up the ladder, I could hear a flood of voices coming from the dragons’ heads saying horrible things about me. The voices were accusing me of so many things. As these words were spoken, an angel with a large book collected the words, while another angel wrote the words in a book.

As the angel wrote the words, the words became like daggers. The book was large; about thirty inches wide when open, thirty inches long and was about seven inches thick. The pages were pure white prior to the writing, but the writing was so awful, they became dirty, muddy and stained. The pages were even now letting off an odor that was horrible. The ink turned from a beautiful gold ink to a bright crimson red. When the book was filled, it was carefully sealed with a lock and key. The keys and the book both went with the angel through the Portal.

As I climbed, I was shocked that the words against me were so brutal. I was also surprised at my physical reaction as, while my body climbed, I began to die. My skin turned transparent and I could see everything; my veins, my flesh and my muscles. I was withering away as these words were killing me. As I neared the top of the Portal, the hand of the angel pulled me through the Portal with the assistance of Breakthrough. It took a moment to regain my composure. Another angel came and poured a carafe of water from the River of Life over me. It was like liquid gold.

Another angel handed me a chalice of water to drink. Another angel then came to dry me off. My pajamas turned to a type of dress made of torn pages of these horrible books written about me from the dragons' lies. Indeed, I was now wearing a gown of lies.

The lies were in so many different languages and were so numerous that it felt heavy. I saw the angel with the books lift a few more through onto a type of cart. Altogether, there were three books filled with horrible things said about me. I stared for a while, realizing yet again that I was wearing a gown of these lies as well.

Breakthrough turned me away from the gown of lies so that I would not focus on that. I turned and saw Jesus there. What a beautiful sight. His wings had shifted again. He was still dressed in armor and had His crown of gold with jewels.

After I had just come through that battle, I was looking forward to spending some time with Him. However, with everything He had heard from these dragons, I wondered if He had changed His mind about me.

The angel held me back for now as I was not to go to Jesus yet. I noticed that, around my feet, beautiful golden dust had a pattern stamped in it that would be mathematically impossible to recreate. The huge Sea of Glass stood before me and seemed to also be expanding with each visit.

I stood there and heard the Shofar blow. There were several blows ending with a long blow and then silence for exactly three minutes. I looked around me and I could see that there were millions of children of all different sizes and cultures dressed in beautiful white robes with golden faces. Their robes were illuminated and they began to sing. I recognized the song! It was Rich Mullins, "My Deliverer." It took my breath away and I began to weep. My greeter angel nudged me to keep me focused. The children then stopped singing.

The angel announced: "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb of God! His ways are just and true! May His name be praised! Holy is He!"

The angel then smiled and turned toward me with such sympathetic eyes

Angel: "He is on the Bema Seat today!"

The choir of children sang "My Deliverer" again as I approached the risers of the Throne. This time, Jesus reached out for my hand. When He touched my hand, my tattered robe suddenly turned to a white robe with beautiful scripts that created a quilted gown. It was a tapestry with illuminated fabrics and was stunning.

He sat on the top riser and opened His wings, motioning for me to sit next to Him under His wing. I cried when I remembered reading about this the night before in Psalms. I was safe. My demeanor was quiet today. I was bruised. We sat for a while looking out over this majestic landscape. This choir of children looked like they were singing on the banks of the Nile. There was a golden glow around them. It was truly amazing. I wept with tears streaming down my cheeks.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

Me: "I am hurt."

Jesus: "Over what?"

I turned to look at Him and He had such love and sympathy on His face for me.

Me: "Those books contain horrible lies about me."

Jesus: "Did you believe them?"

Me: "At first I did not, but then they began to become a part of me. The words of lies actually seemed to begin to kill me slowly."

Jesus: "Yes, but what else?"

Me: "When the lies were spoken, they exposed my layers of flesh."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "I felt exposed, transparent and weak."

Jesus: "Then why did you stay so long there?"

Just then, I realized that I stayed there long enough for three huge books to be written about me.

Me: "I do not know. I guess I wanted to hear what people thought. I guess I thought I could change it."

Jesus: "Did that work?"

He was kind of chuckling, like He knew all about this.

Me: "No, I did not even get the chance to."

Jesus: "The world first hated Me, so you too will be hated. It is an age old condition. There are two things to remember, two things that exist which are at war. One is the Author of the book of truth, speaking good and breathing life into your body. Then there is the author of the book of lies. He speaks all kinds of evil. What do you notice?"

He then showed me the scene from the ladder. The beast started by slowly speaking evil. Then it started to pour out faster and faster. The scribes could barely write fast enough. Then He showed me a beautiful mountain peak, like from the Swiss Alps.

Jesus: "Watch this."

I heard the sound of an angel blowing a horn. I felt vibrations come from this horn. Then I saw a tiny snowball turning into a larger and larger one as it picked up snow. It eventually formed a huge avalanche and collapsed the entire mountain side.

He then reached to His right and pulled out the chalice from the River of Life. He took a drink from it and turned the cup so I could drink from the same spot.

Jesus: "Erin, go ahead and drink."

Me: I drank. "I do not understand as I was not even thirsty."

He laughed, but yet He was still so kind, radiant and beautiful.

Jesus: "Did I give you the cup to drink the same exact way I drank out of it? Was it not from the very spot My lips were?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "If you are to partake from My cup and drink what I am drinking, what does this mean?"

Me: "That I will drink the same thing You drink."

Jesus: "Yes, but this comes with a price."

Immediately, I saw the veil being moved. I was instantly at Golgotha, only this time, He had not passed away yet. He was still suffering on the Cross.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "You are hanging there in pain."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "You are fully exposed and laid bare. You are bloodied, battered and You are in pain."

Just then, I saw a Roman guard with a sign that mocked Jesus. The sign said, "The King of the Jews." It was in another language, but I knew what it said. Then I saw that His closest friends had left Him.

I heard people yelling horrible things about Him and I saw these huge demons flying around above all of them. They were like dragons. I was horrified again to see it from this viewpoint above the Cross.

Jesus: "Here, take another drink from My cup."

I hesitated this time. He began to smile, but reassured me that it was okay. He gave me a big hug from the side, like I was His friend.

Jesus: "To walk with Me and to partake in Me is to be punished because of Me. Do you understand?"

Me: "But, by faith, I believe You will keep me safe from harm."

Jesus: "Yes, I will deliver you from your trials."

Me: "So, You will still allow me to go through them?"

I cried. Tears were streaming now. I wanted Him to take the pain and not allow it.

Jesus: "I said I would deliver you from your trials, not keep you from them. What good would that do? Why so down? Be encouraged. Soon your trials will be over."

He then motioned two angels with boxes I recognized. The first angel opened one of the boxes. Inside was this beautiful uncut emerald, or beryl, stone. He picked it up. I recognized it. He handed it to me and I saw its origin. It was from Africa. Gazing into it, I saw wars and blood shed over this stone. It was a stone of high price.

Jesus: "Look."

Smiling, He took it into His hands and cupped it. He formed something so bright that beams radiated out of the holes in His hands. He breathed on it and He reached down and used cloth at the base of His armor to polish the stone. He then handed it to me.

Jesus: "A gift for You."

I just sat there in awe.

Jesus: "Look."

In that moment, I saw every deceptive thing that was in the core of this stone now had been reshaped into this precise, multifaceted stone.

Jesus: "Look even more closely."

I saw the course of my entire life in this jewel. I cried. The little angel swooped up and collected my tears again to take them to be recorded. He then motioned the second angel with the other box. He opened it and there was a heart of gold.

Jesus: "This means everything to Me." He put the heart into the palm of His hand. "Look."

I could see everything from my life from beginning to the end. I saw everything and every moment I did something kind. I saw things I had not even realized were significant to anyone. Everything was recorded in that heart; all of it.

Then He took the heart and He placed it on my chest as another angel came to assist. He pulled out my heart that was damaged and dying. He took the broken pieces and He replaced it with this new heart. I was in tears.

The very thing that I had prayed for my entire life, He had just performed heart surgery. I looked over at Him as I wept and He rested my head on His shoulder. He is everything: My Father, my King, my Husband, my Author, my Lawyer, my Cup, my Portion, my Surgeon, my Healer, my Deliverer and my Redeemer.

This was the King of glory and He is holy. In that moment, I could feel warmth, healing, nurturing, love and compassion. There was no bitterness, just joy. I had a new heart. He let me cry there for some time.

Jesus: "You have something for Me."

I remembered the little dying bird in my pocket. I handed it to Him. He held it in His hand and it became a beautiful little dove. It had golden feathers and silver wings. I recognized it. He breathed on it and handed it back to me.

I had so much joy. It was alive and plump. It had a pretty song. It stood on my left shoulder. He then squeezed my shoulder and kissed the right side of my forehead. This time, He was a friend and a comforter, like an older brother.

Jesus: "Erin, where is your armor today?" I looked down and realized I just had my gown on. He smiled. "Put on your armor if you are going to go into battle."

Me: "Why can I not stay here now?"

He waved His arm and there I saw a picture of my children attending my funeral.

Jesus: "Because you must show your children how to put on their armor. After all, we are in the midst of an epic battle."

He took me to a railing. Over the edge of the railing I saw the Earth. Over the Earth was a much greater battle than I had ever imagined. It was more epic than at the ladder and the beast always seemed to be at the center of the battle.

Jesus: "Pray for your Sister's armor to be strong. Pray for them."

I now saw over the entire Middle East. I saw a circle of deception, a perimeter and the basic strategy of war. I saw the enemy in full circle around Israel. I saw a runner, or a type of swift horse, running to different points on the circle.

The runner was carrying a scroll or script. The script was filled with orchestrated lies and tactics. I saw back ended deals of every kind. The scroll was being passed all around. At each place, the scroll was opened and then signed as if a contract was being formed.

The scroll contained the order of events from the enemy. The red dragon was forming an alliance with the black dragon. The black dragon represented the brothers of the dark covenant and were opposite of all that was good.

There were dark lords and princes at every passing of the scroll. The scroll also contained a script for peace in order to declare a later great deception. I saw Israel in a covering like a bright diamond in the center of the desert. The lords were planning to crush the diamond and break it apart. The dark lords envied the brightness that Israel represents. Israel is a bright and shining star with Heavenly favor.

Me: "Lord, it is worse than I thought. When will this happen?"

He began to show me formations in the stars and something else that cast a shadow. It was unclear.

Me: "Lord, I do not understand."

Jesus: "They have a script, but My Father is the Author."

Me: "Are You coming soon?"

He gave me that big smile again and I just knew that I was not going to have an answer. He waved for the angel and the children began to sing "My Deliverer" again. As I looked back, I saw Him speaking again to several people.

His eyes looked into mine. He smiled and touched His chest over His heart with His right hand and chuckled. I put my hand over my new heart and took a bow to Him. I looked and He laughed.

As I walked with the angel, I saw His white horse. It had a beautiful war dress over it. It looked so majestic and strong. I gave the horse a kiss on the nose. The angel helped me at the Portal.

Angel: "Go to the Word and look at the patterns of war through the ages and through the annals. Nothing is new. There are signs before you. Read Psalms 45, gird your sword and go forward in truth."

Me: "Pardon me?" I was clearly confused.

Angel: "Psalm 34 and Psalm 91 are for you. The King is requesting that you be in your full armor now."

Dream over...

I wrote everything down, recorded it and stayed in worship and fellowship with Him for some time. I thanked Him for the battles and trials. Yes, I even thanked Him that He did not save me from the trials for I know that He will deliver me from them.

When He will do this, I have no idea, but I take comfort in Him. In His Words, I can trust. Paul further lends encouragement to us as warriors in Christ in 2 Corinthians 6:1-11. Please meditate in prayer on this.

We do not have much time here to leave our message of Christ's love. Be blessed, use discernment and prayer. Reference your Bibles and wield them as your swords. Now, go forth in victory.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

The Mansions

Dream Excerpt from The Mansions

The Mansions – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from May, 2013 to October, 2013

Prelude to “A Tour of My Mansion in Heaven”

In these twenty four dreams that form this third book, the Lord shows us that our hope resides in a peaceful life in Heaven. He has promised us a place to live in Heaven and these are described in detail here in “The Mansions”. While I do my best to describe what God has in store for us there, words simply fail to adequately describe all of this. Put it this way; whatever I describe, make it much better and it still falls short.

As I will mention in each of the excerpts, each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other. For example, though the residing theme in The Mansions is our mansions in Heaven as one would expect, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Blacksmith, The House of God, The Exodus, The Prophecies and The Final Hour, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The Mansions sometimes appears in each of these as well.

While there is so much in this book about where we will reside, the following is where the Lord first publicly takes me on a tour of my Mansion in Heaven. Remember, He loves us all the same, so this is not meant to be a “hey, look at what I have”, but rather is meant to be a “look at what the Lord is doing for all of us”. Please keep this in mind when you visualize what all could be waiting for us with Him...

Dream 75 – A Tour of My Mansion in Heaven

Received Sunday, July 21, 2013

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day and for not giving up on me. I love You, Lord. Forgive me for my trespasses this week. Please forgive those who have trespassed against me too. Lord, this has been difficult as all areas of my life are under attack.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I was 25 years old again today as I saw Jesus in the distance and ran to Him. He stood up off of the large rock He was sitting on in order to hug me.

Jesus: "Erin, I am so glad you came. I have missed you."

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am so sorry that I have not been here. This is where I have needed to be the most."

Jesus: "Erin, never forget your first love."

He reached for my hand as smiled and laughed. He walked me to one of the trees with fruit, wherein there are several of these trees in Heaven at various places. At first I thought that there was only one tree, but right outside the City where the Saints arrive is the River of Life along with rows of these trees. There are regular trees with fruit too wherein these all replenish an instant after a fruit is picked.

Jesus: "Erin, you are thinking." I was laughing and so was He.

Me: "Yes. I was just curious about the location of these trees. I notice they are by the River of Life and the off-shoots of the river."

Jesus: "Well, it would stand to reason that the Tree of Life would always be close to the River of Life. Both work together."

Me: "I notice that it is so beautiful here. I never noticed the large boulder you rest on before."

There were indentations like seating was carved in them. If I could relate it to a stone on Earth, it was like a granite slab called 'Bianco Antico'. It was white with veins of silver bronze and some platinum garnets.

Me: "Lord, this rock seems alive the closer I look and is really beautiful".

He handed me a piece of fruit and I took a bite. It tasted like watermelon and peach with apricot. Wow, it tasted amazing and I had a biggest grin. He was watching me with delight as He knew I would be fascinated with this.

Jesus: "This is good, right?"

Me: "Lord, how do You create all of this? How do You always know me? You introduce me to things up here that I did not even notice were an amplified version of all things good on Earth such as the grapes, the soil and the fruit?"

Jesus: "The difference is that before the fall of Earth the Garden on Earth was beautiful, abundant and perfect. Remember to study the things from the beginning before death. This spot on the Earth was formed by God.

"However, when the sin occurred and Adam and Eve were cast out, they lost their access to the small portion of Heaven on Earth. They lost their ability to eat from the Tree of Life and bathe in the River of Life.

"Slowly, after this, the Earth began to decay. The clock, or sundial, began the reversal of abundant life. With each tick of the clock and each second, there was more death, decay and sickness.

"Here in Heaven, this is nothing like Earth. I am only showing you things that have relationship to things on Earth. Earth is a small shadow of Heaven, and a poor one at that. You know this.

"Your life on Earth is becoming more difficult because you have seen more and more here. Your dreams and visions that I have granted you have ruined you for the Earth. You have been avoiding Me and finishing this dream."

Me: "Lord, I have? This is my favorite part of the dreams. My time with You in Heaven is my most joyous time. Why would I do this?"

Jesus: "It is simple. You long to be here. There are no words to accurately describe what you have seen. However, you still have a burden to share and relay this to your friends so they too are encouraged. You have been assigned to journalism and this was never your plan"

He laughed. I laughed with Him as really I do not like writing at all.

Me: "I really need classes in basic grammar and punctuation."

Jesus: "You are exactly the right selection, Erin. If just grammar and punctuation are later corrected, then the content still remains unchanged, understand? If you begin to think about those things, you will miss the very essence of Me. Continue. If I wanted a scholar, I would call one to service, okay? Now, you have been attacked during this time, correct?"

Me: "Yes. July has been a brutal month. I believed that it was a gentle reminder to get back to my first love."

I laughed, bowed and curtsied to Him. He laughed.

Jesus: "Erin, do you understand the complete patterns of the dreams, the stories, the sequences and why I would do all of this now?"

Me: "I believe the timing is because we are just moments from something that will change mankind. I believe You are coming soon."

Jesus: "I have spoken to others not near you, but in different circles, cultures and countries. There are patterns. The timing is based on a time coming where your focus needs to be Me and here. There have been things in place from the beginning. This is all in your Field Guide, the Word of Truth.

"Remember, Israel is the gauge and the sundial. You have been given the information in advance. Some information is as clear as crystal. Other information is hidden and waiting to be revealed. However, all the information is there. The dreams are a mystery, but there are some things that you have skipped.”

Me: “Lord, I was thinking of one the other day that coordinated with Ephraim. I saw the parking lot that was formed over the spot of the Temple. You showed me that, at one point, this was a potter’s field or dump site. I then heard the land was purchased.

“The other thing I saw in a dream was some measurements from the City of Jerusalem. Though I am no surveyor, there is something to this, but I don’t understand it. There were things in the night sky that I didn’t understand. What about the shipwreck and the significance of the number there?”

Jesus: “Are you now asking for help? You have been asking for Me to reveal the three, yet only one came and left. What were you looking for?”

Me: “Lord, as You know, I am no scholar. Please use what we have been given to reveal things to us. Better yet, You can just tell me and then we can know.”

Jesus: “Erin, there is a reason for ‘a village’. Many people have skills that can help. You must learn to work together. What is there is good, but there is still more. You must recognize help when it comes.

“Wisdom also comes with experience. Too often, villagers want tickled ears daily instead. Sometimes, there are treasures buried in the field. There is a lot of information you have been given in these visits. What would you like?”

Me: “Well, if I have a problem with plumbing, I call a plumber. If I have a pest, I call on an exterminator. If I can’t figure electrical on a plan, then I phone an electrician.”

Jesus: “Finally, good, Erin. So you would like some help with surveying and perhaps Jewish history, archeology and sites? Perhaps astronomy as well?”

Me: “Is there a way You can send help if You won’t reveal it directly?”

Jesus: “Erin, there is a reason I do this. It is for your benefit as well as others. This is good confirmation. Through scholars, you can gain revelation, but revelation, as you know, all comes from the Holy Spirit. It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out. All you need to do is ask.”

Me: “Lord, I am asking now for help. Please, Lord, if You are truly coming soon, then open the flood gates and pour out the knowledge that we seek so that we may understand and be encouraged.”

He waved for me to take another bite of the fruit. I began to laugh. I did and the fruit was wonderful.

Jesus: “Now, we established that you would like more help. You are going to go back and look for treasure buried in your field. You are going to ask Me when you need help, right?" I nod 'yes'. "Very good, Erin. Then what else am I missing here?"

He was clearly waiting for me to ask.

Me: "You were showing me Heaven."

Jesus: "Yes, your place." He began to laugh.

Me: "I love You so much, Lord. You are so amazing. I am so honored that You would love me so much. You should have been angry with me last time and burned me right up. Instead, You chase me." I began to cry.

Jesus: "Many people do not realize that My Word is based on love; the love for hearts. God looks at the heart. The story of your life is written on your heart and it is a love letter to Me as sure as you stand here today. Do not forget about the heart.

Make no mistake, the Earth could have been destroyed at any given moment, just like Sodom and Gomorrah, but this has not happened yet. People that do not follow Me, and even some who do, believe I am a punisher; a scary, cruel Savior just waiting in the shadows for one false move or sin, then you are erased."

I was laughing and shaking my head.

Me: "Lord, I once thought You were like this."

Jesus: "Yes. If this were My character, you would have been gone a long time ago." We both laughed as He was right. "The enemy is the counterfeit who teaches that good is bad and bad is good, understand? Do not be fooled. However, many will based on their lack of understanding of My love. Do you understand why you are here?"

Me: "No, Lord, not fully. I look around, I see You and then You welcome me even when You should be rebuking me. You do not give up on me when I believe others would. I am used to conditional love. I first learned about unconditional love from the Bible.

"The Holy Spirit would, and does, illuminate the love letter of Scripture so that I will receive it. With You staying with me and revealing the Scriptures in 'almost live' application, it is as if You have given me an advanced holographic experience of You completely.

"I have all the experiences of a fantastic movie, but this is real to me. My body responds and even my pacemaker responds in registered beats. I wish that there was, or is, a way my friends could experience You like I do, Lord. It is a miracle. I am hooked on You and the living Bible like my sons enjoy video games."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, Heaven is so much more advanced than Earth. You cannot even speak of Heavenly technology as it is beyond remote controls, cellular towers and hubs. There is no need for a satellite.

"Technically speaking, the 'satellite center' is the Throne of God. All currents come from it via the River of Life. The currents feed all you see here. There is no need for batteries as nothing ever dies. Last time, I took your hand and we were at the pool. Come here."

I walk over to Him. He grabs my hand and squeezes it gently. In a twinkling of an eye, I am standing on a beautiful cobble path with chiseled jasper stones. There are channels of water flowing on the walls surrounding the path.

There are incredible ivy plants with blooming fragrant flowers pouring off of these walls. I stand in front of a beautiful modern mansion cut into the side of this mountain. I look back and I see the Valley below us.

Jesus: "Erin, look where we just were."

He points to a distant ridge so far away that, with human eyes, I could not see that far. The path meanders back and forth in switchbacks up this mountain. Midway up, I see a garden with a pond. I begin to cry.

Me: "Lord, I have seen this in my dreams. This is my mountain Home."

Jesus: "Yes, very good. The workers are almost finished. Come."

He takes me to the top of the path. There are a series of bowls that pour water into the channels on either side of the path. The sound is amazing and I am in tears. He walks me up some chiseled stone stairs. They were like gold and white limestone, yet with the appearance of concrete, but deeper.

Before me is the most amazing Home, a Home way too wonderful for me. I am crying as I write. The front yard has beautiful grass and is groomed so perfectly that it would be unmatched on Earth.

I have worked on mansions in several areas of the country and I have seen incredible homes designed by the top residential architects in the world, but I have never seen anything like this.

The windows are facing the valley. They look like they are cut from the finest crystal goblets, like Riedel or Baccarat. Here I am, talking windows in Heaven! I see the base of the Home, or foundation, and it is made from a solid rock. I see beams that on Earth would be steel, but, here in Heaven, they are burnished bronze. My jaw dropped.

Jesus: "Erin, do you like what you see?" He knew I did.

Me: "Lord, what do You mean by the workers are almost finished? Could You not wave Your hand and have this complete in an instant?"

Jesus: "Of course, but what does this do for the workers? There are people that have requested to serve on the completion of your Home in the mountain. They love to serve. If I were to have you here today, told you that I need you to work with a team on a mansion with no budget and that the only restriction would be to capture the essence of the person or client who is to occupy it, would you not do this?"

Me: "Oh, how fun. Yes, I would love to. I saw some shops in the City with all kinds of things..."

He was laughing at my excitement.

Jesus: "Erin, the workers on your Home are those who have been given the files from the 'records office'. There have been angels assigned to each of you who record all that you like from the beginning. The records are formulated and then a unique design team is assembled consisting of architects, designers, landscapers, framers, masons, carpenters and seamstresses.

"Oh yes, let's not forget the artists. This team is assembled by Me. Every time you worked on a project that you loved, every time you saw something that made you smile and every dream on Earth that wasn't realized; all came into this great design.

"Erin, this is just your mountain Home. So, from what you see so far, what do you think about the faith in earthly technology?"

Me: "This doesn't compare. It is impossible. It is too wonderful for me. Can I see more?"

Jesus: "You need to have some surprises when you get here."

He was kidding with me. He walked me along some chiseled, large, cut, flat rocks that came out of a shallow pond. We walked from step to step. There were beautiful little shimmering fish that jumped out of the water to praise Jesus as we walked. It was fascinating. We came to a spot where there were two massive water walls going into the pond. The sound was so beautiful.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, look up."

Above me were some glass windows. Jesus waved His hands and the glass seemed to disappear. He grabbed my hand and we were instantly on the second floor of this mansion, MY mansion!! I still find it hard to believe and call it this.

We were now standing in 'my' living room. There was a bridge that went from one space in the House to another part of the House which crossed over the water walls below. I vaguely remembered seeing a home like this on Earth once and it was incredible.

Me: "Lord..." I could barely speak. I was holding my breath and tears were streaming. "This is like a home I saw once, but You waved Your hands and the glass disappeared. This is similar to a 'nana wall' on Earth, but easily a hundred generations ahead of it in the future."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, I know. Do you know why I put them on this side specifically?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "You have loved the sound of water since you were a toddler. This is so you can hear it upon the entrance to your Home and while you are inside too."

I was crying. How did He know this? I looked around the space and I held my breath. The furniture was just like Kreiss, but custom. I saw before me a sectional that looked just like the 'Kreiss Azul Collection'. Wow, this is so expensive.

Me: "Lord, I see things here that I have specified for clients. Was I coveting, Lord?"

Jesus: "No. You no longer covet, especially the last five years since your first experience of Heaven. When you remarked how pretty something is, you never went further in your thoughts because it was no longer worth the cost. You traded the pursuit of these things for the pursuit of Me and Heaven. Because of this, I rewarded you. Now, go sit in this."

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, it is like sitting in a cloud. This is finer than 'Kriess', and even finer than 'Scalamandre'. The fabric is fine silk chenille and white. How can I own white furniture?"

I am laughing and crying at the same time. I looked at the detail in the seams; such finery. I felt that this was way too wonderful for me. The floor was made from extremely large planks of wood from a very old and tall tree, or trees. These were hand scraped and fit so perfectly, beyond 'Owen' and beyond handmade from the Amish. The wood had so much depth. Incredible!

Me: "Lord, the floor is incredible. What is the story on this?"

Jesus: "This floor is very unique and very special. The design team in Heaven knew you would appreciate it. I call these pieces of wood, 'Pages from My Life on Earth'. As you recall, I am a carpenter." I had actually forgotten. "This flooring is requested by many saints here. You will enjoy this."

"There is memory wood here. There are pieces of wood made from trees since the inception of the Garden on Earth, but in Heavenly terms. So, over here is a plank from the Ark. Over here is a cedar plank from the First Temple. Over here is a piece of olive from Gethsemane. Here is a plank from the House of David.

"These were destroyed on Earth and much burned, but the good memories were salvaged. There are things here that you will discover over time, but look how beautiful it is."

Me: "Lord, how is there enough wood to put in everyone's Homes here?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, on Earth, there were whole forests destroyed over time. Do the math. Surely there will be plenty in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I love this floor. What is the wood species?"

Jesus: "Well, let's see; we have acacia, olive, myrtle, cedar and oak. All of these are mentioned in the Bible. This is just one of the fun items that you will enjoy here. Look, Erin."

I turned and, right before me, was a wall of windows to the back yard. He waved His hands and the windows retracted into the walls. The glass was seamless and impossible on Earth.

The backyard was perfectly groomed. The patio was made of white rock, like limestone and marble, but had no veins and no high polish. It was natural and consisted of very large pavers, like eight feet by twelve feet bricks. This would be virtually impossible on Earth without complex machinery.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, the floor of this patio would be impossible to replicate on Earth. What quarry made this? Oops, sorry, Lord, we are in Heaven and God is the Creator. This is just beyond my understanding. How will this be possible that I will be walking on something this amazing for eternity?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, these are really small things in Heaven that have an earthly concept that you can understand. There is much more. It doesn't just stop here."

Me: "Lord, here I see You in everything. Even serving others is joyful. I didn't slave to work here, yet You have given me a beautiful place, far beyond my idea of what I would deserve. I am so blessed. How can I be this blessed? I will have no choice but to desire praising You constantly here. Since worship is so incredible here, I know that I will constantly praise You."

He smiles and shows me the rest of the area in the back. The grounds are very large. I am not sure how many acres the grounds are, but very large. Coming outside, there is a very long channeled pool about eight feet wide and thirty feet long. Inside, the walls are lined in, what looks like, a cut sapphire. There are fountains springing up in a line all the way down. Every five feet there are about six or seven fountains. Each fountain springs light green 'emerald' water that shimmers.

There are curved jasper and marble lounging chairs in the pool where you can sit half immersed in the water. There is beautiful patio furniture seemingly of masculine black iron. This had thick cushions of dark gold on it that match the rugged, yet still pristine, exterior of the Home.

I look to the side. There, I began to turn around in 180 degrees. The Home wraps around the courtyard. I look to my right and I see an opening where there is the most comfortable bed.

Me: "Lord, is there sleep in Heaven? Why would we need sleep?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Is Heaven not a place of rest and relaxation? Where are you thinking you will spend all of your resting time; eating rejuvenating fruit and bathing in the River of Life? Is rest not good on Earth? Would it not be even better here?"

Me: "I guess? I assumed that, since there is no darkness, we would need no sleep."

Jesus: "I understand, but there is more to this. I know this seems odd, but remember the most restful sleep you ever had?"

Me: "I can barely remember that. I am not sure I have ever really experienced that. I know that, when I sleep without pain, it is hard to wake up."

Jesus: "Think of Heaven as a place where you lack nothing. On Earth, Erin, there is lack and you lack sleep right? You do not sleep in peace. Here, you rest in peace and joy after a satisfying day of service. You then wake, fully rested, glad to wake up and in complete praise, for the Lord is good. When you first have rest here, it will not be an easy concept to understand, but it is also a form of worship."

Me: "I guess I could see people arguing this, but, to me, it makes perfect sense. Lord, I would love to sleep in perfect peace like a baby. I would love to sleep and have no pain upon rising. How glorious, really. The bedroom is so beautiful and I can sleep with open walls. I can hear the sound of the fountains! "

Jesus: "Now come this way."

In the distance, I could see the side of the mountain. There is a large pool with a waterfall coming out of the side of the mountain. The pool is completely illuminated. Surrounding the pool is a large bunch of aspens seemingly forming an arch. The leaves are moving in the breeze and music is coming from them. It is quite breathtaking.

Jesus turns me around and there I see an area where fountains are squirting out from the ground and making large arches about twelve feet high and seven feet wide. Each fountain is illuminated.

Beyond that is the pool and house. Over to my left is a large cabana with a retractable ceiling and a very large chair, almost like a bed. There are pillows everywhere. There are incredible pulley fans; large curved leaves that are attached to the sides of the walls that fan back and forth. I smiled and laughed. I had specified something like this, but not as elaborate, with a client years ago. The fans are made by a company called 'Fanimation'.

Me: "Lord, I cannot believe how amazing this is. How do I deserve a home that, in earthly terms, is priceless?" He smiled at me as I said this with such joy in His face.

Jesus: "Erin it is because you are priceless to Me. Someday, very soon, you will see your friend's Mansions; one they have requested that you design, so they are waiting to have their Home completed until you all arrive."

I was crying. I could not believe someone would wait for me to be here first.

Jesus: "Erin, look over here."

I saw the Home next to mine. It was a beautiful 'Mediterranean style' sitting by the lake. It was incredible. I had worked on a 14,000 sq. ft. home on the river in Portland that is 'Mediterranean', but certainly nothing like this. This was absolutely incredible.

Me: "Which friend is this?"

Jesus: "You will know soon enough. Oh, and do not worry about the friends who are waiting for you. They have another Home. There is no negative waiting or unfinished mansions leaving the client 'out in the cold'. No such thing as construction delays."

He was laughing. I laughed so hard because this is the nature of the home building business. No delays are simply unheard of on Earth.

Jesus: "Are you happy and encouraged?"

Me: "Lord, it was a small concept before and something in my dreams. I thought it was, perhaps, a product of my over amplified imagination. However, this, Lord, this is not even close to what I imagined. I am so blessed."

Jesus: "Erin, you need to know that your pain and suffering here and your perseverance has a reward. You never owned a home on Earth. Do you know how many dreams for others you have helped facilitate on Earth? How many wealthy people have trusted you with their dreams?

"Yet, while doing all of this, you stood on the outside, knowing this was not likely for you on Earth? Do you think for a moment that I did not want to come right to you and show you the plans I have for you and to show you My love for you?"

Me: Crying. "Lord, I didn't require this. I never even could imagine this. I would still love You even if I had a small home here. This is so elaborate."

Jesus: "I have never forgotten you; not even once. I love showing this to you. I knew you would love this place. Here, you can have rest. Here, there is no mortgage to meet. Here, your debts have been paid. Here, you have no pain. Here, you have no punisher. You are safe with me in Heaven.

"Did I not tell you that you would have a nest near My Altar? I have longed to be able to fully show you what I have here for you. My favor will not be removed. Remember your place and where you reside, okay? Come."

He takes my hand. Immediately, we are at a very high place in Heaven. I see down over the property. It is huge and stunning. I see other properties with many amazing features. I am just in awe and shock. It is like Earth, but only all the good and wonderful things there that are incredible, then these are all perfected here.

Off in the east, I saw the beautiful City of Gold. I could see the Throne. The glory of the Throne reflected a 'Reidel' type crystal light at everyone's windows, flowing a beautiful spectrum of light into each Home.

Me: "The technology here is really incredible. It is so advanced. You are right about the Throne where God sits being even brighter than the sun. All life springs forth from God. Jesus, You are the creator of all things new. You love us so much."

As I look across the landscape, I see mountains, valleys, lakes, rivers, tropical areas and snow-capped mountains. Stunned, I look at something, but perhaps it is a mirage? If not a mirage, I believe that I am seeing a golf course! However, it is the most elaborate golf course I have ever seen. It looked so fun. I looked some more and I also see baseball and soccer fields."

Jesus: He is laughing. "So, you were thinking that Heaven doesn't have fishing, recreation and sports? Really?"

He then points to a large lake. On the lake were massive catamarans with sails. Each of these on Earth would be worth at least a million dollars. There appeared to be some sort of giant race happening. Wow, I could tell this was fun for everyone!

Me: "I guess we are so engrained with the teaching that leisure activities, such as these, are decadent and not part of Heaven. I was told by a person that supposedly traveled here that all children have to do for fun is spin in the air and play something like soccer.

"Honestly, from what they wrote, nothing seemed like that much fun in Heaven. I guess I expected to come and do nothing but worship and serve and that this was it and that was that."

Jesus: "Erin, think about what Heaven is and not what Heaven is not. There is not one person who is not now residing here that can claim they know Heaven. Look how many times you have been here. Can you claim to be an expert?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "What lines up more with the character of God; that you come here and find joy in slavery or that you find joy and praise God in all things here? So, you wanted to be a professional athlete at one point. Would it not be fun to finally have that hole in one?"

"Can you not enjoy dance or music here? Can you not enjoy going to watch an orchestra or even a soccer game? Who told you that there was lack here? Oh yes, the one who was cast out and perhaps just a 'little' bitter about that." He laughed. "Now, do you believe the punisher or the Lover of your soul on this; the One who delights in My daughter's complete joy over the place I have prepared for her?"

I was crying. I reached over and hugged Him.

Me: "Lord, I know You are coming soon. My Mansion is perfect now and that furniture I saw is current to 'now' time. We are coming Home very soon, right?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am finishing your Mansion. If I have prepared a place for you, why would I put dated items in something you will not dwell in for some years to come? Again, think about this. When you prayed over the dying man in 2003, what did the Holy Spirit say to the man who was hours from going Home?"

Me: I began to cry. "You spoke, through me, the following, 'The finishing touches are almost complete. The angels are hanging your porch swing right now.'"

Jesus: "Then what happened?"

Me: "Apparently, he had prayed to You for this since he was a little boy. He, and everyone in the room, knew You were speaking, not me."

Jesus: "When did the man go Home?"

Me: "I believe he was gone that very day. However, I am not ready yet." I laughed.

Jesus: "I gave you this as a gauge to be on alert because you never know when the final touches are being made. You never know, if you go to sleep tonight, if tomorrow is the day you wake up in My arms."

Me: "Thank You for this blessing, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you, Erin. I delight in you 'Sparrows' and I watch over them."

Erin: "Oh, thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "Now, be encouraged, be strong and have faith. I have prepared a place for you."

Dream over...

Tears, blessing...Erin

The Prophecies

Dream Excerpt from The Prophecies

The Prophecies – Dream Excerpt

Dreams from the Lord from December, 2014 to September, 2015

Prelude to “God, Uriel & the Number 50”

In these thirty three dreams that form this sixth book, Jesus started to ramp up the prophecy of things that will be seen both as we approach the Rapture and after the Rapture. These are frightening in a way, but yet awesome in that God reminds us that He foretold of all of this to remind us that He is in control. He constantly reminds us not to fear, but always look to Him, especially when we worry.

As I will mention in each of the excerpts, each of the seven books, with the eighth book in the works, have bits and pieces that work with each other. For example, though the residing theme in The Prophecies is, well, prophecy, the themes of the other dreams contained in The Invitation, The Blacksmith, The Mansions, The House of God, The Exodus and The Final Hour, as well as the Tribulation, all reside in each of these books including this one as the theme of The Prophecies sometimes appears in each of these as well.

While there is so much in this book about the Lord’s plans and how mysterious they remain, the following is a prophecy that includes the destruction of Palmyra several months prior to ISIS destroying it by blowing it up for no particular reason. While this is a fulfilled prophecy, it is noteworthy that so many detailed prophecies, all of which never contradict the Bible, are just sitting in this book waiting for you to discover them...

Dream 163 – God, Uriel & the Number 50

Received Wednesday, May 20, 2015

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You, thank You and praise You. Thank You for more time here. Thank You for my children and family. Thank You for our home and safe place. Thank You for our beating hearts. Please do not take me Home early and away from my family, Lord as it is too soon and we are finally enjoying peace.

I love You, Father, and I look to You fully now to provide for all of our needs. Please continue to show us Your love and favor.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I found myself walking on the path on God's Mountain towards the bench overlooking the peaceful valley. I stopped to take a drink of water from the split rock. I was thirsty so I drank deep of the bubbling spring.

As the water refreshed me, I turned and sat on the bench overlook. It was spring and everything was in full bloom. I put my head down into my hands to pray.

Me: "Thank You, Father, for all of this. This is such a joyful miracle."

I heard a choir of birds and saw what could be starlings create some incredible maneuvers in the sky. There were bands of swirling silver ribbons created by their movements and they were in complete union with not one bird 'off'. I laughed as I came up with "choreoGODraphy" as perhaps I had created a new word.

All of this, and even our very lives, are God's choreography as there is no other explanation but God. I watched the massive clouds of starlings fly toward the valley and the meadows or pastures.

I saw Jesus in the distance as He was leading a flock of sheep to the River of Life. He had His rod and staff that was really a herder's hook. It was a beautiful sight and reminded me about our lives in Psalm 23.

Me: "Father, I did not lead the best life and I fell short quite often. You had Jesus lead me often with thy rod and staff as I was unable to find my way without Him. I am so sorry for all of my mistakes. I am so sorry if satan was ever able to use me against others.

"I pray that Jesus will always be my Shepherd as only He can lead me to the water of the River of Life. He is my comforter and the wellspring in my heart. Then why do I fear? Why am I often afraid?"

Just then I saw Jesus turn and wave to me and I waved back as I cried. I saw Him turn and the sheep followed Him. In the distance was a gold shimmering field of wheat. He guided the herd to rest under a massive tree. At the base of this beautiful tree, I saw the sheep then lay down.

He then began to walk toward the wheat field as He looked up at me and waved again and I waved back. With the sun behind Him, the light created a white and gold corona around Him. It was as if I was seeing a live eclipse, but with Jesus.

I then saw His shepherd's hook turn into a sickle as He walked toward the wheat field. I saw a massive group of angels and field workers assist Him. Just then I felt a hand on my shoulder and it was the angel with the bow and arrow.

Me: "Angel, are you Uriel?"

Uriel: "Yes, Erin. God is requesting your presence. Please come with me."

Me: "Your wings are beautiful."

Uriel: "My appearance is of no significance, Erin, but thank you."

He had beautiful wings of crimson and gold. His armor was gold with a shimmer of crimson on top of this and I have never seen anything like it. He never said much to me and he even appeared frightening at times. I have seen Uriel before, but I barely remember the time before these last several times.

Uriel seemed to be the angel who took me to God's door every time I visited Him. I was excited to see God today as tears were streaming down my cheeks. I looked out over the forested area around us and it was remarkable.

These trees were larger than any tree on Earth. The floor surrounding the trees was filled with fragrant flowers of purple and blue. We arrived at the forestry board and there was a gold coin with the number '50' etched on it. I flipped the coin over and '50' was etched on the backside too.

I laughed and held it in my right hand as I noticed that there was a note with a beautiful pocket watch of gold next to it. The watch had Heavenly scroll work engraved on it and the face was pearl. Each of the twelve marks was a jewel of the Ephod, which is the same as the foundations of the golden City of God.

There were dials inside the main dial and it looked like a small version of God's Clock and Calendar. The little pocket watch was beautiful and exquisitely handcrafted by the best watch makers and artist of the world. In fact, it was divine in origin. I opened the Note:

Erin, remember it is I Who governs your steps, your heart is Mine.

Me: Crying. "Thank You, Father."

I felt Uriel's hand on my shoulder directing me to open the door. I felt for the key and reached for it. I felt warmth from my hand as I looked at all the items. I then saw the gold coin go into my hand. I then saw the pocket watch.

Me: "Oh, but it is so pretty, can I just keep it..." Just then the pocket watch disappeared. "Why did this disappear? It was so pretty!" I was disappointed.

Uriel: "Erin, what good is the watch if you have no understanding of that which you gaze upon. Is it better to hold the watch or have greater wisdom?"

Me: "Wisdom, of course."

Uriel: "Time to go into God's presence, Erin."

I reached for my key and opened the door and the light streaming in and was so bright. I felt Uriel lead me in as I dropped to my knees. I felt Uriel put salve into my eyes and heard a choir of at least a thousand angels singing.

One half of the angels sang, "Glory to God on High", while the other half sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy." It was sung in layers and was so beautiful that I raised my hands up and kept my head bowed as I felt my entire body respond to God's presence.

I felt warmth and healing as I took a deep breath and felt the pure air of Heaven fill my lungs. I looked at my hands and they were a beautiful golden glow. Suddenly I had no recollection of labored breath, but only of this divine oxygen filling my body.

I worshiped God along with the choir and thanked Him for my life and my family. I realized that my children were already now teenagers and that our life is but a breath. I continued for some time praising Him as the choir completed their song. However, I still heard quiet and beautiful humming from all the angels as God spoke to me.

God: "Erin, I am glad you came. Where have you been?"

Me: I knew He already knew. "Father, I have been busy giving things away. I am finally removing the articles which burden me. Then I became sick and I thought You were finished with me."

God: "No, Erin, I am not finished with you. What have you learned?"

Me: "Something new. I learned that all of the clothes, artifacts, trophies and memories merely represented a façade of a picture I wanted to paint of myself. When I wore these pretty clothes, they made me look more important than I felt.

"Now I have no need of any of this. Not only that, but all of the items I had really enjoyed were broken or damaged in our move, so even they no longer make me smile."

God: "So many worries, Erin, create walls to Me. Can I have all of these?"

Me: "Yes, and You can have all my other stuff too."

God: "I have no need of stuff." I heard a thunderous roll as the walls shook at God's laughter.

Me: "Yes, Father, as I know that there is nothing anyone can give You that You do not already own."

God: "No, Erin, this is not truth as I will not force hearts to Me. While I did not create things to take care of you nor did I create you to take care of things, the heart of the matter is in you as I created you for My purposes. It is the 'things' which get in the way. Besides 'things', the enemy works to keep you from Me."

Me: "I see the enemy at work daily and often times I fail and end up a victim to the enemy's schemes. Did the enemy cause the problem with my heart last week?"

God: "No, but he was allowed to bring to surface the underlying condition."

Me: "Father, that was scarier than before my pacemaker and I had fear."

God: "Yes, but you listened to wise instruction and removed yourself from this is a result."

Me: "So I would have died?"

God: "No, it was not your time, but you listened to My instructions and you were spared a much worse fate."

As a note here, I had an 'episode' at a local car wash. My air conditioner was not working in my car and at the same time my pacemaker was not keeping my normal heart rhythm. As a result of the heat in the car wash, my heart slowed and I became faint.

I knew that my heart was going to stop and I was fighting my desire to slump over. I knew the car wash would be at least another five minutes and that no one would find me in time to help me. I heard the voice of God tell me to push the accelerator and drive forward.

By God's grace, I got out of the car wash and somehow did not hurt any of their equipment. Somewhat humorously, the car was still covered with soap as I rolled down the windows for fresh air while some people came over to help.

Shortly thereafter, I went from there to the hospital. I thanked God that the front door was not down in the car wash. When I asked the attendant, they were at a loss as to why the front door was up as they usually always have the door in the front down.

Me: "Father, this really scared me and I thought about my kids and about all we have not done yet. I began to bargain with You."

God: "Yes, but something else."

Me: "I panicked and I did not have peace. I remembered the suffocating feeling of a breathing tube and arm restraints when doctors have control. I remembered the incredible amount of the bills from it and then the loss of my children if something were to happen. I knew that this could have caused me to be destitute."

God: "Your thoughts are many in a matter of seconds. You are here now, but you have not been carried Home. There is no other item which concerned you?"

Me: I was embarrassed. "I was concerned about all the mess I had at home as I am going through our things right now."

God: Laughing. "Erin, please do not worry as I am with you."

Me: "Father, then can I ask for something bold?"

God: "Yes, I will listen to your request."

Me: "I need help, Father, but I need healing also. Please help me to understand what was on the bulletin board."

God: Laughing. "Hmm, this is three requests. Erin, you delight Me. Now, healing and help are on the way, so do not worry. You are being gifted with an increase in knowledge as wisdom is greater than gold when it comes from Me.

"You have unlocked mysteries and discovered things in the Word which will breathe new life into you. I have provided for every need, Erin, so continue to give generously to those who are needy and whom I have sent.

"These items which once brought you a source of comfort have now become a burdensome stone. Heavy stones sink to the bottom of a riverbed, a gully at low tide and even a public pool and end up submerged in water. You and your children are to set sail and avoid the tempest."

Me: "I am confused as I thought the tempest passed us by?"

God: "Erin, it has just begun. I stir up the seas with My finger. Did you see Me calm the seas? Is there another who can calm them but Me?"

Me: "Jesus can, but apart from you, Father, He would not do this."

God: "He sees what I do and looks to Me and this is wisdom. You too must do the same and this is wisdom. Why do you think I have taken you on such a long journey?"

Me: "I am not sure, but maybe because You want me to be lacking no good thing. Maybe if You would have done everything at lightning speed, I would have not had a relationship with You. Father, I have grown to love You with my whole heart.

God: "I see your knowledge is increasing and you are being prepared for what is coming. You must be free to be fully able to fly like an eagle. This comes from letting go and letting Me take you. Then you will remain humble, but fully capable to be used to roar with the strength of a thousand young lions if need be.

"There can be no hindrance of the former things as the former things are to be forgotten. There are events coming which, even though they have been foretold, will still be catastrophic.

"You are being gifted with knowledge of time now and there will be an increase of understanding. Your dreams will be clearer, your life more defined and you will be unafraid."

Me: "Can I request this for my family, children and friends too?"

God: "Requests such as these are good, but these gifts are not received by all and you must understand walls. It is not by My Will, but their wall which keeps them from My gifts. Do you understand?"

"I am God and I will not give My gifts to those who serve other gods. This is why you have been instructed to remove your burdensome stones. The walls, although silent, were glaringly loud to Me."

Me: "Forgive me, Father, but it is hard in this world today to not be part of it in body and still focus on You."

God: "This is wisdom, Erin. You have been given a timeline in which to tear down these walls of Jericho. Now act. Do this and then you will have your war book finished. Your healing has begun. Continue on your course."

"The symbol of the coin and the number '50' represents your moving to the supernatural from the natural. This gift is greater than gold. In your 49th year you began, but then moved to your 50th year. You are in a new time of your years and will experience more from the Holy Spirit."

"Your revelation will increase and this too is greater than gold. Now understand this; you see the same patterns in the time of My Son on Earth. The honored men received a great gift, but along with this a great blessing and an earthly burden. Are you ready?"

Me: "Yes, Father, but I am a bit scared as I felt death's helpless sting last week. I pray for Your protection."

God: "Then it is done."

Me: "Father, I have a question...well several...but please help me with the studies in the Word you have given. Why the first five books and the last five books?"

God: "You have been taught about a select portion of Scripture where they left out many things. You are told to read not in part but in whole. For this time and the time to come, you must understand that the creation of all things began by My lips in just a breath. Then came instructions, mistakes and then the wilderness."

"However, after the wilderness came the Promised Land. The last books are the same. You have learned by the mistakes and that which is true, holy and just. These testify to your Savior and prepare you for what is to come."

Me: "So are we in the wilderness now?"

God: "Yes, but it is a far removed world than even two thousand years ago. Those who accepted My Son were given a gift of the ability to yield and be comforted by the Spirit, the still small voice. The written Word was not wide spread, so the voice of correction was a lamp to My laws.

"Now even with My Word widely available, very few understand. The spirit of confusion and the voice of reason have removed the miracles given by My Son. The promise to do even a greater work than He did on Earth was replaced with the seed of doubt and fear.

"The gentle voice of love and comfort was replaced by seeds of shame and slavery. My people no longer have understanding, so they have become comfortable sitting with Paul in prison. They read no further for inspiration."

Me: "So are you saying Paul was not good?"

God: "No, Erin, but Paul was not the Savior of men and he testifies like David and the others. This is to comfort men to learn from their mistakes or mishaps. They were appointed for this. This is why trials and tests are good as it is by these which testimonies are birthed and even churches.

"You are to focus on the Word of God. You are to see the patterns from the giving of the laws and instructions in the wilderness. Etch these on your heart and obey My voice and then you can enter the Promised Land. The beginning is the same as the end and I am the Alpha and Omega. It is written."

Me: "So help me in my limited understanding as there are keys and patterns in these particular books which will mirror our times now and to come?"

God: "Yes, Erin, but your understanding is not limited."

Me: "Father, I struggle. Why would a woman be given instructions when women should not be leading men? Women have caused men to fall. The enemy uses women."

God: "God uses women also. I now have added more to your reading, Erin. Look to the reasons why this was not allowed. Men are the Godhead over women and this is good, but you were created for this time, Erin. Had you written this a thousand years ago, you would have been burned at the stake. "Many men have been called, but not all accepted. You are not tempting men into an adulterous affair while tucked away in My quiver nor are you operating in seducing spirits while I am using you as an arrow. Men are easily led astray by flattering words and a lying tongue."

"Marriages are put asunder by the enemy to weaken My army of harvesters. You have been given your tests and trials repeatedly because you have learned to depend on Me. Those who have a broken heart and a contrite spirit are willing to do anything and everything that God asks of them.

"I despise this not, Erin, as I can use anyone I wish and who is willing. There should be no more on this matter. Do you believe I can give you any gift I choose?"

Me: "Father, please forgive me if I doubted Your choice as You are God and I am not. Yes, of course You can give anything you choose to anyone and at any given time."

God: "Then, Erin, receive what I give you when I give it to you for the sake of My glory and not yours."

Me: "Yes, Father."

God: "Erin, I gave you a vision more than a time ago in which you drew a picture. Do you remember this?"

Me: Just then, the sketch downloaded. Laughing. "Yes, I remember this."

God: "Release this as the enemy is about to take this land now. This is a marker."

Me: "Is this not Petra, Father?"

God: "You were told this by men and not by Me. Erin, did I say that this is Petra?"

Me: "No, Father, You did not."

God: "Then hear Me, look to Me, wait on Me and watch for Me first and not on your behalf. Then when I say 'now', then obey." He said this with such authority.

Me: "God, My Father, I am scared. Can I make a request of You?"

God: "Proceed, Erin."

Me: "Can You make Your instructions so loud and clear that there can be no enemy's voice to confuse me?"

God: "Yes, Erin, as this is a good request. Please do not worry as I am with you. Do not be afraid for I am God, Your Father."

Me: Crying. "You are glorious. Thank You for the wilderness. I can see our Promised Land. I cannot wait to enter in, but I know to not move ahead of You. When men moved in advance of Your leading, they perished. I love You, Father.

"Please bless us and bless the work of our hands. May we bring You all the glory in everything we do. May we always be thankful and testify of Your great mercy and gracious heart for You are the greatest gift. I love You."

I felt an interesting warmth which was fluid coursing through my veins and resting on my heart. It was the divine love of God going through me to the tabernacle of my beating heart. I felt alive in my glorified body as if even this was divinely upgraded. I wept as I thought how nothing is impossible with God.

God: "Erin, you are loved. I have something coming to you so please receive this. I will see you again."

The angel, Uriel, brought me to my feet and through the door by the forestry board.

Me: "Uriel, why are these last books of the Bible so important?"

Uriel: "They contain confirmations of the time you are in. The deeper you pray on these Words, the more the Lord illuminates His instructions. Erin, you saw the Lord lead the sheep to water and then He led them to rest under the tree. They obeyed Him as their Shepherd. Then He went to the field aided by workers.

"Remember to obey the Lord. The Laws and Commandments of God should always bring comfort and joy. These were not created for man to lack good things. This is for those deserving more of God.

"Those who are content with the wilderness will not enter in to the Promised Land. The time is like the days of Noah and the time will be like Sodom and Gomorrah. The sheep trust and obey the Shepherd and the sheep lack no good thing."

"The works of the Lord are your lamp. The testimony of those who were baptized by fire and stood through their trials were given revelation. They came through the fire refined and their instructions are the final path to the Promised Land.

"Your life is written on the tablet of your human heart and the Holy Spirit lives in you. Our Lord writes on your tablet of the heart. Therefore live as a testimony to Him. Find comfort in His staff and then He leads you. Do not fear."

Me: "Thank you."

Uriel: "Be careful to obey God and His instructions. When you are in need, call out to Him. However, when you do, just know that before you utter one word, He has already commanded angels concerning you.

Dream over...

Dream 001 - The Beginning

Sunday, September 30, 2012

08-05-2016, 10:59 AM

The Beginning

The Lord has taken me on a long journey with these dreams. As the dreams progress, Jesus shows me more and more details and unlocks complex mysteries. This did not happen suddenly, but rather over a course of many years; now seven books and counting, of which this is the very first book.

These dreams only become more wondrous and God's glory reveals more and more as the books continue. While each dream is independent of each other, they are also interlocked and relate to previous concepts from earlier dreams. I am sure you will enjoy the journey from start to never ending conclusion as much as I did.

Thank you so much for taking this time to read these dreams. May you be as greatly blessed by these dreams and books as I have!

This very first dream was at the earliest stage of this progression. While I did not know how these dreams would progress when I started on this journey with Jesus, they have flourished and in abundance, and I am ever thankful to Him for His gift of these dreams.

As you are reading these dreams, you will notice that I will often switch between past tense and future tense, sometimes even in the same paragraph. This is not an accident, but rather reflects the unique nature of the visions and dreams as I write them. Sometimes I write what I am seeing as I see it and other times I am nudged to write what I am seeing after I have seen it. So when this happens, try your best to ignore it.

As you read and study these books, and even in this first book, you will notice that the content is ever expanding in scope and wonder. However, it had to start somewhere and, in this case, it all started with "The Invitation"...

Dream 1 - The Beginning

Received Sunday, September 30, 2012

(Formerly known as Path 1)

After severe trials over the last six weeks and heavy spiritual warfare, unlike anything I had encountered in my walk, I was now emptied. I started to get downloads of Scriptures: Psalm 91, Jeremiah 29:10-12, Psalm 29 and, finally, Isaiah 54.

I wrote these down, but I did not review them until after I received this Word. I started off by crying out to Jesus and He answered.

In looking back now, this dream would turn out to be the only dream where I did not engage in the most amazing of conversations. For this dream only, He talked and I was eager just to listen to His beautiful voice speak to me and, through me, to all of you.

Me: "Help, Jesus!"

Jesus: "Erin, I recognize all that you are going through and I see it. There is nothing for you to do but hold fast and wait on Me. I am in this with you. There will be a breaking of the dawn. Many things have come against you and you have done nothing to bring these about. I know you are upset and discouraged.

"I fashion the tools that the blacksmith uses. All these events in your life had, and have, a purpose. Wait and pray. Focus on Me and let Me carry you. Can the wounded in battle carry themselves to safety? I require nothing of you except your continued love and hope of Me.

"Your watching brings so much joy to Me. It makes Me so happy to know that, in all of the darkness here, My watchers shine like beacons in the storm. Every watcher shines a light like a lantern. If only more lamps were shining. Many have gone to sleep now, but I know the special hearts of those who look for Me.

"For those with this special hope, I will pour out My blessing of breakthrough angels over all of you. There will be an outpouring of peace and a barrier from the enemy that will keep you safe, even during your trials as they continue. There will be no more doubt.

“There will be nothing you can do, at this point, but wait and see what I will do. ‘For I am about to do something in your days that you would not believe even if you were told.’

“Even the enemy’s elect, the friends of the destroyer, have declared that I am coming. I will not delay, but will come as promised in My Own perfect timing. However, I will not allow the one who seeks to destroy My Creation to dictate or mandate My timing.

“My Word contains knowledge. The Holy Spirit will be your messenger and the destroyer cannot squelch Him. Seek Me and you will be found by Me. Create time in the chaos to hear My still voice. When you quiet yourselves, I will roar with clarity.

“Erin, do not be dismayed. I will not allow My precious Bride to be stained. Take heart and keep watching for Me. See what I am about to do. You are My joy and My Spirit is within you. I love those who love Me and You are one of My children.”

Dream 002 – Five Angels, Five Boxes

Sunday, October 7, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:05 AM

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I saw a ladder leading up to the sky. It was in a wheat field. I climbed the ladder and it appeared to go on forever. An angel helped me at the top by reaching for my hand. I was in a different landscape than anything I had ever seen before. This was so beautiful, it is hard to describe.

Jesus greeted me and I was so happy to see Him. He turned my attention and showed me that there were five angels that He has appointed to me. All five of the angels were kneeling before Him. Each angel had a box in front of them.

Me: "Lord, what do these five boxes mean?"

Jesus directed my attention to the first box. It contained a large beryl stone without facets. The stone was about twelve inches long and six inches in diameter. Jesus picked up the box and, within the blink of an eye, the beryl stone changed into a perfectly faceted emerald.

Jesus: "This is what I have completed in your life and your quest for Me."

Me: Crying. "Thank You."

He then pointed to the second box. It contained a very large heart made of gold.

Jesus: "This represents your heart and Mine together. My heart is within you."

Me: "Thank You. I am overwhelmed."

He then pointed to the third box. It contained a satchel of pure gold.

Jesus: "You are broke now, but you will receive the wealth of nations in eternity, along with all of My other followers."

Me: "Oh, Thank You, Lord."

He then pointed to the fourth box. It contained a dove made of glistening gold with silver wings. I recognized this from Psalm 68.

Jesus: "This represents the special gifts that I have for you to be uncovered here when you are Home."

Me: I could barely speak. "Thank You."

He then pointed to the fifth box. It contained a beautiful jasmine flower. The smell was so wonderful and the blossom was absolutely beautiful.

Jesus: "Your fragrance is pleasing to Me. I am proud of you; so very proud. This is your Jubilee year. I declared this on your birthday. All of your debts will be forgiven and I will bless you with the autumn rains.

"There is no dowry needed for the wedding ceremony. I paid the price for you. I am coming. Please remain joyful in your short time here. Seek Me every day and, as in My Word, I will be found by you. You are being prepared for your journey. Take heart."

Me: "Father, why can I not know the date of Your coming?"

I was afraid that perhaps I had angered Him with my question. He felt this and held me with love as He spoke sternly, but in a loving voice.

Jesus: "This is out of love for you. If I were to tell you the date of My coming, you would be subject to severe persecution. Too many would fall away and you would stop living."

I could tell, as Jesus shook His head, that He was seeing what would be if He told me this date.

Jesus: "If I told you, your joy would be gone and you would come to Me battered. This is the way I have chosen. This is best for the elect. Continue watching Israel and be in My Word. Be patient as I will not delay, but will come at the appointed time.

"You will read the signs and will be prompted by the Holy Spirit, the Messenger. It will be made clear at the appointed time. Further, do not be dismayed. Take courage. I am coming for My Bride and will not tarry. I love you and, soon, you will understand even more how much I love you."

He then waved the angels to escort me back to the Portal. Two of the angels went before me and three after me.

Dream over...

Dream 003 – The Wheat Harvest

Saturday, October 20, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:10 AM

Dream begins...

I was in a wheat field again. There was a ladder going up to the Portal. I was really excited because I was anticipating my visit with the Lord. This time, the wheat field had changed.

The wheat was cut and in rows. The stalks were gone and there was dirt everywhere. I saw workers loading the rolls of wheat onto trucks. I overheard one of them speaking to another.

Worker: "When does the burning begin?"

Other worker: "As soon as we get word and the wind dies down."

I began to climb the ladder. This time when I looked out I saw a film of soot in the sky hovering over a small city. It almost seemed like a cloak, but perhaps it was smoke. At the top of the Portal, two angels greeted me. They knew my name and smiled at me. The angels were beautiful.

I then saw Jesus sitting on a rock with His arms stretched out, as if He had been expecting me. Tears started to form in my eyes. As in prior visits with Him, I suddenly realized that I was a toddler.

As I walked towards Him, my legs were beginning to give out, as if I was just learning to walk and was losing my balance. I began to weep.

He gathered me up in His arms. He laughed when I went to touch His arm to see if He was as strong as He looked. I knew that He was. He held me and I cried.

Me: "Hayah, when?"

At the time, I had absolutely no idea why I called Him 'Hayah' or even where this term came from. Much later, I would find out that 'Hayah' means 'I AM' in Hebrew.

Jesus: "Remember what I told you before? Continue to watch. The signs are in place. You are now close to the time of the harvest."

He sensed that I wanted to urgently do something to get more people to be saved. He read my thoughts.

Jesus: "Erin, there is nothing more to do. Now live, be in fellowship with each other, be in joy and laughter and become contagious in love.

"Now, if you knew which day I was to come, that the harvest was over, that the wheat would be winnowed and prepared to make bread and that the wine would finally be in blossom to drink, then how would you spend your remaining time?

"Erin, if you knew all things were ready and in place for the celebration and the only thing that was required of you was to be willing to partake, how would you spend your remaining time?"

Me: "I guess I would relax and look forward, in anticipation, to the big event."

Jesus: He smiled and nodded approvingly. "Yes, that is right."

Then He continued with His instructions and sternly reminded me that it was all under His control.

Jesus: "Spend time in worship, praise and love. Spend time in fellowship, love your neighbors and love those who hate you for My sake. This way, when the day comes, you will enjoy it with peace knowing that I am the Groom and that My Father has sent Me to come for My Bride.

"The wedding will take place and is on schedule." He then placed my arms in front of Him. "Heaven is ready. My Father has prepared all of the festivities and you are to take nothing for the journey. Remember, I require no dowry, just your hearts, the hearts that I have prepared in advance for when this day arrives."

I wept with joy as He held me. I looked for the details in His features from my previous visits with Him. They were all the same as I remembered of Him. I did not want to leave.

He waved to my angel escorts. He gave me a long, gentle hug and told me He loves us. As I was leaving, I looked back and He spoke again.

Jesus: "Remember, watch and pray for Israel. I have something for you in Psalm 29 and Isaiah 54. Look for it."

I waved at Him. Just as I was being helped down the ladder, it was as if I went through the Portal and, immediately, I woke up out of my sleep.

Dream 004 – All are imperfect

Sunday, October 21, 2012
08-05-2016, 11:35 AM

Dream begins...

The harvested wheat field, the ladder and the angels at the top of the ladder were all the same as in my last visit. Jesus was there again and looked so happy to see me. I was limping in pain and crying. He picked me up. I was once again a toddler.

He placed me gently on His lap. However, He seemed different today, as if He was not as burdened as He seemed to be before.

Jesus: "What is wrong?" He pretended to not know when of course He did.

Me: "Lord, You know what has been happening. Can You not remove it? You have shown me these gifts that You promised, sent angels and You have told me that You have granted me victory, yet I am still being attacked. Lord, show me how to receive so I may live in victory and blessing until You return for us."

He then showed me a large boulder. I could see through the boulder into the soil. There was a seed planted under it. The only way the sprout could come up to the light was to go around the boulder. The sprout was required to push through and receive life, or light, in order to grow.

Me: "So, if I understand this correctly, the 'obstacle' is the problem that is keeping me from living in this light, yes?"

Jesus: "Yes."

Me: "How can a weak sprout like me move the boulder?"

Jesus: "You cannot, but I can."

Me: "So I ask You to remove it, in Jesus' Name, since You are Jesus and everything."

He started laughing. We both laughed until I had tears in my eyes. After our laughter died down, He became more serious.

Jesus: "Give Me the rock and I will remove it."

He physically gave me the boulder, but now it was very small, and I handed it back to Him. He threw it over His right shoulder

Jesus: "Done. Erin, do you believe that I threw it?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I saw You throw it."

Then He looked at me with those beautiful, jasper blue eyes. I could see myself in His eyes. I felt a cloud being lifted off of me, almost like a veil. He knew I could see it.

Me: "I love You."

Jesus: "Believe that you have received."

Me: "Lord, I do not feel worthy and I am certainly not perfect. I still sin."

Jesus: Looking in my eyes. "Erin, name just one perfect earthly being; can you?"

I was thinking really hard. There were some I thought were pretty close. Then He stopped my processing.

Jesus: "You won't find one, so stop."

He could also tell I was about to ask Him again how long until He comes for us. Immediately, He reached for my hands and instructed me.

Jesus: "Find joy and laughter. Be at peace knowing I will be there soon. You are My lambs. You are being called in from your pastures by the Shepherd. It is time to come into the fold. Come to Me, those who are weary and heavily burdened, and I will give you rest.

"The devourer will not remove any of you. Will I not leave to find even one lost sheep and gather that lamb to Me? I will not rest until My Word is fulfilled. Allow Me to carry you. Though ten thousand may fall at your side, I will protect all of you. Your children, I will protect.

"My only command for My sheep is to love one another, to be at peace with one another and to know how much the Shepherd loves His sheep. Together, comfort each other and encourage. Out of love for Me, do not fight amongst yourselves.

"Do not quarrel over foolishness or point fingers, but in all things forgive as I have forgiven you. Forgive! The prophecies are being fulfilled quickly. My Word is My Word and I do not tarry, but will come at the appointed time. There are no delays."

He then seemed to soften. His Words became softer as He knew I was suddenly worried that I had upset Him.

Jesus: "Find joy while it may be found here on this Earth. Spread love in My Name and help others so that, when you are all gone, you will be missed."

He kind of chuckled as if He knew we would be. He began to set me on the ground to send me off.

Jesus: "Your witness is the letter I have written on your hearts. Keep your lanterns burning and do not let the flames go out. Ready your house. I see all things and My angels are on duty at all times.

"There is nothing hidden and all is exposed. There is nothing more for you to do, just what I require of you until I come soon. Love through forgiveness and love in all things."

Dream over...

Dream 005 – The Lord’s Rewards

Saturday, November 3, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:43 AM

Dream begins...

Today there is no ladder. I was up at Jesus' feet. I was crying and interceding for the lost. I thanked Him for everything that I have been through. I thanked Him for my afflictions; yes, even my afflictions. I felt completely open with Him.

Me: "Lord, I am afraid."

Jesus: "Do not be."

Me: "Lord, I do not have understanding. I seek to know Your business so that I might have peace."

Jesus: "There is no peace in My business for you or any of the Lord's children. Be assured that My Father knows all things. He sent Me with the keys to release those who are imprisoned and ensnared on this Earth.

"If His Words, the signs and the prophecies being fulfilled are not enough for those who are faithful, then what good would it do to expose the Father's business at this time? What good would it do if you were to know, other than to ready your house?"

"By faith, you were redeemed and, by My blood covenant, you were made complete. Your paths have been made straight and your price has been paid. Rejoice and do good until that day when truth is revealed. What a joyful day this will be. Know that your Groom is coming for His Bride. I will say it again."

He seemed so serious and direct. I was in tears. I was afraid, shaking and humbled. An army of angels is all around us. He then softened, realizing that I needed comfort and reassurance.

Jesus: "One day, the veil will be lifted off of My Bride's eyes and you will see it. You will have knowledge of things that were hidden for your own protection.

"Do you, as a parent, reveal everything to your young children? Of course not, for they have not the full capacity to receive understanding. They drink milk. Are you not glad the veil is there?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. I would not be able sit on the Father's Seat and see all of this."

Jesus: "Then be thankful. Pray for His Will to be done on Earth as it is in Heaven. Pray for His love; Israel. This is perfection and love is coming down now. It is time for the storehouses of snow to be opened and the time of mourning to begin.

"My wish, My prayer and My hope are that you find joy, continue to love and laugh and encourage each other. Be blessed."

Me: "Hayah, I am sorry if I have troubled You. We just need to have assurance that You are coming for us."

Jesus: Smiling and laughing. "Oh, I am coming. We are now coming up to the valley of decision. The valleys of Achor, Bacca and Beracah, along with the mountains, will soon be laid low. When you see these things, do not be afraid.

"Take peace that we are here. My angels are coming to the valley of decision; like rain, everyone will see it. I will ride on the clouds and come for My Bride. Everything else, from this point on, is rehearsal for the big event."

Me: "Hayah, is this to mean that You are coming in winter?"

He smiled at my question and lack of understanding.

Jesus: "Please have peace, take courage and be strong. Go to the Word and read about all of the others who, throughout history, faced uncertainty, destruction and death for the Father. Understand their road.

"Did they not endure out of faith for the Father and the Son? After affliction, joy comes in the morning. Did I not say to the thief, 'Today you will be with Me in Paradise.'? So it will be with you."

Me: "Lord, I am scared. I fear this day is very soon."

Jesus: He nodded in agreement. "My Father will send a wave of peace over His children. People will look and be amazed. The lost will have understanding, but then it will be too late. The anger of the fallen will be amplified and revealed.

"People will not even see it. Their veil of darkness will hide truth. The children of God held the truth and the light. The world will be void of truth.

Truth will be gone. The Church will be gone. You watchers for My return are My lanterns. You make the hearts of Heaven glad.

"You give joy to My heart. Oh, how I long to vindicate you. Oh, how I long to be with you. You are My love. Not one worry and not one concern have the Father not known. He knows everything, He designed you and His Spirit is in you.

"My heart is in your heart. All of Heaven is complete and ready to receive the Bride. There will be festivities. There will be wedding gifts that the Father has prepared for each and every one of you. There are even special gifts for those who have been faithful in watching and waiting in anticipation for this day.

"There will be so many caught off guard. However, you, who have eyes to see and ears to hear, who foretold and fore sought My coming and who took ridicule for my sake, will hold a special place here and a special recompense will come straight from the Father.

"Just as those that are persecuted for My sake will hold special honor and My elect will hold special honor, so will those who anticipate My coming hold special honor. All will see it, all will be fair and all will be perfect."

Me: "Lord, I am so excited, but I am also so tired and worn. My bones ache, my youth is fading, my heart..."

Jesus: He stopped me. "I know, Erin, I love you."

Me: "Lord, can I bargain for the lost? Can I bargain for my mom? From what I see around me, You are coming now. I am afraid."

Jesus: "I have given you the keys of knowledge to unlock the doors of understanding. Read and find comfort there. Above all else, get wisdom. What you ask for in My name, until My coming, you will be given. We are in the final hours.

"We ready ourselves for the final command of the Father; the Father Who sits on the Throne and is the Creator of all things, even the blacksmith. However, none of us knows the exact moment."

He placed His hands on my arms and looked right at me.

Jesus: "Read through your dreams and look at the speed, the elements, the quickness and the unfolding of the Word. From this, you can gauge as we have and even the fallen have. Because of this late hour, the enemy has come out in full force to dishearten all.

“Even some of God's children will be deceived, as if this were possible. Finally, ready yourselves and prepare your spiritual armor, for the Word is clear to cover your household and mark your threshold. You have been redeemed.

“Not one lamb will be lost. The Word will have new meaning to you and it will be fully illuminated with greater understanding. Scholars will say, ‘Why did I not see that before, it is right there?’, yet the smallest of children will see it. I love you, My Bride...” He hugged me. “...soon!”

Dream 006 – USA is in the Word

Tuesday, November 6, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:47 AM

Dream begins...

There was the ladder, but this time the atmosphere was freezing. There was fog and frozen ground. Clearly the harvest was now over.

A circle of light illuminated the ground at the base of the ladder. Again there were two angels at the top to greet me, but they were not as large as the angels from the last visit. They were beautiful.

Angel: "The Lord is on the Bema Seat today."

I saw Jesus in the distance. I ran full sprint toward Him. I noticed that He had wings and that they were spread out more than before. His hair shined like light gold, but it was longer this time. I cried out to Him.

Now, I must pause here and explain the whole concept of wings being on Jesus. While this is the first time I mention that He had wings on, this was not the first time I had seen them, but I was afraid to write about them.

When I wanted to not write about the wings this time, the Lord assured me that it was okay to do so and that I would find it right there in Scripture, hidden in plain sight. Sure enough, there it was, right there in the Bible and one of the scholars I talked to was actually surprised that I did not know this.

Now, in hindsight, quite a few of these earlier dreams have it where Jesus has wings, but, as everything is possible with Him, sometimes they are there and sometime they are not. It is always up to Him and depends on what He is trying to illustrate.

I found these wings fascinating, but after a while He rarely had His wings in later dreams. Now I suspect that, as we get closer to the Rapture, He will have these wings on again.

Me: "I am afraid for what is coming." I started to cry like a little child. "Lord, stay here as I do not want anything to happen to You. You are my Father. Please, just stay here with me."

I was pleading to Him with all of my heart. He smiled at me, chuckled slightly and simply held me in His arms. I loved Jesus so much that I could not bear the thought of Him suffering in a war, even though I instinctively knew He could not be harmed.

Jesus: "You know I must come for you, but do not worry as nothing will happen to Me. Erin, I know now how much you love Me and it warms My heart."

I looked around and noticed that almost a third of the army, along with the seven larger angels I had seen, were now gone. Not only that, but some of the more unusual angels were gone as well. Jesus could see I was searching for them.

Jesus: "They have gone to war."

Me: "Lord, I thought the war had already begun? I feel it."

Jesus: "Yes, you are correct. However, now Heaven is coming down and the Lord of hosts is coming down. This next portion must occur first. Then I will come, along with the rest, but not until then. The rest assist in bringing Home the children of the Lord.

"All is unfolding now. It will be a normal day for many, if not business as usual. For many others, it will be horrible. However, for My Bride, it will be glorious. Remember Israel."

Me: "What of America, my home? America is not spoken of in the Word."

Jesus: "Oh yes, it is there. When the Word was written, did you think certain nations and continents would be ignored? Of course not, it is right there in plain sight. The world is rebellious as is this generation.

"This land was the Father's originally and it was dedicated as a nation under My Father. It was, is still and always will be His land."

Then He suddenly became more serious, as if He was speaking in first person and as if He and God were the same. This was a mystery to me and I was shaking.

Jesus: "In your terms, Israel is My special property, My house and My yard. It has been robbed from My people. These were My special possessions, but it has shrunk at the hands of men.

"The rebels are desecrating the Holy Grounds of the Lord by portioning out the land. The covenant was broken and My land, the Father's land, was divided out of fairness to rebels and out of false peace.

"The Father requested that the nation of America be His also as it was created to protect and defend My land and the Jew. For a period, I even had made England, a tiny nation, very great and very powerful. However, England also compromised, so I took the power from them.

"The Father removed favor from the land and the land shrunk. This election (2012) has forced My own children to compromise on both sides. While there is no right way to vote, I assure you that the candidates have been preselected for a time such as this."

Me: "Hayah, what is anyone to do then?"

Jesus: "Do what you must according to what you have decided and believe. However, it does not truly matter in the great scheme of things. All is now in place and all of the elections have already been decided by My Father. Does My Father not know all things in advance? Does He not know 'this or that' for His purposes?"

Me: "Hayah, You seem so different now. I pray I have not angered You by my ignorance and fear?"

Jesus: He looked at me with comforting eyes and voice. "No. Your questions are on the hearts of the multitudes. Take courage. Remember that the Father is in complete control.

"There will be arguments amongst the brethren and further divisions as America is portioned out, just like Israel was portioned out. Was this not foretold in the Word? The world will look in horror at this once great nation, as will its motherland who originally gave birth to it.

"Watch Israel in the midst of the storm; the prophecies are now being fulfilled. Pray for Israel and you will be blessed. Pray for families. Ready and equip your own households for the hour is nigh. Do not be afraid. Take courage.

"In Joshua, is it not repeated by the Father over and over because others in history have faced the same matters? Remember, you were all appointed for this special time. Pray and encourage one another. Shine like lights. Allow Me to carry you. Do not be afraid.

"You will not suffer shame. Do not be dismayed, you who are afflicted. I will use others to show kindness to you. I still continue to search and call to those I can give tender mercies to, even in this late hour.

"Those who choose not to help My afflicted children will be wiped from memory. Those who choose to show kindness, even in the smallest portion, I will cover them during the storms.

"Lastly, lines have been drawn. In the midst of this storm, cry out to Me. I will answer in ways you never thought possible; miraculous ways.

"You will not suffer harm. All of you; take cover under My wings. Pray and do not cease. These prayers are more important than you know. I love you. I love all of you."

Me: "I love You too."

I was crying as the angel led me to the Portal.

Angel: "Meditate on these for understanding in this time. There are many more, but these will be special: Joel, Hosea, Zechariah, Psalm 83, Psalm 45, Psalm 78, Psalm 34 and Psalm 23. Read Psalm 45 twice and find joy from this as love is coming down."

Dream over...

Dream 007 – Trust in the Lord

Wednesday, November 7, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:50 AM

Dream begins...

The ground was frozen and stripped clean. There was nothing but bare dirt. Five angels were at the base of the ladder. The angels formed a circle around the ladder and helped me climb it.

One angel climbed ahead of me and one climbed behind me. They both assisted in helping me up once we reached the top. I saw Jesus there and ran to Him. I noticed that I was once again a toddler.

Instead of bowing before Him, I leapt up into His embrace. His hair was white, silky and wavy today. I cried out to Him in anguish.

Me: "Hayah, what if people think I am crazy? What if this is not You, but some elaborate enemy scheme?"

He smiled and gave me a big hug. I then noticed, while I was looking over His shoulder, those same beautiful wings that He had on the other visit.

Jesus: "Erin, look around you."

I looked around and saw a vast army of angels. As I scanned all around me, some of the angels waved at me. I smiled and waved back at them.

Jesus: "The enemy and his hoards cannot be here. You would not be left alone here. Evil is patient, but not like this. His time is short. He will use it where it counts most."

Me: "Hayah, why were there angels at the foot of the ladder today?"

Jesus: "To protect your access."

Me: "What is happening?"

He began to speak in a gentle voice, but I felt that there was also a heaviness in His voice.

Jesus: "The multitudes have gathered in the valley of decision. Do you not know?"

Me: "I think so?"

Jesus: "My mightiest have gone to prepare for the day"

Me: I was scared and sad. "Oh, Hayah..." I had no words to say.

Jesus: "I prepared you. Did I not equip you? Did I not send angels to help you?"

In this moment, I realized that the angels He sent were serving a different purpose than I thought. These angels were not necessarily there to pour out gifts, but rather to protect us instead.

Me: "Lord, You are deepening my understanding of everything. It all makes more sense."

Jesus: "Yes, the veil is becoming increasingly transparent."

I began to have thoughts of what people might think of me sharing dreams from this time with Him. He knew what I was thinking.

Jesus: "Do not worry about this. People will scoff at you; even the brethren. My special children are envious and divisive. This wears Me out." He was smiling when He said this. "It is like you, last night, when you were angry with your younger son for being so demanding. I get like this too." He was joking and laughing with me.

Me: "Lord, forgive my anger. I repent."

Jesus: He smiled and nodded. "I accept. Even My Bride tries to treat Me as if I can be summoned like a 'Genie in a Bottle'." We both laughed.

Me: "I have done this to You. Actually, I do this all of the time to You; like every day."

Jesus: "Yes..." We laughed. "...I know. Sometimes, by faith, My Bride asks in My Name, yet, due to the perfect Will of the Father, they do not always get what they ask for. Erin, do you know how many tables I have wanted to flip over?"

We laughed so hard at this together. He is just so much fun, yet serious at the same time.

Jesus: "My Father has Me now to intercede. I listen, obey, petition, wait, mourn and anticipate. I do this with special patience; the patience that comes with peace which surpasses your understanding.

"Know that I too have felt just as you have and have to wait on My Father's Will in all situations. He does not waiver nor is He ever weak. He is no longer the Father that once came down and walked with Adam and Eve nor who dwelt in the Ark amongst the Israelites. He has Me now to do this.

"I carry out His business and command the angels concerning Him. He is no longer the Father that once turned immediately in mercy on the humbling pleas of grain offerings. He no longer turns, yet He still sees all.

"He is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow, but now He sits on the Throne in majesty. He is not unfeeling. He loves His Creation. He is not deaf to their cries. However, what kind of Father would we want Him to be?

"Would we want Him to be wavering, changing and out of control where everyone's prayers were answered no matter what they were? What if the prophecies written several thousand years ago were conflicting? If this was so, how confused and scared would we all be then?"

Then He chuckled at the final question and even jokingly pointed also to Himself. I laughed. He was so sweet. It was such an endearing teaching moment and I will always hold this dear to my heart.

Jesus: "Very soon, people will be angry and curse all of us collectively. It grieves Me when I think of this happening. If all the people knew just how much My Father loves you all, then all would have understanding

"However, those who were born for evil from the beginning will never have understanding." He looked serious now. "There are times coming..."

Me: "How?"

Jesus: "Do you trust Me?"

Me: "Of course."

Jesus: "Do you see the signs?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then trust Me. There will be a time soon when there will be no access to each other and bridges will have fallen. Remember to pray in advance. You must wait and hear My instructions. Turn your ears to Me. Ask in My Name for understanding. Carry the Word with you and keep it on your heart. It will be the life line with the Holy Spirit in the storm."

He could tell I was struggling to understand

Jesus: "Things will make perfect sense to so many, yet, even amongst the brethren, it will seem like a puzzle. Nonetheless, soon the Word will illuminate like never before to those who seek Me."

Me: "Won't You please come for us soon? We are all tired."

Jesus: "I know, but have faith and take courage. I will come for you soon; very soon."

Me: "Do You mean before the end of the year or month?" I was smiling, but hoping.

Jesus: "Not even I know. However, look around you. Compare from your last visit and the time before that. Read the Word and watch Israel. Is there not a gauge? I love you. Now, take heart, pray and ready yourselves. Love has come down to the valleys. Even the mountains will shake at My coming. I love you, Erin."

He hugged me and started to send me back. An angel escorted me to the Portal.

Me: "No, I love You!" I was trying to make Him laugh and I did.

Angel: "There are Words for you to put on your heart until He sees you again. Read Psalm 91, Psalm 33, Isaiah 65-66 and Psalm 46."

I waved goodbye.

Dream ends...

Dream 008 – The Black & Red Dragons

Thursday, November 8, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:55 AM

Dream begins...

The five angels are again waiting for me at the foot of the ladder in a circle. Everything was pitch-black. If I was to guess as to what time of night this was, it would have been around 3:30am or so. The sky had no stars.

There was no light at all except for a complete circle of light just around the angels at the base of the ladder. They were united together in praise and prayers. It was strange because it was pitch black; cold and bitter. No snow.

One angel went up ahead of me and one was close behind me. Three of the angels stayed at the base, each with large swords.

The Portal opened and closed quickly to let me in today. The same two angels as last time were once again at the top of the Portal to help me up. The angel that climbed with me stayed with the other at the Portal.

Angel: "The Lord is on the Bema Seat today."

I saw Jesus and ran towards Him as fast as I could. This time His hair was white as snow, but with some sort of diamond dust woven into His hair. This was like nothing I had ever seen. His hair was like spun silk and intricate.

He lifted me in the air and hugged me. He is simply the most amazing sight ever. I reached out to touch His hair. It was fine and soft, like velvet. It was illuminated. His wings were partially spread out as He sat down. They were shimmering white, bronze, platinum, silver, some with light bluish tint and crushed diamond shimmer.

Me: "You are so beautiful and to behold You is breathtaking. You are like no painting I have ever seen. When the Bible says, 'Behold Your glory and Your majesty', it does not really describe it."

He smiled at me and I noticed that His teeth were beautiful white, like pearl and ivory. He was glorious. When He held me this time, it was not like the other times. I simply could barely contain His love. His love is a blanket, or cocoon, of pure radiant love that covered me completely.

I instantly felt different. Every stain in me, and on me, was suddenly washed away like pure fresh snow. I was seeing what He saw in me and I realized that all of us were made for so much more than this dreary world.

All cares were gone with Him. How could anyone think that Heaven is boring? There is so much more here than on Earth. I was still in shock that I was here visiting with Jesus. I pinched my arm and I rubbed my eyes to make certain I was not delusional.

I felt that, this time, I had come too far and that I was not going back. Really, I should say that I did not want to. Jesus knew all of my thoughts as they came to me.

Jesus: "It is not time for you to be here, Erin."

He knew that I was enjoying this Heavenly state. Then I was instantly reminded of my children and the reality that this was but a temporary visit and a respite from the dark world. I supernaturally knew this is where I belonged. He held me as I cried.

Me: "My kids need to have this too."

Jesus: "They will. Do not worry."

Me: "Lord, are You taking flight? Your wings are spreading."

Jesus smiled and chuckled, like He knew I was not going to get the answer. He just smiled, but never answered me.

I began to look around me at this vast army of angels in Heaven. They were closer to us than before, but I could still see bare ground where the rest of the army once stood.

Me: "Are the other angels coming back?"

Jesus: "Yes. No angels will take their place. They are appointed and special."

I noticed that there were things fluttering in the air all around us. It seemed like they were a combination of butterflies and fireflies. They were beautiful. He saw that I was fascinated by these.

Jesus: "There are so many things waiting here for all of My children to partake in. I have prepared a place for My children. His Throne is here. This is where you all belong. The fallen do not want anyone to know of the glory that awaits the children of God."

"They are angry and jealous because the Father is a fair and just judge. He does not reverse His decisions and His decisions cannot be revoked. They want access to the glory realm. There is a battle raging like none other before it and My return is Imminent. Further, remember to be strong and take courage. I am about to come into full glory."

Jesus then opened a veil with the swing of His arm and I looked down toward the Earth. I saw something frightening, almost like droves of crows. However, He gave me a closer look and they were like humans, but swift and terrible with wings.

I saw a red dragon and a black dragon; both terrible and very large. I saw other things. I saw a grey landscape and no green. The green was disappearing and not due to the change in seasons. There were no lights anywhere.

I quickly turned away with fright toward His shoulder. I was shaking. These beings were screeching and growling.

Me: "I do not want to go there."

Jesus: "It is there all around you on Earth."

Then He immediately waived His arm and I no longer saw them. They were no longer visible.

Jesus: "I keep these from you or, if allowed by My Father, this would force even the wicked to turn and be saved. Then, if the ones with corruption in their hearts were allowed to be here, soon this would begin to corrupt Heaven.

"Erin, the two, good and evil, cannot dwell together here. The darkness and light must remain separate. The Father has mercy, but not for these that are wicked."

I was suddenly relieved, but I was also scared.

Jesus: "Your prayers come up to Heaven and, when they come up here, they break the darkness. Your prayers are beacons of light. When you read the Word and pray for understanding, this brings light. Did I not say this? Did the Father promise that His Word would not return void?"

The Word is like a sword and the Holy Spirit is your guide; it is God within you. When the Word is spoken, especially in My Name, the sword cuts like a knife and these dark beings are cut down swiftly. It is like a swift, horrifying sword cutting into the darkness."

Me: "I did not know this was literal."

Jesus: He smiled. "Of course, but only a few people have understanding about this. Darkness cloaks truth." He smiled again. "Now you have understanding."

Me: "So, these really are weapons?" I was referring to prayers and the Word when I asked this question.

Jesus: He laughed. "Yes. Your armor is important. Did Paul have no understanding?"

Me: "I guess I just did not understand."

Jesus: "There is more. For now, remember this; pray for each other and love each other. Gain understanding and ask for wisdom. You have been given a glimmer of what we see. Share this with My watchmen for they need to know too. Some do already.

"It will sharpen their knowledge and trigger memories and illuminate truth. Bask in truth. Cut down the armies and forces of darkness. Make a way where there seems to be no way.

"Beautiful are the feet who bring good news." He chuckled because I must have looked confused. "Put on that armor. I love you. I have equipped you."

Me: "I love You too."

The angel then escorted me back to the Portal.

Dream over...

Dream 009 – Deception in the World

Friday, November 9, 2012

08-05-2016, 11:59 AM

Dream begins...

I was in a very dark, barren landscape and I could hear an angel speaking.

Angel: "Today, you are at Golgotha."

I looked around and I was in a scene at the foot of the Cross. I was at the crucifixion and as near as Mary was to Jesus. However, it was horrible being so close. For comparison, it was even visually worse than the 'Passion of the Christ' movie.

I was there just as Jesus had died and right after His Spirit had left His body. Everything was in grey monotone, with the only color being Jesus' blood. At the Cross, everything was frozen in time.

An angel of the Lord came over to me and offered me communion, bread and wine. I was surprised. I was sick from the sight of the tortured body of Jesus and I certainly did not feel like eating or drinking at all.

The angel was robed with a hood as if in mourning. He pushed the elements toward me. Without the angel saying a word, I just knew I was to take them. I partook in the bread. When I did, I saw the Roman soldier spear Jesus in the side.

I was right under the foot of the Cross and it was horrifying. The visual of Him on the Cross just after I had had such great conversations with Him made me so angry. I wanted to scream. I was in tears and wailing.

Then, out of Christ's side, water and blood poured out over me as the wind blew. I was literally taking part in the wine. I tasted wine on my lips, even though this was actually His blood. It was as powerful a vision as the Cross and I was there in real time.

Then I was taken to a scene at a banquet. It consisted of people from my past and present; some were in chains. The same angel that greeted me at the Portal everyday was now here to speak with me.

Angel: "There is a banquet that has been prepared before your enemies."

Immediately I looked and I was resisting. I did not really like any of these people. Some of these people were actually from many years ago. I had not even thought about some of them for a long time. I saw that several of them were even in chains. I asked the angel about the chains on them.

Angel: "These people are bound by your lack of forgiveness and your offense." I was shocked and saddened that I had done this to them. I literally started to squirm. "Forgive so that the Father can forgive you."

Instantly I am back sitting on Jesus' lap and He is speaking to me. My head is lying on His chest. He began speaking in the continuation of my prayer questions. His arm opened the veil to the scene of the crucifixion where I just was. Oh yes, I should note that Heavenly technology is infinitely superior to earthly technology.

Jesus: "The Pharisees saw all of this at the Cross, yet they knew Me not. The Sadducees needed mystical signs, yet they could not recognize them. I grant wisdom and truth to those who earnestly seek it, and in the purest form; not to those who cannot get over their own laws.

"For once, the laws were not needed. In the Garden, there was only one instruction and one law; do not partake in the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. However, even that was too difficult for man.

"Then I set the rules, the laws and My commandments because the land became more rebellious than ever. This was even after the display of the great flood and the miracle of Noah.

"So, with limited understanding, My people then cried out for kings, as if I was not enough for them. So I granted them kings. Priests then quickly got 'into bed' with these kings. Corruption began further testing Me; testing Me further and further.

"Yet, I still showed compassion. My priests, My chosen priests, became so engrossed in the law that they forgot their first love and their first purpose; to serve Me and not the law. I sent storms and miracles, but this was still not enough for them.

"Finally, God sent Me, His pure and precious Son, with no Imperfections; a perfect example for all. The prophets even made a path for My coming as it was foretold by them. Still, these people could not hear the prophecies with any understanding.

"Everything was for show for them, even holy fasting and sacrifice. It was all a circus. I was so angry I even flipped tables, yet they, with their prominence to guard their reputations, refused to see God coming down and walking amongst them.

"Fools! Everything was there in plain sight, yet only a few that were chosen saw it; My witnesses. Those who walked with Me had truth incarnate. Yet, because of their fear and humanness, they forgot their Savior and even abandoned Me at the Cross, save for a few.

"Then there was complete darkness as the Father's greatest love of His heart, Me, died a horrible torturous death. The prophecies began to unfold as the Temple was destroyed by a great earthquake. This happened just as I told them it would.

"I took nothing for My journey, owed no man anything and owned nothing, yet sacrificed everything for them and you. Even My resting place on Earth was a borrowed tomb of a wealthy patron who witnessed the event and reconciled himself at the foot of the Cross.

"So many that day had understanding, yet still did not see the whole picture. Even the Roman soldiers that punished and battered Me fell at the foot of the Cross and reconciled themselves. These were Gentiles; they turned and were saved.

"Was salvation not for everyone? One thief came to Paradise and one was doomed for destruction. So it will be very soon. Two workers in a field, one comes Home, one stays. Blessed is the man who comes Home. It is really this simple."

Then He started to give me 'present day' instructions for us to follow:

Jesus: "Who has more tools than believers today? Who of you even has several copies of the Word today? Who, today, has access to stories and testimonies of those who have come before you as witnesses? All of you do.

"Did I not promise these things, as well as gifts and miracles to those who accept the full Gospel of truth? You all have My Words, as well as Words of the apostles. These are My elect messengers of truth and they suffered for My sake and they suffered for truth.

"Then there was Paul. I chose Paul even though he was the most rebellious, did I not? Yet even Paul saw, through his blind eyes, the truth and dedicated himself to spread this truth of the blessing through Me, even in prison.

"Today, My children have access to so much about My Father and Me, yet they have too many distractions, too much noise and too much coming at them. Did Daniel not say that even travel would change at the end? Those who have the Word should read this and understand this."

Jesus shifted His voice because He could sense I was feeling bad; even guilty. He softened and His eyes became compassionate. I was just listening to Him and trying to figure out how I was always so dense.

I felt so much compassion for the apostles. How they must have struggled? How horrifying that day was for them when Jesus died. I began to understand my humanness like never before. I began to understand His love like never before.

Jesus: "The legions and forces of darkness have set up the noise that distracts the world from seeing Me. Indeed, these legions of darkness are agents of distractions. Even the Word is diluted by the time My lambs hear it.

"The dark fallen have set this up. They invented confusion and have confounded God's children. They are wicked. Those who seek Me soak in My Words, take up the Cross and follow Me. Will I not make them a special place at My Altar or a jewel in My Crown?

"Of Course! My watchers, My prophets, My elect and My true priests will gain greater understanding than before. They will be lamps, lanterns and beacons in the storm. They will light the final roads that lead both the lost and the forgiven Home, yet not all will make it.

"Erin, be strong and take courage. I love you and I am proud of you; all of you. One last thing; look at the course of the life of a seed." Then I saw, as He spoke, the scene play before me through a veil that He lifted.

"The seed is planted by the Farmer in the pasture. The seed needs good soil and fresh rain. It pushes through the heavy wet soil to find light. Then, with this light, the seed grows. What type of seed grows in darkness?

"The seedling then becomes a crop ready for harvest in the season set up for harvest. The crop, or fruit, is made for the harvest. After the harvest, the crop is sold and the harvester celebrates the good return of his work. Then he lies down to rest his weary head and is satisfied." He smiled.

"Look around you. Erin, look around you. Everything has a pattern and every living thing has a parable that all points My lambs Home to Me. Do you not see it? Everything has purpose under the sun, or the Son even." He smiled again.

Dream over...

Dream 010 – All have purpose in the end-times

Saturday, November 10, 2012

08-05-2016, 12:04 PM

Dream begins...

I was the manager of a retail store in a wealthy area. The owner gave me a key and entrusted the shop to me. I was to open the store at an appointed time. I was being lured by things that were related to the store's business, but not the exact job duties of the owner.

When I tried to walk away from various things, I would be lured back. This same cycle repeated over and over again. As an example, one vendor had lured me to a gallery filled with art and was trying to get me to purchase a series of seven pieces of art for my employer.

This was taking too much of my time. I tried to leave, but I couldn't. I realized that this was all a trap because several of the paintings I had previously rejected were now the very same paintings I was again seeing before me, but hung in a different formation.

Me: "I have to run."

I was very late opening the shop. I was anxious because I had no excuse for the delay. I had been deceived. I thought, "Oh no, I will be fired."

I woke up unnerved and bothered by this dream. However, after a few minutes, I fell back asleep.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Today there was no Portal and no gauge. Instead, I was simply there, sitting on the lap of Jesus.

Me: "This is out of sequence? There was order before."

Jesus: "No, it is not out of sequence. Do you not understand? Were you not able to comprehend all of this through the noise?"

This all felt like I was learning how to ride a bike for the very first time.

Me: "Okay, so let me understand this; everything we do is turned bad by the wicked?"

Jesus: "No, let's look again. When a seed is planted and it cannot get light, can it grow?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "Correct. If you are the lamps, or lights, and there is darkness, like a blanket trying to snuff out your light, so much so that you are blinded, then how can you see?"

Me: "I cannot see if a dark blanket is blinding me or a dark blanket is over a lamp in a room. There is no light to see."

Jesus: He nodded approvingly. "Correct."

Me: "So, yesterday at Target, with the two shoplifters; was that a veil of darkness?"

Jesus: "Of sorts. However, you experienced the same thing every day last week and even several times per day, but just are not aware of the veil. Indeed, all of My Bride is experiencing this right now. This is the time for confusion by the enemy as this is just prior to My coming."

He instantly downloaded everything that kept me from being fruitful, even my own body.

Me: "So, Father, please tell them to stop, in Jesus' Name."

Jesus: "This is part of the process of the learning curve. I could remove it, but, in one moment of going through it, you learned more than if I were to simply say it instead. You now have a fuller understanding and the experience to convey this to others."

He could tell I was not as happy with this method. I was acting like a brat over this. He smiled and hugged me. I began to cry.

Me: "Why does everything have to be so difficult here on Earth? Is there a demon behind everything?"

He kissed my forehead and I looked into His eyes again. In a moment, I saw flashes of painful scenes from the lives of so many people all over the world right now. I turned away crying.

Me: "I am sorry, Father, please forgive me. I speak without knowledge."

Jesus: He put His finger to my lips to quiet me. "They have many resources, but they do not have Heaven behind them. Indeed, much is rooted in darkness on this Earth. All you have to do is just consider the 'landlord'."

Me: "Lord, You are the Landlord."

Jesus: "No, God is the Creator of the land. The landlord, satan, has been granted the land for a time. In a way, he is renting the land from God."

Me: "Oh, I get it."

Jesus: "There is no real fruit coming from God's land. Like David's son, Solomon, once said, 'Nothing is new under the sun; everything goes back to the dirt.'"

Me: "So how can anyone succeed here?"

Jesus: "Therein lies the problem. Define success."

Me: "I guess I cannot."

Jesus: "Does a man not face himself at the end of his days and say. 'What was it for? Did I work for nothing?' I offer up his mantle, his course and his life."

Then He waved His arm again and lifted the veil. I was able to see a woman giving birth to a baby. In a thirty second time lapse, I saw a man's entire life from birth to the grave. It was actually shocking.

Jesus: "So it is from My perspective; unfruitful. He gained his life only to lose it. He did not have Me. I scan the Earth looking for anyone that might look for Me, yet it is I who chose. My children, whom I have chosen from the beginning, have been marked and they are beacons.

"In Egypt, did the angel of the Lord tell every Israelite to mark their doors with the lamb's blood so the angel of death would pass over them? Today, after the Cross, each who has accepted Me is covered in the Lamb's blood, My Blood, and marked. Now, some are more fruitful than others."

Again, His arm waved and the veil lifted. I saw a preacher bringing thousands to the Lord. Then I saw one single Christian bringing a neighbor a cup of coffee and a prayer.

Jesus: "In this world, from an earthly perspective, you only see from your limited view. So, what do you see?"

Me: "I see someone I wish I was; the preacher that is saving thousands of souls."

Jesus: "I see acts of love. I am proud of both and both have equal weight. The coffee and prayer to the neighbor was a seed planted. Know that My angels go out and bring forth the harvest and the prayers sow the seed."

"Now, is it not My job to bring in the harvest? If I created the blacksmith and the landlord, did I not also create the preacher and the kind neighbor?"

He saw that I was a bit confused as I had always focused on works as if they were created by the individual, not by the Lord.

Jesus: "Further, I determine the life of the seed."

Me: "So, my doing something small and insignificant out here in the desert is just as meaningful to You as a preacher in India bringing in a thousand new souls for the Kingdom?"

Jesus: "Yes, but you are not seeing it through My eyes. As a parent, how would you feel if we were talking about your sons; one is the preacher and one is the neighbor?"

Me: "I would be proud of both, but I would boast about the one winning the most souls."

Jesus: He laughed again. "You are seeing what humans see."

Then I realized, because His love is far beyond mine, He looks at each as equally fruitful. Here, I always compared myself to 'super Christians' and thought of them as greater than me. I understand now that He does not see things like this.

Jesus: "Erin, I see the heart. I am after the heart. Now, back to the veil of darkness; because we are marked, darkness hates light. The wolves go out to devour the young and the old sheep on the outskirts of the fold, or the stragglers. The wolves run in packs and, with formation, they plot."

"One wolf will distract the herder first to try to make the entire fold vulnerable. If that does not work, then they pick off the weakest, one by one. So it is today. The wicked have hierarchies; soldiers, captains, commanders and a chief. There are branches."

"Now, the battle has begun and the war is raging. Evil is unleashed against the righteous so many have no armor. It is the final push for the wolves to devour what they can. The angels have come after them."

"They reinforce My Heavenly force that is here amongst you, guarding you in your daily walks. So, to put it in your terms, the Special Forces were just deployed into the war. These were spoken about and foretold."

Me: "Oh, so the one third of the army was Special Ops?"

Jesus: "Yes, it is the final sweep; love is coming down."

Me: "You are love."

Jesus: "Yes, Heaven is coming down."

Suddenly, the Lord's Prayer downloaded into my head.

Me: "You are the 'Kingdom Come'!"

He was pleased that I finally got it. I hugged Him.

Jesus: "I love you and, soon, I will come for you. Please continue to pray. Love one another and forgive. Do not cease doing good, even up to the end. Do not surrender to the flesh. All have sinned and fallen short. Do things because My Father in Heaven can see it. Display for Him, not for man to see.

He sees goodness in secret and is pleased. Pray, praise and bless. Put on your whole armor so you may stop the wicked. There is nothing you can do. Wait and pray so that light covers your house and darkness cannot cover the light.

"Angels of Heaven will protect you. Use discernment. Ask Me if the distractions you face daily are divine delays or wicked schemes. Further, you cannot be stolen from Me. Remain in Me and remain in My Word. Just ask in My name and you will receive. Blessed is the man who accepts My gifts."

He hugged me.

Me: "I love You so much."

Jesus: Smiling. "I love you more."

We both laughed. The angel escorted me to the Portal. As I was going down, the angel spoke to me.

Angel: "Words that bring comfort are Psalm 91 and Psalm 23. Read Haggai as this has prophecy."

Dream over...

I woke up to the dog barking. I was running hot. I thought I might have a fever. It has been like this all week. I checked several times, but I had nothing wrong with me, not even a temperature.

Dream 011 – Mass Exodus from the West

Sunday, November 11, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:03 PM

Dream begins...

I was looking down at a map of Washington State. It was getting near evening. I was telling my children that we needed to pack essentials only. We were hurrying to leave the area.

I was trying to figure out the best route out; going directly east into Idaho or driving north to Spokane. I began to yell at the kids to hurry. I then unexpectedly heard a Heavenly voice tell me that there was a 'mass exodus from the west'.

Just then, the map of Washington State I was look at became three dimensional. Not only that, but I could see that both the eastbound and the westbound lanes from Seattle to Spokane were being routed as all eastbound. I could see all four lanes of headlights driving east.

I zoomed in and I could see that there was military personnel directing traffic. Something tragic had just happened near the coast. We heard the radio announce that a mass exodus has occurred. The masses were leaving the major cities here as Portland, Seattle and Vancouver BC were all affected.

Now I was not sure if we should leave or stay, but just knew that I did not want to be near the nuclear plant during all of this.

Dream interrupted...

I woke up in complete chills as this dream had rocked me to my very core. I immediately got up and knelt in prayer.

"Father, please do not allow us to go through this. Please come for us, in Jesus' name."

I walked around the house for a while and I became tired again. Indeed, I started to feel extremely sleepy. This is actually not normal after a horrifying dream such as this one. I went back to bed.

Dream continues...

I was in darkness. There was a blanket of fresh snow on the ground. The air was cool and crisp. It even smelled like snow and there were light flurries in the air.

The five angels were again at the base of the ladder with their swords drawn, guarding the ladder. All five angels were illuminated with faint bluish gold tinges.

Four of the five angels were facing the four compass points; west, north, east and south. I seemed to recognize them as the same angels I had met at the beginning of the year 2012 in a previous dream.

Another angel, I believe this was Breakthrough, assisted me up the ladder. He then stayed to guard me as I went up the Portal. There, he and another angel assisted me to the top.

As I emerged at the top of the Portal, I could see Jesus with His arms ready to receive me. His light was so bright that it looked like it came from behind Him, yet the light was all around Him. His wings were massive, opalescent and translucent, yet still solid.

Angel: "Behold, He is on the Bema Seat today."

Just then, I looked as far as my eyes could see to what sounded like rushing water as all of the angels, as well as the horses, all bowed before Him. I began immediately to bow, but the angel reached for my arm to pull me up and toward Him.

This is so difficult to describe, but I was frozen. Who is God? Who is Jesus? I had only read about Him before, but I had not actually seen. Yes, by faith, I had imagined Him, but who could really understand? Seriously, who could truly understand?

He was beautiful. His hair was void of color, yet contained every color, but was still the purest of whites. His hair itself seemed to be alive.

As I approached Him, I immediately went to take off my shoes. I realized now what it meant to be walking on holy ground. My entire body wanted to drop. It was like every cell in my body had gravity and wanted to worship Him. My every cell wanted to worship like they knew Him better than I did.

I heard the angels singing, "Holy, Holy, Holy" and I wept. The choir of angels continued. Absolutely everything here in Heaven seemed to cry out "Holy"! In comparison, I felt so impure. I wanted to be dressed for this and here I was wearing pajamas.

I saw Him smile as He knew what I was thinking. He waived me toward Him. I was in fear of approaching now without Him telling me to. His robe was illuminated. Light shined through the holes in His hands.

I had never noticed the holes in His hands before today even though, because of the Crucifixion, I knew He had these holes. His face was so radiant, like the sun, only I could still see the impression of His beautiful, yet chiseled features.

His teeth were like pearls when He smiled. It looked like each one of His perfect teeth had been made from a pearl. His wings were now half spread. I heard the angels singing so loudly that it permeated my body. Their singing was so beautiful.

I began to shake as I was in complete awe and amazement. Jesus took my hand and I could feel where the nail had pierced His hand. He knew I was fascinated by this. With my two hands, I reached out to His hand and flipped it over.

He smiled and allowed me to see the holes. I looked directly at the palm of His hand and there, very closely, as I scanned His hand, I saw billions of names etched there. As I scanned His palm, I even saw my name. I saw it illuminate and then disappear, but I clearly saw that my name was on His palm.

Jesus knew I was looking for it. I remembered a Scripture somewhere about this, but I had no idea it was literal. I broke down in tears. Two angels immediately came over and collected the tears off of my cheeks and placed them in a type of flask. The other angel labeled the beautiful bottle with a type of seal, almost like a record.

There was a beautiful initial on a type of silver plate on the flask. I kept thinking those angels had better stay longer because there will be more tears. He knew my thoughts and He smiled and laughed. As He laughed, I heard the choir of angels singing, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb!"

Instantly, I had so many questions. However, in that moment, all was being answered with no words exchanging.

He held my head to His chest and I could hear His heart beating like a thundering bass. It went right into my body and beat with mine. I stammered and was finally able to actually speak.

Me: "When You come like this, everyone will see You."

Jesus: He just smiled and nodded. "I love you."

At this instant, I felt a download of every time I encountered love on Earth in any form and understood that it had come from, or was assigned by, Him.

Me: " I love You too."

Jesus: "Today is just a glimmer. Soak in what you have seen and ready yourselves for I am coming soon."

I sensed this already since I could see that His wings were gradually spreading out more. In that moment, I could not even contain my thoughts and could not find words to describe what I have been seeing. Two angels started to guide me back, but, as I was leaving, He smiled and waved at me.

Jesus: "My eye is on the sparrow."

He smiled and laughed as He said this and so did I. I realized that He was talking about all of us and not just me.

As the angel escorted me, I found myself and my body not wanting to turn my back on Him. It was as if the very laws of gravity would not allow me too. This was like the true law of attraction and was an epiphany moment.

As I was nearing the Portal, I saw a beautiful, and I mean exquisite, white horse. It was lying down and bowing toward Him. Its hair was so beautiful and very similar to His hair. The mane and tail were braided and woven with jewels. The coat was shimmering like crystal.

It was muscular and like no horse that I had ever seen before.

Me: In my thoughts. "In Heaven, I will need to ride horses more often." I smiled.

Two more angels came down to follow me. Two of the angels, the one that faced east and the one that faced west, had gone out to fight the enemy. A procession of angels, with swords drawn, stood in the snow and lighted a path as I walked into the dark night.

Dream over...

Dream 012 – The Ring of Fire

Tuesday, November 13, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:07 PM

Dream begins...

There was a long winding path in the dark. Angels lined it and all of their swords were over my head. Their swords formed a tent, or canopy, of protection over me. The angels, by their light, illuminated the path so I would not fall in the snow.

One of the angels was waiting at the base of the ladder to go ahead of me and another angel was to be behind me. I recognized that the lead angel was 'Breakthrough'. For some reason, I had even known this before, but did not truly recognize him until now.

The four angels that were at the base of the ladder were now gone. These angels were the ones that were facing each direction of the four corners, almost like a compass. I assumed that they must have gone out on assignments. These particular angels had seemed larger and different than all of the other angels.

My Breakthrough angel was large also and had a very interesting feature. There was something like blue flames on his wings and his sword.

At the top of the Portal, two of the angels assisted me up. Once up, I first saw Breakthrough bowing down, but now I could see that every angel, and even the horses, were bowing. They were bowing towards Jesus.

As I started to bow, I noticed something different in the Heavenly landscape. Before, I had seen these beautiful high mountains, but, this time, these same mountains seemed lower.

Me: In my thoughts. "Wow, even the mountains bow down...literally."

It was a beautiful sight. We seemed to be in a type of valley. The angel that greeted me spoke to me.

Angel: "Behold, your King is on the Bema Seat today."

I looked fully at Jesus and I simply could not believe what my eyes were seeing. His wings were now spread out almost two thirds of the way. His wings were huge and were close to fourteen feet wide each. However, to me, at only thirty inches tall, they seemed thirty feet wide.

I had a difficult time approaching Jesus today. Every cell wanted to drop low to worship him. Every cell inside my body reacted this way, almost like there was some type of gravitational pull. It was getting more difficult to be in front of Him.

Sometimes I find writing these dreams difficult as I simply just do not have the vocabulary to write about Him. Not only that, but everything here seems to change a bit each day I visit.

Try to imagine every beautiful sight you have ever seen contained in a small cup and multiply it by an infinite number. This is what I was seeing; Jesus in His full glory, yet not even full yet as I could not bear this in human form.

He could tell that I was overwhelmed by His presence and that I seemed almost sad by my earthly limitations. I was finally, and truly, realizing my incredible smallness compared to Him. I realized, as I stood there, why God sent Jesus as a man; so that we could have a relationship with God via a comprehensible human form.

I became even more in fear and awe as I slowly approached Him in His glory. He sensed this and He picked me up with a gentle smile. Overwhelmed, I still kept my head down and my eyes averted away from His eyes.

Finally, either He, or perhaps an assisting angel, poured something on me. I could barely see before this, but, after this washed over me, I could see much clearer. He held me for quite some time as I wept. Everything inside of me wept as I was overcome by His presence.

Me: "I will not be able to go back there anymore, to 'that place'."

Jesus smiled at me, but, really, I had wanted Him to stay like He was a few visits ago so I could relate better to Him. As per usual, He knew that I was thinking this.

Me: "Lord, You are so beautiful. I want to stay here and my body wants to stay, yet I am so human and I have no capacity to understand. You are King over all of us and, as I sit here on Your lap, I think, 'How can this be possible?'"

Jesus: He smiled at me as I said this. "Yes, and all of your names are engraved on My hand."

Me: "I am not going to be able to see You before the day You come for us now. I am definitely not dressed for a wedding."

Jesus: "Erin, you have a ways off before the wedding, but I will gather you soon."

He laughed so loudly when He knew I was worried about my attire. As He laughed, every angel sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb!" I heard the rush of their wings and they sounded like a rushing river and rapids combining with the music.

I looked up to try to see His face. It was beautiful and shined like the sun. In a way, I simply need to stop trying to describe Jesus to you all because no words can match what I was seeing in Him.

Jesus: "I have something to show you."

He waived His arm and an angel handed Him a 'Ring of Fire' about sixteen inches in diameter. He held the ring and, with another wave of His hand, a veil was lifted for me to see. I saw the Earth rotating on an axis.

Jesus: "The Earth was formed from this point."

He put the ring over the exact location of the actual 'Ring of Fire' on Earth.

Me: "Oh, did it form from the volcanoes?"

Jesus: "My Father created all things for His glory and all things come from Him."

Me: "Lord, what is going to happen?"

Then I saw the ring begin to erupt. The sight horrified me to the core and I screamed out.

Me: "No!"

Jesus: He held me. "Is it not said that God will create a New Earth?"

Me: "Yes, but you mean later, right?"

Jesus: "Yes. One day, everything will be reshaped and reformed in spectacular beauty. Heaven and Earth will be as one."

Me: "Will there be horses like this..." I pointed to the white horse by the Portal. "...and butterflies like this?"

Jesus: He chuckled and smiled. "Yes." He could tell I was excited, but still a bit worried about the Ring of Fire. "This is enough for now."

He reached down and gave me a beautiful fragrant flower, similar to as if we had been on a 'date', but completely holy of course. The flower smelled so fragrant; like a combination of jasmine, honeysuckle and white ginger. The flower was white and it was alive.

He picked the flower for me and I knew that, here in Heaven, even a plucked flower was never going to wither. Wow. I just noticed that there was even dew inside it that looked like tiny diamonds dancing in the light.

Me: "I love You, Father."

Jesus: "I love you much more."

We both laughed. His laughter seemed to prompt the angels to sing, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb! He is glorious in His beauty and strength!"

I went back to the Portal. I reached down to my left and stroked the white horse's mane. His mane was warm and soft. As I was going back down, the angel spoke to me.

Angel: "Glory be to God in the highest. A word of love is in Psalm 45. The Song of Songs is for you from Him Who sits on the Throne in majesty."

Dream over...

I woke up to the sound of my alarm. I really wanted to hit the snooze button a dozen more times. When I got up this morning, I smelled flowers again. I am not sure how many more of these dreams I can humanly take as it is so hard to come back to Earth.

I heard the Revelation Song this morning and started to cry. There are truly no words to describe the love and blessings He has for all of us, His Bride. We have a wedding to plan and all we have to do is show up. Indeed, all of this is in place already.

Dream 013 – Why a “Small Woman” was chosen

Wednesday, November 14, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:11 PM

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

There were so many angels at the base of the ladder today. Some of the angels looked like they had been through a fight. I saw that some of the swords were scuffed, cracked and even broken.

Me: In my thoughts. “Wow, the enemy is stronger than I thought.”

This time, the angels rushed me up to the top of Portal. At the top, the angel spoke to me.

Angel: "Behold, He is on the Bema Seat today."

When I saw Jesus, I full out sprinted towards Him. Where He sat seemed even closer to the Portal today than the previous times. He waived me over with a seemingly urgent hand gesture as He knew I was troubled today.

Jesus: "What is wrong, Erin?"

He already knew, but He just wanted to hear me say it.

Me: "What if none of this is real? What if this is all imagined and is from the enemy? What if I will burn or I will not be Raptured up with the others? What if..."

Jesus: "Shh! Erin, has anything you have been shown been contrary to the Holy Spirit?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "Has anything, falsely, plain or simply, been added to My Word?"

Me: "I do not think so, but I have not studied the Word long enough to fully understand if I have."

Jesus: "This is exactly the point. Erin, those who read what you have written must realize that, if I had given these dreams and visions to another, say, a Biblical scholar or a student of Biblical theology, maybe they might get so wrapped up in legalism or become dogmatic to the point that they missed the teaching. They would not have understood it.

"The Word is illuminated by the Holy Spirit at the appointed time it is shown. You could read one Scripture over and over, but, until the Word is illuminated, breathed or inspired, how does it have life if I do not breathe it into you? Otherwise, it is not a living testament, but just a 'good read', correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Tell Me, before all this began, how did you really look at the Word?"

Me: "I guess I looked at it as a history book and a record of the lives of saints and sinners."

Jesus: "Yes. What else?"

Me: "Sometimes, when I would cry, certain Scriptures would pop out and I felt the Holy Spirit inside me confirm it."

Jesus: "How?"

Me: "I would feel a fluttering, like warmth, in all of my cells. I would feel a peace with joy and a 'yes' sometimes."

Jesus: "Did you come up with this on your own?"

Me: "I sometimes thought I did."

Jesus: "When you were walking contrary to the Holy Spirit and looking for endorsement to sin, did you sometimes force this to be found in the Word?"

Me: "Yes. Sometimes I would find things to go along with the sin I was wanting to commit or dismiss, or even the path I wanted to take. However, I had to really dig to do this."

Jesus: "How did this feel when you did this?"

Me: "I did not feel right; actually, all the good feelings were gone."

Jesus: "Correct. There was no confirmation in what you were reading as a compass from God within you via the Holy Spirit."

Me: "Oh, is the Holy Spirit a compass?"

Jesus: "Yes, exactly, but even more. When you are experiencing breakthrough, elation and worship, the Holy Spirit is your encourager. When you grieve, have loss or are a victim, the Holy Spirit is your comforter. The list goes on. The Holy Spirit is like a 'Heavenly intercom'."

Me: "Lord, I now understand!"

Jesus: "Erin, here is something..."

He waived in two angels. One of the angels had some dough consisting of flour, salt and water in a bowl, and was mixing it. Another angel came to put something in it and I recognized it as yeast.

The yeast was colored red and, as the first angel mixed it in, the entire batch of dough became pink and then red. It was certainly no longer white by the end. Then the dough rose up.

Jesus: "Erin, the dough is My Word and the yeast is the enemy trying to come in and distort the Word; My Words. Erin, do you like getting to know Me better?"

Me: "Oh, yes."

Jesus: "Do you love Me?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then do not allow the enemy to rob you of what is good. You are learning to be intimate with Me. You are getting to know Me so that, when the day comes and I bring you to Me, you will experience a greater joy.

"If you are being truthful, then why do you doubt if not for a little yeast that came in to this mix? Focus on Me. Fill your life with more of Me. Do not talk idly and say, 'Oh how I long to see His face?', yet, when I am right here before you, you do not recognize Me.

"Further, let those who read the Word and look only to the Word, but never really come to Me in praying for divine understanding, have just the Word. If they do this without prayer to Me, they will not have greater revelation from Me by using just the Word. They will not see it this way as they do not truly seek Me, but look to Words alone without prayer."

He opened a veil again and I saw a football stadium.

Jesus: "When watching a football game, if you were a member of the team, would you rather be 'out there on the field playing and receiving your directions from the coach and participating, also using the playbook to enhance your performance' or would you rather be 'sitting on the sidelines, all dressed to play, reading the play book and analyzing the game and its history'? Does the coach not play those who are eager and ready to play? Is My Word not the living Word or is it just words on a page?"

Smiling, I shook my head in amazement at the depths of what He was teaching us.

Dream over...

Dream 014 – The Bible has a heartbeat

Thursday, November 15, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:15 PM

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

This dream seemed to start in the same place as the ending point from my last dream. I was sitting on Jesus' lap and He was gently instructing me again.

Jesus: "A few thousand years ago, the written Word was not available. The Word was spoken through the mouths of men and then a scribe would scribe that which was spoken. He would use one sheet of papyrus to hand write this and there were no copiers." Jesus smiled at me.

"Rather than hand write this, would it not be much easier to simply gather a group of people together to hear the Word and spread it that way? As most could not read back then, was not a transcriber needed? Most had no understanding because of language barriers, so was not a translator also needed?

"Erin, are you now getting the full picture of the difficulties that were faced in distributing the Word?" He smiled and laughed. "Let them that want only the Word have only that. Let those that want the Word, as well as the Kingdom, have that." Then He hugged me.

"The Word is the lamp to light the path. When you read the Word, pray for life through the Word. Then, when you do, the Word will become alive through a Heavenly download."

An angel brought over a beautiful bound Bible on a platter. The Bible had an intricate lock on it. The angel opened the lock. Jesus waved at the Bible and it opened. Jesus then breathed on the Bible.

The angel held the Bible close to me and Jesus blew on the pages. As the pages flipped, the words began to jump off of the page. Indeed, each word became a light, as if He had actually set, or typeset, each one that was there by Himself. The Bible itself was now illuminated and golden.

Jesus: "Lay your head upon the Book."

When I laid my head on the Bible, I could hear a heartbeat. I pulled myself back. He smiled and laughed.

Me: "Oh, is that what I think it is?"

Jesus: "Yes."

He laughed. The angels moved their wings, seemingly to clap with His laughter, and the sound of rushing water seemed to fill the air.

Angels: Singing. "Glory be to the Lord, most Holy of Hollies, Who sits in majesty! Holy is He!"

Me: I immediately threw my arms around His neck. "I am so sorry that I have behaved poorly by not focusing always on You. I have sometimes been angry instead."

Jesus: "You are My love and joy. You are learning, are you not?"

Me: "Lord, You are the best teacher."

He laughed so hard. His laughter appears to again cause the angels to start singing.

Angels: "Holy, Holy is the Lamb of God who sits on the Throne, Holy is He!"

As I hugged Him, I could feel His heart beat and thunder. My heartbeat seemed to be completely in sync with His heartbeat.

In that moment, I melded with Him as He held me for a while. I had a visual download of everything earlier that day that was contrary to the Holy Spirit. As these visuals came up, I saw an angel pouring out snow to wash them clean.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I saw every unholy manifestation in my thoughts and actions. I saw fear, rage, jealousy and covetousness."

Jesus: "What else?" I quickly realized that my thoughts were wrong and I saw an angel wipe them clean with snow. "What else?"

Me: "I realize, in Your presence, I cannot be unholy."

Jesus: Laughing. "That is the simple version of sorts. Everything that is contrary to the Word and to the Holy Spirit longs to be made right. Everything within you longs for purification."

Me: "Well, why can I not be perfect? You can make me this way?"

Jesus: He laughed again. "Yes, I could, but what you are experiencing is the Holy Spirit inside of you and God within you. The Messenger is in sync with Me as one. Inside your own flesh, the world is in sync with your flesh and the two are in constant battle.

"Of course, now this battle is Mine, but the war waging inside of you is Heaven, the Spirit of truth, versus the world. Paul said it best by inspiration, 'You must die to the flesh and die to the world in order to live.'"

Me: "This seems impossible."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, but nothing is impossible to those who believe. Do I need to get out that mustard seed?"

Me: Laughing. "But, Lord, I am not able to obtain this perfection. I cannot die to this body and I cannot be holy."

Jesus: Laughing. "Oh, did I ask you to become God on Earth?"

Me: Smiling. "Of course not as I cannot."

Jesus: "What, then, do I require of you?"

Me: "To take up the Cross and follow You."

Jesus: "Well, yes, but that is not all. Do your best, here on Earth, that you are able to and, in all things, love. Love is contrary to the world. When you manifest love on Earth, it becomes a powerful weapon. When you manifest love, the Holy Spirit inside you wells up and becomes in sync with good."

Me: "But then is the good followed by bad?"

Jesus: "Yes. This is a rebellious generation. However, you must continue to do good until I come. You must love and encourage one another."

Me: "Lord, the bad sometimes just blurts out of my mouth as if it has a mind of its own. My lips and mouth sometimes seem to have their own mind."

He laughed and, with His finger and something dripping from it, He reached over and touched my lips. I felt fire and warmth.

Me: "I taste honey."

Jesus: Smiling. "Be a lamp and do not allow your light to be turned out. Let honey flow from your lips and do not allow your lips to break the spirits of those around you who lack understanding. Speak love."

I reached for His hand and held it to my cheek. He reached over and kissed my forehead.

Jesus: "Until we meet again."

He handed me another flower. The flower was like a honeysuckle and was purple with honey in the center. He smiled as I got the biggest grin, even while tears formed in my eyes.

Me: "I love You."

Jesus: "I love you."

The angel walked me back to the Portal. I reached down to stroke the horse's soft mane. I looked back and waved at Jesus. As I was going down the Portal, the angel handed me the Bible and spoke with me.

Angel: "Pray for your Sister's land; pray for Israel. Obadiah has Words for you. Psalm 68 has a message for you. Remember your love as you read Psalm 45."

Dream over...

Dream 015 – Song of Songs Experienced

Friday, November 16, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:20 PM

Dream begins...

While there was a fresh blanket of snow on the ground today, there was still a clear path to the ladder. Two rows of angels lined the path with their swords, once again forming a canopy of swords over the path for me to walk under.

The atmosphere was thick, dark and very cold. I was in utter darkness with the exception of the angels and the ladder being illuminated. I heard wails and moans in the darkness, but I could not see where these came from.

I noticed that the angels lining the path were a fresh grouping of angels. There was also now a double wall of protection, wherein another row of angels were facing back to back with the ones on the path. The angels facing outward towards the darkness seemed tattered and worn. They were very strong and alert, like soldiers.

My angel, Breakthrough, was there at the base of the ladder. This time, a very large warrior angel descended to me. Breakthrough then went ahead of him, wherein the large angel was behind me as the rear guard. I was clearly being heavily guarded.

The ladder was illuminated and warm, but the air was bitter cold. It seemed to be getting even colder. It took a long time to climb the ladder today.

However, when I finally reached the top of the Portal and emerged, what I saw there was simply completely breathtaking. All the angels were standing, singing and 'at attention'.

Different choirs of angels were singing from all different areas, but yet remained completely harmonious. I simply cannot describe the sound. It was far superior to even the most amazing chorus I have ever heard.

The singing was almost like a pipe organ in that each different choir was a pipe in this huge instrument. It was also like a full symphony, yet with a choir accompanying it. The music is so incredible that it makes me cry even as I am now typing about it.

Every cell in my body was part of this and my very breath stopped. I looked toward the ground and there was a gold powdery substance with the most amazing pattern embossed in it covering the path where I walked. I began to weep because when I had my near death experience, or NDE, in November 2004, I saw this same sight, but in a different context.

I was afraid to walk on the golden dirt of the path in front of me as I was concerned I would mess the beautiful pattern with my steps. As I walked, and with the help of my angelic escort, my feet no longer changed the patterns in the path. I smiled as my feet did not affect the path at all.

Angel: "The Lord, your King, sits in majesty on the Bema Seat today. Holy is He!"

Then all of the angels declared this same thing in unison and there was a mighty wind. Before me was something so majestic; there was Jesus in His golden armor. He was wearing a full breastplate and golden metal armor guards.

The cloth that showed through the armor was crimson red and royal navy blue in color. His hair was white, wavy and long and He wore a beautiful crown on top. His wings were still open around two-thirds of the way today.

His breastplate had twelve jewels upon it. I recognized these jewels as somewhat similar to the priestly ephod of the Old Testament. His presence was so beautiful and strong. Immediately I had thoughts...

Me: "Who am I? Who are any of us, really, that the Lord would care for us at all?"

The angels escorted me to Jesus. There was silence at the wave of the hands of the two angels next to Him on either side. As I approached, I kept my head down and I became shy. He reached out His hand to touch my hand.

In an instant, my clothing changed and I was in a beautiful robe. I seemed a bit larger today and no longer the small child of previous dreams. Yes, I was still small, but taller than thirty inches in height today.

The power and strength coming from His very presence was truly amazing. An angel had prepared a seat for me to His left and down from Him so I could be near Him while He held my hand. I was not sitting on His lap today.

Today, I felt like I was being courted by the King, but in the most holy of ways. At no time during this dream, or the next several dreams, was any this of a sexual nature at all! After posting these dreams when I first had them, I was accused of terrible things and wanted, no, needed, to clarify that all of this was romantic, yet completely holy.

My hair was long with a braided crown, my skin was beautiful, my hands were perfectly formed and I had a jeweled bracelet that covered the top of my hands and wrapped around my fingers.

Jesus: Smiling. "You are fair."

Me: I must have been in so much awe as I just stammered my words. "You are so handsome."

Jesus: "Thank you."

I looked up at His Crown. It was gold and encrusted with jewels. He knew that I wanted to take a closer look, so He took it off of His head. I tried to stop Him from doing this.

Me: "Oh no, please leave it on."

Jesus: Smiling. "A king is a king, whether a crown is worn or a donkey ridden."

He laughed and I smiled. Then, in another divine download, I saw every romantic movie I had ever seen and the feelings of longing for this type of love; His perfect love. Most of the movies all had happy endings, but this was all of that and so much more.

Jesus brought His Crown closer for me to see and I saw many precious jewels. I reached out to touch the jewels with my fingertips. I could tell that this Crown was made by a master jeweler. I stood up to set the Crown back on His head. I hugged Him and I began to cry.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

Me: "Forgive me, but I do not feel worthy of this love."

Jesus: "Why? Are you not My Bride?"

Me: I laughed. "I guess I never really put this together."

Jesus: " I am Your Father and I have also heard you call Me your Husband. Did you not mean this?"

Me: "Oh, yes. However, in Your presence, I feel like royalty. The angels treat me like I am so important."

Jesus: "Are you My Bride?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: He has such a beautiful smile. "Am I not a King?"

Me: "Of course".

Jesus: "So what does the Bride become after marrying a King?"

Me: I laughed as He had me on this one. "Royalty! Lord, are You coming for us soon?"

Jesus: "Do you not see it?"

Me: "Yes, but I want You to stay here and we will come up to You."

I began to start to tell Him how bad things were with Israel and the media. I was going on and on and then suddenly realized, 'whoa, this is Jesus; He knows already.'

Jesus smiled as He knew what I was thinking. He reached down and gave me a hug. He then selected a single beautiful rose. The rose was yellow and golden, with shimmering iridescence. He handed it to me.

Jesus: "The name of this rose is a 'Heart of Gold'. This is for you, My love."

As I took the rose without thorns, every single part of me welled up with joy inside. The rose and, in particular, the name of the rose, had special meaning for me that only He could have known about.

This was no grand illusion. This was the living Christ in front of me. I wept and He reached for my hand. He kissed my hand and held it to His cheek. When I looked in His eyes, they were like a thousand seas and I saw myself there.

Jesus: "Until we meet again."

Me: "I love You."

Jesus: "I love you more."

Me: "No, not possible."

Jesus seemed so happy that I was there. As the choir sang, I just broke down in tears. I saw the white horse standing next to the Portal. I asked the angel standing there a question about the Lord.

Me: "He is going to be alright, right?"

Angel: "Yes, it is written." I laughed at this as he was smiling as he said this. Then the angel became more serious. "War is in the air, the battle is underfoot and the valley of decision waits."

Me: "What does this mean?"

Angel: Again serious. "It is written."

Dream over...

Dream 016 – Song of Songs Continues

Saturday, November 17, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:29 PM

Dream begins...

(Formerly known as Path 16)

As I approached the ladder, I saw angels battling above me. There were dark figures coming from the atmosphere. These were dark lords. Angels had been added and the canopy was now so thick that, as I walked under it, I could only see the shimmering light of the swords above.

I could hear other swords above those as the fighting raged above me. The swords sounded like bells, or beautiful clanking chimes, and I heard swords that were hitting them that sounded more like thuds, or a dead sound.

The angels above fighting the dark lords formed a type of shield, like a dome, over the canopy. I stood there in awe from what I was seeing. The regiments of angels, and the clever way that they fought, were so strategic.

The shape of the dome of protection reminded me of the large Captain America shield that I had purchased for my son a few weeks ago. The shield, or dome, provided the outside covering of protection. The swords above me not only provided a canopy of light, but extra enforcement of protection as well.

Occasionally, as I walked, I would see a dark lord slip through with a sword. Then, quickly, enforcement would be deployed to cut it down. I saw angels being wounded and rotating out of the formation. This was done so that there was always a fresh and strong angel to follow up with the fighting.

I am only a human female, small in stature, and have never seen the front line action of war. I have only watched war in movies and have seen the horror from the reports, but this was now live action. This gave me a new meaning of 'war and service' and I suddenly even had more respect for these angels.

As I walked under their canopy of protection under the 'thunder dome' I felt safe. I was safe, but I dared not to go 'rogue'. My son said something one time about a soldier who had gone 'away without leave' or 'AWOL' for short.

My son had jokingly called it, "improvisational special ops and unauthorized act of heroism." I laughed to myself as I recalled this. How many times have

I stepped out from the Lord's covering to my own "Improvisational Special-self Operations"?

Now I would be killed if I did not stay under His protection, period, end of story and end of life. There was snow on the ground. At the ladder, angels now lined the sides.

Breakthrough went ahead of me and greeted me with a smile. The very large rear guard angel wheeled his swords with incredible precision. As I was climbing, I realized that the darkness around me was filled with thick smoke.

Every now and then, I would look out into this darkness and I would see a horrifying face coming at me. There was an awful smell that was like sulfur and dung together. Each time, the angels would swoop up and cut them down. When this happened, I heard their cries and screeching moans.

These things were very large entities. Every time I would see them I would get a quick nudge from Breakthrough above me to continue. He made a noise almost like a whisper, chime and whistle together. He was reminding me to stay focused on the goal.

When I came up to the top of the Portal, it was better than ever. Everything was so clear after coming through all of that darkness on the ladder. The angels seemed to be celebrating a victory and cheering. I knew it was not for me coming up the Portal, but rather for a victory coming from somewhere else.

I saw Jesus on His Throne and He was still dressed in His beautiful armor. He was smiling and talking to several people in robes. He saw that I had just arrived and was laughing as if He were just wrapping up a great discussion. He then quieted them. All of these people that had gathered with Jesus then dispersed.

When He then looked at me, the biggest smile came upon His face and He looked so happy. I turned to look behind me to see if there was something else making Him smile like this.

I looked at the horse and he shook his head and stomped his left foot as if to say 'not me'. This made me smile as it actually seemed to be saying this, but without words.

The choir began to sing again. As I walked, I heard the melody build up and remembered a secular song by the Verve called Bittersweet Symphony that was similar to this. While the song the choir sang was similar, it did not have the depressing overtones and lyrics of the earthly version.

As I walked on the same stamped golden dirt as my last dream, the path became translucent like glass.

Angel escort: "Today, your King sits on the Throne of glory, the Bema Seat. Holy is He!"

All of Heaven rejoiced and clapped. The sound of the swooshing wings was like rushing water and music. There was a new atmosphere here; beautiful, but with a new level of power and celebration.

The minute I stood on this Sea of Glass, I realized I was walking on the holiest of ground. I was now barefoot on the sea. It felt like waves under my feet, but yet it was still. I laughed to myself as I went into my thoughts

Me: "So this is what walking on water is like."

My thoughts must have been transparent because I heard Jesus laughing. The sea was warm under my feet and my feet were beautiful. All of the years spent in dance shoes, running barefoot and walking in torturous high heels had actually gnarled my feet. Now they were transformed and I had beautiful feet.

Jesus reached out with His hand and stood like a complete gentlemen to welcome me. He personally helped me up to the lower part of His Throne. He sat above me. There were several risers, or stairs, leading up to His Throne.

When He reached for my hand, my clothing instantly transformed into a beautiful dress laced with silver and platinum and blue sapphires on the sleeves. The dress seemed perfectly formed to my shape.

My body, which had been similar to my current earthly body, reduced in size. Now, my body was the same as when I was a dancer. However, this time in Heaven, my body was now healthy and muscular, yet still supple and meek.

I know this may make no sense to you as this is hard to describe, but I have always been at war with my body. Indeed, I have fought my body tooth and nail and have never made 'peace with it'.

Talking in third person, I would say that 'it was a rebellious body, to say the least.' Jesus knew that I was grappling with past memories, and painful ones at that.

Jesus: Smiling. "You are fair."

Me: "So, I am just fair?"

Jesus: "Erin, fair is more than 'just fair'. The term 'fair' is not to be taken at face value; consider the lilies."

Over to my left was a field of lilies that I had not noticed before. He got up, stepped off of His Throne, took my arm in His and walked me over to the field of lilies. There were acres and acres of lilies as far as my eyes could see.

Jesus: "Look."

Jesus picked one of the lilies up and I looked at the petals, the shape, the stem, the color and the smell. I had never considered the details in these Heavenly lilies before. Then He waved His hand and I saw snow.

Jesus: "Come closer."

As I walked up to the snow, the angel had a beautiful magnifying glass held over the snowflakes. I could see several snowflakes magnified. They seemed almost chiseled or carved, each with such an amazing design, perfectly symmetrical and perfectly mathematical. Not only that, but the snowflakes did not even melt.

Jesus: "If I consider the lilies that are alive today and gone in a season and if I consider a snowflake that falls and melts within seconds, how much more would I consider you? You are worthy of being dressed in honor and service. You were made for so much more. Each living being on Earth is born and then dies, but is there not a purpose? Even the scientist recognizes this."

Me: "I guess I never thought to consider my place in Your heart."

Jesus: "If you just consider these two things and nothing more, then there would be no purpose. However, if you open your eyes and look around you, is it not everywhere?"

Suddenly, I saw eggs hatching and baby animals. I saw water breaking over rocks and forming a waterfall. I saw fountains, a pool, fish, clouds and mountains.

Jesus: "If I have considered all of this and created it and I have created you, have I also not given all of this to you for your pleasure as a gift? All you see here; is it not good, beneficial and meant to nourish you so that you might consider Me?"

At that moment, I dropped down on my knees in this beautiful grass and I wept. I cried out to Him, my Creator.

Me: "Who am I that You would consider me worthy of so much labor?"

Jesus: "Do your children ask this and would you not move mountains for them?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus was delighted that I understood. In that moment, I had a purpose under Him and a purpose here. He reached for my hand to pull me up.

Jesus: "Come, Erin, come."

He took me to a beautiful pool. It was bluish green and crystal clear. I could even see emeralds at the bottom of the pool.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "A beautiful spring of pure water."

Jesus: "No, Erin, look closer."

I saw my reflection in the pool next to His. I was radiant and beautiful. I looked wise, yet innocent. I looked healthy and alive. I looked happy and at peace.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I see myself as I always imagined."

Jesus: "Who do you see next to you?"

Me: "You."

Jesus: "What do you really see?"

Me: "I see the King pleased with me."

I began to cry into the pool and each tear made a ripple. I saw smaller angels swoop down into the water with tiny buckets and collect my tears.

Me: "Oh, what work, what detail and what labor!"

Jesus: "No." He was smiling. "What care, what joy and what service!"

I felt like royalty. It was amazing and breathtaking. Jesus reached for my hand as I was hesitating by the pool. I wanted to stay. He was laughing and seemed excited to be able to show me this and have me receive it.

Today, Jesus personally walked me back to the Portal. I reached out to hug Him. I held Him for so long and He held me back. The choir was still singing the Heavenly version of Bittersweet Symphony. I wept and I clung to Him.

He looked at me. He was taller than me. In Heaven, I am around 5'2" and He seems around a foot taller than me. He gently used the back of His hand to wipe my tears away. He reached down and kissed my cheek where the tears had fallen.

He then hugged me again. I simply did not want to leave Him and I could tell He wanted me to stay. I looked over at the horse that was still standing next to the Portal. He looked at the horse and then at me.

Jesus: "Would you like to get on the horse? Go ahead."

The horse bowed down for me to mount it. I reached down and hugged the beautiful white horse. As I sat up on top of the horse, I scanned as far as my eyes could see. This was such a beautiful landscape!

Between the smells of grass and lilies and the majestic mountains, I truly felt like royalty. I began to cry. He stood to the left of the horse and lifted me off. He put me down gently and put a small flower, a little fragrant white jasmine, in my hair. I could smell the flower.

Jesus: "Take comfort, My love, I have prepared all of this for you. Take courage and be strong, for I will come for you soon."

Me: "Oh, You are coming for us tomorrow?"

Jesus: "No, but you can come and see Me again tomorrow."

I realized I was not going to find out our coming Home date yet. As I looked behind Him, I saw angels setting up a table for a feast or a banquet.

Me: I joked with Him and smiled. "Am I getting an invitation for dinner?"

Jesus: "Yes. Is this not what you see being prepared?"

He smiled and waved as I went to the Portal. We both laughed together. As we laughed, I heard the angels declaring, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord, the Lamb of God!"

Angel: "Genesis has a nugget. The fountains and waters are in the Psalms."

Then the number '87' flashed before my eyes and I knew this was important. I also saw Genesis 1:6 and a dome.

Dream over...

Dream 017 – Song of Songs Blossoms

Sunday, November 18, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:34 PM

Dream begins...

The atmosphere today was dark and heavy with smoke. The air was searing cold and the ground was layered in snow five inches thick. There was an entire battalion of angels; perhaps a thousand angels or more. There were so many angels above me that it would be virtually impossible for any weapon to break through this divine shield.

I heard a battle of epic proportions above me. The enemy was not able to get through. I know the enemy wanted to kill me this very day, if he was allowed to. The angels lining the path today stood so close together that the swords made a lattice of metal above me.

There was a warm wind today on the path. However, it was very cold outside of the path. As this warm wind hit the swords, it made music and was amazing. I kept looking at the swords and they were incredible.

Breakthrough was at the base of the ladder using his funny 'whistle call' to direct my attention to the ladder. Breakthrough motioned for me to go first up the ladder.

I realized that I had never really paid that much true attention to Breakthrough before this, other than the sounds he made and the blue flames that seemed to come off of his wings.

In a nutshell, Breakthrough was, in earthly terms, incredibly handsome. His eyes radiated with sympathy, but yet still did not have the depth that Jesus had in His eyes. I also noticed that Breakthrough's eyes seemed to always have a small tear.

Breakthrough always welcomed me with a smile and was always excited to take me up the ladder. I also knew, by his standing, that he was the head of a larger army, perhaps even our guardian angels. While I do not really know this, to see the resources God has laid out for us and the painstaking detail organized by the King that He is, no detail is left undone.

God is both a 'right-brained, creative romantic', yet He is equally 'left-brained, mathematical, logical and highly organized'. He truly is for everyone and we are part of Him.

As I climbed the ladder, it was lined with angels. Each of these angels held the ladder with one arm and had their sword drawn with the other arm. It was intense as I heard the battle raging around me.

My 'rear-guard angel' made a breeze with his sword. I kept wondering that, if one of these swords was to slip and fly at me, that this would surely be my end. I laughed as I knew that this would never happen.

I wished that all of our military could see the formations that these angel warriors were putting together. It was truly the art of war. I never thought about war as artful before. Surely you could stand here and learn so much more about the art of strategy and battle that I had ever known. It was truly amazing.

I felt so safe and protected. Funny, I had neither one hair out of place nor a single bruise, yet, here I was, walking right through the battlefield. However, I also do not believe I was really in the thick of the battle.

Today, at the top of the ladder, I looked across to find Jesus on the Throne with His wings still about two-thirds spread. He was speaking to the twenty four elders, all of them in robes. They were gathered below Him to talk and discuss things.

The conversation seemed serious, but, when Jesus looked up to see me, He immediately smiled and joked. They all laughed, with one of them waving at me. The business was serious, but it ended on a positive note.

As I was being escorted by my greeting angel, Breakthrough again stood near the Portal. As the angel folded his arm in mine, he began to take me across this beautiful Sea of Glass. I was barefoot and I could feel the warmth under my feet.

I looked off for a moment toward the banquet table and I could see that the table was not yet fully prepared. I felt immediately disappointed as I wanted to dine with the King. I looked at Jesus and immediately wondered if I had come too early.

Angel: "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God almighty! Blessed is the Lamb Who sits on the Throne in majesty. Holy is He!"

Then Bittersweet Symphony began to play as I approached Him. Jesus looked so 'beautiful', for lack of a better word, and He looked at me as if He was pleased with me. I became suddenly shy and embarrassed by His attention. He stood to greet me and gently reached for both of my hands.

Jesus: "Come with Me."

The moment He touched my hands with His, my clothing transformed into a beautiful gown that was airy and light. I had a braided crown; but not a real crown; more like the crown of a maiden.

I had a necklace with jewels braided into my hair. This necklace dropped a jewel down on my forehead. My dress seemed almost Irish, or even northern European in origin. There were braided ribbons of gold across my bodice. Thoughts came to me.

Me: "Why all the different gowns, especially when they seemed like they were from all different parts of the globe or different nations?"

I took a mental note to research for later. Jesus began to run ahead of me, almost like we were playing tag. He was laughing and we were having the best of times. More thoughts came to me.

Me: "Wow, in all of my depictions of Jesus and my understanding of Him, I never knew, or had even heard of, Him running."

He was, quite simply, the perfect athlete. I chased after Him at full sprint and He let me catch Him under this beautiful tree. The tree was huge, old and exquisite with large branches. This tree was one of the most amazing sights.

I looked around for all of the angels as I was used to having a crowd, but there were just a couple of attendants and His white horse. Now, back to the tree; how can I describe this without ruining the visual?

Well, it was a deciduous tree with beautiful leaves. It had fruit, yet it was shaped like an oak tree. In reality, it seemed to contain aspects of every variety of tree here on Earth. Not only that, but there were several different fruits, with each fruit being so pretty.

The leaves were almost the shape of an aspen tree's leaves, but they formed a heart shape. When the leaves moved, they made a sound like chimes in harmony or a mini-choir of angels. I could see so many colors in these leaves.

Next to the tree there was a river. The river was not huge, but more like the size of a stream. The river contained rainbow trout and the water looked like glaciated water. I knelt down by the bank.

I was in awe at the sight of the river. I had seen a river like this once before near Chateau Lake Louise in Canada, but this was beyond compare.

The fish in the river were beautiful; the rainbow trout were truly 'rainbow' trout. I laughed about this as I began to reach my hand into the water.

Jesus: "Would you like a drink?"

Me: "Yes."

Just then, Jesus took a beautiful golden chalice and dipped it into the river. He took a drink first, as if to test it, then He gave it to me. We were drinking from the same cup; I was drinking water from His cup! My tears must have been an indicator of the magnitude of the moment.

Jesus: "What is wrong? Do you not like the water?"

I began to cry because, in that moment, I realized I was like the woman at the well. I was overcome with tears. One of the 'mini-angels' flew over and collected my tears, along with some of the water from the cup, in this 'mini-bucket'. They then flew off in order to have this recorded.

Jesus reached over and hugged me to comfort me.

Jesus: "What did you taste in the cup?"

Me: "It was so rich, yet cool and sweet."

Jesus: "Yes, this is good water."

He began to laugh. His smile was huge.

Me: "I do not want to break the mood, but, when I saw You yesterday, You seemed heavy hearted and there was nothing I could do to comfort You."

Jesus: "Yes, this is a very difficult time. The outcome is bittersweet, but my Father knows My business and I understand His. You should not worry, but rejoice. Your prayers for Me are dearly treasured."

Then Jesus lifted me off of the ground and spun me around playfully. We were facing the tree.

Jesus: "Come here and look."

As I looked at the trunk of this tree, every fiber of its bark bore life. The tree base was thick; approximately twelve feet in diameter. As my hand rolled over it, I saw the lives of people, billions of people, woven into this trunk.

As my hand ran over it, there were waves of light and music. When I pulled my hand off of the trunk, the light and music stopped. When I put my hand back on, the tree again lit up and made sounds.

I was giggling. Jesus started laughing and seemed amused at my curiosity. I turned around and hugged Him and He hugged me back.

Me: "This is amazing."

Jesus: "What kind of tree do you see?"

Me: "Well, it is composed of lives. Is this the Tree of Life?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes."

Then, with a wave of His arm, I could see the inside cross-section of the rings in this amazing tree.

Me: "What are these?"

Jesus: "Did you not study this in school or consider this?"

I laughed and remembered my science and biology classes. I gingerly spoke in reply as I was not a very good student of science.

Me: "The rings represent the age of the tree."

Jesus: "Yes, but what do you see? Look even closer."

I saw so many rings that I suddenly realized that they were earmarks of history from the Garden of Eden; perhaps from even before this. I realize that I keep forgetting to place Jesus there as He seems so completely modern to me here.

Me: "This is a very old tree."

I realized I did not have understanding of all of it.

Jesus: He laughed. "Yes, it is."

He led me by my hand to the other side of the tree where there was a beautiful blanket at the base of the trunk. Some angels had just finished laying out a picnic for us. I was excited, but I turned to Him with a question.

Me: "I thought we were having dinner?"

Jesus: "I know you did. The table is being prepared and there is much to prepare."

We suddenly had a bird's eye view of the banquet table. The table was huge. There were droves of angels putting this endeavor together.

Me: "I thought You had said that the preparations were finished?"

Immediately, I stopped myself as this was clearly not going according to my plans. I realized I was making it about me and I felt sorry I was doing this. Jesus laughed, almost like a husband would when he had a special surprise for his wife.

Jesus: "Yes, everything is in place for the reception, but do you want your food to be cold or your wine to be stale?"

Me: I was pretending to pout and grumble. "Of course not."

Jesus: "Look."

There, before us, was a mini banquet with what looked like a fire roasted pita. There was a bottle of wine, but not in a modern bottle. The bottle was blown, or spun, glass with a woven leather casing with jewels. I have never seen anything like this.

We reclined into comfortable positions in order to dine on this sumptuous meal. All the elements were before us as He divided the bread in half and gave me a piece of this. He then poured wine into a chalice and took a sip to make sure it was a good wine. An angel then poured more wine in the cup and Jesus handed me the cup to drink.

Jesus: "Please, Erin, have some bread with Me."

He lovingly tapped my elbow to get me to raise the bread to my lips at the same time He did. In that moment, as we dined on the bread together, it felt so symbolic of what He did on the Cross that I began to cry.

Jesus: "What are you thinking?"

Me: "What a priceless moment. One thousand kings could give me the money of nations, but, for this one moment, I would never trade it."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "We ate bread together under this amazing tree."

He smiled with such love for me that my hands can barely type it.

Me: "Lord, I have never been loved like this on Earth."

Jesus: "I have always loved you like this; all of you."

Me: "Why not sooner? Why now?"

Jesus: "Are not all good things coveted or stolen?"

Me: "Yes."

I remembered each time, in an instant, where someone stole my dreams by their words or dashed my hopes, thereby destroying my joy.

Jesus: "This is the perfect time."

Then He reached up and handed me the cup. I waited for His direction.

Jesus: "Erin, please, drink."

He then took the cup out of my hand. He symbolically placed the cup to His lips at the same spot that I drank from to show me that He was my cupbearer and was looking after me.

Jesus: "What did you taste?"

Me: I started giving Him a 'wine report'. "It was good; fruity, full body, red and rich."

Jesus: He began to laugh. "No, really, what did you taste?"

He gave me the cup again and I put my lips to the spot where He drank.

Me: "I felt as if I drank in unconditional love like nothing on Earth. When I drank, I could feel the love that only You could have for us course through my body. I could feel my blood being mixed with this wine."

I realized that this warm rush I tasted from the wine was His unconditional love pouring out to me and, really, to all of us.

He smiled and waved for the angels to clear the blanket. We lay next to each other on our backs looking up at the sky. It was time to have fun cloud watching; I loved this as a child.

We were both looking up at the stunning sky. The clouds cast no shadows nor did they block the light. He held my hand like a loving father would hold his daughter's hand. We stayed there for the longest time looking up at the sky.

Me: "I never want to leave."

Jesus: "I never want you to go."

When He began to get up, I noticed that His horse was lying down by the river and rose when Jesus did. The cape of purple was draped over His shoulders. He wore His Crown as He helped me on His horse.

He put me on the front of His horse and held the horse's mane to make sure I would be secure. We then went to the Portal. He reached for my hand to help me off the horse. He reached down, held both of my hands and looked right at me.

He smiled into my eyes and held my hands as I began to step to the Portal. Leaving here was getting more difficult and He hugged me for a long time. No words were spoken. My head was right over His heartbeat and it formed part of the song.

I heard the Heavenly version of the Bittersweet Symphony song playing. Finally, as I went to go, Jesus said 'goodbye for now' to me at the Portal.

The Portal closed as I descended. The angels were in the same formation as before. Oh, how I hated to go back to Earth this time.

Dream over...

Dream 018 – Song of Songs Heightens

Monday, November 19, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:39 PM

Dream begins...

I have been going through a lot lately. I have not wanted to watch or even read anything just in case I was to muddle the dream's message. Indeed, I actually hit crisis mode after I posted Dream 17.

I was trying to understand why the Lord chose me for this. I received my answer and, in a way, I think I always knew this answer, but it was still hard to grasp that I could be used for anything after having a life like mine.

I could not sleep last night and I tossed and turned. I finally got up at 3:45am and went to pray and take communion. Until He calls me Home, communion will be a practice I am going to live by.

I have been in prayer for Israel as she is our sister. I have been in prayer for Jesus and for Heaven to come down. Everything seems to be unfolding right before our very eyes. Here was my prayer to God from early this morning:

Dear Father,

Your Son means everything to me. Please let nothing ever separate Him from me. I never want to be apart from Him as He is my portion and my cup forever. If I never live beyond this day, then my life will be complete. I search for Him wherever I am.

I look for Him in everything I do. I never knew this earthly love, but I always longed for it. You saw something in me that was worthy, although I did not see it. I was created for You. You sent Your Son, Jesus, to me.

The divine care and covering You have provided over me and my household is amazing. May the days that I remain here on Earth be divine days and becoming of a child of a royal line.

There is no greater love than what You have offered to us in Jesus. Your Son, Jesus, is my love and I cannot bare to think of Him suffering in any way. May You bless Him and keep Him. May He be blessed. May Your perfect will be done on Earth as it is in Heaven.

Dream begins...

I noticed that, today, the path had roughly twice as many angels as the previous visit. This time, the angels and their swords formed a complete roof of light over the path. The battle continues to rage above us.

There is a different group of unusually large angels fighting at the dome. As I approached the path this morning, I saw the head of the black dragon. It came out of the smoke at me as I approached the path. Its head was the size of my house.

The dragon wanted to devour me. Several angels began to attack this beast to ward it off. I saw the angels' swords hitting into the dragon, along with the sound of metal breaking. At this point, the dragon was not going down.

Several angels ushered me in under their covering of the path. I paused for a moment while my heart raced. I ran quickly for the ladder. There was still five inches of snow on the ground.

Breakthrough greeted me again. This time, the art of war was ramped up and the ladder was lined with angels. Breakthrough went first and my angel with the many swords was climbing up behind me.

The sounds were deafening. However, I could still hear voices in the smoke calling me by name. As the voices sounded somewhat familiar to me, I began to focus on the voices. Breakthrough quickly turned and put his hands over my ears in order to shelter me from their voices.

Just then, the red dragon moved to my left and he was huge. I saw a wall about six feet high of red scales. I heard the sound of this beast. It was like the old Godzilla movies, but so much louder and more horrifying. It was trying to destroy me and the ladder.

Several angels came up and shielded me. One of the angels looked like a very high ranking angel and was similar to one of the archangels that had went after the dragon. The angel pulled out a huge sword and stabbed the dragon. The dragon quickly retreated. I could see the wall of red move across the landscape.

The screech the dragon made from the sword thrust was so loud that it shook the ladder inside the protective dome. However, I had so many angels there that I knew I would not be harmed. Breakthrough pulled me up the Portal.

Now, I have not really explained the Portal, but it is quite amazing. As I climb up the ladder and I am looking up, I see nothing but thick clouds and no hole is visible. However, as I get closer to the top, the clouds suddenly open up slightly and I can climb through them. When I ascend above the clouds for a short time, there I am, in Heaven, in a completely separate and wonderful setting.

As I looked back down through the Portal, I saw that the angels lining the ladder were fighting into the darkness. As I came out of the Portal, the air went from thick, humid and cold to light, clear and the perfect temperature.

As I stood by the Portal, I searched for Jesus. There He was, on His throne, with His wings opened to three-quarters today. They were so beautiful and shimmering. He was not meeting with anyone but me today.

Again, as my greeting angel walked me toward Him, I heard Bittersweet Symphony play. The interesting thing is this music builds and keeps rising as I get closer to Him. My heart began to race.

As I was walking toward Him, His white horse came up and nudged my right elbow to greet me. I noticed that the horse had several strands of wheat in its mouth. I turned and kissed the side of his nose. The horse prompted me to carry the wheat to Jesus. The horse stayed behind as I did.

As I walked toward Jesus, a large horn was blown. The sound of the horn was beautiful. I turned to see where the sound was coming from. I saw a stunning angel with a beautiful shofar that was both translucent and luminescent.

Hanging from the shofar were tassels of blue. There was sterling silver trim with heavy engraving around the shofar. It was one of the most beautiful horns I had ever seen. The sound vibrated every cell in my body until the sound of the horn finally stopped.

There was then silence for three minutes. I am not sure how I know this, but for the full three minutes, the effects of the horn continued to vibrate through my system and my ears. The angels then sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb, who sits on His throne, He is Holy and righteous, just and true, Holy is He!"

Then there was silence. Finally, the angel spoke to me.

Angel: "Go to the King. Go to the Lamb."

The angel told me I could now go to Jesus and the music began to play again. I went from walking towards Him to a full on run. I just could not wait any longer to see Him. Jesus came down from His Throne to receive me. The risers from the Throne were almost seven feet high.

He took my left hand while my right hand held the wheat. I looked into His eyes and I saw a field of wheat. There, I saw myself sitting in this field from a dream from three months ago. I was wearing white. The wheat was blowing and small pieces were blowing from it. The sun was bright.

At the time of this dream, it was September 1st, 2012. I remember the date as it was exactly seven days before my coworkers wedding on September 8th, 2012. I looked at Jesus and felt I should describe Him for you.

He has very strong features with beautiful blue green eyes that penetrate one's very soul. As my eyes searched His face, I saw that His hair was as white as snow and like silk. I looked upon Him with a love I did not even know I could have for anyone.

There is no stain in Jesus as He is perfect and, well, beautiful! His Crown was gold with seven spires on each top. Under these spires were thousands of encrusted jewels. Every jewel from His chest plate was represented and I saw rainbows reflecting off of these jewels.

The light of His eminence caused the light of what appeared to be many rainbows to come off of His Crown. He smiled as He gently took the wheat from out of my right hand.

Jesus: "Come, I have something to show you."

He was in His full armor. I noticed that His wings simply disappeared the minute He walked off of the Throne's risers. In their place, He now had a cape of purple velvet. He held the wheat and reached for my hand again.

He walked ahead of me and I followed Him. The horse was near the base of the Throne's riser. This time, my clothing was a beautiful, sterling silver armor fitted over a simple yet elegant white gown.

However, this was not full armor like I would wear in a war, but more like His; a form fitting breastplate, with sterling silver boots complete with shin guards. I had a sword on my left side. My dress underneath was made of beautiful linen.

My hair was braided back. I had a crown of twelve flowers of different varieties woven with my hair. There were metal fabric ribbons coming from it. He got on the horse first and I went behind him and rested my head on His shoulder. As we rode, I could hear His sword clanking on my boot.

We rode past fountains, springs, orchards, meadows and forests. There was also a small quaint village we rode by where everyone waved at Him as we rode past. He smiled and waved at them.

Finally, we approached a wheat field. This was the same one from my dream back on September 1st, 2012. He patted His horse and the horse went lower in order to aid our dismount. An angel came up and helped me off.

After this, Jesus dismounted and stood in this wheat field. The wind was blowing the wheat. It was ready to be harvested. This time He did not hug me, even though I wanted Him to and He knew it.

Jesus: Smiling. "So, Erin, what is wrong?"

Me: I pretended to pout. "I missed You and I came through this huge battle just to get here."

He laughed good naturedly, came over and picked me off of the ground. He spun me around and kissed me on the cheek. Then He set me on the ground and hugged me.

Jesus: "What, did you think I did not love you anymore?"

Me: "I was worried that I did not please You."

He smiled and looked down amongst the wheat. There in the midst was a beautiful and perfect red rose. He picked the rose up, as well as a very large shiny object. An angel took the object while Jesus came over to me. Jesus then took the rose and placed it over my left ear in my hair. I was shocked when the rose started making music.

Rose: Repeating. "Erin, you are loved by the King and the King loves you with all of His heart."

Jesus: Smiling and laughing. "There, Erin, does this help?"

I jumped on Him with my beautiful armor dress and I flung my arms around Him. I looked in His eyes and I could see every feeling of love I ever had. Every feeling of longing, joy and elation were all coming from His glorious eyes.

Now, please keep in mind, and as I mentioned before, this was not sexual in anyway, but a Godly love very similar to that found in the Song of Songs. Indeed, I felt secure in His love as He gently hugged me.

He then set me down and motioned towards the angel holding the shiny object.

Jesus: "Okay."

The angel handed Him the object. I saw that the object was actually a sickle. Jesus took off His cape.

Jesus: "Erin, wait here, off to the side."

Then I saw Him cutting the wheat with the sickle. When I looked again at the field, suddenly hundreds of thousands of angels appeared to help Him cut the wheat.

Me: " Lord, I thought that the harvest season was over?"

Jesus: "Really, has it not just begun?"

I looked over and saw that some wheat had been cut awhile back and it was lying off to the side next to the banks of the River of Life. I realized that the harvest had two seasons. This confused me and I must have looked the part.

Jesus: "Come."

The angel handed me the sickle and Jesus instructed me to cut down some of the wheat with Him. As we did, the angels gathered up the wheat behind us. Admittedly, my bunches were so small compared to His huge bunches.

Jesus was, by far, the best harvester in the wheat field. When we finished, I was exhausted. He grabbed the chalice out of a pouch on the horse and scooped it into the river. Again, He tasted it first and then handed it to me.

Jesus: "Erin, drink."

I drank from the very same spot as He did. He hugged me and then walked me to His horse. He helped me mount the horse and then tied a bundle of wheat to a small pack at the rear. We then went back to the Portal.

The horse was such an amazing animal and just beautiful. When we got back to the Portal, His horse bent down and Jesus helped me dismount.

Jesus: "Oh yes, one other thing."

He turned to a type of saddle pack on the horse and He pulled out a pretty rectangular cloth. It was fine linen and white. He gently put this on the top of my head. I looked confused.

Jesus: He smiled and chuckled. "It is going to rain."

He reached in to kiss my cheek and quickly jumped on the horse to ride back to His Throne. I smiled when I saw that His cape was gone and His wings were back. I saw the twenty four robed elders beginning to gather again. He turned and waved back at me.

Angel: "Look to the Word. The harvest is in and the time is coming. See this and be joyful."

What a blessing this dream was. I have to run. I am praying it blesses everyone.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 019 – Song of Songs is Misunderstood

Tuesday, November 20, 2012

08-05-2016, 02:44 PM

Dream begins...

A roof of many swords from the angels, even more now than there were even yesterday, covered and lined the path today. There was a light dusting of fresh snow. Below this, it was quiet. I could hear birds.

I saw two robins walking across the path. One robin was skinny and needed food, while the other was fat. The fat bird kept stealing the seed from the skinny bird. They were walking along the path and fighting over seeds that had fallen to the ground. This seemed odd to me.

As I approached the path today, I looked above me and the entire dome was literally covered by the dragon. The belly of the beast was completely over the dome. I could see the scales of red as per usual, but, for some reason, I noticed that some of the scales were now black.

After looking at the dragon even closer, I realized that these were actually two dragons enmeshed together. This combination of the red dragon and the black dragon formed a kind of bond over the dome.

The warrior angels were inflicting heavy blows on the dragons. Drove and drove of angels at least nine feet tall, and some even larger, encompassed the roof of the dome. They were all there to protect me from these dragons. There were even angels between the dome and the canopy of swords. These angels were flying and ringing bells. The bells were keeping me from hearing the battle raging.

When the beast would shift, the entire dome would rattle. It was trying to sit on the dome and crush all of us. Three large angels carrying something like blow torches with blue flames swooped across the dome searing the beast's belly. The beast, really beasts, screeched in pain.

Occasionally, I saw claws coming in and scooping up the heavenly angels and pulling them outside of the safe area. In contrast, while this continued, now that I was under the canopy, I could only hear the crunching of the snow and the chirps of the two birds.

Breakthrough was at the base of the ladder and waved for me to hurry. This time, I had fear as I reached the base of the ladder. I looked up and saw the two giant dragon heads near the Portal. Seven large angels came to take blows at the dragons' heads.

Breakthrough whistled and two angels came with black drapes and covered the battle so I could not see it. This allowed me to simply focus on the light at the Portal. Once I finally reached the top, my greeter angel smiled and reached for my hand.

I immediately started looking for Jesus and there He was. From a distance, I saw Him stand up and I began to step towards Him. However, for some reason, the greeter angel held me back in order for me to wait a bit longer.

Suddenly, the Shofar sounded two blows, then a pause, two blows, a pause, two blows and then one very long blow. Then there was no sound for about ten seconds. Then there was a loud, very long and deep blow that seemed to actually permeate my entire body. Then there was silence again for exactly three minutes.

I looked toward my King and He motioned that I could now come to visit Him.

Angel: "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb, Holy is He, He is just, He is good, Holy is He!" The angel then turned to me in a quiet voice. "The Lord is on the Bema Seat today."

As I walked toward Jesus on the Sea of Glass, my feet suddenly became incredibly beautiful. This just amazed me. The Bittersweet Symphony song, or something quite similar, began to play again. The music built up to a higher wave as I approached Him.

Around me were what seemed to be billions and billions of angels and I suddenly realized that Heaven would prevail over what I had just come through, even against those terrible dragons.

As per usual, Jesus was truly a beautiful sight. He stood in front of me in His full armor again. His wings were around three quarters open, but , in reality, I simply could not tell the precise fraction. He wore His crown and His hair was white again. His sword was hung upon His left side.

The risers of the Throne were now about nine feet high. There was a platform where the twenty four elders gathered in robes. This time it seemed that they were standing instead of sitting. It seemed as if I had interrupted an important meeting. They dispersed as I approached.

Jesus stepped down two of the Throne's risers in order to greet me. He reached for my right hand with His left hand. I noticed that my gown was absolutely beautiful and was composed of hundreds, if not thousands, of stars made of blue sapphires.

The dress was quite heavy, which I thought was unusual since it was the first time anything had felt even slightly weighty here in Heaven. Even the solid sterling armor was light in comparison.

As He reached for my hand, an angel from the right came and put a small stool next to His left side. My seat was next to His, but lower. Four angels came and assembled a beautiful arch of fragrant red roses. There were thousands and thousands of roses.

There were also large magnolia leaves with dark green on top and bronze underneath. This giant structure, or arch, just behind the Throne, was about nine feet high, twelve feet wide and six feet thick. I could smell the roses.

Jesus could tell what I was thinking and He looked in my eyes. I began to chuckle, remembering a few weeks ago smelling roses in my parking lot at work. He held my hands in front of Him so that we stood face to face. He was a foot taller than me, so I was looking up at His eyes.

He looked majestic as He is our King. Seeing Him working in the field yesterday made me feel so secure in His love. However, now, to stand before Him like this, with His power, I felt so honored and adored.

As I looked into His eyes, they became like a window. In this window of His eyes, I saw terrible wind, a storm, stormy seas and Earth shattering events. I saw explosions, famine and murder. I saw children being slaughtered.

I immediately let go of His hand, put my head down and covered my eyes as I wept. It was horrifying. As I wept, those little angels with buckets came to collect my tears and record them.

Me: "Why did You show me this?"

Jesus: "As you are My betrothed, do you not want to know My business?" He said this with sadness as He knew the pain that was soon to befall the Earth.

Me: "Of course."

He then turned, took my hand and showed me around to the back of the Throne. There before me were two tables. One of the tables was very long and stretched out farther than I could even see.

The table was still being lavishly set and there were white, red, gold and silver settings. There were several gold menorahs lined down the table. To the left of the table was another table.

This table was much shorter and closer to the Throne. It was set with all blue, white and silver settings. The Star of David was embossed into the fabric, as well as some Hebrew inscriptions that I did not recognize. There were no menorahs on this table. I was confused by the two tables.

Me: "What is this?"

Jesus: "Only a few will be near My Altar."

Then, from my right, a large angel stood before us with giant weighing scales. The scales were beautiful and made of bronze. The scales were equally balanced.

Jesus then reached over and took something from the angel. It was a blue sapphire knob and it was heavy, like a weight or lead. He then placed this on the scale to the right. Another angel came up and held out a heavy bag.

Jesus took out the weights and placed them on the scales. There were ten weights altogether. An angel arranged them to form a pyramid so that they would not tip over.

The weights were green, red, yellow, white and blue. The paint on the weights was chipped, peeling and cracking, exposing black and cheap metal. When He placed the weights on the scales, the scales tipped.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I see this as unfairly balanced." An angel came over and put a blind fold over the eyes of the angel holding the scales. "Oh, blind justice!"

Jesus: "Yes."

It seemed as if Jesus was sad in His demeanor and heavy hearted today. I did not like this, but there just was not anything I could do about it.

Me: "Why not focus on the settings at the very large table. Is this not great?"

Jesus: He smiled and hugged me. "It is about the long journey that the table represents. This long table represents those who come by faith. This table..." He pointed to the short table. "represents those that rejected Me. This is the truth."

He reached over for a carafe of pure water that was from the River of Life. He took it and poured it into a clear glass chalice of crystal. As He poured it, it turned into wine. I clapped and I must have jumped in surprise as I had temporarily forgotten all that He had done here on Earth, including turning water into wine.

He smiled at me and chuckled. He was clearly amused by me. He reached for the cup and tasted it. Then He gave it to me to drink from the same spot He had put His lips. At that moment, I cried again. If they had seen the Jesus that stands before me, they would have never rejected Him.

Jesus: "So, what do you taste?"

Me: Smiling. "I taste water mixed with wine."

Jesus: "Yes."

He reached for my hand and lifted me up the riser, all the way to the back of the Throne under the arch of roses. The roses were so beautiful and fragrant.

I looked up into His eyes. There I saw, from the time I was just a consideration and a tiny spec, through every course in my life. I remembered all of the smells, people, pain, death, anguish, joy, childbirth and rebuke. I welled up with tears and began to cry.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

Me: "It is hard to see."

Jesus: "I have been with you and so you will be with Me."

Me: "I could not find You until later."

Jesus: "When you looked into My eyes, what did you see?"

Me: "I saw my whole journey."

Jesus: "That was in My eyes, correct?"

Me: "Yes, it was in Your eyes."

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, I chose you, you did not choose Me."

I wept outright. Again, this little angel came in and swooped up my tears in order to record them. I was barefoot in this beautiful gown. Jesus seemed very tall in comparison to me. He reached up for a beautiful large red rose. The rose had pearls as dew.

He smelled it and then handed the rose to me. I took a deep breath and took in the amazing fragrance. Nothing on Earth can duplicate the smell as it was rich and intoxicating.

He took the rose from my hand, smelled it one more time Himself and put it in my hair over my left ear. My hair today was dark, long and wavy. The rose again sang to me about how much He loves me and repeated this over and over again. It was so sweet.

Jesus: "You are My jewel and My love."

I was crying because I knew our time was over for today and that He had pressing business. He sent me off to the angel. As I looked back, He stood and watched me go all the way back to the Portal.

I waved and He smiled, although not as brightly today for His heart was heavy about what was coming. The twenty four elders were gathering back together on the platform. They were laying out a scroll or map and looking at it.

From my vantage point, I could not tell what the map was of. One of the elders turned and waved at me and I waved back. The angel reached out and put the small cloth over my head.

Angel: "It is still raining. You should take cover. Look for Jesus and He will be found by you. His eyes are on the sparrow." The angel smiled.

Me: "Where is this written? Is this in Isaiah?"

Angel: "Many places, but Isaiah 54."

Just then, the rose began to whisper: "You are loved by the King and He is pleased with you."

Dream over...

This was a heavy dream today and I have been downcast. In this dream, Jesus repeated to me things that He had told me before about my place in His heart. However, I believe this is meant for all of us, not just me.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 20 – Bitter words try to stop the dreams

Received Friday, November 23, 2012

One of my favorite Psalms that certainly fits this season of my life can be found in Psalms 119:145: "I call with all my heart, answer me, O Lord, and I will obey Your decrees. I call out to You. Save me and I will keep Your statutes. I rise before dawn and cry for help. I have put my hope in Your Word. My eyes stay open through the watches of the night so that I may meditate on Your promises. Hear my voice in accordance with Your love and preserve my life, O Lord, according to Your laws."

Jeremiah 29:13-14: "You will seek Me and find Me when you seek Me with all of your heart."

Dream begins...

The path in front of me looked like an illuminated tent. The angels were standing side by side together. The snow was still five inches deep, crisp and icy. Above me was an amazing sight. There were angels in attack mode completely covering the dome.

The dome now seemed to breathe. This beast, still black and red, was using all of its force to try to crush the dome and all of us under its weight. There were two more large columns that had been added to the dome. With these, this now created four pillars, wherein each tipped and pointed north, east, south and west.

I could hear the ground thundering as it vibrated and shook. I stood still as I came to the entrance of the path. Outside of the path, there was great noise. Under the covering of the canopy, or tent, it was quiet. The two robins were still there.

One of the robins was even fatter than yesterday. Indeed, it was now ridiculously fat and there was no way it could fly. It could barely jump around. The other little robin lay on the ground on its side. I picked it up to comfort it and put it in my hand.

I could feel its tiny bones and its broken wings. I remembered a slogan used by the 'fish and game department': "If you care, you will leave them there." I thought, 'not this time', as I picked the little robin up and put it into my flannel shirt pocket.

I frowned at the little fat robin. Just then, I saw the fat robin wander off of the path, right into the middle of the war zone, perhaps to look for even more food.

Breakthrough whistled to me while he stood at the base of the ladder. He motioned for me to hurry to him. I could see the forms of these dragons' heads coming at me as I climbed the ladder.

As I was going up the ladder, I could hear a flood of voices coming from the dragons' heads saying horrible things about me. The voices were accusing me of so many things. As these words were spoken, an angel with a large book collected the words, while another angel wrote the words in a book.

As the angel wrote the words, the words became like daggers. The book was large; about thirty inches wide when open, thirty inches long and was about seven inches thick. The pages were pure white prior to the writing, but the writing was so awful, they became dirty, muddy and stained. The pages were even now letting off an odor that was horrible. The ink turned from a beautiful gold ink to a bright crimson red. When the book was filled, it was carefully sealed with a lock and key. The keys and the book both went with the angel through the Portal.

As I climbed, I was shocked that the words against me were so brutal. I was also surprised at my physical reaction as, while my body climbed, I began to die. My skin turned transparent and I could see everything; my veins, my flesh and my muscles. I was withering away as these words were killing me.

As I neared the top of the Portal, the hand of the angel pulled me through the Portal with the assistance of Breakthrough. It took a moment to regain my composure. Another angel came and poured a carafe of water from the River of Life over me. It was like liquid gold.

Another angel handed me a chalice of water to drink. Another angel then came to dry me off. My pajamas turned to a type of dress made of torn pages of these horrible books written about me from the dragons' lies. Indeed, I was now wearing a gown of lies.

The lies were in so many different languages and were so numerous that it felt heavy. I saw the angel with the books lift a few more through onto a type of cart. Altogether, there were three books filled with horrible things said about me. I stared for a while, realizing yet again that I was wearing a gown of these lies as well.

Breakthrough turned me away from the gown of lies so that I would not focus on that. I turned and saw Jesus there. What a beautiful sight. His wings had shifted again. He was still dressed in armor and had His crown of gold with jewels.

After I had just come through that battle, I was looking forward to spending some time with Him. However, with everything He had heard from these dragons, I wondered if He had changed His mind about me. The angel held me back for now as I was not to go to Jesus yet. I noticed that, around my feet, beautiful golden dust had a pattern stamped in it that would be mathematically impossible to recreate. The huge Sea of Glass stood before me and seemed to also be expanding with each visit.

I stood there and heard the Shofar blow. There were several blows ending with a long blow and then silence for exactly three minutes. I looked around me and I could see that there were millions of children of all different sizes and cultures dressed in beautiful white robes with golden faces.

Their robes were illuminated and they began to sing. I recognized the song! It was Rich Mullins, "My Deliverer." It took my breath away and I began to weep. My greeter angel nudged me to keep me focused. The children then stopped singing.

The angel announced: "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb of God! His ways are just and true! May His name be praised! Holy is He!"

The angel then smiled and turned toward me with such sympathetic eyes

Angel: "He is on the Bema Seat today!"

The choir of children sang "My Deliverer" again as I approached the risers of the Throne. This time, Jesus reached out for my hand. When He touched my hand, my tattered robe suddenly turned to a white robe with beautiful scripts that created a quilted gown. It was a tapestry with illuminated fabrics and was stunning.

He sat on the top riser and opened His wings, motioning for me to sit next to Him under His wing. I cried when I remembered reading about this the night before in Psalms. I was safe. My demeanor was quiet today. I was bruised.

We sat for a while looking out over this majestic landscape. This choir of children looked like they were singing on the banks of the Nile. There was a golden glow around them. It was truly amazing. I wept with tears streaming down my cheeks.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

Me: "I am hurt."

Jesus: "Over what?"

I turned to look at Him and He had such love and sympathy on His face for me.

Me: "Those books contain horrible lies about me."

Jesus: "Did you believe them?"

Me: "At first I did not, but then they began to become a part of me. The words of lies actually seemed to begin to kill me slowly."

Jesus: "Yes, but what else?"

Me: "When the lies were spoken, they exposed my layers of flesh."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "I felt exposed, transparent and weak."

Jesus: "Then why did you stay so long there?"

Just then, I realized that I stayed there long enough for three huge books to be written about me.

Me: "I do not know. I guess I wanted to hear what people thought. I guess I thought I could change it."

Jesus: "Did that work?"

He was kind of chuckling, like He knew all about this.

Me: "No, I did not even get the chance to."

Jesus: "The world first hated Me, so you too will be hated. It is an age old condition. There are two things to remember, two things that exist which are at war. One is the Author of the book of truth, speaking good and breathing life into your body. Then there is the author of the book of lies.

He speaks of all kinds of evil. What do you notice?"

He then showed me the scene from the ladder. The beast started by slowly speaking evil. Then it started to pour out faster and faster. The scribes could barely write fast enough. Then He showed me a beautiful mountain peak, like from the Swiss Alps.

Jesus: "Watch this."

I heard the sound of an angel blowing a horn. I felt vibrations come from this horn. Then I saw a tiny snowball turning into a larger and larger one as it picked up snow. It eventually formed a huge avalanche and collapsed the entire mountain side.

He then reached to His right and pulled out the chalice from the River of Life. He took a drink from it and turned the cup so I could drink from the same spot.

Jesus: "Erin, go ahead and drink."

Me: I drank. "I do not understand as I was not even thirsty."

He laughed, but yet He was still so kind, radiant and beautiful.

Jesus: "Did I give you the cup to drink the same exact way I drank out of it? Was it not from the very spot My lips were?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "If you are to partake from My cup and drink what I am drinking, what does this mean?"

Me: "That I will drink the same thing You drink."

Jesus: "Yes, but this comes with a price."

Immediately, I saw the veil being moved. I was instantly at Golgotha, only this time, He had not passed away yet. He was still suffering on the Cross.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "You are hanging there in pain."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "You are fully exposed and laid bare. You are bloodied, battered and You are in pain."

Just then, I saw a Roman guard with a sign that mocked Jesus. The sign said, "The King of the Jews." It was in another language, but I knew what it said. Then I saw that His closest friends had left Him.

I heard people yelling horrible things about Him and I saw these huge demons flying around above all of them. They were like dragons. I was horrified again to see it from this viewpoint above the Cross.

Jesus: "Here, take another drink from My cup."

I hesitated this time. He began to smile, but reassured me that it was okay. He gave me a big hug from the side, like I was His friend.

Jesus: "To walk with Me and to partake in Me is to be punished because of Me. Do you understand?"

Me: "But, by faith, I believe You will keep me safe from harm."

Jesus: "Yes, I will deliver you from your trials."

Me: "So, You will still allow me to go through them?"

I cried. Tears were streaming now. I wanted Him to take the pain and not allow it.

Jesus: "I said I would deliver you from your trials, not keep you from them. What good would that do? Why so down? Be encouraged. Soon your trials will be over."

He then motioned two angels with boxes I recognized. The first angel opened one of the boxes. Inside was this beautiful uncut emerald, or beryl, stone. He picked it up. I recognized it. He handed it to me and I saw its origin. It was from Africa. Gazing into it, I saw wars and blood shed over this stone. It was a stone of high price.

Jesus: "Look."

Smiling, He took it into His hands and cupped it. He formed something so bright that beams radiated out of the holes in His hands. He breathed on it and He reached down and used cloth at the base of His armor to polish the stone. He then handed it to me.

Jesus: "A gift for You."

I just sat there in awe.

Jesus: "Look."

In that moment, I saw every deceptive thing that was in the core of this stone now had been reshaped into this precise, multifaceted stone.

Jesus: "Look even more closely."

I saw the course of my entire life in this jewel. I cried. The little angel swooped up and collected my tears again to take them to be recorded. He then motioned the second angel with the other box. He opened it and there was a heart of gold.

Jesus: "This means everything to Me." He put the heart into the palm of His hand. "Look."

I could see everything from my life from beginning to the end. I saw everything and every moment I did something kind. I saw things I had not even realized were significant to anyone. Everything was recorded in that heart; all of it.

Then He took the heart and He placed it on my chest as another angel came to assist. He pulled out my heart that was damaged and dying. He took the broken pieces and He replaced it with this new heart. I was in tears.

The very thing that I had prayed for my entire life, He had just performed heart surgery. I looked over at Him as I wept and He rested my head on His shoulder. He is everything: My Father, my King, my Husband, my Author, my Lawyer, my Cup, my Portion, my Surgeon, my Healer, my Deliverer and my Redeemer.

This was the King of glory and He is holy. In that moment, I could feel warmth, healing, nurturing, love and compassion. There was no bitterness, just joy. I had a new heart. He let me cry there for some time.

Jesus: "You have something for Me."

I remembered the little dying bird in my pocket. I handed it to Him. He held it in His hand and it became a beautiful little dove. It had golden feathers and silver wings. I recognized it. He breathed on it and handed it back to me.

I had so much joy. It was alive and plump. It had a pretty song. It stood on my left shoulder. He then squeezed my shoulder and kissed the right side of my forehead. This time, He was a friend and a comforter, like an older brother.

Jesus: "Erin, where is your armor today?" I looked down and realized I just had my gown on. He smiled. "Put on your armor if you are going to go into battle."

Me: "Why can I not stay here now?"

He waved His arm and there I saw a picture of my children attending my funeral.

Jesus: "Because you must show your children how to put on their armor. After all, we are in the midst of an epic battle."

He took me to a railing. Over the edge of the railing I saw the Earth. Over the Earth was a much greater battle than I had ever imagined. It was more epic than at the ladder and the beast always seemed to be at the center of the battle.

Jesus: "Pray for your Sister's armor to be strong. Pray for them."

I now saw over the entire Middle East. I saw a circle of deception, a perimeter and the basic strategy of war. I saw the enemy in full circle around Israel. I saw a runner, or a type of swift horse, running to different points on the circle.

The runner was carrying a scroll or script. The script was filled with orchestrated lies and tactics. I saw back ended deals of every kind. The scroll was being passed all around. At each place, the scroll was opened and then signed as if a contract was being formed.

The scroll contained the order of events from the enemy. The red dragon was forming an alliance with the black dragon. The black dragon represented the brothers of the dark covenant and were opposite of all that was good.

There were dark lords and princes at every passing of the scroll. The scroll also contained a script for peace in order to declare a later great deception. I saw Israel in a covering like a bright diamond in the center of the desert.

The lords were planning to crush the diamond and break it apart. The dark lords envied the brightness that Israel represents. Israel is a bright and shining star with Heavenly favor.

Me: "Lord, it is worse than I thought. When will this happen?"

He began to show me formations in the stars and something else that cast a shadow. It was unclear.

Me: "Lord, I do not understand."

Jesus: "They have a script, but My Father is the Author."

Me: "Are You coming soon?"

He gave me that big smile again and I just knew that I was not going to have an answer. He waved for the angel and the children began to sing "My Deliverer" again. As I looked back, I saw Him speaking again to several people.

His eyes looked into mine. He smiled and touched His chest over His heart with His right hand and chuckled. I put my hand over my new heart and took a bow to Him. I looked and He laughed.

As I walked with the angel, I saw His white horse. It had a beautiful war dress over it. It looked so majestic and strong. I gave the horse a kiss on the nose. The angel helped me at the Portal.

Angel: "Go to the Word and look at the patterns of war through the ages and through the annals. Nothing is new. There are signs before you. Read Psalms 45, gird your sword and go forward in truth."

Me: "Pardon me?" I was clearly confused.

Angel: "Psalm 34 and Psalm 91 are for you. The King is requesting that you be in your full armor now."

Dream over...

I wrote everything down, recorded it and stayed in worship and fellowship with Him for some time. I thanked Him for the battles and trials. Yes, I even thanked Him that He did not save me from the trials for I know that He will deliver me from them.

When He will do this, I have no idea, but I take comfort in Him. In His Words, I can trust. Paul further lends encouragement to us as warriors in Christ in 2 Corinthians 6:1-11. Please meditate in prayer on this.

We do not have much time here to leave our message of Christ's love. Be blessed, use discernment and prayer. Reference your Bibles and wield them as your swords. Now, go forth in victory.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 021 – The Pearl

Sunday, November 25, 2012
08-05-2016, 03:00 PM

Received Sunday, November 25, 2012

A few days ago, I was in a mall parking lot trying to get through some of the crazy traffic. I noticed the same man with a sign that I had seen several times over the last month. Every time that I drove by him, even with my kids in the car, I would shake my head in judgment. Just two days before this, my kids were in the car when they spoke to me about this

My daughter: "Mom, why are you not pulling over to help that man. This is not like you."

My son: "So mom, what would Jesus do? WWJD!"

Me: "This man is probably a con artist scamming money. He probably even has more money than we do. This is a racket they are in to try to deceive the unsuspecting, kind people of the world."

I went on and on, trying to convince my children, and their wonderful little good hearts, that this man was technically evil. I was judging Him.

Okay, so here is my teachable moment from the Lord. As I drove by one particular night, he stood there once again, but this time I got a quick glance of two children hidden under a bush and behind the main sign. There were two children in jackets; one child was about two years old and the other about four years old.

Me: Thinking this to myself. "Lord, this man is either a lowlife using his kids or this is truly a serious matter."

Holy Spirit: "Erin, pull over and give him what he needs."

So, I pulled up to the man to talk with him.

Me: "Okay, so what is your story?"

He smiled a beautiful smile at my question.

Dillon: "My name is Dillon and I had to relocate to find work. However, my job fell through and I am now living in a local hotel with my young children. I am finding it really hard to find work, especially since I have these kids."

Me: "What is it that you do for a living."

Dillon: "I am a contractor."

As Dillon told me more details of his life, it just so happens that he came from the exact city where our corporate office is in another state.

Dillon: "Listen, I am from out of state and not a migrant worker. As such, I cannot get any help at all with food or childcare."

Me: "I just happen to know this from my own experience a couple of years ago. Where are you staying? I will try to find you some work and I will see what I can do since I just happen to work with contractors."

He gave me his information.

Dillon: "Yes, if you can get me out of this humiliation, I would be grateful."

I then handed him more money than I could even afford, but I knew this was a God moment.

Me: "You know, Jesus is in control and there are no accidents."

Dillon: Smiling. "Yes, God is good all the time."

How many times have I sat in the Bema Seat when the only One that is appointed to sit on this seat is God Almighty? Who am I to do this? Who do I think I am; righteous?

This has been a very difficult time for me. The Lord has given me a gift. He has given me these series of dreams that contain messages of good news to hurting Christians right now.

Of course, the only true lamp in our journey is the Holy Bible. That being said, I also believe that He grants us dreams and visions. He sends the right people in the right moment to offer divine healing, a teachable word, knowledge and even prophecy.

He is the Lord after all and He can grant what He wishes at any given time. I have always been so happy when I hear of someone having these gifts from the Lord. I always hoped that someday He might find me of some use to Him.

So, until the day that He stops this gift or He takes me home, I will continue to rejoice because I know that He loves me and that He will not let me be disgraced or discouraged for long. There is just too much to do and so little time.

My Prayer of thanks today:

We serve an uncommon God. We are so very blessed to have a God Who loves us so much. Lord, you sent Jesus down here to this Earth as a baby. You grew up here and experienced all things that were common to man, with all the struggles.

You walked amongst us in these dying bodies. You could have come in a different way, but instead You chose a young Jewish girl to care for You. She suffered as the people closest to her turned their backs on her. She took care of You, nurtured You and protected You knowing that You were the Son of God.

At the base of the Cross, she wept and prayed for Your protection and for You to deliver Yourself from this pain. She bore our Savior, not so she could be edified, but that You would be lifted up. She, by faith, walked the narrow road.

Lord, let us follow her example, by faith, to walk this narrow road that leads to You. I thank You that we serve You, an awesome God.

Dream begins....

The path was fully illuminated and there was still five inches of very frozen snow on the ground. The angels formed a tight canopy over the path. The canopy was now a full architectural structure right over the path.

Today, the two beasts were circling the dome and were plotting. The angels around the dome were still ready with swords drawn and stood at attention observing the beasts' every move.

The small fat bird left its footprints behind on the path. It had wandered off looking for more seed in the dark outside the protective canopy. Breakthrough was at the base of the ladder, whistling for me to stay focused.

The ladder seemed still. There was a frightening stillness. We all knew that the dragons were lurking. My rear guard angel was right behind me. At the top of the Portal, the greeter angel smiled as he pulled me up.

Jesus stood there in His beautiful battle armor. The armor was like a golden shield of protection. He was girding His sword on His left side. His wings were almost fully extended. I was praying to get a few more visits in prior to that day.

His face shined like the sun and light came from behind and all around Him. Immediately, my entire cellular structure dropped and my body went right with it with a whoosh!

I heard the Shofar make the announcement horn; several blows, one long blow and then silence for three minutes. I heard a full orchestra and choir that were beautiful and beyond description.

The song was something so familiar, but I do not know the song. I was still down on the ground and the angel grabbed my arm to lift me up. Here I stood before Him now as a worshiper to my King of kings, Lord of lords, Jesus. No longer did I come in any role, but as a worshiper to Jesus.

The Sea of Glass was beautiful. When I stood on this, it was if I was not even standing anymore. I was walking on the top, but not walking; this is hard to describe. The angel waited a moment and then announced, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb of God, who sits on the Throne in Pure Righteousness. Holy is He!" The greeting angel turned to me.

Angel: "The Lord is on the Bema Seat today."

Me: "He is my King."

I must have been beaming because I saw Jesus smile and pat His heart with His right hand. I immediately bowed down. The angel brought me up and took me to the risers of the Throne. He held out His hand today as an angel arranged a small seat next to His Throne.

My dress became covered with tiny pearls, but it was light. The dress was not heavy like the dress made with stars of sapphire. Jesus sat me next to Him and I was quiet today. I just sat in silence and awe of Him. There were no words.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

Me: "I am just amazed by You. You are taking so much time with me. You are so holy and Your face is glorious. Please forgive me for trying to bring You low so I can be at Your level. I am somewhat embarrassed by my youth when I came to You as a teenage girl giggling over her idol. I am reminded of how small I am."

Jesus: Laughing. "Did you create these dreams yourself?"

Me: "No, this is You doing this."

Jesus: "Yes, it is. I created the passion of your heart when you were just a child, when you were a youth and now as an adult. You honor Me with love. I know your heart, so do not be afraid."

"You are helping others to come know Me as a loving Father of orphans, a Husband to the widows and the deserted and a Shepherd to lost sheep. You are growing deeper in love for Me prior to My return. You are after My heart and I am after yours. Really, what else is there?"

Me: "I am still heavy."

Jesus: "Yes. Sometimes wounds can cut to the very core of our spirit. Please do not allow yourself to become part of the lies. You are struggling to focus on Me. I am jealous for your attention."

Me: "Lord, cover me in this armor so I can shield myself from this."

Jesus: "Yes, I could give you the armor, but you actually have it."

He showed me armor laid out on a platform. An angel grabbed the different pieces.

Jesus: "Erin, put this on. There is an epic battle outside."

Me: "I am not sure I can take this."

Jesus: "Remember, I chose you, you did not choose Me. Do not throw your pearls to swine. Stay focused on things that breathe life into you. Do not be discouraged and do not be afraid for you will not suffer shame."

"You will remember your widowhood no more for your Maker is your Husband. You are Mine. Further, does Psalm 46 not say, 'God is within her, she will not fall, God will help her at the break of day'?"

Me: "Lord, are You meaning me or Israel, because I do not understand."

Jesus: With a smile and laughing a bit. "Both. Both of you were purchased for a great price. Though evil threatens, I control the events. My Father has given Me full authority and My Word is truth. The events must take place in order so the Word remains true and the Father is glorified."

Me: "I am troubled by what You have shown me."

Jesus: "Why? Is it not written that these things will take place?"

Me: "Yes, but what will happen to us?"

Jesus: "It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out."

Me: "Lord, You have told me countless times on this journey that this is all written in the Bible, but why can I not find it?"

Jesus: Nodding His head in agreement. "When I showed you before the pages from the Word, what did I do?"

Me: "You breathed on them and the Words were illuminated."

Jesus: "Correct. Everything is there. Do you not see it?"

Me: "I am not sure exactly where to look"

Jesus: "Seek and it will be found. There will be signs so clear that there will be no mistaking it. Remember, no man knows the hour nor the day. Only My Father knows this.

"However, we take comfort in seeing the signs of these events laying the foundations for My return. Remember, My Father does not tarry, but works according to His perfect plan. Therefore, we trust and take comfort while we seek Him. Erin, do you trust Me?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then why are you downcast?"

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, You are coming soon. I am honored to walk with You. I just need Your help."

Jesus: "Again, put on your full armor. Paul was sent with instructions, inspiration that can only be God breathed. Paul, on his own, was not wise. I set him apart so he would hear from Me. He searched for Me with all of his heart, setting aside his vain ambitions. When you search for Me with all of your heart, you will find Me."

Me: "I am struggling with this flesh. It is like my own personal epic battle."

Jesus: "Why?"

Me: "My logic is struggling here." He begins to laugh.

Jesus: "Yes, the logical mind of man has never grasped Me."

Then He took me to look over the railing. I saw doctors that were performing miracles, but not by their own hands. I saw scientists discovering cures for diseases. I saw world leaders making huge decisions. I saw financiers getting rich with their own money on their own wisdom.

Jesus: "Think about this. If I created the blacksmith to forge weapons, did I not also create this?" I must have had a look of illumination because He smiled and laughed. "Is not everything under Heaven?" I saw the entire Earth again, but from the vantage point of the moon.

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "If My Father in Heaven has given Me the power over these events, then who has authority?"

Me: "You."

Jesus: "Yes. Let the logical lead unto their own understanding. All roads lead to My Father. All roads point to where they were created. Very few venture down this road. Look...will he finish it?"

I then saw a prominent man walking down this road. He was stopping to examine things, but he never actually travelled all the way down the road.

Me: "Is everything futile?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, everything has purpose. If a logical man were to lose himself fully, he would find pearls of great wisdom within My Father's instructions.

"Further, consider the one who was cast down like lightning from Heaven. I witnessed it. Self-edification leads to all kinds of deceptions. All of these roads lead nowhere."

Me: "Blessed is the man who travels the narrow road; the road less traveled."

Just then, I saw two paths laid before me. The path to the left was beautiful, but it was wide. I saw flowers and someone beautiful at the altar. Behind the altar was a tropical paradise; white sands, clear skies, warm winds and greenery everywhere.

However, the path to the right had grey ash. It was very narrow and completely dark. This looked like something to avoid to me. I stood at the crossroads.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "To my eyes, I see that the path on the left looks much more attractive and comfortable. In contrast, the path on the right is thick with gray ash and is dark and treacherous."

Jesus: "Choose."

I stood for a minute, but curiosity won here. I began the journey down the gray ashen path; the path on the right.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "Nothing. It is dark. I want to go back now. I am afraid and uncertain."

Jesus: "Look around you carefully."

I looked around and, down underneath a large leaf, there was a pearl. The pearl was fully illuminated. So much so that I could see where I was going. It became clear.

Jesus: "Which path was better?"

Me: "When I uncovered the hidden treasure, I knew that the right path was the right path."

Jesus: "What is the treasure?"

Me: "You, Lord, You are the treasure; a pearl."

Jesus: "Yes, but you are My pearl and you were purchased with a price. I have not forsaken you despite what the world thinks. Erin, I am the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. I can create a way where there is no way.

"Further, do not let your hearts be troubled in the days to come. As the events unfold, know these must occur. I will come for you and not delay. Do not fret when men succeed in their wicked schemes because, after a while, they will no longer be found."

He showed me events. He brought out the Ring of Fire that the angel gave Him. He placed it on the Earth. I saw unspeakable things that were going to occur. I saw the Middle East and the circle of treachery as if the face of a clock were going counter clockwise.

It all started from the north of Israel, over to Egypt and then down and around through Dubai. I saw financiers in Dubai writing checks to fund the venture. I saw the scroll moving. The scripted events circled Israel. I saw the beasts enmeshed; waiting and ready. Things were in position.

He showed me stars in Heaven and then marked this. However, I was still unclear about what I was seeing as it was like a shadow. I saw a once great nation become captive while the other nations watched in horror.

I saw Israel like a star under a locked case; a display case. The angels of the Lord were encamped outside its ramparts and gates. I turned and hugged Jesus. I was afraid.

Jesus: "Remember, take courage and take heart. Remember to put on your armor and forget the shame of your youth. The King is enthralled with your beauty (Psalm 45)."

He held my hand and kissed my palm. I knelt before Him and He kissed my head. The angel guided me back. Again, I saw Jesus meeting with twenty four elders in robes discussing events to come.

Angel: "Seek a clue in Joshua. Follow the patterns in Psalm 83. Pray for Israel. Be strong, take courage and have heart. Paul leads you to armor, now dress in it or you will be unprepared. We are in an epic battle. Do not be caught unaware."

Dream over...

After my alarm woke me up, I had communion, prayer, devotional and praise. Then I wrote down the dream. There are many things in this dream that are symbolic. Remember to read it with discernment. Study the Word; our Sword. Pray for Israel and for each other. Help one another in love. Follow and look for Jesus in everything.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 022 – Egypt

Tuesday, November 27, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:12 PM

Dream begins...

Today the conditions were dark, cold and crisp and I could see my breath. The dragons were not visible at this moment. The angels that were forming the protective canopy over the path had not moved an inch since the day before.

The angels completely covered the path with their swords, forming this amazing pitched canopy of glistening metal above me. I knew that if I stayed on the path that I would be safe no matter what. God made the canopy strong and unshakable.

Even if the beasts were going to break through the dome, the swords above me formed a guillotine and the beasts would never survive. Above the canopy, the angels were gearing up for the next wave of attacks. The columns or pillars were pointed out over the four perimeter points.

They were leaning as an enforcement wedge to the dome. I am not sure what the actual formations or strategies are on a battle line as I have never looked at this, but what I was seeing made perfect sense.

As the beasts were regrouping, the angels were getting ready for the next wave of attacks. There were several ranks of angels. Each of these angels was strong and very masculine, yet their faces were so kind. It was almost as if these characteristics simply could not coexist on Earth.

I saw four angels again reinforcing this dome with a type of 'blue-flamed' blow torches. The other angels cheered when these angels finished installing this type of protective coating. These columns or pillars were truly artfully made. They were so strong and made up from a material that I somehow knew was never going to crumble.

I had the sense that these things could also be weapons, but I did not really know for sure. The angels appeared to run around as if they were losing time, yet I could tell they were still perfectly organized.

When looking all around at the surroundings and through the dome perimeter, I could not see the beasts anywhere. However, I knew they were there and waiting so I was extremely uneasy.

I looked at the angels protecting me and I realized that they had gone to great lengths to protect me. I remembered back so many times in my life where I had been under attack by unseen forces. Surely these angels or ones just like them must have been there for me behind the scenes at the Father's command.

I realized that this protection was for all us and that it was not just specifically designed for me. Perhaps I represented Israel in these dreams or maybe I represented all of God's children here. I could even possibly represent both.

I now know that God loves and protects us always, yet how many times did I get angry with God for not protecting me? Surely if I had seen this every day, I would give thanks to Him for being the general of these warriors in my life. Wow, we are loved and favored by God.

Just then, I heard Breakthrough motioning me to the ladder. I paused for a few seconds when I glanced down at the fat bird's prints in the snow. I then saw a couple of feathers just outside of the protection of our Father's canopy.

I thought, 'There is no way I was going out there for that little obese bird'. Then I thought twice as, after I had seen what the Lord had done with the little dying bird, I knew He could heal the little fat bird.

After seeing these loose feathers, I could not believe that this bird would have even thought it could find seed off of this path. Breakthrough must have known that I was considering looking for the fat bird and he make that special whistle sound that prompted me to stay under the canopy for my own protection.

One of the angels under his command then also nudged me softly back to the center of the path. When I looked up, I noticed that there definitely seemed to be more reinforcements today and angels had been added

I found this odd in a way because there was no battle right now and there appeared to be a lull. However, I felt strongly that the angels had information that I did not. Breakthrough kept me moving quickly today.

At the top of the Portal, I felt this horrible breathing. It was coming from the east and the west sides of me. It had an awful stench. The breath was hot and labored. Two angels with shields covered the breath from reaching me as I finished my climb.

I looked over and I could now see the two heads of the dragons. They were either sleeping or waiting, but I could not tell which. I was just glad to climb without them speaking horrible things.

I had the impression that the same books these dragons words created would be eventually be opened and used against them. There were a lot of lies spoken and I knew that God would get vengeance for all of us.

The greeting angel and Breakthrough brought me up through the Portal and I saw an amazing sight. There was a river that represented the Nile and even looked like it, but Heavenly and perfected. This is not to be confused with the River of Life, which is what I usually see when I come up through the Portal.

The Nile had been a place of atrocities to children throughout history and many were killed there. This must have been God's way of taking the imperfections of what happened to the children at the Nile and created this perfected Heavenly version of the Nile, which I will put in parentheses to avoid confusion with the real Nile.

Now, where was I? Oh yes, the 'Nile' was to my right and there were millions of angels behind thousands of children all dressed in white. There were palm trees and it was lush. This 'Nile' was not like a desert at all, but more like an oasis.

These children were absolutely stunning to see. I saw a street of gold running next to the 'Nile'. The street was made of large golden pavers.

I looked in front of me and there was Jesus. He was so glorious and shining bright. His wings were almost fully spanned, but not quite. What a relief as I still wanted to come here to visit Him.

Suddenly I dropped to my knees in worship as every cell knelt before His complete holiness. I heard the roar of thunder and the ground began to roll. Every cell reacted uncontrollably in obedience to Him, almost as if my cells no longer needed me as they now had their King.

It became silent for ten seconds and then the beautiful shofar sounded: Ta-da, ta-da, ta-da and then one long blow. It shook the ground. Then there was silence for three minutes. I was still face down and prostrate.

The angel announced, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb of God, His ways are perfect, His ways are just, He reigns forever and ever, Holy is He!" I then felt something being poured over me that looked like gold but was thick like honey. This salve fully covered my eyes.

The angel reached for my hand and helped me up as another wiped my eyes with a beautiful linen cloth. This allowed me to see Him again in His full glory. I could see Jesus before my eyes, but yet I still could not see fully in this state as it was just too much to bear.

Jesus had such a wonderful smile on His face. He was strong and so mighty, yet still approachable. The choir of children sang, "My deliverer is calling, my deliverer is standing by...", which, on Earth, is a Rich Mullins' song.

I began to weep when I realized that the children in the choir had been slain on Earth and Jesus had brought them Home. This was a powerful moment and truly unforgettable. I wept there and this moment left me completely shaken.

Then the orchestra began to play what sounded like Pachelbel's Cannon D blended with a version of Bittersweet Symphony. When my feet hit the golden Sea of Glass, my feet seemed to float above it as I moved toward the risers.

I looked into His eyes and I realized that I had been given such a wonderful gift of getting to know Him better. To actually have visuals of Him in all of these different roles, as Father, as Husband and as King, was truly priceless.

Truly any way that I state it seems to cheapen what this was. He was all of these things and so much more. To read it is amazing, but to see it, even if it is just a dream, is like nothing else. Today, there was no greater gift.

To actually have the Pages of the Bible come to life through these experiences is just amazing. His eyes contained so much knowledge. There is truth and love in His eyes. His eyes were filled with such love for me and truly with such love for all of us.

Now when I looked at these children along the 'Nile' river bank, I just knew that He would never stop His plan to come and rescue us from the Tribulation. Even if He came for just for one of these children, I knew in my heart that He would and I felt so secure in this.

These children were victims of wars, pestilence, famine, slaughter and genocide. While every country was represented, Africa represented the greatest share of these atrocities.

He smiled and reached to hold my hand. It was then that I noticed that I was wearing a robe just like the children. My robe was illuminated, fine woven and lined. I had this amazing jeweled drop hanging over my forehead again.

I had twelve gold bracelets adorning my right and left arms. Each gold bracelet had a jewel and each jewel was an exact replica of His breastplate. I had a beautiful ring on my finger that looked like a type of stamp or embossed impression. The ring was gold with jade or emerald carved stone.

My feet were bare, yet with a weave of golden ribbons entwined around them and up to my calves. I was wearing a type of sandal, but with no sole. My bare feet touched the ground.

He brought me up the risers of His glorious Throne to a beautiful small chair that He had set up next to this. As I sat and looked up at Him, He motioned one of His angels to bring me something to drink.

I saw the angel pour some gold crystal clear water into His chalice. He first took a sip, nodded His approval and then handed the chalice to me.

Jesus: "Are you thirsty?"

Me: "Yes." I then took a drink.

Jesus: "I thought you were thirsty. Here, drink some more."

I laughed and did just that. However, even after I drank, I noticed that the cup remained full. I did a double take and looked inside the cup again to see if I was imagining this. He was laughing as I looked.

Jesus: "Did you think I was going to let your cup go empty?"

Me: I laughed so hard at this. "No. I imagine You would never do such a thing."

Jesus: "I fill empty cups."

He motioned for me to keep drinking. I was more than happy to oblige and drank quickly. He laughed, but it really tasted good. The water tasted like glaciated water straight from a Canadian stream with no metal taste. It was pure, rich and sweet, but not too sweet.

Me: "I wish I could bottle this and drink it every day."

Jesus: "You can."

Okay so this was a parable moment and was so funny.

Me: "I am hoping You are going to be serving dinner for Your guests soon."

I glanced over to the banquet table. He nodded.

Jesus: "Yes. The table would not be set if the time of the banquet was not near, but there are things yet to occur."

He brought me over to the railing of the Balustrade. An angel stood there and was high ranking, possibly even Michael, but I am not sure since he would have been in the battle. The angel stood over the railing with his arm out.

He was holding a plumb bob or plumb line. I looked over the edge and I saw an ancient sundial. The sundial was moving counterclockwise. Israel was at the center of the dial.

Me: "Lord, what am I seeing?"

Jesus: "Look."

He showed me pyramids, the sons of the fallen and very strong men using slaves to build the pyramids. I was seeing ancient things. He showed me a certain Pharaoh that used a strong hand to control the people.

This Pharaoh governed everything east and west of the Nile. He was at the top of the river and caused great trouble from there. Where ever he went, curses fell upon the land. This was an epic history lesson. Even the river itself looked like it was running backwards.

Whenever the Pharaoh supported the Jewish people, the land was blessed. However, whenever the Pharaoh did not support the Jewish people, the land was cursed.

It was a type of spirit though because I saw this spirit occupy several Pharaohs, not just this one. It had started with the ancients.

Me: "But I thought everything came from the north and east in this battle?"

Just then the angel's plumb bob moved counterclockwise and showed me that the beasts had originated from here in Egypt.

Jesus: "If you want answers, it helps to go to the roots or the beginnings to find out future strategies."

He pointed again at the stars. I watched Him with His hand move stars according to the events.

Me: "Why do the stars matter?"

Jesus: "There is nothing new under the sun. Before written maps, there were stars."

I was confused and troubled. There was so much to learn. I had already heard the terms origins, roots, history, patterns, maps and stars?

Jesus: "Remember that everything good on Earth has an opposite force. Darkness and light cannot dwell together."

I realized I was getting an Old Testament lesson in wars and history.

Me: "What about Babylon?"

Jesus: "It is the same. Look."

I saw a Pharaoh-like figure controlling Babylon as well. He was arrogant and was leading the nations. Slaves were building Persian castles.

This figure had signed the edict and I saw the scroll being handed to the runner. The scroll was ordering the annihilation of the Jews. I saw a Jewish woman and I realized that she was Esther. I could not see her features clearly, but even from a distance I could tell she was very beautiful.

Me: "I see the same pattern."

Jesus: "Yes, but the same pattern still exists today. The enemy is trying to change history. He cannot, but he is trying."

Me: "But he knows that he cannot as it is written."

Jesus: He was smiling now. "Yes, you are becoming wise."

I was laughing and shaking my head because I knew I was not.

Me: "So he really thinks he still has a shot at overthrowing Heaven? I thought he was roaring around knowing his days are numbered, making havoc."

Jesus: "He still believes he has power. He is trying to take the saints with him if he can."

I saw the enemy in the unseen realm controlling so many different aspects of our world. I saw a giant web, like a spider, around the globe and this beast, like a spider, spinning it out of control. I saw people getting wound up in it.

The darkness was beginning to overcome the light. I saw jealousy, anger, rage, murder, rape, religious condemnation, hate, greed and so much lawlessness. I turned angrier at what I was seeing with every second. It was way worse than Sodom and Gomorrah.

Me: "When I am there..." I pointed to my home. "...I live in a bubble."

Jesus: He smiled with such love. "The angels work very hard to protect you, but they cannot shelter you from everything in the world because you are living in it. Soon you will be home and safe here."

He reached over and hugged me.

Me: "Yes, the pattern is there, is it not?"

Jesus: "Yes, it is the same enemy strategy of war. He does not change his evil plans. I remain in My Father and My Father gives the commands."

Me: "When will this take place? The Jewish people will not be destroyed, right?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, read the Word and study it. Look for the patterns. Pray for illumination from the Holy Spirit. You have been given a key."

Me: "Is there still time?"

Jesus: "You cannot stop what has already begun as this is the Father's Will. These things must take place in order. The Bible is the Script and shows the order of events. Do you not understand? Do you not see it?"

Me: "So, the reasons these things are recorded in the Holy Bible is for us to have a greater understanding of when these events will occur, correct?"

Jesus: "Yes, it is that simple."

Me: "Okay, I better start drinking milk again."

Jesus: He laughed. "The Holy Spirit is My voice and the Father's voice inside of you. The Bible is the Holy Script, the written record of those that have gone before you. These are records, life stories and wisdom, all divinely inspired from Heaven.

"This is your compass and the Holy Spirit is your guide. You must learn to use all of these things together. The Holy Spirit will illuminate these things for you in the hour of your greatest need.

“Put on your full armor and go out in victory. You must walk forward in faith, pray and never cease. Continue to lift each other up. Pray for each other and do good as I am coming soon.”

He was now calm, but quite concerned for me.

Jesus: “If I dwell in you, then you have knowledge and access to it. The Bible illuminated my promptings granting you discernment. You have the tools for battle and you have the knowledge to fight. You can take courage knowing you are Mine.”

He put His hand over His heart and I put my hand over my heart in return. He then pointed me to the table.

Jesus: “There is a banquet being prepared for you.”

He smiled and I felt His wonderful assurance that I will soon be here.

Jesus: “Erin, the battles are increasing so you must stay focused on Me. By filling yourself with My love, good fruit will be produced. Pray without ceasing and pray for your sister.”

He pointed to the other banquet table. “Spread the good news in love always.” He pointed at my beautiful sandals. “Beautiful are the feet of those who spread good news.” I smiled.

He reached over to give me a Fatherly hug and a kiss on the forehead. We began to walk together again.

Jesus: “Stand strong in faith and do not waiver. I am going to do something in your days that you would not even believe even if you were told. I will come for you and will not delay. I have promised you.”

The tears were streaming as Jesus handed my hand over to the angel. I turned and saw Him return to the railing of the Balustrade. The others gathered around Him. They were in a great discussion about the situation. He turned again and put His hand on His heart and pounded it twice.

I turned, laughed and, with my hand on my heart, I bowed to my Lord. I looked up with my eyes first and He began to chuckle, smile and wave. I had a little skip in my step. As I went to leave, His horse nudged me and I kissed it.

Angel: "It is still raining, so take cover." He reached up with that cloth and put it on my head. "You have seen the plumb line, you know the direction, counterclockwise, and you see the origin.

"Do not be amazed, but rather take comfort in understanding. In Psalm 16, He speaks to you and, in Psalm 23, He comforts you. In Psalm 103, He illuminates your course. You are blessed. Spread the good news for He is coming."

He reaches over and lays a plumb bob in my hand.

Angel: "Put your armor on as you are in an epic battle. Remember that it is what you cannot see that can harm you." The angel smiled at me.

Dream over...

This was the clearest dream I had to date. You may wish to go back over the Old Testament and look through the wars, anything to do with the Pharaohs and the Jewish people, as well as Esther. There seems to be clues there, but, if nothing more, it makes for a wonderful Bible lesson.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 023 – Dig Deeper

Wednesday, November 28, 2012
08-05-2016, 03:16 PM

Received Wednesday, November 28, 2012

Thank you for staying with me on this journey. I live in two realities now I cannot have a normal night anymore. After I tuck my kids in at night, I pray, 'Father, Your Will be done in my life.'

I yelled at my kids tonight, so I think, 'Surely this will be the night that I do not have a dream.' Then I end up having another dreaming again. The dreams just seem to keep coming and are getting clearer every day.

During the three days of spiritual darkness that I experienced last weekend, I figuratively nailed myself to the Cross several times by sitting in self-condemnation. I pleaded to the Lord for the dreams to stop if they did not matter to anyone. In other words, please grant me some sleep.

I got down on my knees and said, 'Everyone has turned against me. I am being called things that are contrary to everything I had come to know about You, Father. Please forgive me, but this is the deal; I need three confirmations within twenty four hours or I walk, I am done and you can use someone else instead.'

I suddenly had a complete download of His eyes looking into mine. I felt instantly convicted and I cried out to Him, 'Lord, I am sorry. I repent of my rebellion, but could You still give me confirmation? Please do not leave me alone and isolated.'

Then I heard a crystal clear reply, 'I Will.' Within one hour, I received my first confirmation. Then seven hours later, I received my second confirmation. At hour ten, I received my third confirmation. I was amazed as the confirmations continued. Thank You, Jesus.

He poured out on me His divine perfect love and He met me where I was; at a crossroads. You see, I know what happens when I disobey His instructions. I have been there so many times; so many and too many.

The problem is that I did not know how to hear His voice. As a Christian, I confused my instincts or desires with the Holy Spirit's perfect still small voice in my life. This process has led me to listen, wait, learn and act when He says to.

He speaks to me now all day long, but it is still up to me to actually hear and obey. He told me a few dreams ago to look for patterns and parables in everything around me. Right now, I am working on one of the best projects of my career; a contemporary wine cellar.

This wine cellar is a state of art and a computerized beauty. It has a glass rock crystal floor, high tech lighting, rock walls, beautiful ebony wine racks and an original Anthony Hopkins painting hanging on the rock gallery wall.

My clients are out of town, so today I dusted off vintage wines and placed them in the cellar to set them up for the photo shoot tomorrow. I thought to myself, 'this could be the last project I ever do.'

It is one of my best projects and it is a wine cellar. This was clearly a parable moment. I struggled as I thought about all of this. I watch Jesus in my dreams pour water into wine and I take communion with Him, but here I was, with all of these different wines and, really, empty bottles soon to be poured into empty cups.

These people do not know Jesus and they might never have the chance to drink real wine that only Jesus can serve. This cellar is really pretty, but truly empty. This is so sad even though there is still time.

There may be an opportunity at some point to talk to these people about Christ, but I must admit that there is a definite line in the sand lately when trying to witness. It is simply harder now for people to hear good news than in the past.

These dreams have led me deeper in my walk, but it has been challenging sometimes to keep going. Some days I wonder if we are still a year off and other days I believe it could be next week or perhaps even tomorrow.

I have never been given dates so I can stand here today and sincerely say that I really do not know. Now, I can take a guess, but without Him telling me, and believe me I have asked, I just do not have that information. I somehow take comfort in this.

The exciting thing for me is that He is deepening my relationship with Him. I am jumping into Scripture more and learning things that I never knew before. This has truly rejuvenating my walk of faith.

I am also becoming more and more compassionate and loving toward others. I listen to their stories and I pray more. I take communion every day and I am living for Him in all that I do. It is fun and adventurous.

My Prayer:

Lord, please grant those who have been on this journey with me to hear from You and widen their tents. Let them dream dreams and see visions. May all of us experience more of You for we are, quite possibly, the last very generation of Christian warriors.

We must utilize our weapons, put on our full armor and go out in victory knowing that we have very little time to make an impact in the lives of so many. Pour out Your Spirit upon us so that we might persevere through the storms so that, when we all stand before you, we stand in humility and strength.

I long to hear You say, 'Well done, Erin, you ran a good race.' Bless my brothers and sisters in Christ. Cover them in Your wings and bathe them in the love that can only come from You.

Dream begins...

There was a fresh dusting of snow on top of the base of five inches. Below the fine powder, the snow crunched as I walked. The snow underneath the crusty top seemed old and stagnant to me now.

I saw small seeds everywhere on the path. As I walked, seven little baby birds came out and were eating the seeds.

The outside canopy area was again reinforced with legions of angels. Three more pillars had been added, creating seven in total. These three were to hold up the dome. The columns were both Greek and Romanesque in design, but they were cutting edge. They were made of a material that would not crumble under pressure.

The warrior angels were ramping up again in preparation. I saw weapons that I did not recognize. All of a sudden I saw the black dragon reach its claw in to the dome. Several angels with bows and arrows formed a type of triangle and shot flaming arrows at it. The arrows shot right into the black dragon.

I heard a screech and the dragon jumped with such force that the entire dome shook. The black dragon appeared to be alone now. It was angry and it was wanting to punish the angels. It circled the dome looking for a place to pounce.

I then heard Breakthrough whistle and motion for me to come quickly. I was heavily guarded and, other than the time when the enemy's lies got to me because I had stayed there too long, I was never harmed. At the Portal, the angel talked to me.

Angel: "Erin, go first to Psalm 94, then go to Psalm 103 as well as Psalm 113. Psalm 114 is about Egypt. You must examine Esther, as well as study Joshua and Haggai. There is wisdom here that must be studied.

"You will have greater knowledge and see the pattern. See this first as He requests your obedience to dig deeper. He will illuminate this for you. The time is for now. There are questions that can be answered. Go forth for the King is pleased with You."

My alarm went off and I got up. What happened here? This seemed to be only one half of a dream? I prayed and believe that this is a message for all of us to examine the Scriptures. Please pray for Israel as she is our Sister.

For those who have a curious nature, you may wish to study these dreams deeper and see if the Holy Spirit will help illuminate them to you. There is so much information in these dreams that I have the sense that a good Bible study would be necessary for even greater revelation.

I also sense that there might be patterns revealed that could be clues to what is going on right now with the Middle East. Pay particular attention to the parts where the Lord speaks of 'the ten world leaders' in the Bible. This might be a clue that goes way back.

Some questions I don't know the answer to: Has Israel always had ten opponents? When Hitler was in power, were there ten allies with him? Did Hitler have involvement or reverence for the Egyptian Pharaohs? What were the historical strategies of war?

What significance does backwards, counterclockwise, a sundial, the stars or the plumb bob have? How many leaders in history have called for genocide against the Jews or tried to tamper with blood lines?

What is currently happening in the skies right now? What is 'the shadow'? What is the significance of silence for three minutes? Please use discernment, but there is definitely a need for you to take a divine treasure hunt in Scripture.

Love and many blessings...Sparrow

Dream 024 – Dig Deeper Still

Sunday, December 2, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:23 PM

Communion and prayer

For this visit, something happened that was so unusual compared to other visits. I was immediately at the Portal when I saw a hand reach for me to gently pull me up. I heard a familiar voice, but I was in so much shock as to the change in the usual routine that I did not completely recognize His voice.

Voice: “Now, come up here with Me.”

I quickly regained my composure, saw that it was Jesus and hugged Him.

Me: “Yes, but there was an order and...”

He laughed, gently squeezed my hand, taking me immediately to the Balustrade.

Jesus: “You prayed for questions to be answered with more clarity. Well, here I am.”

Me: “Wow, I thought You told me You were not a personal genie?”

I was joking with Him. As He laughed, I could not help but laugh with Him. Even the angel with the plumb bob was chuckling.

Jesus: “You had questions for Me?”

I was still disoriented. It was thinking, ‘Hmm, I grilled a small steak and had some olive bread with cheese quite late last night. Perhaps I ate too much before bed and I was imagining things?’

Me: “This is You, Lord, right?”

Jesus: Laughing. “No, Erin, it was not something you ate.”

Oh yes, He can read my thoughts. I laughed too.

Jesus: “You prayed with an earnest desire for an answer so that You could convey the right words. You sought Me for clarity and you asked for even greater understanding. This is not self-serving, but this is good as you desire to serve Me well. This is a pure request.”

Me: "So, the Word says that when I seek You with my whole heart, I will be found by You. There have been other times I have sought You, but I never had this?"

Jesus: "Well, I have answered you in different ways and I have always sent you help."

He waved His arm and opened a veil. Instantly, He showed me this time just a year ago when I had dropped to my knees in complete desperation. Our electric utilities were going to be soon cutoff. It was right before Christmas and I was negative twenty dollars in my bank account.

I was not going to be paid for ten days and, to make matters worse, we hardly had any food. I had to pay $125 to the electric company by noon to avoid our services being cutoff within 24 hours. Putting any gifts under the tree was not going to happen this year.

Compounding this problem was that I was also in a custody battle. If I could not keep the utilities on, my ex-husband would fight to have the courts labeled me as an "unfit" parent. As a result, I did not dare breathe a word to anyone that I needed help.

I was frantic as I drained my purse of change to see what I could do to keep the utilities on to keep my children. I laid all of my change in front of me and knew there was not nearly enough. All I could do was look up and thank the Lord for what I had.

I held my few coins up to Him in the sky and I said, "Lord, I need a miracle. If You can feed five thousand people with just enough to feed one family, You can certainly pay my electric bill. Lord, I know You can hear Me!"

At this point, I was crying. I heard my daughter wake up and get ready for school so I composed myself. No one could know and I could not say a word about any of this to her or anyone else. To buy some time and dry my eyes, I told my daughter that I would be out back taking the trash out.

As I gathered myself out back, she went out the front door to get some fresh air. I then heard her call out to me, "Mom, something is on the front door."

I instantly thought to myself, "Oh no, it is the cut off notice from the electric company. I am in serious trouble now with my battles." When I went to go see the 'notice', instead I found an elegant white card with a simple, but beautiful, white large bow. The outside of the card simply read, "Erin, you are loved!"

I now began to cry as I saw all of this from Heaven's perspective at the same time as knowing full well my own thoughts at the time. I opened the card and dropped to my knees and cried. There inside the card were five brand new 'one hundred dollar bills'.

I cried out and thanked God for His unexpected provision. It was enough to not only pay my electric bill, but also to buy food and get the kids some gifts for Christmas.

I reexamined the envelope and saw that there was no signature. Absolutely nobody even knew the dire straits I was in due to the custody battle. Even a prayer card left at the church would have alerted my adversary so I avoided even that. I had truly not breathed a word of this to a single soul out of necessity, not pride.

After I thanked Jesus yet again for this miraculous provision, He then proceeded to show me at least five other things just within the last few weeks that He had done on my behalf. I was in tears and thanked Him again, hugging Him.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

He had such a warm and excited look on His face as if He knew that I needed to know this. In this moment, I was so embarrassed about my lack of faith and my lack of thanksgiving.

I am crying yet again as He reaches over and places me under His wing. This made me cry even harder as I have never felt so safe in my whole life.

Me: "I guess I always knew that You did this for me, but I just didn't remember. In reality, I should have always remembered. There were details You showed me that I had condensed, minimized or forgot. Why does this happen with me?"

Jesus: "The enemy robbed your understanding of the blessing and your ability to recall the miracles. Would you like Me to show you all the way back?"

Me: "No, Lord, I have to believe now that You have always been with me. You have answered my prayers."

Jesus: "No, I have not always answered your prayers."

Immediately, I saw jobs that I had applied for and did not get. I saw myself filling out an application for a mortgage loan for more home than I could possibly afford. I saw a car that someone purchased right from under me. I saw my son not be able to get into a certain facility for his special needs.

Me: "Why are You showing me this? This just took away the blessings You just showed me."

Then, in an instant, I saw all of the things that would have occurred had I received what I was wanting in each of the above scenarios. It was horrifying to see how disastrous this would have been.

If I had purchased the car, I would have been severely injured in it. If I had gotten the home loan, it would have been forced into foreclosure. If my son had been able to get into that facility, he would have been hurt.

There were other things too. He showed me so many, I quickly lost count. Okay, now I was full on crying and my hands were over my mouth trying to muffle my sobs.

Jesus: "Do you believe I love you?"

Me: "Oh, yes."

I got on my knees before Him. For the first time, I lay at His feet, put my face down and wept.

Me: "Thank You, thank You and thank You for saving my life. Thank You for not letting me suffer more than I could bear."

He reached down and gently raised me with His extended hand. He wrapped His arms around me in the hug of a true Father, not like my earthly father that had abandoned me. His wings wrapped tenderly around me in what I can only describe as a tender cocoon of love.

Now I was truly humbled as I bowed my head to Him with complete gratitude. He gently reached under my chin and guided me to look into His eyes. As I did, I could see a love immeasurable shining out of His eyes, through my eyes and warming my very heart and every cell in my body.

Jesus: "Erin, I chose you and I love you. If I know when a sparrow falls, will I not know when you are about to?" Tears were streaming down my cheeks as He spoke tender Words to me. "Are you brave enough to continue?"

Me: "I have come this far. Please show me how to serve You."

Jesus: A huge grin formed on His face. "I was hoping you would say that. Now, Erin, come over here."

He brought me to the Balustrade next to the angel with the plumb bob. I looked down on the Earth and saw the Middle East below me. I saw the sundial and, around that, was the outer ring.

The riders were on the outer ring. As they rode, they formed a secret alliance from place to place. A plan was in place deeper than the original speculation. I saw the current uprising in different countries.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I am seeing more than the news is actually covering. I am seeing a television prompter that has only ten percent of the coverage. I see the riders going to the futuristic city, very modern, which holds the 'Highest Tower'.

"I see some of the richest treasures in the world. I then see big oil and hidden investments. I see dark princes there celebrating."

Jesus: "What was your first thought when you viewed the 'Tall Tower'?"

Me: "It reminds me of a modern day tower of Babel."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "I see big money exchanging. There are holdings from other governments that have interests here that are not in the plumb line. Over the city are dark angels holding an invisible dark blanket. Due to the extreme wealth there, the world ignores this city and it is under a blanket or veil.

"I see an elaborate conference table in the Tower. Sitting at the table are ten different leaders; some present physically and others present by satellite. Money was being exchanged and oil was being bartered. There was a marker from a craps table placed in the center of the table."

Jesus: "Yes. Please elaborate."

Me: "The chips were laid out around the dome covering Israel. The people sitting at the table were powerful earthly kings, yet their kingdoms were held in trust and in secret.

"The one thing they all had in common was they were driven by money and power, but, more importantly, by the evil of the black dragon. Oil was at the very center of all of these activities."

Jesus: "Who sits at the table?"

Me: "I see that six of these leaders bow to the black dragon and are steeped in religion. The four other leaders are not of the same culture or religious belief as these six, but all ten of them still serve the same red dragon in their desire for control and wealth."

Jesus: "These ten leaders were there in order to plan specific events to advance their goals. However, the six religious leaders will eventually betray the other four leaders as the six had agreed to a secret pact to gain even more power at the other four's expense."

Me: "Lord, who are these men?"

Jesus: "They are revered for their wealth, but yet remain silent and pretend to be passive in the battle."

Me: "So these men are not prominent world leaders?"

Jesus: Smiling while nodding His head in agreement. "Oh yes, but, remember, define leader today? A bull is large and scary, but, put a ring in its nose, is it not led by the ring and by who feeds it?"

"You might be surprised. Remember, evil dwells in hidden places, dark caves and hidden in plain sight. I know where they are and they cannot hide from Me."

Me: "Lord, when will this happen?"

Jesus: "It is happening right now and things are not as they seem."

Me: "I guess this makes sense."

Jesus: "Remember, the events unfolding will seem confusing. However, make no mistake; there is an order to the chaos."

Me: "So why do these leaders need to worry about tiny Israel when they have so much? These leaders certainly have all the money and power they could possibly ever want, so why do they even worry about this small land?"

Jesus: "This is a sleeping giant. Look."

I saw oil at the center of all of their evil. While this may seem obvious, it was not simply about oil, but rather the world's need for oil. I saw nose hooks in all of the other sub-leaders, the ones we believe control the world but do not, all being controlled by oil.

These sub-leaders knew that, without oil, they would have no country to lead. It was the ultimate in control by these powerful ten leaders and they revealed in the fear that they evoked without the rest of the world even knowing about this.

Me: "So are we all slaves?"

Jesus: "The world has been serving this master and it is no surprise, but it goes deeper. Now look."

I saw the six religious leaders again, wherein four of these leaders were not from the area. These leaders, in turn, promoted ten separate public figure heads that appeared as prominent world leaders but were actually under their complete control.

These ten public figure heads, with appearances of power but really with none, were moved around as if they were chips on a craps table, each controlling an area or powerful country wherein no one could see the strings leading from their puppet masters.

The six religious leaders worshipped the black dragon with the ultimate goal being to destroy everything that God holds dear. They believed that, if they destroy God's property, the rise of their savior, the red dragon, will bring paradise for them.

They believed that this personal paradise could only occur when all the others were eliminated. Their secret goal is steeped in long patient scripted events that had been going on for longer than I could even imagine.

Me: "Lord, who are these men? Would not the world's intelligence know?"

Jesus showed me some exotic homes from all over the world. These were homes I did not even know existed. They had high security, satellites and a network of evil that ran deep and long.

Jesus: "Yes, they know and people have been killed exposing it. These leaders have much blood in their back pockets."

Me: "So what we are seeing on the news really is not the entire truth?"

Jesus: "Well, yes and no. The events being reported are news worthy and these events are in the news in order to show you that these events are real. However, the most important events, many done in secret, are kept cleverly cloaked."

Me: "So, Lord, the ten kings are not literal kings, but rather are 'financial' kings? What about the Bible and what it says? This appears to be a matter of geography?"

Jesus: "Read the Word on this again, but now from the perspective as just revealed to you. Know that the enemy will not be blatant as everyone would see it and things are not always as they seem. It will appear so, but there is always more to it than meets the eye. Erin, you are still not going deep enough."

Me: "So all of these countries are not necessarily going to be in wars?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, they will be in wars for this is scripted and it is written. While these ten leaders appear to control the events, it is actually God allowing only that which Scripture said would occur."

"The wars will happen, but not in the order expected. Look at the secret dealings of the ten leaders. While the order is seen with same players, this is a different venue."

Me: "What is the plumb line?"

Jesus: "It signifies balance, scales and judgment from the Bema Seat and is a measure."

Me: "Like the scales with the ten blocks and Israel."

Jesus: "Yes. The ten are being exposed and it will not be long before they are fully exposed."

Me: "So what is the sundial and what is the significance?"

Jesus: "Did you not study?"

Me: "Yes, but I do not have understanding?"

Jesus: "Dig deeper."

Me: "Lord, it looks like we are helpless to change these events."

Jesus: "Go back and revisit what the prophets have said but now based on the information I just gave you. See if you do not have illumination."

Me: "Lord, are You still years away?"

Jesus: "Erin, define a year in Heavenly terms?"

Me: "Then I do not know. Why show me all of this if there is nothing anyone can do about it?"

Jesus: "So that you can pray and have understanding. There will be a time when communication will be down. I give you this information in order for you to spread the good news. I want you to know that I will come for My Bride and I will not delay." He pointed to His horse.

"I will do so on a very swift and mighty steed." He smiled reassuringly. "Now, pray for your sister as she is the focus. Pray as well as for those who have stood for her.

"She is a target because she is favored by God and hated by the red dragon. If the red dragon hates her, then the black dragon hates her as well. There is a web of evil being spun."

I then saw a huge spider spinning a black web over the entire Earth. People were in their homes being caught up in the web through the evil available.

Then I saw a large warrior angel with a giant clipper and a sword. I saw him clip the web in several areas. This caused the spider to screech and attack. They were fighting each other and it was becoming more intense.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "A giant web around the Earth causing the light to be removed. Is this the worldwide web?"

Jesus: "Yes. This is another dependency and distraction that the enemy has planned."

Me: "Lord, I had no idea."

Jesus: "Yes, the enemy wants you to be comfortable here. What does the spider then do?"

Me: "Put venom in us, paralyze us and then wind us up in the web so we cannot escape."

Jesus: "Very good. This is enough for tonight. You will have questions, so please study. There are mysteries in the Bible that are hidden, yet in plain sight. Read again in Ephesians the mysteries of the Gospel.

"Also look to Romans 16 about these mysteries. If everything was in plain sight, then there would be no desire to dig deeper and know me. Remember, I am not a shallow Lord."

Me: "But, Lord, You had just told me that everything is simple, yet now I must dig deeper for the hidden?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Try not to complicate things. You are swayed by preconceived notions based on logic and research. Human understanding from scholars is another version of a half-truth adding complexity unnecessarily."

"What I am showing you can be found by you just simply by asking Me for the revelation. By obedience, when the Holy Spirit prompts you to dig deeper, this is Me calling you to use your compass properly in the woods. Now, this is simple right?"

"Erin, would you rather come directly to Me to have Me illuminate understanding in the Bible or go through endless articles by scholars with theories, further putting themselves on a higher educational field than the rest of us?"

Me: I am laughing. "I would much rather have You show me in the Word where I can find it."

Jesus: "Remember the race? The enemy wants you side tracked and defeated. Spread the good news that I am here for My Bride, to answer questions and to help."

"They must know that there is not much time, so you must all gird your sword, go forth in truth, wear your belts and have Me as your helmet."

Me: "Thank You."

I then bowed to Him. Smiling, He gently thumped His chest with His closed hand, pointed to His eye and then pointed at me. In return, I curtsied and laughed. I now had a new understanding of His eye is on the sparrow.

I walked to the angel and looked back towards Jesus. He turned and waved at me as I went back to the Balustrade. He stood among the others.

Angel: "Remember, it is still raining." He put the cloth over my head. "You are being requested to revisit Isaiah, Joel, Haggai, Daniel, Ezekiel and Psalms 83. Use your new perspective and think differently. This will be a paradigm shift for you."

"You are in the midst of a war. Do you not study your opponents to help you understand their strategy? Do not waiver, remain strong and stand for truth. Put on your full armor, fast and pray for your sister, Israel, and bless her."

Dream over...

It is time for us all to remember how many times we have been blessed by Jesus without even being aware of it. It is time for us to give thanks, to love and to forgive. It is time for us to walk as a warrior for Christ. We do not have much time. Pray so that your prayers will be pleasing to the Lord. I pray this blesses everyone.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 025 – Feet

Tuesday, December 4, 2012
08-05-2016, 03:28 PM

Though the parking lot at work does not have any roses planted there, the aroma of these wafted towards me as a supernatural earthly sign straight from Heaven that Jesus was with me today, as He is always of course. I smiled as the smells were truly amazing and I instantly felt so blessed.

In each of my trips to Heaven now, I find that the reality of the world has become so very heavy in comparison. While visiting the Lord in these dreams, He has brought me an amazing team of prayer warriors that are right beside me praying for me daily.

During the day, unbeknownst to each other, and in perfect sync with the Holy Spirit, each one, within minutes of the other, sends me words of encouragement and reminders to put my armor on. All of these messages are so affirming, as well as knowledgeable about the truth of the Lord.

I just know that the Lord sent these people to meet me at the time of my greatest need in order to replenish my Spirit that had just been crushed by so many enemies. They have helped me without me even needing to ask them to help. I am so very blessed and thankful to have these friends sent to me.

The Lord saw that this sparrow was falling, but, before I was even able to, He caught me and nurtured me. Lord, today I am humbled. Based on all the events about to unfold, I take communion and I remember how much I love You.

Eight weeks ago, I know now that my love for You was shallower. Now my love for You is deep and with a desire to lay at Your feet to forever give You thanks. You have seen everything in our lives and know what has occurred. You send help and carefully give us only what we can endure.

The amount of suffering some have gone through leaves me breathless. In comparison, I now look at my portion and I am thankful as it could have been like others extreme trials.

Lord, You are my King and are holy and worthy. Thank You for not abandoning us, but instead granting us this hope of You. Lord, I must get my house in order and this has new meaning now, but how shall I do this? What is the best use of the time I have left here?

Father, help us to spread the good news of You and Your soon coming. To my Sister, Israel, please bless her, cover her and keep her safe. Evil is closing in on her gates so please send help for inside of her citadels. Please show her Your love before the times of great judgment comes, even though we are in these even as I write.

Lord, I have dates in my mind; dates that I want You to come for us and that seem obvious. However, I just know that we will not truly know when You are coming for us until we are finally up here standing on holy ground with you celebrating.

All of the signs are in place, all of the ears have heard and the banquet is being set. I know that You are getting ready to come for us soon because I have seen that You have prepared a place for each of us near Your Throne.

Lord, who are we that You would love us so much? Your love is so much higher than I ever thought possible and your ways are so beyond ours. We are so very blessed to have You as our Savior.

Lord, please send out one more shout to those that we can reach. Send one more so that we can show them how to get Home before the Tribulation begins. If there is anyone else, please, Father, bless my brothers and sisters who long for You like I do.

Thank You for spending so much time to show us how to love You deeply. You are showing us not a superficial love, but rather a true desire for more of You. We love You, Jesus, so please jump on that beautiful horse, come on the clouds and take us Home. Amen.

Dream begins...

I noticed that the dome had now been reinforced to be at least twelve inches thick. The dome was illuminated in white, wherein there were four column supporting it at each of the compass positions. There were also three columns at the center of the dome, forming a type of tripod for strength.

From where I was standing, though outside of the dome, the black dragon was between the fourth and the first column, or northwest position, and the red dragon was at the southeastern position. I stopped looking below at the enemy and dome and turned my attention upwards to look for Jesus.

There I saw Him, waiting for me just below His Throne with His wings seemingly even further spread out than before. Above and behind Him, I saw some incredible Heavenly beings. These beings were near the rose arch and seemingly were able to move without actually having to turn.

These beings were kind and caring and they were four of them altogether and were most comparable to the angels. When they noticed that I was studying them, they seemed to be uncomfortable with this and moved out of sight so that I would instead focus only on Jesus.

Jesus was beautiful today and He seems to become even more so with each and every visit. My eyes ached as I tried to behold His glory. To do so would be impossible.

Just then, an angel poured the familiar liquid over my eyes so that I would be able to behold Him clearer. A different angel wiped my eyes once this was completed. When I was able to see clearer, I dropped full on down to the ground in worship to Him.

The Shofar sounded again; ta-da, ta-da, ta-da and then one long blow followed by silence for exactly three minutes. The ground then started to thunder and roll under me. The angel had to help me up at this point as my legs had grown very weak from this.

I looked up and saw rows and rows of people in robes lining the River of Life. In turn, these people in robes stood behind the children and millions of angels stood behind these people in robes.

Angel choir: "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb, Who is and was and will always be in power and majesty, Who sits on the Bema Seat in righteousness and truth. Behold, the Lord God Jehovah, behold the King of Glory, Holy is He!"

Then the crowd replied: "Holy is the King! Holy is He!" This was followed by loud cheers of praise, happiness and gratitude. This was all so incredible to see.

The landscape was lush and even the River of Life was praising Him by intensely sparkling like I had never seen it do before. As the divine music began to play, I looked over and was overwhelmed by the beauty and majesty of our Jesus. I know I say this every time, but, each time, Jesus is more and more magnificent and even better than before. He just is.

The Heavenly beings, with humility, grace and such sweet spirits, moved once again to the side so I would concentrate again on Jesus and not them. This was obviously necessary for me as they were just so unique and fascinating.

I looked over at His Throne and saw that the risers were like pearl marble, deep and translucent. The beautiful red roses that surrounded the Throne were still fresh as nothing dies in Heaven.

Around Him, His beauty was so powerful that He gave off a glowing emerald aura that surrounded Him. The prisms of color appeared to emanate from the jewels on His Crown. I decided that I wanted, no needed, to be closer to Him.

When my feet touched the Sea of Glass as I walked towards Him, they began to move as if they were on a conveyor belt. This 'movement' took me right to Him and He stepped down the last few steps of His Throne to greet me.

His hand reached for my hand and, as He took my hand, my entire body bowed to His glory. My legs felt like noodles today in His presence. I noticed that my robe was the same as my last visit with Him; white and lovely with nothing but the finest linen and like nothing I have ever seen in the fabric industry.

My robe glowed as if I were wearing a light stick. I looked at my arms and my skin appeared beautiful and radiant. He beamed as He could tell I was excited with everything around me. He pointed to the tables.

The tables seemed to be now almost fully set and the angels were putting fresh flowers on each of the tables. The tables were so breathtakingly beautiful that I must have jumped with excitement when I saw all of this.

Jesus: Smiling. "Do you like it?"

Me: "Oh, yes, this is so amazing and I cannot wait. Lord, who are these people?"

Jesus: "Those are the people that have gone before you. They are gathering for the reunion."

Me: "It looks like this reunion will be soon?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, Erin, very soon."

Me: In my mind, I was still trying to figure out when. "Lord, everything seems like it is building up or expanding."

Jesus: "Yes, the tents are being stretched and expanded."

Me: "Oh, this is more than tents."

As I was scanning the scene, I saw large foundation blocks of turquoise being set. There were two types of blues meshed together and this looked simply incredible.

Jesus: "Heaven is preparing to receive the multitudes of saints." He smiled and seemed overjoyed to tell me this. "So, are you surprised?"

Me: "Yes and no. I knew in my heart and by the Word via the Holy Spirit, but, in my limited scope, I expected for everything to already be built and ready."

Jesus: "Erin, it is. This is for your benefit so that these dreams went in progression like this. Let's review."

In an instant, I saw a time lapsed sequence from the beginning of my visits, starting from the first word and my hesitations, my girlish love, and now my anticipation of physically being there in Heaven. This all read like a movie and was extremely well done. Tears were streaming down my face as I watched this.

Jesus: "Erin, now look at your growth and the growth of those that have entered this story with you."

I saw myself taking communion every day. I was praying more, forgiving more and loving others more. I was also diving into Scripture more than ever and I was anxious to know Him more. He also showed me the levels of love I had gone through.

Then He showed me others from all over the world. I saw Singapore, Kuwait, South Africa, India, Germany, Italy, Canada, Ireland, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the United States and even Israel.

Jesus: "They are with you on this tremendous journey of drawing closer to Me before the wedding ceremony. The Holy Spirit has spoken to them and they have become you in the story."

Me: I was overwhelmed. "Lord, I am so thankful that You would have a use for me in this late hour." I fell at His feet. "Thank You as I truly had thought my life had come to nothing and I would die worthless."

Jesus: "After all of this, do you still doubt your worth? Look."

I saw Him in shepherd's clothing in the far reaches of Albania. He was in a pasture and a huge flock of sheep were penned in. Then I saw one little sheep slip out almost undetected in the middle of the night. The Shepherd, hearing the bleating, dropped everything and ran after the little lamb to bring her Home.

Me: Laughing. "I remember this."

Jesus: "If I had started out with just a dream of the wedding and not the journey, what would you have gained?"

He showed me a preview of what was coming for us in Heaven and my heart leapt. This was a quick vision, but what I saw caused me to jump up and down in excitement.

Jesus: "See, if you would have gone straight to the wedding, you would not have truly anticipated Me in full love, just shallow love. I did this in three ways and, if you broke down each section and edited them together, they make a story three ways:

"First, the growing battle in the spirit realm is three days prior to real time on Earth. This is what you see before you get to the portal. Second, your deepening love relationship with Me. Did you grow more in your walk? Third, then, as we became closer, I was able to share with you what is behind the veil so that you might see the signs and be able to look for Me.

"Presenting the dreams this way also renewed your tired watch and reminds you of how much I love you and that I have not forgotten you. I built this slowly so you could take in the fullness of Me and what is to come. This will become part of you.

"I have become part of you now in many more ways; a gem has many facets and great depth. Remember, through your love and faithfulness, others have had their own Heavenly experiences. When the sheep are in the pen, one or two breakthrough and then the rest do too.

"Today, it is difficult to walk in faith and share something like this. Others that have been given encounters from Me are also in fear of being discredited. Remember back to the dream of the white dough and just a small amount of yeast? Did not the entire batch turn red?

"See, weeds choke tender shoots and are everywhere. Some are toxic and kill, but many will just take over the soil until the tender shoot no longer has sun. Remember when I walked the Earth? All of creation was expecting a king. What does the world see now as king?"

Me: "Money, power, a crown, a castle and that the king rides on a royal horse."

Jesus: "See, here I came, born in a manger, born of a virgin with no money, poor and the only crown worn was a crown of thorns. I owned no property and I rode in on a donkey. I was hardly the king that was expected. Have I not shown you how creative I can be?"

Suddenly, I saw all the miracles that He had done while He walked on Earth. I saw beautiful mountains, trees, snowflakes, clouds, waterfalls, sea shells, butterflies, flowers and a download of paradise, a small snippet of Heaven on Earth.

Me: "I forgot how truly amazing You are. There are just no words."

Jesus: "Even though the dreams do not fit into the normal order of how people expect them to be, are they still not from Me and divinely inspired?"

Me: "Yes, because there is no way I have the wisdom to think of this."

Jesus: "Precisely. Now, let those that would believe continue and those who believe half-truths depart. You are no longer to consider them. You have prayed for the, extended olive branches and have grieved, but now it is time to step forward with Me in faith and finish strong. Do you trust Me, Erin?"

Me: "Yes, I love You."

Jesus: "Where are you standing?"

Me: "Directly under Your wings."

Jesus: "Then let go of all of the bitter words from these people. I will answer your prayers you have made for them, but it is time for you to dust your feet off as you are standing on holy ground. I have prepared a place for you here."

He smiled as I looked down and quickly realized I was on holy ground. I laughed and so did He.

Me: "Yes. I also saw my place at the banquet table."

Jesus: "Yes, but I have prepared so much more for you."

I was so excited that I began to cry again as I was overwhelmed. He smiled and reached over to hug me.

Me: "Thank You."

Jesus: "Believe Me, I will not lie to you. Do you believe this?"

Me: "I believe You, but I am winding down here on Earth and feel ready to come Home with You and my friends."

He looked at me with such warmth and anticipation. I could tell that He was joyful, secure and passionate about His quest to bring us Home.

Jesus: "I am coming soon."

Me: I smiled. "I pray that Your soon is the same as my soon."

Jesus: "Are the prophecies being fulfilled and is my horse ready to ride?"

Me: "Yes."

He began to take me towards the Balustrade. There I saw that the angel was standing with the plumb bob again.

Jesus: "Is the banquet table almost set?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Now look."

I saw more activity than the day before over the Middle East. Egypt looked like it was in complete chaos as did Syria. There was another country beginning to boil as well. The leader of Russia appeared to be waiting for further orders from the financiers.

Me: "Lord, this is frightening."

Jesus: "You have been shown some markers that others will now research also. I show you this so you may have greater understanding when the Holy Spirit illuminates the Scriptures. The veil will be lifted. Many have suspected, but few have placed this in Biblical terms."

Me: "Lord, are the riders on horses that I am seeing from Revelation?"

Jesus: "Yes. You are being shown the course, the destination and the plot. Now you can get your house in order."

Me: "What do you mean?"

Jesus: "There will be times coming."

Me: "But You are coming before that, right?"

Jesus: "Remember, there is an order and you must be patient. Remember when I told you that evil is hidden in plain sight, but prefers caves and dark holes?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "You must understand your adversary and put on you full armor as the adversary cannot stand against truth. Alone, it will run to avoid the light."

"Get your houses in order, mend fences, board up windows, sweep, reinforce your armor and even extend an olive branch. Find peace, look for joy and laughter. Be warm and welcoming."

He then motioned for an angel as He sat me down in a small archway with beautiful flowers next to the Balustrade. The angel put a basin of water and a golden sponge next to us and Jesus bent down on His knees and took off my sandals.

He was still wearing His Crown as He placed my feet over the basin. I was crying as I knew what He was about to do and I was so humbled over this. I began to gently weep as He washed my feet with the water from the basin. My heart felt so full and loved.

Jesus: "Up here, we find joy in service. We serve each other and it is an honor."

Me: "But Lord, I should be washing Your feet."

Jesus smiled as an angel came over with a soft linen towel. Jesus gently dried my feet with the towel and then placed my sandals back on my feet.

Jesus: "Beautiful are the feet of those who spread good news."

As I cried, I noticed a smaller angel come to collect my tears and record them.

Jesus: "Erin, believe that I am coming soon. You will see the signs and I will not delay. Ready your houses."

Dream over...

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 026 – The Unseen Battle

Friday, December 7, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:34 PM

Dream begins...

Since I last came to visit, the dome was still twelve inches thick, but was now reinforced with a new coating. Not only that, but now there were almost twice as many angels and more unusual weapons than before.

Every now and then, I could see scales from the dragons flash by me. The dragons were so huge that the scales looked like a large moving wall as they circled the dome.

There were thousands of beams or lines of light with a bluish purple tint shooting from Heaven, wherein each light strand shot through the dome faster than the speed of light. Even though these beams shot out so fast, I somehow could still see them and it was a beautiful sight.

These lines of light created a type of 'laser light show' of an epic proportion. I wondered if we would look like that at the Rapture, but wherein we were ascending up to Heaven.

However, instead of a bluish purple light, I imagined that each of us would be gold and white light strands based on the coloring I have seen from the children in Heaven. However, this was only a personal guess.

I then noticed that the fighting angels I have seen appear to come in three basic types, but this was hard to define. The first types were extremely strong warriors. The second types were like special operations, or 'Special Ops'.

The third types seemed to be skilled archers. However, these archers did not just use bows and arrows, but rather similar weapons and much more advanced.

As I said before, I simply cannot describe that which I have never seen before so I apologize again as doing so is simply impossible. All in all, I just knew that all of the weapons used by these fighting angels were extremely lethal.

There were also other types of angels that were more like structural engineers. This type of angel appeared to have advanced skills in enforcing walls, guarding gates and building siege ramps.

I think I have seen these types of angels before in Heaven performing construction during my visits with Jesus in the very beginning, but I did not have understanding about this until I was told that Heaven was being prepared to receive the multitudes.

While the progression of my dreams seem to coincide with the expansion project in Heaven, Jesus told me at my last visit that this was actually for our benefit as we continue our journey in these dreams. Of course I believe this, but it sure seemed that Heaven itself was being expanded to receive this soon-to-arrive huge party.

All in all, I would guess that anyone receiving a billion plus people would need to make advance preparations. However, Jesus made it abundantly clear that everything was already in place. Either way, I just knew that everything would be ready when He came to get us as Heaven is advanced and highly structured.

In comparison, our ways here on Earth seem barbaric and disorganized. Heaven is perfect and precise, but peaceful and relaxing. I know this seems to be an oxymoron, but this is true and you will understand once you are here.

I noticed now that the path was also fully lined with angels and that there was an even tighter formation, more swords and more illumination of the path. The angels were hurrying and wanted me to hurry up to the Gate as well. The beasts were pounding the outside of the dome with their massive feet. It seemed that the beasts were doing this as they waited for the right time to strike.

The red dragon shouted a command to the black dragon. In response, the black dragon immediately jumped up on top of the dome and ran over it looking for a weak spot. The dome began to buckle under the weight of the dragons. I became concerned, but really knew that the victory was already God's.

The red dragon then sent fire to try and incinerate the dome. In response, the structural angels continued to add new layers of protection to the dome. These extra layers of protection increased the dome's thickness by another six inches thicker. I then noticed that the angels had also added three enforcement columns and reinforced the four columns that were each in the compass positions.

The red dragon began to mock the angels as he crawled up the dome to the northeast position. Our side obviously did not appreciate this as suddenly I saw hundreds of archer angels shooting at the red dragon in response.

Surprising, it seemed that the red dragon was prepared for this attack and was actually using this as a ploy to divert attention away from the black dragon. It worked to distract me as I did not even see that, during the commotion, the black dragon had moved to the top of the dome to try to cave it in.

As the black dragon pounded at the dome, it began to crack as he was obviously inflicting damage. Again this created enough of a distraction that the red dragon had now tried to enter in at the southern compass column position.

As a matter of fact, the red dragon seemed to be relatively successful as he had reached in and was moving the pillar aside to get into the dome undetected. This seemed to be working as all of the angels had rushed to the breach in the dome at the crack.

Though I should not be concerned, I was and I prayed that all would be okay. Just as was about to start praying, I saw many more angels, perhaps even a million of them, stream down from Heaven with such force and magnitude that both dragons fled at the mere presence of their light streams.

I sighed deeply in relief as I fully realized that God saw all of this in advance because the victory was ultimately being orchestrated from Heavenly places. I was cheering in response, but was still grieved as I noticed that there had been a serious breach of the dome and that angels appeared to be down.

My concern was shortlived as I then saw the structural engineer angels adding two more columns to the center of the dome. The dome now had five columns forming a star in the true north position. There were also angels weaving metal into the dome, almost like they were knitting and spinning it. They were creating a metal woven net.

I then saw this net serving as a reinforcement, but, not only that and because of the inherent tension in the net, whatever came at the dome would be rebounded directly back at the offending target. This tensioned net was like a permanent weapon that aimed directly at the attacker and was sheer genius from my perspective.

I then noticed that the four columns where also being sealed at their positions as several angels with these torches or flame throwers were enforcing these points like an arc welder.

I was obviously caught up by all of this as I heard Breakthrough whistle for me to keep moving towards Jesus instead. In response to his beckoning me,

I quickly entered the path. The path was relatively quiet compared to the dome outside of the canopy and I was enjoying the rest from the noise.

I noticed that the path still had five inches of snow on it, as well as a fresh dusting of new snow over the underlying packed snow. Where I lived, there was no snow at all so I reminded myself to check what was happening in Israel right now.

I read that the last snowfall with six inches in Jerusalem was around six years ago back in the year 2006. I thought, 'Perhaps Israel is due for snow, even though I am still unclear of the significance.'

I looked to the side of the path and saw that three of the seven little whited fluffy birds were either dead or almost dead. These birds were now so hungry that they were even trying to eat their own excrement to survive.

It seemed that some of these birds had even choked on their own excrement and had died as a result. The one bird that I was looking directly at was yellow and black mainly, but I could not tell if there was another color as well.

The other four birds were still chirping and jumping around as if nothing had happened. All in all, three of the birds were now dead and but four remained alive.

It was then that I noticed that the mother bird was ignoring the plight of her young, but instead was now off of the path trying to lure male suitors so she could have more babies? She appeared completely uncaring towards her now starving chicks and oblivious to their needs, focusing completely on herself instead.

Breakthrough yet again had to call to me to focus. I realized that I was distracted again and I turned my attention to him and ran to the ladder. As I went up the ladder, three angels along with Breakthrough went ahead of me while three were behind me.

As I climbed up the ladder, I noticed that the battle that just occurred had caused the fabric covering on the dome to be partially torn away. Through this tear, I could see both the red and the black dragons staring right at me.

The dragons' heads were massive and the eye balls alone were larger than me. Given their immense size, the very fact that these creatures were not able to break through the dome was purely by God's design.

As the dragons stared at me with a hate I cannot even describe, the lead angel reached back and handed a huge sword to me. As I held it, I noticed that the sword was about four feet long in length and that the blade was about seven inches wide and about one inches thick.

The length of the blade itself measuring close to three feet or so and, as I held it, the sword seemed to become light and manageable. It seemed similar in heaviness to a graphite golf club.

One of the lead angels shouted back to me, "Erin, if one of the dragons gets close to you, I want you to strike it with a sword."

I thought this was odd as I was no fighter and certainly no warrior. One of the angels reinforced what the first angel had said when he noticed that the red dragon had come quite close to where I was.

The angel said to me: "Take a stab at the red dragon." I looked over and saw that the red dragon was taunting me and speaking horrible lies. Thankfully, the enforcement on the walls were so thick that I could not hear what this dragon was saying.

Just then, I saw an opportunity and drove the sword into the right shoulder blade of the red dragon. Actually, my sword went in closer to the neck wherein, in human terms, this would be most like the clavicle.

The angels cheered and the lead angel reached the sword to take it back from me. I thought, 'How was my sword so easily translated through the dome and into the dragon?'

The red dragon was now extremely angry at me, but I noticed that I had barely caused even a scratch. Regardless, and for some reason, my sword seemed to matter in this battle as the sword was more like the Spirit or the Word of God.

This, along with my helmet of Jesus, seemed to hurt the red dragon greatly despite the relatively shallow wound I had inflicted. What was interesting as well is that I noticed that, when I had hurt the red dragon, the black dragon had also been weakened.

Overall, I felt that, with Jesus as our covering or helmet and our Sword of the Spirit of truth and through the work of God, we are able to inflict injury in the spirit realm. Somehow this appears to help the angels in their victories in the spiritual realm.

Dream over...

Ephesians 6:10-17: "Finally, be strong in the Lord and in His mighty power. Put on the full armor of God so that you can take your stand against the devil's schemes. For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms.

"Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand. Stand firm then, with the belt of truth buckled around your waist, with the breastplate of righteousness in place, and with your feet fitted with the readiness that comes from the gospel of peace.

"In addition to all this, take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. Take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God."

In several of my dreams, the angel of the Lord told me to study the major prophetic Books of the Bible, as well as to study specific Scriptures. Two that had me tossing and turning during the night on several occasions were the Book of Haggai and the Book of Esther.

I was struggling to find a correlation between these two Books when I finally realized that the answer was right in front of me the entire time. Both of these Books contain references to the 'signet ring', as well as references to the specific time period we are in right now, which is the Jewish feast of 'Hanukkah'.

Some other points that are interesting to me are that the Jewish calendar date of Kislev 24, which is December 8th in 2012, is mentioned four separate times in Haggai. Not only is that mentioned there, but the Jewish month of Kislev is also mentioned in the Book of Zechariah.

This particular time frame seems to be a marker of sorts and relates to the same term Jesus spoke of when He showed me the craps table in my dream. This marker appears to signify promise and redemption. This all comes, not by our power or might, but rather completely by the Spirit of Jehovah and in His time alone.

The Jewish holiday also may be a countdown of sorts for the soon unfolding of 1260 days, the 1290 days, the 1335 days and the 2300 evenings and mornings of Daniel's visions that are coming very soon.

In Haggai, Kislev 24 is mentioned a few times, along with a recommendation to us from God to give this date careful thought. Haggai 2:6-9 reads as follows:

"This is what the Lord Almighty says: In a little while I will once more shake the Heavens and Earth, the sea and the dry land. I will shake nations, and what is desired by all nations will come and I will fill this house with glory, says the Lord Almighty.

"The silver is mine and the gold is mine, declares the Lord Almighty. The glory of this present house will be greater than the glory of the former house, says the Lord Almighty. 'And in this place I will grant peace, declares the Lord Almighty.'"

He continues to mention Kislev four times, as well as repeating the phrase, 'Now give careful thought to this from this day on.' God then goes on to mention two seemingly separate future events:

First, that 'I am going to shade the Heavens and the Earth' as per Haggai 2:21. Does this refer to natural disasters?

Second, that 'horses and their riders will fall each by the hand of their brother' as per Haggai 2:22.

Again, I point this out as just a possibility as I am not a Bible Scholar. In the simplest of terms, I report only that which I see. In reality, I cannot emphasize enough that I am, in no way, comparing myself to Zechariah. I am merely making a case for my dreams being in a set of series.

Speaking of which, it appears that Zechariah began receiving messages in the eighth month, which I believe maps to roughly mid-November in our calendars. Indeed, Zechariah had a series of eight night visions or dreams in a row. These were given in a series of dreams so that God would allow for this historically to condemn any doubters.

For example, Zechariah had a dream of the measuring line at the same approximate time that I had been shown the plumb bob on the third or fourth week in November. In addition, the details of Haggai's prophecies were also confirmed in the prophecies from Isaiah, Jeremiah and Micah.

Indeed, these are meant to set the stage of the events that are soon to come. Based on all of this and what I have seen, as well as confirmation from three unrelated sources, I would urge everyone to begin a three day fast beginning today, December 7th, 2012 at 6:00pm where ever you may reside in the world.

For many of you, this date will already have passed when you read this dream, but please consider three days of fasting and prayer if you are able to and at your earliest convenience. I have had a word directly from an angel of the Lord that this fast will be a blessing to you if you do so.

I believe that this fast comes with a promise that God will speak to each of us individually for this act of obedience and faith, but in His own way and not just through another person like me.

If you fast as outlined, as you fast, I ask that you pray first for Israel as I am seeing an epic battle soon to come in both realms. Indeed, this is already occurring. We need to pray for our sister that God continues His favor and protection for them from all of her enemies. As an added bonus, as we bless Israel, we will then be blessed ourselves.

I ask that you pray secondly for discernment. There is an epic battle in the spiritual realm all around us and we must put on our whole armor. We must walk in truth, the full truth, of the Gospel of Christ and be strong and courageous like never before. Do not be surprised if things get tough as we get closer to the Rapture and that even our communication might be struck down at some point.

I ask that you pray thirdly to ready your houses. We could still be a year or even much more from going Home. Regardless, it is abundantly clear that we are seeing prophecy now being fulfilled as we speak today.

Therefore, make sure that those around us have the tools to stand. Jesus commanded us to love each other, but we also must forgive and clean ourselves up too. After all, we could be going before our King very soon and we need to sweep.

I ask that you pray fourth to be able to reach out to the lost around us. I am talking about acts of kindness to our neighbors and anything that might point people to Jesus through our actions. I am certainly not talking about us cramming any religious dogma down these people's throats as this will have them running away from Him instead.

Lastly, I ask that you pray to find joy and peace. Please pray and ask our Father for confirmation that He would like you to proceed with this fast at the same time. I know that anytime I have fasted and prayed He has always answered and I have been blessed.

There are so many signs right now all around us. Prayerfully, we will be Home tonight even, but even if it is a year from now these are things that I pray will nourish your soul and refresh your love for Him.

I am praying that I am not sound all preachy or like I am giving a "Thus sayeth the Lord" speech because this is not meant to be that at all. This is really meant to be more of a call to arms from the Holy Spirit.

Dream continues ...

The angels brought me through the Portal. I was laying on a large pile or bed of palm leaves. An angel presented me a chalice of water from the River of Life. The greeter angel and Breakthrough grabbed the rectangular cloth and placed it over my head, then brought me up.

I stood there and I became breathless as all around me were millions, perhaps even billions, of people. In front of these people were the children and behind these people were millions of angels.

The landscape all around me was simply breathtaking. It was like all the most beautiful places in the world all combined into one place and then placed right before my eyes. I thought of some of Canada's landscapes and some of the pictures I have seen of New Zealand with their rugged mountains with snow-capped peaks.

I noticed that the water of the river was crystal clear and light blue green. The water was similar in color to waters surrounding the islands of the Caribbean or even the Mediterranean Sea.

The sand was like sugar and there were many varieties of plants from all over. I saw trees of eucalyptus, palm, cedars and even oaks. There were fragrant flowers as well, seemingly from the subtropics, as well as northern roses.

I saw beautiful fountains that were both amazing and colorful. I started to cry with joy at all that I was seeing. I knew now that perhaps my next visit might be with others and in person. I then saw a huge lion lying down with a lamb. It was unlike anything I had ever seen on Earth.

As I walked, I turned the corner and there stood Jesus. His wings seemed almost completely extended now. His wings were about twelve feet long each, while the top of the platform appeared to be about forty feet across or so. That being said, without a tape measure, this was only my rough guess as to measurements.

He was still wearing His armor, although I noticed fabric of white with just a bit of red peeking out from under this. I had not noticed this fabric of white before today, but I somehow knew it was there the other times as well.

The gold breastplate He was wearing represented each of the twelve tribes. His sword was golden and heavily engraved.

Even His very Crown seemed to multiply and now looked like the seven spires I had previously seen had now become seven Crowns, each of them encrusted with priceless jewels. While I am not sure, it seemed that each Crown represented a continent on Earth and the jewels represented the people. I knew this as I stood there, but I am still unsure exactly how I knew.

I then looked up at Jesus' face and my entire body simply dropped again in worship. What I had spoken about before was nothing like what was now before me. I laid on my face right against the gold brick of the cobblestone street that surrounded the outer stretches singing His praises in worship.

As I did this, a choir of saints began to sing, "My Deliverer is coming, My Deliverer is standing by, My Deliverer is calling, My Deliverer is standing by."

I simply lay there as the ground vibrated with this beautiful music of the saints. I stayed there for the entire song and wept as I was amazed at the detail of what is coming for us. It had so much more meaning when I listened to the words of this song.

I just knew that Rich Mullens, the earthly singer and song writer for My Deliverer, must be there in Heaven in this crowd somewhere singing that very song that the Lord had inspired into him.

The processional music continued as I stepped onto the Sea of Glass today. When I stepped on to 'glass', my dress suddenly changed. I looked down and saw that I was wearing the same robe as before, along with the bracelets.

I noticed that I also had the jewel drop braided crown over my forehead and the beautiful sandals that gave my bare feet worthy to walk on this Holy Ground. Once again, I seemed to glide over the Sea of Glass towards Jesus.

As I did, His face shined brightly and bright holy light was emanating from His presence. Jesus was the very source of light here in Heaven and, around Him, there is truly no darkness like there is on Earth.

I once again bowed down to Him in prayer on the first and second risers of His Throne. He came towards me and reached His hand towards mine. I wanted to hug Him, but was afraid to as I did not want to dishonor Him.

He knew my thoughts, so He reached over and hugged me. As He hugged me, I wept and my tears fell on the beautiful breastplate. When my tear hit the emerald jewel, it sparkled and the jewels lit up. He wiped my tears and brought me up the platform near the Throne.

Jesus: "Do you like it?"

Me: "It is more and more beautiful every time. How can this be?"

Jesus: "Erin, this is Paradise. Define it."

Me: "It would be every beautiful thing contained in one place."

Jesus: "Yes, but what else?"

Me: "It would be like You have shown me, but with more to uncover and more to see, wherein this is but a small portion."

Jesus: "Yes, and the Temple is not even complete yet."

Me: I was confused. "Yes, but in Heaven, it is already completed, correct?"

Jesus: "Yes, but, again, this is for your benefit. Each time, do you not expect things to be even greater than the last time? You are experiencing everything, layer by layer, in preparation of Me coming for all of you. It is a divine processional, Is it not?"

I was smiling, realizing that He had completely planned everything like this for greater anticipation.

Me: "Oh, so everything really is complete for when we arrive and we are just seeing the progress of the building up to the big event of the wedding and the supper?"

Jesus: "Yes, of sorts, but there are still those that believe in the half truth that Heaven is boring. You needed to write about how Heaven is actually highly structured, yet creativity and wonder are also an elemental way of life here. There is no death of any idea here and every single seed planted takes root, blossoms and reaps a return."

Me: "So there is more than just physical life everlasting. All seeds eventually grow into a fruit bearing vine?"

Jesus: "Yes, and it produces a harvest that you yourself will enjoy. You will enjoy your own fruit that you labored for."

Me: "I am so used to giving everything away. I do not ever live in the homes I design here on Earth. I help others with their dreams and I do not even have enough to pay rent or buy groceries."

He was pleased that I just said this. He smiled and nodded in agreement.

Jesus: "Here, Erin, you will live in a Home that encompasses every favorite idea you had for others all in one home and designed specifically for you."

Mind you, with your varied taste, the structural design team here had to use specialists to convey everything into one Home."

I was in tears, just tears. I never owned a home. I have been flown all over the USA to work on various custom mansions over the last fourteen years.

Me: "Lord, how could You do this? Even I do not know what my own home would look like?"

Jesus: "Erin, I know you and I am hopeful that you will like it."

Me: "Lord, I am content just being here with You. If I could be in Your presence every day, I would not even need a mansion, just You."

Jesus: He hugged me. "You will have all of this and so much more as Heaven is creative. There are things that are waiting for even those who have been here. No eye has seen and nor ear has heard the wonders that I have prepared for all of you who love Me."

I was overwhelmed and so excited for everyone to see this.

Me: "Lord, can I come Home now?"

He was laughing and very happy that I was so excited to come to the banquet.

Jesus: "Very soon, Erin, now come. There is still some things that most first occur, but we are getting closer. Remember, even I do not know the hour or the day. Now, what do you see?"

I fixed my eyes on the sapphire knob that represented Israel on the scale, wherein the other side had ten weights.

Me: "Hmm, I think saw one of a similar know to the sapphire knobs when I went to Target the night before last. I feel that I recognize it."

Jesus: Smiling and laughing as He had done this on purpose. "Do you understand the script on it?"

Me: "No. I cannot read Hebrew."

Jesus: He smiled. "It is a marker that says, 'A great miracle has happened here'. This is what this represents."

Me: "So the miracle is or will happen in Israel?"

Jesus: "There have always been miracles surrounding Israel. There will even be more such as the world has never seen. It will expose these ten leaders. Look, their very color fades away, chips off and their luster is leaving them."

Me: "Does the black underneath the paint represent the true ten that hold the real power in the world?"

Jesus: He smiled. "Ah, you have wisdom here."

Me: "Thank You, Lord, but this is from You only."

I put my hand over my heart and bowed. He laughed and placed His hand on my right shoulder and guided me to look over the railing.

Jesus: "Remember, there will seem like a confusing turn of events. Scholars will be confused, but, make no mistake, there is an order. The real problem is that these scholars are not reading the Scripture in the obvious sequence."

Me: "I do not understand. Why would we be confused?"

Jesus: "Consider these."

He showed me the dome over Israel and the black and red dragons. They kept morphing into one.

Jesus: "Is not the one who rules on Earth right now the author of lies and confusion? To have understanding, scholars will need to come to Me and I will illuminate the Word like never before for them. When man leads unto their own understanding instead of Me, then the author of lies will lead them by nose rings into false teachings."

Me: "Are You saying that the Scripture is being misinterpreted by some because of the ruler and author of lies?"

Jesus: "Yes. The great mystery in the Word either comes from My illumination or from Holy Spirit breathed revelation from the original Author, the Author of truth, and not the scripiter of lies."

Me: I looked confused again. "So, are the Scriptures being read out of sequence to everyone?"

Jesus: "No. As many have sought Me as the Author of truth, I have illuminated it to them and they know the truth as a result."

I became relieved and afraid for a moment at what He was saying. He sensed this and continued to explain.

Jesus: "Just know that the events soon unfolding had no description when the truth was written in the same way as you sometimes have no description for some of the mysteries you have seen here in heaven.

"If you were able to write them, the critics would still say you were writing from the author of lies. If there are no words to describe what you have seen, how do you write about it?"

Me: "I cannot and still make sense of it."

Jesus: "When the Word was written, the words selected were made for a time sealed up for later, which is now. Do not allow the author of lies to define what that is. Come to Me and I will illuminate what My Father has written for I know and seek to know My Father's business."

Me: "I take comfort in seeing You and I have a greater understanding just being in Your presence."

Jesus: "I am glad. Now look."

I saw horses with different colors taking sealed scrolls and running a route to deliver them. This circuitous route led to the city of many deceptions, the city with the 'tallest tower'.

Me: "Is the majority of the evil being organized in the world originating from that city?"

Jesus: He laughed, along with the two angels and the elders. "Yes, but one day this city will be removed. This is a long awaited chase with a very long awaited victory for My team."

I was jumping up and down because He showed me the final outcome for the city. Let's just say that, in an instant, the warrior angels completely wiped it out so that absolutely nothing was left.

Me: "When will this be?"

Jesus: "There is an order, but we are right near the finish line of much of the prophecies. Are you relieved about this?"

Me: "Oh yes. This is awesome."

Jesus: "Remember, though, to read the entire Scripture, not in part. We are nearing the fulfillment of prophecy and there is more, but this is heavy and very weighty."

I saw the weights on the scale completely stripped of paint and the wind had carried the paint strips away. I saw the small sapphire knob grow smaller in size.

Me: "Oh no!"

Jesus: He was sad as He showed this to me. "Erin, this is foretold so do not be discouraged. There are battles yet to occur and epic ones at that. However, make no mistake, we are in the midst of these battles."

Me: "You will not need to fight, right?"

Jesus: "Not as prepared physically..." Pointing to His armor. "...but symbolically, yes. There is a battle as I take up My Throne and every knee will bow and every tongue confesses.

"There will be both both great joy and great remorse when I return for you. It will be the very definition of bittersweet. Again, this was all done for your benefit so that you would see Me in all of my roles."

Then I saw Him in all of His different roles that I have seen Him in my life. He has been my Father, my Comforter, my Counselor, my Prince of Peace, my Lawyer, my Husband, my King, my Creator, my Warrior, my Portion, my Cup, the King of Glory, my Salvation and the Great I AM.

Jesus: "You are to know Me in all of these ways and, to answer your question, I am not passive in this epic battle. Do not always look at the facade, but rather you must go deeper. Again, this is for your benefit so that you know Me and walk near Me. You are My Bride and you are royalty."

Me: Smiling. "Yes, but we are not officially married yet"

He laughed as I already knew that I was technically wrong when I said this to Him.

Jesus: "Okay, betrothed." Now everyone around us was laughing, including the angels that were there. "However, make no mistake, I am coming for My Bride."

Me: "I have a question."

Jesus: "Go ahead."

Me: "Why were You recently sheep herding in Albania?"

Jesus: "Good, Erin, I am glad that you caught that."

Me: "What does this mean?"

Jesus: "Parables, Erin, now study about Albania. Albania, at one point, was declared in history to be the very farthest nation from knowing Me. Will I not then come after even one lost sheep, such as those in Albania?"

Me: "I had better look into Albania. Is it even on the current map?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, Erin, homework is in order."

Me: "Is this in Scripture?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, and many just like her stepped in rebellion. Nonetheless, I still pursue Albania and those residing in countries just like Albania."

Me: "Oh good! Please appear to whole cities and let them see You!"

I then saw stars above me and a waning moon.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I am not sure? Is this the current skies as seen above us?"

Jesus: "Yes, but these are markers too."

He was smiling. I could tell that the stars marked a season and not a day and marked a range and not an hour. One star seemed brighter than all of the rest, but I did not understand.

Jesus: "The markers are from this vantage point."

I then saw the plumb line near the Nile in Egypt.

Jesus: "You will not see these markers from your vantage point."

Then I saw North America.

Jesus: "I will send others to each region so all will know and see signs."

Me: "You are sending other stars?"

Jesus: "Yes and no. You will see signs and know I am near. The enemy knows too, but also does not know the day or the hour. Remember, did I not say for you all to ready your houses?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord."

Jesus: "Then let us ready your house."

He sent me with the greeting angel. Jesus hugged me again, gently pounded His chest over His heart twice with his fist. As He did this, I put my hand over my 'new heart' and bowed. He smiled at this and then turned and went back to the Balustrade. The elders began to gather. The horse nudged me and I hugged him and kissed his nose.

Angel: "It is still raining so you must cover yourself. Now, go to Hosea 2:14 and the promise in Hosea 3. Read Psalms 17 prior to reading Psalms 16. Remember what He is requesting of you. You must ready your houses and sweep them. There are patterns in Scripture in this way, but you must ask and seek."

He pulled out the plumb bob and put it in my hand.

Angel: "Judge and measure using the Holy Spirit within you. Hold the plumb line from true north, then you will see that He is coming soon. You can even recite Proverbs 2. Do you not see that your Maker is also your Husband and is this not written as well?"

"Sometimes to find the truth you must read the beginning as clues for the end. See Isaiah this way also and then see Psalms 110 as it unfolds. Where do you stand? Take notice as there is no mystery here. All truth will be given by the Lord with greater illumination. Remember His command to love."

Dream over...

Dream 027 – The Final Countdown

Wednesday, December 12, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:39 PM

There has been a recurring theme in the last couple of my dreams that I have been in prayer concerning the definition of 'my house'. The first, and obvious, answer is our physical residence in our respective location on the global map.

However, I believe that the Lord was conveying that our 'houses' are our physical bodies in which the Holy Spirit dwells. I have been through some tremendous bouts of spiritual warfare in my walk and especially right before I started this amazing journey into a more intimate relationship with our Lord.

There have been some epic battles during all of this also which are made more tolerable because I can actually hear the Lord's voice more clearly than ever before. Besides putting on the whole armor of God, we must also make sure that we are prepared to stand in the battle.

What good is the armor if the body that it is on is not healthy enough for the war? Just a few months ago, I realized that I was still actively sinning. While not always knowing this was flagrant sin, I now understand that even a slight level of sin is the same as a major sin in keeping us from walking closer to the Father.

It is not that God has left us, but rather it is that we have left Him when we serve ourselves and our vain ambitions wherein 'self-service' keeps us in a shallower love. In the last two months of my walk with Him, I have learned to love Him like never before and I have grown closer to Him and deeper into the Word of the Lord.

However, I must emphasize that I am not perfect, so please do not misunderstand me when I say this. It is just that I have now found that the more I have sought the Lord and desired the things that are good for me in my body, the clearer His voice becomes.

When I first started having these dreams, it took some time for me to learn how to wait on and listen for the Lord. I learned that to take up the Cross and follow Him meant to lay myself down first. This also meant that I needed to live a life striving toward personal holiness.

Again, not so that I could be perfect as this is impossible, but that my heart was open before Him and willing to be examined by Him. In essence, it has been my heart that has continued to be a project. It has been broken so many times that I guard it.

In essence, it has taken my heart 'breaks' before I finally decided to stop all together. Well, I guess there were one too many breaks as now my heart runs on a battery. This is actually hilarious when you really think about it; my heart now needs a battery.

Really, while I needed heart surgery from an earthly perspective, what I really needed was the Great Surgeon to perform it from a Heavenly perspective. God created my heart and He knows it better than any doctor as He is the only One Who can truly shape my heart.

The deal was that I needed to surrender my heart to Him fully and then I needed to trust Him fully with it. He has worked on my heart multiple times and every time He did I would do something that would require His surgery again. I could never get it right so I finally just gave it up.

The real problem was that I had accepted Him, but I still had not given Him my heart fully. The only way I knew how to keep my heart healthy was to go to Him every day with it, but I would often simply pretend to pull it out and put it into His hands as an offering to Him.

However, the more I pretended to offer my heart to Him, the more I actually surrendered my heart into His hands in reality. My heart needed to be willing to follow Him completely and this took practice. Now I am eager to give Him my heart, but sometimes I find myself wondering what is next.

I have now had to be willing to allow Him every day to come in and clean up this fleshly cavity of mine that I refer to as my heart. After much practice, trial and error, this is what I have come to believe it means to ready 'your house':

Board up the windows: I cover my eyes to the things that would lead me down crooked paths. Perhaps this means to covet my client's mansion or car or perhaps this means to guard the lust from my eyes.

It seems much better for me to board up the windows of my soul so that I cannot see these things rather than have them lead me away from the Lord. So, what does He tell us in the Word? He tells us that if our eyes cause us to sin, then gouge them out (Matthew 18:9).

Clean-up: If we know we are going to have visitors, do we not clean up our homes before they arrive? While we do this for visitors that mean little from an eternal perspective, do we do the same with our body that houses the Holy Spirit?

The questions I find myself asking more and more is am I desecrating my body? Am I overindulging? Am I bitter about things and harboring resentment in my blood? Am I allowing my body to become dirty? Have I lost my original luster?

In essence, you may wish to ask yourselves honestly if there are there things that need to be cleaned up in your lives today (Zechariah 13:1).

Strengthen the Structure: We need to put away our vain self-ambitions and choose to walk in personal holiness, choosing every day to follow Him no matter what He is asking of us. This means reinforcing our faith with the fundamental belief in Him alone. If we did not do this fully, then why do we even watch for His return?

We need to nourish our souls with the Word of the Lord every day. By us praying as much as possible all throughout the day, this will help give us greater understanding of the Word, which in turn then works together to create an even stronger faith in Him (2 Corinthians 4:16-18).

Remodel: We need to change the way things are to make it better and more functional. Bring forth everything that is contrary to the structure, bring your sins to Him and lay them at His feet and openly decide that you are going to go a different direction. We need to actively seek Him and repent of our sins.

In other words, we need to change course and bring all of it to Him every single day. After all, He sees all we do so what do we have to lose to bring all of it to Him. In turn, He will take it from You as if He supplied a fresh coat of paint every day. Do this and He will wash you as white as snow (Psalms 51:7 and Isaiah 54:2).

Kick out the Pests: We need to remove those evil things that have gained access to us. We can let these evil things in directly through the front door, visibly through a window or perhaps unwittingly through a crack in the foundation or even your computer. Regardless, somehow these evil things have gained access to us.

With what I have seen of God's Courts, I now know that these are allowed in our lives legally and will remain there until we recognize them and boot them out of our house in the Name of Jesus. I should note that there are also dust bunnies and old clumps of dust in the corners that have also attached themselves to various things we cling to.

In reality, anything in your house that creates noise, a film of dirt or a distraction blocks the voice of the Holy Spirit and must leave. The Holy Spirit is the light within you and the only house guest you will ever need (Luke 11:25).

When all of this is done, then the Lord can come in to you like a glorious flood. He can now talk to you, sit with you and even invite you up to see Him as you have openly welcomed Him into Your House (Joshua 24:15). There is not much I can guarantee, but I can guarantee that the Lord is a much better remodeler of your house than the evil one.

When I look back to when I was actively sinful in my Christian walk, I found that I would read only those Scriptures that made me feel good or comfortable with where I was at and what I was doing. In essence, I simply was not yet ready to walk in the full truth of the Lord, but instead I wanted a feel good Father that would be my personal pocket genie. Yes, I guess I could say that I had wanted my own personal Jesus Genie. This type of relationship with Him was so shallow and it boiled down to the thinking that 'it was not what I could do for Him and others; it was what others could do for me.'

To look back on this eleventh hour epiphany actually hurts me. In hindsight, God was truly requiring me to walk into the full Gospel of truth, to embrace my 'full Paul', to get real with who I am and where I have been and to realize fully where I was soon going to dwell permanently.

Instead of personal holiness, I was seeking comfort and I certainly was not walking in the full truth. I was not reading the entire Scripture and I was not hearing fully from the Holy Spirit. In essence, I did not desire a complete loving relationship with Christ with all of my heart and 'house'.

Jesus requires the uncomfortable act of obedience of us, not to bathe in comfort. In turn, obedience means to step out in faith, trust the Lord and desire to do your best with your whole heart to please Him. This is not only an act of love, but also an act of true love for Him.

All I know is that we are rapidly running out of time and He is coming for us soon. As such, please consider getting your houses in order and help your children to understand this concept also. This is important as we can all hear directly from the Lord and have the illumination of the Word via the Holy Spirit.

I am praying for all of you to help each other and pray together. We must all clean and ready our homes as He is coming soon.

I was thinking that I would not have another dream tonight, but no sooner did my head hit the pillow last night, then I had yet another one. I still hope and pray that the next dream will not be a dream but rather us all living in Heaven after the Rapture.

Dream begins...

I found myself actually thinking in my dream as I stood there that I was here one more time. The dome was again before me and the four columns were still at the opening points to the dome. I was entering in by the western Gate.

I noticed that the five columns were still in the center of the dome and that the ceiling of the dome was still cracked from the damage that had occurred at the last battle. If you recall, the beasts had impacted it over and over and this had caused a breach.

Nonetheless, I could see that the 'structural engineer' angels had repaired the dome, including this crack, with a type of Heavenly 'arc welder'. The angels under the dome were still on high alert and I could feel the tension in the air.

The beasts were still circling the dome and I could see them through the glass. The red dragon spotted me and I could still see the wound from my sword on its neck. I believe that I had not done much damage, but probably just made it even angrier at me.

As I stood staring at the red dragon, I noticed that it began to 'manifest' into people from my past. These were not just anyone, but rather these were people that had hurt me or, when I was a child, were unstoppable or, as an adult, were untouchable. I stood there staring at the red dragon long enough to see almost thirty people.

An angel quickly moved in between my eyes and the red dragon. He then used his 'blue flamed torch' to cover the view of the red dragon from my sight. I was so grateful to the angel for doing this as the red dragon was taking its toll on me.

Thankfully, I heard Breakthrough's whistle and I quickly returned my attention to the path before me. However, just then, the tails of the beasts began to hammer the base of the dome around where the four columns were.

I noticed that these beasts were trying to knock the very dome off of its foundation. It seemed that these beasts thought that, by knocking down the foundation, they could take down the entire dome and all of us with it. I decided to run up to the path as quickly as I could even though I knew no harm would come to me.

As I entered the path, there was suddenly complete silence. I then noticed that there were now four dead birds on the path. One dead bird had yellow and black excrement in its mouth, but perhaps it was green, one had red, black and white excrement, another had had red, white and blue excrement and the last one had green, white and another color, but I really could not see this color clearly either.

All four of the dead birds also had blood on their white fur. I could see that the three birds that were still alive had plucked at the dead birds while they were dying. I felt that the remaining three birds were fat and evil.

One of the birds still alive had black tipped feathers. The mother bird was fat again and perhaps even pregnant. I thought, 'Hmm, that was fast.' I did not fully understand all of this, but I did know that I did not like any of the birds that were still alive. Indeed, I did not find them even remotely cute, but they instead seemed extremely vile to me.

The air inside the path was perfect. The angels on the path began to blow on me with breath that had something like gold shimmer dust. This dust seemed to help me refocus on Breakthrough and the ladder.

Once again, Breakthrough and two angels went ahead of me while another four angels remained behind me. As I climbed the ladder, I noticed that the heads of these beasts were again flanking the ladder. The red dragon was staring me down again and I made the mistake of looking into its eyes again.

As a result, for each step I climbed, I saw someone that had hurt me in my past. As I climbed the thirty or so steps up the ladder, each step had an offensive person that had marked different valleys of pain in my life.

I did not breathe a word about this to my accompanying angels as I felt that, if I did so, I would give these beasts enough power to come through the dome if they knew I was weak. I was losing strength rapidly and, on the last step, I found myself beginning to hesitate. One of the angels noticed this and sprang into action.

Angel: "Breakthrough, hand her the sword again."

Breakthrough handed me the sword and motioned for me to take a stab at the dragon.

Another angel: "Do not look evil in the eye."

A different angel: "Take a shot...now."

Just then, the beast exposed its belly. I drew my sword and thrust it right into the stomach and back out. After I did this, I heard the angels cheering me on. Another angel took the sword from me so I could climb again and all of them motioned me to go through the Portal.

I looked back and I could see the red dragon huddled over. I then found it odd as I noticed that the black dragon was also huddled over and holding its belly even though I had only stabbed the red dragon. Why did this happen? I decided this did not matter and that the only thing that mattered was that I stabbed the red dragon.

Angels at the Portal: "Erin, ready your house. Jesus requests your obedience. You are almost Home."

Me: "Wait. Will I see Him again?"

Angel: "Yes. He is awaiting your return and a full report."

Me: "What?"

Dream over...

I woke up this morning at 4:15am to my dog barking. Lord, please help me to understand my dream as we are in a very late hour. Please grant me clarity and the favor of Your Holy Spirit. I love You, Lord.

Dream continues...

An angel greeted me at the top of the Portal. Breakthrough handed me a chalice filled with water from the River of Life and motioned for me to drink. Another angel came and put the golden substance over my eyes so that I could see.

I turned toward the Throne and dropped to my knees as Jesus was there and His wings were now fully spanned. His feathers were gold, luminescent and pearl. He wore the Crown with the crowns of seven. He had a scepter in His right hand and the sword was girded on His left side.

His face shone like the sun and He was completely illuminated. The reflection in the sea was like the sun rising on the water on the East Coast. The roses above Him looked like a victory arch and, above the arch of roses coming from Him, was an emerald band of illuminated light. The sight was simply incredible.

The River of Life glowed like living golden crystals. I saw that animals had gathered there from all over. The trees seemed to bend toward Jesus in praise and worship and even the mountains seemed to sway toward Him in reverence. The sight caused me to drop from my knees to my body being fully prostrated on the ground.

In reality, this seemed as if it was dropped on a cellular level and was uncontrollable. As I lay near the Portal, my face touched the gold cobblestones or pavers. I noticed that each of these gold stones were perfectly chiseled.

Just then, the children began to sing, "My Deliverer is calling, my Deliverer is standing by, my Deliverer is coming, my Deliverer is standing by." I laid there for the entire song and wept onto this golden bricked street. I felt like I was almost Home now.

The song played and then silence. The angel needed to help me up as my legs had buckled from weakness. I stood at the edge of the Sapphire Sea with the golden sunrise of His light reflecting on the surface.

People lined the River of Life as far as my eyes could see and even farther. The babies were the closest to Him, then the children that were no longer orphaned, then the saints and then the angels.

The angels were the tallest and were about three feet taller than the saints. The saints were taller than the children, so this formed natural layers of people and angels. The way they all lined up meant that everyone could see Jesus and He shined like the sun.

Just writing the description of all of this made my tears flow. I was all of these things; an orphan, a widow, lost and shallow, but here He was the filler of my empty cup. I stood before my Maker, not in terror, shallowness, petition or wealth, but in gratitude that all He required from me was my heart as I really had nothing else to give Him.

I felt myself giving Him back every last bit of me as I stood in complete amazement over what I was seeing. I remembered back to my first few visits when He cared for me as a loving Dad with His child. I remembered when I would rest on His shoulder.

I remembered His beautiful illuminated white linen robe and especially the fragrance of His very being when He held me in His arms as a toddler just thirty inches tall. Jesus took the time to listen, get to know me, understand my pain and nurture me.

He allowed my questions and answered in a way that I could see the parable. He stayed with me awhile and was so very patient with my lack of knowledge. When I struggled through the hateful words of others, He taught me how to forgive and how to love.

He showed me compassion and honored me with His presence. The very thing I thought I could never do was to fall in love with my Savior and now I loved Him more than my own life.

As I stood there remembering how He had carried me, three Shofars played in unison; ta-da, ta-da, ta-da and then one loud thundering blow. It shook Heaven and was magnificent. The sound shook my body, coursed through my veins and even my heart beat faster.

Tears were streaming down my cheeks. Everybody in Heaven was down to the ground worshiping Him with all of their hearts and beings.

The angel announced, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God Almighty. He reigns forever in majesty. The stars are His, the universe too. There is a righteous Judge who wears the sword of truth, who sees us all and works all things together for those who love Him. Behold the King of kings and Lord of lords. Glory be to the Lamb, holy is He."

Then all of Heaven shouted in reply, "Glory be to the Lamb, holy is He!" as the music processional played.

I was in awe and, as I put my feet on the Sea of Glass, my gown suddenly appeared. It was the same beautiful white gown as before, along with the twelve beautiful bracelets of gold with the braided jeweled crown. My sandals were so beautiful and I was still wearing the pretty jade ring with gold.

I could not see my face, but based on what I could see my skin had a radiant golden glow. As I stepped out onto the Sea of Glass, this once again floated me supernaturally to the risers of the Throne.

As I bowed to Jesus, He came down the stairs from His Throne and took my hands, kissed me on the forehead and brought me up. He sat me down next to Him on the same stool as before and below Him. I just stared at Him in silence with my heart racing so loudly that I was afraid I would burst.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

He directed me to look all around. There I saw the Golden City, the beautiful foundation stones from the tribes, incredible fountains, lush trees and greenery, choirs of saints and angels and amazing jagged mountains.

Me: "It is breathtaking."

I wept with joy. If it seems that all I do is weep with joy in Heaven, you would definitely be partially right. He gently held my right hand with His hand as I quietly wept my happy tears knowing that I would soon be there.

Jesus: "I did this not just for you, but for all of those who love Me."

Me: "I am so excited to be here with my family and friends too."

Jesus: Smiled. "Did I not tell you about Paradise?"

Me: "Yes, but now I really see it."

Jesus: "Do you like it?"

Me: "It is beyond description. My I please come now as I am ready."

Jesus: Smiling: "Very soon, Erin, very soon."

I glanced down and my eyes caught a glimpse of the engraving on His sword. He knew I was looking at His sword.

Me: "Lord, are You going to use this?"

Jesus: "Yes. It will play an important role soon in fulfilling the prophecies."

Me: "Like what I did at the ladder?"

Jesus: "Yes, like that, but different. What do you think that incident at the ladder was all about?"

Me: "Well, I know I cannot really bring down the red dragon as this is Your job, so I guess I do not know?"

Jesus: "What did you see as you looked at him?"

Me: "It was very hard to look at him because, when I did, I saw every person that had ever hurt me. Each step up the ladder was a different hurtful person and thirty memories of different people came with each of the thirty steps I took."

Jesus: "What did the sword represent to you?"

Me: "A way that I could cut through to the source and remove the obstacle that kept me from coming to You."

Jesus: He was very happy with my response. "Okay, now tell Me what the sword represented."

Me: "Truth and justice."

Jesus: "So tell Me about that."

Me: "The sword looked heavy and I did not believe I could handle something so big. However, once I had it in my hand, the sword became light and easy to maneuver."

Jesus: Smiling now. "Go on."

Me: "The angels must have known as they told me not to look the red dragon in the eyes. They then told me to use the sword on the dragon."

Jesus: "What next?"

Me: "I thrust the sword right through the dome and into the belly of the beast."

Jesus: "Why do you think you were given this opportunity?"

Me: "Well, I knew that defeating the enemy is really Your job, but I think it was for my benefit to use the sword of truth to cut down the lies of the enemy."

Jesus: "Why did I allow you to do this?"

Me: "So I could see truth cut through?"

Jesus: "Yes, but symbolically you did what you thought was impossible. You cut down the strong holds with the spirit of truth, which is the sword. The enemy was defenseless when you cut through his lies. Erin, you just took him down in the Spirit."

He laughed and seemed proud of me. I was laughing and felt so much joy being in His glorious presence.

Me: "It felt really good too."

Jesus: "My sword has a similar purpose, which you will see very soon."

I looked again at the sword and I saw the engraving of the battle yet to come. As I studied it, the engraving became alive and began to animate the actions in the battle.

Me: "Lord, when I had died four years ago, was I up here in Heaven?"

Jesus: "Yes, you were here."

He showed me the jagged mountains and I saw, up on the cliffs, the small stone storage building, as well as the deer.

Me: "What was this about?"

Jesus: "I am glad you asked. Do you remember everything in the little building?"

Me: "Yes. There were swords of every kind."

Jesus: "Describe some."

Me: "Well, there were some that were very large, some looked very expensive, some were simple and sharp and some had jewels."

Jesus: "What else did you notice?"

Me: "Each one had been through a battle, some in horribly large battles and some were cracked."

Jesus: "Do you remember what the angel said to you?"

Me: "I believe he said, 'This is your sword room and represents all the battles on your behalf since you were born.'"

Jesus: "Let Me finish what he said, 'since you are precious and honored in my sight, and because I love you, I would give up nations in exchange for your life.' Erin, do you remember what else the angel said?"

Me: "These represent all of the battles of the angels and the men you have sent on my behalf to fight for me."

Jesus: "What was I showing you?"

Me: "How You would cut through anything that will come after me, no matter what. You will send your best warriors on my behalf to save me."

Jesus: "Erin, you matter to Me and I did all of this for you so that you would seek Me even more. The sword of the Spirit is the Word of God and My Word is alive and active today.

"The Word is sharper than any double edged sword. It penetrates even to divide soul and spirit, joints and marrow. It judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart. My sword is the sword of the Spirit and My Word.

"I am about to come and judge the hearts of men. When I come, the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed. I did not come to bring peace when I walked on the Earth before and, when I come again, it will be with a sword also. You will see Me with My sword very soon riding on the clouds."

Me: "Lord, I pray this is soon."

Jesus: "Come."

Again, He carefully helps me down the risers and across the small bridge over the River of Life. There the angels are still over the Balustrade; the angel with the plumb bob to the left and the angel with the scales to the right.

Over the Balustrade, I saw horrible things coming. I saw four canisters, or scroll shaped tube containers, and they were being carried. The orders were granted from the city with the highest tower and these canisters were carried under the false pretense of a white flag.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I see these large canisters being moved during a time of peace; a false peace. When will this occur? I thought this did not happen until the end?"

Jesus: "Again, read the Word and ask for illumination like never before. Seek Me, Erin, for your sword is the Spirit of truth and the Word of God."

Me: "Lord, I am confused by this."

Jesus: "The spirit of truth, My Word, when it is illuminated will make a well lit path in the dark like a lamp. Remember the canopy and the dome?"

Me: "Every time I wanted to come to You, my desire to see Your face gave me the strength to overcome my fear of the enemy."

Jesus: "As you increased in knowledge, so too did the battle's intensity increase. The enemy sought to destroy you. In advance of this, and knowing his plans, I sent droves of angels to guard your path.

"I sent Breakthrough to make sure you came up to see Me without being harmed. I sent special warriors to make sure you would keep safe on your journey."

Me: "But I thought the dome and path also symbolized Israel."

Jesus: "Are you not both, My beloved?"

Me: "Yes, but..."

Jesus: "The same principles apply. When you increase in your knowledge and love for Me, the enemy will seek you to destroy you. The enemy knows how much I love Israel and you, so it seeks to destroy all that I hold dear.

"Right now, with Israel, this is occurring in both the spiritual and physical realm. I have sent extra reinforcements to protect your sister. Please continue to pray that she be blessed.

"She is in the middle of a hate zone, a zone so evil that no one chooses to see the truth and recognize the evil. The world will be amazed at what I am about to do. Have you been preparing your household?"

Me: "Yes, I believe so."

Jesus: "I am coming for you soon. Do not be discouraged when things do not seem to go according to plans. Know that everything is scripted and exactly the way the Father has chosen. Do not be dismayed or discouraged as I will continue to send signs and wonders." Then He pointed to the plumb bob.

"Remember, it starts here and from this vantage point. The stars and the sky will be a marker and there are others too. Seek Me with your whole heart and I will be found by you. I love you."

Dream over...

Dream 029 – Last Call

Sunday, December 16, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:52 PM

There was an epic wind storm today with winds up to 65 mph pounding the desert valley. At times, our entire roof sounded like it was going to come off and every window rattled like it was about to implode. I kept hearing sounds as loud as a freight train. These winds kept me, my children and our dog up most of the night.

During the night, and as the Lord granted me another dream for about two hours or so, I suddenly woke up to the sounds of construction debris hitting the house at around 3:30am. When I got up and was walking to our living room, the lights flickered as a popping sound came from my computer.

When I inspected my computer's power source, I noticed that it was completely fried. This was clearly an enemy attack and he had nailed my laptop right after the dream series had begun. My Mac computer, complete with my entire design portfolio, family photos and all of my dream entries, was now fried.

I suddenly realized just how dependent I am on technology. I imagined that the enemy also relies on technology and this was a key attack. God knew this would happen in advance as He had pointed out our vulnerability to technology on quite a few occasions in some of my dreams.

As a matter of fact, the Lord has been 100% accurate with everything that I have been shown. During the course of these dreams, He has always taken care of all of my needs and has never once let me stay down too long. When I have been down, He has always sent in the right people at the right time to make sure that everything would continue to work for His glory.

With this computer issue, He soon sent the miracle of a brand new computer and I did not even ask Him for this. I had been praying for divine healing over my fried computer, but instead He lavished me with a new computer so that I could continue on this amazing journey of loving Him more and sharing His love with everyone here.

Time is so short now and perhaps this journey so far is simply meant to be an awesome love letter to leave behind. Perhaps there will be a time soon when Bibles will need to be turned in for food. Perhaps there will no longer be any access for those left. So maybe, just maybe, testimonies, word of mouth or stories will be the final light to lead some Home.

I personally believe that access to the internet will be rare or so closely monitored that no one will dare speak of Jesus once we are gone. While it is hard to say, if there are any letters or anything that we might be able to leave behind as a road map to Heaven, then I say let's do what we can.

While the storm raged outside my window, I again dozed off momentarily and heard Jesus say, "I am showing you great mysteries and I am revealing deeper things. Your knowledge and depth of the Word will increase and you will share with each other like never before. Be strong and take courage as I am here with you, but you must call on Me."

I knew it was Him speaking to me, but it was a message for all of us. It was crystal clear and it kept repeating throughout the night until I finally got up and wrote it down in my journal.

Dream begins...

This time, my guardian angel met me right at the battle.

Angel: "Erin, this is an epic battle. The Lord requests your presence. This battle is the Lord's so be strong and take courage. Come."

The angel had the most calm face, as if the Lord himself were right there speaking to me through him. As I approached the path, the entire dome was illuminated. I was not sure how, but there were tens of thousands of angels here and there was so much activity inside.

I saw an angel, perhaps Michael, giving commands and the angels shouting and cheering every time this type of catapult was launched. The angels fighting outside the dome had a type of wall erected around the perimeter of the dome and had built a type of trench as well.

Angels from Heaven were streaming down and filling the trench with what looked like golden oil. The angels would bring this oil down, dump it in the trench and then ascend back up for more. It was fascinating to watch as I then noticed that the Heavenly angels were acting defensively, rather than offensively, and were protecting the dome and the path. They were not aggressively going after this demonic army.

My guardian angel stayed with me while Breakthrough waited for me at the base of the ladder. As Breakthrough and my guardian angel surrounded me, there were also angels lining the ladder.

I noticed that the snow from yesterday had now helped to form a crusty pack of about six inches. The dome was not cold, but neither was it hot like the exterior of the dome. The temperature in the dome felt like about 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

The three small little grotesque birds still had their own excrement in their mouths. One stood out in particular and I noticed that its excrement was red and white. I did not see the pregnant mother bird this morning.

Breakthrough whistled at me to remind me to hurry. As we climbed the ladder, I saw both the red and black dragons as well as the spider at the top of the dome. They were all staring directly at me.

Guardian angel: "Do not look evil in the eyes."

I realized that when I looked at them that my eyes would lock into their stare. This allowed them to see weakness in me and they would become stronger with my fear. I could tell that, if they had a chance, they would take any opportunity they had to kill me immediately.

Breakthrough whistled as the lead angel shouted at me. The lead angel must have sensed that my fear was causing a breach right near the Portal. As a result, thousands of angels swarmed the area and their swords penetrated out of the dome toward the enemy.

As I neared the Portal at the top of the ladder, the light started to become so bright that I could no longer see the evil outside waiting to devour me. My guardian angel leaned over to me to speak.

Guardian angel: "Jesus is looking forward to seeing you today. Stay focused on your destination."

He pointed to the top of the Portal and motioned for me to continue. Both my guardian angel and Breakthrough came through the Portal with me today. The greeter angel gave me a drink from the chalice while another angel poured the golden liquid over my eyes. My guardian angel then put a beautiful linen cloth over my head.

Finally I was able to fully breathe after I came through the dense air of the dome. I turned to look for Jesus and there He was. Once again, He is the most amazing and glorious sight. He is the amazing King, my King and your King.

His wings were pearlescent and like fur in texture, but white like His hair and spanned beyond the length of the platform area. His Crown with the seven spire crowns caught the light of His presence.

When He smiled, my heart stopped as I realized He was smiling at me! His skin and His face shines like the sun. His armor was a brilliant gold and His sword girded His side. His long iron, or like iron but with illumination, Scepter of righteousness was in His right hand.

If I did not have the golden substance over my eyes, I would not have even been able to see or behold the details of His beauty. From this long distance, I could still see the depth of His eyes and they had the anticipation and the longing of an actual Groom on His wedding day.

He seemed to long for me, but really for all of us, as His holy Bride. I wondered how this was even possible. As I stood looking at Him, I realized that there is not one created being on Earth, or even in Heaven, not even the stars nor the sun, that could even hold up to one ounce of His majesty and radiance.

His love for someone like me is beyond words and description as He knows the depths of me, my innermost being and all things. After all, He did knit me in my mother's womb and specifically chose us.

My guardian angel brought me back up to my feet. Somehow my guardian angel seemed proud of me and that, other than Jesus, he seemed to know absolutely everything about me. I concluded that my guardian must have been assigned to me by Jesus from my very beginning.

My guardian angel was also a very strong warrior and I realized he would have to be to guard someone like me. I also realized that the fights my guardian angel must have fought on my behalf must have been simply amazing.

My guardian angel could tell I was studying him and he quickly turned my attention away as he was not comfortable with me focusing on him instead of Jesus. I turned back around to my right and I noticed that there were now five angels, each with a Shofar and the angel in the center having a larger one.

Then at once I heard; ta-da, ta-da, ta-da and one long blow. The sounds of these Heavenly trumpets reached out to the perimeter mountains. When the sound echoed back, it seemed to course through my veins for the entire three minutes of silence.

The angels of the Lord announced, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God Almighty! Behold the Lamb of God. He is above all the Universe in honor and glory. He reigns in justice, righteousness and love. Holy is He."

Then the beautiful divine processional music began. Once again it seemed to be a mixture of Bittersweet Symphony and Cannon D. I was now standing at the edge of the vast Sea of Glass.

Jesus was sitting on His Throne, but when the music commenced He stood to receive me. I saw these four creatures behind and up where His emerald light reflected. These creatures began to move off to the sides and away from the area so as to not draw attention away from Jesus.

I then realized that these Heavenly beings act in complete humility and reverence to Jesus and they do this, not because He requires it like an abusive King, but because He is so holy that everything submits to His divine presence and glory and wants to.

Jesus: "So, Erin, what do you think?"

Me: "There are no words. Everything here is significant and has depth."

Jesus: "Yes, there is nothing shallow here in Heaven."

Me: "Every single element here is a parable, everything has life and breathes and everything has purpose."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, everything has purpose under Heaven and in Heaven."

Me: "No, Lord, I mean everything! Everything right from the cup I drink out of, to the four-sided spinning top or 'dreidel' played with during the Jewish holiday of Hanukkah on the scales of justice and to the roses. There is just so much to take in and so much to discover."

Jesus: Smiling. "Did you not think that this was Paradise?"

Me: "I guess my idea of Paradise was limited by my scope of understanding. Here, this is beyond words. Now when I read my Bible, it comes alive for me like never before and this is a miracle."

Jesus: "This is why I do not grant you all of the answers with My lips or you would only understand with your ears. When I tell you to go seek this in the Word, does the Word not also become a passion? Do you not also pursue the Word?"

Finally I had a huge light bulb moment from what He was asking me.

Me: Excitedly. "Oh yes."

Jesus: "When you desire Me with your heart and pursue Me, I will unfold layers upon layers of meaning in everyday things. The deeper you desire the mysteries of Me, the greater your reward will be. Have I not presented an open door?"

Me: "Yes. This is wisdom."

Jesus: "Remember also that darkness on Earth operates in the same manner and it too is in parable and this is also written. There are signs everywhere that the ruler of darkness is increasing his strategies and is expanding his tents."

Me: "Yes, it is getting worse on Earth."

Jesus: "Remember that evil increasing is also a sign of My soon return. Remember that everything you see happening on Earth is often the exact opposite of what you see happening here in Paradise."

Then He very briefly opened up a veil with His arm. There I saw orders of darkness and an army with different ranks. I saw different ranks of darkness controlling regions, cities and homes.

I saw these evil entities controlling media, communication lines, food sources, water, pharmacies and schools, but especially churches. These entities were highly organized and extremely evil.

Me: "Lord, I guess I always knew this because the Word talks about powers and principalities in Romans and Ephesians."

Jesus: "Yes, but these Scriptures have also been veiled by the enemy to lessen the exposure of the unseen realm. Even some of my elect have fallen under this dark veil at times."

Me: "Lord, I have fallen under this trap or veil."

Jesus: "Yes, but now, and more than any time in history, I am requiring that you must go beyond your limited understanding and seek Me like never before as there is not much time left now."

He then showed me areas in the world where there were so very few lights. There were countries with so few lights that they seemed as void as the oceans. I was being shown the Earth's view as if it were night and whole grid areas were completely black except for the occasional tiny twinkling lights.

Me: "Lord, are these lights alone in the dark?"

Jesus: "No."

He then showed me whole wars in the Heavens over one small light in a village in Western Africa. When I zoomed in for a closer view, I saw a small dwelling with an African family all praying.

I saw a small Bible stored away in a hole and the family reading it. Around them, I saw a witch doctor just three dwellings down cursing them and plotting their death. I literally saw a war between light and dark.

Me: "Lord, this upsets me. Please go down there and wipe this evil out right now please, in the Name of Jesus."

Jesus: He smiled as He hugged me. "I realize that it is hard for you to understand My ways, but you should remember that I wait on My Father's commands. I am coming soon and everything is almost in place."

Me: "After seeing what You have just showed me, please tell me how can I go back there and make a difference."

Jesus: "All of My lights that were appointed for this time have a divine purpose. Just as evil has its earthly soldiers that spread darkness like a plague, so too do I have Heavenly warriors that spread light into the world. Did I not show you in the beginning of these visits with Me just how important your prayers are?"

Just then He showed me that simple prayer by even small children, really especially small children, formed swords of light that cut down the darkness and created Portals in which Heavenly angels could swarm down from Heaven to help.

Me: "Oh, Lord, this is just like in the dome."

Jesus: He nodded approvingly. "Yes."

Me: "Lord, it looks like evil is winning down there."

Jesus: "Yes, but, while it appears to be this way, this is just an illusion and a temporary cloak or strategy of the enemy for My children to believe that I have turned my back on what is happening, thus causing a loss of hope.

"Remember that these evil entities at one time were part of God's armies and were high ranking Heavenly angels. They were highly skilled in the arts of war and wise in their understanding of the order of Creation.

“However, they are now against Heaven and anything holy. Indeed, they are the opposite of all things good because they have fallen.”

Me: “When I see the size of these entities and the increase in violence and chaos in the world, it is truly scary.”

Jesus: “Yes, but this too is written in Daniel and Revelation. Upon reading through the prophecies now, Heavenly illumination will occur and your understanding will multiply. This will bring you peace knowing that I will too becoming very soon.”

He then showed me the banquet table and I saw angels adding a few more settings to the table.

Jesus: “This is part of why evil seems to be winning. As these dark events unfold, the last few shouts are given as calls to the lost and a last shout to those that still have a chance to come Home.

“Some will drop to their knees and proclaim that I am their Lord and Savior, but others will instead turn to the darkness. It is the last call and the last of those I will take now as the dross is now rising to the top.”

Me: “So is this why the events are getting more gruesome?”

Jesus: “Yes. I know this seems difficult and unfair, but remember that My ways are not yours. I protect the ones that are Mine and not one will be lost. Therefore do not worry, but instead continue to pray, focus on Me and My devotion to you and My divine love for My Bride. Erin, I do not tarry, but will come at the appointed time.”

I hugged Him, but He knew I did not want to go back there even though I knew I had to as I wanted to make sure that I rescued my kids and friends.

Me: “I love you.”

Jesus: He pounded His chest over His heart twice. “I love you too.”

I bowed with my hand over my heart. He smiled and walked to the Balustrade to meet with the twenty four elders and some angels.

My guardian fixed the linen cloth over my head at the Portal as His white horse nudged me. I bent over to kiss the horse and almost lost my cover, but my guardian angel kept it from falling.

Dream over...

Dream 030 – He is coming

Thursday, December 20, 2012

08-05-2016, 03:56 PM

Prior to falling asleep this evening, I agonized about what I had seen in my last dream. I also kept thinking about the police officers that were standing outside my daughter's elementary school earlier this morning.

The combination of these things really seemed to be bothering me and I found myself talking to the Lord.

Me: "Please come for us now before it gets any worse. Please do not allow the darkness to overtake us. I do not want to be here for this."

I prayed right from my pillow, asking for answers directly, but eventually I fell asleep.

Dream begins...

Jesus' hand reached down to pull me through the opening of the Portal today. I had started off at the top of the ladder and I had not seen any of the battle conditions today. He could see that I was surprised at this unusual beginning. He had a huge smile on His face as He gently hugged me.

Jesus: "I am glad you came to Me with these questions. I take it that you are ready for answers?"

Me: "Yes, please, I need help."

Jesus: "Come, let's see what I can show you."

He walked me over to the Balustrade. As I looked over the edge, I could see the first and second Heavens from the moon's vantage point along with the Earth. The angel stood to my left and I saw his plumb line rotating counterclockwise.

I then saw the order of events that the media had been focusing on. Egypt was the starting point wherein I saw the ancients and the deep history of the area. I saw several fallen angels falling to Egypt where they then had shrines erected to themselves.

The fallen then taught the natives of the land the deeper secrets of Heaven. One of the fallen had a deep knowledge of the stars and I saw him mapping these stars with lines and registering these as markers. I then saw him marking a peculiar event.

Me: "I do not understand. Why am I being shown this?"

Jesus: "So that you understand the root of these fallen. The fallen had wonderful talent and skills far more advanced than the culture in the land could comprehend. They became self-edifying and erected monuments to themselves to mock God.

"My Father created the fallen, but now He was grieved by their arrogance. When My Father would no longer tolerate them, He confined some to the pit. However, others were still allowed to roam to and fro throughout the land."

Me: "Have the fallen changed and are they no longer beautiful?"

Jesus: "Yes. You saw them in the beginning. When My Father was no longer going to put up with them, He made the fallen the very darkest of entities. The fallen were no longer of the ways of Heaven, but were now of the ways of the Earth."

Jesus waved at the angel and he switched the direction that the plumb line was moving. The plumb line was now moving across the equator and to the west. There I saw that even more temples had been erected. The Mayan temple, the Aztec temple and two more temples were closely situated on or near the equator.

Me: "Lord, help me to understand."

Jesus: "These were the areas that the fallen chose to claim."

Me: "So, all of these pyramid-like structures were created by the fallen?"

Jesus: "Yes. The fallen did this to further provoke My Father. There the fallen sacrificed innocent lives, performed blood rituals and displayed perversion of every kind. The fallen cursed the land, but furthermore they cursed My Father."

I then saw lines drawn in a grid pattern across the Earth. These grids formed territories that were divided amongst the fallen. It seemed that the fallen had remained the rulers over these areas even today.

Me: "Why is this important now?"

He then showed me a complex type of calendar while an angel with a scroll stood next to it. I saw a different date from the commonly spoken of December 21, 2012 and this date seemed closer to Christmas 2012. Then He opened the veil so I could see.

From each of these points on the Earth, evil of every kind began to unleash punishment over the land. I then saw these fallen commanding earthly armies to invade North America.

Me: "Lord, is this real time?"

Jesus: "Yes, but remember the 3 day rule I taught you in the dome?"

Me: "Yes, but we need to be off of the Earth. Lord, we cannot be here for this. Remember when You told me that you would not allow Your Bride to be bruised and battered at the wedding?"

Jesus: "Yes, this is what I said, but it does not mean you will be immune to the suffering of others."

He then showed me missiles being launched in the night hours. These missiles were being launched on a day we would be off guard. I saw all of the perimeter cities of the North American continent being destroyed. I saw communication knocked out and whole power grids being obliterated.

I then saw darkness, cold, mourning and wailing like nothing before. I saw invading armies warring with the remnant of the armed forces inland. I saw swarms of people like locusts fleeing to the center of the country.

I saw citizens of other countries in our cities turning away people at gas stations and grocery stores. I saw that most of the food was now contaminated.

All of this happened so quickly and it came like a flood, like a thief, and millions were gone. As a result, people were now cursing God.

Me: "Lord, are You coming on a different kind of cloud? Are we part of the missing millions or so? Please, Father, this is a very difficult thing to see. Am I dreaming this wrong?"

Jesus: "Erin, I will come on the clouds, but do you not see that this date was a marker? This was a time that certain permissions had been granted to the rulers of this Earth. This was the beginning of a new time for the Earth. This was foretold and is written. The signs are also in the stars."

Due to my lack of knowledge, I still did not fully understand what I was seeing. I just saw a bright star and a satellite controlling the programming around the world of this event. It was manipulating the truth about what was really happening.

Me: "But I thought that everything was based on Israel? I thought it was all based on World War Three?"

Jesus: "Yes, it is and you are correct."

Me: "Lord, but this is right now and December 21st, 2012 is right now."

Jesus: "Take heart and take courage. Did you not think that this was coming? Did you not think that you would be in need of a divine rescue?"

Me: "Yes, but I do not want to experience this horror and I want my children Home when this happens."

Jesus: "Remember that much of what I am showing you is hidden and the executors of this war sit in the city with the tall building."

Me: "Are the invaders from this area?"

Jesus: "No. They are from the east and the north."

Me: "Why are we hated so much?"

Jesus: "Originally it was because of Me, but then it became a matter of vanity. However, in reality, the reasons are even much deeper and more significant than that."

Me: "So what can I do? What good can come from me seeing something like this?"

Jesus: "I have sent others around the globe the same vision and the warning is coming from many Heavenly sources. I am appearing in areas all over the world right now. I am calling a shout out to all those that had thought about Me but had never made the final heart commitment to Me."

Me: "Father, You are standing right here and I am safe with You, but, if You send me back down there, how will I endure this? This is frightening!"

Jesus: "Erin, behold, I am coming on the clouds and I will rescue you. You will come to Me when you hear the call. Remember the Shofars? You will hear this and you will be elated."

"It will happen so quickly and there will be no time to react. The enemy knows this day is approaching and this is why you are under attack and why so many of you who believe in Me are under attack right now."

Me: "Lord, this is the first time You have ever given me something so graphic. Do I know the date based on what I am seeing?"

Jesus: "No, you are not being given a date. Let Me make this very clear; these events will occur, but it is not for you to know when nor is it My business to know the exact day and time. Again, only My Father in Heaven knows this. However, you can tell that the season is near based on Israel, the prophecies in the Bible and the signs of this age as it is a rebellious age."

I dropped to my knees at His feet and began to weep and beg. I knew that I would never be able erase from my memory what I now knew was coming. He reached His hands for my hands and He brought me up to Him.

Jesus: "I have seen all the pain, all the tears, all the bloodshed and all the destruction. I am not a passive Father and I do not sit here idly and turn away when I see what is happening. I tell you the truth; I am about to avenge the blood of the innocent and descend from Heaven to rescue those whose hearts are pure. Those who seek Me will be found by Me.

"Am I not a Warrior that I would save those that I am assigned to protect? Were you not assigned to Me and reside under My wings? Today marks a day that the spirits of this world are being given access to fulfill a portion of the prophecies.

"Remember, I am coming as a thief in the night to rescue the broken hearted. Have I not told you to ready your houses? 'Ready' means to not entertain the enemy and allow the enemy to kill or destroy My temple, which are now your bodies.

"A willing vessel is one whom is ready to receive the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and also to drink from the River of Life. When I offer this chalice, drink deeply for this cup is never empty.

"When you take in this portion, remember that to do so comes at a cost; the cost of correction from My Scepter. The correction provides a fence in which the wolves are not able to enter in to devour you. Accepting correction is the portion that leads to humility.

"Humility then leads to greater gifts of understanding and wisdom from the Holy Spirit. Accepting this drink of correction from the chalice means that you have been called to a higher order and a higher place. Do not turn from correction, but in humility seek Me for understanding. This then leads to repentance, which then opens the door in which I can be heard by you.

“Have I not also reminded you to forgive others as you too have been excused by Me for your transgressions? Why then would you refuse others this gift of forgiveness? Have I not asked that you come to Me as a child?

“Erin, I am on the other side of this door and there is an open invitation to walk through. Lay down your burdens today at the foot of the Cross and release them unto Me for My shoulders can bear the weight.

“Ask if there is anything contrite in you or unholy. Anything that you might like to bring to me, I will gladly take it upon My shoulders. This will break the spirit of pride which is a wall that further hinders you from hearing from Me.

“There is an epic battle raging. You know this to be true from the signs of the age, the evil in this season and the things that I have shown you. Do not be like the virgins caught unprepared, but ask for the oil of joy as this oil also lights your lanterns. This is free oil and burns a bright light.

“The Festival of Lights has not ended and will still be ongoing until My return. Do not let the oil run out, do not let the joy leave you and do not leave your post and chase after the things of this world so soon before My return for My Bride.

“Remember to put on your full armor and to review what this means. When fear creeps in, note that fear is not birthed from Heaven, but of the world. Do not allow fear to keep you from coming directly to Me. I will answer while I will be found by you.

“I love you and I will come down, moving and shaking both the Heavens and the Earth on that great and terrible day.”

He gently hugged me and put a rose in my right ear. The rose began to sing, “My Deliverer is coming, my Deliverer is standing by!” I wept with happiness, but was amazed at such a thing.

He walked me back to the Portal. When we reached the top of the Portal, He fed His horse some oats and then turned to me.

Jesus: He kissed me on the forehead. “Even My horse is in full dress waiting for My soon descent into the valley of decision. My sword is girded on My side and My scepter of righteousness is in My right hand.

"Erin, I am about to come and judge the hearts of man. Love is coming down. In all things love as it is My greatest commandment. Remember that I am about to do something in your days that you would not even believe even if you were told."

He placed the little cloth over my head and kissed my forehead again and smiled.

Jesus: "You are fair. It is still raining. Remember to review all that your guardian angel gave you as He speaks on My behalf. Study this for greater illumination to your questions of time and there are keys here.

"Take comfort in knowing that I will not leave you nor forsake you. I will not let one of you be lost. Remember to pray for your Sister, Israel and that you are in an epic battle."

Dream over...

Dream 031 – Home

Friday, December 21, 2012
08-05-2016, 04:00 PM

Lord, I love You so much. I have become little so You could become so much more in me. Lord, let everything that I write be a direct voice from You. You are my King, my love and my joy. You are my portion forever and ever.

I thank You and I am so grateful for Your divine love. You are the fulfiller of dreams and the love of my life, wherein anything else is shifting sand.

Dream begins...

The dome today is a giant illumination of light and ranks and orders of angels are defending it. There is a perimeter circle or band of golden oil in the trench that the angels had created around the dome. The angels were throwing buckets of the golden oil at the evil entities that were heading for the dome.

A thick, non-penetrable perimeter wall had also been built that made it so no lower demonic soldier could prevail against it. While the higher ranked evil forces could go still over this wall, they were quickly dowsed with this golden oil that burned them to ashes.

However, the highest order of darkness had protective armor that allowed them to move to the top of the dome. However, the lead angel and his angels were waiting there to repel them. I saw these angels move at these entities with such strength and force that no darkness could enter the dome.

I heard the red and black dragons overhead and saw that they were circling the dome in the air. The dragons appeared to be waiting for an opportunity to drop onto the dome in order to crush it. I noticed that the black spider was still on the shoulder of the black dragon.

The lead angel then gave a mighty battle cry and the entire force of God's army shouted in unison to Heaven. Suddenly, the darkness parted in the sky and I saw blue skies and a stream of light.

As this happened, there was complete silence and not one demon or one angel made any sounds. As I heard thundering, Breakthrough whistled and my guardian angel came up to me.

Guardian angel: "Erin, the King requests your presence. You are witnessing the power of Heaven and the power of the Lord. Come with me."

The path had a fresh dusting of new snow. However, as I walked through the snow, the crunching sound was gone so I knew there was no longer a snow pack. Instead, there was now seven inches of fresh white powder.

I looked over and saw the pregnant robin. She was shaking now and her arrogance was completely gone, replaced by fear. I then saw the three other grotesque little white birds rolling around on the ground trying to get my sympathy so I that I would take them up with me to the Father.

I could tell that these birds were actually treacherous. The excrement in their mouths were now spilling out to the ground. I saw various colors of this excrement. There was red and white; there was red, green, white and yellow; and there was black and red. I could not make out if they were mixed together or in separate strips.

These birds seemed to have laid the excrement in front of me on the snow as a type of offering to me. I realized that they had sold each other out to try and gain my mercy.

Guardian angel: "Do not be concerned with them and do not be deceived either. They too know they are out of time. They will stop at nothing now to beg forgiveness. They are hopeless and beyond repair. Come."

I still was confused as Breakthrough greeted me with a hug, which was highly unusual. Breakthrough then spoke to me here, but he did not actually speak at all!

Breakthrough: "I am glad that you prayed to our Lord for me to assist you. He granted me the honor of making sure you have breakthrough and access to His Throne. I am so very glad that you came every day so I could bring you Home to the Father."

Me: "Thank you for keeping me focused on Him and the Portal."

Breakthrough: "I am in His service always."

I cried because I felt this was the last time I would be brought up this way. I started to cry as I knew I would miss these angels.

Guardian: "Erin, do not cry. I am still assigned to you until He brings you Home, as well as many others."

He then pointed to several angels along the path and they all waved at me. I was overwhelmed and had so much comfort from this. As I climbed the ladder, I started to cry again.

I looked out and the red dragon, the black dragon, the spider and the other demonic entities were gathering at the gates of a certain mountain in the north. It was their 'portal area'.

I saw a different mountain and there was the Lord's Portal. I looked all around and saw that the dark clouds over this area had retreated to this certain mountain where the dark forces gathered.

We were in a valley and I could see springs of water. There had just been a fresh rain, which seemed more like an 'outpouring' of sorts. The light from Heaven parting through the clouds created a rainbow as the light streamed through the rain. It was breathtaking.

I could see that this was the autumn rains and the angels in the dome were celebrating. The lead angel stood next to his horse and was on bended knee as the Lord was coming down.

I felt the hand of an angel pull me through at the top of the Portal. I stood motionless as all of Heaven had gathered and many had palm branches in their hands. The layers of saints, from young to about thirty years of age, lined the sides of the River of Life. The streets of gold were also lined with people.

There was so much joy and celebration as Jesus sat amongst them on His Throne. I saw Him in a royal robe of white, a purple sash and a type of cape that appeared to be blue velvet.

He wore His Crown of Crowns and held His Scepter in His right hand. He had an emerald dome of light like a Halo all around Him. His face was so radiant that I was squinting at the sight. In response, the angel next to me poured the golden substance over my eyes and I could see clearly again.

My guardian put a new linen cloth with embroidery over my head. My Hair was long and braided with jewels. My hands had these delicate pearl rings with gold chains that draped over the tops of my hands.

I was wearing this beautiful linen gown that illuminated with white light. I wore these beautiful bracelets that represented each of the twelve tribes. My feet were beautiful and these amazing sandals with ribbons were woven around my ankles up to my knees.

The platform appeared larger now and the columns seemed to form a Temple. I saw the twenty four elders and their thrones. I saw these unusual gentle spirits that were like angels and animals combined, yet they were humble and shy.

Jesus waved at me and my heart leapt. I began to cry as I was overcome with His beauty and majesty. Then all of Heaven sang, "My Deliverer is coming, my Deliverer is standing by!" There was such joy.

I saw an angel wave and then there was silence. Jesus stood from His Throne and everyone dropped to the ground, including me. There was silence and then seven shofars sounded. It was so loud that the ground shook. My heart melted and my body quaked. Ta-da, ta-da, ta-da and then one long blow, then silence for exactly three minutes.

The angel announced, "Holy, Holy, Holy is our Lord God Almighty! Holy is the Lamb of God, Who sits on the Throne in majesty, Who judges the hearts of men. Holy is He!"

Then the people proclaimed, "Holy is the Lamb of God, Holy is He!"

Angel: "Erin, He is on the Bema Seat today."

Then the processional began as my angel brought me up to Jesus. He stood there now in full armor, again with His wings spread. I saw the linen gown just under His armor. I was amazed that He had changed clothing so quickly, but shook my head as to why I would be amazed as He can do anything. His sword appeared on His left side. His crowns were there also.

He stood before me and looked into my eyes as if He were anticipating the wedding ceremony for His entire Bride. When my feet stepped onto the Sea of Glass, it started to move me towards Him.

Jesus extended His Scepter towards me, but this time I knew to reach out to touch the top of it. He brought me up to Him and held both of my hands.

Jesus: "What do you think today?"

Me: "Lord, it is breathtaking."

I turned to glance over at the banquet tables. I saw the angels taking a few more settings out of the cart to set on to the tables. The flowers were beautiful, but the main course had not come out yet. However, there were plates of bread, fruit and cheese, as well as some cakes.

Me: Jokingly. "So what are we having for dinner? How could the main course be any more wonderful than what I already see? Do you know how many will come hungry?"

He began to laugh and He had such a warm glow.

Jesus: "Do you realize what you just said?"

Me: "About what's on the menu?"

Jesus: Laughing. "No, do I know how many will come hungry? Erin, all will come hungry and all will celebrate the fact that they shall never be hungry again."

I cried as I realizing that no one will ever be hungry again and that we will all be full.

Jesus: "Remember too that your cups will never be empty."

Me: "Oh how glorious this day will be and how marvelous all of this will be."

I cried as I said this because I thought of all the people around the world that not only had physical hunger and thirst but who also lacked spiritual nutrients.

Jesus: Reading my thoughts. "This will be the greatest feast in all of history."

Me: I was crying. "Lord, I will not be here again until I am Home. I know it now in my heart."

Jesus: "Erin, the story is not finished and there is no end so please be encouraged. This is just the beginning of the rest of your life and certainly not the end. I have shared these things with you so that you come to Me with the right heart.

"You come to Me out of the passion of knowing Me and My business despite the outcome and despite what others say. You then go back and share this knowledge so that others may experience more of Me and so that they too will share with you about Me and enrich your life too."

Me: "Lord, I want so much to have the right heart."

I can barely speak because I am blubbering at this point. He reached out with a small linen towel and wiped my tears away. A small angel came to collect some tears and then went back to record them.

Jesus: "Now, do you not want to see what you will be seeing up here?"

I saw cross sections of several places in Heaven simultaneously. I was jumping off the top of a waterfall and all the way down into the water in my Heavenly body. I was laughing and playing with my grown children.

I was hang-gliding across a valley wherein my arms seemed to be the wings. This was so technologically advanced that I could not tell whether I had actual wings to fly? There was another where I was riding a horse so fast it was like I was on a race horse.

In yet another, I could dance again and I was performing ballet so perfectly that I was even teaching it. In another, I was designing Homes and new Mansions with items that were divinely inspired and made with such skill.

In the last one, I worshiped and walked with Jesus and I had so many friends. All of us were having such joy and fellowship together that it was truly amazing. I sat there with the biggest smile.

Jesus: "There is so much more and you will always have things to do here in Heaven. There will be many ways to serve and bless others and you will be blessed by others as you serve each other. You will live life abundantly here."

Me: "Oh, Father, how blessed am I? I am so thankful that I am here with my children. Thank You, Lord, I will be forever grateful."

Jesus: "It is My pleasure to be able to freely give to you. You have allowed Me the pleasure of your company and you have put Me first before anything else. Do you remember that just two years before this that you asked for Me every night?"

I did not remember at first, but He waved His hand and I saw myself on my knees begging for Him to show Himself to me. I cried as I saw this because I remembered what a dark and lonely time it had been. I felt that God had abandoned me and like a failure. I was about to lose my children because I had no money to fight.

Me: "This is hard to see. I felt trapped in my apartment and I did not even have an appetite."

Jesus: "Erin, I heard your cries and remembered you. I decided to give you the desires of your heart."

Me: "How blessed am I, Lord."

Jesus: "You have not even begun to scratch the surface of what I have waiting for those whose hearts seeks Me. There is so much here."

Just then, I saw a place of honor instead of shame and recompense for all that we endured for the Kingdom of Heaven.

Jesus: "Do you like what waits for you?"

Me: "Can I just start now and stay here?"

Jesus: "You have a few more things that I ask of you. Are you prepared and is your house ready?"

Me: "I suppose so."

Jesus: "I need you to keep watch and stay faithful no matter what. It will be difficult at times, but stay humble and show love right up until I come. This way when you are gone all of you will be considered like Elijah who never saw death.

"People will quickly search for answers and they will search through your records. They will look for clues as if it was a crime scene and many will blame Me and be angry. Many will proclaim that I this were an alien. There will be outrageous claims about the disappearances.

"Many will mourn because they knew of Me, but were deceived. These people will pray on their knees, but My voice will no longer be heard. However, after a while, I will reveal Myself and take My position in Israel."

Me: "This is so scary. I was still thinking all of this was a while off."

Jesus: "Did the modern day prophets not say, 'Woe the trials of 2012, woe to 2012'? Well, how many days are still left?"

Me: "There are ten days, Lord."

Jesus: "Correct. Now be strong and take courage. Call on Me and I will answer. I will not just answer one or two of you, but whoever calls I will answer."

Me: "How will others know it is You?"

Jesus: "My voice will bring you peace immediately, but the enemy will draft heightening fear as he grows stronger when you are afraid."

He then took me to the Balustrade again and I saw several points from around the globe. I saw the Ring of Fire, the grid points of the fallen, the mighty dome over Israel, wars in the USA and Canada, earthquakes and fire balls from Heaven. There were wars and riots breaking out as lawlessness swept through the Earth based on fear.

I was tempted to continue to stand and watch, but I knew this was not the right thing to do. I needed to keep my focus on my Father and my destination.

Me: I hugged Him. "I am so glad that You will come soon. I am honored to be in Your presence and I long for You and Home. Please do not delay."

Jesus: "Erin, I have so much for you and all will be okay."

He walked me over to my guardian angel.

Me: "Why did You change clothes?"

Jesus: Laughing. "I am about to come down to the valley of decision while riding on the clouds. Am I not a Warrior King coming for My Bride? I will avenge the innocent blood of many."

He pulled His robe out from under His armor briefly and there was blood on it.

Jesus: Smiling. "I wear My robe stained with innocent blood. My coming will not be what they are expecting. They should have fear as darkness is gathered at its gates and they are terrified by Me. Erin, this is a good thing."

He waved to me and pounded His heart twice over His chest. I bowed down and looked up with my eyes and giggled. He laughed a wonderful laugh. He went to the Balustrade where the elders and angels had gathered to look at all of the coming events.

Guardian angel: "I am with you at the Father's request and there are seven others over your household. Please do not be afraid as I will make sure you are unharmed. Please go and read Psalm 23, Psalm 34 and Psalm 103.

"When you pray, all of us are strengthened and our weapons become stronger. You can review Scripture, but understand that you should spend time in love and doing good until the day of His return.

"He is with you and you are favored so do not be afraid. This is a good time to dive into Joshua for an illustration. Esther and Haggai still hold clues and Amos has a key. The door is open for you in Revelation. Remember in all things to love as He is coming soon."

Dream over...

Dream 032 – Christmas Eve

Monday, December 24, 2012

08-05-2016, 04:07 PM

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

Today, I was taken right up from the Portal with warm welcome and open arms from Jesus. I was in shock.

Me: “Is this You, Lord?”

Jesus: He gave me a big hug. “Yes, Erin. Now, what is wrong? You seem very troubled?”

Me: “I am. I have concerns about what I have seen and that maybe I was deceived.”

Jesus: “Erin, do you still not trust Me even at this point?”

Me: “Yes, of course, but what of this date or timetable You gave me?”

Jesus: “Erin, I told you about the season. Do you not understand?”

Me: “Forgive me, Lord, but what I see I know will happen and it is so frightening. I do not want anyone I know to be here on Earth for this as no one will survive it.”

He hugged me and I rested my head on His shoulder as He walked me toward the Balustrade.

Jesus: “Do you understand why I gave you these dreams in the first place?”

Me: “Well, so I would get to know You and fellowship with You.”

Jesus: “What else?”

Me: “So I might see a glimpse of our eternal Home and stay encouraged.”

Jesus: “Yes, what else?”

Me: “So I could understand what I cannot see; the spirit realm and the dark forces.”

Jesus: "Somewhat, but I am only giving you information so that when you begin to see these events unfold you will know what to do."

Me: "Lord, I will not be able to stand against these forces."

Jesus: "Exactly, you cannot stand against these forces by yourself, but you can with My Heavenly army and your prayers."

Me: "Lord, if You had not given me the year 2012 as a time frame then I might be able to rest. With just a few days left now, I have no peace right now."

Jesus: "What have I told you to do?"

Me: "Lay my burdens down, make sure I am wearing my full armor, pray without ceasing, forgive and ready our houses for Your return."

Jesus: He then moved His arm to remove the veil. "Very well, but tell Me if these would want you to do what I have instructed you to do?"

Suddenly I saw an evil force and evil of all kinds coming at the dome. I saw the same dark lords that I believe could be the fallen as they were equal in size to the archangels that were fighting there. These evil forces fought with such hate that it was horrifying. Then I saw a type of evil humanoid or superhuman.

Me: "Lord, are these demigods?"

Jesus: "Of sorts, but what else do you see?"

Me: "Oh no, there are droves of entities, like witches, warlocks, and..." I paused at the horrifying sight. "...zombies? Lord, this is like a science fiction horror story. It looks like it cannot be real as they are so scary."

Jesus: "Erin, now let's go back to these dreams I have given you. At any time did you come to admire these things by desiring their power or presence? Or better yet, did you ever want to worship them?"

Me: "No, they make me sick and need to be destroyed."

Jesus: "Good answer. At any time did I have you misuse Scripture or trick you by leading you away from the truth that I am the Son of God and saying that I am not about to come down for you?"

Me: "No, never, not once."

Jesus: "Instead did I bring joy to you by lifting your Spirit and showing you divine love? Did I encourage you to pursue Me with a deeper understanding and chase after My very heart?"

Me: "Yes, always."

Then He turned and showed me the all of the evil deceptions again. Each time someone would be led away by these evil entities, it would not be too long before their deceptions were proven false. These evil entities never seemed to be able to control their diabolical desires to entrap.

Jesus: "There are always signs given when you are being led astray and as a child of God you are automatically given these signs. It is your job to perceive these signs by obeying the voice of the Holy Spirit to not chase after this evil.

"You see, Erin, I love you too much to allow you to be deceived like this. You have freedom of choice so you can run from things that benefit your Spirit and heal your soul, but you can also choose to have faith that all things work together for the good of those who love Me. Let Me be very clear; the enemy hates you and wishes you dead."

He then waved His arm and gave me a review of all the times that the enemy tried to destroy me when I was just a child. I could not believe what I was seeing as I was not even saved when I was young.

Me: "Oh, Lord, why would the enemy care so much about me when I was but a small child with no knowledge of You and certainly no threat?"

Jesus: "Does a Rancher not put his mark on His prized livestock so that other ranchers know that this is His property?"

Me: "Yes, but how did the enemy know that I was Yours?"

Jesus: "Remember, I chose you; you did not choose Me. In the course of your life, I have supernaturally protected you from the enemy's plans to destroy you."

Me: "I do not understand why You did this for me as I was a horrible sinner and the enemy had a right to me."

Jesus: "Yes, and at certain times permission was granted, but only for your greater good. Now look."

I saw several very frightening events where I went through some major trials because of them. I saw one in particular when I was about twelve that rocked me to my core and caused me to run from God completely. I declared that I hated God and that He was cruel and hated me. I even cursed the day I was born.

The series of events leading up to my hate were really beyond what a twelve year old should have to endure. It made me cry while writing this because I was living through all of these events again and found this very difficult.

Me: "Lord, where were You when I cried out to You? Why, Father? We almost died and this hurts still today. I became horribly rebellious after this."

Jesus: "Erin, look even closer."

He lifted the veil to allow me to see into the hidden realm. During these events, I saw a type of dark lord that had been assigned to me from birth. This dark lord was a higher ranking soldier, but not like the ones fighting the archangels though equal in size. This dark lord seemed just below the main fallen in status.

I then saw several different types of demons inflicting things against me. I saw one that focused solely on my body image. This demon had convinced me that I was fat when I was really rail thin and a size zero.

I saw another demon torment me as I was training to be a professional golfer. After I would have incredible shots and was at even par going into the last three holes, this demon would tell me I was a failure and began to rob me of the winning shots. I actually saw that the ball was going to go into the cup when this demon shifted the ball away from the cup.

I saw another demon assigned to mentally confuse me when I would take exams in school and in college. I saw another group of demons tormenting my children when they were little so we could not even sleep. The images went on and on and on.

Me: "Lord, these evil entities make me so angry. I thought that demons were not behind everything."

Jesus: "Yes, you are correct about this."

He waved His arm again and I then saw times in my life that the course was laid out perfectly and it was my path. In these cases the angels were so strong that not even one of these enemies could prevail against me.

Jesus: "Now, look at this."

He showed me my dreams and the angels surrounding me. He showed me all types of tactics and deceptions being tried against me to stop the dreams, but each time the Heavenly angels cut through the darkness and protected me.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

Me: "I just did not think I was this significant."

Jesus: "Have I not shown you this already?"

Me: "Yes, but why me?"

Jesus: "It is not just you."

Then suddenly I could see millions, if not billions, of angels surrounding people all over the world.

Jesus: "You were given a mark at birth so that not one of these entities can ever take you away from Me. Indeed, not one of you will be taken."

Me: "Lord, I thought we had to become born again to receive Your holy marking?"

Jesus: "Yes, but did I not call you consistently until you finally made a choice to follow Me? Did I not pursue you without stopping?"

Suddenly I saw so many times that He had used people to show me the way. I had actually forgotten that there had been so many.

Me: "Lord, this is exhausting to watch. I will never be able to look around me the same way again and I am ruined for this life now. It is over for me and you need to take me Home right now."

I then put the back of my hand over my forehead and pretended to faint. He laughed at my gesture.

Jesus: "Erin, why do you think I keep all of this hidden from you? Would you be able to still live a normal life if I did not hide these from you? Would you still follow Me with your whole heart if you constantly felt you needed to watch out for these?"

He was right as I just knew that seeing these things everywhere would completely distract me. How could it not? The made me so angry. Even if I had known, what could I have done about this? How could I have enjoyed my life with these things fleeing left and right whenever they heard the Name of Jesus?

He was smiling because He could hear everything in my thoughts.

Jesus: "Do you understand why I showed you this?"

Me: "So I could share with others?"

Jesus: "Yes, but look closer."

I then saw times when I was right in the middle of these battles even when I was not a believer. I never remembered even praying, but He showed me that I had. Then I would see a breakthrough, but, because I did not recognize the Lord as the Creator of all things good, I thought I had done everything on my own and by myself.

By praying, I saw that I had literally activated angels. I did this even as a nonbeliever when I did not even truly know what a prayer was at all.

He then showed me a time when I was driving my car as a teenager on a rainy night with my Mom. We were driving back from a sporting event on a dangerous winding country road. As we turned a corner, our headlights met up with the headlights of an oncoming drunk driver. At the last minute, the driver moved back into his own lane or we would have gone off the cliff to our deaths.

I was then shown that what I thought was just a fluke was actually several angels creating a road barrier to save us. These angels caused the drunk driver to veer away from a head on collision with us. Had they not done this, we would have surely died as we plummeted over the cliff onto the rocks below.

Me: "Oh my, I remember this clear as day. So these angels were with me the whole time?"

Jesus: He smiled and looked overjoyed to show me all of this. "Yes. Now look at the name of one of these angels."

I saw that one of the angels was named the Latin version of 'Ignite'. I did not understand what the Latin version said, but I somehow knew the translation. I saw this particular angel come and go at certain times in my life and he had always brought with him a new passion. The Lord then showed me that He is still with me even now!

Me: "Lord, is this angel one of my guardians too?"

Jesus: "No. He is a specialist and works with believers all over the world and has an army that helps him. This angel 'ignites' the special oil in your lamps."

Me: "Lord, this is truly amazing!"

Jesus: He pointed to Earth over the Balustrade. "You see, Erin, you are not and never were a citizen of this world. You are from here and this is your Home. The Earth is but a discovery center and merely a place where you are called forth to navigate through."

He then showed me a survival school where a person is dropped in a remote area with very few supplies and taught how to survive.

Me: "So wait, am I to understand that the meaning behind life is discovery? Help me as I am confused."

Jesus: "Not at all. The reason for man's existence was a form of created worship and a type of art piece made by My Father. He wanted to be loved and adored differently than the angelic beings love and adore Him in Heaven. To do so, He decided to create Man in His own image."

Me: "So we are human art?"

Jesus: "Are you not the clay and My Father the Potter? Yes, Erin, you are priceless and each of is very different. You are all sought out by your Creator, but also other collectors who want to destroy you."

Just then I had an amazing epiphany moment as I had never thought of humans as art.

Me: "I guess I look at all of the work that God has to do for us and, if it was me and thankfully it is not, I would have wiped all of humankind completely out? Why did God even allow all of this corruption to begin with? Why even allow man to sin?"

Jesus: "I was there, Erin. My Father was provoked by the enemy. This has been the real war and this must be finished according to the written Word and its laws. It is His battle and His rules, but He is fair and just. Are you not glad He did not give up on all of you?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, thank You, thank You."

Jesus: "If man had all of the information from the beginning or in hindsight, what good would this do?"

Me: "Well, man could correct his wrongs."

Jesus: Smiling. "My Father's ways are not yours. You see, He searched the land and harvests hearts and souls. He looks for those that, despite all of the battles and against all odds, still find their way back to Him. A pure heart that seeks Him is My Father's greatest joy."

Me: "I think I understand."

Jesus: "Erin, despite everything bad in your life, you still chose to search for Him. You looked also for Me, called for Me and eventually fell in love with Me. You stumbled and sometimes became discouraged, but you never stopped searching for Me. Erin, you were pursuing the very heart of God. Is this not the greatest gift you could give God our Father?"

Me: Crying now. "Yes."

Jesus: "Think of it this way. How would your life be if you had never experienced God directly and instead your faith was based not on your own understanding, but rather on stories and never seeing God work? How could you fully know the Lord if He did not call you into service?"

"If He were just a concept and not the living God, would you serve Him out of duty or love? Do you think God looks for acts based on duty or faith based on an intimate relationship with His love?"

"Think of it also this way. A strong warrior is one who steps into the furnace of life and goes through the fire of affliction, thereby coming out even better because of this. This is a diamond of great price.

"Now, this is not meant to take anything away from those who have not been through the fire. Indeed, some have been sheltered by the Lord from birth as these hearts also have a great purpose under the Father's plan.

"However, those that went through the fire as Job did learned to grow deeper in their walk with Christ. They did this not because of the afflictions but despite the afflictions. This is a miracle, is it not?"

Me: "I never thought of my life as being this important."

Jesus: "Oh, but it is."

Me: "So, Lord, help me here. What am I to do with what I have seen?"

Jesus: "Erin, it is because the Lord has found favor with you and all those that have been in your place through this journey that He chooses to let you see some of this. This is so you are not caught unaware, but that you are privy to the schemes of the enemy. The warnings I have given you come from sound doctrine, the Holy Scriptures.

"Now put on your full armor and remember what this means as I am about to do something in your days that you would not even believe even if you were told. When you have your full armor on, the enemy will not and cannot prevail against you.

"When you have only a portion of your armor on, then the enemy looks for your weaknesses in order to strike you more effectively. Therefore you must seek Me and pray. You must love through this and then you will be unharmed."

Me: "What about the woes of 2012?"

Jesus: "This is the truth, Erin, but not all things are visible. However, make no mistake, the woes that have occurred and are about to unfold are the beginnings of a new era for Earth. These modern prophets were correct about this as they heard this from Me."

Me: "Lord, I guess I was expecting..."

Jesus: He stopped me immediately with His finger raised. "Erin, expect the unexpected as things are not as they appear. You have seen the birth pains of what is to come. Now look closer."

I then saw something so frightening. There were 'humans' that were like the dead and they were void of all feelings, love and compassion. Even the irises of their eyes were completely black and cold. These 'people' had superhuman strength, no moral filter and were not children of God.

Me: "Lord, they seem indestructible."

Jesus: "This is not so, but in human terms this will rock the Earth and shake the very paradigm of their existence."

Me: "Lord, please put a stop to this as what I see seems like it is happening in real time now."

Jesus: "Oh, they are out there right now, but they are hidden in plain sight and barely spoken about in the media because of the bizarre nature of their crimes. There is a breeding ground for these. Look at your grid again."

He then showed me these beings all over the Earth. They were strategically placed and multiplying rapidly.

Me: "Did the fallen put all of this together?"

Jesus: "This information has been available since the beginning many thousands of years ago. However, many do not like the ominous visual of all of this, so they instead chose to ignore this."

Me: "Why point this out now?"

Jesus: "Erin, it is because the date of December 23, 2012 had significance as the time of the Church is ending and you are now entering another time."

Me: "Lord, I do not like what I see here as this is not a normal life as we know it. I am simple and cannot wrap my limited brain around this occurring. Can I not focus on the Gospel instead and pray and wait for You to come or should I become a 'doomsday prepper'?"

Jesus: He laughed, but then became serious again as He pointed to the coming black army. "There are those with the faith that this is imminent but lack the faith in Me to turn and be saved? No, do not be like them as this is like chasing the wind."

Me: "Lord, have I encountered these beings?"

Jesus: "Oh yes, many times. They hate you, know who you are, where you work and who you are to Me."

Me: "I am not sure now when You will come. I do not like feeling all ready and then just having to wait instead. It is like cooking for guests that are late for dinner."

He laughed, but in such a calming, warm and loving way. He was so reassuring because He knew in advance that everything was going to be okay that I longed for the ability to be like Him.

Jesus: "Yes, but when they do arrive, the timing will make complete sense. Then you will all agree that your guests came at just the right time given the circumstances."

Me: "Touché. Now I understand. I do not like this, but now I understand."

Jesus: "You are important to Me and I have shown you these things as a gift. In a way, are you not already like a 'doomsday prepper'?"

He showed me the last few months of how I was coming to Him every day in communion, prayer, writing everything down, coming together with the information to learn from others and growing closer to Him.

Jesus: "Have I also not shown you how protected you are?"

I saw the dome, the angels and the dragons.

Jesus: "Have I also not brought many of you together so that you may strengthen each other, pray together and rejoice in anticipation of My return?"

I then saw all of my new brothers and sisters in Christ all over the world and that we have all grown together in this journey.

Jesus: "Erin, have I not built up the most efficient and powerful end time army of warriors on My own? The difference is that the battle is Mine and not one of you will be stripped from My hands. Further, we win and we have already won this battle. The enemy is already defeated.

"How much greater would you enjoy the game if you knew the outcome and that, no matter what, you win? I have grown my warriors as hybrids that consist of a body with many parts all functioning together. Each of you has an equally important part and You have been armed for the battle.

"You now have your full armor on, but you must show others about this. Remind them about the sword and to dive into the Scripture like never before. Ready your houses and set a Godly example for those that might not make it in the first call. Help them by leaving them the tools. Love on them as much as you can and pray for them as you have much to do and very little time."

Me: Crying. "We are expecting you now, Lord, before all of this."

Jesus: "None of you want to endure the ugliness of this world, yet it has increased like never before in evil and even more so in the last few months. Did not the Israelites expect 'this and that' from Me while in the wilderness?"

"Do not be like them as you must remember that you were all called forth for a time such as this and were born for this time. Consider this a great honor to be used for such a divine purpose.

"If the enemy can, they would have you turn against each other and fight among yourselves all because your expectations were not met. Do not accuse My modern day prophets that said, 'Woe to 2012', for they were correct. Bad foundations were laid in this rebellious year of 2012.

"Indeed, this is the time when My Father decided to lift His hand of favor and protection, so truly woe to 2012. While this is all true, remember that Israel is still under the dome of protection for now as this is written. Remember that even I do not know the day nor the hour of My return

"Erin, have I not shown you that Heaven is now prepared to receive the multitudes and there will be a celebration like none before? Remember that the enemy also knows that My time is near as My Father has accepted his petition and granted a release. The series of dreams you were given show that the battle is still raging."

Me: "Lord, what about the three day rule that You spoke to me of? This is now the third day."

Jesus: "You are correct, but you also need to know that you were not faring well through those battles. You needed to have solace knowing that the battle in advance has been won and that when the clouds part I will come down into the valley of decision.

"The war is not over, but the enemy knows about their defeat. When I come, they will all gather where I once spoke and I will avenge the innocent at My Father's command. They will not go unpunished."

Me: "Now how am I to gauge things? It was how You showed me in advance of Israel and how to pray for her."

Jesus: "So would you rather I allow you to see into the depths of this battle?"

He then showed me the cloud of 'nuclear demons' coming at the dome. I saw angels being thrown around and a completely defensive Heavenly battle. I smelled the smells and heard the sounds. I felt a sickening humid atmosphere so thick that I could barely breathe.

Me: "You are right. I do not think I would have been able to endure much more. However, You could have strengthened me?"

Jesus: Hugging me now. "Do you trust that I will find another way?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: Laughing. "Are you not directly here having this conversation with me?"

Me: Laughing too. "I guess coming to You directly is a lot less painful."

He was laughing and so was everyone else that had gathered at the Balustrade to listen to His teaching.

Jesus: "Remember, I introduced you to your guardian angel just recently, yes?"

I got a big grin as He is very cool. Jesus then pointed at the guardian angel and he waved at me, waiting for my lesson to finish.

Jesus: "I showed you the extra reinforcements I have placed over your households, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Did I also not heal your dog three days ago to lift your burden?"

Wow, I knew Jesus had done this, but to receive confirmation felt so awesome. My dog was very sick and the vet had told me it would cost more than I even had. I instead prayed fervently to the Lord and then laid hands on my dog. Then, and within seven hours, she was completely healed and still is. This was truly a miracle!

Jesus: "Did I not test the use of your new weapons?"

I was in complete shock as I realized yet again that He had done this for me and my children.

Me: "Oh, thank You."

Jesus: "I have also granted you more safety measures of which you cannot see. I have also granted these to all that have gone on this journey with you. As I am talking to you, I am also talking to them. On December 23, 2012, I granted all of you spiritual increase and you will have a magnification of your gifts.

"Dreamers will dream with clarity, there will be visions, there will be miraculous healing and there will be wonders. All of these will be orchestrated straight from the Throne room. You will come together as a body and as a hybrid Heavenly Church to 'ignite' the passion of Christian warriors. This is a glorious calling."

Me: "Will I ever see Breakthrough again?"

Jesus: "He is now off on other assignments. However, look at it this way; you are with Me now. You called upon Me and I am here with you now. You just went to the next level of your walk without realizing what was happening.

"Now please focus on the blessing of increase rather than remorse over a closed chapter. I have done a new thing and you will be entering a time of standing with Me at the Balustrade. You will not be shown everything though as some of these are strategies that cannot be shared."

Me: "Lord, I am thankful, but I was looking for You to come for us now and even today."

He looked over at the others and they all seemed to find me amusing.

Jesus: "You must trust Me and know that I would not show you all of this and not let you soon be here with Me. Did I not tell you that a few things needed to occur first and that I would soon be coming?"

Me: "But how many days did You accelerate the dome so I know what the time measure is?"

Jesus: He hugged me. "Have I not already told you that you will be granted a three day warning amongst you? Have I not now trained you to expect this? I promise that all of you will begin to have an increase of information and that there will be confirmations."

He tapped His fist over His heart twice and I bowed and patted my heart in return. We both laughed as we did this as this was our sign of love for each other. He had given me a new heart and my heart was now in Him and His in mine. This calmed me and reassured me.

He walked me to my guardian angel. My guardian angel then went with me to the Portal.

Guardian: "Remember, Erin, He has given you a key and insight to know the season. Have not the scrolls been unsealed? How many have been unsealed? The signs are in Heaven, in the night sky and there are markers. Be blessed and gather together.

"Study Psalm 91 to understand that He is your safety and your shield. Remember to be courageous like Esther and to be bold and dance like David as you are favored. Now take another look at Revelation but with a fresh set of eyes.

"Look again at Isaiah, but especially the early chapters. Do not forget to go to the valley of dry bones, but do not stop there as even Malachi has information. You will see the signs and now is a good time to go into the latter chapters of Matthew.

"You must call upon those that can also help. Remember that a body has many parts and that there is not just one sparrow, but many. You are loved by the King." He placed the small cloth on my head. "Take cover as it is still raining even in this new season.

"Remember to pray for Israel as her business is the Father's business also. Love like never before until the soon coming of the Lord. Remember that there is very little time."

Dream over...

Dream 033 – Jesus as a Child

Tuesday, December 25, 2012

08-05-2016, 04:11 PM

Today, I went right through the Portal and was greeted by my guardian and another angel. While I sometimes can sense that my guardian angel is with me on Earth, he only becomes visible once I come up through to this dimension.

I looked around and I knew I was at one of the gates of the Golden City as I recognized it from a previous view I had of it from the platform. Straight ahead of me was the River of Life. I then saw the Balustrade and Jesus was gathered there with several others.

When Jesus saw me, He started to walk towards me with His arms wide open. An angel quickly put the golden substance on my eyes so I that could see clearer. Once he did, I noticed that Jesus did not have His Scepter with Him, but was still wearing His armor.

His wings were not visible so I was not sure if He was 'wearing' these today. I noticed that when Jesus was wearing His royal cape that His wings were not visible.

That being said, it is important to note that Jesus does not always have wings. These wings are sometimes there and sometimes not there. In general, He sometimes seems to wear these wings when He is explaining to me how He will soon come down to Earth to save us or how He will later come down to end the Tribulation.

Jesus reached out His right hand and as I reached to hold His hand my outfit suddenly changed in to the most beautiful of robes. I smiled at Him and He hugged me.

Jesus: "I am so glad you came to see Me again."

Me: "Lord, just give the shout and I can stay here all day, every day."

We both laughed. His sense of humor is magnetic. When He smiles and laughs, I am drawn to Him. I could picture all of us saying to Him like little children, "Again, again, make us laugh again!"

Whenever I had seen Jesus through the eyes of others and from my imagination when I would read the Bible, I always had this idea that He was really nice, but very serious and probably not funny.

However, when I looked over at Jesus smiling at me, I just knew that this was definitely not true of Him. He smiled even wider and then I suddenly remembered that He reads my every thought.

Jesus: Now laughing. "So you thought I was serious and boring, did you?"

Me: "Oh, please forgive me, but You know I did prior to all of these dreams."

Jesus: "Remember that My Father created you from His image. Therefore, when I came to walk the Earth, what image did I come in?"

Me: "The Father's image!"

Jesus: "Let's think about the course of My life as a human just so you can understand Me more closely."

He was laughing and I just knew I was about to be lovingly 'schooled'. He walked me to the Balustrade and there I could see the view of the Earth as if in an aerial format. Then it switched to 'zoom lens' and I could see a small town next to a larger city. I realized then that we had zoomed into Israel.

I then noticed that we were in Israel from a few thousand years ago as the roads were being traveled by either donkey, carts or on foot.

As I looked closer, I could see a woman that was possibly a teenager, but definitely a young woman. The woman was riding side saddle on a donkey and was being led by her husband.

I saw them arrive at a type of shelter or feeding place for animals. The shelter was rugged and dirty. I could see that she was in labor and was about to give birth. Jesus turned towards me to speak with me on what I was seeing.

Jesus: "Erin, look at the markers in the sky at this time also."

I then saw Jupiter and I believe Venus, along with another planet or star. Jupiter appeared to be even brighter than the star. However, from where I was looking I could not see the moon.

He then turned my attention back to what I was seeing with the woman. I suddenly knew that the woman I was seeing was Mary in labor and that Joseph was tending to her. This was the birth of our Savior!

Jesus: "What are you seeing?"

Me: "It is Your birth."

Jesus: "Looks comfortable, does it not?"

I was surprised by His comment and then realized He was being funny. I then saw Mary in agony and there was no question that this was an uncomfortable birth. Indeed, this was absolutely nothing like the birth of my children. Mary looked so uncomfortable compared to my cushy hospital bed that I was in to give birth to my children.

Me: "Lord, I had heard and read about the story of Your birth, but there are no words to describe seeing this live."

From my vantage point, I noticed a remarkable dome of protection all around the birth area and that all of the angels from the dome were there. On the outer perimeter, I saw that the dark forces that knew of the markers and had expected the birth of Jesus were gathered there.

I was amazed at the clarity with which I was seeing all of this. After a few agonizing hours of labor, Mary finally gave birth to Jesus. When she did, there was complete silence in both Heaven and on Earth for three minutes. I recognized the three minutes of silence as I had witnessed this in Heaven quite often.

Now even the dark lords dared not move. When the three minutes were over, the evil forces began to war with the angels. However, with the protection of the dome, I could clearly see that Mary, Joseph and Jesus were perfectly safe.

Me: "Lord, is this the dome, but there with You on Earth."

Jesus: "Yes. Is the dome not one of the greatest of structures? Can you tell that this dome is from the very hand of God?"

Me: "Oh yes."

Jesus: "Do you remember giving birth?"

Me: "Yes. The birth of all three of my children was difficult and I even had an epidural for the first two."

He laughed and so did I.

Jesus: "Remember the birth of your middle son?"

I instantly recalled my water breaking at home and remembered the pain when he would move in the womb. When he moved, it felt like sandpaper and caused great agony. This pain continued like this for a few hours until I could finally get to the hospital to receive medicine to help cope with the pain.

Me: "Oh, yes, I remember alright."

Jesus: "It was quite painful, was it not?"

Me: "Yes, but I was still in great comfort compared to Mary. Seeing all of this allowed me to put myself in her position for the first time."

Jesus: "Then think about her delivering Me. These were My beginnings and this was the same as on Earth for all of you."

Immediately I was humbled as I imagined giving birth to a child that I knew would be our salvation.

Me: "Your birth seemed to be one of the worst!"

Jesus: "Hmm, not necessarily."

With a motion of His hand, I then saw women all over the world, and even today, in extreme conditions giving birth. Most of these births were also without the dome of protection over them that Jesus had.

Jesus: "Remember also that I had all of the bodily functions of a human. Indeed, I had the same structure, but without a sinful nature by My Father's design. Nonetheless, I still came fully in flesh."

Then I saw something really amazing, something never spoken of or written about but assumed only. I saw Jesus as a normal child and He was playing with His friends and cousins. I saw a few different games and He was laughing while playing them.

Jesus: "So, what do you think?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, You are so much fun to watch as a child. This is such an honor to witness all of this."

Then I saw Him having fun. He was joking around with His mother when some of the clothes she was washing fell into the river by accident. Before she even asked, He immediately helped her make everything right again by helping her with the clothes.

Jesus: "See, did I not also have to honor My earthly parents as a child?"

Me: "I guess I assumed You were all serious and stoic and certainly not playful."

Jesus: Laughing. "Hmm, even as a child?"

Me: Laughing too. "Yes. I figured that You were just walking around quoting Scripture and quietly existing."

Jesus: "Okay, now this is funny. Remember how I said that it is difficult to teach in your home town where people knew you as a child as I was considered the son of Joseph and Mary? As you witness this, do you agree that you are seeing a normal boy growing up?"

Me: "Well, You are sort of like a normal boy, but I noticed that You were without the rebellion I often seen in all of us as we are growing up."

Jesus: "Erin, I had normal chores, ate normal meals, played with My friends, joked with others and did other normal things. Since these people had seen Me grow up in Nazareth and I was a modest boy from a modest family, how credible would I be to them as their Messiah?"

Me: "You would not and they would not take You seriously."

I then saw Jesus as a boy perhaps twelve or thirteen years of age. I remembered this story from the Bible.

Jesus: "Correct. When I traveled to the Temple with My parents, I was finally able to teach. Since none of the people at the Temple knew Me growing up, they sat and listened to Me teach. As I came of age, My Father began to release Me into greater service. I found it more comfortable to be in My Father's House and it was difficult to return to My village."

I then saw two opposite scenes. First I saw Him at the Temple speaking with amazing authority with many ears listening. I then saw Him back at Nazareth and barely an ear would turn to Him to listen.

Me: "This is amazing to see."

Jesus: "So did I not laugh and joke as a child? Did I not have a sense of humor? After all, did My Father not create humor?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Do you still think I am holy after seeing all of this?"

Me: "Of course, but now more than ever."

Jesus: Laughing. "Am I serious and boring?"

Me: "Not at all! So, Lord, why did You come down as a baby?"

Jesus: "There are several reasons, but one in particular applies to the season we are in. First of all, was Herod originally expecting a baby?"

Me: "I do not think so. I think he was expecting a full grown king."

Jesus: "Yes. Now, do you think the enemy knew I was coming as a baby?"

Me: "As it is written, I would think yes."

Jesus: "Actually, no, the enemy was not expecting a normal birth. When he discovered this, he then believed he could defeat Me because I had come into this world as a helpless baby. However, this too was a strategy of My Father and by His design.

"When the enemy found out, he thought he could just have me be removed. Of course, this did not work. As a child, and as well as what is recorded in the Bible, did the enemy not try to tempt Me or even destroy Me completely?"

"Indeed, he was arrogant enough to believe he could. He did then, he does now and he still believes in the future that he can."

Me: "Lord, how can that be since he is already defeated?"

Jesus: "He will go down with a fight. This is why you are hearing from Me now in this season as there is no time for games or even a learning curve. You must be able to stand against this enemy. Remember, you do not know the time or the day of My coming, but you can recognize the season by the fruit it bears."

Me: "How are we to stand against these enemies? All of this seems impossible?"

Just then I saw Him reach for something in a small satchel around His waist.

Jesus: Laughing. "Hmm, I guess I will need to find My mustard seed. Erin, you must have faith like a mustard seed, obey strong teaching and learn to hear My voice, the One calling in the desert."

Me: "Lord, I just cannot help but want to go Home. I just want You to come for us now."

Jesus: "Erin, have you been watching Israel? This is your greatest marker. The events around you are confusing and many even seem out of order, but your surest sign is your sister.

"Have you been praying for her? Those who pray and bless Israel will also too be blessed. Erin, this is a hint and an important key to knowing of My return. I have given you My Word, the Scriptures.

"I have taught you about the weapons and how to use them. You have been shown about how to ready your house. Now, bring this all together. There is power here in My Name with all of these elements to defeat anything coming at you, with or without angels even."

I then saw Him in the garden prior to His arrest. I saw Him in agony and supplication. Then I saw something similar to a scene from 'The Passion of the Christ' movie wherein a white snake slithered up to Him.

Jesus: "Erin, look at just one thing I can do."

Then, with His foot, He crushed the snake, snuffing out the threat.

Me: "This is powerful, but You are Jesus and I am not You."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, greater is He that is within you than he who is in the world. Hmm, it seems to me you have quoted this just recently?"

I shook my head and laughed. He is so wise, knows everything and every detail. In comparison, I am just so 'human'.

Jesus: "Do not worry, Erin, for I will work with you more. I will strengthen you and keep you. I have promised that you are Mine and this will not change. I am here and I love you. Now, My warrior Bride, go forth in victory and stomp the head of that snake. I am there with you." He hugged me.

"I love you and I will show you more in the next few visits. There will be a lot to absorb, but I will help you. Remember to stay on course. Seek Me and ask Me and I will illuminate things for you like never before.

"This is an exciting time to exist and you were selected for precisely this moment. I know you are tired, but take heart and take courage for I am with you."

He turned and handed me off to my guardian angel. He touched His heart twice and smiled. I bowed and put my hand over my heart and curtsied. We both laughed.

Guardian: "Erin, go to the lesser prophets again. Amos has a key as do Joel, Habakkuk and Nahum. Have you looked at Nahum? Remember to continue on your course as this is pleasing to the Lord.

"He is growing your body and expanding your tent. This is a blessing. Now look at the signs in Heaven and the markers that He has shown you. Read also Psalms 45, 34, 23, 17 and 91. You may even prefer to memorize these as they are food for thought.

"Remember your lanterns. He has some gifts for you to be found. Pray for your sister Israel and watch what is coming at her." He then pulled out the cloth. "It is still raining so take cover and remember that the battle is the Lord's. However, you are also a warrior so you must take a stand. Love each other and be blessed."

Dream over...

Dream 034 – Labor Pains

Saturday, December 29, 2012

08-05-2016, 04:14 PM

I immediately went through the Portal Gate today and angels were there to greet me. One of the angels quickly put the golden substance over my eyes. I looked around and saw Jesus standing at the Balustrade.

When He looked over at me, He must have known my condition as He immediately came right over to me. As He was about to greet me with a hug, I dropped down at His feet in worship and wept about things I did not even understand.

He put His hand over my head and told the angels to go get something. He bent down to me and met me where I was; at my lowest level. The angel handed Him a small vile of golden oil that was different from anything I had seen before here.

Jesus poured the oil over my head and kissed my forehead. As He stood me to my feet, I was still crying.

Jesus: "Erin, why are you so downcast and burdened?"

Me: "I am not sure, Lord, but my entire body is racked with grief and I do not really know why."

Jesus: "Do you remember your last dream?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then you are in labor."

Me: "But I am not pregnant."

He laughed reassuringly and gently kissed me on my forehead.

Jesus: "Do you not understand what is happening? Do you not feel the groaning?"

Me: "Yes, but why do I have so many tears?"

Jesus: "The Holy Spirit walks with you and is in you as you walk about the Earth. Do you remember all of the functions of the Holy Spirit? The Holy Spirit is God residing in you and your house is His residence also."

Me: "Lord, are You groaning too?"

Jesus: His face had a smile of sympathy. "Of course, Erin, as this wait is agonizing for both of us. Erin, the God that resides in you as your Holy Spirit is in sync with your body. What you are experiencing is a birth pain."

Me: "Lord, this labor is too long and painful."

Jesus: He laughed and nodded in agreement. "Stop, take a look at Matthew and read what I have instructed you to. As you read this, I will illuminate the latter chapters. Your guardian angel will help you with this, but then come right back to Me."

Amazingly, I was now immediately in front of my Bible in my living room. I flipped it open to find Matthew and it was already there on Matthew 24 for me to read.

Guardian angel: "Erin, what do you see?"

Me: "This seems really confusing."

Guardian angel: "Did He not say that the order is not as most believe?"

Me: "Yes. As I am reading this, I see birth pains and understand. However, this seems like this is the current world and almost like the USA. Then there is the abomination of desolation. As I read this, I see a bomb outside of the dome in Jerusalem wherein I was expecting to see the Anti-Christ. Jesus then warns us that the atmosphere will change in both the environment and the sky. It seems that it is then that Jesus will come on the clouds for us."

Guardian angel: "Now let's go back and see Him."

I was taken back up immediately and dropped to my knees in worship at His feet. He looked down at me and smiled. He walked me to the Balustrade and I was shaken.

Jesus: "Come, Erin, you need a drink."

The angel handed Him a chalice mixed with water and wine. Jesus took a sip from the chalice to test it and then handed the chalice for me to drink. I quickly drank this down as I was so thirsty.

Jesus: He laughed. "Drink up, Erin, for you are thirsty and My cup is never empty. Is it not enriching to your body and is not the Holy Spirit a lamp to your path?"

Me: "Yes. I understand."

Jesus: "What did you discover in Matthew? Was it as you expected?"

Me: I smiled as He already knew. "Not surprising, but definitely for me hidden in plain sight."

Jesus: "Look, Erin."

I looked over the Balustrade and I saw Israel with the dome. I saw the countries around her that hated her and there were both Muslims and Gentiles. I saw them worshiping the black dragon. I saw the red dragon behind the black dragon. I saw that their worship of the black dragon seemed to increase the size of the red dragon.

Me: "What is this, Lord?"

Jesus: "As they build in strength, evil increases and the abomination of desecration builds in power. Is this not like Baal?"

Me: "But I saw this explosion."

Jesus: "Yes, this you indeed saw as one will cause the other to rise. Do you not remember the dome, Erin, and why I had to remove you from this battle? Instead did I not have you focus your attentions on Me and My coming and your reception Home?"

Me: "Yes, but I am extremely bothered."

Jesus: "I understand, but there is a story in the Old Testament that you as a mother will enjoy. Two women went before the wise king claiming a certain child as theirs. One said, 'yes, let's cut the child in half to divide it' and the other said, 'oh no, do not do this.'"

Me: "But, Lord, who is this child?"

Jesus: "Do you not know? Do you not see?"

Me: "Lord, is this Your land and is this Jerusalem?"

Jesus: "Of sorts, but there is even deeper meaning here. Now let's look at something in Zechariah. There is a hint here. Who is living with the daughter of Babylon?"

He turned me to face in a different direction and there I saw the angel with the plumb line at the Balustrade.

Me: "Who is the Daughter of Babylon?"

Jesus: "At one point Israel was scattered, but where did they all go?"

Me: "I guess to those who would shelter them and allow them to prosper. Since they are prospering, I assume that many will remain where they are instead of travelling back to Israel. Lord, are you referring to America?"

Jesus: "There is impending judgment on America, but I remain tender towards her for the sake of those who continue to call to Me there."

Me: "How long will You remain tender?"

Jesus: "Erin, is not the plumb line measuring and is not the season near?"

Me: "Lord, I am troubled as I know what is coming and I see it right there."

Jesus: He then pointed to the Heavenly markers. "Erin, there is a bright spot in the sky. Go back now to Matthew 24."

Me: "I am confused by this. In verse 29, it says 'immediately after the tribulation of those days' and only then in verse 30 do we see You appear."

Jesus: "Oh, so you caught this! Did you not think that the order of this chapter seemed out of sequence? Is this what I was speaking of?"

Me: "Lord, You know so please help us to understand."

Jesus: "Be still, Erin, and remember. Now, what is next in Matthew?"

Me: "The Parable of the Fig Tree."

Jesus: "Did I tell you that you had a key and I was at the door. When you see these signs, I am there right at the door?"

Me: "Lord, the signs are here now."

I fell to my knees and touched a portion of His robe that was out from His armor. He reached down and hugged me.

Jesus: "You have been given much food today so now you must go and rest. Remember to bring forth anything that you need to lay at My feet. Do not be like the virgins and be caught unaware. I will bear your troubles and forgive your trespasses. Bring them forth as you are highly loved by the King."

He kissed my forehead and handed me to my guardian angel. He tapped His heart twice and smiled at me and I bowed and tapped my heart and curtsied in return. We both laughed at this as my guardian took me to the gate.

Guardian angel: "Erin, there are important keys in what He has shown you. You are favored and are loved. Look again at Matthew 24, but go further to 25 as there is wisdom there. Now an important book for you to read is Zechariah, which is the same name as the father of the one who cleared the way for the Lord.

"Look at the order listed in Matthew 24. Though they seem out of order, the Words are true, the message is correct and all is hidden in plain sight. So much of what He has taught you rests in these pages for you to read. Were those rebellious birds not like chicks, but only white washed? There are nuggets of wisdom here."

He put the cloth over my head.

Guardian Angel: "I am here with you at His command always. Call upon Him and He will answer. Do not forget that it takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out."

Me: "Wait, what about the signs in the sky?"

Guardian: "Did He not say that they were markers? He will help you put the map together. Remember, history can be repetitive and there is nothing new under the sun. There are patterns and order. Now, you have much to do. Be blessed. It is still raining."

Dream over...

Dream 035 – Childish Defiance

Monday, December 31, 2012

08-05-2016, 04:18 PM

Please lift my burdens, Father, as I am not sure why I am experiencing such sorrow the last few days. You are speaking to me in a new way and I am overwhelmed, but I know that I am just a small vessel in this. I needed to become less so that You could become more.

Father, I need help and guidance parenting my children. During the course of these things and this new ministry, I have not given my children full attention. When I was not having these dreams, the majority of my time aside from work was focused on them. However, now when I am home, I am divided between You and them.

As such, I give my very life and my children's lives to You, Lord. While You have brought me this far, will You also soon provide for us a Home at Your very Altar? Please, Lord, I cling to Psalm 84 and ask for Your help.

Dream begins...

Immediately I was at the foot of the Cross at Golgotha. The scenery seemed to be in black and white except for the red of the blood of Jesus. The angel with the elements on the tray was there. I received the elements and then took communion.

I had all three of my children before me and each was thirty inches in height. They were in the very same outfits I remembered them wearing at that age. Interestingly, they were all the same age and about two years old.

I sat each of my children down at the foot of the Cross and wept openly as I released each at the base of the Cross. It was dark and scary, but I let them go right before Jesus.

As I did this, I was immediately moved to the Gate of the City. My guardian angel and another angel met me there and the other angel put the golden oil in my eyes. I saw Jesus at the Balustrade as He was walking towards me with open arms.

When He reached me, He gave me a big hug and a reassuring smile. As He knew everything in advance, my heavy burden today was not a surprise to Him.

Jesus: "Erin, did you give your burdens to Me?"

Me: "Yes, but I feel bad calling them burdens as they are my children and are a gift."

Jesus: Smiling. "What is different about your children at their current age then when they were only three years old?"

Me: "At three years old, my children were still full of discovery; navigating their surroundings and learning to walk."

Jesus: "Erin, this was the age you used to come to Me as a toddler."

Me: "Yes, but what was it about this particular age?"

Jesus: "Children seek and need Me most at this age. You searched for Me at this age too."

Then I saw all three of my children at three years old. I saw that, when they were unable to see me, they would start to worry. They would then cry out to me and I would come running. I began to cry as I was actually seeing them on each separate occasion that they had felt abandoned.

Me: "I miss this age. Their hearts were so pure and they really loved me and searched for me."

Jesus: "When you would come to Me at that age, your heart was the same way."

Me: "Lord, am I losing this ability to come to You as a little child?"

Jesus: "Well, you no longer call Me 'Hayah'."

Me: "I guess I did stop doing this, didn't I?"

Jesus: "It is because the world criticized you for something they did not understand. As a result, you simply appeased them by stopping to come to Me with a deep love as a young girl. The world had effectively put a stop to you coming to Me in both of these forms."

Me: "Are You saying that I no longer have a good heart?"

Jesus: "Not at all, but I am reminding you about your children as they are closest to your heart."

Me: "I miss them even though they are still right here with me."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, while they still love you, it is just different now."

Me: "Yes, it is defiant love now."

Jesus: "What are their ages?"

Of course He knew full well so I guessed that this would form part of the lesson.

Me: "All three of them recently had birthdays. My daughter is eleven years old, my younger son is thirteen years old and my older son is fifteen years old."

Jesus: Laughing. "Oh, yes, 'those' ages."

Me: "What is wrong with 'those' ages?"

Jesus: "Erin, these ages are turning points while under the care of their parents. These ages are also a rite of passage by the enemy and permission is granted to test them. Age thirteen is the prime age for these tests."

Me: "I do not understand"

Jesus: "Have you not considered the rebelliousness of age thirteen? Do you remember when you were age thirteen?"

He then unveiled a scene from my own thirteenth year. I had turned away from everyone and was such a dark age. I was full of irrational thinking and self-loathing. I remembered now that so much had happened in my thirteenth year that I could barely wrap my head around it.

I saw a time when I was in a marketplace in Juarez, Mexico when a man lured me behind a jewelry counter and then into a backroom. He locked the door and trapped me so I could not run. He began to get a rope and a cloth to cover my mouth so that I could not make a sound.

Me: Quickly yelling at the top of my lungs. "Mom!"

Mom: "Erin, where are you? I will find you."

The man realized that it was better to just let me go. He opened the door to release me and started to make excuses to my mom.

Man: "She was looking at bracelets. Here is one."

Mom: Calmly. "Oh, thank you for the gift."

As we left, I did not speak a word to my mom until we left the marketplace. The sterling silver bangle on my wrist would now be a marker which I never forgot. Ever since that day, whenever I received divine lifesaving mercy, I would purchase another sterling silver bangle to mark the occasion.

This happened often as I now own a total twelve of these 'marker' bangles. I usually wear one or more of these bangles each day on my right wrist in order to serve as a reminder that Jesus has the power to save and not me.

Me: "Lord, what was that man going to do? He would have surely killed me to cover his tracks. I felt it and I knew it as I saw evil in his eyes. That bracelet is now a personal marker of Your mercy for making sure my life was spared."

Jesus: "Erin, this no longer matters. Just know that this was not permitted. Though your abduction and death was presented to God in the Court by the enemy, this was not allowed and the enemy was not given the right for this to happen."

Me: "Lord, what happens at this age as I still do not quite get it."

Jesus: "You need a lesson in Jewish laws. The roots of this can also be found in other cultures as well. The Jews set the example and the others followed."

Me: "I am just so bothered by my thirteen year old son. He was so sweet and kind just prior to his birthday. He obeyed me because he loved me, but now I noticed that, the more he turns from the rules, the more rebellious he becomes. Now I must become stricter and I do not want to."

Jesus: Smiling. "Now you are getting a lesson in parenting."

Me: "I need Your help, Lord, as I cannot physically do this alone and this is just too much for me. I have worked so hard on this and taken way too much time."

Jesus: "Do you think that I too have not gone to My Father with a similar petition and still do even now? Do you think that I do not deal with rebellion? Look."

Immediately I received a lesson in global rebellion with a simple wave of His hand. It was a short visual, but very clear and to the point.

Me: "Lord, how do you tolerate such rebellion from us?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you love your children?"

Me: "Yes, I would do anything for them."

Jesus: "Would you give your life for them?"

Me: "Lord, if it meant their salvation and I was given the choice to trade myself or risk losing them, I would do it and not hesitate."

Jesus: "This is a wise answer and spoken as a true disciple. Are you now saying you would endure anything?"

I was laughing as I knew that I had just been given a lesson at the Cross.

Me: "Lord, I know where I am going as You have shown me that I reside in Paradise. If I know all that I do, then I would be a fool not to sacrifice myself so that others can have Paradise too."

Jesus: "So, Erin, let's be clear. Are we talking about your children or others?"

Me: "My first responsibility would be to make sure my children are safe and sound at Home in Paradise. Once I can rest in this, then I am willing to do as You require without inhibitions."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, this is spoken like a true warrior Bride. Are you now ready for what is next as the time is almost here, is it not?"

Me: "Lord, I know nothing of time anymore?"

Jesus: "Now, let's go back to what you said to make sure that I understood correctly. Was your first responsibility for your own children before other's children?"

Me: "Yes. My children are my number one priority and are my main reason for living right now."

Jesus: "Remember a while back that I explained to you that everything around you is in parables? Is good and evil and darkness and light not in patterns also?"

Me: "Yes, this is true, but I see it more and more around me every day as You have shown me what to look for."

He took me over to the Balustrade again to show me all of these lights. There were not as many lights as there once were and had even diminished since I saw them last.

Jesus: "If these lights were your children, then what would you do if you saw that darkness was overcoming them?"

Me: "I would go down and rescue them immediately."

Jesus: "Now you are gaining even more understanding."

Me: "Lord, the lights are beginning to disappear. Are they being overcome?"

Immediately I saw the darkness overtaking the lights. This seemed horribly foreboding to me and I began to cry.

Jesus: "If your children are now safe, secure and sound at home and nothing can harm them, would you now be willing to go back for these remaining lights?"

Me: "Yes. Based on the evil I have seen, I would not hesitate as these lights still have a chance to come home."

From the Balustrade, Jesus then showed me a bird's eye view of the Earth as if I had a zoom lens. I saw innocent people, even teenagers, navigating this dark landscape alone with nothing to guide them.

They were completely without hope and in tears, pain and anger. I saw horrible things happening to them. I saw inside the thoughts of a fifteen year old boy. He was asking himself, "Why did I not listen? My parents told me so why did I go the other direction? Now I do not know what to do."

I was in tears over this as this boy was my eldest son's age. I then saw the boy's parents on their knees in the Heavenly Courts begging for their son. This felt so overwhelming to watch.

Me: "Lord, show me where he is so I find him and show him the way Home."

I became overwhelmed even as I typed this as it was excruciatingly horrible to know I could help him but I was not able to.

Me: "Oh please, Lord, help these children as they are not worldly enough to navigate through this dark wilderness alone."

Jesus: "So you are willing to go back down there and help? Will you go back and collect these lights?"

Me: "Yes. With my children safe here and at Home, I will now be willing to collect other children and help."

Jesus: "Erin, you have now seen into the Father's heart and you now have the heart of a Heavenly warrior. After all you have seen, are you still willing to go back down there and fight?"

Me: "Yes. You have showed me the great reward of Heaven and Paradise. I know the outcome in advance so I have nothing to lose."

Jesus: "Oh, you are now speaking like Paul in Philippians 1. There is a pearl of great price here so go to this. Reference it and understand the importance of what is taught here. Erin, every writer of My Word is now residing in Heaven with Me.

"When you read the Words of those who died in Me come alive for you in the Word, do they not continue to instruct you even though they no longer walk this Earth? Did they not suffer so that you could live? Look at the prophets."

I had temporarily forgotten the horrible deaths that most of the writers of the Bible had eventually suffered on Earth.

Jesus: "Yet each one did this for the sake of the Cross and for those left here. They were all a light of hope for your dark paths."

Me: "So what can I do?"

Jesus: "Ready your houses and live so that you will be missed."

He then showed me something interesting. I saw an artist named Vincent Van Gogh. He was not appreciated while he lived. Indeed, he was instead mocked and he became depressed as a result.

No one was interested in him or his work. Many even called his art 'the works of a mad man'. I then saw his grave and the incredibly high prices that his works now receive at current day auctions.

Jesus: "His works are priceless now, yet the world did not even know him when he lived and it was only through his death that he became known. It is the same today, wherein the ones that have something of value to the world are now instead viewed as having no value and are not appreciated."

Jesus then pointed back to the Bible.

Jesus: "These scribes have produced priceless works in the pages of the Word, yet not one of these painters' works can bring salvation but only I can. Even today, the Word is still alive as are the scribes who transcribed them that now reside inside the Golden City."

I then saw inside the Golden City and saw writers or scribes from the Bible as well as people who were the subjects of the Bible. Each of them were laughing, teaching and serving with joy in their hearts.

Me: "Oh, Lord, I have questions for them. Can I go?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, are you not speaking with the Author? Is My Father not the Creator of history and is not the Holy Spirit breathing life into it? Do you not believe that we can grant you all of the information you will need?"

I dropped to my knees remembering that I stood before the greatest of Scribes.

Me: "Please forgive me, Lord, please forgive me!"

Jesus: He brought me up off my knees and gently hugged me. "It is because we have become so close and we are as one with My heart within yours that you are able to be transparent. Your heart is good and I am pleased with you. Therefore, I will grant you even more information or insight into My heart."

Me: "Lord, should I not always be treating You as if You are on the Throne as You are?"

Jesus: "Yes, but have I not also called you into service? Have I not called you into close communion with Me? Have I also not called you friend, daughter and Bride? Then of course you will communicate with Me as there is a bridge between us and also a key to 'Cross' it. This is an honor."

Me: "Yes, Lord, but above all else, You are holy, God, our Deliverer and our righteous King. You are loved and I am forever grateful that You love me."

He reached over and hugged me, motioning for my guardian angel to come over to us.

Jesus: "Erin, you are being fed right now and there is so much information. Continue to allow the Holy Spirit to illuminate Scripture like never before. The scales have come off of your eyes and you are able to see. You are loved by Me, your King and your Husband."

He placed His hand over His chest and pounded it twice. I curtsied and bowed while my hand was over my heart in return. We both laughed. My guardian angel walked me to the Portal Gate and placed the cloth over my head.

Guardian angel: "You are still experiencing rain. The Lord is requiring you to go to the Word. He showed you the first chapter of Philipians, but you will also find solid information in Isaiah 62 as this too is important. Remember to pray for your sister and you will see signs in Heaven and on Earth.

"In John 15 and 16, there are instructions here that cannot be refuted. Remember that God is the Author of all Scripture. There is a reminder and hope in Lamentations 3 and there is life in Hebrews 12.

"Read all of this and take it in for the Lord is good and there is not much time. Write this plainly on tablets for those to read as this is good food and manna from Heaven. Remember, you are loved and that, when you need help, you are to call His Name and He will come."

Dream over...

Dream 036 – The Bridge

Wednesday, January 2, 2013
08-05-2016, 04:23 PM

I have been under extreme attacks ever since the Lord started the unveiling series and now this is almost bordering on comical because I know the source and the reason. However, I also know that the Lord has allowed all of this in order that I become stronger with my use of Scriptures, with my prayers against the strongholds and openly with my tongue so that I lose weapons that cut down the enemies.

Despite the attacks, God is faithful and I am not afraid. I do not like the attacks, but I know where my future home is in Heaven, I know the voice of Jesus and I know He has sent help and that these angels are here on guard for me all of the time.

There are several signs that I have always been given by the Lord to know when I am about to head into trouble. He has always sent me these warning signals, but I did not feel released to disclose these until now. I believe that the time is now to release this as I believe that some of you may have had similar signs and have not recognized them.

With the following, perhaps this will help others also see the warning patterns and recognize trouble as these are the signs that always have let me know that I need to start praying in advance of the attacks:

My first warning signs are usually spiders, flies or snakes or some combination of these. When I see these signs, I know that they are a precursor to a certain type of weapon that the enemy will use against me depending on which of these signs I have seen.

I feel that I should not reveal which type of weapon matches which type of warning sign as this is to be kept secret from the enemy and is special for each person. However, the following signs are less obvious, but there is a pattern over the years for me that I cannot ignore:

I may experience a type of disturbed sleep between around 1:00am and 3:30am.

I may experience things from below the surface that creep up to the surface. These may include such things as clogged toilets or really backed up plumbing of any kind.

I may experience infestations where there should not be any infestations. These infestations can be of any kind and may include such things as flies, ants, worms, mice, hornets or mold.

My children may experience attacks when they are at school. These attacks will usually occur with different children and at different schools, but within two hours of each other.

I may experience a mysterious headache or rash or some combination.

I may have two or more people from my past coming back into contact with me within a three day period and out of the blue.

An odd but rare warning sign for me is when I sight three or more hawks or eagles within a day. For example, on Monday, December 31, 2012, I had seen over thirteen white hawks with black tipped wings. My step-dad told me that these were rare and they were migrating down from Alaska. My son and I counted these hawks during our drive in the Palouse country of Eastern Washington State.

I may experience a sudden and unexpected financial drain from different sources happening simultaneously and within a 72 hour period. This usually starts with problems at the bank and then trickles down to everything else.

I may experience issues at work, wherein these issues usually all happen within a single work day. These multiple attacks are quite debilitating and can take up to three days for me to recover from them. Not only that but it usually takes at least a week to regain a peaceful atmosphere at work.

This last warning sign may seem odd, but my dog may start barking and growling at the air for no apparent reason. I say odd as I have come to believe that maybe, just maybe, my dog can see things in the spiritual realm on occasion that we cannot and is trying to warn me of what she may be seeing in this unseen world.

The above are all signs for me to know how to pray and when to pray. Again, I am only sharing these signs with you now as I believe this may be important and might help some of you in the coming days.

I still do not know if there is even more meaning behind these signs, but over the years I have learned that this is a wonderful way in which the Lord helps warn me when I am simply too busy or unable to go to Him. Typically, I experience some combination of at least three separate signs as a precursor to a major attack.

This week, it seemed as if every single aspect of my life was being attacked. I was then reminded by a couple of my friends to slow down, wait on the Lord and not jump ahead of Him. I wisely followed this sound advice and took down the strongholds by using my full armor, taking a stand over my property and readying my household.

Prior to this, I would often power down instead of powering up by using the Lord for my complete source of strength. I can tell you now that this leading on my own understanding had gotten me into a quandary too many times to count and that old fleshly habits die hard.

In summary, we simply cannot let our guards down and cannot ever take off our armor in order to rest. Instead, we need to learn to rest in our armor and find comfort there.

Dream begins...

I was up at the Portal again wherein two angels were there to greet me. The angels were so happy to see me and I was even happier to be here with them. As I turned to look for Jesus, the scenery suddenly changed.

Similar to the beginning dreams, I was only thirty inches high again. I saw Jesus in His white robe on His seat and I ran to Him as fast as my small wobbling legs could go. As I ran, tears began to stream down my face. He knew that I had been crushed and I cried out to Him in my younger state as a child would.

Me: "Hayah, I am so glad to see You like this."

He picked me up and lifted me high in the air just like a father would with his toddler. He held me at His shoulder as he sat back down. I was crying quietly there as He knew that I needed the shoulder of my Father right now.

Jesus: "Lay your head down, Erin, and rest on Me."

I really needed this and His shoulders felt so strong and comforting. As I wept on His shoulder, I noticed that my tears did not stain His robe or make it wet, but rather were supernaturally absorbed. He held me there for a long time and I felt so much peace and security.

Jesus: Whispering. "You are Mine and it is going to be okay. I am with you always and I will not abandon you. You are safe now here with Me so there is no need for you to worry or mourn anymore."

Me: "Hayah, I feel like Rachel in mourning. Is there anything I can do?"

Jesus: "No. There is nothing for you to do except pray and watch as you are now here with Me."

Me: "I want so much to help."

Jesus: "I know, but there is nothing for you to do. Remember that there is snow in the forecast and to remember the order?"

Me: "Lord, I do not understand as I am so sleepy and tired right now."

Jesus: "I know, Erin, as I am watching over you."

I stayed some time on His shoulder and was so grateful that He allowed this as it simply seemed perfect for this time I was in.

Me: "Lord, age causes trouble."

Jesus: "Please explain."

Me: "We are to learn as we grow older and we are supposed to become wiser."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, age is something like this."

I saw a beautiful bridge over a wide river. The current and depth of the river made this bridge a crucial crossing to safely get from one side of the river to the other side. I then saw myself as a child about two years old and I could still barely walk.

At first, I saw that I was carefully holding on to the guard rails. However, after a while I began to confidently run back and forth and from side to side on the bridge. The bridge was strong at first, but as I grew older the bridge became run down.

The original structural engineering of the bridge seemed to be giving way over the years and was now becoming structurally weak. No when I would cross the bridge, it would shake and I was experience fear.

I then noticed that the 'what if's' were beginning to enter in and make it even more difficult for me to cross the bridge. I then finally saw myself sitting at the banks of the river and not even attempting to cross the now old bridge.

Jesus: "Erin, explain to Me what I have just shown you."

Me: "When I was little, I was bold and confident. As a result, the bridge was strong and there was no chance of me falling into the raging river. However, as I grew older with time, the bridge went into disrepair and finally made it so I dare not even cross it."

Jesus: "Describe the bridge and exactly what had changed with it."

Me: "Perhaps the bridge represents my faith and that, when I was little, nothing could stop me from crossing the river. However, as I became older, the bridge also became older and weaker until I finally became too afraid to cross the bridge."

Jesus: "Now describe the river."

Me: "The river was so deep and wide that a bridge was definitely needed to cross it. It would actually take an impossible effort for me to cross this river without a bridge"

Jesus: "So what is on the other side of the river that makes the bridge worth crossing over for?"

I saw a beautiful land and it had everything. However, I could not see as clearly all that the land had for me as I got older. Instead, I now needed glasses in order for things to come into focus even though I somehow remembered that it was a good land.

Me: "Lord, is this the Promised Land?"

He laughed and seemed overjoyed that I finally understood this.

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, and what is waiting on the other side of the river besides just the land?"

Me: "Oh Hayah, I see that You are there."

Jesus: "Yes. While this is true, you must remember that I am actually in both places."

Me: "Lord, then I still do not fully understand."

Jesus: "This is a parable with many layers and a book could be written just on this alone. Indeed, this is an Old Testament story straight from Chapters 4 and 12 of Deuteronomy. This is good food for this time and I will put this in simple terms later on. For now, let's apply this in another way as the meaning is the same. Look again at the river and the bridge."

I then saw that when I was little the bridge was sturdy and safe and the crossing was short. At the time, I was too small to see over the sides of the bridge to the raging current of the river below. While the river seemed wide to me even as a toddler, it still really did not seem 'that wide' to me at the time.

However, as I grew older, the bridge became weak over time with no repairs. I was also taller and old enough that I could see over the sides of the bridge and into the swift current below. The river seemed wider now and I felt that the bridge barely stretched across the river. The bridge seemed to now sway and buckle, which caused fear and uncertainty of a safe crossing.

Jesus: "Erin, there are several meanings here at this crossing. With a childlike faith, you crossed easily from one side of the river to the other and you were never concerned about the bridge or the crossing. However, as you grew older, so did the bridge and your crossing seemed to become much more difficult."

Me: "Yes, Lord, now it seems that I sit on the banks and I am afraid to cross."

Jesus: "Yes, but now look closer at the two sides from this view."

I then saw a view over the landscape and the river ran from north to south. To my left I could see a barren wasteland, like a desert with no growth or very little. I saw that the land was hit with a drought and no one had hope.

However, on my right, I could see a beautiful landscape and it had everything there. At the edge of the bridge to this land was a long tall berm. This berm kept this beautiful land from being visible from the other side of the river and from the bridge.

This land had plenty of food and water. Really, it had everything and everything about it was like Heaven and was a land of plenty. I saw people working and enjoying their work wherein nothing was laborious to them. Each person shared their own harvest, but willingly traded with each other to spread their bounty.

One person harvested grapes and made wine, another harvested wheat and made bread, another harvested figs and made cakes and yet another harvested olives and made oil. Each person celebrated and enjoyed the fruits of their and each other's labor.

There was music, singing, dancing and celebration and all of the people praised the Lord openly with offerings of thanksgiving. All of the people knew exactly where the blessing had come from and recognized the Lord. In turn, the land was blessed and overflowed with a supernatural abundance that could only come from Heaven.

Jesus: "What do you see, Erin?"

Me: "I see paradise and that there is nothing like this on Earth today. I have only read about this in the Word, but I have never seen this."

Jesus: "Do you see anything else? Is the land a good land?"

Me: "Yes. This land has everything and I want to go there."

Jesus: "Hmm, yet you do not cross the bridge to enter into this."

Me: "Lord, the berm blocks my view, the bridge is long and worn and I am weak."

Jesus: "So is it more comfortable to just sit on the bank on this desert side? Look closer."

Then I saw the left side of the river again and it was still barren and a desert. It lacked life and luster and there was stealing and crimes of all kinds. I saw a farmer with a small harvest because of the drought where he gathered what he could and took it to the market. He was offered only a third of the value of the harvest and, on his way home to his family, he was robbed of his income and killed.

Me: "Lord, the promised land for him was just over the berm and less than half a mile away. Why did he not go there? Why did You not show him the way to go?"

Jesus: "Oh, he was shown the bridge alright and indeed several people had passed him on the way to the bridge. However, he never followed them even though they told him of the great harvest. He simply kept refusing to ever cross over into the Good Land."

I then saw a market place and a temple. There I saw idols being sold, along with communion elements and blemished offerings, all right in the front of this temple. However, this particular temple had been made for worshipping the dragon and serving the dragon.

I saw fortune tellers, bounty hunters and business men there. I saw businessmen that were like fortune tellers, but they were financial forecasters. People were flocking to them with offerings and tithes in order to bet for a financial increase. Suddenly I realized that the scenario had changed into one of a modern busy downtown city.

Me: "Lord, this looks like Wall Street today. Right before my very eyes, I saw the scenario turn from an ancient city to a modern day city that looks like Wall Street today. What is the reason for this?"

Jesus: "Erin, are the two essentially not identical? Do you remember the colored horses I showed you before with the canisters?"

Me: "Yes, but I do not understand as they did not ride here."

He took me over to the Balustrade to show me. I saw the riders going to the city with the tallest building. He then showed me the six leaders at the table. One leader had come from afar to the meeting place and now seven physically sat at the table.

Three leaders were also there via satellite. I then saw a contract being signed by each of them as it was moved around the table. The three leaders via satellite each also had a physical representative at the meeting to serve as a notary of the covenant.

Me: "Lord, I also see demons gathered there and that each of the demons is also a prince. Each demon also seems to be standing behind each one of these men."

Jesus: "What else do you see?"

Me: "The time had come for the project of the signed covenant to begin. It became official. Oh, this is not good, Lord."

Jesus: "Look carefully and what do you see?"

I saw a long anticipated loan or grant finally being released. They were celebrating as they knew that their time had finally come. I saw a small silver platter with a domed lid over it with a serving dish in the center of this table.

I then saw one of the original six leaders who was also the main executor and owned the largest of everything. This leader had the most expensive of everything and the most money. He reached out and lifted the dome cover off of the silver platter. Under this dome cover was a blue cut sapphire dreidel, which is a type of Jewish spinning top.

They passed a cup amongst themselves and each drank from the cup as they had the same goal of the destruction of Israel. The dome was placed back over the dreidel and another platter was brought in. It was the carcass of an eagle, but there was no dome over this platter. Instead, parsley and shredded money garnished this platter.

There were also silver coins over the eyes of the eagle along with blood and something else I could not recognize in the eagle's mouth. This 'eagle platter' was then moved to the center of the table as wine was again mixed with blood and the cup passed amongst them in celebration.

Me: "Lord, I do not like what I am seeing. What is in the mouth of the eagle?"

Jesus: "Look closely."

Me: "I saw a small stone shaped like a capstone or keystone. I saw something chiseled on it similar to engraving. It read, 'Mene..'", but I was having a difficult time focusing on this. However, I knew had seen this writing before in the Old Testament, the Book of Daniel, and recognized that it was 'the writing on the wall'.

Jesus: "Erin, the fifth chapter of Daniel is important."

Me: "I am sorry, Lord, but I will need to go back and study this."

Jesus: "You will, but do you now understand and see what has happened?"

Me: I began to cry. "Yes, Lord, I see it."

Jesus: "Now, go back to this desert land. What do you see?"

I saw a land that was birthed originally from the Promised Land. I saw a safe and flourishing land that was happy and had promise.

Me: "It looked perfect."

Jesus: "Now look closer."

I saw men coming from many lands over many waters at the inception of America. I saw it in the Lord's hand originally and that each of these men had brought small seeds with them. Each of these small seeds represented certain things that actually defiled or chipped away at the landscape.

I saw a good church, but then a seed had turned it sour. I saw a good farm, but then a seed had caused bad harvests. I saw children, but then a seed that caused illness. These images of the bad seeds went on and on.

Jesus: "Do you not see the slow patient demise of this good land? Did they not turn to idols as they stopped coming to Me?"

I then saw the worship of all things in America and that this had grown worse and worse every year.

Me: "Lord, I too have worshiped these things over You at times. Please forgive me."

Jesus: "You are forgiven. In 2012, and just ten days ago, permission was now granted. Prior to this, all the decay was slow and subtle, yet hidden in plain sight. Evil had begun to descend on this territory, but now look."

I saw men coming across many waters to the USA again, but this time it was for its destruction. He flipped scenes from a purer and simpler time to the modern day practice wherein the USA is literally now in Baal worship. However, each person had different idols in their homes to worship, wherein some worshiped human bodies, some cars, others money and others children.

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am guilty as I too have done this."

I then saw the years that I had spent in pursuit of the perfect body. I had become a worshiper of myself. I had become self-focused, self-assured and self-involved.

Me: This was hard for me to see. "Stop, please."

Jesus: "Erin, you have now removed these and these were only brought to your attention because these idols were the 'berm' that kept you from Me. I am jealous for you and these things once divided your focus away from Me. Do you see now?"

Me: It was a light bulb moment. "Yes!"

Jesus: "If you had entered in earlier, you would be in this promised land."

I did not fully understand what He was saying as I thought I was residing here already.

Me: "Where this sick land is heading, I do not want to follow."

Jesus: "Erin, you have crossed the bridge and you no longer dwell in this land."

Me: "My children too?"

Jesus: He smiled and laughed. "Yes, Erin, and your children too, so please do not worry."

Me: "Lord, can I cross the bridge and gather up those that might like to come, but do not know how to?"

Jesus: "All is set forth and you are about to complete your journey."

I then saw a huge group of people all crossing the bridge. Some were standing up and coming from the banks of the river. Others had come from the market place. The bridge was new and strong and able to withstand the weight of the crossing.

Me: "I do not understand. You said that I am over here."

Jesus: "Yes, you are here and your children too."

Me: "Lord, I am confused by the order."

Jesus: "Remember these ten."

We returned to the conference room in the city with the tallest building.

Me: "Lord, do each of these ten leaders their own kingdoms? Are these kingdoms physical?"

Jesus: "Not necessarily, Erin, you need to read the Scriptures again."

Me: "What of the properties around Israel?"

Jesus: "Yes, these are lands, but you are thinking in terms of land as being the only type of property. Is the owner of the land necessarily wealthy?"

Me: "I am confused."

He then showed me a small property that had no real property, yet the man produced a huge harvest. He then showed me another man with a vast amount, miles and miles, of desert land, but nothing of great value to do with it and he was poor.

Jesus: "Does being a land owner mean you have power today?"

Me: "No, but rather to have money to control others is now the greater power. You can have land and still be a slave."

Jesus: He smiled. "Good. Do you now understand?"

Me: "I think so, yes, but who are these ten kings?"

Jesus: "Do you not see and is it not written? Erin, this is not a new revelation."

Me: "Lord, will what I am seeing happen very soon?"

Jesus: "Yes, but nothing is required of you. Hold fast, take courage and be strong for the battle is Mine. The enemy will confound himself and My Father's land will not be ruled by these. Pray for Israel, watch for the signs and remember the table.

"The first platter was moved to the side and there was then the second platter. For now, this is the focus. The second platter is to be brought down in order to lessen the strength and break the spirits of the first platter.

"Do not worry though for you will not suffer shame and each day holds value. Love and comfort exude My light so that others might know that there is a good land to cross over to.

"Daniel gave a prayer in the second chapter. This is a good time to be thankful and seek Me always. I am here with you and you are loved."

He reached over and kissed my forehead as my guardian angel came up to receive me. Jesus pounded His chest over His heart twice and smiled at me with great love. In return, I curtsied and placed my hand over my heart.

He turned and walked over to the Balustrade where there were people gathered wearing white robes. One of these people turned and waved to me. My guardian angel placed the cloth on my head again.

Guardian angel: "It is still raining and you must take cover. Erin, what is in your pocket?"

I reached down and pulled out a plumb line.

Guardian angel: "This is your measure and there are signs. You need to go back to Zechariah and study this. Find all of the references in the Word with regards to 'beautiful are the feet who preach good news'. You should also read what is prior and what comes after these verses. Wherever you find these verses, notice again the order as this is a lamp to the path and a light to the feet.

"All of Heaven declares His glory and even the moon rejoices. Even when hidden, all reveals His majesty and all is a signpost. Did you not read Haggai? Jeremiah 50 holds a marker. He has spoken of Daniel and this is important. Is there not the 'writing on the wall'? What of the ten leaders?

"It is a good time to go to Daniel, is it not? However, do not just focus just on the seventh chapter for information on the ten leaders, but also focus on what is coming as a promise to you. Is He not coming on the clouds?

"There is also a good lesson from Zephaniah. There is much food that He has shown you. Make this plain on tablets and remember Psalm 45. Remember that His requirement is for you all to love one another. He speaks to a pure heart and asks for your obedience to Him. Go after His heart in the same manner as He is after yours.

"Psalm 46 has a nugget that says, 'God is within her, she will not fall, God will help her at the break of day.' Is this not great news? You are loved by the King and you dwell in the Good Land. Pray for Israel and do not forget to do so."

Dream over...

This dream was a continuation of a previous dream and the enemy has fought hard to keep me from this dream as there is so much information here. We are already seeing, or have seen, some of what He is showing us.

Much love and many blessings...Sparrow

Dream 037 – The Shipwreck and Navigation

Tuesday, January 8, 2013

08-05-2016, 04:27 PM

I was immediately at the Portal and my guardian angel and the greeter angel welcomed me. In harsh contrast to what I experienced over the last few days on Earth, I loved seeing their warm and inviting smiles.

As I turned to look for Jesus again, I noticed that I once again was thirty inches tall and a toddler. When I saw Him, I ran straight to Him.

Me: "Lord!"

He smiled that beautiful smile and opened His arms to hug me. When I reached Him, He immediately gathered me up in His arms.

Jesus: "I am so glad to see you. Where have you been?"

Me: "I have been in trouble, Hayah, and things have been very hard as it seems that I am now under constant attack. I cannot stand against everything on my own. I do not have anyone to come along side me and help. I am..."

Jesus: "Be still." He rested my head on His left shoulder. "It is okay as you are with Me here now."

Me: "Father, I cannot take much more as I am tired and things are coming against me from all directions. There is fighting and tension in the air everywhere and I can no longer cut through all of this."

Jesus: "Did I not tell you that things were going to get worse? Did I not remind you of this every time?"

He smiled with such love while I turned to sit on His lap as He spoke.

Me: "Yes, I have seen this in advance as you have shown me what to do, but..."

Jesus: "No, Erin, there is no need to add a 'but' here? A 'but' would mean that you have lack or there is something missing, correct?"

Me: "Lord, but in this case the 'but' is me simply being in uncertainty and in uncharted waters."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, now let's see what we can find out about this."

He took my hand and I transformed from a child into a Bride as we walked to the Balustrade. I again saw the angel with a plumb line in one hand and a hurricane oil lamp lantern in the other.

Jesus then brought me to the edge of the Balustrade and I saw the Earth rotating. I saw ships from about fourteen hundred years after the resurrection of Jesus. I saw a ship's captain in front of a king requesting sponsorship to sail to uncharted waters. The captain was granted permission and was given all that he needed to begin his journey.

At the point from where I was standing, I could see that a portion of the world thought that the Earth was flat and would suddenly drop off into the abyss if someone ventured too far. However, another portion of the world thought that the Earth might instead be round.

I then was able to look into one half of the minds of the crew and they were terrified because they thought that they were setting sail for death and believed that they would not be returning.

In contrast, I saw the other half of the crew dreaming of a land with gold, jewels, spices and trading and were then equating this to money, bounty and honor. In their minds, they would soon be returning wealthy beyond belief.

Jesus: "So, Erin, what do you see?"

Me: "I believe I am seeing explorers in the late 1400s setting sail to the America's."

Jesus: "Yes, but now you are seeing even more. What is this?"

Me: "I see half of the crew believing for an abundant journey and the other half believing they are sailing into their deaths. The half that see their deaths seem to have no hope at all."

Jesus: "Hmm, yes, and yet both are traveling on the same ship are they not? Now look."

I saw several days go by with no wind to move the ships. Then, at night, I saw astronomers mapping their course for the route based on the stars. They saw the markers in the sky and were charting the course in advance of the next day.

Me: "Why rely so heavily on the stars as their maps? I do not understand. We do not need the stars today to chart our course, do we?"

Jesus: "While mostly true, the stars are constant and the patterns still remain for the most part unchanged today. My Father has created them from the beginning as a form of constant markers."

I then saw a small and modern yacht out in the ocean relying on modern equipment that had become useless after a power outage. Without power, I saw that they had no sonar, no communication and no light.

The captain was left completely in the dark as modern captains no longer needed to know how to map the stars, or so he had thought. He was relying on man-made items for directions which relied on man-made power.

Jesus: "There is one thing that remains constant in this situation."

He then pointed up and I instantly saw that the stars were in the exact formation as when the explorers had set sail several hundred years earlier.

Me: "Lord, I am not a star person and I received a D grade in college astronomy. Astronomy was beyond me. I found astronomy interesting, but it was beyond me."

Jesus: "So you are admitting to Me that you had the entire map and system right in front of you, yet you did not see the teachable moment? You were not opening yourself up to further observation or study."

Me: Suddenly I realized I was getting a gentle rebuke with my lesson. "Yes, Lord, I lacked wisdom than and I was only taking the class for a credit to graduate."

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, this is now in your past, but do you see the faith in these men here?"

He took me back to the visual of the ships and now I saw discouragement, fighting and a loss of hope. I saw men who actually began to panic and going mad. I saw them drinking sea water and hallucinating as the wine and spirits had gone dry.

I was seeing the actual history lesson as live as if it was today. Indeed, I was receiving a divine view from the Lord Himself. I saw that one of the ships had left the group of ships completely.

I then saw that another of the ships had also begun to break away from the group. The ships were now heading in different directions and were no longer staying together in a group.

Me: "Lord, they are so close to the America's. Where are these other ships going?"

Jesus: "Away from the other group. This is like a mutiny and this is the same as today and will be same as the pattern for tomorrow."

I knew He was referring to an even deeper layer here.

Me: "But, Lord, they are so close."

As I said this, I suddenly realized that I was receiving a great study on attitudes with the use of the word, 'but'. I shook my head and began to laugh at the realization. Jesus reached over and gently hugged me as He read my thoughts.

Jesus: "Erin, you are becoming sharper and wiser, are you not?"

Me: "Perhaps as I obviously still need more help and direction."

Jesus: Smiling. "Now, let's look at Paul and his voyage as this was similar to the discovery of the America's in many ways."

Immediately, I was seeing an open vision verse 13 in Acts 27. I saw a ship being battered by an epic storm and tossed about with waves coming over the sides. Men were throwing cargo overboard into the water to lighten the ship and hopefully keep it from sinking.

Jesus: "Erin, now what do you see in the sky at this point? What is their map or course?"

I looked up and saw no map as there was nothing to see. The waves were too high and the sky was covered and it had now been this way for days without a visible marker.

Me: "Lord, they do not have the stars to chart."

From my viewpoint above, I saw that the stars had not changed. However, from the men's vantage point, their map was gone as it was covered by the dark storm.

Jesus: "Yes, but what else is happening?"

I then saw utter hopelessness. I saw Paul trying to encourage the men as they were now starving.

Me: "They are getting a lesson in faith as, from their viewpoint, it all seems dismal."

Jesus: "What else do you see?"

I looked and saw an angel of the Lord visiting Paul the night before the storm came in order to let them all know what was soon going to happen. In other words, Paul was being told of the storm prior to it occurring so that the crew would prepare for it.

Me: "The angel is telling Paul that no lives will be lost during the storm."

Jesus: "How long after what the angel said did things come to pass?"

I suddenly saw the same beautiful large Bible as before appear. The angel opened it to Acts. As the Lord looked at the pages, the Words became virtual images to me. He pointed for me to read the Words. As I was reading the Words, they started to become illuminated in gold as my eyes scanned the verses. One verse stood out.

Me: "It says that this was later and on the fourteenth night."

Jesus: "Paul was instructed, prior to boarding the ship, that this would happen. It was winter, was it not?"

I looked and realized that this was a massive, cold and brutal storm. The crew had actually previously ignored Paul's warning and decided to board the ship despite the warning.

Me: "This is difficult to watch, Lord. I see men now very angry and wanting to jump ship as they are afraid."

Jesus: "Erin, this section of Scriptures contains layers of information that you have been searching for. What are you seeing now?"

Then I saw certain things stand out to me beyond normal that were being illuminated to me. This was curious to me.

Me: "The verse, 'On the fourteenth night' stands out and the fact that it was now midnight. The water was one hundred and twenty feet deep and then ninety feet deep. I noticed that the water kept getting shallower by thirty feet at a time. I noticed that there were four anchors cast.

"I then see that there were prayers for daylight and that they broke bread and took communion together. There were 276 men on board in total and they threw the grain into the sea as they cut the four anchors. I do not understand what I am seeing, Lord, as Nor'easters usually do not occur in October?"

Jesus: "Erin, this depends upon where your reference point is. Did the angel give you something?"

Me: "Yes."

I pulled out the plumb line that the angel gave me before. He knew I had it, of course.

Jesus: "Now, let's look again at the markers."

The clouds covered this, but above them I saw a moon barely visible along with some stars. I saw a bright star from before along with two other stars that also stood out. It looked similar to the same formation that I had seen at the pyramids, but perhaps slightly earlier than the ten o'clock position.

Me: "Lord, I am like that modern day yacht person as I have no clue what these markers are. I need help here."

Jesus: "Do you still not understand? Erin, read the Word as everything is written right here for everyone? Does the Word also not say that even the Heavens display My glory?"

He then pointed above me and I saw an alignment of the Earth, the sun, the moon and various stars. He could tell that I had questions on what I was seeing.

Me: "Is this now, Lord, or was this then?"

Jesus: "Both, Erin. Remember, does history not repeat and is there not a pattern?"

Me: "Yes."

He pointed back over to the ship and the 276 men on board.

Jesus: "I want you to know that you are loved and that great care has been taken. All of these men were saved and not one hair was harmed. Erin, you were made for a time such as this and this is a remarkable time in history."

As He spoke the word 'remarkable' it was illuminated in the air and the part 'mark' remained illuminated in gold.

Jesus: "Your very life and those around you specifically were chosen by Me for this time. Now take the time to read these markers. When this event happened to Paul, word spread. The signs that this actually happened were the broken pieces of the ship and men being washed ashore.

"It was a miracle that was even for the sake of Paul too. This story was eventually recorded and you are here today reading this written record of history. Erin, this is all hidden in plain sight."

He put His arm around me and began to walk me back toward the Gate.

Jesus: "Now, go and write this plainly for did I not also show you many times about the five inches of snow in Jerusalem? Did I tell you to watch Israel? Did this not happen? Do you think I would take you this far to forsake you now?"

Me: "No, Lord, no."

I was receiving the lesson of my life right now from the very mouth of Jesus. I was astounded and in shock. When He sensed my state of amazement, He reached over to hug me and then held me to His chest.

Jesus: He kissed my forehead. "You are loved and treasured by Me. Remember to be strong and take courage as love is coming down. You are to look for the signs even though it seems like there is thick cloud cover and no beacon as I am there and I am here always."

Me: "I will see you again first, right?"

Jesus: He smiled and hugged me again. "Erin, this is a mystery as I will always find you and you will see me again. All you have to do is call out and I will come to you."

He then put my hand on His chest and I felt His heart. He reached down and brought my hand to His lips. I then curtsied with my hand over my heart and we both laughed.

My guardian angel came up to us and Jesus handed me over into his care. As I looked back, I saw the men gathering again with Jesus at the Balustrade. I saw the one who seemed to know me wave at me and I waved back and began to cry.

Guardian angel: "This was one of your greatest and clearest appointments yet as you were given markers. Notice now the clarity and the details. Now you know to go to Acts, then Thessalonians and then to Revelations. Now, look to the faith of the New Testament prophets and what they saw as they took much care. Now go back in history to see the markers and the patterns."

My guardian angel became so comforting as he knew that he had just gone through these battles with me.

Guardian angel: "Erin, remember that you are loved, cared for and provided for. When these attacks come, recognize your enemy and do not ignore the signs. You have been in training up to this point, but now you are being readied for war.

"Erin, the Lord recognizes that you have let your guard down, so you must now stay strong in the Lord and rest only in Him. Please go back to Psalms 23, 45, 46 and 84 and remember how you are loved and treated. Remember the 276 people on the ship with Paul and that not even a hair was harmed on any of them."

The angel reached down into His robe and held out my hand. There was the plumb line again, but this time there was also a tiny mustard seed. As I stood there, I felt something land on my shoulder. I looked and it was the beautiful dove with silver and gold from the path.

Angel: Smiling. "Remember the gifts. It is okay to fight, but above all else you are requested to love. This is your greatest weapon and His requirement. When you are stormed and battered, be still and love in all things.

Remember that there is no love without forgiveness and you must do this so you will be missed when the Lord returns for you. Let His face shine upon you in your coming and going."

Dream over...

I always felt that the sign of snow on the path in the first dream series was significant. However, there was actually snow forecasted in Israel and in Jerusalem no less! I thought snow there right now would be nearly impossible based on the fact that it is a rare occurrence and the last such snowfall was now over seven years ago.

However, when I saw the headline, 'Five inches of snow expected', I was elated. This forecast was for Jerusalem and was soon to happen just as promised by Jesus as one of my signs that I was actually hearing from Him.

My fleece was soon to be fulfilled and this is a great cause of celebration, not just for me but for all that read these dreams and visions.

Love and blessings...Sparrow

Dream 038 – The Pharaoh and Albania

Friday, January 11, 2013

08-05-2016, 04:33 PM

During my three day fast that ended just yesterday, I did not hear much from the Lord. As a result, I began to stress as my afflictions in every area of my life seemed to be ramping up even more. Finally, I started crying last night and it finally turned into outright weeping.

At this point, I was absolutely exhausted. I finally ate something and phoned a dear sister in Christ. As we spoke about the Lord and what He might be doing, I suddenly became energized as if I was getting a second wind.

I stayed up even later than I had expected, both in prayer and doing laundry. This is when I heard the Holy Spirit finally say to me, "Erin, it is time to rest and dream."

I had a feeling I would receive another dream, but since it has been so difficult for me to post recently, I thought He might instead need to call in other dreamers in order to hand over His call from this increasingly tired sparrow since I know that there are many sparrows.

As I also know that His outpouring is great when we fast, I had many goals for my extreme fast. I wanted to pray for Israel as I have had an urgent call to do this now. I wanted to pray for the outpouring of Jesus and His supernatural anointing over my friends and fellow watchers so that they can minister to the lost during this time period and for the upcoming season.

I wanted to pray for a sign of confirmation that these dreams are from Him and were for this time, along with greater clarity and discernment from Him. I have been under truly brutal personal attack right now and therefore wanted to pray for extra covering for me and my children.

I wanted to pray for supernatural strength and joy and specifically for people needing miracles, healing and comfort. I also wanted to pray for love and forgiveness towards those who hate me.

In the end, the results of my extreme fast were, well, extreme! Israel received five inches of snow, which was the Lord's special gift, a miracle and special fuel for me to continue with the fast. When I first started the dreams, I knew that five inches of snow meant something and I had prayed that it would be specifically for Jerusalem.

Ever since then, I have had my computer set to watch Jerusalem's weather wherein just last week it was 68 degrees Fahrenheit with no chance of snow. Jerusalem receiving these five inches of snow was huge for me and was one of my biggest fleeces that I was actually hearing from Him. This snowfall had essentially fully answered two of my prayer requests.

I was under severe attack during the fast, but I endured despite the attacks. As a result, it seems that God has granted a breakthrough for some of the people that I had been praying for. During the fast, He also continued to give me dreams and they were even clearer than before.

The Lord is truly gracious above all and today I have great joy and strength as well. Sometimes we do not see the effects of prayers and fasting, but we can be assured that it means something in the spirit realm against strongholds. Fasting is like a mighty sword and I know that it can cut the enemy down.

I just know that the Lord will soon answer my fast requests with even greater understanding in the upcoming days. The Lord granted me a gift hidden in Revelation 3:14, but also in Revelation 4. The fast also shed more light on 'why me?' and what led to me being 'chosen' for these dreams.

It also explains some other points. First of all, and before my trials, I was lukewarm in my faith and materialistic. However, and as per Revelations 3:17, I needed to not rely on the gold of this world for my satisfaction.

Instead, I needed to purchase the gold refined in fire from Heaven so I could become rich, have white clothes to wear and to cover my nakedness. This meant that putting my investment stock or money in Heaven meant me going through the refining fire.

Now that I have, I am truly wealthy beyond the riches of this world and I am now clothed in white and seated in Heavenly places with Jesus. This is for all of us to receive and He showed me this in Revelation 3:18 and that the salve in the eyes is used to be able to see clearer and this is what the angels put in my eyes in Heaven.

He showed me Revelation 3:19 wherein He said that, "Those I love, I rebuke and discipline." This is what was required of me for greater revelation. He showed me Revelation 3:20, "Here I am, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him and him with me."

Through my struggles, I heard His voice, listened and entered in through the door in greater communion and fellowship with Him and now I will eat at His table. He showed me in Revelation 3:21, "To him who overcomes, I will give the right to sit with me on my throne, just as I overcame and sat down with my Father on His Throne."

In Revelation 3:22, "He who has an ear, let him hear." He was showing me my place as an overcomer. No matter what, I was keeping my sights on Him and no longer the things of this world. Then in Revelation 4, Jesus showed me the open door to Heaven and said, "Come up here and I will show you what must take place first."

I was then in the Spirit and there before me was the Throne. What this did for me, the gift of Revelation 3:14 and even Revelation 4 was to help me understand the suffering and the refining that I went under was to bring me into such close communion with the Lord.

I no longer desire anything of this world, but instead I only desire Him and our Home in Heaven. The door was now open and I could walk through the door and write everything down 'plainly'. I think that the closer that all of us enter into communion with Him the nearer we come to that door.

To those that are left behind and might understand this later, He is righteous above all things and He loves us above all else. The question for you and all of us is do we truly love Him the same way?

Dream begins...

This morning I was up at the top of the Portal Gate. I stood there in complete amazement as my Lord was in front of me in full glory. The angel at the Gate put the golden cream in my eyes so I could behold His glory.

Today I was burdened and battered as I had just come through the fire. After this fast, I was stripped of anything that would make me feel greater than I am. I was standing broken and humbled, emptied of myself and feeling of little worth.

As the angel wiped the golden cream from my eyes, I noticed that I was adorned in my beautiful white robe. I had a single gold bracelet with a single beautiful beryl stone. My feet were bare, except these jeweled ribbons that looked like a roman sandal, but Heavenly. My hair was as wet as if I had just come through a torrential downpour of rain. My robe was also wet.

I stood at the edge of the great Sea of Glass. The Sea was deep, yet shallow enough to see clearly into its depth. On the top of the sapphire Sea, there was a layer or catch of shimmering gold. To look down into this Sea, you see the color of sapphires, yet to look toward His Throne the Sea instead appears as a Sea of Gold.

I saw Jesus before me as He stood up from His Throne. He was in His white illuminated robe and His hair was white with silver and gold, like a blaze of fire. From my vantage point, His eyes were the color of crystal blue-green with what appeared to be fire in them.

There was a large halo of illuminated gold around Him and the surrounding halo was a large band of emerald green light. I began to drop to my knees in worship.

Angel: "Erin, behold, you are standing on Holy Ground."

I realized that I was now coming to Him in a different way. I was scared, overjoyed, peaceful and broken all at the same time. My guardian angel and the greeter angel brought me to my feet and I began to move over the Sea of Glass towards Him.

When we arrived at the Throne, the angels released me in front of Him and I instantly dropped to my knees and put my head at His feet in worship and wept. Then I heard a voice like rushing waters and music coming from His mouth. His Scepter came forward in His right hand.

Jesus: "Erin, lay down your burdens and requests."

I laid every battle before Him. As I did, the giants I had been facing on Earth suddenly became incredibly small. There were five of these battles in total and I laid each one down in front of Him and each one made me weep. Each one of these battles had come with a sharp stabbing pain to my heart.

My tears were streaming as Jesus extended His Scepter towards me. I reached up to touch the top as I stood to my feet. As I did this, Jesus became more like my Father and my 'Hayah'. This seemed to make Him become even easier to behold and be in communion with and He even seemed to speak in a more familiar voice.

Jesus: "Erin, look behind you."

When I saw what was there, I once again started weeping. I saw the seven angels appointed over me for this season, although I knew that there were even more angels. However, these were the angels that I recognized, wherein my guardian angel was the main angel from my birth and he had an assistant. These two angels knew me best and had been with me the longest as they had each been appointed at my birth.

For my birthday in January of 2012, the Lord revealed to me during a dream that this would be my year of Jubilee. He showed me four angels and reminded me that He would come on the heels of these. These angels had names and they were Xavier, Beryl, Tenney and Phillipi.

Then I saw another angel that I had just come to know and I recognized him as Breakthrough from the ladder. In my extreme brokenness, Breakthrough was sent specifically to make sure I came before the Lord and was a true miracle.

These angels were of the first rank and behind them I saw an archangel on a horse, but I did not know which angel he was. It would be hard to believe that it would be Michael, but I suppose he could have been.

This archangel would be the lead angel and behind the archangel I saw even more angels with wings and a few hundred others. I recognized many of them from the dome and they were battered, some with broken swords. I saw battle marks on their clothes and faces, yet they glowed with peace and victory. I stood there in complete awe as I dropped to my knees and wept.

Me: "Hayah, Lord, who am I that You would do this for me? Who am I, and who are we to You, that You would do all of this?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you not know your place by now? Do you not feel what is on your very head?"

I reached up and above my wet hair was a crown. I did not know what it looked like, yet I felt it and I understood. I wept.

Me: I truly had no words. "Hayah, thank You, thank You!"

Jesus: "Erin, Look at Me. What do you see in My eyes?"

After I had seen Him in His glory, I did not feel worthy to look Him in His eyes. He drew me up closer to Him and, at first, I saw these welcoming, kind and sympathetic eyes.

However, then I saw myself reflected in them as when I saw my reflection in the River of Life with Him beside me. Tears began to stream down my face. Then I saw beyond my reflection and I saw my difficult battles. I also saw my grief and my discouragement.

Me: "I see myself during these battles and I grow weaker as the battle rages. I see that I am going inward and not all of my burdens are being brought before You."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "I see some that I am taking to You and some that I am literally packing and taking with me. I see them as luggage or baggage."

Jesus: "So, you are carrying your burdens with you as if you are going on a trip, correct?"

I just realized what I had done.

Me: "I did not give you all five of these battles this week."

Jesus: "So why did you lay them down now? Was it because the baggage was finally getting too heavy for you?"

He smiled and laughed as I laughed and shook my head.

Me: "Yes, it was too heavy to bear when I became emptied and weak. Then I had no choice but to lay it down to You."

Jesus: "What added to your burdens this week?"

Me: "I heard from fellow Christians that if these dreams were truly from You then I should have encampments of angels everywhere and that I should not be enduring these struggles. They said that I should be free to dream and the dreams should be clearer."

Jesus: "Erin, do you still doubt who the Author and Finisher of your story is? Am I not sitting here on this Throne? Has My Father in Heaven not given Me full authority?"

Me: "Oh no, please forgive me. Lord, I know that these dreams are from You."

Jesus: "Yet you allowed the seed of doubt to be planted in your garden. Did I not create the garden and nourish it from the very River of Life? Do not doubt for you are in an epic battle. If you are being battered, then why does My Word say be of good cheer?"

Me: "I am unclear."

Jesus: "Because you stand now before Me and the outcome is victorious, is it not? Do you now have peace? You have something on your head, daughter."

I reached up to touch my Crown. I realized that I had already become part of Heaven and that I am Home already.

Jesus: "Now, let's have a lesson in war."

He took my hand and wrapped my arm in His. He walked me over to the Balustrade and I saw the angel holding the scales of judgment with his left hand and the beautiful jeweled Bible with his right hand. The Lord took me to the edge of the Balustrade.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

I was taken back to the days of Moses in Egypt and I saw the Pharaoh enslaving the Israelites and forcing them into hard labor. Even women and children were collapsing while working under these extreme conditions.

Me: "This is worse than what I imagined and this seems even much worse than the Bible even states."

Jesus: "Now look."

He turns my attention to the Bible as it opened to Exodus 6. As I read, the Words began to be illuminated.

Me: "I see God hearing the cries of the Israelites and declaring that You will bring them out of slavery."

Jesus: "Good, but what else?"

Me: "I see Pharaoh getting angry and inflicting more punishment and burdens."

Jesus: "Now look."

Then I saw in the courts of Pharaoh the battle with Moses and Aaron. I saw their Heavenly miracles against the Pharaoh's best sorcerers, magicians and prophets. Then I saw the punishment on the slaves getting worse and the Pharaoh was deceiving them for why the punishment was getting worse.

I saw Moses and Aaron having encouragement that the Lord had answered their prayers. Then right before they thought they would be delivered, things would change and the Pharaoh would again become defiant.

Jesus: "Was the Pharaoh defying the Israelites or was he defying the Great I AM?"

Me: "Both"

Jesus: "No, Erin, Pharaoh was only defying God. This is as you see it and was an epic battle over territory."

Me: "But they were not fighting over land here?"

Jesus: "Yes and no, but think of it like this. The Earth was originally created by My Father. Therefore, is this not actually His land?"

Me: I smiled as I realized this perspective made so much sense. "Of course."

Jesus: "My Father had selected a chosen people so are they not also His property? Are you not also His property?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "The Pharaoh knew this back then and it is now the same today. Let's look at Israel. Are these not still My people and is Israel not still My chosen land?"

I looked down and I saw that Israel's borders had been much larger and had even expanded over the Jordan, Syria and the surrounding areas. As He showed me this, I watched the land shrink even smaller and more recently even more.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "I see that even the designated area of Israel has shrunk down to what it is today. I see the land gradually being chipped away."

Jesus: "Now look."

I then saw the people scattered all over the globe. I saw the Israelites being divided and picked off one by one to be annihilated.

Me: "Oh, Lord, this is difficult to watch."

Jesus: "Now look. What do you see?"

I then saw many people being called home to the Promised Land. I then saw angels gathering them back home after the battle and they were free.

Me: "I see this happening almost a generation ago."

Jesus: "Now is this not a pattern from history? Look at the patterns of war wherein the enemy divides and conquers. Remember when I showed you Albania? I was a Shepard with a flock and a lamb had become separated from the flock.

“Did the wolves not wait for that opportunity to attack and destroy the lamb? Is it not easiest to pick off the scattered sheep one by one rather than when the flock is united with the Shepard’s rod over it? If the pattern of warfare repeats itself, did we not see this happen to you?”

Then I saw a Heaven’s eye view of my week. I saw that I was well protected when I handed the Lord my burdens. When I trusted Him, I was free to roam about unharmed.

I then saw outside of the business where I work and saw demons all around and with some inside. They had dominion over the space, but I was protected in my area. The angels were encamped around me, but when the battle got worse and I was blindsided, I actually saw in the spirit realm.

I saw a head prince over the region in which I live grant authority to the dominions or resident evil to use powerful tools to open doors to enter into attack me. The dark forces actually had a reward system, like points from the head dark prince for special prizes.

There was a high bounty on my head coming straight from the dark powers. I saw my angels battling and I saw victory, but I did not bring everything to the Lord. I gave Him the big things, but I still insisted on carrying the small things myself.

I saw that this not only weakened me and led me to more attacks, but it also weakened the army of the Lord over me. I saw legal entry whereby the chief demon could attack openly. I then saw several going to attack my children, then my home, my finances and finally my health.

Me: “Lord, I do not understand why You did not step into save me? You allowed...”

Jesus: He quickly shushed me. “Erin, yes, I allowed this so you could see what the enemy does here. This will help you and others understand their strategies. Now besides this being an illustration in enemy warfare then and now, let us look at how a mighty warrior Bride left herself vulnerable for attack.”

I then saw the order of what had happened to me at work. First, I was distracted and not able to focus on important tasks. I would pray, but it did not seem to work. Second, then I became scattered and off task and I was not accountable when clients called. I would pray and again nothing seemed to work and I did not believe that I heard any answers to my prayers for strength.

Third, then the clients became like wolves. I overcommitted to meet everyone's needs and I was becoming burdened since my prayers appeared to not be answered. So, I supposed that the first lesson was that I did not bring all of this to Jesus.

Fourth, then converging problems from everywhere beyond what I could even handle blindsided me while I was down. Again, I did not bring these problems to Jesus as I believed this was my just punishment for something I had done and my epic failure to meet the needs of everyone. This was then the second lesson.

Fifth, I went on an extreme fast as I needed urgent answers and I needed to understand why my attacks were suddenly so severe. After this, I finally had a physical breakdown physically and laid all of my burdens down to Jesus.

Jesus: "Hmm, did you see anything here?"

Me: "Yes, I see exactly what I did. One open door gave way to all of the enemies' forces."

Jesus: "Yes. There is an opposite parable referring to sheep. Remember, the enemy, too is using the same patterns, only opposite. In a sheep's pen, when the gate is open one or two sheep go out and then quickly the other sheep follow. All of them go through that one gate and it is the same way with the enemy. One open door leads many through."

Me: "That makes me so mad, especially with my kids as I saw the demons fly off to their schools."

Jesus: "But, Erin, what happened? Where were you?"

Me: "I do not understand."

Jesus: "Did I not show you in advance that this was coming? Two dreams ago, did you not show others? Did you not expose the enemy's schemes and then somehow thought you could let your guard down even for a moment after doing so?"

"No, Erin, when you expose the enemy especially, this is the time to build up your ramparts and embattlements. After exposing the enemy, resting, and with your armor off no less, is simply not wise at all."

I then saw my week prior to this when the Lord had specifically led me to share my personal signs of upcoming attacks with my friends.

Me: "Yes, You prepared me and then I prepared others, but I did not fully prepare myself."

Jesus: "Now, let us review as this is important. Then we will go back to Egypt. Erin, this is what I saw. Now you tell Me what you see."

Me: "First, I did not keep my armor on. Second, I did not push through the battles with fervent prayer, thanksgiving and worship. Third, when I did not feel You were answering my prayers on demand, I stopped persevering and the attacks got worse.

"Fourth, I put the rest of my burdens in luggage and decided that it was best to keep some of this and figure out what to do on my own. Lord, I thought I was burdening You if I did not keep some of this for myself."

He began to laugh and shake His head.

Jesus: "Yes. Now this is the fifth, final and most important point. When you decided to become God instead of Me and decided to take these on by yourself, this is what happened. Now what did you just do here?"

I saw the entire scene before me as a massive amount of demons come straight at me when I 'played God'.

Me: "Oh, Lord, instead of giving authority to You, I gave myself authority. Lord, I was trying to 'micromanage' You.

He laughed so hard at this and then it seemed so funny to me as well.

Jesus: "Erin, you have authority over these if you give all of yourself over to Me. Your lack of faith because you did not see results right away is what brought you low. You stopped trusting Me and you did not anoint the thresholds of every part of your life.

"Erin, you must give it all to Me even if you are not receiving answers from Me immediately. As further instruction, even though you had not prepared your household fully, I still was going to deliver the victory to you by your own faith and love for Me. However, this also meant that My army would have to fight that much harder even though the victory would be won.

"This was the pivotal fatal decision you made when you quit coming to Me with everything. Then the angels became weakened and the enemy came through the gate. The wolves came in and you finally recognized now the severity of the attack as they converged on you. Then you were led to fast. Now look.”

I was still being battered during my three day extreme fast, but the Lord’s grace came through like a beacon in the storm and now I could see the light and had hope.

Jesus: “Now that was made more difficult than it needed to be, would you agree?”

Me: “Yes, this is hard to watch, but from your vantage point the attack seemed just and fair based on my actions.”

Jesus: “Yes and no as it is never okay for the enemy to hurt My Bride or My Sheep. This makes Me angry and there will be a day of judgment, but for now I must wait until My Father declares the time.”

Me: “Lord, It seems that things have become worse. I also feel my heart is no longer part of this Earth and I do not even belong here anymore.”

Jesus: “Things are right on schedule and there has been, and will continue to be, major enemy attacks. We will come back to this, but let us first go back to Egypt.”

I watched a battle in the Pharaoh’s court. The more the Lord came up against Pharaoh, the worse the punishment became for the Israelites.

Jesus: “Now what do you see?”

The Bible began to illuminate the plagues.

Me: “I see plagues being ordered.”

Jesus: “What do you see then?”

Me: “I see the final plague on the first born declared and then I see the Passover take place.”

Jesus: “Erin, what you are about to see will humble you, but do not look away. I promise there will be a breaking of the dawn.”

I saw the fourteenth day of the month. The lambs were slaughtered at twilight and I saw that midnight was illuminated again. Thresholds were being marked so that the angel of the Lord would ‘Passover’. Each household without the mark of the Blood of the Lamb had a dead child in it, from the least to the greatest.

I saw homes opening, mothers holding infants and fathers holding their sons. I heard wails of sadness that were so guttural it literally sickened me. Indeed, the weeping was so great that it rattled Heaven.

I saw citizens that were not even a part of Pharaoh's rebellion suffering with loss. This was perhaps the most graphic event besides the death of Jesus on the Cross at Golgotha that I had encountered to date in my visits.

I wept when I was both writing and typing this. I could not help what I had seen so I instead dropped to my knees at Jesus' feet and openly wept. I felt that the burden was just too great this time.

Jesus: "Erin, stop and look up."

I looked up at Him and He pointed behind me. There was the 'Nile'-like river and all of the children. However, I now noticed that there were also the Israelite children here and in the Father's care. I jumped up and I was crying for joy as I reached up and hugged Him.

Me: "Oh, Lord, You are so very good. I am so sorry I have ever doubted Your perfect plan as You make all things new."

Jesus: "Erin, do you not understand now, even today, that there is a great plan. Look."

He then turned and I saw the Israelites gathered under the dome as the surrounding countries coming against them. I saw punishment against those countries as a warning, but none would listen just like Pharaoh would not listen. Finally the Lord came down with His love for us.

Me: "Lord, this is soon."

Jesus: "There is a season. Soon, like in Exodus, I will need to make known the difference between these two groups."

I then saw in Egypt the separation between the Egyptians and His chosen people.

Jesus: "You will see the difference between what is Mine and what is theirs. The separation is necessary and it will bring about the gnashing of teeth to many. Many have been disillusioned. There will be a display of my miracles like no other time and will be closest to that of Exodus.

"However, some will still not acknowledge Me. Go deeply into Exodus here and you will see patterns repeated in history up until even now. Remember where are you now, Erin?"

I reached up and touched my Crown and looked at my robe.

Me: "I am here, but why am I all wet?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Did you not just come through a storm? Was there not both rain and snow? Did the angel not cover your head to remind you of the rain? Did you not see the snow?"

He was laughing and then I was shaking my head and laughing too.

Me: "Yes, yes and yes."

He smiled, gave me a welcoming hug again and kissed my forehead.

Jesus: "I am glad you are here. You are safe now."

Me: "Lord, did I miss the order or sequence? I feel that I missed something."

Jesus: He started to smile. "Remember patterns, not only in history, but also right before you. Other than Me or the Holy Spirit, is this not the best reference for you in all things? In Revelation, there are seals and trumpets, but are there not also Plagues?"

"Erin, in Revelations 3:14, I have given the largest gift and sign to you. Look, do you not see the very image of you in these dreams right here? This is just one of the ways you will know that I am speaking, 'for I am about to do something in your days that you would not even believe even if you were told'.

"Now take heart and courage and go back to Exodus 6:6-8 to see what I will do. Do not be subjected to the cruel punishment from discouragement or lack of faith like you just endured."

He pointed to the Bible and more specifically to Exodus 6:9.

Jesus: "You are no longer a slave and are now free. You have been crowned and you are seated here, so forget the former things as there is much to do. Pray for Israel for they are about to be deceived and overcome. This will not be as expected and many will flee. There will be a great battle, but love is coming down. This is enough for now."

He smiled and hugged me as we walked back to the Portal.

Me: "I will never have enough of You. Now that I wear this Crown and I am seated here, can I not stay?"

He smiled and laughed as He tapped His heart with His hand and I bowed and placed my hand over mine. We continued to laugh.

Jesus: "Erin, you are here, so be encouraged as very soon it will be for eternity. Now write this plainly and remember that the day is hidden but in plain sight like the layers of Scriptures I have shown you. I will illuminate this to you now at lightning speed. You will just sit in awe and stand amazed."

Jesus then handed me over to my guardian angel. All of the angels were there and were kneeling before Him. I saw Breakthrough and the others, but He then showed me something else. I saw a group of my friends, seven to be exact.

They each had swords and were in full armor. Then I saw several thousand behind them and they were also in armor. As my hand reached out for my guardian angel, I suddenly had my full armor on as well. I laughed and I turned to Jesus and He smiled.

Jesus: "Did you think I did not see that there were others seeking Me too?"

Just then, I saw Jesus call forward another from my group of friends to discuss matters. I hugged my friend as he went by me and toward Jesus. Jesus transformed him and gave him a crown and took him to the Balustrade.

I knew that He would be taking each one of my friends forward with Him and giving them their crowns. I was so overjoyed that I was in tears. My friend stood at the Balustrade with Jesus looking over at the Earth. My friend then turned and looked at me and I smiled and waved at him for he had an appointment with the King too.

I looked at my other friends and I waved and turned back to my guardian angel.

Guardian angel: "Now is the time to look for clear signs as things will begin to move quickly. He spoke of Exodus and this is very important. Remember to also do something symbolic, yet very important, and mark your threshold with oil. This way, your property will be visible to the darkness.

"This is important as you go forward as it was not easy to watch you suffer this week. I was instructed by the Lord to obey, as were the others. Now you understand and you will be prepared. Remember, too, in John 10 that you are the sheep and must read this.

"In Zechariah 10, you will also see what the Lord will do for His sheep. In Psalms 23, you are to take comfort as there will be a great separation soon. You see this also in Zechariah 11, but it began in Exodus 6 that a separation is visible. This is important, so please take note of this.

"He wants me to remind you that you are greatly loved and that Psalm 45 is your place. There is now a review of Matthew 24 so please look at the pattern. He has shown you a gift in Revelation 3:14 as special layers are here. Remember that it is still raining."

He pulled out my covering and placed it over my head. He was a beautiful and strong angel with such an amazing smile.

Guardian angel: "Remember also that in 1 John 5:13 and beyond there are some key verses here that should give you extra strength and remind you of your seat here. Be blessed, pray and watch for Israel."

He then handed me a plumb line and a mustard seed.

Dream over...

More will be happening very quickly and there is a great need for protection now. Be blessed and remember to pray for Israel.

Much love and many blessings...Sparrow

Dream 039 – In the Presence of His Glory

Tuesday, January 15, 2013

08-05-2016, 04:44 PM

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I was instantly before Jesus, kneeling and weeping at the base of the Throne. He was in His robe and was wearing His Crown. He was sitting about ten feet above me on the Throne. He stepped down from the platform and reached for my hands with His hands.

Jesus: "Erin, do you trust Me? When you look back through the dreams, are there not layers of love? Each dream has parables, signs and wonders and each line up, not only with the season, but in advance of it too.

"Each of these dreams brings you closer to Me, reminds you that we are in the last days, points to My Word and gives glory to Me, provides a call to action and portrays spiritual events in advance as well as in current time. All of this is meant to specifically prove that these dreams are indeed from Me.

"I would dare even a scholar to answer how a full time working mother of three with ongoing afflictions could have the clarity, planning and imagination to come up with these dreams in such rapid succession.

"Indeed, My Father did not choose a scholar or a priest, but instead chose you so that no one can say 'ah ha, she is a scholar' or 'ah ha, she is a priest.' You are not able to account or boast of anything as even your very computer can be seized and, other than emails from friends and the letters of the dreams, not one ounce of research can be found.

"Erin, one of the reasons you were chosen for scribing these dreams is that you remember your place. Many of the others that had been called have not remained humble when experiencing similar visits here as they did not remember their place."

Me: "Lord, please forgive me. I just do not want You to be disappointed with me."

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, do not keep entering back into the enemy's schemes of self-condemnation. This is an act of self-governing. Are you trying to micromanage Me? Erin, I know every hidden desire, I have seen the crushing blows, I know the depth of your heart and I have even searched its chambers. Did I not also even perform heart surgery and a transplant with you?"

Me: "Lord, I give myself to You as I am Your Bride and Yours first. You touched my heart and breathed life into me. Therefore I am Yours, Lord, so please do as You wish with my life."

He reached over and hugged me. As I rested my head on His chest, I could hear His thundering heart.

Jesus: "Erin, you touch My heart and I have a gift for you. I have a gift for you that you would never imagine and one that will make your heart glad. Are you ready for what is to come next?"

Me: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "Good, then let's go as we have much to do."

This was odd as I was now in a dream within a dream. I heard a voice as I woke up in this 'secondary' dream.

Jesus: "Erin, come to Me."

I was running barefoot on a darkened path with fresh snow on it. I could faintly see that I was wearing a two piece robe, wherein one piece was white like my Heavenly robe and the other piece was a smock of blue over the white robe. This robe seemed like something a maiden would wear perhaps a thousand years ago or so.

At first I was running from something, but now I had gone into a full sprint with fear behind it. I felt like I was being chased or hunted by something. At the end of the snowy path, I saw glory light through the Gate. Then I began to run to the glory as my running from something seemed to have led me to running toward the light.

It was cold on the path and felt about thirty degrees Fahrenheit or just below freezing. As I approached the light from the Gate, I suddenly felt warmth emanating from it. I was crying in fear at first, but as I came upon the Gate I now felt safe and had comfort.

Jesus: "Erin, come to Me as you are weary. I will give you rest."

I was almost at the Gate when I stopped and started weeping on the snow. Just then, I felt the presence of two angels, one on my right and the other on my left.

Angel: "Erin, it has been a long journey, but you are almost Home."

The angels then carried me the rest of the way through the Gate. I was now completely surrounded by the glory light of the Lord's presence. I had not encountered this fully before. I have had small glimmers of this glory, but never quite like this.

Jesus' presence was so bright and so becoming that my body simply could not contain it. His glory was just too great for me to be in the presence of. As I realized fully that I was in front of the Great God Jehovah and this was His Shekinah Glory, I became frightened.

However, this was not the same fear as what I had when I was running from whatever was on the path. Indeed, this was nothing like this at all.

Our Great God is like the sun and He could burn a man up with ease. Indeed, He could level anything in His path with just one breath. His power and might was so much larger than life that I knew that nothing could contain it.

I smiled as I thought about how He could have 'fit' into the Ark, never mind in all of Heaven. All that I know is that I am forever changed by His glory.

Angel: "You are now in the presence of the Almighty. Do not be afraid."

I was trembling with a holy fear as I lay completely down on the ground now. I somehow knew that the angels that were with me had wings even though I could not see them. Somehow I just knew that these angels were different and had wings.

These angels were different as they were personally attending to the Holy of Holies and were of the highest rank. The angels brought me up to my knees, but now I could not see at all.

I realized that being in His presence required me to be something different or greater than I am now and I knew that this was something I was not yet. While my eyes were not in pain from His light, this still required that the angels put the golden liquid on my eyes to see clearer.

Once this was completed, I then heard our Great Father God, Who is above all things and the Maker of all Creation speak to me.

Lord: "Erin, you are now standing on holy ground."

Though I was barefoot and my feet were dirty, as He spoke my feet had suddenly become clean. My blue outer smock was then instantly replaced by a pure white robe with no adornments that was simply beautiful.

I knew I was in my perfected body because there was translucence to my skin unlike any time in the dreams before this dream. While hard to describe, my skin was like a pearl for lack of a better earthly description.

I kept my head bowed even after the angels brought me fully to my feet. When I finally opened my eyes and looked down, I realized that my feet were not touching the ground at all as this was truly holy ground. I stood there trembling in His presence and I was even trembling as I write this down.

Angel: "He will see you another day. You are to write everything clearly as you are now being called into greater service."

I then woke up from this dream within a dream and was back in my original dream...

I was again running from something into the glory light and everything seemed to repeat from the day before. The angels were there again today as I knelt down in front of the Great God Jehovah.

My head remained bowed and I was shaking. My robe and hair was drenched as if I had come from an epic downpour of rain. The angels were with me and were again to my left side and to my right side.

I found myself trembling in the presence of the Lord. He is just so great and powerful that I have even been trembling all week on Earth as if I had chills and a fever, but not in the same way as sickness.

I felt the heat of His presence upon me as if I had a fever. My skin felt hot to touch, yet I only had a slightly elevated temperature. I wanted to ask Him questions, but I dared not to even speak to Him unless He asked me to.

As I stood there, a breeze began to blow from all directions. As this wind blew from the north, east, south and west, it started growing into a mighty wind. In the wind, I could hear the whisper of my Lord, Jesus. In this case, I felt that His voice was truly 'in the wind'. However, unlike what I remember from the story in the Old Testament, this time I heard His voice as a 'whisper' in the wind.

Jesus: "Erin, listen with your ears and see with your eyes and know in your heart that you have been given a gift. My Father will do the rest as the time is close and your redemption is near."

I looked all around me for my Lord, Jesus, but I could not find Him in the wind. I began to shake again with trembling.

Jesus: "Be strong and courageous."

Then just as the wind had come, in an instant the wind had now stopped. I could now feel the Sea of Glass below me, but it was hard to see as His glory light was so bright even with the golden liquid for my eyes.

As He lessened the glow so that I could see again, I noticed that the Sea of Glass was like golden glass. I then heard the Lord speak and the voice from His mouth was like a torrent of rushing water. This does not fully describe this as His voice is also like a hurricane, yet with a sound like orchestrated music. This was a mystery to me.

Lord: "Child, speak."

I shook like I was suddenly aware of His mighty presence again. I had so many questions to ask Him, yet I could not even speak. The angel to my right then put something like a burning coal or an ember to my mouth. It tasted like honey from the comb and seared my lips. This seemed to allow me to speak and my lips moved.

Me: "I am honored to be in Your presence, Father."

I was very far away from Him, yet somehow felt very close to Him. He was lifted so very high on His Throne that I could not even see Him, but only hear Him. There was a type of screen between us that somehow kept me sheltered from being burned up in His presence.

This is all very hard to describe, but now I understand why He came in different ways to us. Quite simply, our physical bodies are not able to withstand His holiness and His power. The question inside of me that I dared not speak He already knew. The burning question in my heart that I wanted to ask yet again was 'why me?'

He began to answer this question for me as He spoke about the trials that I endured from the time I was very little and even the time before that. He spoke about mysteries and by His awesome presence alone He spoke the reasons into my very being.

As I stood there and even as I write, I understood at that moment that my life was never mine alone, but my life was truly and completely the Lord's. He confirmed to me the various times I thought I heard Him that I did. He confirmed the times that He had sent angels into my presence to minister and protect me.

While I want to share the mysteries He revealed to me, I am not permitted to. However, you need to know that everything, even the smallest of details, the Lord somehow spoke these things into my very being.

He then showed me the beginning of Creation and how He had spoken it all into being. So it was with my life and the lives of those who have come before me. In all of my suffering and sorrow, He waited for me. He waited for me to be still in His presence and to desire Him even as small as I was and am.

He loved me from the beginning and loves me still in spite of the times I desecrated His holiness and spit in His presence before being saved. He knew this in advance of all of it and did not allow me to be consumed by fire.

He did not allow me to burn up in His presence, but to be consumed by His love instead. He loves me as I am as He created me. After this time of deep confirmation, as if He was holding me and cradling me, He spoke.

Lord: "Erin, are your eyes ready to see, your ears open to hear and your hand ready to write?"

I was emptied of myself at this point, yet so filled with joy and so secure in my call through my suffering that I was ready for Him and ready to receive whatever He would have me to receive from Him.

Me: "Who am I and what is my life that the Lord, who spoke light into being, would consider me? Who are any of us that the Great God Jehovah would have such grace and mercy for us?"

Then, in front of my eyes, the holy ground was broken into two. I was looking down on the Earth from the area of the Throne as I saw millions of angels at war in the Heavens. I saw wave after wave of darkness descending upon lights over the Earth. I was seeing the outer battle and this even seemed to be much larger than what I had seen at the dome.

I saw the web and the spider, as well as the dragons, over the Earth and always ready to pounce. The vision then zoomed into the city with the tallest building and I saw that 'the meeting' was in progress.

In this meeting, the orders were given and the contracts finalized by the ten leaders in attendance there. These ten leaders were the richest elite of the world though they owned a kingdom without land and had much more power than a deed. A contract was signed to strike down Judah and to strike down Israel.

Just then, I saw that the winged angel to my left had a scale, a level and a plumb line and the angel to my right had an open Bible. The angel with the Bible pointed to Nahum 1 and I saw ten weights on the scales to my left. On the other part of the scale, I saw a lion and a dreidel or top, both made of a single sapphire.

The scales were now tipped towards the ten leaders, but the Lord was angry about this and could feel Heaven shake. I saw another angel carrying scrolls and knew that these scrolls represented the soon coming of judgments and plagues upon the world.

The angel pointed my attention down to the Earth and I saw from the city of the tallest building a dispatch of horses and riders wherein each horse and rider had a canister. Each canister they were carrying contained a man-made death plague that what made from instructions on how to engineer it from the fallen.

I saw that these fallen governed the grid over my region of the world and even to the exact state I lived in. Under the black covering of the thin long canisters was the paint of pale green. Then I saw the horses and riders riding towards Israel as the ten leaders rejoiced over what was about to occur to them.

The ten leaders then celebrated with one chalice of blood and wine wherein each leader also had three silver coins. Each of these leaders moved their three silver coins to the center of the table so that there were thirty silver coins in total.

Behind them were the fallen princes, the fallen creation of the Lord, the ones that had once walked the City of God and had even dwelled in His presence. This was the ultimate betrayal.

However, not only were ten of the fallen present, but there were others. Some of these others were restrained and some were active in other areas. However, for now, they were all here, present and celebrating.

As the thirty coins of silver were stacked in the middle of the table, each participant at this meeting had sealed their fate and had made a blood covenant with evil. This was final for them and there was now a price upon their heads greater than their arrogance.

From my point of reference, I felt so much of what the Lord was feeling, but still only a small fraction. I felt the Lord's anger as Heaven itself was shaking as the Father of Creation restrained Himself.

I then saw Israel shining before me like a beacon of gold and a bright star in the desert. There before me was a beautiful favored land and I saw God's City of Jerusalem there. I saw forces then surrounding her as they gathered momentum from being conjured and rallied up by the black dragon.

I saw that the nations that surround and border Israel hate her more than any other land. I saw the slow encroachment of the lands surrounding her and that there were ten 'sub-lands' under these ten leaders that had 'no land'.

The angel of the Lord pointed again to the Bible and I saw Jeremiah 51:59, "In the fourth year". I then saw a diplomat from afar who was now a leader on a mission. He had traveled around the ten 'sub-lands', but I was not certain as to whether this diplomat had gone to all of them at the same time.

As this diplomat traveled to the ten 'sub-lands', he blessed each of them with hidden signals and signs that told all that hated Israel that greater deceptions were planned against them. As this diplomat approached Israel, I saw that the horses and their riders had already surrounded Jerusalem.

There were four horses and riders, one at the north gate, one at the east gate, one at the south gate and one at the west gate. I then saw a war in the Heavens. Then an angel of the Lord gave the command from God to hold back and detain His army.

Israel was then deceived to remove the dome shield as a sign of peace to her enemies. However, the removal of this dome shield left Israel exposed to her enemies and her gates wide open for the enemy's entry into God's land.

I then saw the diplomat meeting with the leader of Israel with a promise of love and an outstretched arm. Each shook the diplomat's hand with their right hand while their other hands were on the shoulders of their left. I saw this as the greatest of deceptions.

I then saw a sub-leader of Israel hand the diplomat's sub-leader a bag of coins and I instantly knew exactly what this meant. I knew that I was now seeing the events leading up to the ultimate betrayal.

The leader from Israel then invited this diplomat or 'king' into the most hidden parts of the sacred Temple. The diplomat, but really the worst enemy of Israel, was being allowed into the Holy of Holies as a symbol of peace at the diplomat's request.

The lead up to this 'tour' was actually an arranged meeting to share a new technology through historical records and based on blood that would register the origins of the Jewish people and to establish their rights to Israel over her enemies. However, the deception was too really registered through the blood of all of the Jews for eventual annihilation.

In essence, this diplomat, the enemy, was innocently being granted access and a tour of the Holy City by Israel's leader. As this 'leader' was taken on this tour, which even included a tour of the great wall of tears, there stood the two witnesses like ancients foretelling the course of events soon to come.

Several rabbis recognized the two witnesses and began to change their understanding based on wisdom supplied to them from the Lord Himself. However, the cameras were blocked from access and the diplomat made a joke about these two witnesses. The leader of Israel, along with others there, laughed at the diplomat's 'grace and humor'.

As this deception continued to grow, the leader of Israel showed the enemy all that they had amassed, along with the secrets of their favor from God. The leader of Israel shared their secrets of the wealth and success of the people with this 'secret' enemy.

I could not believe my eyes when I then saw the leader of Israel telling the very story of the Jewish people to the very blacksmith that was secretly plotting against them. The diplomat acted like he was so accepting of them and had such great hospitality towards them. All the while, this diplomat was secretly laughing and mocking them with all of his heart.

I saw the leader from Israel offer this evil entity a gift as if he were a bride. He was then allowed to go into the sacred Temple. As I looked down, I saw the diplomat looking directly up at us in Heaven from the Temple with a mocking smile. The Heaven Throne room shook and, as the entity mockingly smiled yet again, I felt heat emanating from the Throne of God. This was terrifying to me and I shook in fear.

The Lord then showed me the history of this evil entity and I saw the course of mayhem that this blacksmith had created. I saw the death camps and the horror within them. I saw other events through the course of history that had the same mark and pattern as this now and how this entity had worked through so many past evil leaders.

I then saw the joy in the diplomat's evil heart, along with the heart of the evil entity, as he sat in the sacred Temple. The enemy had waited a long time for this moment to mock the Lord and I could tell that he relished in the veil of deception that covered the eyes of the leader of Israel.

Israel's leader seemed like a poor shepherd that was unknowingly leading his sheep off of the edge of a cliff in the fog. As the diplomat sat there in the Temple, he made it seem like a joke to the media surrounding him as well as to the leader of Israel.

The diplomat cavalierly declared that he was like a shepherd and that the people were like his sheep. While everyone laughed in response, it was no less a declaration than if he had not said it 'jokingly'. The stench of the enemy rose up to Heaven and it was putrid. I felt Heaven rumble as the Lord burned with anger.

The four gates were now open and the dome shield was now down. Then one of the canisters was unleashed, but this was like a scripted event. The enemy or diplomat, while coming from 'the Rock', was hit and received a blow to his head.

From the vantage point of Earth, this killed the leader and I saw a rush of media and great mourning throughout the nations. However, there was no mourning at the table of the ten leaders. Instead, I saw, like a spirit, the 'Antichrist' now in the meeting room of these ten leaders.

The 'Anti-Christ' appeared to them as if he had been transfigured like a ghost. The red dragon was standing behind these leaders, but somehow was also back at the place of the 'dead' diplomat lying on a slab in the hospital. I saw the lifeless corpse of the Antichrist and there was mourning in the world like I had never seen before.

A discussion then took place in a conference of the ten leaders along with the leaders of the fallen. The fallen and the Anti-Christ looked up at the Lord and shook their fists at Him. I then saw that the angel holding the scales of the financial kings also held a level and that the Lord was about to level all of them.

There was celebration at the conference table as then, and as if by a miracle, the diplomat was suddenly revived as the Anti-Christ fulfilled the Scriptures of the Bible by resurrecting himself.

The nation of Israel, hungry for their Messiah, rejoiced with great rejoicing unlike any rejoicing before this when this 'resurrection' took place. This diplomat then erected Himself as the Jewish Messiah that they had been expecting. Jesus was not at all what they had expected, so the Israelites were pleased with this development.

The word then went out to a small number of new Christians that remained in the land as to what had actually happened, wherein the population now turned on them, the last remaining sheep. A choice was then given to them that they either worship this newly risen 'Messiah' and live or worship Jesus and perish.

Many of those who had remained on Earth had been visited from Heaven by those that had gone before them as if they were like angels. These visits had been to let those who remained understand this great deception and to not fall for this deception when the blood was then registered.

While there had been doubt, there was still a wave of faith unlike anything prior to this in the entire history of mankind. However, this faith was void of the Holy Spirit as this had been removed and therefore was only by the testimonies of faith of all those that had gone before them and were now home in Heaven calling out to them as they slept and appearing in Heavenly form.

Underground churches were then established even as all of the Bibles and records of the history of the true Messiah were rapidly being destroyed. For a time, the Anti-Christ also went outside of the land of the Lord in order to go on great missions and to show 'great signs'.

At each city, an offering of goodwill was given in exchange for a drop of blood on a stick. Each stick was then run through a machine and this person's exact location and exact history was recorded. Everything was going according to plan as the people received a mark to describe the origin of their history.

They then were allowed by census to return to their historical roots, all paid for by this enemy. They were told that they would be reunited with people from their families and were promised great wealth in exchange for their obedience. However, in reality, the fallen were gathered at their grid points in order to take these sheep in for slaughter.

At these grid points and depending on their roots and origins, these people would either then face death or become part of the great army of evil. I then saw that, during the time that the Anti-Christ was out in diplomacy, the enemy had for a time before that had already been planning for this massive annihilation.

The enemy was now bound and determined to rip the limbs of the Jews apart and sacrifice them on the Mount in defiance of the Lord God Jehovah. The census and the bringing home of the Jews had been fully scripted.

Then there was silence in Heaven as I saw the other canisters being unleashed. A massive but invisible cloud then went out over Jerusalem and both the food and water was contaminated. However, I also noticed that no buildings were destroyed by these canisters being unleashed.

I then saw women, some pregnant with babies, running for the mountains with no supplies, nothing to shelter them and nothing for survival. The attack was so sudden that there was truly no time to gather supplies just as Scripture indicated this would happen.

I then saw the 'walking dead' caused by the effects of the canisters along with those that were unable to escape the dome region being rounded up and sectioned by quarters. There in these tents with tables each of the Israelites was labeled with a tribe band based on blood origin from the computer.

When I say the 'walking dead', the bomb or canister that was unleashed quickly rotted the flesh and burned the skin. As such, the only way to identify these people was through their 'registered blood'.

After 'walking dead' for three days and slowly dying, I noticed that their eyes would simply drop out of their sockets. However, the world was not allowed to see everything that had occurred. Then, after three days from the canisters being unleashed and with the buildings fully intact, the surrounding armies came in to 'clean up'.

However, mercifully only a small fraction remained as many had fled to the hills and remained hidden and safe in caves. Due to Israel's demise, there was now great rejoicing in the surrounding lands like never before at the fate of Israel.

Permission was then granted for the surrounding armies to come in and pillage the city and land and to rape the women and desecrate the Temple. The great wealth of Israel was being portioned out by the surrounding countries.

During this time, the angels went ahead to Israel and there they healed and prospered many 'young lions'. The angels then hand fed them and taught them the way of the Lord. They were like a mighty army for the Lord and a special force as they were given great strength and favor.

The lions were like tent pegs at the gates. When the Lord gave the command, the mighty lions descended past the gates and their mere presence froze the enemy in their tracks and those that started to flee.

This came as a complete surprise to the enemy and was an impossible miracle. Judah had sprung a trap and now the armies of Heaven were descending on Jerusalem to prepare for the coming of the Lord.

The demonic forces screamed and fled with fear. The Lord had confounded the enemy and the surrounding lands were now terrified. The favor of the Lord was now upon the Dome and He was now their mighty Rock.

No sooner did the evil armies flee Israel with their evil plunder when I saw an angel of the Lord unleash the weapon that rots flesh upon Israel's fleeing enemies. These bombs or missiles went out and leveled all of the surrounding lands. Even some of the inhabitants in Israel fled with great fear as the Heavens themselves were now opened.

From the Throne Room of Heaven, I saw that God was granting Jesus permission to now to go down as the Lord, God, had shown favor to the Rock. Jesus then rode upon the clouds and set His mighty feet on the Mount of Olives. When He did, the ground itself split in two and separated the north from the south.

Now there was a Holy Division almost as if it were an equator from my viewpoint. I saw His glorious light then cleanse the land, sweeping it and removing the stench and stains of death. He was healing the land of Israel with the rains of springtime.

Outside of the gates surrounding Jerusalem, the Lord, Jesus, miraculously healed the land and restored it quickly. In a few days and not even a month or a season, the miraculous healing was completed and many flocked back to the Holy City.

On that day, that day that the Lord came to Jerusalem, His people finally recognized Him as the true Messiah, but only for those few that still remained. He shone as the sun and His scars were present for all to see. When this was presented to all of them by Jesus, the priests tore their robes and the false prophets ran to the hills in shame.

The leaders bowed at His feet as the glory of the Lord filled the Temple, but there was also great mourning on that day as those that were present remembered their guilt against the most Holy Son of God. Yet the Lord, in His sovereign grace, turned, showed them mercy, gave a grain offering and a gift. His recompense was with Him and He bore this upon Himself.

On this great and horrible day, the Lord healed the land and took back what the enemy had bound up. Every knee and every tongue confessed that Jesus was Lord as Jesus took His rightful place on the Throne of the Holy City. As in the days of Joseph in Egypt, the grain that those hunger for and the water that those thirst for will be given straight from Jesus in Jerusalem. Now Jerusalem shone like the sun.

After this time, I saw a valley of red dirt where three arches and one arch stood as a remnant. There, over the arches, I saw seven pillars of smoke and they were beautiful, like clouds, and reached up to Heaven.

There was a pleasing aroma as then, from the surrounding mountains, I saw bunkers and caves out of which came the special remnant that the Lord had kept for Himself and they were now His special Jewel. One by one they gathered to Him as the clouds departed and Heaven was opened to receive.

Separately, I saw the angels of Heaven descend on the city with the tallest building and I saw the fate of those there. The great city was no longer and was destroyed by the angels so thoroughly that only the sand remained as it was in the beginning. After I had witnessed these events, I was terrified and kneeled before the Lord.

Me: "What if I write down the wrong things..."

The Lord sealed my mouth.

Jesus: "Erin, be at peace for you are being told what to write and shown only what you are to write even though there is much more. Child, come forth."

I kneeled again and an angel poured oil over me as the angel next to me spoke.

Angel: "Erin, write things plainly on tablets."

The angel that held the Bible then walked over to me and illuminated certain chapters of the Scriptures. The order as revealed was Isaiah 61-66, Isaiah 41, Lamentations, Joel 2:23 and on, Natum 1, Haggai, Zephaniah, Zechariah 10-14 and Daniel 7.

Angel: "There is much more here in the Word."

I then saw the pages flip to Revelation as well as to other pages of the Word.

Angel: "Now you have done your portion and the Lord will give you a time of rest."

Me: "Will I see Him again?"

Angel: "Oh yes, and much sooner than you think so be encouraged and strong for You are loved by the King."

Dream over...

Dream 040 – The Fallen & Satan’s Guidelines

Received Thursday, January 24, 2013

I was again running barefoot on the darkened and snowy path and wearing only my white robe with the blue smock over it. I am once again running from something out of great fear. It is again about 30 degrees Fahrenheit in the atmosphere and I now I cannot even feel my feet due to the cold.

However, this time I can hear footsteps behind me along with the sounds of things coming after me. Even though I am running as fast as I can, they are beginning to close in on me as I see the Gate with the glory light ahead of me.

Instead of stopping like last time, this time I run right through the Gate and the two angels are waiting for me there. I instantly remembered my place, dropped to my knees and began to sob. I was so relieved to be safe here that I quickly bowed before the Lord on the ‘safe’ side of the Gate and I am in tears.

The angel to my right put salve in my eyes so I could see as the angel to my left put an ember to my lips. The ember loosened my lips and tasted like honey. I was feeling sad and overwhelmed when the angel to my right then poured the oil of joy over my head.

While my body was still wet from rain, this oil felt warm all over me and brought me instant comfort and peace. Tears began to stream down my face again as I was so happy to be back in front of the Lord of all Creation.

While I remembered that whoever was chasing me wanted me dead, I now could not even remember who I was running from and why as this no longer mattered as I was now in the presence of God Almighty and was completely protected.

The two angels then brought me to my feet and I saw that I was at the edge of the Sea of Glass. The glory light from His Throne shone over the landscape like a giant glowing ember or golden wave of light. This was so amazing to see that I suddenly remembered where my place was and I began to tremble in response.

The wind began to blow again and felt warm but with a hint of crisp coolness like a mid-spring day. The wind swirling from all four corners seemed to now encompass me and I heard the calm whisper of Jesus in it.

Jesus: "Erin, you have been given the honor of a gift. My Father has mysteries to show you. Do not be afraid as you have been given ears to hear, eyes to see and a hand to write. You are only to write what is permissible while all else will remain sealed until the proper time. You are loved so be strong and courageous and do not be afraid."

Just as quickly as the wind had started, it then ceased. I then heard a voice like the sound of rushing water with the intensity of a hurricane, but yet was also like a symphony at the same time.

Lord: "Erin, come forth."

I stepped forward with my feet as if to stand on the vast Sea of Glass, but my feet did not touch the ground as I was somehow above it.

Lord: "You are standing on holy ground."

I looked down and saw that my feet were as battered as if I had run through a battlefield. I knew that I had fled from my home quickly with no time to find shoes and it was quite apparent from the sight of my feet that I had run for miles.

My feet were cut up, bloodied and dirty when God instantly transformed my feet so that they were now beautiful. I became keenly aware of my feet because I had been too afraid to look up with my eyes but had remained looking down.

My blue smock that I was wearing had also been instantly transformed into a beautiful shimmering white robe and really needed no adornments or embellishments for it to be simply stunning. My skin, my hair and my feet were now beautiful and appeared like the luster of a pearl. I was wearing no jewelry at all and did not need to here.

Lord: "Erin, do not be afraid."

The angels to my right and to my left took my arms and began to move me closer to Him. I still felt afraid to look up, but I felt the angels to my right nudge me to do so. When I finally looked up, I saw a golden light around and coming from Him.

I then saw the slight outline of His Throne and it shined like a deep rich sapphire that I somehow knew had been cut and faceted by His very breath. The brilliant mix of the golden rays of light reflected into the brilliance of the sapphire Throne and emanated from that.

The golden light and the deep blue of the sapphire mixed in the air as a beautiful circular ray of emerald that was completely around the area. However, this color was really even more amazing than the color of emerald but this particular color I was seeing really had no name or comparison on Earth.

Indeed, there was no name for so many of the colors I could see in Heaven as my limited knowledge of primary and secondary colors and mixes were based only on our palette from Earth. The best description I can come up with was that the color was 'an emerald from up high'.

In front of me now was the Creator of all things, God, but I still could not look upon His immense glory. I could not see Him but just around Him as not even His form was something I could assemble with my eyes. All I could see was a spectrum of brilliance from the Creator of Heaven and Earth and this made me tremble.

The angels stopped at a certain place over the Sea. While I felt that I was now extremely close to the Throne, in reality I was still quite far away. Without realizing what was happening, my body was actually weeping and tears streamed down my face

The very cells in my body were completely drawn to God and I knew that my body recognized God as the Creator and that my very cells longed to be back in His presence. There was no pain in my body and nothing contrary as everything here is perfect and in balance. My heart felt so much love that I was now overcome with the love from His very presence.

Lord: "Child, I have more for you to see. Are you ready?"

Without one ounce of hesitation, my body responded with a yes even as my brain was not quite there yet. The opposite is true here on Earth, but here I just knew that God would take care of everything.

Immediately as I stood at the vast golden sea, there was a great earthquake in Heaven right before my eyes as the ground split in two before me. I knew that this split was not at all permanent as the split I had seen from before had already been restored beautifully. Instead, this was meant for me to look into the actual part of the Earth He was directing my attention to.

There below me I saw an incredibly lush garden and I saw a covering or blanket of love, like a shield over the Earth like a giant tent. Through that and to the region of what looked like somewhere near modern day Iran, all of the landmass of the Earth was together before the separation of the regions had come.

I saw four rivers coming from a lush garden and going out like gates throughout the garden. I searched my memory banks of anything remotely like it that I have seen, but it was like the Lord God had allowed me to assemble my thoughts but for a moment.

In essence, if I were to take every beautiful place I had even been to or had seen from snapshots and put these all together, this composite would still be an insignificant comparison of the vast garden that was before me here in Heaven. Each river that I saw here is like Canadian glaciated water and is pure, cool, clear and sweet to taste.

I was suddenly being filled with the knowledge that these rivers had watered the Garden of Eden and there had been no need for rain. From these beautiful rivers, the roots themselves were watered.

There was an abundance of wildlife and I saw every type of animal from all over the Earth present in the garden. Each animal was well fed, gentle and loving and I even saw a lion sitting next to a lamb. I saw an amazing array of trees that bore fruit and knew that this fruit was incredible. However, one of the trees in the Garden stood out to me as it was at the very center of the Garden and was an amazing tree to behold. The fruit on this tree was both abundant and perfectly ripe. The main river that fed the four rivers watered this tree as well.

At the base of this tree, I saw a type of low illuminated fence surrounding it that looked like it was warning that no one should go beyond this point. I was not sure if I was seeing a fence in reality or if this fence was actually just in the spirit realm.

When I looked inside the fence, I saw a 'snake' that seemed to have legs. It was not as much like a real snake we see today, but more like a lizard of sorts but with a human like face. When I saw this 'snake', I then realized that this fence was actually there to confine the 'snake' to the tree and keep it within this fenced area.

As long as this 'snake' kept behind the fence, he was free to roam around the tree. I then realized that this was the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil. From my point of view, it looked as if the Lord had contained this evil 'snake' only to the confines of this tree.

Although I had not remembered anything quite like this in Scripture, this really seemed to make perfect sense to me upon seeing it. Strangely, I also then seemed to understand that the entire Garden was a paradise, almost as if Heaven was there on Earth.

I saw angels roaming freely and visibly amongst the Garden. I was amazed that I was being able to see this and felt extremely humbled by it all. I then felt my own eyes being drawn to this tree as if I too was being tempted to taste the fruit.

Here and after all this time I had thought Eve was ignorant to eat this fruit, but yet I found my own flesh now drawn to tasting it too. I actually found myself drawn to the fruit even with my prior knowledge of the ramifications of eating the fruit.

Eve then appeared and she was stunningly beautiful and even more beautiful than any woman alive today. Her skin was perfect and without blemish as there was no age to her. I will not get descriptive as there were no clothes on her, but speaking from one woman about another woman, I knew that I was looking at one of the most beautiful women ever created. Eve walked freely in the Garden until on one particular day this 'snake' called out to Eve. I did not need to hear the conversation to know this, but I knew that Satan was coaxing Eve and placing doubt in her.

I then saw her hand move through the protective barrier around the perimeter that was almost like a golden plasma-like shield. I watched as her hand hesitated for a moment, but then reached to take hold of the fruit. She removed the fruit outside of this barrier and finally took a bite.

Then next to me and in front of God, I saw two angels appear that I recognized and these angels were on either side of the crevice. One of the angels had scales while the other angel had a sundial. However, the sundial was now out of sequence of time like a perimeter and there were more marks originally than now. The days then became shorter and death was accelerated.

As I looked at the angel to my right, I saw the movement of the scales tip off balance against man as the fruit from the Tree of Knowledge tipped the scales against mankind. The perfect balance and the days of Heaven upon this Earth were now gone. As I saw the ultimate separation unfold before me, I began to cry with grief.

The sight of all of this seemed to affect me almost more than anything I have observed in these dreams other than Jesus' Crucifixion at Golgotha. I wept as I looked down at this scene from the viewpoint of Heaven. I saw things in the Garden begin to die as weeds began to overgrow the lush greenery and "choke out" all life.

The Garden was dying and life was now measured by the 'Clock'. I saw Adam, also beautiful in appearance, but strong, handsome and perfect as a man could be and in the very image of God Himself. I saw both Adam and Eve when Adam then partook also of the fruit and knew that he loved her so much.

They had now both partook in the eating of this fruit because they both had seen that the fruit was good. When they did this, I immediately saw the Heavenly veil over their eyes being lifted. Once the veil was lifted, this changed their focus from plenty to lack and from acceptance to shame. They were now focused on their flesh instead of God.

In that moment, I saw that the Spirit of the living God had been stripped from them and that they knew now they were naked. I saw angels in the Garden mourning as this occurred.

I then saw Jesus walking in the Garden and calling out to them. When He called to them, they became afraid and hid. He called out to them again and found them in their now disgraceful position.

I saw Jesus rebuking them, but He was also grieving the loss and could hear weeping from all over this now disappearing paradise. I then saw Jesus rebuke the 'snake' and curse it. When He cursed the 'snake', I saw this reptilian humanoid type object with power being without legs now and slithering about on its belly. I then saw the Lord removing Adam and Eve to outside the Gates of the Garden.

Lord: "Erin, look closely."

My sight then zoomed in and I saw a rewind of this event through amazing Heavenly technology. I saw the Lord Jesus saying to the snake that he would strike the heel of men continuously, but that he would be defeated eventually by the seed of Adam and the Son of God. While Jesus was speaking about himself, the snake lacked understanding and only knowing that eventually Jesus would defeat him.

The angel at the top of the great opening in Heaven brought the Bible to me. There I saw both the beginning and end in Genesis 3:15 and in Revelation. The snake had become much larger through time and was now a dragon. I saw the eventual destruction of the snake and, although I already know about the outcome of satan in advance, it was so reassuring to see his defeat taking place in person.

A then saw a part of Revelation being illuminated. First Revelation 2:7-10 was illuminated and Revelation 12:11-13 was illuminated. I saw from my vantage point that the snake's access for punishment came from the Garden and the open door came from Eve. In essence, satan's most effective open door came from Eve and continues to come today through women.

I then saw that the small golden fence around the base of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, as well as the plasma-like veil guarding the Tree, was not seen by Adam or Eve. Instead, these had been created by God so that the 'snake' was not permitted to roam freely throughout the entire Garden but just around this tree.

In essence, God had confined satan to this part of the Garden only, but the seduction of the Tree that was so beautiful with the fruit so perfectly ripe would be satan's weapon. By using this temptation, the snake knew that the only thing that he could do was tempt the one creation that was not in the original creation and that was Eve. Satan also knew that Adam loved Eve so he knew that if he could tempt her, he could use her to bring Adam down with her.

Eve came from Adam's side and was therefore his equal as she did not originate from Adam's head or his foot. If Eve had been created from Adam's head, she would rule Adam. If Eve had been created from Adam's foot, she would be under his foot or oppressed.

Eve instead was the perfect companion to Adam and the female perfection of Adam. Using this to his evil advantage, the snake had went for the weakest point of the heart of Adam by getting at him through Eve.

When this all happened, the Lord then cursed the snake with the spirit of satan and reminded the snake of his place and this would be low to the ground or dirt. Not only that, but satan would now be in conflict with women until the Lord comes and strikes satan's head in the end of days.

In the meantime, satan continues to inflict Eve's seed as well as all of Eve's offspring for life here on Earth. Satan therefore inflicts men mostly through women as women are man's weakest point.

Now I saw this formerly perfect and lush Garden growing weeds and thistles. These weeds and thistles choked out the life and death came as if in a fast moving wave. The spirit of satan was not cast out of the Garden, but rather slithered out of the Garden in pursuit of Adam, Eve and their eventual offspring.

The snake was upset at the Lord, but he was free to inflict harm on the seed of Adam and Eve as God had permitted this. Then, as I knelt in the presence of God, I became unsure about the time or order of all of this as I then saw another event that cannot be contained in time. When this event had occurred, time was not yet being measured by earthly standards.

The angel pointed to the Bible and I first saw Isaiah 14:12-15 illuminate and then I saw Ezekiel 28:12-17 illuminate. There was a section of the Bible illuminated after Malachi and then finally the Bible turned to Luke 10:18.

I was now looking into Heaven right after the Lord created the Earth and Adam, but before the day of Eve or perhaps right at her forming. I saw God as He created the Earth and saw that He truly enjoyed His Creation and thought of this as His work of art.

The Lord had been pleased with His Creation of the Heavens, but the Lord longed for something more that could have communion with Him. As the Lord is a masterful artist, He encompassed all life, all that is holy, all things good and beautiful and He is both perfect and pure into the original Garden. Indeed, all of this came from our Holy Father, the originator of both breath and life.

I then saw the angel point to Philippians 4:8 and I realized that this was the same way we were to be and to inspire close communion with the Lord God and to remain in this communion with Him. I knelt and watched the view of this Heavenly movie.

There I saw approximately seventy chief angels. These angels were created by the Father to assist Him and govern the angels assigned to each of these seventy chief angels. I saw this amazing hierarchy in Heaven as Heaven is highly organized, highly perfected and nothing like Earth whatsoever.

I saw the angels watch and serve the Father God as He gave breath to life and He spoke light into being. As I was watching this all transpire from this great observation deck of Heaven, I noticed that one or two of angels seemed to stand out.

One of these angels I recognized to be Lucifer as he was a smaller version of the Lord and had the similar type or pattern of light that emanated off of him as Jesus. The light of Lucifer was stunning and there really was no light like it except for the light of God and Jesus.

Over time, those angels that were under Lucifer's leadership began to praise him, wherein this praise eventually led to these angels worshipping him. Indeed, these angels began to worship him like God because Lucifer was similar to the image of God and more directly accessible than God to the angels that were directly under his care.

Lucifer was beautiful, but there were other angels equal to his beauty as well. It also appeared to me that there were another twenty or so chief angels that also had thousands of angels under them.

Now I should note that, while I am only seeing what appear to be seventy angels, I do not understand everything I am seeing because there are no earthly words to describe some of what I am seeing. God had created the angels for companionship and so that they would enjoy His presence, serve Him and worship Him in majesty.

Instead, these particular angels became so interested in the beauty and gifts of each other that many had stopped seeking Him at all. However, God desired to have something much deeper than what the angels could offer so He decided to create man in His image and for His delight. There the Lord could walk freely amongst man in the Garden and have full access.

Of the seventy angels besides Lucifer, twenty of these angels also began to look at God differently. These twenty angels knew that they could never be God nor be greater than He. However, they thought that, since the rib was taken from the side of Adam and Eve was then created equal Adam, then they too could become equal to God. They knew that they could not be above God, but believed that they could instead become equal.

I then saw that the other angels remained holy unto the Lord and worshiped Him in whole and not in part. These angels then took their observations of these twenty one angels to the Father on the Throne just after the Lord had just created Earth.

In the Courts of the Most High Father, the Father decided to cast down all twenty one chief angels along with those angels under their governance to the Earth. As the Lord stated in Scripture, I then saw Lucifer shoot out of Heaven as a falling star and just like lightning.

Lucifer landed on the Earth with approximately one-third of Heaven cast out with him. There was great mourning and sorrow as the angels that were cast out loved the Lord and believed by their works that they might after a time come Home and had hope.

As I stood in awe of what I was seeing, I too now had great sorrow as I saw that these angels were beautiful, had rebelled and were now grieved. I saw the hopelessness as these angels fell from grace and I watched Heaven mourn for the children of Heaven.

Heaven wept, but I knew that if these angels had stayed that Heaven would be divided. Regardless, there is no power like that of God, so I remained confident that God would have still ruled no matter what and that all of Heaven and Creation knew this as well.

Lord: "Erin, these mysteries are now being shown to you as they have been reserved for this time."

Just then, I saw a man in Heaven that I recognized as I had seen him here before. This man was one of the ancient of days and he had the favor of the Lord upon Him. He was like Jesus, but not Jesus. He was beautiful and young in appearance, but with the long white hair of someone much older. I then heard an angel of the Lord speak to me.

Angel: "This is one of the fathers of Noah. He will pray over you as a mantle. He has never seen death and the Lord's favor is upon him."

Lord: "Erin, now look with your eyes, hear with your ears and write with your hand."

I was trembling as I was once again reminded by this of my lowly place as a female and really 'a nobody'. I am no priest and no high position and I am even a Gentile. I felt small and the Lord heard my thoughts as I trembled before Him.

I saw a wave of light and an angel instantly put a type of covering over me. The angel then put a salve in my eyes. Another angel came and gave me a chalice of water from the River of Life.

Lord: "Erin, are you ready to go further?"

Me: "Yes, Father, glory be to God in the highest. Please bless my eyes to see, my ears to hear and my hand to write as You have said to Your Glory and will be it done unto me this day."

The angel pointed for me to focus again through the crevice on the Sea of Glass below to the Earth. I saw Adam and Eve have offspring and multiply. From my vantage point, this happened very quickly, but from Earth's perspective this took several hundred years.

During this time, I saw these fallen angels trying to find a way to get back to Heaven. They wanted to appeal to God, but God's ears were not open to their cries.

I then saw one of these fallen angels, but not satan, govern over an area that had one of the larger populations of the offspring of Eve. However, the women in this area, Eve's daughters, were beautiful in appearance, kind and joyful.

This beautiful fallen angel had become attracted to one of the daughters of Eve and turned his thoughts to her more and more as every day he would watch her.

He then thought to himself, "If God has not allowed us back and we are to roam this Earth until the days of God's decisions concerning our fate, then I will take this woman as if she were created by my rib. Then I will become more like them in which the Lord loves."

This fallen angel then gathered up all of the other twenty angels except satan and told them, "Let us take these women to be our wives and create our own race which the Lord too might come to love. Then the Lord might be merciful and love both us and the children born unto us."

The angels agreed to this together by oath. Even though the snake had betrayed Eve and the Lord said that there would be conflict between the two for eternity, they still continued to disobey God by looking toward women.

When the angels did this forbidden thing with these women, the last bit of any holiness that remained upon them left. By doing this, the favor of the Lord and their ties to Heaven and eternity were now subject to death and severance and the angels became corrupt as a result.

These fallen angels then corrupted the daughters of Eve. I saw angels using their gifts to change the course of mankind to now be adversarial. The angels, in their union with women, created hostility and the fallen angels began to even despise them as well.

However, satan remained uninterested in women and therefore did not participate with the other twenty fallen angels and their followers. Satan's plan still had the same goal, but his was just a different course.

The fallen angels then began to teach men skills and crafts so that they would be worshiped by man as gods instead of them worshipping the one true God. The result of what these fallen had taught had the opposite effect of Heavenly worship.

I saw one angel teaching about makeup, adornments and beautification. This created vanity, envy and jealousy to destroy and eventually also led to lust and prostitution.

I saw one showing man how to create metal and form weapons for harvesting, but mostly for war and to war against each other and destroy each other.

I saw others creating healing sources from plants, flowers and roots. This was so man could heal themselves and would no longer need to cry out and depend upon the Lord for healing. This was the beginning of pharmaceuticals and medicine. Drugs, addictions, dependence and death came from this. This angel's gifts eventually morphed into blood and genetics testing, diseases and the likes.

I saw another teaching the maps of Heaven or the stars. This angel made the stars into graven idols to the fallen, thus worshipping the stars led to worshipping deities and then gods or images of themselves. The stars were another Heaven and became a veil that humans could not see beyond to the God of Heaven who could hear them, turn and save them.

This practice was the beginning of astronomy, which is good, and of astrology, which is bad, as well as the worship of the fallen as gods. Then the plan of the fallen was for man to then depend on the stars and the worship of other gods and thus no longer needing the God of all Creation.

I saw another with the gift of fiber works. The ability to weave fine linens separated people in a shameful manner by creating division of class according to clothing. Destruction through class, position, pride and vanity came also from this power.

Another was like a magician and could manifest things, conjure up images, creating miracles and illusions. This created fear and the worshipping of self-governing of miracles. This was the beginnings of witchcraft and magic and the worshipping of demigods with the illusion or appearance of power.

Another was a builder and architect of structures. This angel had been special in Heaven and this was a gift that God had delighted in. This angel erected a building to edify himself and he taught the humans to worship him and began the roots of slavery.

His plan and the others was to build temples of honor to themselves where people could travel to worship them. They would also erect tall buildings high enough that they could reach to Heaven. By teaching the humans and the offspring of angels this skill, they believed that they could even overthrow Heaven. They wanted immortal shrines so that the humans would be distracted and go to them for worship not God.

Another was the creator of complex government and order, the structure of wars, cities, states, regions, and tribes. This was also a part of oppression, slavery and rule. Out of this came monetary exchange, trading, taxes and gambling. This angel held the interest of satan the most. These two were in unison together as evil needed this type of structure to prosper.

Another angel taught weights and measures, calendars, clocks and related items to record or measure days. This angel grieved and measured the days as instructed by God after the fall. The angel kept track of the new order of time; the measure of weeks, months, years and the depth and height of things. This angel had the skills of mathematics and began to record the days until the permission was granted and the Lord would begin to execute judgments.

Another angel taught communication through language, writing of records, drawings, symbols and codes. This angel eventually brought technology and the further and swift decay of pornographic, the internet and the eventual access to homes without needing a key. This angel could get inside the mind of humans and destroy them from within.

These were just some of the gifts that were taught to the humans as previously granted to these fallen angels by the Lord. There were many more and each of these angels exchanged their knowledge to others in order to create a web of authority and the worship of the fallen by the humans. The women that had relationships with the fallen angels soon bore sons that were giants. These giants then consumed more than the land could provide. These giants also had huge appetites of lust for the eyes and for blood. They became the chief devourers of the land and all that was in it.

The fallen angels were forbidden to share with mankind the secrets of Heaven, so when they did this introduced even more sin and death. Then when the fallen angels produced giants, they were also an abomination to the Lord and made it so that the advance of evil had become so pervasive that the Lord now had to intervene.

Everything was now dying and corrupting at an ever increasing rate. The fallen angels that had enjoyed the earthly women they took now knew they had committed a grave sin against the Creator of Heaven. After a time, the angels regretted this and wanted to stop with the hopes of returning from where they fell. The fallen angels then saw the corruption they had caused as the world began to experience all things contrary to Heaven.

One of the fallen angels then recognized that there was a particular human who walked closely to the Lord and even closer than even Adam had walked. Meanwhile, as I knelt and looked down at what I was seeing and really how fast all had turned bad, I began to cry before God in Heaven.

I had seen the origination of all things evil and I watched the acceleration of death. The angel to my left handed me a cup and I drank from the River of Life.

Lord: "Erin, speak."

Me: I was shaking. "Lord, this is not in Scripture. Man requires..."

Immediately my mouth no longer had the words as the Lord, in His holiness, was not allowing me to question what I was seeing. I became weak and I cried. Now I wondered if He would stop everything, including these dreams with Him.

Here I was at the edge of this vast crevice looking down through the Sea of Glass at Creation, in the presence of God and Creator of all things, and I suddenly realized my own rebellion and fleshly habits. Even as I felt this, I felt a warmth cover me and even as I write and still today.

This warmth was like a blanket of healing and, now with my head down and unable to speak, I felt a hand being placed upon my head from what I thought was an angel on my right. Then I felt a hand on my shoulder to the left.

Lord: "Erin, these favored men are praying and strengthening you for this difficult task of ascribing to mysteries. There has been a veil that I have allowed to keep hidden. The great mysteries that will now begin to be revealed to your generation is by My design.

"Now the two men of favor of both Heaven and Earth never saw death, but were removed from this place by a miracle. The spirits of these men are upon this generation as it is written. They will attest and witness to the likes of these."

The angel then pointed again to the fallen and their created children. I saw such disgusting things. I then understood with even greater clarity Sodom and Gomorrah. I saw these men in those cities propositioning angels to practice homosexuality.

I saw crimes against animals sexually as things so pervasively evil permeated the landscape. I even saw babies of prostitutes being tossed on the streets as garbage. The results of what the fallen did were everywhere and remains with us even today.

Lord: "Child, you have a question?"

I had many, but one was weighing on me.

Me: "Lord, who are these two with me?"

He began to a laugh and the ground quaked in response.

Lord: "Erin, to your right is Enoch and to your left is Elijah. They walked with Me and endured much."

I had something else to say to God and one thing I dare not. I questioned my worthiness again and my place as these great men of God prayed for me a mantle of protection and anointing over me. However, I was like the woman at the well. The other question was about to be answered, so I did not even speak it.

I then could see a close up view of a region very near where the Garden once stood wherein the canopy over the Earth had begun to thin out much like today with our own atmosphere. I saw the sun become much hotter, but not quite as hot as today, as I saw the angel with the Bible point to Isaiah.

I saw several fallen angels following Enoch everywhere because the Spirit of the Lord was upon Him and these fallen angels longed for reconciliation with God. In turn, Enoch had a humbleness and gentleness just like Jesus.

Enoch was kind, but many people were repelled by his holiness as he even emanated light. This was because the majority of humans enjoyed their sin and lusts and was in darkness and not exposed. Enoch made them uncomfortable in comparison.

One day, the fallen angels decided to go to Enoch to intercede for them since Enoch had now been taken up and walked with the Lord in Heavenly places. However, by doing this, the angels did just the opposite of what angels were supposed to do in that they were to serve man on behalf of God.

The Lord was angry and grieved by this and now He wished that He had never created man. The angel with the Bible then illuminated Genesis 6:6. As I stood staring at the Bible, another Book inside of the Bible emerged and I saw the writings of Enoch and the records of all of this.

I knew of the Book of Enoch, but I did not understand and was taught not to believe this book. I saw another angel contain the Book of Enoch in a glass jar and set this off to the side. I could see a valid record through the glass, but I could not touch it.

The Lord sent for Enoch and I later saw Enoch speaking to the angels. There was now great mourning, sorrow and wailing as the Lord had refused Enoch's petition on behalf of the fallen angels. Enoch reached down and pulled me in closer to what I was seeing for greater clarity.

I then saw that God was not upset that the angels were petitioning for forgiveness for themselves and for their children, but was upset that they were trying to use Enoch to intercede for them. This intercession was a role that the fallen angels should have known was not allowed in the Heavenly hierarchy.

When Enoch delivered this message, I saw the Lord send the seven archangels, of which satan was once one, along with a large army to assist. The Lord gave the command to send the angels beneath the ground for a time of later judgment.

One of the fallen angels was extremely angry at this and seemed like a leader of the fallen angels. As anger burned and grief overtook these angels, they mourned that they were no longer going to even enjoy the children that they had spawned and now loved. Despite all of their wickedness, the angels had somehow learned to love their wicked children known as the nephilim.

I then saw Heavenly angels striking down the children of this lead angel. This lead angel was then even angrier than the rest and so he was bound even more so than the others. From what I could tell, almost every angel was held captive and their offspring were scheduled for destruction, some immediately and some at a later date.

I then saw satan and noticed that he was the same spirit that was upon the snake in the Garden. Satan had now been granted the privilege as a snake to slither about and strike the heels of men. This snake or satan hated women the most because of his curse and because she was hand built by God and, not created like Adam.

Indeed, satan despised women even more than men. He was not swayed with lust for women like the other fallen angels that recognized the beauty of women or like Adam did. Satan was arrogant.

As satan did not fight during the battle with the other fallen angels and their giant sons. Instead, satan sat on the cleft of a rock above the battle. As a result, the Lord decided to temporarily give satan charge of the Earth. The area in which he sat to view the battle was red like clay in this particular valley. Once given charge, satan put himself in an earthly-like throne as a smaller image of God.

Then Enoch showed me satan's thoughts and he burned with hate because the Lord had the power that he lusted for. I saw one of the angels of the army of the Lord give satan a set of charges like laws and perimeters written on a scroll.

I then saw satan petition to God that if he were to now govern this land he had been given of Earth that he be allowed to be omnipresent like God and with the ability to be in several places at one time. God not only said no to this request, but satan was instead only allowed to slither to and fro only and take the shape of other forms. Not only that, but he would remain reptilian with blood as cold as ice.

Then satan requested a government to assist him. I saw the Lord was angry as He knew that satan was trying to trick Him. As satan thought to himself, his words read like scripts on a page to God and all of his evil thoughts were visible from Heaven.

The Lord then responded by telling satan that the course of each of His children and His Creation shall be determined by Him and Him alone. Not only was God not allowing satan freedom over the children of Adam, but also that each man's course was to be determined by God Himself and that satan would be subject to the Laws of the Lord. Satan would then have to appeal to God in his Courts in order to inflict trials of the children of the Lord and whom God had chosen with His mark prior to their birth.

Satan burned with anger as he realized that God had not granted him what he had asked, but instead was now restricting him even further. His plan was to eventually turn man against God and each other so that God would despise man and determine that they were too corrupt for Heaven and Salvation, thus stripping God of the children He loves.

After this time of sorrow, I saw satan choose several humans to govern with him. I then saw him search out the fallen angel's remaining offspring to revise the original foundations of the fallen. Even though they were confined and locked underground, they could still communicate.

As satan worked the Earth, evil then began to populate very quickly. There were now barely any humans left that seemed good as almost all were now under satan's rule. The Lord God from His Throne then decided that all living creatures were now corrupt and it was time to destroy the Earth.

Nonetheless, God still had close fellowship with Enoch as the Lord had granted him favor as well as his offspring. The Lord kept Enoch with Him and I watched as the length of man's life grew shorter. Death was accelerated as the first means of controlling evil. God shortened man's days and therefore his influence of evil.

The Lord then set Noah and his family apart as well. When the canopy of the Earth was lifted, the rains came. Before this occurred, and mostly in pairs, each of God's earthly creatures came upon an ark that had been built to withstand the coming flood.

When the flood covered the Earth, I saw the Lord to shape the Earth by breaking apart the once joined land mass. He broke them apart into regions as the flooding continued. When these land masses separated, I saw that the fallen angels in their chambers were separate along with the land.

Indeed, the Lord was separating them further apart in order to thwart their further communication. I then noticed that the temples that the fallen angels had erected to themselves were over the areas where the fallen were entombed underground until the judgment and were a type of marker.

I then saw the rain stop and the water recede into the crevices or divisive grid points of the Earth. Each grid point was a mass of property to the fallen and the Earth was now divided into continents and further separated by a grid of fault lines.

Literally, by putting in 'fault' lines, God was telling the fallen angels that this was their fault. Thereby these fault lines were their boundaries and marked their territories. Then each of the remaining heirs to the fallen roamed the land, devouring it over the regions of their fathers, carrying on the practices of their fathers until the day the Lord comes down.

The nephilim were not completely erased and they, along with their offspring and demons, powers and principalities, all govern and decay the Earth today.

Lord: "Erin, you must now get some rest, but take courage and write plainly what you have been shown."

I bowed to the Lord in thanks. I cried as I could not look upon Him directly due to the brightness of His glory, but He knew that I loved Him with all of my heart and that I was scared by what I was shown.

Enoch and Elijah, along with the angels, walked me to the Gate. Once there, Enoch poured a small vial of oil over my hands and Elijah poured out oil over my head. Enoch then spoke to me with no words.

Enoch: "Erin, I know that none of this makes sense to you right now, but soon this will be clear as you begin to see all of this."

I began to cry and the angel came up and wiped my tears with the small linen cloth.

Enoch: "The veil is soon to be lifted and there will be great fear. You and others are to spread the Good News about the love of the Lord and what awaits them and for them to persevere to the end. I know you have questions. Remember that not every word that came out of our mouths was well received either."

Enoch looked to Elijah and they both smiled at each other in agreement.

Enoch: "My words were allowed to be removed from the original Bible for this later time and the sign that it was once there is the references to the Book of Enoch in God's Book. Now I am able to see this time for the Words that the Lord has given to help make known the great mysteries. Do you remember when you saw us before?"

Me: I was crying. "Yes."

Enoch: "The Lord sent us to tell you to keep on your journey, but to remove the obstacles that were keeping you from all that the Lord had desired for your life. You were a child of the world, but now you are a child of God. You walk amongst us in high places and you are loved by the King.

"Many of you, like us, will never see death. This is a blessing and others will witness this, but this will not happen as some expect. Oh, yes, one more thing. Remember the fallen with the gift of calendars?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Did you happen to see which calendar was God's calendar?"

Me: "I believe so."

Enoch: "Erin, change your perspective. Watch Israel and remember the Hebrew calendar. Now, go back to your markers and revisit them in terms of this calendar. Go back and remember that Israel is your marker and the most hated enemy of these next to you the Bride. Also what occurs after the snow and what do you look for?"

Me: "Signs of spring such as blossoms."

I noticed then that Enoch was very handsome as was Elijah. They were also both so wonderful and so full of love and knowledge as they both had walked so closely to the Lord. Enoch squeezed my hand and Elijah squeezed my shoulder as both turned to go back to be in Holy Communion with the Lord.

Enoch: "We will see you again, Erin."

I was so happy about this. One of the winged angels then greeted me at the Gate.

Angel: "Erin, much has been modified over the years, even when the time of the day begins and it ends. Israel is your marker for the signs of Jesus' return. The Lord requests that, even though you doubt the order, you write this exactly as you have seen this.

"Do not listen to those that would have you veer to the left or to the right as they have not seen what you have been shown. They cannot speak and the Lord will keep them from you. When the trumpet sounds, not all will be ready and many will be stunned. Pray for these people.

"There are too many references as now the Scripts will begin to be illuminated like never before. The Body of Christ will be as one. You are given the gift of a seer and you are to write what you see. Others will be given the gifts to discern and testify.

"Do not be afraid. Take courage as a lesson from Elijah awaits. Learn about those who pray over you. Psalm 82 is a reference now that will make sense and take with this Psalm 83 together.

Psalm 39 and 40 are a lament for this time and there is a message in Psalm 41 so do not turn the page. Psalm 104 is confirmation of what you were shown and is a good message. Remember to see the patterns in history as all has happened before and nothing is new.

“Now understand the roots of the evil practices and shy from these. Seek the Lord with all of your heart and soul and lead not unto your own understanding. In all of your ways, acknowledge Him and He will make your path clear even when it is dark and there is snow.”

The angel squeezed my hand and put a shawl over me. This series of dreams occurred over the course of three nights, along with this personal message. There has been miraculous peace and a covering of love over me and my children these days. The enemy has been far from me and the only trouble I have had has been my own worry and my own flesh.

I pray this blesses you and may the mantle of the Lord be on all of those that are blessed by the Lord. May you have peace over your households as we wait patiently for the Lord to return for His Bride.

Love and blessings...sparrow

Dream 041 – Roots of the Fallen

Sunday, February 3, 2013

08-05-2016, 04:53 PM

I'm being pursued. I've been running awhile and my feet are battered. I'm barefoot. The ground is cold and wet. The snow had turned to bits of rock, sticks, pine needles and dirt. It hurt to run. I could hear the sounds of something pursuing me. It wasn't human and, behind it, I heard several footsteps.

I was in complete darkness. I began to see a small beacon. At first, it was like an eclipse; complete darkness and just a sliver of light. The light began to grow the closer I got. I ran as fast as I could. I was younger. I had a white robe on and my blue smock.

As the light got brighter, a fresh coat of snow covered the ground so my feet were relieved. My feet were cold, but cushioned from the rocks. I felt the breath of what seemed like two dogs and possibly two wolves behind me. I was crying and terrified.

I looked down and saw blood on my feet, marking the snow. The light from the Gate lit my path as I looked behind me briefly. I saw the dogs and wolves so close to me. I saw that my blood was drawing more and more wolves and dogs in packs.

I felt things moving past my ears, head and body. These were bullets. The glory light was so bright and now I was so close, maybe 30 feet. I didn't hear these animals anymore. They were gone. They had disappeared. The light was bright.

I collapsed just short of the Gate. Right as I fell, I cried out, "Hayah". I looked to my left as my face was buried in this fresh powdery snow. There I saw a tiny sprout, a small shoot, coming through the snow. The light was so bright, I knew that it was green. I was weak and so wounded.

I had been shot in my right side below my rib cage. The bullet had come out right above my kidney. Blood was all over everything. I began to crawl to the Gate. Then I felt myself beginning to pass out. I felt several hands reach around me. I was placed in the arms of one of the winged angels. He looked at me with his beautiful face.

Angel: "Erin, we are going to carry you the rest of the way home."

I then went to sleep and then I woke up. It couldn't have been but a couple of minutes, but I'm not sure. I was on the other side of the Gate. One of the angels was tending to my side and the other one was tending to my feet. My feet were a mess.

I didn't feel pain. I saw the angel pour water over them. They were completely restored and beautiful; not one scratch, not one drop of blood. The other angel put an ember in my side and some salve over that. The wound was completely gone. No pain in my side either.

Another angel came over and poured oil over my wet head. My head was wet again. I remembered coming out of the rain. I had been running up hill. I had come from rain in the valley to a higher elevation and the rain had turned to snow.

I was transformed now. My skin was translucent. My blue smock was gone and I wore my beautiful white robe; a shimmering robe. The fabric of this robe had qualities that did not exist on Earth. The weave was so intricate and the thread so beyond description, that the illumination of the fabric was alive and brilliant.

As I was transferred, tears were streaming down my cheeks. I was so thankful to be here. I was so relieved because of my experiences on Earth. I was not afraid of death, not at all, but, for some reason, I was deathly afraid of what was pursuing me.

The reason didn't seem important now. I was home. The Angels brought me up to my feet. The light was so bright that I could barely see my own arms. The angel to my left put salve on my eyes so I could behold Him. I could see enough only to make out the outer parts of His glory.

The Sea of Glass, shimmering gold like fire and diamonds, was like a cut diamond and crystal clear. His Throne was made of one cut sapphire and the mix of the gold of His presence. Through His sapphire Throne, the emerald like glow was formed because of the Sea of gold reflecting off of the blue.

This emerald glow made a halo around Him. His glory was like a million beautiful sunrises. The colors around Him were like a million incredible sunsets, yet unlike both. God neither sets nor rises by rotation, but His beauty is constant and never changing; always amazing.

I fear I either must stop using my words; amazing, magnificent, awesome, etc., for other things just to reserve the most excellent words to describe His beauty, the indescribable beautiful glory of His presence.

I dropped to my knees before Him and I began to weep. My eyes were opened as the alarm clock was going. I reached over to turn it off, then, before me, my eyes opened. I was there in His presence and then I was in bed awake. Then I fell asleep again.

Angel: "Erin, a gift for you today; Psalm 139. You are loved by the Lord." The angel to the right of me pointed to Scriptures. There were Psalm 135, 136, 137 and 138.

Angel: "Read Psalm 139 first and then the hidden manna in the other Psalms."

I must have hit the snooze and the vision must have been ten minutes because the alarm sounded again and the angels were gone. I felt amazing warmth, like a blanket over me. I got up, took communion, wrote down the first portion of my dream and then I praised God for all that He has done and is about to do.

Dream last night (pause from dream sequence)...

I was sitting on the risers in Heaven, lower than Jesus. He was speaking to me as a Bride. The nature of this was mostly personal as He was preparing me for what was coming.

He was letting me know that my gifts were going to change and get clearer, but, with this, will come burdens. With knowledge come trials. He let me know that I am still under the mantle of protection, but the attacks will now come from those closest to me.

He told me this was necessary as there is nothing new under the sun. He told me that I needed to trust Him fully as He will go before me. He reminded me to not run ahead of Him and to let Him work everything together for His purposes.

He told me I could ask for anything and He would grant this. I laughed and asked that I be worthy of someone that Enoch and Elijah would want to bless.

Jesus: "Granted, Erin." He smiled and I think He was happy. "Guard your heart, Erin. Do you believe that I love you?"

Erin: "Lord, there is nothing I believe more in my heart. If You told me to search for another 350 years, plus 15 more, I would do it and run straight for You. You have shown me love like no other. I love you from the very depths of my soul.

"As far as the Heaven is high and the Earth is low, I would search for You. Even if it meant building a tower to find You in Heaven, I would do it."

Jesus: He laughed. "Are you ready for what comes next?"

My alarm went off at 5:15 am; Communion, prayers and worship.

Continuation of my dream...

As I stood at this incredible sight of His presence, I became overcome. My body wept and my tears were not hidden. I felt fear and trepidation, along with awe and wonder. I had come from something that sought to take my life and, instead, I stumbled into glory to the one who pursued my very soul.

I am chased by Him like I am a prize, yet, when I understand my beginnings and know that my origins come from dust and my flesh is formed by the world, I don't understand why I am so highly sought, and purchased with such a high price.

Who am I? As I sat there just trying to comprehend my place, my role, I became so humbled. I was in my beautiful robe with my wet hair. The oil of joy had been poured over me and my hands and feet were transformed. I appeared as a new creation.

Now this was the third time. At birth was my first as I was shaped in my Mother's womb, originally knit from Heaven. This was my flesh being formed in my first stage, a new creation.

The second stage was when I declared Christ as my Lord and Savior and then became a New Creation in Christ, Jesus. I was transformed by the renewing of my mind and the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, a New Creation.

Now I stood physically transformed, transferred and before the very God of all created things. I was now in my perfected state, a Heavenly being as we were originally supposed to be.

God: "Erin, are you ready?" At this, I shook and my heart raced. "Come forth, child."

Just then, the angels brought me forward. There was a great rumbling and, again, the Lord split the ground in half. He literally parted the Sea of Glass. I couldn't make out His form, but I saw, at first, what I thought was His hand was actually a Scepter.

He waved it and the Sea, by His command, parted before me. I dropped to my knees and I shook. I wept and I was afraid. I then felt the presence of two humans come up beside me. To my right was Enoch and to my left was Elijah.

I felt a shawl being placed over me by Elijah and I felt oil over my head. This was different from the oil of joy that the angels had poured over me. Immediately, I felt secured in their covering over me.

Enoch: "Erin, now it's time to see."

Then, before me, was a certain mountain. This mountain stood after the flood and appeared to be holy. I know this mountain. I have personally seen this before. My first Near Death Experience (NDE). I was at the base of it.

There was a layer of fog near the ground level that kept me from seeing what was above it or walking through it. This time, I saw the mountain above the layer of clouds. This could be near where the ark landed, but I wasn't sure and I couldn't tell.

The mountain was a favored mountain and only children reserved for the Lord dwelt there. In the Valley below, of which I couldn't tell which valley, but it was like Achor or Baca. In the valley dwelt sons of angels and sons of the fallen.

There in this valley, I saw small cities here that were expanding rapidly. The divided land was separated by deep chasms in which the water receded and where the fallen were entombed over their districts.

This one particular valley held a particular group of fallen; one or possible two of the 70 were there. This fallen had secured hiding places for his children in clefts and higher places than what the land covered. There were giants amongst them.

The humans made from the remnant of Adam and Eve governed different cities. These giants, because of their size, were revered and treated like gods. These cities were formed years after the Flood. There were shrines and practices erected all over this valley and even others. I looked confused, but I was fascinated by what I was seeing.

Enoch: "Erin, there were 70 descendants of Noah named. Seventy is the number from the ancients of totality and completion. Here in the valley are the descendants of Canaan, who was cursed, one of these begat another and built a tower and became the striker of the heels of those marked by God."

Then he pointed back to the beautiful mountain. It was like the Garden of Eden and only those that were pure at heart and only worshipped the Lord dwelt there. After a while, the children that dwelt on the mountain heard about the activity in the valley and eventually decided to visit. Good began to partake with evil.

Enoch: "Erin, nothing has changed from the beginning. You must know what you are dealing with here. The enemy has operated in the same way since the beginning of time. They lure, appeal to your senses and then go after your deepest longings.

"They make you believe you can have it all. They make you believe that, by dwelling in the good things, you are missing out on so much more. Then, once you succumb to sin, one leads to another and the wages of sin is death. This is why the ages began to get shorter.

“Not all is beneficial and, once corrupted, these children could no longer enter into the paradise of the mountain. Once they left, they could no longer return, or Heaven too would’ve been overcome with the seed of corruption.”

When I saw this valley and those who dwelled there, I had a question that lingered. I thought I would wait to ask it. I saw the descendants of Noah being granted land in three portions. Because Noah had cursed one, he became more susceptible and so did his children to the schemes of the fallen.

When he and his family came down to the valley, his portion of land was deemed a good land. The angel stood to the left of the great split in Heaven, holding out a plumb line. The angel to my right held the beautiful Bible.

Enoch drew my attention to the angel to my right with the Bible. There, I saw Genesis 9:20-27 illuminated. I saw one of the sons, the cursed one, given over to be a slave to the two. I saw one son was given a large territory expanding over North and West and across many waters.

One was granted the middle region and the one that was cursed was granted the regions south and east. I saw, from my view, that a particular door had been opened here, a permission granted by God via the curse, to satan for this group.

This group of the cursed son decided to steal the land originally granted to Noah’s favorite, from Shem, and force Shem into tent dwellers. This group against Shem had an adversary. Satan, by rights, could begin his plan using this cursed group to inflict trouble.

Noah had granted his favorite land, the land of Enoch, the favored land of God, to his son Shem. All the midland area near the garden as far as the East is from the West was granted to Shem. It was a blessing and gift as these areas were lush and easy to farm.

I looked down on what appeared to be a line across Africa. This originally expanded to Egypt too. Noah had granted this beautiful land to his favorite son. This was the original location of the Garden and the two holy mountains of the Lord, the land of Eden.

I had a question. Actually I had several. God knew immediately. An angel came up to me and placed an ember to my lips and I tasted honey. Before that was done, I had no voice.

The Lord: “Speak Child”.

I knelt down and bowed my head.

Erin: "Help me to understand the fallen and satan. Not much is written in Scripture..."

Then the Lord waved His Scepter and Enoch spoke without words.

Enoch: "Erin, satan petitioned to God the day that the fallen were sent to their regions. Look."

I then saw the Earth again, but pre-flood. I saw Enoch, who was walking with God, transformed, yet still visible. Enoch walked the Earth in his Heavenly body. All of the angels were connected to Heaven and were able to roam on Earth freely.

Enoch was the holder of calendars, records, measurements, and judgment. This was a gift granted to him by God because he was favored. I saw wicked things that the fallen were doing, but nothing like their sons. When I say wicked, you just wouldn't believe it.

It actually sickens my stomach just viewing it. There was so much blood being shed, and even consumed. I saw the beginnings of DNA corruption as nephilim, the off-spring, demi-gods of the fallen, began to corrupt perfection by harvesting bodily seeds, fluids and intertwining blood amongst all living organisms.

If it was alive and moved, there was intercourse. With this came a very strong breed of evil, along with a very weak breed of slaves. I saw Enoch taking records. He was a writer and the very first one in all of Creation.

I saw Enoch climbing the Holy Mountain with the records of the deeds of the Earth. Enoch approached God. However, Jesus was there too. He laid down several tablets before the Throne of God.

God had made a decision. Below and at the base of the mountain, the fallen were calling out to Enoch.

God said to Enoch: "Go and report this to these."

God pointed to the fallen. Enoch climbed back down the Holy Mountain and, there, the Fallen had requested help and intercession from Enoch. Across the valley was a certain ridge. There sat an evil entity.

I saw satan on his perch, or ledge, watching this plea. I could read satan's thoughts. He was declaring to himself that the fallen watchers were weak and spineless. I was so interested in the events that I hadn't realized that Elijah was tugging on my left sleeve.

I quickly looked up and he pointed to the angel with the Bible. The angel illuminated Jude 1:6 and 2 Peter 2:4. Then Elijah nudged me back to the scene below and, there, I saw Enoch before the judgment seat of God. With Enoch were the Sevenfold Spirits of Heaven standing for, and around, Enoch.

The Seven-fold Spirits were the same that I had seen in my dreams before. I knew that the Seven-Fold Spirits were with Enoch in his delivery. Each of these angels was on a horse. Each had a white horse, but nothing like Jesus' horse in Heaven; His horse is truly amazing.

It didn't look like these angels were confined to the horses either. I believe this was so they could ride swiftly on Earth. I saw names on each of them. They were stunning, radiant and strong; extremely muscular and amazingly beautiful. I had more questions.

Each name was revealed to me. I was so excited to see this. The first; "Faith", the second; "Wisdom", the third; "Patience", the fourth; "Mercy", the fifth; "Judgment", the sixth; "Goodness" and the seventh; "Peace".

Next to these were the archangels. I saw differing ranks of angels also; some with wings and some with the resemblance of animals. They cried out and attested to God's Holiness. This was a beautiful site. Enoch laid the tablets out.

The Lord became angry, the Mountain shook and the fallen wept. It was very difficult to watch. Enoch came down the Mountain and, with him, came Heaven's army. The fallen were to be sentenced.

From his lofty ridge, I saw satan come to the Mountain on the other side via a back gate. He was granted permission to approach. There, satan made known his requests; one that I hadn't noticed. He requested first that he be entitled to half of the fallen to assist him in carrying out his plan on Earth.

God was not pleased with his request, but, knowing that He had planned on refining mankind using satan, He granted satan 10% of the fallen to carry out his deeds. God also allowed differing ranks of these evil entities to stay in the land and rule under satan.

However, ALL requests and petitions were to be brought before the Lord God Almighty prior to any testing or afflictions of mankind. Satan came down and gathered his elect, his 10% of the fallen. Satan was not allowed to have his pick.

He was not allowed to have the fallen condemned to be underground in certain areas. These were under the care of the archangels. These fallen were too evil to walk with man. Even so, satan was pleased with the result.

Enoch kept records of the humans that didn't turn from their wickedness for they instead practiced extreme evil based on the instructions of the fallen. To honor their fathers, the offspring of the fallen erected temples to climb up to Heaven and overthrow God.

God told Enoch that He wished He had not created man and wished to remove them. Enoch petitioned for his children to be spared from God's wrath. God agreed to Enoch's request. As a result, the flood came, the flood in the days of Noah.

This answered my question. Now I knew that satan had kept at least 1/10th, or about twenty of the fallen, equal to seven plus their offspring. I wasn't sure if they were all underground or just a few. Then I looked to the angel with the Bible. The angel illuminated Revelation 20:10 and 20:1-3.

The angel was reminding me that satan's fate had already been sealed, the same as the fallen. Enoch showed me the ark and the door being closed. I saw the water come and the Earth flood.

When the water receded into the grid points, the clouds parted. I saw a rainbow. Just as I saw this beautiful sight, I felt Enoch take the shawl that was over my shoulders and drape this over my head. I didn't understand.

Enoch: "Erin the covering is now also a veil." I looked down and I could no longer see the spirit realm with my own eyes. "There is now a separation between man and these evil beings."

I was confused. Now I could no longer see even the angels in Heaven. The angel with the Bible illuminated Luke 16:26 and showed me the division.

Then I saw the sons of Noah and the division of the land. I saw the greed of one son stealing the land from the other. As the populations grew, so did corruption. Noah still remained on the Mountain of God; there was still good there.

The people of the valley enticed and called out to some of the sons on the Mountain. Many decided to leave, but those who left were unable to return. During this time, the stars in Heaven marked an event; the birth of Abram.

Because of the departure of his earthly father from the presence of the Lord, Abram learned about carved idols and images. He learned from his father how to worship them also.

Abram became weary when he realized that they were worthless and were not made in the image of the Creator of Heaven and Earth and that they lacked power. Abram destroyed the images.

From my vantage point, I saw this young man, a warrior who honored his father and sought to please him, now realizing that these relics were dead. As such, Abram began to chop them up. His father found out and was grieved.

Abram's father went to the descendant of the fallen, Nimrod, for counsel and to report the deeds of his 'wicked' son, Abram. Nimrod was a mighty man with the strength of a thousand warriors. Nimrod was even highly worshipped as a god.

However, Nimrod was terrified of Abram. From my vantage point, I saw a special covering over Abram that kept Him for God. Abram was marked and chosen. Nimrod was able to see this because he was able to see those marked by the Lord.

Nimrod ordered Abram to be burned in the furnace, along with other men of wisdom. Many people came out to view the refining of the wise men and their judgment of their deeds against the gods. I saw the order for Abram to be burned.

Immediately the others were obliterated, which was difficult to watch. However, Abram was in the fire for, what seemed to me like, three days. I was completely confused. I had never read this before, although this is similar to what happened in Daniel. I had questions.

Then I saw Enoch wave his hand over to my right and below. There I saw a tall tower being swept away, just as told in Isaiah. Then he moved his hand and, over the years and even beyond, I saw several tall towers, different times and different cities, all being brought low.

Each one of these that fell was the beginnings or precursors to final judgments. This was fascinating. I was seeing times also to come; towers that now stand will no longer stand. I was watching history repeating itself. Knowing my thoughts in advance, I heard the Lord

The Lord: "Erin there are patterns, all repeating, and nothing is new under the sun."

I bowed to the Lord and praised Him for such understanding. Enoch grabbed my arm to show me Abram. The Sevenfold Spirits of Heaven had come upon him after he was removed from the refining fire; the furnace of affliction.

He was feared and greatly revered in this land. The Lord blessed Abram with wealth and he prospered in everything he did. He had great wisdom, compassion and love. I saw him take a beautiful Wife, Sarai.

Sarai was a gift to Abram from God and she was hand built by the Lord specifically for Abram to be his Wife. During the same time period, I saw the land becoming more evil as the Lord decided to consume two of the most grotesque cities.

Because Abram had a great prayer covering and blessing from Enoch in Heaven, and the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven were around him, the Lord showed favor to Abram. The angels gave warning and eventually removed them from this land.

They traveled with a large following to the land that was originally given to Shem, Egypt. There, in Egypt, Abram dealt with another of the fallen; the spirit of Pharaoh. Because of Pharaoh's fear of God, and for the sake of advancing his kingdom, Abram was sent away, Pharaoh granted Abram with gifts and a female slave of beauty to Sarai; Hagar.

Then, from my vantage point, I saw the two women: Sarai, the mother of Israel; and Hagar, the mother of Islam. Hagar nipped at the heels of Sarai. Sarai walked in the Seven-fold Spirit of Heaven as her Husband, Abram, was her covering, Abram.

Yet, I saw something unusual. I saw Hagar being observed and shielded by satan and the black dragon. Eventually, the two could not dwell together and the Lord intervened. Hagar went to her roots in Egypt and Sarai continued with her husband in the Promised Land.

Then Elijah spoke to me, again without words.

Elijah: "Erin, do you see what has happened? Now, I will show you the advances of these."

Then I saw the workings of the black dragon, along with the deep-seeded jealousy and hatred for the descendants of Isaac, the child born to Sarai, now renamed by God as Sarah.

While Abram, now renamed by God as Abraham, was visiting the Mountain with Isaac, Sarah was in a foreign land and died during this period. Then the angel with the Bible illuminated Genesis 23.

There I saw something interesting. In Genesis 23:4, Abraham says, "I am an alien and stranger among you." He was addressing the people who occupied the land. From what I saw, these people were not marked by the Lord.

Me: "Please permit me to ask, did Sarah die amongst descendants of the fallen?"

Elijah: "Yes. They were afraid of Abraham and their fear caused them to give him whatever he requested. They were subject to Abraham and the Seven Fold Spirits of Heaven. These peoples were the Hittites. Throughout history, they have been a problem for God's people. Through these, including with Bathsheba, David almost fell."

Then the angel with the Bible illuminated Deuteronomy 20:17, 7:1 and Joshua 3:10.

Enoch: "These were never eliminated and sought to scramble truth and change laws, thereby diluting truth."

I had more questions, but I was afraid. The Lord sensed my fear to ask.

The Lord: "Erin, do not be afraid. Ask what is on your heart. Seek truth."

I was shaking. Then I saw the angel illuminate Matthew 7:7-8. I was humbled and thankful, fearful still, but glad I could ask.

Me: "Father, I need help here. Who are these descendants that have destroyed the Earth, caused Your children to corruption? The Israelites changed Your Words, confused the calendars and led so many from You? They have left many of us with questions."

God: "Child, your questions make My heart glad. You will have today what you can bear, but there is still more."

While I wrote this, I had a complete and clear open vision of these events, all in 360 degrees. I saw God reveal 5 entities, all evil. Elijah then stepped forward.

Elijah: "Look carefully and with understanding so that you may begin to recognize the roots of these in those around you. You were shown the times to come. When the blood will be tested, this is why."

I then saw a copy of the Torah. This was odd as I have never seen one. I saw a copy of the Bible. I saw a copy of the stone tablets of Moses. They were laid before me on a table. Then I saw Enoch with a plumb line standing there.

I saw the angel to my right with the Bible illuminate the Scripture from Zechariah 4:10. Then I saw the Seven-fold Spirits around him and these were the very composite of Jesus, yet they were angels.

Behind them, not in Heaven, but as if I was looking through a window, I saw these five. The first was a fallen angel. Then I saw the sons of the fallen. They were as follows:

- The Giants, or Anak. The angel with the Bible illuminated Genesis 6:4 and Numbers 13:33. These giants were huge. They had made steps to Heaven that they could climb. They were strong and capable of things that normal humans couldn't conceive.

- The Nephilim, or Klipah. (or at least that is what I think was the word I was shown.) This meant evil. These were responsible for the corruption of the Torah. I saw before me on the table two Torahs. Enoch held the plumb-line. The Torah to the left was the original and the Torah to the right had an inscription in Hebrew that the angel illuminated; 'Rambam', which had been altered.

Elijah: "The original was taught to the elders, the seventy elders, by Moses. Joshua can also attest to this." The angel then illuminated the Scriptures to Exodus 24:12. These were responsible for false wisdom, knowledge and confusion.

Then I was shown the Israelites fleeing Egypt and the Pharaoh, but I saw something interesting. There were others with them fleeing. They were the descendants of the fallen. The 'yeast'!

I then saw the Lord. The angel then illuminated Exodus 12:43-48.

Elijah: "Erin, this is one of the reasons for the symbolism of unleavened bread. The yeast permeates as evil permeates good, mixing it in. Evil was permeating the chosen. Notice that these cannot be circumcised and therefore cannot participate. Light cannot mix with dark. The Lord was showing the division of these here."

I stammered with a question.

Me: "Who else is here?"

Elijah: "These are the other three."

Before me, I saw the other three fallen descendants back behind the books:

- The Giborim: These were responsible for places of learning and buildings that contained information; men of renown, stature, wisdom and laws. These were synagogue builders and lovers of themselves. They wanted to be like God and were more worried about reputation. These were also great bankers in Egypt and used religious practices to further wealth and status; executors of pride. These were welcomed guests of the mixed multitudes of the Exodus.
- The Refrain, or Shadows: They are in the background and at the end of the caravans. They fed on the weak, the weary and the hopeless, shedding doubt and lies. These helped to shed doubt on the Torah. These were rooted from magic, oracles, divination and the like. They would influence the backsliders and lead them astray to worship empty gods and the stars. They preyed upon the weak of the faith.
- The Anakim, or Belittle: These hate anything spiritual. They bear false witness against the Godly in ministry. They are haters of servitude and lovers of division. They work by degradation, self-loathing and feed upon the guilt of the elect. Then the angel pointed to Exodus 17:16. These gave rise to anti-Semitism.

One third of the Jewish population had these entities mixed with them. I was then shown the blood and how important it was that the blood not be mixed. I saw Solomon, who took on foreign wives and mixed races, with these also.

God, in His faithfulness, always kept a remnant for Himself. These had intermixed with the Jewish population. I saw the following words, but I don't know them; Erev rav. These were souls not Jewish but born of Jews. Those that were born were not marked by God.

Elijah: "Erin, do you understand what you have seen? They did not obey the original commandments. From there, all things became confused, convoluted and corrupt. This applies even more so today. Now you will be shown more. Write this plainly.

"Do not be afraid. Call upon the Lord when you are discouraged, disheartened and isolated. He will hear you and answer your cries for help. He has not left you alone and will even allow you to be fed in the cave by ravens."

He smiled and had such a beautiful glow about him. He was handsome. I then knelt down before the Lord. I worshiped and praised Him, thanking Him for all that He has done for me, an insignificant woman. I stayed there awhile and listened to the angels sing. Enoch and Elijah worshiped also and granted me a blessing. I began to stand.

The Lord: "Child, the Seven Fold Spirit is upon you, as well as those that are with you."

I looked and saw the beautiful Seven. They were the lampstands. As they glowed like flames, I knew that these were the very Spirit of the Living God, Jesus, as were the bowls, the churches and the likes in Revelations.

I knew that I would be learning more about this, as well as the seven counterfeits of these. Both Elijah and Enoch walked me to the gate. There, Enoch put the shawl over my head and Elijah put the oil on my hands.

Enoch (again speaking without words): "Erin, remember that Ezekiel 28 shows what roams to and fro. The Lord's judgment is upon these. Do not be afraid or discouraged. Your message will not be received well by all. This is to be expected. Elijah can attest to this.

"I was a scribe, Elijah was a teller and both of us stood on truth and neither of us saw death. Even though the fallen have tried to also confuse this, when reading the Word of the Lord, pray first for understanding, pray a blessing over God's Words and ask for the Seven-Fold Spirit to be around you, and in you, as the Holy Spirit dwells.

"The Seven-fold Spirit seeks those who seek the heart of God on Earth. See by their fruits. This is a Blessing, Erin, you are loved by the King and loved by the Lord. Continue to love and stay on your course. We are coming soon, but, more importantly, the Lord and love is coming down. Be blessed." They smiled at me.

As I sat in my chair with my journal on my lap and my pen in hand, I sat stunned; shocked really. I was there with them, yet only an hour had lapsed. It seemed like a year or even a day. I had so much information.

My Prayer: Lord, may all that I write, all that is conveyed, be straight as I have seen and been told. Let me not deviate to the left or the right. Let me stand with an upright heart and humble Spirit.

Lord, let not one thing be written by my hand be wrong, let every breath that I am and every word that I write be the exact thing that I have been shown. May you bless those who need this information for Your purposes as I have no lofty goals except to do Your Will in this. I love You, Father, and I rest on Your Words, in Jesus Name, Amen.

Love and blessings... sparrow

Dream 042 – The Seven-Fold Spirits of Heaven

Saturday, February 9, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:04 PM

I'm running up the mountains, trying to hide. I am being pursued by dogs; a large pack is coming for me. I know that my only chance is to run uphill and hide. I knew several of us had come up the mountain, but I couldn't see them. There was no moonlight.

I was barefoot. We were hit at night. I could hear gunshots and the dogs. It was raining. The rocks were cutting my feet, but the adrenaline in me kept me from focusing on the pain. I'd been on this mountain before and I knew there was a path somewhere.

My left foot was cut and I was bleeding from somewhere else. I had been hit, but all I could feel was the warmth of blood. I stripped my outer smock of blue and wound it up and tied it around my waist like a sash. I didn't want to lose this in case I needed the cloth later to tear into strips for a tourniquet.

I was thirsty. I wanted water badly. I was running up this hill with supernatural strength. I am not sure if it was because I was acting like a scared rabbit looking for a hole, or a warrior for a place to rest and regroup. In reality, I was both. I felt in my Spirit that I had left someone important behind.

I was grieved and in shock. As I ran and climbed in the dark, I could hear the dogs again, along with gun shots. I knew up here somewhere, if I could find this utility road, I could at least run on a path with not so many rocks. I began to shake as my body was going into shock.

I didn't want these dogs to overcome me. I could see stars above me. I saw the 'Hunter' constellation in the sky and I knew it was late at night. As I climbed higher, I could hear the gunshots and dogs coming closer. Finally, I came to the clearing, but there was fog.

I knew the path according to the stars and I was running north. When I found the path, I started running faster. I heard the dogs running faster too as they had picked up my trail of blood. I saw search lanterns. They began to light the path.

Then I saw something frightening that the light had picked up; wolves. I had been running from dogs straight into wolves. In front of me, the wolves lined the path on either side. There were hundreds of wolves. It seemed odd.

When the search lanterns would flash, I would see the red of the wolves' night eyes, but they could not come onto the path. I somehow knew God was holding them back. As long as I stayed on the path that I could barely see, the wolves would not be able to get me.

I was confused by this. I heard a few of them whimper when I ran past them as they wanted to attack me. They sounded restrained because they were as surely God was here keeping me safe. The path was narrowing.

I had never been this far up the mountain, yet I knew that there were clefts to hide in. There was no way I was getting off this path. As I ran, the red eyes of the wolves created a divine fence of sorts.

The wolves were ready to attack, but, right now, the only things able to attack were the dogs. The mountain was becoming steeper and the path was narrowing as I ran. I could now hear the dogs maybe 100 yards away and approaching fast.

I was growing weak from blood loss. It was cold. I heard the guns go off again and the dogs sound as if they had just found another one of us. This bought me a few more seconds to distance myself from the dogs.

The restrained wolves were ready to devour me if they could. As I ran and the path narrowed, I could feel the hot breath of the wolves on my hands as I moved past them. Suddenly, the road turned into a rocky incline and the rocks became slippery.

There in front of me, at the top of the rocks, was a deer. The deer almost seemed of a luminescent quality to me. The wolves were right next to it, but they were unaware that the deer was there. They couldn't see or smell it. The deer illuminated the rocks so I could climb.

I remembered Scriptures about a deer; a pretty fawn. The deer was my light so I could see. The dogs were at the bottom of the rocky incline and the hunters were now shooting at me. Then, as I reached the top of the incline, I saw in the distance a small ray of light.

I was almost home. There was snow here and the deer was now nowhere to be found. However, the snow remained slightly illuminated. As I ran closer to the light, I heard something like a large explosion.

I instinctively knew that more of the city that I was fleeing from was being overcome. I was terrified and my body was growing weaker. The wolves were still there in front of me. I now saw a light, like a doorway, about a hundred yards out.

I prayed to God that He allow me to enter. I prayed it wasn't too late for me. I couldn't feel my feet anymore. The wolves were now released with the dogs. I knew that if I didn't at least try to get to the doorway, I would be eaten by dogs and wolves instead of being killed by the bullets.

Bullets seemed like the best way to go to me and certainly better than the jaws of dogs. I was now about thirty feet from the doorway; so close. I felt bullets fly past my ears. Suddenly, one of the bullets hit me in my right side.

The hit from the bullet took my breath away. As I looked back, I saw my blood on the snow. I saw the dogs and the wolves. They were almost upon me now. Suddenly, I saw them all just stop and lay down. They were all whimpering as they were submitting to something.

I turned to the Gate; the Gate that most of us thought was from storybooks. None of us really thought it was there. None of us took it seriously, but, here in front of me, was my only hope. If I could just enter through it since I now know it exists, then I could be with my forefathers.

Just then I fell only about ten feet short of the Glory Gate. I felt the warmth of my blood begin to pour out. I knew this was a mortal wound and I was starting to lose consciousness.

As I lay with my right cheek in the snow, the last thing I was seeing was this beautiful green shoot pushing through the snow. How could this be? The season was wrong. It was beautiful. As I reached out for the tender shoot, I heard the sound of rushing waters and the wings of Angels.

The tears were streaming down my cheeks. I wasn't sure if it was real or an illusion. I felt the arms of something picking me up. There I felt a warm tingling sensation coursing through my body. I saw angels.

Angel: "We will carry you the rest of the way. You are Home now."

I was ready. One of the other angels blew into my face and I went to sleep. Sometime later, whether minutes, hours, or days I do not know, I was inside that Gate. The light was all around me. The angels were tending to me.

I don't know how I made it even close enough to see the light, but I was so thankful the angels had carried me Home. Now I was present in Heaven. I'm not sure which gate I had come through or what was seeking my life, I just knew I was hated for my namesake, yet I didn't understand.

All I remember is that the humans had become dogs and wolves and that they hated us. I watched as I no longer felt pain. The presence here was incredible. My feet were healed, my side was healed and my body was transformed. It was radiant.

The angels had removed my garments and gave me a beautiful white robe. My hair was still wet but, it was clean. The rain below was dirty and it had a smell like wet iron and sulfur. This hair of mine had been through fresh rain. A beautiful angel had carried me.

Angel: "Beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news."

I was a bit confused because I was not here to give a message, but to receive it. I was behind a type of curtain in a tent. Over to my left, I saw many rags, or dirty garments, in the corner. I didn't see any of the colors from my section there. I was glad that others had made it too.

Me: "Oh, good, I am not alone."

Angel: "No, you were never alone, but, one by one, each of you has appeared. You sought Jesus and He heard your cries on the mountain."

I began to cry. The angels brought me up and another angel opened the curtains. There in front of me was Glory, the Glory light of God Almighty.

Angel: "Are you ready for service?"

Me: "Of course."

The angels walked me to the Sea of Glass. My memory of what I had come through and who I was I could no longer recall. I was now Home. I couldn't wait to hear the Good News, but I couldn't see.

The angel to my right put salve in my eyes and a honeycomb in my mouth, while the angel to my left poured fragrant oil over my head. My cells were fully renewed and in sync with My Father and my Heavenly Home now. My head was still down because I couldn't look upon His Glory.

The angels moved me closer to a point, even though I am certain my body should have melted in His divine presence. I was on the sapphire Sea of Glass. His light of Glory shone like the sun and I could only see glimpses of blue. I could see the beautiful sapphire Throne.

The gold running through the blue faceted cuts of the sapphire made an emerald light. The Glow reminded me exactly of the northern lights. Now I knew that this wasn't some Earth phenomenon, but it was His heavenly presence radiating to Earth cloaked as science.

He is the Northern Light. He is the Aurora Borealis. How did I not recognize this before? This light shone in the dark; in the night sky even. The beauty and power before the Throne of God is beyond anything describable. We were created for worship and this is the very reason why.

Take the most amazing worship service you've ever attended, magnify it by one million, and you have the wonder of being before Him in Glory. The first emotion that I experience here at first is that I immediately realize my position; small.

After this, nothing matters, only Him and His presence. I dropped again to my knees and I became overwhelmed; honor, humility, meekness and weakness came upon me and I wept in His presence. Then I felt the mighty wind coming from all directions. I heard the voice of Jesus coming from the wind.

Jesus: "Erin, I love you. Do not be afraid. You were once small and now you've grown. You have been given back your honor and you no longer walk in shame. Our Father loves you and has given you the gift of sight and the hand of a scribe so you might open the eyes and ears to those He calls and also loves. Be encouraged, take heart and be strong. I love you."

Then the wind stopped suddenly. I just wept with my head down. I trembled at this. As I bowed down, I felt a hand on my left shoulder and a hand on my head. It was Elijah to my left and Enoch to my right. This time, Elijah took a cloak, or shawl, and draped it over me. With his right hand, he blessed me in Hebrew.

Enoch: "Erin, your hands."

I put them out to him and he flipped them so my palms were up. Then he poured fragrant oil over them. I didn't understand this. The oil felt extremely warm. As it poured, I felt warmth run through the blood in my body.

Enoch: "Erin, there will be much to learn. If you do not understand, you must ask. Do not be a Perizzite."

I didn't understand, yet I didn't ask. I turned to God Almighty on the Throne.

The Lord: "Child approach."

His voice went through my entire body, permeating and vibrating with His voice. Enoch and Elijah took my arms and stepped forward, pulling me forward.

The Lord: "What you are now to witness has been hidden."

Then the ground shook and the Sea of Glass was split in two parts. Below me, I saw the land originally given to Abraham; the Promised Land. This land instead was stolen by Canaanites, the descendants of Noah. Canaan was cursed.

He was removed to the valley and intermingled with the spirit of Nimrod, or satan. The seed was spread here. Now, Elijah pointed me in front of the Throne and, before me, were the beautiful Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven.

These were angels with armor, like solid gold, and faces which shone like stars, like flames. They were Breathtaking to behold. Before the Seven was Jesus in a transparent state and each of the Spirits were like appendages to Jesus.

These Spirits were part of Him and came from Him. They were as one In Spirit. Each one of these Spirits was on a horse. Upon looking closer, I could see that each of Spirits held a scroll with a seal.

As I observed this amazing sight directly from Revelation 5, I began to shake and the tears fell from my eyes uncontrollably. These Spirits were part of, what appeared to be made up of, a seven piece Menorah. I saw oil being poured over the Seven-fold Spirits and Jesus by angels.

Jesus was standing on the Throne of God. It was not what I expected, although, not knowing what that was, I knew this was more incredible then what was written. My eyes were gathering information. I was so humbled to be here. To describe this is difficult.

I was in prayer and I was trembling for fear that I wouldn't write this down exactly how I had seen it. Imagine this; you are seeing something like golden flames with golden armor, beautiful horses and the beauty of Christ melding into them, but really them extending from Him.

The colors from the sapphire Throne where Jesus was standing became so intense in reflective colors. The sapphire Throne was faceted and the colors going through the prism light of the Throne were not in our color spectrum. I don't have tubes of paint that can even be mixed to represent them because the pigments are not of Earth.

Upon closer observation, I saw Jesus' robe. His robe was stained with blood. I realized He is the Lamb of God. God, our Father, was there also; really around us, but part of what was right in front of me. God was present and the Glory was Him.

Elijah then diverted my attention down to Earth. As I began to look down, I noticed two angels were there. To our right was the angel with the Holy Bible and to my left was the angel with the plumb line. Elijah brought me closer to the opening and he bent down on one knee.

In his left hand, he supported himself with what looked like a reed or a staff; I couldn't tell which, maybe they were both. Then Enoch brought the cloak, or shawl, that Elijah had placed over my shoulders and put it over my head to cover me.

I looked down and I saw something interesting. I saw satan in this valley, the same valley that had both wicked and good dwelling there. I saw satan producing from his own seed offspring. It was odd though. His seed spilled out onto the ground and he had not lain with a woman, yet these were formed directly from him.

It was vile to watch. He kept morphing as this happened from what appeared to be a younger red dragon, younger than what I had seen at the dome. I was seeing him in the beginnings of his reign after the Flood.

His chosen fallen of seven had dispersed, although some of the thirteen or so offspring had remained in the valley and were also present. Satan had been a party somehow to the curse of Canaan. The curse gave birth to more.

I saw these strange serpents come out of satan's seed. He was giving birth to the opposite of the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven. These were pure evil. Each of these serpents had a name, a place and a task. These were different entities than the ones that were sent up from Egypt with Moses.

Those entities were physical manifestations. What I was seeing was what was birthed on Earth of the unseen. Each serpent slithered out into the valley. They collected more spirits to reign with them and under them. It was a hidden army.

Elijah: "Erin, do you have questions?"

Me: "Yes, am I seeing the opposite of the Seven-fold Spirits of the Lamb of God?"

Elijah: "Yes, and now you will see what they are capable of and what they've accomplished."

He then used his staff and directed my attention back to the valley. I saw the relatives of Canaan steal the land promised to Abraham.

Elijah: "Canaan means lowland, or low to the ground."

I saw, literally, a low serpent. Elijah squeezed my arm and directed my attention to the angel with the Bible. It was opened to the Book of Deuteronomy, Chapter 7:1-2. I then saw below me these serpents entering in or over and become part of these people.

Each serpent was before each of these civilizations and was birthed from satan as the opposite of the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven. As the angel illuminated the Scripture, I saw from my vantage point a label placed on each one.

Each serpent carried a scroll with a black seal. I saw the first serpent. Satan was there and he opened the first scroll and breathed his life into the serpent and the civilization behind it. He then explained the seven:

The First - Hittites: Label, "sons of terror"; assignment destination, Church of Smyrna; responsible for torment, terror, deception and depression of all of God's marked.

The Second - Gergashites: Label, "clay dwellers"; assignment destination, Church of Sardis; responsible for unbelief, what cannot be seen, analytical, earthliness, science, scholarship, workaholic, greed, cold, aloof and unfeeling.

The Third - Amorites: Label, "mountain people" or "people of renown"; assignment destination, Church of Pergamos; responsible for obsession with earthly fame and glory, domineering, loves edifying themselves at the expense of others and vain ambitions.

The Fourth - Canaanites: Label, "lowland people"; assignment destination, Church of Thyatira; responsible for addictions, perversions, exaggerations, sexual lust, pleasing others, allure of all of God's marked. I also saw a bull and women dancing around to seduce the people.

The Fifth - Perizzites: Label, "belonging to a village"; assignment destination, Church of Philadelphia; responsible for limited vision, laziness, low self-esteem, weakness, sickness, dependency on man, oppressed, spirit of slavery of all of God's marked.

The Sixth - Hivites: Label, "villagers", assignment destination, Church of Laodicea, responsible for hedonism, self-centeredness, earthly inheritances, belief in the wide-gate concept, 'all can enter' of God's marked.

The Seventh - Jebusites: Label, "threshers"; assignment destination, Church of Ephesus; responsible for suppression of spiritual gifts, authority over believers, stopping and crushing fruits, threshing the bodies of all of God's marked.

Then I saw the angel with the Bible pointing to Matthew 11.

The Lord: "Erin, Elijah walks in the spirit of truth. Listen to him."

I bowed down and grabbed Elijah's right hand. He squeezed it in acknowledgement of my agreement to listen to him. Elijah diverted my attention back down to Earth.

I saw several times where God had directed the Israelites to completely destroy the civilizations governing these areas surrounding Israel, but it was never carried out to completion as instructed by the Lord.

Then I saw a palace. Inside I saw King David. His son Solomon was kneeling before him. David wore a crown. David was praying over Solomon. I couldn't understand what they were saying as it was not in my language, but the angel to my right illuminated the Scripture 1 Kings 2:2-4 right before me.

I saw Solomon turn into a great king, blessed by David and loved by our Father God in Heaven. As Solomon's kingdom was getting stronger with wealth and power, he was still granted rest from his enemies while he reigned as king for forty years.

Elijah then pointed to an area near Jordan. I saw satan blessing the kings of each of these territories with the seeds of the spirits. I saw each of these kings with a beautiful daughter. I saw the serpent spirits slither to their heels and bite them with venom while they were toddlers.

After satan had accomplished this, he went to Egypt and directed one of the fallen, the Pharaoh of Egypt, to build up his daughter. She was presented to satan from the Pharaoh and satan himself bit her heel. Then the scene moved back to Solomon.

I watched as Solomon began to lust from the beauty of the Canaanite daughters. He married each of these women to strengthen relations, but to also collect a beautiful bounty, or harem, for himself. Each of the daughters of these civilizations were married to Solomon and laid with him.

These women mated with Solomon and corrupted him and his beliefs. He was so lured by their seductions and spent so much of his time pleasing them, while they pleased him, that he didn't realize that the Lord was furious and Solomon's dynasty was about to end.

He was mixing the seed of Holiness with the egg of destruction. One of the wives Solomon took was directly from Baal worship and she was very sweet and seductive. He gave her a worshipping area with Ashtoreth poles so she could enjoy her gods.

She was a bit controlling. She gave birth to a son, Rehoboam. Solomon had died and Rehoboam was now king.

Elijah: "Now, Erin, watch Rehoboam carefully"

I saw Rehoboam begin extreme taxation. I saw the land divided. Israel was at the north with ten tribes and Judah was at the south with two tribes. I saw what looked like a highway running from north to south.

I saw that the ten tribes were to travel to the south for the Festivals, but, because Rehoboam wanted control, he set up worship in the north. Along the road, I saw altars being set up of calves for travelers to worship.

I saw spirits of Canaan and the spirit of satan from Egypt setting this up. I then saw them switching out Levites with rabble. The priesthood was being corrupted with the governing spirits of the Amorites. This pattern went on for almost 4000 years until Jesus came.

Elijah: "Erin, now you can see the roots of these. You can begin to see the patterns. This is the counterfeit, or the seven-spirits of evil." Then he waved his reed and I saw Elijah fleeing to the desert, supernaturally fast. He was going into hiding. "Erin, do you understand why I was fleeing?"

Me: "Yes, but there must be more."

Elijah then pointed to the angel with the Bible. There before me was Malachi 4. The angel then turned to Matthew 11:7-18. I then saw Elijah's staff was a reed.

Enoch: "The spirit of Elijah does not come in comfort like the spirit of a Hivite. He is not a prophet of comfort, but truth. He was hated by them."

I then saw Jezebel. She was a direct descendent of satan, the king of Tyrus, in the land of Canaan. She was one of the most powerful women. She worshipped Baal, or satan, and hated the Israelites. She was pure evil. The angel pointed to Ezekiel 28.

Enoch: "See, the same patterns set up by Jezebel governed by these seven evil spirits are rampant today. Do not be weary in doing good, but be thankful that you are a good soldier in war.

"A good soldier must be willing to suffer, endure hardship, go through loneliness and even poverty; to be filled with the spirit of Elijah, like John the Baptist, unafraid of the desert, eating locusts and honey."

The angel with the Bible turned to Matthew 3:1-6 and 2 Timothy 2:3-7.

Enoch: "In 2 Timothy, there is wise counsel and insight."

Me: "Elijah, is that a staff or a reed?"

Elijah: "Good question. It is neither a staff or a reed, but a pen; the Word."

Me: "I don't understand."

Enoch: "Erin, much of the truth was modified. I was a scribe, careful to divulge truth in what I sought. Elijah was also the truth coming in the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven and the full embodiment of Christ. The Word over the years was modified by the enemy."

"The actions of these changes were subtle, except when whole books were removed. This was a result of soul trends. These were not by the Spirit of the living God, which is based on the foundations of truth. Man was driven by soul, not by spirit."

"A reed is shaken by the wind. This refers to people that rewrite God's laws to fit soul trends or fashions. These are modern day Aarons that change Scripture to tickle and fancy the ears."

"These are driven by Canaanite spirits of feeling good and self-pleasuring. The spirits of Elijah will defy these with truth. Elijah comes right handed."

Just then, Elijah squeezed my left hand with his right. I felt warmth go through me.

Enoch: "Elijah brings forth a message of truth, justice and judgment. He will be heard by those whose ears have turned. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Now, something for you".

Both Enoch and Elijah rose and brought me up. I saw the Earth below me. It was covered by the web and the black spider, the daughter of Jezebel. She was luring prey into her web. I saw both the black and the red dragons.

I saw the seven serpents of the spirit of satan multiply all over the world. I saw the original seven resting over the seven continents, all where the fallen was governing from their living tombs.

I saw the spirits of Canaan rampant in the USA, but the spirit also worked together in unison against targets. I saw a home swept clear of a demon, then, through another opening, the demon called upon the seven spirits of evil and they all came and ravished and devoured the house.

I saw evil so vile, it was difficult to stand in the Lord's holy presence and look upon these. Then before me at the Throne, I saw the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven.

Angel: "Who is worthy to break the seals and open the scrolls?"

I saw seven scrolls with seven seals. I saw Jesus breaking the seal on each from the center of the Throne. Around the Throne, I could see elders, Cherubim and Seraphim. I was terrified because I knew what this meant. The angel turned to the Bible and there I saw Jeremiah 17:5-18.

The Lord: "Child, you must write what you have seen as a witness. Make this plain."

I bowed before the Throne of God. Enoch and Elijah brought me up and walked me to the Gate. Elijah brought the cape over my head and kissed the top of my head like he was blessing a child. Tears were streaming down my cheeks and both of them looked at me with such gentle faces. Enoch then kissed the top of my head also.

Enoch: "Erin, all of this is from Scriptures, hidden in plain sight. Some have uncovered the truth and some have fashioned it. We are here to expose the enemy and make your paths clear. Once truth becomes known, many of you will perform signs and wonders in the Name of Jesus.

"Keep your focus on the truth. Do not entertain evil or some of your homes will be ravished by these seven. Entertain good and produce good fruit, thereby entertaining us and even Jesus Himself. The Lord has granted the Holy Spirit to give you discernment of the schemes of the wicked.

"The truth is also the Word. In the words of the Prophet Jeremiah: 'Blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. He will be like a tree planted by the water that sends out its roots by the stream.

"It does not fear when heat comes, its leaves are always green. It has no worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit. Our blessing is upon you and our covering is over you. Your heart is good. Be blessed."

This dream was over the course of three nights. There was a departure on Wednesday evening. I had fallen asleep over my computer as I was finishing a brief paragraph on fasting. In this, I was with Jesus. I was small, like a young girl.

I was tired and had gone to Him for comfort and counsel over some matters of the heart. I had longed and was grieved over the loss. He diverted my attention and brought my focus on Him. He encouraged me.

Jesus: "Erin, I have something to show you that will help with your worry."

This dream message was also weighing heavily on me. He took me to the Balustrade and, over it, I saw a high rise building in a large city. He took me inside the building to the elevator. There I saw the lights. I was waiting for the elevator.

Jesus: "Erin, do you see something missing?"

Me: "Yes, there is no 13th floor."

Jesus: "Is this true?"

Me: "Of course not. There is still a 13th floor. They have disguised it as the 14th. They skipped over it."

Jesus: "Erin, the answer you seek about fasting and confirmation that Scripture has been modified is in Matthew 17. Where is the 21st verse?"

Just then I woke up. I went directly to Matthew 17:20 and then it jumped to 22. Where is 21? Down below in the footnotes, I saw it. It is referring to casting out demons. Jesus says, in Matthew 17:21, "But this kind does not go out but with prayer and fasting." I wrote this down and went off to bed.

That night, I was with Jesus again as a young girl. I had gone to Him on personal matters after He had counseled me with wisdom.

Jesus: "There are things you must know that will help you. You are being tested right now with a small open door. This is a learning experience on deceptions of the spirits of evil which are now being revealed to you. I have something to show you."

He took me to the Balustrade and, looking over, I saw different churches today. I saw the seven spirits of evil descending on these churches. Each church had a different focus, but each thwarted the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Jesus: "Erin, do you understand what I am showing you?"

Me: "Yes, I believe so."

Jesus: "This is the great deception in operation today. The Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven also carry fruits. These fruits bear witness to Heaven and display the miracles of Elijah. Along with Myself, there were many others that displayed signs and wonders when they walked the Earth.

"The enemy has stripped the confidence of believers to ask for these gifts. The gifts are for today. These are important weapons of mass destruction against the enemy. Worship in truth, love, speak in your Heavenly language and fast.

"Fasting breaks through strongholds, interpretation, words of knowledge and healing; there are so many. The evil spirits will fight this. They fight Godly fruit. They will use any means necessary to destroy good things.

"When you know these are operating, you must pray to Me and the Holy Spirit will show you the opening or root of these. Then you can cut them down with your weapons. You must walk in the full authority that you have been granted. They must flee with My Name. You are Mine.

"They will flee because you are Mine. Ask for the spirit of Elijah and Enoch. I will grant you this. You will show even greater wonders than I did here, but you must walk in authority. The Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven are upon you. The evil spirits will run. Do you have questions?"

Me: "No. I love You so much. Will You come soon?"

Jesus: "Do you not know your seasons? Have you not seen the signs?"

He smiled and gave me a hug.

My alarm went off. These dream and visions are prophetic in nature. As always, please use discernment. I pray that you are blessed with the blessing and anointing of Elijah and Enoch and that you walk in the full authority of Christ, Jesus. Be blessed.

Much Love and many blessings.....Sparrow

Dream 043 – The Olive

Monday, February 18, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:11 PM

These last couple of weeks have been a time of great “heart matters” for me. I have had to reconcile my heart. I thought that I had cleared up anything else that might be a wall to the Lord, but I realized that I still had things that needed to be dealt with.

I have been hurt in my life, so I have built walls of protection. I have taken the Scripture, Proverbs 4:23, “Guard your heart because it is the wellspring of life”, rewrote this Scripture inside of me as, “Put walls around your heart to keep yourself safe”.

‘Guard’ means to watch over and keep safe. This is very different than ‘walls’. ‘Walls’ are a barrier to keep all things out. If I were to be like this, then my heart would not be able to be used by the Lord. It would become cold and hard, opposed to anything good and of the Lord.

Here I thought I had resolved my heart issues, but the Lord, in His loving kindness and extreme goodness, showed me how to have a heart like Christ; one that He can shape, one that He can instruct and one that can fully love.

This was one of the last issues in my year of Jubilee that God had sought to deal with in me. Now I can enjoy the fullness of His year of release. This was huge. If there is anyone else that needs to reconcile heart matters to the Lord, please consider the olive that you will read about in this dream.

I knew the Lord was speaking to me about the bitter flesh of the olive. You will understand. You will also understand how important this is to the Lord; that we come to this prior to the Bride going to her Groom, when Christ comes for us.

We are in this season. In my heart, I know we are, but without the Lord specifically telling me. Then again, I am a “guesser” and not a very good one at that.

The dream...

We had just finished a great day of celebration unlike any other day in our nation. It had been anticipated and had even been foretold by the prophets. There was so much joy and peace. Israel had just come through a period of great restoration. There had been a festival and ceremony.

Many nations had come to the city to celebrate with us because of the Lord's great provisions, wealth and honor of His people. Even our enemies had come to enjoy our celebration.

My earthly Father, in this dream, was an important part of the ceremonies and he stayed with the others after the rest of us had gone home for the night. I was so proud of my heritage and tribe that I kept my garments on late into the night.

My friends did as well. The registry of our blood lines occurred six weeks prior to the celebration and seven days before the festivities. Couriers came to our doors to let us know what tribe we belong to.

My Father also knew because he was high-ranking and a well-known scholar of the Torah and Jewish traditions. The officials separated each of the tribes and we were each given papers, as well as a small mark at the time of the draw, which was temporary until we received our trackers.

The trackers were small metal scrolls that were placed under our skin. This small mark contained copies of our ancestry. The children received them first as many children were mysteriously missing in the last few years.

The problem that happened was that the tender skin of the young children rejected the small trackers. As a result, many of the children used tracking devices externally. My Father said these were used because the enemy had begun to remove those that were favored.

Not sure what that meant, but a great many people had disappeared some time ago. Many of the elders believed that this was like the Holocaust; people disappearing and going to work camps. Our government wanted to always make sure we were safe and could be found.

My Father had delayed me getting the blood drawn and I didn't receive the mark before the ceremony nor did the rest of my family or some of my parent's friends and their children. My Father had a reason for the delay, but never shared that with us. He was wise, so I trusted his decisions.

Now, I am so glad we never received this tracker. After the great disappearance, my Father believed, as well as a fraction of the Temple workers, that there might be more to this than just a registry. With the insertion of the mark came a large sum of money that quickly brought those who were quite willing to comply with the registry.

The next group that came to receive the mark were those that were convinced that the peace treaty was not real and that several people had been stolen and were hidden somewhere in work/extermination camps.

They thought that, if they had the marker, then they could not be stolen, nor could their children. Their children could only have blood drawn as the children's bodies were pushing the tracker back through the skin within three hours on average of being placed under the skin.

The government was scrambling to find a smaller chip. Many families, after the disappearance of the younger children, kept their older children home out of great fear. My sister babysat for a few of the families.

The next group eager to receive the registry was the group that made a big deal about their positions in the Jewish heritage. They used the marks as a badge. The fourth group didn't question and just went along with the government's demands. The final group didn't want this.

My Father heard these people speak out publicly about this. Some would only allow for the blood to be drawn, but were strong about not receiving the trackers. Later we heard stories that many of these people were punished.

Everyone was afraid to talk about this group. It was hard to believe that, only seven days ago, the Registrar had come to our door. We were from the tribe of Levi. We knew this because my Mother was a descendant, but my Father was from the tribe of both Benjamin and Levi.

The majority of our blood was Levite. When we received this, there was a great assembly to share information. We were gathered for a pre-celebration where we could find out who was from which tribe. Then we were given these beautiful garments to wear for the celebration.

There weren't many of us that were from the tribe of Levi, so I was allowed to stand in as an adult. The celebration was magnificent and like a fairy tale. There were famous people from around the world and even movie stars showed up. The celebration continued up until the bombs came.

All of us, except my Father, were sleeping. The sirens went off, although some of us heard loud Shofars. That seemed to be coming from the celebrations just prior to the sirens. My Father woke us up and told us we were to run for the mountain. He gathered us together.

Within seconds, and as he was yelling for us to get out of bed, he was repeating, "Just run, run, run...no time for shoes...run!" Then, as he pushed us ahead of him, he yelled, "Run to Ephraim to escape, even if you get separated, even if you are alone and scared, run to the mountains of Ephraim. You must go there."

Before the occupation, my family had a beautiful piece of land in Ephraim near the burial site of Joshua. It was beautiful there and very holy. It was in the middle of enemy territory, which he said was a perfect place to be if Israel was ever bombed.

My Father said, "Would an enemy destroy itself? No, it would keep itself strong and fortified." He had always said that there was a gate there on the mountains that would lead us to safety. The last thing I heard as I ran, barefoot, was, "I love you."

Then I heard a loud explosion, followed by a sound like a loud ringing and a strange ping sound. These bombs weren't small warnings. These were meant for complete destruction. My brothers were really men and they ran very fast.

I heard them yelling for me and we became separated by others running in all directions in the mass hysteria. I always obeyed my Father and I was convinced that he always heard directly from the Lord. Others did too. As I ran, I saw horrific things.

People were panicking and hurting each other to get to safety. Behind me, I saw fire and smells unlike anything I had ever smelled. It was putrid. In front of me were check-points with guards. I thought maybe I could run to them for help.

Then I saw a guard pull a gun out and shoot a man who asked where he could go for medical treatment. I heard a voice say, "Over here." No one was there, but I followed the voice. There was a truck moving very slowly, so I jumped on the side as it went for the checkpoint.

I was completely visible, but not one guard saw me. This was a complete miracle of God. The truck moved through the check point and traveled about eleven miles north. I saw other trucks leaving the city and I wondered if my brothers or family found these too.

There was another checkpoint ahead of me, so I jumped off of the truck. As I jumped, the top side of my feet dragged the ground. It was like sandpaper with glass. When I saw that the truck was turning east, I knew that it was leading out into a bad area.

Now all I knew to do was to go north to the mountains of Ephraim, which had God's signature written on it from above. I learned this in school when I was a child. I knew that I needed to get to the side with the woods and cover.

I was scared, but I knew that my Father would find me there, right in the middle of enemy territory. He was smart because I didn't see one person running here and I didn't see the enemy looking here.

I must have been about three miles from Ephraim, but I am just guessing based on lights and signs. I knew the area, but it was night and I could barely remember anything except to run.

My feet hurt so badly that I wanted to stop, but I knew if I focused on this, someone would spot me and I didn't trust any of these people, especially now. I was in the land with dogs. I saw ahead of me an area with trees.

In the background, I could hear explosions and unbelievable fire. The sirens could be heard everywhere. I could hear cheering in this land. They were celebrating our destruction and yelling something about the prophecy of Allah being fulfilled.

I might have heard them say this was the vengeance of the Mahdi? I really don't know for sure. I began to weep when I realized that my family was probably dead. The whole celebration was a trap set by our enemies to destroy us.

Where was God? Where did He go? I found a small trail which went straight up. I began to climb it. I then looked below and behind me and I heard dogs; search dogs. They were coming for the remnants; the runners. My heart pounded.

I heard someone say, "She'll make a trophy and her garments a banner for our parade." Then I felt something penetrate my right side. A bullet hit my side, just grazing me, but it felt like fire. I felt the warm blood rushing and filling my clothing.

I ran faster by the grace of God. I was afraid of dogs. I heard several more shots as the dogs had captured others. I wasn't alone up here. I heard screams, barking, silence and then laughter. I prayed to Jehovah for protection.

Although I felt I was alone, I saw flashes of wolves and my blood was making them hungry and thirsty. Second to fearing dogs, I feared wolves even more. I came to a rocky crest and I saw search lanterns behind me and I heard the dogs coming for me.

I could barely see. At the top of the crest, I saw that beautiful deer. It was illuminated and it brought me up ahead on the rocks. Its glow provided a way for me to know where to place my feet. My feet were being sliced by sharp shale.

The blood trail was attracting everything; wolves, dogs and the others. There was a price on me. The deer led me to a road and, beyond that, I saw the Gate. The Gate had light, a sliver of light, so I ran for the light. This was the place, the Holy Place that my Father spoke of.

The wolves were lining the path and were sitting staring at me. They weren't entering in to kill me. The path became narrower. As it did, I realized that I had gone from gravel and loose shale to snow. My feet were relieved. The wolves didn't see the deer.

I heard the breathing of the wolves' just inches from me. I heard the dogs loose now, being unleashed against me. I looked back briefly and saw the blood in the snow. My beautiful tribal gown was destroyed. The deer disappeared, or maybe ran through, the Gate of Glory.

I knew if I made it, there I would have life. Now I was about 30 feet from the Gate when I heard more guns. I felt a bullet go through my skin and right above my right kidney. I lost my breath. Then I buckled and fell. I no longer heard the dogs. My face was in the snow.

I felt the warm rush of blood spilling out like water out of my right side. I laid there ready to die. I heard sounds like rushing water, bells and wings of a large bird. It was angels. I knew I must have died.

I heard one of the angels say, "We are going to carry you Home. It will be okay." As they were lifting me up, I glanced over and I saw a small reed, or shoot, about two inches high, coming out of the snow. I was confused about this.

As the angel flipped me up and into his arms, I felt the bile come up to my mouth and the other angel blew into my face. I fell asleep.

Dream continues...

Again, I have no idea if I died or was just injured, but I was so discouraged to see the promise of the Gate fade when I couldn't reach it. I could see it, but I couldn't enter without help. I awoke in a type of tent where the angels were calling me by my name, Erin.

Again, like before, one angel was washing my feet and, as he did, they became beautiful. The blood, the dirt and the swelling was gone. The other angel seared my side with a type of ember which cauterized the wounds, but instantly healed them; no pain.

Then the angel poured water over my head and removed the dirt, gas and smell of other things in my hair. I had flowers, ribbon and olive leaves woven into a ring that I had worn during the celebration, a symbol of peace, that I had forgotten in my hair.

I must have fallen asleep at home with it on, but I couldn't remember. My hair was damp, but very beautiful and dark. My garments had changed to a beautiful white robe. The robe smelled like spring rain water and jasmine. The other angel poured some oil over my head.

After he did this, I asked him why. He said this is the oil of joy. Another angel brought me up and took me to the tent opening. I looked over to my left in the corner and saw what looked like a pile of rags.

I saw the garments of the celebration with mud and blood from different tribes, but none from Levi. The tent opened and there I was at the most beautiful sight. I was back to my favorite place in the universe, near the very Throne of God. My tears started and I couldn't stop them.

I heard music like a processional. As the angels took me closer, my skin became transparent like a pearl. The brightness was overwhelming and I couldn't look up at the Throne. The angel put the gel in my eyes so I could see.

Before me was the beautiful Sea of Glass, like a sapphire, deep, yet shallow. In front of me was Our Father on the Throne. He was beautiful and shone like the sun. I couldn't look upon Him, even with the gel in my eyes. I wouldn't be able to see Him.

Around Him, I saw four angels with characteristics of animals, sweet and humble, with many eyes to see. They had three sets of wings and sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord, Who was and is and is to come!"

Then I saw, for the first time, smaller thrones, which seemed like 24 and the elders had crowns that they presented at the Throne and worshiped. The elders both spoke and sang in worship.

They said: "Worthy are You, our Lord, our God, to receive glory and honor and power because You did create all things, and by Your Will, they indeed were created!"

I was crying as I saw the elders drop. Immediately, I went down and praised God for all that He had done for me, for He was so magnificent in glory, power, and majesty that I grew faint as my body was both weak and humble in His presence, yet alive and strong also.

My body was created to worship Him; not the world, but Him. I stayed there for a while. I listened to the beautiful praise music and the praises of elders and the angels around the Throne. It took my breath away.

I was no longer stained and imperfect, but accepted and clean, washed as white as snow. I looked up to gaze upon the glory of Him on the sapphire Throne. The incredible emerald green around His Throne just permeated everything.

At the Throne, it was the deepest, and then it tapered out into a beautiful spectrum of green beyond that. I was just an observer, so thankful to be here. Around me was the sound of an orchestra; the most amazing build-up in music, like climbing clefts of rocks, always higher, always elevating, all glorifying the Lord, our Father.

The angels brought me up. Then, around me, the mighty winds began to blow. Through that wind, I heard Jesus whispering.

Jesus: "Erin, you are loved by the King. What you will be shown will testify to others and will confirm what they too have been shown. Do not veer to the right or left. Write this plainly on tablets and then I will write the letter on human hearts. I love you."

Just as fast as it had begun, the wind stopped. I was crying and shaking again. I dropped to my knees, raised my hands above my head and thanked the Lord for everything. I praised Him as long as I could. I didn't want to miss a moment.

I looked up toward the Throne and there were the beautiful Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven. They formed the Menorah in front of the Throne. These represented the Spirit of God. The Holy Spirit is Jesus inside of us; Christ dwelling in us.

The Seven Spirits of God burned like lamps, like angels, but each different, like a torch. These were the Seven Spirits of God that were upon us, upon the Earth. These flames would never go out. With each flame was oil; these Spirits of God were part of Jesus, yet they came from Him. This is difficult to describe.

Jesus was amongst them in the center. His hair was white and the flames of the Spirits shone like fire in His eyes. He held Seven Stars to His right and the sword of truth, His beautiful sword from other dreams, came from His mouth.

I was in tears at the sight as I knew that the judgments were soon coming. I was shaking at the sight as I saw seven horses with them take flight. I put my head in my hands and I began to weep.

My thoughts quickly went to, "Did I do everything I could? Did I make a good witness?" God must have read my thoughts. I heard a voice like the Niagara Falls and music combined together. It was coming from the Throne, our Father. I looked up.

Jesus: "Erin, come forth."

The angels stood me up. I saw, as He spoke, His robe spill out as the fabric of His robe filled the Temple area. It poured down and had movement. It looked like waterfalls as His robe was like water. It was magnificent. The angels moved me closer.

Jesus: "Erin, what is your cause?"

Me: "I'm not certain."

Jesus: "You have a task. Something to reveal. Are you ready to continue on this course?"

Me: "Oh, yes."

Jesus: "Ready yourself and write plainly."

I bowed before Him. Right in front of me, once again, He split the Sea of Glass in half. I felt a hand on my left shoulder and a hand on my right. I felt Enoch bring a shawl over my head. I saw again that Elijah had a type of reed that was like a sheaf of wheat, but a staff also. To the right of the crevice was the angel with the Bible.

Elijah: "Erin, do you understand what you are seeing?"

Me: "It looks like the Lamb of God, Jesus, is about to Rapture His Bride. Then the seven seals will be broken and the judgments begin?"

Elijah: "Yes."

Me: "When will this be?"

Enoch: "This is not known to us. You will know the season as all events begin to merge. There will be no mistaking this."

Me: "I thought the seven spirits were still searching for hearts?"

Enoch: "Yes, but a year is like a thousand and an hour like a day. Those with ears to hear and eyes to see will anticipate the Groom's arrival. Their lamps will burn as small Menorahs and the Groom will find the Bride. Those that were unprepared will beg, but they will not be with the Groom at the time of gathering."

Elijah: "Erin, remember the significance of oil."

Just then, through this mass crevice, I could see two Olive Trees side by side. With sticks, the branches were being beaten by harvesters. I saw a type of rake being used to remove the olives that were stubborn and separate them from the branches.

I saw the olives drop onto a white sheet on the ground. The olives were then lifted off the ground by the white sheet.

Elijah: "The olives are then pressed and squeezed to remove the bitter juices. Once bitterness is gone, the oil can then be used for anointing and to light lamps. These lamps burn brightest for the Lord when the bitterness is gone.

"Observe the tree to the left. This contains sweet olives and needs less time under the stone. The tree to the right contains bitter olives and needs thirty minutes under the heavy stone. This way these olives lack nothing and are pure."

Enoch then grabbed my arm and brought my attention to the angel with the Bible. There illuminated Psalm 42:9.

Elijah: "Erin, God is our rock, then what is an olive?"

Me: "Us?"

Elijah: "Yes, but it is the heart. This olive is a man's heart."

Enoch pointed my attention again to the Olive Trees. At the base of each tree was a Menorah. There were two Menorahs burning. Then he directed my attention to the Bible. The angel illuminated Zechariah, Chapter 4.

Elijah: "Erin, what is the significance of the oil?"

Me: "So much significance. The oil represents the Spirit of Jesus."

Elijah: "Yes, look."

I saw an angel pouring oil inside the Menorah so the lamp could burn continuously both inside and out.

Elijah: "What is the oil?"

Me: "The Spirit of God within us; the Holy Spirit."

Elijah: "Very good." Then he pointed me to the angel with the Bible, illuminating Revelation 11:4. "Erin, what are the Olive Trees doing standing over the lamps?"

Me: "They are witnessing."

Elijah: "Now, what is the significance of the Seven Spirits of God?"

Me: "They are searching for the lamps with oil to burn brightly."

Elijah: "Yes, but they are searching for hearts. The hearts are the olives that have been crushed, and the bitter oil removed, so that the Holy Spirit, the anointing oil, can burn brightly. When Jesus, the Bridegroom, comes for His Bride, He is looking for the burning flames or the bright lamps with oil."

Enoch: "Who are the two Olive Trees? Who do they represent?"

Me: "The two witnesses."

Enoch: "Yes, remember that patterns, parables and hidden manna are always in the Word of the Lord, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Now look at what Elijah did before he was Raptured up." The angel pointed to 2 King 2:1-11 in the Bible. "Here is the journey."

I looked into the crevice below and saw Elijah and Elisha coming from near the Jordan River, east at Gilgal. I still didn't really understand.

Elijah: "This is symbolic of when Joshua crossed over the Promised Land. The water was separated and, from the dry bed of the river, twelve stones were removed to signify the hand of God over His people.

"To commemorate this, Gilgal was where the twelve stones were placed and each represented a Tribe of Israel. Joshua then performed circumcisions here in the tradition of Abraham, commanded by the Lord. This showed the separation between Egypt and the children of God. Do you understand?"

Me: "I'm not sure?"

Elijah: "This is where the children were separate and holy living sacrifices unto the Lord. The circumcision, just like the separation of the waters to dry land, was symbolic of the rolling away, or parting, of them from God's anointed people.

Enoch: "Then Elijah and Elisha traveled to Bethel, the place where Jacob went up the ladder to meet with God. Erin, you know this place."

I was excited that my experience was notable and similar to Jacob's.

Enoch: "This was the place, the Gate, or Portal, to Heaven; the House of God."

The Angel illuminated Genesis 28:10-19.

Enoch: "After Elijah and Elisha traveled to commune with the Lord, they stopped at Jericho."

Elijah: "Jericho is very important. It is a parable and foreshadowing, or pattern, of things to come. Look."

He waved his staff toward the crevice again. There I saw Joshua. The angel illuminated Joshua chapter 6. Joshua was leading the saints to the fortified city in the Promised Land.

The Lord clearly told Joshua that he would give Jericho to him by His hand. The people circled the city seven times and, at the last trump, after seven trumps had sounded by the seven priests. The walls of Jericho fell.

Enoch: "Erin, consider seven in Scripture. This is significant throughout history. See the pattern to recognize the coming time. Remember Passover also. There is much hidden manna for you."

The angel with the Bible then Illuminated Joshua 5:11 that showed manna stopping on the third day into the Promised Land. Then the angel turned to Revelation 2:17.

Enoch: "Erin, this in Revelation is important. The circling of Jericho for seven days and the Passover lasting seven days has significance. There is more also. Count the churches. Are they not also like olives? There were also judgments upon Jericho.

"When the unbelieving generations passed, the new ones were ready to look to the Promise Land. The unbelievers were not allowed by God to enter into the Promised Land."

Elijah: "When did the walls of Jericho come crashing down? Passover represents Jesus' victory through His death, burial and resurrection that brought down 'the walls of sin' that separated mankind from the Lord. The time of Jericho was also Passover."

"See the patterns? Also, look carefully in the Book of Joshua. Were there also not two men that were spies, but also witnesses? These patterns are important. They will repeat as another well-known wall in Jerusalem will come down also."

Enoch: "Now, look again. After Jericho, where does Elijah travel to with Elisha?" There, before me, I saw the two travel to the Jordan River. "There were 50 prophets that knew in advance that Elijah would be caught up to Heaven."

"Elijah took his mantle and covered Elisha, then, using his staff, he parted the Jordan and they crossed on dry land. Then Elijah was ascended to Heaven without death in front of witnesses."

"For three days after and possibly a half, (Rev 11:12) the witnesses looked for Elijah everywhere, but he had been caught up with God. I too was caught up in a manner such as this."

Elijah: "One day the two witnesses will appear at the 'wall', they will testify for a time, times and a half, then to be killed and witnessed by all. The bodies will lay there for three and half days. Then the Lord will say, 'Ascend, rise.'"

Me: "Both of you are the witnesses."

They both looked at each other and smiled, but they did not answer my question.

Enoch: "Our bodies have never incurred the first death. The Lord has kept us. We have witnessed much history. We have stood in the Throne room of the Lord and we can testify to His goodness."

"We can testify to His righteousness. We can testify to the Seven Spirits of God. This is true. We have agreed to be used for His purposes, knowing full well what awaits us here in Paradise."

Elijah: "Erin, did you see evidence in Joshua (3:10) of the seven opposing spirits and where they were birthed. They have been trouble for all of these years and were never wiped out as the Lord had commanded. They were not to have compassion on these.

"This is part of the judgments that I will witness to. They have been responsible for so much opposition of all things good and from the Lord. These were birthed from the snake and have strengthened over time."

Enoch: "Yes, I can testify the most about the birth of this snake and what has come from it."

Then I heard the Lord from His Throne.

Jesus: "Erin, time to scribe. There will be more."

I bowed before the Throne. I was close, yet far away. I praised the Lord and thanked Him for the blessing He has given me. I sang a song to Him that I didn't recognize, but He was quite pleased. I cried as I knew that it did not come from me, but from the Holy Spirit, Christ in me.

Enoch and Elijah walked me back to the Portal. There, Elijah put the Prayer shawl over my head. He reached over as if I were a child and kissed my forehead.

Elijah: "Be blessed, Erin, this is an important time. You are preparing hearts for His return, the Groom for His Bride. May your household and your family have all of the anointing of Heaven."

I was crying, tears streaming down my cheeks. What a blessing. I bowed to him. He quickly corrected me.

Elijah: "No, only to the Our Father and His Son, not to us." It was a gentle rebuke.

Enoch: "Erin, put out your hands."

He then poured oil over them. Then he reached up and poured oil over my head.

Enoch: "This is not an easy road you have traveled. We understand this more than most. You will endure trouble, but know that, with this trouble, comes Our Father who Is well pleased with your path of endurance and your willingness to empty yourself to His leading.

"It is up to Him to bring forth the message and He has, and will continue, to send those who will spread the Good News up until that day. Be blessed, Erin, you and your household. May the mantle fall over you in pleasant places."

I was crying. They both were very beautiful and wise with a full head of hair white and aged, yet faces that seemed younger than mine. Enoch grabbed the back of my head, bending my neck forward. He, too, then kissed the top of my head over my shawl.

Me: "I will see you again though, right?" Both of them smiled and nodded.

Elijah: "Oh, one other thing. The mountains of Ephraim are at the head of the valley of olive oil. This is referenced in Isaiah 28. The signature of the Lord is on His land. Now, look who occupies this; there will come a day and the Lord will reign over this again."

I nodded my head. They sent me back through.

This dream and vision finished on February 18th, 2013, but was overlapped with the next dream and vision with much the same significance of this coming period of time in history. I was shown by the Lord that the significance of Good Friday is important to the events in Israel.

Erin: Asking Jesus, in the Spirit, yet again. "Is this the time of Your coming?"

Again He answered with a question.

Jesus: "Erin, you will know the season of My coming. It will be unmistakable. You will not know the day or the hour. Have I not already told you this?"

Please note that these dreams are not to be a substitute for the Word of the Lord. I am nothing but a dreamer and scribe. I am no prophet, but these dreams are prophetic in nature. As always, use discernment and pray to the Lord for guidance through the Holy Spirit and Scriptures.

Love and Blessings.....Sparrow

Dream 044 – Manna

Tuesday, February 26, 2013
08-08-2016, 01:17 PM

Dream/vision begins...

I was taken up to a mountain. It was grassy, like a pasture, and it led into the forest above me. It was beautiful and right at dawn. I was facing east, so the sun had not risen before me, but it was blocked by the mountain. I had walked a small trail for some time. I came to a forestry bulletin board along the trail. It had notices stapled to it.

One of the notices on the bulletin board said:
*"All who enter through the gate are invited to dine.
This invitation is for a free meal.
You will be changed.
You will never hunger nor thirst.
Bread, wine and water will be provided at no charge."*

I looked at this and thought it was odd. I did not see a banquet hall. Other than birds and the sound of the breeze blowing the trees, there was no sign of life. In the distance, off of the trail, I saw a type of wooden gate. I walked to it.

There were no walls supporting it. It was a rickety wooden Door. It had two posts on either side with a wooden header. At the top of the header was a keystone. The door itself had a moon and a star cut into the planks of wood.

It was odd. I saw this before, but without the star, from my first NDE. However, I also remembered hiking in the woods in a national forest once and recognized this as an 'outhouse' for hikers. This was strange to me.

From the looks of the door, I would be in the outhouse as I stood there. The outside of the door was not facing my side. I went to grab the wrought iron handle and noticed a small sign that said:

*"The door is locked.
Please turn upwards.
When you hear the sound, the door will release."*

I did as the sign said. I grabbed the handle, turned it upwards and heard an odd sound, like a small horn or bell, and the latch released. The door changed and was all pearl. There was now no door and I stood at the familiar 'Gate of Glory'.

I was met by my guardian and another very large angel, high ranking, to my right. I began to cry as I was afraid, at first, to open the rickety door. I went from scared to complete joy and relief.

This time, as I walked through the gate, my hiking boots and clothes were replaced with a simple robe of white linen. I found this interesting as, at work last week, I had gone through a fabric book of all the different linen from the finest mills.

Most were Belgium and Irish linen, composed of fine Egyptian cotton. The finest whitest linens in this book could not even compare to the fabric in Heaven. Not only is this Heavenly linen softer, but white and illuminated.

In comparison, our linens are like sandpaper. My robe was pretty. There were no adornments, so I was glad to be here in this state. I knew that I would be before the Throne in simplicity.

The angels moved me to the Sea of Glass and, at the edge, I knelt down, but my knees really did not touch the ground. The angels to the left and right put salves in my eyes and one put the small ember to my lips.

As I stood here again, I saw the beautiful eminence of the sapphire Throne and the beauty of our Creator. I could not see Him and could only contain His surroundings. His Eminence at the light of His glory shone like the sun.

It permeated through the facets and danced on the Sea of Glass. This created the emerald Crown, or halo, of glory all around Him. The brightness of His glory skimmed the top of the Sea of Glass. It was deep blue, like cerulean today, but with a blanket of gold.

I heard thousands of voices singing praises to the Holy of Holies, God our Father in Heaven. The voices went through my body as they went higher and higher in praise. It was so beautiful and always new and even better than the last time I was here to hear it.

I bowed my head and lifted my arms to praise Him. I was overwhelmed by His presence. I was far from the Throne, but close enough to see this sight. I was humbled and tears were streaming down my cheeks again.

As I worshipped Him, I felt an overwhelming desire to be pure before Him. My body desired holiness. I began to confess with my mouth everything contrary to Heaven that needed to be removed.

This was new as, I thought, in order to come before God, I would first need to be removed of this. Therefore, I had to believe that this was purely symbolic as I believed that this would need to be removed at the Gate.

Guardian angel: "Erin, lay them all down."

I symbolically laid out several confessions on paper. It was strange because it was the same paper that was on the forestry bulletin board. I wrote them down on paper and laid them down before Him who sits on the Throne in righteousness and truth.

I thought, "Oh, I could be cast down right now possibly." My hands shook as I laid them out. My head was hanging low as I cried and stared at these papers. I asked the Lord for forgiveness.

Each one of the papers were being blotted out and turned white as snow right before my very eyes. A sudden wind came and blew the paper like chaff in the wind. When the wind swept through, I heard Jesus speak.

Jesus: "You are loved. I am the bread and life. Those who enter in will receive Me and have eternal life. Write this plainly. Beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news."

Then the wind was suddenly gone. I then heard sounds like rushing waters, musical notes and thunder. Then I heard God from His Throne speak.

God: "Child, come forth." I was trembling with fear. "Are you ready and your house in order?"

Me: "Yes, I believe so."

I bowed and fell before Him. My arms were up praising Him as the elders and the angels all worshipped Him. After some time, I felt hands on my shoulders; one on my left and one on my right. I felt a shawl go over me.

Somehow I just knew that this was Elijah. Then I looked to my right and recognized Enoch. I was so glad to see them. Then I felt a large earthquake and the ground shook. The Sea of Glass suddenly parted in front of me.

God: "He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him that overcomes, I will give some of the hidden manna to eat"
Revelation 2:17.

I looked down through the crevice and saw the Israelites leaving Egypt after Passover. Then they came into the Promised Land at Passover.

Elijah: To my left. "Erin, the Israelites were walking in the wilderness as a plan by God to symbolize redemption. This is a journey of faith and is a shadow of the church age. Now look."

Enoch, to my right, drew my attention to the angel with the beautiful Bible. There, illuminated, was Joshua 5:10. He then directed me back to 'Gilgal', the place where Joshua had circumcised the men after coming through the wilderness.

After they had rested and healed, they celebrated Passover, which is the 14th day of the month at evening, right after sundown, in the plains of Jericho.

Elijah: "Erin, what do you see?"

Me: "I see them gathering grain around the land and making flat cakes."

Elijah: "Yes, this is when the manna from Heaven stopped. Now they could live off of the land that was promised to them; a good land."

Enoch: "Erin, look. The Lord told Joshua to get up. Look."

Then I saw the fighting men walk around the city; one time, each day, for six days. Then, on the seventh day, on the seventh round, the priests from Levi sounded trumpets. There was a great roar from the people and then the walls fell down.

Enoch: "Erin, what do you see?"

Me: "I see they celebrated the Passover first and then the battle at Jericho was seven days."

Enoch: "Erin, look at the parallels, or shadowing. Do you see the Passover week and the battle as seven days?"

Me: "Yes."

He directed my attention to Psalm 23.

Elijah: "Who is King David talking about?"

Me: "The Lord is preparing a table and meal before His enemies."

Elijah: "Yes. Now look. Where do you see this again?"

I then saw the upper room, where Christ was with His disciples. Jesus had prepared the supper and table.

Elijah: "This happened right before Jesus assaulted His enemies with the final blow of the Cross on Calvary. Now look."

I saw before me two walls: Jericho crashing to the left; and the other wall was a large wall, called 'sin', to my right. It had script on it.

Elijah: "Erin, this is where Jesus, through His death and resurrection, caused the wall of 'sin' to crash down; no longer separating man from the Lord."

Enoch: "Erin, this pattern will occur again very soon."

I then saw current day Israel. I saw the 'wailing wall'. I saw the Jewish Rabbis and others praying at this wall. I then saw a horrific, and yet very symbolic, event. I saw the wall tumbling down and many lost children of Israel accepting Jesus as their Lord and Savior. I was in tears. I knew in my heart that this was the only way.

Elijah: "Look for the hidden manna."

I saw Jesus at the last supper. Then my attention was drawn to an angel presenting a signed marriage contract, "Soon to be completed".

Me: "Oh, will the contract be consummated by the Rapture at Passover? Will we then go into the Promised land of the Kingdom of Heaven?"

Neither Enoch nor Elijah answered; instead, they remained silent. Nevertheless, it certainly seemed possible to me. Then my attention was drawn to Jesus leaving the upper room. Enoch was said to be the keeper of the calendar, familiar with stars and time.

Enoch: "Erin, He is in travailing and praying at midnight."

He directed my attention to the mountains. I saw two mountains at the time of Moses. The two mountains Moses ascended on. Then I saw two mountains at Calvary. I saw Mount Nebo. However, I am not entirely sure about this, but it seemed significant to the patterns.

Elijah: "Not everyone entered into the Promised Land. Some elected to stay behind. Passover was prepared in the presence of Jericho and the enemy. The supper of the Lamb, the table, was prepared before the crucifixion on the Cross."

Enoch: "Erin, there is a clock on that day; the preparation day to the death of Jesus. These are outlined in the Gospels."

There, an angel stood with a compass, a map, a 24 hour stopwatch and an hourglass with markers, starting at 6:00pm Jerusalem time. The hour glass was inscribed with 'watches of the day'.

Enoch: "Erin, look at Wednesday. There is a saying. You know this saying: 'Wednesday's child is full of woe'"

Me: "I do not understand."

Enoch: "Erin, the original crucifixion was on Wednesday, with the resurrection on the Sabbath day. This was the day that the Pharisees were angry that Jesus healed, rather than obey their laws. This was also the day that He set the captives free. The resurrection is equal to the Sabbath."

Me: "But we were taught that this happened from Friday to Sunday."

Elijah: "Erin, Christ rose from Sabbath to Sabbath. The death and burial occurred before Passover was to begin."

Enoch: "Now, look at the time of the moon. This is the first full moon after the Spring Equinox."

Elijah: "Now, let us review 'manna'."

I saw the Lord and disciples leaving after supper to the garden of Gethsemane to pray and battle the enemy, like Jericho. Supper ending meant going to battle. I saw the Israelites from the wilderness when the manna stopped.

I saw the Israelites eat from the table at the Promised Land that the Lord had prepared for them in advance. Then going into battle with the enemy equaled the battle at Jericho.

Me: "Oh, Jesus is the true Manna; His body, the bread and His Blood, the wine."

Elijah: "What happened after Passover was observed?"

Me: "Battle ensued, or judgments, of the world, like Jericho."

Enoch: "Look at what the definition of 'Jericho' is? Is this not hidden in plain sight? Now what did you just come out of?"

Me: "I was walking in a mountain forest. Then I entered through a door out of the wilderness to glory."

Enoch: "Yes. Where did you see this before? These are shadows, or patterns, of Egypt to the Promised Land; wilderness to the Rapture. You can see the doors in Scriptures going 'out of' one and 'in through' another.

"Rapture is a door. You have completed your wilderness training and are going out one door and entering through the Gate."

Me: "So the start of the true Jewish year, in spring, we will hear the trumpets and shouting?"

Elijah: "Erin, do not move ahead of God. Stay on course. We can recognize the seasons by the signs. Blossoms signify spring and fruit signifies harvest. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Erin, murmuring leaves the gate open for snakes. No grumbling when things do not occur as you expect. Snakes came to stop the joy of the promises of the Lord. Many have left their hearts in Egypt.

"The 'Bronze Snake' is evidence on the mountain, which is where Moses is buried, in line with Calvary. Is there not a valley that separates them? Look at the map."

I saw where Moses was buried and where Calvary is. There is a direct line between the two.

Me: "There is a division."

Elijah: "Yes. The snake caused this, yet the Lord allowed this because there was a heart condition, or divide, between the Lord and His people; a wall. Do you now understand?"

Me: "Oh, yes. The 'Wailing Wall' will come down and the Israelites will turn their hearts back to the Lord supernaturally."

Then the Lord God Almighty spoke

God: "Erin, write this plainly on tablets while I write plainly on the hearts of men."

I bowed to the Lord in worship. Elijah and Enoch walked me to the Gate again. Elijah put the covering over my head and kissed my forehead.

Elijah: "Erin, what separated man from hearing from the Lord?"

Me: "Walls."

Elijah: "Yes, but sin is the wall of separation."

Enoch poured oil over my hands.

Enoch: "When man sins more, he hears God less. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Elijah: "This is a wall in our 'temple'" He pointed to his body. "You will need this information for next time."

Me: "Will I see you again?"

Elijah and Enoch both nodded yes. Enoch kissed the top of my head and they both gave me a prayer of blessing.

End of dream...

Please understand that these are dreams and visions that I have received. I am not a prophet nor do I claim to be. Please use discernment. There are things mentioned in this that will require research of the Torah or original Hebrew calendar and timelines.

It is possible that some of this has changed over time, but I am not sure. I have been given two more dreams and visions since this has been posted. All of these point to timeframes, or seasons, and information that I have no knowledge of.

These are becoming more informative in a shorter format. Please pray that my eyes are able to capture exactly what the Lord is showing me and that my own flesh and understanding does not modify anything. I was told not to veer to the left or to the right.

Please know that I have no aspirations of power, money, or prestige; I truly only want to do the Lord's Will. If these point people to the Bible, the Holy Spirit for guidance and the Lord, Jesus, for truth, then I would have so much joy.

If they would cause others to stumble, then I would ask the Lord to stop them. I am also not a speaker for God. I am a seer of what is being shown to me; a hearer of words being spoken and a writer of what I see. Please continue as always with discernment and pray to the Lord for answers.

The on-going message I have learned through these dreams is to love one another in all things and adhere to the message of Christ's love for us. We are to also pray for Israel. Pray for their hearts to turn to Jesus. We are to bless Israel.

We are to uplift each other and continue to run after the heart of Jesus. We are not to murmur or cause anyone to stumble. We are to let Jesus within us shine. The light of the world is Christ in us. We are His Bride and He is coming for us soon.

Much love and many blessings.....Sparrow

Dream 045 – Walls

Sunday, March 3, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:25 PM

I want to thank everyone who has encouraged and supported me through this special season of dreams and visions. It hasn't even been six months and I am so humbled by the changes that Jesus has made in me and the impact that these changes have had on others.

Sometimes, these dreams have blessed others and, sadly, sometimes it has provoked others in a negative way. In Scriptures, I am reminded that good and bad are a dichotomy here on Earth. There is a constant dual between the two.

There are so many stories, parables, psalms, proverbs and the very Words of Jesus in the Scriptures to support that life here is constantly a struggle. Like positive and negative ions, good and evil or darkness and light, are constantly at odds here on Earth.

There can only be one victor and, thankfully, we take comfort in knowing the outcome in advance. We know that Jesus will one day, very soon, come for us, His Bride, and carry us Home to Heaven. We also know that He will come and avenge us soon and make His presence known to His enemies.

He will prevail against the enemy in the ultimate battle. Although we have never been told, I believe we are in this season now. During this time of dreams and visions, I have also been given special signs and confirmations during my daily walk that I haven't shared. These are related to the valleys I walk through and are wonderful instructions straight from the Holy Spirit.

These often times confirm the Scriptures that I have been given. In my desire to seek truth, I ask for answers and I go to Him in prayer. Jesus is always faithful and grants me conversation that always leads to truth. When I don't know, I can only go to Him.

I can't claim knowledge that I haven't been given and I won't pretend to know something that I don't. Pretense leads to trouble, so I find it is best to come clean and admit that I really have no knowledge of things on my own merit.

It is only by the leading of the Holy Spirit, or Christ, in Me, that I have knowledge of anything. He grants me knowledge on my quest for truth. Am I perfect? No. My children and friends can tell you I'm not. I fully admit that I fear my own "guess work" in depicting these dreams and visions.

I have been wrong when I have tried to lead unto my own understanding. When someone seeks 'self' rather than Jesus, knowledge is dead and truth has no basis, so 'self' must rely on the studies from man, not the Lord. Divine knowledge is much greater than human understanding.

In Proverbs 3:19, "The Lord, by wisdom, has founded the Earth; by understanding, He has established the Heavens."

In Proverbs 4:7, "The beginning of wisdom is to acquire wisdom. And with all you have gained understanding." See, the Lord holds the wisdom and keys to knowledge. We must run after that and seek it. We have to search it out.

In Proverbs 25:2, "It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out."

I am not an earthly king, obviously, but I aspire to wear the crown that many of us will receive in Heaven. So I am willing to run after the heart of my King Jesus who sits on the Throne in glory.

Even if I fail at times, I will confess my errors and continue on with my quest to seek His face. Thereby, I prove myself human and I don't pretend to be God. In my last dream, 'Manna', there is an interesting nugget that I believe will help those struggling right now by hearing clearly from the Lord.

This was one of the daily bread 'manna' moments that I often get from the Holy Spirit. I seek the Lord in Prayer and I am immediately before Jesus as a child and He instructs me. I am struggling with the understanding of the 'walls of sin in my Temple'.

This is Jesus speaking to me through the Holy Spirit. There is also a vision of the neighborhood, house, wall and the enemy.

Jesus: "Erin, you didn't earn My love. I loved you first. Through your brokenness, I was able to speak and you could hear Me. Through your growing love and trust for Me, I could change your heart. My Spirit, the Holy Spirit, dwells inside of you.

"The more you seek Me in all things, the more you desire to forgive and love others through My example in the Word and the more I can work through you. Remember the 'walls' I spoke of. A wall of sin can separate us. It can hide you from Me.

"That wall of sin must fall in order for Me to work fully in you. Like Jericho and the wall, when you allow Me to break down the walls, I can enter into the City and occupy it by legal right. Look at it this way, somewhat like a parable of the modern day Bride and Groom.

"Your body is a temple, or house. You have invited Me to come to your house as a guest and not just any guest. You have invited Me in as a permanent member into your house. I'm different from a tenant because I bring you daily bread and wine; 'Manna'.

"I speak tenderly to you, guide and nurture you. I speak truth and bring you joy, peace and happiness. I keep your home clean and we work together. Much like a marriage, we have a love and binding contract.

"This is new because you were not born with Me inside you, but I first spotted you and I sought to find out more about you. I called you, swooned you and, finally, you answered the call and invited Me into your house. You asked Me into your heart like a Bride does to a Groom.

"You need Me and desire Me to take care of you as I can be trusted with your heart and your daily needs. Because the enemy sees the fruits of goodness and light at work in your life, he desires to destroy your house. He comes to rob your house and kill its occupants.

"He is angry with Me and will stop at nothing to hurt you. The enemy is jealous. He wanted you first, but I got you for Myself. So this is what he does. He devises a wicked plan and gathers his minions.

"This includes demons, other sinners and even Christians to figure out a way to get inside your 'temple' and to build a wall between us so that he can get you behind that wall and destroy you from within.

"Look at this example. The enemy is the solicitor that goes door to door in your neighborhood seeing who will let him in. So he knocks door to door. He offers each homeowner a beautiful gift. Who wouldn't want to unwrap a beautiful present, right?

"So he passes himself off as something delightful. He could be familiar, perhaps recommended by a friend. He is probably even very attractive. You, being a gracious host, or hostess, lets him in just for a moment while your 'Husband', Me, Jesus, is occupied in your vineyard harvesting your grapes and making new wine in the backyard.

"The enemy says he is thirsty from his walking and you offer him a drink of water. He makes himself at home. You say, 'No, please leave, my Husband will be home soon.' Then he says, "Oh, no worries. Let's go behind this door into this room with thick walls and I can show you this beautiful gift I have for you.'

"Because you are curious, you allow him into the room. He turns and locks the door for safety from within. The room is dark and you can barely see the present. However, this gift contains bricks to build a wall; a separation.

"You are scared at first, but you decide this feels pretty good and you decide to stay there for some time. Darkness has gained access. The enemy has entered in. Each gift presented is really a curse and contains another brick in the wall.

"When I find out, I drop all of the labor of My hands in the vineyard and I run to My love, which is now behind the door of darkness. I knock and I call out. I can see through the walls at the schemes of the enemy, but I can only enter back in if you hear My knocking and allow Me to enter in and save you.

"If you are wise, you will turn your ears to hear Me and not allow the enemy to tickle them away from Me. If you open the door, My light will overcome his darkness and we will drive the enemy far from your home; our home.

"Then together, we will work on breaking down this room, or 'the walls', around your heart and keep the enemy from entering in again. Your body is our house that we have built together and your heart is a covenant contract with Me. This is the wellspring in our house.

"Something we have worked on together. My treasured possession is your heart. Your body is My 'temple', the temple of the Holy Spirit, Me, Who dwells within you. The enemy seeks My Bride.

"You are My Bride. I am jealous for you and the enemy knows this. This is also a parable today for the Church. Erin, the same parable is for the Church today."

This wonderful Word from the Lord is not a separate dream, but a vision and teachable Word from Him that is worth sharing with my friends. Parables can be 'micro' about us and our immediate walk, and can be 'macro' and applied also to the Church and world too.

I think also about the Israelites and how this modern teachable Word applies to them now and how much Jesus longs for a relationship with them. It breaks His heart. If I can do anything possible to send a message of love, I will do it, thereby honoring Christ, Who has done so much for me.

I pray this blesses you. Love... Sparrow

Dream 046 – Numbers

Monday, March 4, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:30 PM

I was taken up again to the mountainside. It was early morning and I was walking on the trail. I was coming through a clearing with a meadow before me. There on the side of the path was the forestry department bulletin board.

I stopped to read it and, off in the distance, I saw the strange 'outhouse-type' building door with the moon and star on it. I was excited to be here again as I knew that I would be stepping through that door into the glory Gate of Heaven. On the bulletin board, the sign that was posted read: "To be counted. Please select two numbers and bring them with you to the Banquet Hall in order to partake in the 'Manna' this evening."

On the board, there were round tags of metal labeled with numbers. There were nails all over the board where, apparently, others had taken the vast amount of numbers and there were only a few left. I needed to select two and take them with me. This is what I had to choose from:

#2 #53 #27 #23 #7 #16 #3

This was hard because my first instinct was to select my two favorite numbers. #23 is my birth date and was my jersey number. Any time I played sports in school, #7 was also my favorite because this was my birth date sum of numbers and one that I had always gravitated toward, as did many other people who love #7, the 'lucky' number.

#16, my sixteenth year, was not so great and neither was #27. Both of those years in my life were riddled with bad choices. Hmm, I also thought, "These numbers represented some of my favorite chapters in Psalms and the Gospels. What to do?"

Okay, I will choose the other two. I picked #53 first and then #3 second; done. I knew this choice was important, but I wasn't sure why. I put the numbers in my pocket and went to the freestanding wooden door. I went directly for the handle and chuckled at the little sign with the instructions for me to pull up on the handle.

When I did, I heard the little horn, or bell sound, and I felt the latch release. As it released, the door opened and turned into the beautiful glory Gate made of a single pearl; seamless. The two angels were there to greet me. My guardian angel and the large angel that guards the Gate.

There are always two large angels at the Gate every time with large swords. The two angels ushered me in and my clothes turned to my white linen robe. My skin became beautiful again and I loved seeing it change. It gave me so much to look forward to.

I turned and saw the beautiful Throne of sapphire, but looked away because it was too bright. The large angel put a salve in my eyes and the other angel put the small ember to my lips. They did this every time I came to visit God on His Throne.

I could see better, but still couldn't see His features; only the form and the beautiful light. My lips were loose with this ember. It was as if my human lips were not worthy to speak here. This is probably the case. Before the Holy Throne of God, there could be no unclean body.

I stood at the edge of the Sea of Glass. It was cerulean blue. It was amazing, with a gold shimmer on the top of it. I could easily mistake it for a 'golden' Sea, but it is definitely blue. I stand amazed, every time, at the beauty of this sight compared to any place on Earth.

The Throne framed out the light of His presence. The frame of sapphire of the Throne infused with His glory, creating hues of deep emerald that was simply breathtaking. I remembered that the design industry had declared that emerald is the 'Pantone Color of 2013'.

I felt almost certain that an angel of the Lord had appointed this color by God Himself. I am thinking this is the perfect time to come Home to Heaven as 2013 is also declared the 'Year of the Snake' in new age culture. Yes, this is a perfect time to go Home.

The thousands of voices began to sing. The choir was magnificent, so overwhelmingly breathtaking, that my heart skipped a beat and continued with the choir as if it needed to catch up with the 'rhythm' of Heaven. As the angels sang, I dropped to my knees, lifted my hands and worshiped.

I took in the music of these beautiful angels. What a glorious God of all the Heavens and Earth. The sight was so beautiful and humbling. I saw all the elders with their crowns before them, also in worship of Him.

I saw the unique Seraphim, which I later learned what they were from the Bible, but didn't understand them at first. I saw beautiful winged angels and others. I saw the Lampstand, the Altar and the beautiful white marble-like pearl columns.

The sight was mesmerizing and I didn't even realize my own place. I began to confess with my mouth all that needed to be reconciled. As I spoke my sins from my mouth, they became script on these scraps of forestry bulletin board paper.

I laid them all in front of me; all of my sins. I found it hard to believe, with all of my knowledge now, that I would still venture out to sin and have so much to confess in such a short span of time. As I laid them before the Throne, I wept and asked our Father, God, to forgive me.

As I looked down, the papers were blotted out, the writing disappeared and the papers became as white as snow. Then a strong wind came and blew the papers away like chaff, replaced with my favorite voice.

Jesus: "Erin you are loved and forgiven. There is a new wind that will be blowing soon. I will be in this wind. I am coming."

The wind stopped immediately and I knew that He meant it. I began to weep and I heard the mighty voice of God, like rushing waters and music

God: "Child, come forth." The angels moved me closer to the Throne. "I have prepared a place for you. Go tell the others that, soon, the horns will blow and I am coming. My Son will gather His Bride. Erin, do not be afraid. You will remember your widowhood no more, for Your Maker is Your Husband. Write this plainly."

Me: I was weeping and praising loudly. "Glory to God, glory to You, our King."

Then the angels repeated this in agreement. I dropped with my head and bowed again. Who am I and who are we that this beautiful God of Glory would love us so much? I worshiped Him, thanking Him for sending His Son, Jesus, and for giving us the gift of eternal life.

I stayed here for quite a while. It must have been a few minutes to an hour Earth time, but it wasn't long enough. I felt the two hands on either side of me. I knew that Enoch was on my right and Elijah was on to my left. I felt the shawl being draped over my head.

When this was covering me, it was warm and tingly. I felt healing warmth all through my body because of this. Then, before me, I saw a wave of light from the Throne shoot out. It came from God's arm, I believe, and the Sea of Glass parted.

To the left, looking down at the Earth, was the angel with the scales, a type of hour glass with markings which looked like days and a scroll. The scales had something familiar. I saw the ten weights all in different colors. Now the paint had almost peeled completely off.

There was no paint on a few and it looked like their kingdom was almost gone or gone. At the top of these weights and not one of the ten, I saw the United States. The weight was off balance. Israel was represented by the beautiful cut sapphire 'dreidel', or Jewish top.

The sapphire 'dreidel' was too light in weight and, when the scale dropped suddenly, lifting Israel up, it caused the movement of the weight that represents the United States to fall into the crevice below.

I knew the USA was going to endure trouble. I gasped. Another angel came up and, with the wave of God's arm, maybe finger, the other angel started the giant 'Hourglass'. I stood horrified. Then Elijah saw that I was upset.

Elijah: "Erin, any one country that claims to be God's, and then goes against God's commands, will be subject to judgment. Pride and arrogance goes before the fall. The USA didn't fall first and then had pride and arrogance."

Enoch: "Even the fallen angels know this. There is a pattern. There is nothing new, remember? The only One able to do a new thing is God, but He will not be contrary to His Word. He is fair and His judgments are just."

Me: "When will this be?"

Elijah: "The execution of the judgment is beginning and the time is at hand. God will not be mocked."

Just then, I saw something like burning fire come from the Throne. I wondered if He could actually generate fireballs from His nostrils. I knew He could.

Enoch: "Erin you are being shown more and more now. Others are too and, soon, even more will have these gifts. Just know that the enemy is angry about it, so stay strong against the enemy and his schemes. Put on your full armor."

Enoch then directed my attention to the angel on my right. This angel had the Bible open to 2 Samuel 24. Then my attention was drawn to a huge span of land from Canaan to Dan. It was an ancient look at the Earth during King David's reign.

Elijah: "Now look." I saw King David during a time of peace ordering a census to enhance his already very large army. "Erin, why was this sin?"

Me: "I've never been sure about this. It never made sense to me."

Enoch: "Taking a census is not a sin."

Then the angel illuminated 1 Chronicles 21:1. Then I saw satan urging David to sin by provoking him. I saw satan move against David, enticing him to claim greater power for himself, tempting him to raise up his own army instead of relying on God.

I saw satan cloaking David's ability to see the trap of the enemy. David was about to cast aside his position as God's anointed and act on his own.

Elijah: "Where has the enemy tried this?"

Me: "Many places, but the one that comes to my mind is Jesus in the desert; the temptation of Jesus for forty days."

Elijah: "Yes, there is a pattern there. Satan knew Jesus was the King of the Jews. He knew that He was, and is, the Son of God and has ultimate authority over satan and even greater authority to rule 'his' earthly kingdom than he did.

"If he could get Jesus to sin against God, then he thought he could prevail. However, satan has no understanding and was a liar and deceiver from the beginning; thereby, he is the father of all lies. He failed at his attempt here against Jesus.

"David already had the most powerful land and army. His army was the Lord's army. David was already the king with great authority. He was under God's anointing. He was in God's favor, but David was human. David was a human and Jesus is the Lord in human form; a big difference."

Enoch: "Powers and princes govern people and the actions of leaders and their sins against God cause people to die. David was a great King, highly favored by God and loved, yet he fell into sin.

"Even though he sinned, and because of his good heart, he was repentant and longed to be reconciled with God. This heart of repentance always led to God's redeeming grace. The pattern is simply; sin, leading to repentance, leading to redemption."

Elijah: "In any war, there is collateral damage. Innocent Godly people die in these battles and wars. This is the causes and effects of sin.

"When leaders act on their own power without God, Who granted them the responsibility of leading a nation or a great people, then there will be wrath and wailing. This process is what finally turns hearts back to God for redemption.

“Punishments worsen with no repentance until God has an audience. This is unnecessary and could be avoided, but there is no redemption without blood and sacrifice from the causes of sin. Erin, do you understand?”

Me: “Yes. This is why we needed Jesus and not David.”

Enoch: “Very good. You caught that. Now, let’s look at what happened and get back to patterns in time. Remember, there is nothing new unless God fashions it Himself. However, He will also never go against His Own Words. The Bible is His Word and your guide to a redemption plan; your map to the heart of God.”

Then I looked down and saw King David before an altar. He was weeping. He had realized his sin against God and he poured out in sincere repentance. I saw his tears literally become a pleasing aroma going up to the Throne of God.

Hard to explain, but I saw and felt God on the Throne become pleased. The light became shining and gave off pulsations of light that beat with His heart. God was responding to David’s sincere repentance. I cried when I realized how much our hearts meant to God.

How much our obedient repentant heart means to God. I then saw a man, like a priest, but maybe a prophet, approach David. I saw, behind him, an angel speaking a message from the Lord.

David’s full attention was on this prophet. I looked to my right and the angel illuminated 2 Samuel 24 again and then the angel to my left tipped the Hourglass.

Elijah: “The prophet is at Gad. He is giving David a choice. He offers three things: Seven years of famine; three months of flight from his enemies; or three days of pestilence.”

Then I saw the angel go to the Bible and turn the pages to 1 Chronicles. It states ‘three’ years of famine, rather than the ‘seven’ years in 2 Samuel. This was curious and I noted this as a significant marker.

Elijah: “Now, David, being wise, took the punishment with the least amount of damage in the shortest amount of time. If he had chosen famine, his land would be destroyed and many lives would be lost while he, as King, ate well in the palace.

"If he had chosen to run for three months, his people would be subject to enemies coming in and trying to take over and this would lead to war and more casualties. With pestilence, this would affect everyone and, possibly, even himself.

"No one, not even a king, would be immune to this. Lives would be lost no matter what. So David asked for the wrath of God to fall upon him, not the people. This pleased God, but didn't change the outcome."

I then saw David ask God for three days of pestilence. From Heaven, I saw the angel present the Lord with his answer. I then saw very large angels go out over all of Israel with their assignment. I saw something like a greenish grey haze, or clouds, go over these small villages. People died.

There were innocent people that didn't even know what had been occurring in Jerusalem behind closed doors, dying because of the decisions of one man. Then I saw a very large angel going toward Jerusalem on the third day. The Lord stopped it from continuing.

The Lord saw the punishment and saved the people of Jerusalem. This was hard to watch. I then saw a rider on a horse and an angel closely following, swiftly riding from village to village with a scroll registering the dead. The count was given to King David. There were 70,000 lives lost in three days.

Enoch: "Erin, pay attention to 70,000 in 3 days. Do you understand the judgment of the Lord?"

Me: "Somewhat. I understand this story from the Old Testament. I understand the plagues from reading about them as God's judgment. Many of our leaders today are not like King David, who was favored by the Lord. David loved God."

Elijah: "Yes, you are correct. Thereby there will be no choices presented. Any leader who comes against God's chosen people will be punished and so will his land that he governs. Whoever divides God's borders will have a divided land. Whoever harms or causes harm to God's children will cause harm to his own. There will be judgment."

Me: "So this is happening to Israel right now. Many countries are tearing it apart. They hate Israel. Many leaders are playing God."

Then there was thunder coming from the Throne. I saw the shaking of the Earth. I saw leaders causing the people of Israel to sin. These leaders are part of the enemy's elect and have no heart for God, only by their lips which speak lies.

I saw a leader from Israel who loves the Lord, but is no longer able to change the events to come. I saw periods of no media coverage, back door deals and contracts signed.

I saw a leader with a deadly scroll, a blueprint to build an empire, moving about the land with a smile, forming covenants with the enemies of Israel under the proposal of 'peace'.

I saw the Dome being lifted as a sign of trust in this proposal of peace, leaving the people, and the very heart of God's land, exposed to the enemy and vulnerable to takeover.

I saw leaders acting like Hezekiah in 2 Kings 20:13 and allowing freedoms to the enemy to enter into the Holy of Holies inside the Holy City. I saw Israel's leader showing the enemy all they had amassed.

I saw a separate celebration of the enemy going out to the city with the tower. I saw wisdom leave Israel and exposing herself to what I saw as the 'Whore of Babylon'. Also, there was an angel with a sign that stated this.

I saw the enemy tearing down walls and declaring peace, all the while portioning out God's own land and people. It brought tears to my eyes.

The angel then moved the scales of judgment and I saw the weight of the USA fall over Jerusalem. There I saw trouble coming to the USA. There was no stopping it.

Me: "When will this happen?"

Elijah: "It is now at hand. It is in God's hands."

Enoch: "Erin, the time has come. This is soon."

I fell to the ground before the Throne and begged God for mercy on America.

God: "I love My children. I AM."

The angels began to sing, "He is the King of Glory, Holy is He!"

I stayed and wept. I knew the scrolls were going out over our land. Any land that harmed God's land will be harmed in return. It is written.

Enoch: "Erin, come. This is enough for today."

He brought me up to my feet and I bowed to the Lord and thanked Him for sending His Son, Jesus, to save us. Elijah and Enoch brought me back to the Gate. I barely remember it as I knew what was coming and I was preoccupied with that. Elijah put the shawl over my head.

Elijah: "Erin, His plan is just. It doesn't seem like it, but it is." I nodded yes in agreement. "He will stay true to His Words and promises and He loves His people."

Enoch: "There will be many events to distract from the main event, which is Israel. All of the elections and events are part of His plan and are very significant. Did you have your numbers?"

I pulled out my two tags: #53 and #3.

Enoch: "Good. Now, the 53rd Chapter of Isaiah talks about your redeemer. This is important. There are other meanings here, as well as for #3. What did you learn about #3 Today?"

Me: "The judgments offered to King David."

Elijah: "Yes. Pay attention to which one he selected and the damage to Israel. Also, look at the references to why three years is in one Book of Scripture and seven years is in another Book of Scripture."

Me: "Is there a relationship between seven years of Tribulation being shortened by God to three and a half years?"

Enoch: "Possibly. However, remember the Bible was and is the Word of God, but written by man, wherein man is not God. Some things are lost in translation, but God allows this. Why? Some Books are removed. Why?"

Me: "If I could answer that, I would be standing where you are."

Elijah: "Even we don't have the understanding of God, Erin, but, yes, another mystery. Nonetheless, God will use this. Do you understand? All things work together for the good of those who love Him. Now, write this plainly and let God do the rest."

"Erin, don't be like King David and lead unto your own understanding. Let God sit on the Throne. This is where He resides. You cannot change what has been written with the course of events to come. Man can try, but God is the Author and Creator. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Elijah poured oil on my hands, anointing them to write and type. He kissed my head covered by my shawl. Enoch turned my head and kissed the top of it also. They blessed me. This always brought tears to my eyes. As I was leaving to go out the Gate, I turned to Enoch and Elijah to ask a question.

Me: "Why are you two here?"

Enoch: "I represent the judgment of God in the days of Noah before the Flood."

Elijah: "I represent the judgment of God after the Flood."

Me: "You both have witnessed everything."

They waved. I turned and thanked them. As I was leaving the Gate, my guardian reminded me of some important numbers.

Guardian: "Erin, do not forget 153, 146 or the numbers 1 to 22. I spoke these out with purpose. You are loved by Jesus. Send His message of love. Continue to love one another. This is a pleasing aroma to God." He smiled.

Dream over...

Please note that these are becoming more prophetic in nature. I am not a prophet sent by God nor have been told I am. I do not claim to speak for God. These dreams are no substitute for the Word of the Lord, the Bible. I am only a seer and a scribe.

I am human and these dreams and visions take discernment and prayer from the Holy Spirit. These are not a substitute for the Bible, nor am I to be placed above anyone in the Bible. I do believe that these dreams are from my Lord, Jesus, as this would be an impossible feat for me.

I am simply not smart enough. Do not be afraid. Fear is from the enemy, not from God. However, we are to fear Him only Who sits on the Throne of Glory. Fear God, not man. I pray this blesses you.

Much love and many blessings.....sparrow

Dream 047 – Keys

Friday, March 8, 2013
08-08-2016, 01:38 PM

I had a vision of the Great Tribulation on March 8th, 2013. I knew it was in the later part of the Tribulation because I was an observer and I saw no children. This vision disturbed me so much that I haven't known what to do with it. So I waited on Jesus and His timing for release.

Since this, I have had another dream, or vision, that is also extremely powerful. This focused on the forty days and the miracles of Jesus. I believe we will need this information very soon.

Last night, March 15th, 2013 and this morning, March 16th, 2013, Jesus gave me the confirmation to release this. This is heavy stuff, but important for us to know how to witness before He comes for us.

I pray and believe that we are in this season now. This was my morning prayer before I began writing the dream:

I am no one of significance and lack knowledge of the Bible. Through divine knowledge, You have taught me and, through my trials, I have come to hear Your voice, the voice of truth.

You speak to me in the night, as in Psalms 16, and reveal to me what You have shown me through Your visions. You fashion my hands to write what I've seen. You have told me to write plainly, to never jump ahead of You or lead unto my own understanding.

In all my ways, guide me and make my path clear. I give thanks to You, Jesus. In all things, I honor You. Amen.

Dream begins...

I was on the beautiful mountain path. It was spring. It was early morning and the dew on the grass reflected the sun and shimmered in silver and green. As I walked on the path, a breeze blew the cedars and the branches made music.

I walked for some time and came to a clearing. There was a small lake to my right and, up ahead, I saw the forestry bulletin board. I was excited to see what the Lord would have for me today. I began to run.

When I got to the board, there was a set of keys. The set contained three keys, which were made of gold and engraved in Hebrew script. I had no idea what they meant. I saw the numbers on the bulletin board. All that was left were:

#23 #16 #27 #2

The missing number was #7. Where did it go? As I looked for clues, the wind had blown the announcement sheet off to the side of the board. I retrieved it and fastened it back on the board. The sign read:

"Coming Soon!

The Chef has prepared a special meal for those that love good food and are hungry.

Please pick which evening you would like to attend.

The numbers will be your reservation date."

It was March 8th, 2013 and I was anxious to eat a great meal, so April 16th, 2013 seemed too far off, so I didn't choose #16. April 2nd, 2013 also seemed too far off, so I didn't choose #2.

I instead chose the #23 and #27 so that I could attend sooner in March, either March 23rd, 2013 or March 27th, 2013, or so I was thinking. Using this logic, I grabbed the numbers #23 and #27 and put them in my pocket.

As I picked them up, I noticed another sign:

"Please bring the keys with you.

These are yours and are needed to unlock the door.

Walk, do not run!"

I grabbed the beautiful keys of gold, but I didn't understand why I would need #3. I turned to look down the path and there was the suspended door, along with the small sign telling me to lift up the handle. As I lifted the handle, the sound of a small bell and horn released the latch.

Again, I was standing at the beautiful Gate of Glory, made from a single pearl. The two beautiful angels greeted me. The one to my right had wings and the one to my left was my guardian. My guardian was quite handsome with a kind face.

My guardian reached for my hand and my clothes turned to my white shimmering robe. What a blessing every time. On Earth, I thought I was clean, but nothing as clean as this transformation.

There, in front of me, was the Sea again; such an amazing sight. The beauty before me is unbelievable and indescribable. I began to look down because I couldn't see. The angel with the wings put a salve in my eyes. It was almost like Vaseline, but smelled beautiful.

The salve never washed off when water was poured over me. My guardian had a small little ember the size and shape of a small vial. He placed this little ember on my lips. When my lips were sealed with this, they were loose.

I know this does not make sense, but when my lips were released, they tasted like honey. I turned and saw Enoch and Elijah before the Throne of God. The elders were there also. I began to weep because I knew something was happening. I turned and asked my guardian.

Guardian: "Erin, the time of the seasons is drawing near. All of these are closest to the Throne of God. They are privy to the heart of God for He is Holy."

Me: "Where's Jesus?"

Guardian: "Oh, don't concern yourself. He is present."

I didn't understand because I couldn't see Him, yet the Throne area was so bright where God was. I'm not certain I could see Him sitting there next to God or not. I saw everyone kneel before the Lord, so I did also.

The Lord God seemed to be blessing them. The choirs of angels praising the Lord brought me to tears as we all together worship our Creator. As I knelt, I praised and confessed with my mouth the sins that I carried. As I was worshipping, the wind blew and I heard Jesus whisper in it.

Jesus: "Erin, you are forgiven and loved. I am with you to go before you. Do not run ahead of my instructions. Do all of this for My pleasure and in pursuit of My heart, not for man. Do not fret over what you have been shown.

"You will be far removed from this, but just know you will be with me. What you are learning is for a time that has been sealed up since the time of Daniel. Daniel was also loved by me.

"Now, even though you have no understanding of how this could be, write this plainly for the sake of those who will read it. Do not veer to the right or to the left. Do not listen to instruction from deceitful lips that claim understanding, who, by their own admission, only draw knowledge from man's research.

"You are being shown that which has been sealed. The Bible is the Word of Truth. In the New Testament, the Old Testament is revealed and in the Old Testament, the New Testament is concealed. Each one reveals the patterns of future events.

"Do you understand the significance? I will be with you. Be Strong. Take Courage. You are loved."

Then the wind stopped. I heard the sound of rushing water and music. I felt two hands as I bowed my head. I knew Elijah was to my left and Enoch to my right.

God: "Child, come forth." I shook with fear and awe every time I appeared in front of God. "You were given a vision. This is for an appointed time to come. You are not to seal it. Take courage. You will be strengthened."

I thanked Him and worshipped Him for some time. I then felt the oil poured over my head and the covering fell over me. I wept there for some time as I knew this was the day to weep. I knew I couldn't petition. It was part of a prophecy.

Who was I to change history or request it be changed? I am no one. I am appointed to see and write nothing more. No pretending. Both Elijah and Enoch brought me to my feet. The Sea of Glass, with one wave of God's hand, parted with a mighty earthquake.

On either side of the divide, I saw two angels. The one to the left held the large Hourglass and the Scales. The other angel to the right held the Bible. The Bible was opened to the Book of Daniel.

Enoch: "First we must go to Matthew 13:23. Do you understand?"

The Book's pages turned to Matthew.

Me: "No, I don't understand."

Enoch: "There is a message from Jesus in Mark 13:23 by His Own Words, 'But you must see; I have told you everything ahead of time.' Now, let's review Matthew 13:23, 'And the one sown upon the good ground, this is the one who hears the message and understands, who indeed bears fruit and makes on the one hand one hundred times, and on the other sixty and another thirty.'"

Me: "I believe I understand. Thank you."

Elijah: "Look now at the entire Book of Lamentations. This was the response to what happened before and will be the response of what will be coming."

I looked down and I saw the entire city of Jerusalem destroyed. The Jews were given the approval to go back and rebuild the city. I saw Daniel 9.

Daniel was in prayer and supplication to God in 9:16. He spoke of Jesus removing sin, iniquity and transgressions.

In this, I saw the angel, Gabriel, begin to speak over Daniel to tell him that the Lord, God, would increase his understanding and that he was greatly loved. Therefore, understand the matter and consider the vision. This was in Daniel 9:22-23. Then the scene before me closed up.

Elijah: "Erin, you have seen this before."

Me: "Why close this up?"

Elijah: "The rest is part of what you had been shown before."

Me: "I don't remember that?"

Elijah: "Go back through your dreams. Was there not a story or even two?"

Me: "I don't remember?"

Elijah: "Erin, one of your dreams that you are avoiding."

Me: "Oh yes. Of course."

Enoch: "In Genesis 45, a pattern for the times is there and speaks of deliverance. In Luke 21, Jesus speaks about the destruction of Jerusalem and then His coming. All was foretold by Jesus Himself."

Me: "But many would argue that He was foretelling His persecution, death and destruction of the Temple."

Enoch: "This is correct. However, also look at the patterns. Remember, what was concealed is now being revealed. In Daniel 12:1 and Revelation 12, there will be times of trouble. In Jeremiah 30:7, the times of Jacob's trouble. This is the time coming that has been sealed up until the end, yet foretold by Jesus Himself."

Me: "When will this be?"

Enoch: "There are patterns to the timeline. This is a record in the Word. There will be a 'Proposal of Peace'. This is the beginning to watch for. This is the time you have been looking for. Erin, if you focus on dates, you will fail to see what God is doing right before your eyes. Daniel 9 covers the patterns, then and now. In Chapter 10, look..."

I saw Daniel by the river and I saw the appearance of Jesus there. He had the same appearance as if He were coming on the clouds. Daniel was there and an earthquake caused the others to flee. Jesus stood before Daniel.

Enoch: "Erin, look when this will happen. I saw the angel reveal to me from Daniel 10:4, the 24th day of the first month."

Me: "Oh, will we see Jesus then here too?"

Elijah: "Erin, look at patterns. If patterns align, then look up, your kinsman redeemer comes for you. If these do not align, then He will come at the appointed time."

Me: "Forgive me, both of you." I could tell I was exhausting them.

Enoch: "Erin, look at what Gabriel says to Daniel in 10:13-14."

I then see Gabriel explaining the delay of 21 days. He explains what will happen in a time to come.

Me: "I need help here. I need greater understanding. Forgive me."

Elijah: "The Proposal of Peace is the beginning, then seven years. The midpoint of seven years is three and a half years."

Enoch: "In the timeline of Daniel, there are 250 days from the start of the Treaty of seven years to the beginning of the performed sacrifice by the Levite Priests. The public will see this sacrifice televised. This is the great celebration you saw.

"There are 250 days between the 14th of Nisan and the Feast of Dedication, the 25th of Kislev in a Jewish 360 day year, or from Passover to Hanukkah. Daniel spoke prophetically about Hanukkah and it was not even recognized yet."

Me: "I'm confused."

Elijah: "In Mosaic Law, there needs to be cleansing ceremonies. The treaty that will be signed will allow the regular sacrifices to begin. The treaty will state that the priests cannot go up to the Temple Mount until the Day of Atonement, the 10th of Tishri. The area has been a garbage dump since the Crusades."

Me: "So this all occurs after we are gone. This is when the Third Temple has been rebuilt. So the Peace Treaty will be signed during Passover?"

Enoch and Elijah nodded for me to continue.

Me: "Then, according to Daniel, there are 1260 days, or three and a half years into the Treaty, until we will see the abomination?"

Enoch and Elijah looked at each other and chuckled. They could tell that I was guessing as I had a lack of prior knowledge of the Book of Daniel.

I then looked down into the crevice and saw a great celebration, the sacrifice in the New Temple. Then I saw the destruction as the Jewish people realized that the Treaty had been broken. They were running for the mountains. I saw a girl running to Ephraim. Then Lamentations. Now the Book of Lamentations is prophetically played out again.

Enoch: "Do you notice now they are going by the 360 day prophetic calendar?"

Then I saw the crevice split open even wider. I saw the angel with the Scales of Judgment. I saw the land desolate. I couldn't tell if this was the United States or another region.

Elijah: "Erin, we will go back to your vision. Are you ready?"

Me: "Yes, I am prepared.

This was a revisit of the Tribulation vision I had on March 8, 2013. If you are squeamish, or if you have a child that reads these, please do not show them these things. Parental guidance will be necessary here.

Vision begins...

There were no children. I saw a city under siege. It was surrounded by barbed wire and armed guards. It was a desolate area. There were sections of the downtown portion of the city that had been consumed by fire, or a bomb. It was uninhabitable.

I saw the areas in the suburbs that were quartered off into sectors. There was a military. The military was mixed race. I saw Asians, some of Middle Eastern descent and another group that I was not sure about.

The vision zoomed down into a neighborhood with what would have been a nice suburb. The people there were opening their garages and swapping items with each other. Things that seemed like necessary items were being driven away in dump trucks to another area.

Then I saw an abandoned shopping mall. It was a large one with two stories. This was a type of recycling center where each store used to be. There were collection areas. People were coming to these stores with bags of clothing, or fabrics.

I saw a store, like Claire's, receiving bags of shoes from people. The shoes were somehow being burned for something, but the smell was toxic. The garbage bags that they carried items in were army issued and had marks on them. I didn't recognize the symbols.

I saw each storefront take a different item. One received shoes, one, like a Gap, received electronics and another, like a cosmetic store, received wire and cords. I saw a snapshot of people removing the wiring out of the walls in their homes to bring into this center.

There was also a place to bring in glass. I saw the items being brought to the store fronts, checked and some weighed and then each person received a type of coin, or coins, for various items. The market area was like an abandoned Macy's and was in the center of the Mall.

In this department store, there were stalls set up where people could swap coins for necessary items. This is what was available for purchase: Very small cans of fuel to warm food for household use and candles in bundles.

Flints and striking devices for making flames were in high demand. Matches were rare. There was a type of self-cleaning soap that didn't require water. Other items also. There were many items I didn't understand.

After these items were purchased, a bus took people to another type of area. This was like an old Bus, or Subway, terminal. It was an outdoor area. People were taken off of this shuttle, along with their purchases, and they stood in line single file.

At the front of this line was a table. Everyone had to give half of all they had at this checkpoint, or terminal. Guards would check to see that each citizen was registered. In order to leave this checkpoint, each person had to declare their religious affiliation.

From there, the decision was registered and each person was then sent into two separate lines; one for Jesus and one for Allah. The short line, extremely short, was for those choosing Jesus.

At the end of this line, these people were gathered and taken away from the eyes of the others. These people were ushered off and tortured immediately and taken to a place to be killed, dragged and impaled on sticks in a dump type area on the edge of the suburb where the buses drove by to see.

Back at the terminal, and off in the distance, was a farmer's market with food set up like a grocery store. It was very enticing as people were very hungry. There was massive starvation and insecurity. People were trying to break from the lines to get to the market.

If one did, they would be shot or whoever they came with would be shot. This last checkpoint was where a person's blood was imprinted, next to signature, as a blood covenant. There was a small light that scanned the blood to make sure it was real blood.

There was also another piece of equipment to register blood that came from a Jewish origin. All the guards were heavily armed. After registration and contracts were finished, the next area was the confirmation area. Names were called.

There was a screen, or wall, which sheltered what was happening beyond the wall. This was an old subway area. There were two side walls and a track area that was below the walls and dropped about five feet below. There, people were told to kneel in front of the tracks.

This is where a person pledged allegiance to Allah or Jesus. If the answer was Allah, then the people were ushered off the market place. Before they were able to shop, they received an injection; a type of tracker under the skin. This allowed them to purchase food in the marketplace.

This is where I saw some demonic beings that had faces that shifted from human to reptilian form. I saw larger demons that were keeping score. Those people that did not choose Allah and declared Jesus as their Lord and Savior were beheaded.

I saw large angels from Heaven taking them up to the sky. Their heads were dropped into the trenches with shovels and the area hosed down for the next group. The smell was horrific.

Some of the bodies were treated horribly and they, either demons or bad men, took women and men that were attractive and did horrible things to them, even after their death. This is too difficult to write about.

Later, these bodies in trenches were burned and the area reused for the next day. After people had received the device and got their food, they took their goods to shuttles that were labeled in sectors. They were taken back to their homes.

In order for them to get off the bus, they had to give the driver a portion of what they had or the driver would forcibly take what he wanted. Mostly the food and the flint starters were the items taken.

By the time people got to their homes, they were in tears and had only about 30% of what they had purchased left. I saw people inside of their homes destroying whole sections of the home and using this for trade.

I saw larger items being taken to the curb and people would stand guard over their items until the large dump truck came for it. These items were too large for the recycling center and usually consisted of parts of the roof, window, sofas and items of construction from their homes.

The trucks would come and take the items, give them coins and exchange a type of pellet bag and a jug of water. The truck came everyday with the pellet bags and water. People would need to eat the pellets, mixed with water, to create human excrement.

The trucks would count the daily allotment of this as, each day, the excrement was placed in bins at the curb and used for fuel for the enemy. You did not want to miss the trucks as there was a consequence for this; no water. There was no electricity.

Inside one of the homes, I saw a woman in tears and, in madness, eating sheetrock, or gypsum. I saw no animals, books, papers or anything that could be used for food or fuel. The dirt was contaminated. There were no Bibles or writing instruments.

There was no hope. I wept again as I saw this. This time it was even clearer than before. Then I heard the Lord God Almighty.

God: "Child, you have seen enough to understand what will be. This is enough for today."

I bowed down to the Lord on the Throne. I was so thankful to be in His presence. I worshipped Him with tears and my whole heart. Enoch and Elijah walked me back to the Gate. Elijah poured oil over my hands so I could write. I was in tears.

Elijah: "Erin, I'm sorry you had to see this, but this is only a part of what must take place."

Me: "Where is this place?"

Elijah: "This matters not. There will be events similar to this in all of the seven continents."

Me: "Is there anything that can be done? There is no hope. There is no Word of the Lord."

Enoch: "Erin, some people, even at the end, choose Jesus. They remembered. There are places even worse than these. Cities are ravaged. Soon there will be no clean thing left."

Me: "This makes me afraid."

Elijah: "Erin, do not be afraid. Fear is from the enemy and is not from the Lord. You must have peace. You take comfort in knowing your place, where you reside, okay? You are loved by the King. This is a later time. You will not suffer this. Do you understand?"

Me: "My heart would fail. I wouldn't make it."

Enoch: "Yes. The events and sights are like a science fiction movie. Many are going to be so frightened by what they see, that many will die of heart failure."

Elijah: "Just know that you are loved. You will be home. Do you have the keys with you?"

Me: I handed him the keys. "Yes."

He handed me back the keys and said that I would receive further instructions. Enoch then put the covering over me and kissed the top of my head. Both blessed me. I thanked them and turned to the angels.

Guardian angel: "Erin, I know this was difficult. Take heart. Take courage. Share this with those who will hear. There will be a time of great events and conflict coming. There will be mourning. There will be times of great miracles and both angels from Heaven and those that have fallen will be exposed.

"Your numbers have significance. Look for the patterns in the Word to find the answers you seek. Jesus rode in on a donkey and was greeted with cheers and palm branches, yet, soon after, everything changed."

Me: "I don't understand all of this; the sacrifice, the temple mount and the celebrations. I am also unclear about the months and calendar."

Guardian angel: "It is not for you to know all of this. This is for others to help. You will have help." He reached over and hugged me.

Vision over...

This is heavy and was very difficult to type. There will be questions. I have many too. Please do not be afraid. We know in the Word that these things will happen. We also know that we are loved by Jesus.

Now is the time to dive into Revelation and look at the significance here, as well as 1 Thessalonians. I remember and cling to the Scriptures that they gave just recently; Psalm 23, Psalm 45 and Psalm 46. I remember that He loves us and that love is coming down soon.

I take comfort in the Gospels now as I long to know more about Jesus, the light of our salvation and our Groom. This dream is prophetic in nature. I am no prophet, only a seer and reporter of what I have seen. Please go to prayer. Use discernment in all things. The Holy Spirit and the Word of the Lord will Be Your lamp.

Much love and Blessings.....Sparrow

Dream 048 – Behold the Ides of March

Thursday, March 14, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:43 PM

I went to bed with heaviness in my heart last night. On Saturday, March 9th, 2013, I awoke suddenly as if I was in an earthquake. It was as if I was shaking, which startled me. While I lay with my eyes open, both my bed and my body seemed to be shaking.

This reminded me of my childhood in the San Francisco Bay area. Oftentimes, I had been awakened from my sleep with actual shaking. This, however, was different. This was not a real earthquake according to the USGS. My dogs were not shaken by the tremor. So this meant it was a message from the Lord.

It was actually the second time that such an event had taken place during my sleep. The first was on Wednesday, March 6th, 2013. In addition to these virtual 'earthquakes' over the last five days, I have been hearing a familiar rushing sound in my head, followed by a brief loss of hearing and then light dizziness.

This was the same event that I encountered five years ago on Good Friday 2008 prior to my Near Death Experience (NDE). These virtual shakings, however, do not seem to be medically related as my pacemaker alleviated any previous skips I may have had in my heartbeat in the past.

Interestingly, these 'earthquakes' were not only in my dreams, startling me out of the dream, but they were still also virtually happening in my wake state. I noted these events as, perhaps, warnings for me to be more aware.

Last night, this woke me up at exactly 1:22am on my clock. I found this curious. Later, in the morning prior to writing down my dream, the Holy Spirit prompted me to go back to my dream of the angel warning me 'Behold the ides of March, behold the ides of March.'

I then looked up the definition of 'Ides' in the dictionary and it was defined as, 'the 15th day of March, May, July and October and the 13th day of any other month'. However, and broadly speaking, the 'Ides' also includes these days, but also the seven days preceding these days.

I then looked up the definition of 'Behold' in the dictionary and it was defined as the following:

- To perceive through sight or apprehension;

- To gaze upon or observe

Upon completing my research, I am immediately taken up through the Portal. Two angels greeted me. This morning, I was turned into a child in body with a gown of white.

There, in the distance, was Jesus sitting on a large rock with a small river behind him and a beautiful tree next to the river. I ran to Him in a full on sprint. He opened His arms to receive me.

I love all of the time I spend with Jesus, but this special time, when I am like a child, is the most precious to me. He picks me up and I give Him a big hug. He lets me rest on His left shoulder for a while. I realize that I am so dependent on Him and I love that I am.

Jesus: "Erin, what's troubling you?"

Me: "We are all anticipating and ready for You to come for us."

Jesus: "This is good, right?"

Me: "Yes, but when? Soon is vague. I know You won't say."

Jesus: "Erin, I don't know the exact day or hour."

Me: "But the season seems right now."

Jesus: "Yes, and, as we draw closer to the time, it will be so clear that, even to the very hour, you will wonder and ask, 'This day, this hour, this minute?' But know that I am coming and will hold to what is written.

"I come in truth and righteousness to remove My Bride from those who operate in the opposite of what I stand for, whose job is appointed as the 'destroyer'. As the time draws closer, prophecy will be fulfilled. Things in Scriptures that seem out of place will suddenly fit into the proper sequence in which it was placed."

Me: "I don't understand?"

Jesus: "Some portions are confusing, but, when the events occur, you will say, 'Oh yes, this lines up with this, and so on'. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes, it is like a puzzle."

Jesus: "Remember to look for patterns. It will be in the smallest of things. Then there will be many small, but related, prophecies fulfilled that will help you understand and see the path to the larger fulfillment of prophecies.

"It is like this: You are standing in a valley and, many miles in the distance, you see a mountain range. As you draw nearer to that mountain range, the mountains become larger and clearer; the details are made clear the closer you come."

Me: "So, it will become even clearer?"

Jesus: "Yes. I am not the author of confusion. Do you understand? God is not a liar or deceiver. This is what I am coming to remove you from."

Me: "We are like sheep in this valley."

Jesus: "Yes. A lot has occurred in valleys."

Me: "Yes. Valleys are everywhere in Scripture."

Jesus: "Not just valleys Erin, also mountains. Look for the cities surrounded by seven mountains."

Me: "I don't understand. What am I going to find?"

Jesus: "Patterns in regions and events and then time frames, all hidden in plain sight."

Me: "Lord, our enemy, the liar, is smart. It is confusing."

Jesus: "Yes, but, quite simply, as you stand in the valley, focus on Me and fix yourself on the horizon. Find the plumb-line, which is truth, Erin. Remember, also, where one wolf gathers, many will follow. Wolves run in packs against my flock of sheep in the valley."

Me: "It seems like the wolves know the sheep's movements in advance."

Jesus: "Yes. Remember, the enemy is not stupid. I don't believe any angel of Heaven has spoken this. A fool is a man who is blinded with arrogance and cannot see the schemes of the enemy around him, yet boasts about claiming to be cleverer than the enemy. Never underestimate your opponent. This is wisdom as your enemies are sharp."

Me: "I have done this."

Jesus: "Remember that the enemy knows prophecy. He was once part of the Heavenly Kingdom. He revels in foolishness and his pride cast him down as a result. Others went with him at the same time, but, make no mistake, the enemy is well-scripted, highly organized and they run in packs like wolves."

Me: "So, does he have a better understanding than we do about the season we are in?"

Jesus: "He is preparing, and has been granted, the ability to carry out his punishments for the fulfillment of prophecy. This is foretold in the Word of truth and is the Will of God. Things will go according to God's plan, not the enemy. As time draws nearer, focus on Me."

Me: "Lord, if our enemy knows more than we do, then he can deceive us better; the wolves can get to the sheep. What will happen?"

Jesus: "Be at peace, child. Is there not a Shepherd in the valley who guides you to safety? Remember, the Shepherd will protect His Flock and not allow the wolves to devour even one."

"Only those hidden in the Flock, who never planned to be a part of the Flock to begin with, will be devoured. These in the Flock are actually wolves in sheep's clothing and hide amongst the Flock."

Me: "I think there are a lot of these."

Jesus: "Yes. They work together with the enemy to destroy the sheep from within."

Me: "So, soon the enemy will attack even more?"

Jesus: "Yes. When all seems calm and everyone is off-guard, the enemy comes after the most vulnerable at the night watch."

Me: "Oh, they destroy at night?"

Jesus: "Yes. A thief robs under the cover of darkness, but can also rob in broad daylight. Most attacks occur under the cover of night when the deceiver can destroy the masses."

Me: "Will something happen soon?"

Jesus: "Everything that does happen will be in fulfillment of prophecies in the Word of truth. Do you know your seasons?"

Me: "Yes. I believe we are in a 'high season' now."

Jesus: "Yes. The enemy is working. However, greater is He who is in you than he who is in the world."

Me: "Today is the 'Ides of March' in Israel. Will something happen?"

Jesus: "Erin, carefully discern. What did the angel say to you? Look at the definitions of 'behold' and of 'Ides'. What is your understanding? Look carefully. Is this not more of an announcement of a coming time, event or season?"

Me: "I guess I was going ahead of you."

Jesus smiled and laughed, then gave me a big hug.

Jesus: "Yes. In your great anticipation, remember to wait on the Lord, okay? Erin, the 'Ides' also means to watch for the preceding seven days before. What just happened? How is this significant? You are to observe patterns. Carefully pay attention to the events, even the small ones. As you do, write them down.

"When you then go to Scriptures, especially with the prophets, see how this aligns with them. The Holy Spirit will guide you. I am instructing you on knowing your enemy. Sometimes, while looking for the large event, you miss the smaller significant ones.

"Finally, focus on Me and know that the season is very near. Understand that I will not delay and God does not tarry. Everything is planned in advance. Everything is set up, including all of the details. There will be nothing for you to do except love God with your whole heart and love your neighbor as yourself. Does this make sense?"

Me: "I just feel You are so soon to come for us; any day even."

Jesus: "Did you know that watching for Me is also a form of worship to Me? This proves how much you love Me. Very few watch and wait for My return. Because You have done this, along with your friends, I will pour out love, grace and special gifts of favor to let you know I am pleased."

Me: "Oh, thank You. I love gifts. I love You."

Jesus: "I love you more."

He sent me off with the angels. I turned to see Him wave. When I was at the Portal, an angel gave me instructions.

Angel: "It is a good time to read the Words of the prophets; Daniel, Ezekiel, Isaiah and Jeremiah have good instructions, but also Zechariah. Look to the 'smaller prophet' books as well. Focus on your heart. Focus on love and forgiveness, peace and grace.

"Remember not to entertain fools who mock, as in Psalm 5. You will look toward the hills. Where does your salvation come from? Psalm 23 is also good here. Erin, do not forget about the mountains quaking in Psalm 46.

"You are loved by the King. Soon Psalm 45 will make perfect sense, but not before Psalm 83. Psalm 82 contains a declaration and Psalm 84 His promise to you. Read all of these."

I wrote this down and went to work. I realize that this is prophetic in nature. Please use discernment as the enemy is wandering to and fro right now looking to whom he may devour. The Holy Spirit is your Instructor and the Scripture is your Word of truth. Jesus is your Savior.

Much love and many blessings today....sparrow

Dream 049 – Vision from the Lord

Wednesday, March 20, 2013
08-08-2016, 01:47 PM

This morning, after personal prayer, fasting and communion, I asked the Lord for greater clarity and understanding in reference to numbers, dates and seasons. I also asked about Israel and what might happen today. This is what happened next....

I felt a warm rush, as if a heated blanket had just been wrapped around me. The covering felt just like the one Elijah had placed over my head in my recent dreams and visions. Then I heard the voice of Jesus.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

Then, as if walking into an open scene, although I was awake in my chair, my eyes wide-open, I saw Him sitting by the River of Life. I ran to Him. In this vision, I am the size of a seven year old child. He stood up to greet me and bent down to hug me.

Jesus: "I'm glad to see you. I have something to show you. Come with Me."

He took me by the hand and we walked to the edge of the river bank and sat on the grass. He sat me to the left of Him. There was a beautiful tree next to the river. It looked just like the Tree of Life, but in a different setting.

It felt like spring time; amazingly fragrant with flowers and grass. The river had a glassy stillness with a minimal current. The river was sea green in color, but very clear, just like the glaciated rivers found in Canada.

Jesus: "Erin, what's troubling you?"

Me: "Several things. These dreams recently; what do these mean? When will these things happen?"

Just then, He picked up a stone. It was the perfect stone for water skipping. With His right hand, He threw the rock. It was a perfect throw. The rock made one large skip in the water and then six more. Then the rock disappeared into the river. There were seven skips in total above the water. I was mesmerized.

Jesus: "Now, watch this."

He picks up another stone, again a skipping rock, a little larger, but slightly different in shape and white in color. He throws it. It does exactly the same thing as the first rock, except that it takes a slightly different course; the same effect, but a larger plunge.

Jesus: "Erin, what are your observations?"

Me: "Well, You are excellent at skipping rocks." He laughed, gesturing me for more information. "You used different rocks and both had the same effect; both skipped seven times and then went into the river."

Jesus: "Yes. Now, put this in perspective to current events. The first rock is the first time this type of event happened in history. The rock skips seven times, then into the water, right?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Each time, a rock was needed to skip, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Though the rock was a different shape, color and weight, it still created the same effect, just larger ripples in the water. Do you understand?"

Me: "How does this relate to the events in the dream?"

Jesus: "You were told to look for patterns, so you need to ask these things. Has this happened before? What are the effects? Ripples. What is the result? Let's look at the water."

He takes another stone and throws it perfectly. Again, seven skips, then it drops into the water.

Jesus: "Who is the main player here in this event?"

Me: "There are two; the rock and the water."

Jesus: "Excellent."

Me: "Oh wait, there are three players; You, You are the thrower of the skipping stone."

Jesus: "Yes. It takes the initiator of the throw, or the event, to begin with, doesn't it?"

Me: "Yes. It takes God first."

Jesus: "Excellent. Now, other than the thrower and the stone, what is the other element involved in this event?"

Me: "The water."

Jesus: "Yes. The water was always there. The water, by volume, has strength. It is able to keep that rock from penetrating the surface six times before, finally, it succumbs to sheer gravity with the loss of velocity and the weight of the rock.

"The water eventually is not strong enough to hold the rock up. Now, let's look at the rock. Each rock was a different color and shape. Both rocks were excellent for skipping, but both were different. One was definitely perfect for skipping; the first one."

Me: "Yes. I knew that the first one would work."

Jesus: "With the second rock, you weren't so sure it would do the same thing again, but it did; no less, but the same. However, you doubted it could, correct?"

Me: "How did You know that I was thinking this?" He smiled.

Jesus: "How can you relate these current events with times in history before now?"

Me: "I'm not sure."

Jesus: "Well, the river or water is God's land; Israel. We know this..." He pointed to the river. "...is good for drinking. Here it gives life. My Father created it and it nourishes. He is pleased with the river. Look at the tree."

He grabs my hand and enters the river and brings me in with Him.

Jesus: "Erin, look."

I saw, near the bank of the river, and just at the edge, the root of the tree. It was barely touching the water.

Jesus: "The tree is nourished by the river. This is the river and tree in Heaven. Both are owned and were created by God. If the river is Israel and is God's, He has, and will, protect, cherish and prosper what is His because He owns it. He is the Landlord. Now, who is the skipping stone here?"

Me: "The stone is the enemy?"

Jesus: "Very good. What would happen to the river if all of the children you have seen here in Heaven decided to find rocks and skip them here in this exact location?"

He waded down the river to the place where the rocks landed. There were mounds and mounds of rocks.

Me: "Wow, You skip a lot of rocks." He smiled and chuckled.

Jesus: "But think of this; what if these rocks grew to a massive mound, riverbank to riverbank?"

Me: "They would eventually cutoff the river and its flow."

Jesus: "What would eventually happen to the tree?"

Me: "Oh, no more nourishment from the river."

Jesus: "Yes. The tree would die for lack of water. The roots would die because the river would dry up and all that would be left is the shifting sands of the river bed. What happened?"

Me: "God removed the water."

Jesus: "No, God did not remove it. The rocks created the removal of the water. The water allowed the buildup of the rocks. It could do nothing under the sheer force of them. The life, then, was gone from the tree. Do you understand this live parable for current events?"

Me: "Oh yes."

Jesus: "Erin, these patterns have happened before. Just go to the Word. My Word is truth. My Word is a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your path. God likes His river to flow. God doesn't appreciate foreign objects in His river; His holy river.

"Israel is His holy land. Jerusalem is His holy city. Foreigners have entered it and have defiled the land with the worship of false gods, corrupting even those who know truth. God will not tolerate the division of His land by foreigners.

"His people would be represented by the tree. The tree is His people and the river is His holy land. What happens to the stone when it penetrates the water?"

Me: "The water swallows the rock."

Jesus: "Eventually it does. By skipping, the rock is technically, by velocity and force, flirting with the water, but, eventually, the rock penetrates and then is finally consumed. What lies at the bottom of the river bed?"

Me: "The rocks are laying there dormant."

Jesus: "Yes. Until, here on Earth, someone picks one up again and stirs the water, creates ripples, and, eventually, they are consumed. Same pattern and same sequence, see? Now you try?"

He picks up a stone from the water, hands it to me and motions to me to skip the rock on the water. It was a perfect rock for this. I used the best form; right arm with a side throw. It skips just two times and falls on the third, creating a huge ripple.

Me: "Oops!"

Jesus: "What just happened?"

Me: "I tried to force it. I could only skip the rock three times."

I laughed, looked down and shook my head. Jesus was smiling.

Jesus: "Yes, you tried too hard. Now, just throw it without worrying about what the results will be because, eventually, we know the outcome."

He smiled. Wow, what a profound statement, I thought; He is perfect. I relaxed, threw side arm, no worries, perfect; six skips and then down on the seventh. Wow, a record for me.

Jesus: "Erin, great job. Do you understand what I just showed you and the significance?"

Me: "Yes. When I force it, I have only three skips. When I relax, I have seven skips."

Jesus: "Yes. A good observation, but the same events will occur again with the same pattern. However, when these events happen, it is up to the thrower of the stone, the Lord God, My Father, in Heaven, the Creator of all of this. When you see the rock picked up and His arm throwing it, you'll understand what will then occur, correct?"

Me: "Yes. I'm sorry, Lord, for continuing to pry and ask for times and dates and making assumptions."

Jesus: "Erin, this brings honor to Me and My Father. You are watching for My return. You are putting together pieces of the Word of truth and lining this up with events today. Things have been sealed until this time and are now being revealed to you. This is a bit overwhelming, right? This is why I have sent help to you.

"Others have been appointed to help. Those coming to you are of My doing and are appointed so that you may all know Me, recognize My voice, recognize My coming by the signs and wonders and you will experience the display of the Fruits of this. Miracles will begin to occur as a special gift from the Groom to His Bride. I will lavish you."

Me: "Just like in Daniel, I..."

Jesus: "Oh yes, I met him at the river too and so did the angel of Heaven's army. Did you read this in the book of Daniel? I believe there was an earthquake too, was there not?"

Me: "Yes, You just showed me this part."

He smiled. He already knew all of this and this was purely for my benefit and you, the reader. Too funny.

Jesus: "Erin, there will be signs in the Heavens. The alignments of moon, stars and planets are a road map pointing to events. Did you talk to Enoch? Is he not skilled in these things too?"

Me: "Oh yes, but You are here now."

Jesus: Chuckling. "Yes, I am and, yes, all of the signs in the Heavens will point to My return as will the events on Earth, both God breathed and some initiated by man. You need to also remember who the thrower of the skipping stone is. God knows all of these events well in advance. He does not tarry.

"Only that which was foretold from the beginning, that which glorifies Him, will be allowed, understand?" He stepped out of the river holding my hand. "Your watching is a form of high worship to Me. It means you are ready."

Me: "Oh yes. We are waiting for You."

Jesus: "I will come at the appointed time and will not delay. Continue to keep your light burning with plenty of oil. Continue to love when things, or when those around you, become unlovable according to earthly measures. Most of all, love the Lord God with all of your heart, soul and strength. You are loved. Erin, I am coming soon.”

Vision ends...

When I finished, I dropped to my knees and praised the Lord for this. As I worshipped, I felt the Holy Spirit calling me to read Jeremiah 17. Wow, there could be a huge clue here. After this, I went to my topical Bible for everything on trees and rivers. This all seemed significant.

Other Bible verses to read include Psalms 1:3, John 7:38, Leviticus 23:40 and Ezekiel 47:12. Take special note of 1 Chronicles 16:33. Daniel 4:10-12 is also of interest. This was exciting.

Once again, please note that I am not a prophet or a 'self-proclaimed' prophet. I am a seer and a scribe. Basically, I am like a reporter. I am not a scholar and have nothing special to deserve this gift, but I am doing my best, with the help of others, to discern the message that the Lord seems to have in these dreams and visions.

Please, if these offend you, go the other way. Do not look back and simply dismiss them. However, if you find that these have some merit, please use discernment and go to the Word of truth, our Bibles, and ask the Holy Spirit for guidance in discerning these messages.

I do my best to not go ahead of God as I understand the ramifications of being a changer of His Word for personal gain. I also understand the ramifications if I were to cause any of His children to stumble. I pray that I do not do this and I also pray that the Lord God speaks to you Himself through these.

Be careful not to curse each other, but, in all things, love each other. However, most of all, love the Lord God Almighty with all of your heart, soul and strength.

Love and blessings...Erin...aka sparrowcloud9

Dream 050 – The Invitation

Saturday, March 23, 2013

08-08-2016, 01:55 PM

I am up on the mountain, walking along the path in the forest. I am deep in the wilderness and no one is around for miles. The pretty mountain lake is off, in the distance, to my right. The sun was rising to the southeast of me, while the path I was hiking was directly north.

The forestry bulletin board had something shiny on it from what I could see ahead, so I began to run to it. There was a fishing lure hanging there, a big one; about five inches long. This was not just any fishing lure, but was handmade and intricate.

It was made up of sterling silver, or platinum, sections and each scale on the fish was very detailed and engraved. There were jewels set into it. I saw twelve jewels set in a grid pattern, each representative of the twelve foundation stones of the tribes of Israel.

These were the same as the Ephod priests wore. There were three large hooks made of bronze. Each was polished and very sharp. Each hook was set with a beautiful cut diamond. I recognized the cut shape as the 'Trinity Cut'.

The very top of the lure mimicked a fish's head and a gold coin was set into the mouth. There was something like woven gold, emerald and ruby twine that created small brushes where the fish line would go. The body of the lure was in sections so the lure was flexible, just like a real fish.

It was the most amazing piece of fishing tackle that I had ever seen. It was amazing in the standards of jewelry. I wondered what the fishing pole looked like if the lure was this intricate. There was a sign on the bulletin board:

"We have had 153 RSVP's for the dinner.

Guests will need to arrive by 6:00 pm.

It is important to come at the appointed time.

Each guest has a special place and there will be a total of seven guests besides yourself at each table (8 guests per table).

The Dinner has been specifically made to suit your palate.

The lure is our gift to you for accepting the invitation.

Remember, the doors shut at 6:15; there will be NO exceptions!"

There was also a copy of the menu there:

Accompaniments: Olive Oil, Bread, Wine, Fruit and Figs, Honey and Salt

Salad: Bitter Greens and Season Faire
Main Course: Lamb, Beef, Fish, Quail or Pork (Ham)
Dessert: Cake and Late Harvest Grappa

I thought, wow, this is strict, but who would not want to attend this banquet? Good gifts are given and, based on the lure, I might have a million dollar hook too.

I reached up and took the beautiful fishing lure and placed it in my pocket. I looked at the menu and thought that the 'Pork' was an odd item to serve as this was not considered a 'clean' meat; detestable in Jewish tradition.

I also did the math in my head. There were roughly nineteen tables set up, leaving only one person with no place to eat; curious?

I proceeded to the gate. There was the funny latch again. I pulled up to hear the latch release, as well as the little horn and the chime. Just then, the Gate turned into a large single pearl. How beautiful.

The two angels greeted me again; my guardian angel and the very large winged angel. The angel with wings had a flaming sword. There was fire, with a type of blue flame, at the base. My guardian had a sword also. Both of the swords were large, intricate in design and both had history.

The swords were state of the art equipment and they definitely had been through battles. It was different because everything that I had seen in Heaven was perfect. Nothing had dirt, decay, brokenness or imperfections. I wondered if the swords were 'battle worn' in order to show the enemy that the angels had already won a few battles. Again, curious?

By looking at these angels, I was reminded about how blessed we humans are to be protected by God's warriors. Thank goodness for God's veil of protection over our eyes so that we cannot see all that they do for us and the enemy's plans to destroy us.

When I entered through the gate of the city, I believe it was the eastern gate, I walked on the path north in the wilderness. How then did I enter the eastern gate? As I entered the gate, my clothing turned into a simple white linen robe. However, it was pretty, defining me as a female, but with no adornments as a Bride like before. The robe represented simple elegance.

Guardian: "Today, you will see a bit more clearly and you may observe with greater detail."

He looked in my eyes and put a double portion of salve in them. The larger angel poured a vial of oil over my head. When the oil dripped down, it absorbed into my skin without staining my robe. He then reached around and put the small ember to my lips so that my lips were loosed; no longer bound.

The larger angel remained at the gate and was joined by another large angel with wings and a flaming sword. There were always two angels together guarding the gate, never just one. Sometimes I only wrote one, but there were always two. I just wanted to be clear about this.

As I turned, I saw more clearly. It was a scene from an incredible movie in high definition, like an IMAX cinema film, or like a Michelangelo painting, but from the romantic era after the renaissance.

The whole scene looked like a giant love letter directly from the Bible of the Throne in Heaven, with all of the pieces together in one final orchestrated scene. The whole picture, not in parts or sections, were now all here in open view. I wept now because I could see more clearly.

The Sea has been described as having colors of sapphire, cerulean blue, silver, gold and crystal. Well, it is all of these combined; blues with shimmering surface reflections of silver and gold, all as a result of the glory of the presence of God on the throne.

I saw large columns beautifully constructed of translucent marble. There were these amazing pomegranates carved in the capitals of the columns. These were epic. I saw the risers to the Throne. The Throne was more visible.

I was confused because I had seen a cut sapphire before, and there was one established, but the Throne was white. I could not tell if it was made of a pearl, marble or maybe moonstone. Whatever the substance was, I knew I would not be allowed close enough to find out.

The magnitude of brightness from God was more than my eyes could bear. I still could not see Him, just the form of Him. He made us in His image so the form was like us, but He was larger than life itself; very large barely begins to describe Him.

The sapphire looked like it was either behind the Throne or inlaid into the white Throne as a border on the edges. However, I could not see the details. Nonetheless, He really did appear to have a footstool made up of sapphires. Those that have seen this before could not possibly have seen more of God than this.

Warning: If you are following someone who claims that they have seen God or His Throne clearly while He is sitting on His Throne, then I would reference the Scriptures. This would be impossible for man to experience more than what is written in Scripture.

Now I know why Jesus was sent even more clearly. This was so that God could, in Jesus, allow us to be near His Creation. If God had a direct relationship with us without Jesus, then we would simply burn up. The 'Ark of the Covenant' was created for a reason.

God shines brighter than the sun. After all, He created the sun. There was a Throne next to Him and to His right. I chuckled as I saw what seemed like a symbolic footstool made of bronze or hammered gold with an image of the Earth.

It was a carved depiction of men on Earth. Again, I must stress that I was not close enough to view it, but I simply saw the form. Before, I had thought that the 24 elders' thrones were around His Throne, but now I see that they are below.

I saw what I know are the Seraphim. This would take an entire book to describe, but they are described in Scripture also. They had six wings; two covering their faces, two covering their lower extremities and two to fly.

They were terrifying to look at, but strangely sweet and humble. They sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God Almighty". They flickered like large flames and they had swords. They seemed like the Lord's direct attendants.

Besides these and before I thought these were one and the same, there were four other angels. They had four faces in a square around them so they could see in all directions. They formed a square formation around the Throne. Each had four different faces; a lion, ox, man and eagle. These had four wings.

These angels had the ability to move quickly in all directions and they appeared to have a wheel on their legs that propelled them. These had flaming swords also and appeared to be guarding the Throne.

The choir of Heavenly angels was magnificent and beyond comprehension. The music was so beautiful that you worshipped the Father on the Throne in truth and glory. It was simply amazing. For me to be considered to have enough worth to be in the presence of this is beyond belief.

I dropped to my knees and began to confess my sins. I had so many sins in just a few days. Again, the sins, as I spoke them, appeared on the forestry bulletin board paper. Then, as I confessed the sins, they were blotted out as soon as they were written, or confessed. The mighty wind began to blow them away and then they were gone.

My head was still down as the wind blew. In the wind, I heard Jesus.

Jesus: "Erin, you are about to embark on another journey of discovery. Do not veer to the right or the left of the path. Write plainly on paper that which you have been shown. My Spirit is in you. Do not be afraid. You will not suffer shame and you will remember the reproach of your widowhood no more.

"Erin, this portion of the journey is important to those who will turn an ear to hear or an eye to see. I have sent extra help to you in this season. Three have skills that will unlock hidden manna in what you have been shown.

"Remember, it is about patterns, measures, numbers and timelines. The symbolism that has been given is very important. Since much has been given, now much will be required. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "You are loved by the King. Psalm 45 is for you."

With my head down, I could see tears dropping on my linen robe. They bounced off and repelled off of the fabric. When the tears hit the robe, they turned into something like diamonds, or crystal cut, teardrops. I had never noticed this before.

Just then, Enoch and Elijah came up on either side of me. Elijah put the shawl over my head and arms and then Enoch poured oil over me, blessing me. Then I heard the sound of rushing water and music. It was the voice of God.

God: "Child, come forth." Enoch and Elijah moved me forward, but not too far. "Write plainly so that my children will understand about receiving the good and perfect gifts, the Fruits of the Spirit. Are you ready for service?"

Me: Trembling at the awe of Him. "Yes."

God: "Very well."

Then the entire Sea of Glass split in two. The angel to the right of the crevice had the judgment scales and the angel to the left had the Bible. Down in the crevice, I saw Elijah and Elisha. Elijah was putting his cloak over Elisha, as in 1 Kings 19:19, as Elisha was in a field plowing.

Elisha then ran after Elijah as he walked past him. He asked Elijah if he could go back and tell his parents and then he would follow him. Elisha ran back to his house, cooked the oxen and gave them to others to eat. Then he got up and went after Elijah to minister and tend to him.

Elijah: "What was going on in Israel at the time?"

Me: "Much the same as now. The people were stubborn and rebellious."

Elijah: "Watch for patterns here. What else do you see?"

Me: "I see temples set up for Baal worship from the Canaanites and now they are worshipping the golden calf again."

Elijah: "Very good. You see this. Now look."

I saw famine and war. People were thin and gaunt. They were starving. They had the same appearance as the tribulation dream that I just had.

Elijah: "How long did Elisha serve with me?"

Me: "I have no idea, but I read once that it was six years and another guess was ten years."

Elijah: "It was actually seven years. In the seventh year; look."

I saw Elisha, as a young man, follow Elijah around, assisting him and observing him before Elijah was taken up to Heaven.

Elijah: "Now, where have you seen this before? The pattern?"

Me: "Well, it reminds me of Jesus when He recruited Peter and Andrew. He went to Galilee."

Elijah: "Yes. What happened?"

Me: "They immediately dropped their nets and followed Him."

Elijah: "Yes. He said to them, 'I will make you fishers of men', correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Erin, how many years did the disciples follow Jesus, studying and learning from Him, just like Elisha before Elijah was ascended into Heaven?"

Me: "Well, if I think of patterns, I know that it was not seven years."

Enoch: "You are correct. It was three years. So we have seven years for Elisha to learn and we have three years for the twelve disciples following Jesus."

Me: "So the pattern is here again; seven years versus three years"

Enoch: "Yes, but there are more correlations. Elijah performed miracles and many were the same as Elisha's miracles. Elijah had sixteen miracles recorded, although there were many more. Now look."

Just then, I saw the river where Elisha requested a double portion of Elijah's gifting. Elijah replied to Elisha, "You do not know what you are asking."

Enoch: "So, a double portion is equal to the 32 miracles recorded. This is truly a double gifting of miracles, although there were many more."

Elijah: "I was in solitude for most of my walk. I have been represented as having a type of 'God' make up and Elisha as having a 'Savior' or 'Son of God' makeup. Elisha was more like Jesus in the fact that he enjoyed people and was more social than I was.

"Elisha performed miracles similar, and as a shadow, to miracles like Jesus performed. You see that Elisha had made twenty barley loaves feed one hundred men (2 Kings 4:38-41). The correlation between us was measurable.

"I performed miracles with oil with a widow and so did Elisha. There were many others. Jesus never forgot about Elisha, but there were differences here; how?"

Me: "I never understood this. Elijah allowed Elisha to go back and say goodbye to his family, but, Jesus said, referring to Elisha, that anyone who puts his hands to a plow and then looks back is not worthy of the Kingdom of God. This is in Luke 9:61-62. Jesus was harsh here, but the disciples asked Him to rain down fire on a town just like Elisha had. Instead, Jesus showed mercy on the town."

Enoch: "Erin, do you understand what Jesus is saying to the men He is recruiting when He speaks of this in Luke?"

Me: "No."

Elijah: "Erin, someone greater than Elisha is present; Jesus. There is an urgent need that requires the follower's complete focus, or attention, on Him. If looking back is more important, then they are not after the heart of Jesus and their hearts are divided. If you cling to your life, you will lose it, and if you give up your life to follow Jesus, you will find it, understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "Jesus is the Son of God, yet His own people do not look for Him. His people spoke of John the Baptist, of Elijah and of others. So, who were they expecting? Who were they looking for?"

Me: "I know; someone different because Jesus even rode on a donkey and He was a carpenter's son and a tradesman Himself. They, the Jewish people, were looking for a king, not someone like Jesus."

Enoch: "Yes. They were indignant and looked for any reason to call Him a false prophet. His cleanliness and innocence, compared to theirs, made them dirty and guilty. Do you know how many people were touched directly by Jesus through His gift of miracles in the Gospels?"

Me: "I just read from a friend that there were 153, which correlates with the fishes in the net after Jesus had risen."

Enoch: "So, Jesus performed this miracle of the fish after He had risen?"

Me: "Yes. There were 153 fish and 153 miracles for the people. I also know that there are 153 countries that surround Israel."

Elijah: "What will the two witnesses be proclaiming in Jerusalem?"

Me: "I am certain they will speak about and testify to all the Lord has done for thousands of years for His people. They will speak about Jesus and that He is their Savior."

Enoch: "There will be another message. What would that be?"

Me: "A call to repent from rebellion, denouncing their sin, taking off their old skins and allowing Jesus to carry them and bless them."

Elijah: "Yes. It will be a most unwelcome message in Israel."

Just then I saw the two witnesses. I saw Elijah's funny reed, or staff. I saw both Enoch and Elijah being mocked. I saw things being thrown at them by the regular attendees to the Wall.

Elijah: "Erin:

- even when the prophecies are in full alignment;

- even when the exact measure from one holy place to the next is revealed in meters;
- even when the mountains have fallen into the sea;
- even when darkness has descended and the stars in the sky and the planets have begun to worship in submission to our Holy Lord;
- even when the birth pains are felt by all;
- even when the Gentiles flock to see just one glimpse of us, the evidence of the prophecy;
- even when young men have seen visions and the old men have dreamt dreams;
- even when all this has happened, just as in the desert;...

...this generation will still be looking for someone else!

Enoch: "You have been shown things and have written these things out of love, yet not many believe because you are not the one they expect. They were looking for someone else to point."

Elijah: "You, and those with you, have uncovered some of these mysteries. Yet, even with all of this, 'People expect better from God.'"

Enoch: "Yes, true, look."

Just then, I saw Jesus riding into Jerusalem on a donkey. People greeted Him with palm leaves on His path to the Holy City. It was a beautiful day. The crowd was cheering. It was glorious.

Elijah: "Erin, do you remember about the Sabbaths?"

Me: "Yes. Many were confused about this timeline."

Enoch: "Erin, there were two Sabbaths; a yearly and a weekly. The Passover is the annual Sabbath that the Jewish people observe. What was the sign of Jonah?"

The angel with the Bible points to Matthew 12:39-40, 17:23 and 20:19.

Me: "I have never noticed this before, but it speaks of Jonah in the belly of the whale for three days. I guess this is the same for Jesus from crucifixion to resurrection. For three days, He was in the 'Belly of the Earth'?"

Enoch: "Yes, Erin. There is a pattern, a correlation, symbolism and deeper manna."

Elijah: "Now, Jesus came, but was not as expected. They asked, 'Who is this?' He performed many miracles, which enraged those in the Temple.

Their proclamation was peace, yet this Messiah brought no peace. They expected Him to be a king.

"Today, this will be the same. They will all believe, because now a 'king' comes, the Antichrist, and they will recognize him by his blood and the signs. Like Jonah, the Antichrist will point them to his false fulfillment of prophecies. The Antichrist will mimic exactly what they are looking for in a Messiah.

"The Antichrist is after God's chosen, the Israelites. The rest of the population, at this point, is of no consequence to the Anti-Christ. Once God's land is divided, what else could anger God more?"

Me: "Stealing the hearts of God's people, the Israelites away from Him?"

Elijah: "Very good. Now look."

I saw Jesus on the Mount of Olives praying in the groves. I saw the disciples sleeping, even after Jesus told them to watch several times.

Enoch: "How many times did Jesus say to the three disciples, 'Keep watch.'?"

Me: "Three times."

Elijah: "Here, these disciples watched Jesus, saw His miracles, knew He was the Son of God and Jesus comes to them three times to ask, yet they still slept and were not ready."

Enoch: "Remember your dream of the 'olive'. Look at the symbolism. Go back to this dream and see other elements hidden in plain sight."

Elijah: "Erin, even Jesus' elect, His closest, failed to see exactly what was told to them."

Enoch: "The two witnesses, the same. How many years do they witness?"

Me: "1260 days."

Elijah: "Yes, but, again, are you looking for them?"

Enoch: "Look at the steps of Jesus during Passover. Look at the patterns and parables. Erin, what was on the menu of the bulletin board?"

Me: Confused. "Lamb?"

Elijah: "Yes, but there is more."

Me: "I was very surprised to see pork, or ham?"

Enoch: "Ham is for those who eat this and are not recognizing the laws of the Jews; clean versus unclean. Remember, who listened to Jesus at the well?"

Me: "Someone like me; an unclean Gentile and a female."

Elijah: "Now, let's look at another item on the menu; a shadow of sorts."

Looking down, I saw a fig tree. It was a pretty tree, but not ready to bear fruit. There were leaves, but no fruit. It was out of season possibly.

Elijah: "What do you see?"

Me: "The fig tree outside of Bethany."

Elijah: "What happened to the fig tree? Where was this on the timeline of Passover?"

Me: "Jesus wanted to eat and there was no fruit, so He made it shrivel."

Elijah: "Why were the disciples so amazed?"

Me: "Because of Jesus' authority to command such a thing; the power over life and death. Right after His Crucifixion, with the keys, He went down to Hades."

Elijah: "Oh, you are finding deeper meaning. We will come back to that, but what does Jesus say in response to the disciples' amazement?"

Me: "Jesus says, "Have faith in God. Truly, I tell you, if anyone says to this mountain, "Go throw yourself into the Sea" and does not doubt in their heart, but believes that what they say will happen, it will be done for them. Therefore, I tell you, whatever you ask for in prayer, believe that you have received it and it will be yours. And when you stand praying, if you hold anything against anyone, forgive them so that your Father in Heaven may forgive you your sins.""

Elijah: "Now, what about the fig tree?"

Me: "Could He have just waited until it was in season?"

Enoch: "Erin, no. This fig tree was absent of the signs that it would bear fruits. There is a sign on a fig tree so that we know it will have a crop. This is a foreshadowing of the real figs to come. The absence of this sign means no fruit."

Me: "Oh, so there was no hope. It was without fruit at all."

Enoch: "Jesus knew the time of the fruits of the tree because of the location; the eastern side of the Mount of Olives. This is the sign that the time of Passover in Jerusalem was accurate."

Elijah: "Erin, when you see a tree from a distance with beautiful leaves, you see promise; the promise of fruit. If you do not see any, you are disappointed, or deceived. Who is the fig tree?"

Me: "The people who do not produce fruit."

Elijah: "Yes, but more. God expects His children to bear fruit. If they do not, He prunes them. You know of this. This way, more fruit will come. In this, Jesus was about to encounter God's children; the Jews. This is seen in Jeremiah 8. It refers to Israel."

The angel with the Bible illuminates Jeremiah 29:15-19, Hosea 9:10 and Hosea 16. Later, I find the verses.

Elijah: "There is something very significant in every Scripture pertaining to fig trees, like in Micah 7:1-4. Then there is the parable of the fig tree in Luke 13: 6-9. Look at the prophecies here."

Enoch: "Now, Erin, what have we seen before is now again. Look."

The angel illuminates Luke 19: 41-44.

Me: "Oh, now this is coming; when?"

Enoch: "Of course it is coming. In the parable of the fig tree, Jesus gives fair warning; how long?"

Me: "He gives it three years. Jesus has been watching it for fruits for three years. Since there is no fruit, the tree is scheduled to be cut down and thrown in the fire. The farmer begs for one more year to fertilize it, care for it and then, if the tree still does not bear fruit, it will be cut down. Is this for now or is this about the tribulation?"

Enoch: "Now, look again. Three years of no fruit. Then, when does the fig tree bear its first fruits?"

Me: "Before summer?"

Enoch: "Yes. Now, in Matthew 24: 32-34, there is a new tree. It will spring forth from the root. That is, the nation of Israel will revive right when it reaches the point when leaves will show. Then we know Jesus is coming and that summer is near. It will bear leaves before fruit."

Me: "So Jesus will return before summer?"

Elijah: "Erin, There are signs. You are expecting certain dates; calendar dates. You must look at all of this together. The signs are moving quickly. Do not get ahead of God, remember?"

Me: "Yes."

Enoch: "This is enough for now. Did you ready your house and work on your chores?"

Me: "You mean to repent?"

Elijah: "Erin, the parables are also for you today. You must bear fruit in order to bear witness; good fruit, the Fruit of the Spirit. Remember what these are? They mimic what you have seen on the Tree of Life."

Me: "But I have seen twelve different fruit."

Enoch: "In the Word, there are nine: Love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. Those that crucify their flesh, as did Jesus, walk with direction in their life from the Spirit. Thus, you are bearing good fruit and are ready to be used for greater purposes by God."

Then I heard the voice of the Lord God.

God: "Child, you have been shown much, now much will be expected. Bear fruit."

I dropped to my knees and worshiped for quite some time. I felt so thankful for the opportunity to learn so much. Enoch and Elijah walked me back to the Gate. Elijah put the covering over me and blessed me. Enoch poured oil on my hands and blessed them for service.

Enoch: "Erin, write plainly. There is more to be shown."

Me: "Will you be gone soon. The signs are there for you both to be going from here to Jerusalem soon?"

They both looked at each other.

Elijah: "Yes, Erin, we are close. Have patience. Is this not one of the Fruit?"

I dropped my head. They both seemed heavy in their hearts this time.

Me: "I am sorry. We are expecting..."

Enoch: "To expect is good. This means you are waiting. To jump ahead and look foolish without knowledge and patient endurance is not good."

They blessed me and passed me to my guardian. They waived at me and smiled. Things seemed different.

Guardian: "Erin, this is a high season of expectation. Stay strong and focused so you are not caught off guard when things do not occur as expected. It can be discouraging when things happen a different way. Remember that the news does not paint the entire picture. Not all is disclosed. There are backroom deal events.

"There are also natural events that are barely spoken of. Rely on God. These things will be revealed with greater clarity. You have been shown some things these last few days. You should disclose these. Get help when you have questions. Jesus will send help.

"Psalm 45, Psalm 23 and Isaiah 61 & 62 are keys. You should go to Isaiah 17, 19 and 54 and also go to Ezekiel and the valley of the dry bones. '37' is a miracle. These are things that will encourage you.

"Look at the fig trees, the olives and the vines. All bear fruit and all are in greater parable; hidden in the simplest of things. Further, you are loved. Do not be left unprepared. Call on Jesus for help."

Finished.....Love and Blessings... Sparrowcloud9 – Erin

These are prophetic in nature, so please use discernment. Be blessed. Use the Holy Spirit and the Bible as your resource. Remember to forgive those who have hurt you. Remember to repent, renounce, break and bless.

Remember, in Galatians, that the Fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. You should practice bearing these fruits. In all things, love the Lord with all of your heart and love your neighbor as yourself.

Addition on March 26th, 2013...

I woke from my sleep this morning with a voice repeating, 'Wool Skein, Wool Skein'. This was odd. I went to prayer and devotions. Curiosity got the best of me, so I went to Google 'Wool Skein'. Wool Skein is a circle of yarn used in weaving yarn. I went back to sit down and prayed.

Just then, I saw an old Rabbi and a young boy about age ten. The old Rabbi was mixing both wool and linen together in a yarn.

Boy: "Papa, you must stop. This is not okay."

The boy had a patch on his jacket, marking him as one of the 144,000. The old man continued to mix wool and linen yarns, despite the forbidden law. It is known that the mixture of these two fibers cause blistering, static electricity and general skin irritants. Man is not to knit these two fibers together. While on their own, these fibers do not cause harm, but mixing them causes harm.

Possible interpretation/speculation on my part: Could it be that Israel is the wool and Palestine is the linen? The whole vision was small and very strange.

Love and Blessings...Erin

Dream 051 – Good Friday Message

Received Friday, March 29, 2013

It's been five years and seven days almost to the hour since my heart stopped when I was at work. I went through the desert after this and, later, ended up actually living in the desert. I looked back through my journals and something occurred shortly after this Near Death Experience (NDE).

The Lord gave me a dream about dry bones that was very similar to Ezekiel 37. I didn't understand the significance at the time, but now, in hindsight, it is evidence of the shadow of what the Lord would be granting me in the valley of dry bones.

I prayed this morning before communion. I repented for the things that I had done the day before. After all that I have been shown, why do I keep sinning? Had I changed at all from five years and eight days ago, the Good Friday in 2008?

After I confessed, repented and renounced, I took communion. I felt free to fellowship with Him with no barriers between us. The enemy had lost his foothold to my deeper communion with Jesus.

This was my prayer, remembering my Scripture verse for this season of my life:

Thank You, Father, for speaking to me in the desert wilderness. Thank You for giving life to these dry bones. Thank You for rolling away the stone of the tomb that I resided in. Thank You for taking my hand and saying, "Erin, wake up from your tired sleep."

I sat there for a moment in tears. I remembered what all He sacrificed for us and I can never thank Him enough for allowing me to stay here and live versus taking me Home. Some days, I wish I was Home in Heaven, but other days, I know that He has a purpose for my life.

I reviewed all of the events from 2008 to 2013. These were five excruciating years and were even more lost than the five years before that. I began to weep.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I was in Heaven and I saw Him by the river on this rock. His hands were stretched out towards me. I ran to Him. Jesus stood, picked me up and held me at His shoulder. I was still crying. I was little in size again; about the age of seven.

He put me back down on the grass and walked with me over to the river next to the large beautiful tree. When I held His hand, I could see the visible scars and I remembered His suffering.

He sat me down with Him on the bank of the river. It was beautiful. It smelled like freshly cut grass. Funny, I had never thought of Heaven having a landscaping crew.

I also smelled a hint of jasmine and the smell of roses. It was warm; not too hot and not too cold...perfect.

Jesus: "Erin, do you remember that your name is written on the palms of My hands?"

I grabbed His hand and, around the scars and in each crevice, millions upon millions of names would illuminate as my finger scanned the palm of His hand. This I remembered from Isaiah 49:16, "Behold I have engraved you on the palm of My hands."

This was about the coolest thing of so many that I just love about Jesus. As my finger moved over one section, my name popped up. Tears streamed from my eyes. I loved this. He chuckled.

Me: "You are the Word and the truth. If our names are on Your palms, is the entire written Bible is on Your palms as well?"

He smiled. I made Him laugh.

Jesus: "Do you believe I can give life to dry bones?"

Me: "You can do anything. You are the Creator of miracles."

Jesus: "Erin, who crucified Me?"

Me: "The upholders of the law, the ones not expecting someone ordinary like You. They expected a king."

Jesus: "Very good. Yes, they hated Me, but all took notice watching for Me to trip up My own Words. When they realized that I was not going away, I became the stone over their tombs and the stone over their hearts.

"When they had called from the grave, they had studied the Word, they looked for the 'raiser of the dead', their Savior, yet I walked amongst them. I preached the Good News. I had come to give life to their dry bones.

"I came to set them free and give them life abundant. When they refused My gift of salvation, they had no eyes to see nor any ears to hear. The Stone the builders rejected has become the cornerstone. Do you understand this about the stone?"

Me: "I know that, without a cornerstone, capstone or keystone, a structure cannot stand. It is a necessary element in architecture. The stone is necessary for the strength of the wall."

Jesus: "Yes. Isn't this another part of Isaiah 49:16, 'Your walls are continuously before Me.'"

Me: "I always stopped at the first part of that verse about the palms. Wow!"

Jesus: "Erin, remember to read Scripture not in part, but in whole. When you read only what you want to, or your eyes are slanted towards something, then you miss special manna; the truth of the Word loses its power, understand?"

Me: "Oh, of course."

Jesus: "Now, back to the stones. With the 'upholders of the law', there was a barrier, or stone. Because of their hardened hearts and their lack of understanding, they were dead in the tomb. They refused life. They refused the truth. They were dead dry bones. Tell Me about tombs in ancient Israel?"

Me: "I don't know much, but, one time, I saw a large stone that was round, like a wheel. It could literally be rolled in front of the tomb and secured."

Jesus: "Yes, these were the tombs of the rich and renowned. These were the only ones who would have a burial tomb like this."

Me: "You were in a tomb like this?"

Jesus: "Yes, but I was rejected and certainly not rich. I walked amongst them for three and a half years, performing miracles, yet they didn't see Me or recognize Me calling in the desert. They were not looking for me, yet someone greater than Elijah had come, and I was rejected.

"They preferred to remain dry bones. They preferred to remain in their tombs. I was there though. If they had heard My voice and recognized Me, I would have rolled back the stone and grabbed their hand. I would have breathed life into those dry bones."

Me: "I am glad that You breathed into my dry bones. I am so thankful."

Jesus: "Erin, blessed are you when they persecute you and they would say all manner of evil against you falsely because of Me. You must continuously rejoice and be extremely joyful because your reward is great in the Heavens, for, in this way, they persecuted the prophets, the ones who were before you."

Me: "But I am no prophet, just a listener and child who believes."

Jesus: "Count these things as good. Now, did you understand the parable of the fig tree?"

Me: "I believe so."

He then points to the beautiful tree that bore twelve beautiful fruits, unlike anything here on Earth. The fruits were similar, but very different.

Jesus: "My trees always bear good fruit. What was wrong with that fig tree outside of Bethany?"

Me: "You were hungry and there were not even the early fruits, or the promise of greater fruits, for you to eat."

Jesus: "You picked up on the two signs, but, also, the leaves were the other sign."

Me: "I think from seeing this and reading about it, then you are the symbol of the first fruit. This bad fig tree bore no fruit, so this was representing the 'upholders of the law', right? They did not have signs that fruit would ever be there, so You just removed the tree."

Jesus: "Very good. You are diving into the Word and the greater truth and patterns. You are hungry for fruits and hungry for even more."

Me: "Lord, there are twelve different fruits on this tree, but only nine are listed in the Word. Where are the other three listed in the Word?"

Jesus: "Oh, a mystery? Truth is in the Word. If it is there, I am certain you will find it. Now, did you understand the scene from the Wool Skein?"

Me: "I am not sure. The older Jewish man, or priest, is mixing linen by weaving it in with the wool. He is knitting it together. The young boy recognizes that this is against the law. The boy is holding the lamb's wool yarn in a large circle around his wrists. His wool is pure and white. He recognizes his Papa, or teacher of the law, not following it by using scarlet dyed linen and weaving it in with the wool. The older man is knowingly breaking the law"

Jesus: "Great observations. The boy is representing the special group from Judah and is part of the 144,000 who have been set apart and raised with truth. They will be the 'Upholders of Truth' and they will recognize truth and will hear My voice. They will be pure and unstained. The enemy is searching for them now, but they are hidden."

Me: "Lord, is this now? Are you raising them now?"

Jesus: "Yes. Erin, do you understand the symbolism during this time? Look at the Passover as the message of salvation, the unleavened bread represents the removal of sin, this is also called the bread of affliction and the first fruits represent the resurrection."

Me: "I did not know this. How can I possibly have all of the Fruits of the Spirit? How is this possible? I am trying?"

Jesus: "Erin, aspiring for the Fruits of the Spirit are examples of being a child of Heaven. It is the fruit that is in your heart. Once you have these, covet them. Keep hold of these. Do not let unrepentant sin rob you of these."

Me: "What happens once we have these?"

Jesus: "Do you know why going through the wilderness is necessary? This is for measuring faith. Those who endure the testing and endure, those who keep God's commands throughout their journey, received something. What did they receive?"

Me: "The Promised Land?"

Jesus: "Yes. If you keep this faith and endure, there is a reward for this. This is your faith journey in the wilderness like the disciples. When they knew I was crucified and they thought I was dead, their faith was gone. They were in the wilderness.

"They felt alone and abandoned (Luke 24:16). Then their sorrow turned to joy. There was a gift through the resurrection. Erin, what is the reward?"

Me: "You and salvation through You."

Jesus: "Yes, but there are gifts for service. There are the gifts of the Spirit. Expect these to follow the Fruits. After you take a bite of the fruit, what is the result?"

Me: "It tastes good and fills my belly."

Jesus: "Yes. The promise of the gifts; these will be your weapons. This is enough for today. You are loved."

I turned and I was immediately in my chair. Jesus was gone. So I researched the Scriptures in reference to what I learned. I reviewed John 1:29, Deuteronomy 8:2, 1 Corinthians 15:20, 1 Corinthians 5:8, Song of Songs 8:5 and Zephaniah 3:16-17.

I pray that this is a blessing to you. It blessed me and reminded me of His enduring love for us. The greatest act of love happened on the Cross.

Please use discernment. These are prophetic in nature. Please pray, read the Bible, your lamp, and listen to the Holy Spirit, your guide and the illuminator of God's truth. Be blessed

Love and blessings...Sparrowcloud9...Erin

Dream 052 – Lessons in the Wilderness

Received Saturday, March 30, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 23)

Often my time with Jesus in this season has been personal. I haven't felt that He has led me to release certain personal dreams and Words because they have been very specific to me and the relationship that I have with Him and others.

This morning, I prayed in advance that, if I had anything in my life that could help others in pursuit of the 'three keys' from Him, which I believe He might have just revealed to me last night, they would be welcomed. I prayed that, however personal this next vision might be, I would be willing to help.

Oh, to back up a bit. It is possible that I was just granted the knowledge of the three keys; although, again, it is just my personal 'guess' until He reveals the truth here. On that note, here it goes:

The message of Passover and our walk in pursuit of the 'Promised Land', Jesus, equals Passover, our salvation, our walk and our call into the wilderness. This includes refining, testing and faith.

The unleavened bread equals the removal of yeast, or sin, that would be a stone over our hearts. This is our 'death' to self, or flesh. This includes the removal of the bad fruits, such as immorality, impurity, licentiousness, idolatry, sorcery, enmity, strife, jealousy, anger, outbreaks of selfishness, dissensions, factions, envy, drunkenness, carousing and like things (Gal 5:19-21).

The resurrection equals Jesus as our 'First Fruits'. This represents the Fruits of the Spirit, including love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control (Gal 5:22-23).

Then, in order to operate fully in the gifts of the Spirit, or spiritual gifts, for the coming times, we will need to crucify fleshly desires. We need to lay them at the foot of the Cross, throwing away all obstacles or stone barriers, pursuing Jesus with all of your heart, and taking up the Cross and walking after Him.

So, this is what the Word of the Lord says we will receive as gifts. Some will have just a few. Some will have many. But, to whom much is given, much will be expected. This is fair warning, so be prepared for the miraculous and believe.

These are the gifts found in 1 Corinthians 12:8-11, "For indeed through the Spirit to one is given a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge according to the same spirit, to another faith by the same spirit, and to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit, and to another discerning of spirits. (John 16:8.) "To another to speak in different kinds of tongues, and to another Interpretation of tongues: But the one and the same Spirit operates all these things, distributing His own gifts to each, just as He wishes."

This is the main ingredient to our walk in pursuit of Jesus as a Bride to her Groom:

1 Corinthians 13:1-7, "And yet I am showing you a better way. If I speak in the tongues of men and of angels, but I do not have love, I have become sounds of brass or a clashing cymbal. Now if I have a gift of prophecy and I would have known all mysteries and all knowledge and if I have all faith so as to move mountains, but I do not have love, I am nothing. And I could give away all my belongings bit by bit to help the poor and if I should give over my body so that I could boast in it, but I do not have love, (Micah 6:8) I benefit nothing."

1 Corinthians 13:4-7, "Love has patience, love is kind, not jealous, love does not boast, it is not proud, it does not dishonor, it does not seek things for itself, it does not become angry, it does not charge evil to another, it does not rejoice over unrighteousness, but rejoices together in truth: it endures all things, it believes all things; it hopes all things, it is steadfast in all things."

This morning in prayer, after communion and praise, I am taken up in the Spirit. Again I am about seven years old. Jesus is sitting on the rock. He has a white robe that is more glorious than mine. He reaches His arms out to receive me. I run at full sprint towards Him. He reached down, picked me up and let me rest on His shoulder for some time.

Jesus: "Erin, I'm glad you are here."

Me: "I almost did not come today. I am tired and ready to go Home soon."

Jesus: "A little longer. You are in the 'home stretch', the 'back nine'."

Me: "What? Why did You mention golf?"

Jesus: "Why did you react like you did when I mentioned golf?"

Me: "I guess this is a time in my life that I need to bring to the foot of the Cross."

Jesus: "Why take it to the Cross? I am right here. Why does this time make you react so?"

Me: "It was a lonely time for me; broken dreams, unrealized hope, missed opportunities and a lack of resources. I did not know You then."

Jesus: "I remember this time in your life. You were leading on your own understanding."

Me: "Definitely. You gave me such a gift, such a talent. Physically, nothing could stop me. How did I not succeed?"

Jesus: "Erin, you did everything right. Your heart was completely immersed in the sport. You had forsaken all others."

Then I remembered. I was so focused on my goals and my pursuits that nothing and no one mattered.

Me: "I didn't have You. You were not part of this gift, although You gave it to me."

Jesus: "Erin, this was a talent, like the parable of the talents. I saw several things there that, if you look at all of what you went through, it was a miraculous call from Me. You will see the gift in your struggles."

Me: "These were unrealized dreams. I had given it my all. In all probability, I should have succeeded. The signs were there."

Jesus: "Erin, what are you doing now?" I was speechless. He showed me a picture of a tomb with the large stone disc rolled in front of the opening of the Tomb. "What do you see?"

Me: "A grave. In fact, Lord, You were in one like this."

Jesus: "Yes, but, for the purposes of this, let's just look at it as a grave. Now look."

I saw my entire life; my pursuit of competitive sports, personal health, dance and golf as careers. I saw my golf game. I saw a tournament, competition and loss; a few victories, but ultimately loss.

Jesus: "Erin, now let's look at it from what you had expected to happen."

I saw tournament wins, personal glory, fame, fortune, my own instructional videos and the list went on and on. I laughed so hard. Oh, my goodness, how pompous and arrogant I became. Then I saw my life as a result of these pursuits and goals. I saw a full career with wealth, but no children, no God and a tomb with a stone rolled right over it, completely sealed off.

Me: "Oh, but I was marked. You would've called me."

Jesus: "I did back then. You weren't taking My calls. You would not be where you are today."

Me: "You mean the desert wilderness?"

Jesus: "Erin, what did you learn in the wilderness?"

Me: "I could write a 'How To' book on suffering."

Jesus: "Okay, but what did you learn about that?"

Me: "I learned how to battle against the enemy, my opponent, for survival."

Jesus: "Oh, how long did your wilderness adventure take?" He knew already.

Me: "Well, technically, I've been in the desert since You first called me; about forty years."

Jesus: "You caught that. So, for your whole life, you learned and decided to fight against a hidden opponent, the enemy?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Okay. What then?"

Me: "The final stretch, actually living in the desolate place, the desert; I have been laid bare."

Jesus: "Explain this?"

Me: "I lost my ambitions, finances, friends, faith, reputation, status, security, health and almost all of my children. I couldn't hear clearly. I was broken, and, when I couldn't hear from You, I began to lose hope."

Jesus: "What next?"

Me: "I had nothing more to give. I gave everything to You. I repented for all of it. I renounced my participation with the enemy in his pursuit of me. I broke free from him, removing his power and rights, and I gave it all to You."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "I remember exactly. I asked for a sign. I asked for You to roll the stone away in my life and breathe into these dry bones. I asked for You to fill my empty cup."

Jesus: "You wanted Me to bless you, right?"

Me: "Yes. Then this is what happened. I felt love for things I would have never loved. I felt joy in this pitiful desert wilderness. I felt calm. I forgave and I helped out people that hated me. I showed kindness to people that didn't deserve this. I gave up selfish ambitions. I did not envy my rich clients. But, most of all, I ran to You and I wouldn't stop until You fulfilled the promises You gave me years ago."

Jesus: "Okay. So, now, what came next?"

Me: "I didn't get an answer from You. I went in hot pursuit after You. I wouldn't let up and I reminded You every day of Your promises to me. I asked You to take me Home to Heaven every day if You decided that I had no use here. I demanded either for You to breathe life into me or roll the stone over the tomb and take me Home.

"I had no word, not even a sound, from You. I thought I had exhausted or angered You. I was under severe attack even though I was not sinning and I had followed all the steps in warfare while I waited on faith and tears that You are the God of 'second chances' and miracles.

"I heard nothing from the Holy Spirit for forty days, but the time of my obliteration was May 29th, 2012. I spent these three months pursuing You and then forty days battling the enemy in the desert and feeling abandoned. I became a watcher of You during this time because I was looking for a sign.

Jesus: "So when was your first gift?"

Me: "Oh my. Well, three months plus forty days puts me right at the first week of October 2012. I hadn't put this together before. That was the time of my first real word and dream from You."

Jesus: "You received this. Why?"

Me: "I'm not sure?"

Jesus: "Erin, you received this because you pursued Me with the same passion as you did golf."

Me: I was in tears. "Forgive me."

Jesus: "I was thrilled that you pursued Me as you once did golf."

Me: "So now help me with this. You began the dreams slowly and built them up, brick by brick, one on top of the other, to where I am now. Incredible."

Jesus: "Yes. You started slowly. In golf, you need to take up a special interest in the sport first. Then you practiced the fundamentals. You were taught the foundations of the game and the principles."

Me: "Wow. So You needed me to fall in love with You first, like I did golf, like in the first series of dreams. But falling in love with You was interactive and tangible. Golf couldn't love me back. In fact, that game hates the player." He laughed.

Jesus: "In the game of golf, you need to be the master. You let the game play you. When you follow Me, I am the Master, the pursuer of your heart. It is a heart matter in greater parable than this game. But, yes, the game of golf, or any sport of man, is the same as the battle; the training ground here on Earth."

Me: "I barely recognized this."

Jesus: "Erin, the gift of the dreams is a miracle. The dreams had to be 'bottle fed' because you were an infant who needed milk first; the basic nourishment, Me. Then you could eventually be fed solid food."

Me: "Amazing. You never cease to amaze me." I began to cry.

Jesus: "What's wrong? You should be joyful."

Me: "I am just overwhelmed at the magnitude, care and symbolism that even my small life has?"

Jesus: "Everything is in parable in your life. Your lost dreams now became real ones."

Me: "This is greater than my lost dreams. Will I ever play again?"

Jesus: "Erin, what I have planned in Paradise, there will be no lack. Your dreams will come true, even ones you haven't imagined yet. All is to glorify My Father, Who created all of this, Yahweh."

Me: "I'm overwhelmed, Lord. You opened the tomb of my heart, the stone over it, and gave me life. You have done so much for me. I love You."

Jesus: "Now, go tell your friends that the good gifts are available for them now, to those who would take up the Cross and follow Me. For I am about to do something in your days that you would not even believe, even if you were told."

He reached down and kissed the top of my head.

Then, I was back in my chair. This was a personal vision to share with my friends. These dreams should be read with discernment. I am no prophet, but these dreams are prophetic in nature. These dreams are not meant to be a substitute for the Bible. Please pray and allow the Holy Spirit to illuminate anything relevant. I pray that these are a blessing.

Love and blessings.....Erin...He is risen!

Dream 053 – Mustard Seed & Grape Vine

Received Wednesday, April 3, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 4)

I have not had a dream, vision or word for three days since Easter Sunday. I was concerned, especially because one of my dreams is not completed yet and I have not been released to post even part of it.

In this last dream, Enoch, Elijah and Jesus were not present. While Jesus whispered in the wind to me, they were not present in Heaven. Where did they go? During this visit, I had asked the Angel if I would see them again. Here was our exchange:

Angel: "Erin, they are citizens of Heaven as are you. Do not be afraid."

Me: "I was just hoping for more time to learn."

Angel: "Do not worry, Erin, you will continue to have the best Instructor of all."

Anyway, I assumed I would soon be finished with these dreams and visions and was preparing myself for this possibility. However, this morning, and after prayer, communion, thanks and tears, I heard my 'new' favorite words again!

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I came up through the Portal again. This time, Jesus was by the river sitting on a large rock waiting for me. The beautiful tree with the twelve fruits was on the left of the river. I ran to Him as I was so excited to see Him and a bit worried this was coming to an end.

I was about the size and age of a seven year old child this time. As I bolted towards Him, He reached out His arms to pick me up. When He did, I silently rested there on His shoulder for some time and cried. I was tired and even more so than the last visit.

Jesus: "What is wrong, Erin, you seem worried?"

Me: "There is so much happening and I have not received any Word from You for three days now. It reminded me of the three days before Israel went to war in November 2012. You showed me and warned me that this war was to happen."

"I then prayed, fasted and reported this to the group, but it was quiet until suddenly war unexpectedly erupted in Israel just as You had said it would. It has been almost five months since then I had to wait so long to hear from You, so I was worried."

Jesus: "Do not worry. Now is the time for excitement and joy."

Me: "How can You say this? There is going to be even more war any day now."

Jesus: "Did the Word not say that there would be wars and rumors of wars?"

Me: "Yes, but are we not beyond that now?"

Jesus: "Erin, there are signs, but should you not still rejoice?"

Me: "Yes, I will be Home soon, but, when I do not hear from You, I worry. When I have no dreams, visions or words, I am scared that I am guilty of something. What if..."

Jesus: "No, Erin, stop. You are on the wrong track. You have not changed, but make no mistake that things have shifted and there is a new wind. Do you believe I am the God of miracles?"

Me: "Oh yes. No question."

Jesus: "Do you believe all that I tell you?"

Me: "Yes, of course."

Jesus: "Then look."

He pulled out some tiny mustard seeds that I have seen on and off over the course of the dreams, yet nothing had ever been said about them. I knew what these represented in Scripture, but I did not know why they were never mentioned to me before this.

He took the tiny seeds in His hand, walked over to the river and dipped them in the river seven times. On the seventh dip, He pulled His hand out and the mustard seeds had now sprouted.

He then pointed to the northwest towards a type of clearing or field. This area seemed to be just northwest of the tree with twelve fruits. There I saw an Angel with a ground tiller and what looked like a small bag of seeds.

Jesus: "Erin, now go prepare the ground to receive the seed."

I was a bit confused because, literally, it was the first time I had to lift a finger in Heaven. I turned to look at Him and He had a beautiful smile on His face. He knew my thoughts and He seemed amused.

I walked over to the clearing and smiled because I recognized this type of Angel as one of the Lord's close attendants. I reached for the instrument that looked similar to a hoe from the Angel and began to stir up the soil as instructed. It seemed quite different to me as I never thought of Heaven as having dirt.

As I began to stir up the dirt, I noticed that the 'dirt' was truly amazing. There were sparkles in it which I knew were mineral deposits. I realized that this was no ordinary soil, but rather it was supernatural and divine in origin. Jesus walked up next to me and began to help me prepare the ground to receive the seed.

Me: "I have never really done this before. I pray that I am doing this correctly?"

He stopped me and demonstrated how to move the 'hoe' properly.

Jesus: "Erin, do you not understand what we are doing here?"

Me: I was now in tears. "Yes, we are preparing the field."

Jesus: "Yes, but for what?"

Me: "To receive seed."

Jesus: "Yes, but there is more to this than just that. Indeed, the entire point of your life comes to the parable of this field."

Me: "I do not understand."

Jesus: "What are you doing right now?"

Me: "Working."

Jesus: "Yes, but, more than that, what is this?"

Me: "Labor?"

Jesus: "So you are experiencing labor?"

Me: I smiled. "Well, a different type of labor."

Jesus: "You are correct. So, why do we stir up the soil?"

Me: "I would guess that we stir up the minerals and bring them up to the surface."

He then reached down and picked up a handful of this amazing soil to show me.

Jesus: "Erin, what is in My hand?"

Me: "Rich valuable soil."

Jesus: "Yes. Man has made soil and land about wealth and is often the reason for wars beginning."

Me: "Lord, are we still just talking about the dirt?"

Jesus: "Of course. However, besides the hearts of God's children, what else is important to Him?"

Me: "His land or property?"

Jesus: "Do you know why?"

Me: I thought for a moment. "No, I do not truly know other than that God owns all of it and that He owns everything. So why would He need more or worry about land?"

Jesus: "He does not. The point is that these farmers or tenants do not know the Land Owner. He had sent his best laborers out of kindness and love. In essence, He had sent free help. However, the tenants refused this help and even killed the laborers.

"So then, finally, He sent out His most precious Son to help, but they killed Him instead and then pillaged the land and claimed it as their own. Will not the Land Owner later come and destroy every last one of them for doing so?"

Me: "Yes, but why does God continue to allow them the opportunity to get this far?"

Jesus: "He has been patient, but this has now changed. Now, tell Me about the soil in My hand."

Me: "It is clearly from Heavenly origins and I have never seen anything like this. It is soft and workable. I barely had any resistance when I dug up the soil, unlike on Earth."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, you stirred up the dirt so that it became pliable and usable."

He then blew into the soil and His breath literally made the soil full and alive.

Jesus: "However, you are also aerating it. Aeration is 'breathing' into the soil. My breath is oxygen and, by My breath, I am activating the soil to receive seed. Look."

He plants two seeds, one on top of the untilled soil and the other in the tilled soil. The seed placed on the unprepared land barely took root. However, the seed on the prepared soil sunk in and seemed to nestle into the dirt.

The tilled dirt looked as if it had life as it seemed to wrap around the seed. He then threw three more seeds on untilled soil.

I watched as the wind suddenly took the first seed. Then a bird swooped down and picked up the second seed in its beak and flew off. Finally, the third seed was scorched by the sun.

Me: "Lord, is this a parable?"

Jesus: "Do you understand what those three seeds represent in this coming season?"

Me: "I think so, but I am not completely sure."

Jesus: "Okay, we will come back to that. This is a separate parable that will be one of the most important you will be taught."

As I looked down, I saw the dirt continue to move around and over the seed that was placed in the tilled soil. This was amazing as I never thought of soil being active, but I knew this could obviously happen in Heaven as all is possible.

Jesus: "The soil for planting is not of use until someone tills it."

He then reached out with the mustard seed that had sprouted and placed it gently in the soil. The sprout was very tiny. He then took some soil with His hand and covered the seed, thereby keeping it from the elements.

He then reached for the bag of seeds from the Angel and He planted another seed. However, I noticed that this was a different variety of seed. He placed this other type of seed about four feet from where He had planted the mustard sprout.

Me: "Lord, what seeds are those?"

Jesus: "These are grape seeds."

Me: "I do not understand. You should not mix them. Will not one choke out the other?"

Jesus: "No worries. The mustard plants will be harvested early and removed. This will then allow the grapes to grow better since they are harvested later."

Me: "How will the grapes be ready that quickly?"

Jesus: "Erin, this is a very good question. The mustard will grow quickly whereby this variety serves as a host to the grape vine. Indeed, mustard plants are very useful to the grape and every part of it serves a function. Although the mustard seed is small, it becomes a mighty plant. Now look."

I looked to the other side of the field and I saw a huge tree there. From a distance, it looked like a cross between an oak and a sumac. It was about twenty feet tall and twenty feet wide. There were birds of all kinds singing in this tree.

Me: "How can a tiny mustard seed turn into something as large as a tree?"

Jesus: "Yes, you could never have imagined it, right, and so quickly too?"

Me: "But if the mustard is growing too close to the grapes, won't the grapes be choked out by the sheer size of the mustard plant?"

Jesus: "It would, but the mustard will be harvested early and will leave behind such rich nutrients that the grape vine will yield even greater fruit because of it."

Me: "You are planting at the same time. The grapes will not bear fruit for at least two years longer than the mustard."

Jesus: "Oh, so you caught that."

I still was not fully aware of what He was saying. He knew that I was thinking this, so He began to explain more.

Jesus: "This one..." He pointed to the mustard bush. "...must be removed so that the grape will bear good fruit. Do you understand?"

Me: "Somewhat."

Jesus: "How many clusters of fruit will grow from a vine?"

Me: "Maybe ten or twelve?"

Jesus: He smiled. "Perhaps on Earth without supernatural help, but this one will produce forty clusters. Indeed, there will be several bottles of wine from just one vine."

Me: "So is the mustard plant sacrificed in order for the grape vine to produce a greater abundance of good fruit?"

Jesus: "Somewhat. Now, let's look at the mustard plant again." He was pointing to the 'tree'. "Is it not beautiful and thriving here? The mustard is planted and harvested in April to help the grape. In May, the rains come. After this, the mustard is then removed and the grape vine continues to grow and will endure the latter rains."

Me: "Okay, now I know that this is a parable. However, I am so wrapped up in this amazing mustard plant that I do not understand the deeper parable here."

He began to laugh and, all the while, He never stopped planting seeds and blanketing the soil around Him. When He was finished, He simply waved His hands to gather rain clouds in the sky above the now prepared field.

Jesus: He smiled. "Erin, here comes the rain."

He then called down rain to water the ground. Just then, a warm spring rain came and it was simply beautiful. Overwhelmed, I started to cry. He reached for my arm.

Jesus: "Come on."

We stood out in the field as the rain became almost torrential, yet still pleasant as are all things in Heaven. Again, and with a wave of His hand and at His command, the rain suddenly stopped.

The ground was now wet, but I could see that the perfect amount of water had fallen. I looked down and small shoots from the mustard seeds came up from the ground.

Me: "Lord, this seemed to be a short rain. Was there enough water for them?"

Jesus: He laughed. "Erin, The mustard seed likes dryer conditions, whereas mustard plants prefer an outpouring."

Me: I was still confused. "Are we who are removed before the Tribulation begins considered the mustard plants and are those left behind considered the grape vines?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you understand the real purpose of the mustard plant? The mustard is a host to the grape. The mustard is useful in many different ways. It provides nourishment, shelter from hot sun, it has healing properties and it also protects what grows around it.

"The mustard also repels bacteria, fungus and invaders. It is very strong and, after all, it begins as a small seed, becomes a weed and then a mighty tree. What else has this miraculous ability? This plant is a miracle plant. Now, come, follow Me."

I now walked with Him to the large mustard tree I had seen in the distance. As we came closer, I was surprised to see fruit growing on it. I thought, 'This is going to taste horrible.' I had always assumed that the fruit is what produced the mustard we eat.

He pulled one of the fruits down and it is pink and purple. He pulls it apart and takes a bite out of it and offers me the other half. I take a bite and it is sweet.

Jesus: "Did you know it produced fruit like this? Where does the seed come from?"

Then He pulls at it from the inside and the leaves formed a type of cone.

Me: "I had no idea one little seed could produce such an amazing plant."

Jesus: "Now, going back to why the mustard seed was removed from the soil. It had served its purpose as the host, but, more importantly, from its roots it gave the soil all the fighting agents to stand against the bacteria that would come after the grape. So once taken out, it left behind just enough to give the grape vine a fighting chance against their enemies."

Me: "I have never heard of the use of mustard before and I live in wine country."

Jesus: "Not everyone knows about the power and value of the mustard plant. Most vineyard owners would not see the value and would be glad when the pesky plant is removed."

Me: "So faith, like a mustard seed in Matthew 17:20 and Matthew 13:31-32, has even deeper meaning than just a small seed. This is hidden manna for right now."

"So, if I have faith like that mustard seed, I know all of my capabilities in advance and I remember that I reside here like that giant mustard tree, then I can have faith to do anything when I ask for in Your Name?"

Jesus: "The mustard seed is like the Kingdom of Heaven. What is Heaven like?"

Me: "Well, it is Paradise and miracles are in abundance and constant here. This is our Home. Once here, we are no longer part of this world, but become citizens in Heaven."

Jesus: "So, if you are citizens here, then why cannot you ask for things in My Name even on Earth? Will I not provide things called down from your Home here like I did to Elijah? When I broke bread, did I not also look up to Heaven, bless the bread and had Angels in Heaven multiply this in My Name?"

Me: "Yes, but how did You do that? You have said, by Your Words, that if I have faith like that mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible."

Jesus: "Very good. However, when you ask for this in My Name, do you truly believe that you will receive it?"

Me: "Sometimes I have and I have received an instant miracle. Other times, I hoped You would grant me my request, but I lacked faith that I actually even deserved it."

Jesus: "This is truth that is raw and is good as I can work with this. You must believe."

Me: "I understand, but how can I call down supplies and miracles from Heaven?"

Jesus: "There is more to learn, but is your heart willing?"

Me: "Of course."

Jesus: "Do you understand what will be required of you?"

Me: "Not really."

Jesus: "There is some time left and I will explain more."

Me: "Lord, I noticed that Enoch and Elijah are elsewhere and that time is shifting and things are temporarily quiet on Earth. For three days, I had no dream, vision or word from You. What happened here?"

Jesus: "Did you have trouble or turmoil during these three days?"

Me: "No, I was at peace. Indeed, there have been no wars at home or at work. It feels like the calm before the storm and I find this somewhat unsettling."

Jesus: "Erin, where are you right now?"

Me: "I am here with You."

Jesus: "What do you think I am showing you?"

Me: "That we do not have much time and You are training us for something."

Jesus: "Good, so you have caught this. Now, what did I do after the resurrection?"

Me: "I believe You waited a few days and then You appeared over the course of forty days, fully transformed, to the disciples and others."

Jesus: "There is more to this, but this is enough for now."

He reached over and gave me some mustard seeds. He then hugged me and sent me off with the Angel to the Portal. I looked back at Him and He continued to tend to the field. This all seemed unexpected and different. As I looked back one last time from the Gate, Jesus waved to me and smiled.

Angel: "Erin, do you understand what you are being shown?"

Me: "Some, but not all of this."

Angel: "You will be coming into some times that will be unexpected. There will be panic. When all of these events occur, you will know that your time is close. There is nothing more to do except wait, watch, pray and practice unshakeable faith, all of this knowing where you really reside."

"You are not to fear as you will be given functions as diverse as the mustard plant. Once done, the mustard will finally rest and all of the birds will come and sit on its branches. The mustard will soon find rest, but not before being used for purposes of the Lord's Kingdom. Do you understand?"

Me: "I believe so."

Angel: "There are many parables about the vineyards, the mustard, faith and feeding in the Word. You are to look at these carefully now as they contain valuable keys to unlocking the miracles you will soon be walking in. You must be ready and believe."

"Psalm 44, 45 and 46 are for you and Psalm 23 has instruction. Esther is a book that provides clues, as does Zechariah. Revelation is unfolding and more will soon come. Be blessed, Erin, it looks like rain."

He reached out and put a small shawl over my head to cover my hair. I did not fully understand all of this.

Angel: "Remember, Erin, you are loved by the King. Remember to read Psalm 45 in whole, not in part."

I nodded in agreement.

Dream over...

Please use discernment. These dreams and visions are prophetic in nature, but I am just a reporter and scribe, not a prophet. Please pray and go to the Word, your Bibles, and allow the Holy Spirit to guide you. Remember, Jesus is your Lamp and the Truth.

Love and blessings....Erin

Dream 054 – The Bridal Chamber

Received Saturday, April 6, 2013

(Formerly known as Patterns 5)

I am up hiking on the path. I am walking north. It is beautiful and just seconds after dawn. The sun is just illuminating the scene before me. The sun is coming from the south eastern position of the path. There is dew everywhere. Before me, everything is illuminated in a golden pink cast of light.

I round the path where the small lake is. The lake looks like it has a coating of fire on it due to reflections on the lake based on the position of the sunrise. Here I am, out in the middle of the wilderness, and it feels like I am about fifty degrees north of the equator even though it looks like a scene from somewhere at 31 degrees north of the equator.

There are deciduous trees by the pond, blooming flowers and grass that looks 'freshly mowed'. It is well-groomed, as if I am on Royal Property. I thought I was in the wilderness, yet, here I am, on the private property of some king.

I dare not get off the path, yet I'm curious and I would like to go spend some time there. I felt a strong rebuke from the Holy Spirit not to veer off of the un-groomed wilderness path. I felt I was safe here. I thought, "I better not chance it", although it was tempting.

I round the corner and there was the bulletin board. I was extremely excited because I knew where I was going. This is what the posting on the forestry bulletin board read:

Congratulations, your reservation has been accepted!

Your table is set and the preparations for dinner have begun.

When you come at 6:00 pm, please bring the keys, you will need these to get in.

There are 3 doors in which to enter, and further instructions once you arrive.

Please dress accordingly.

We welcome your RSVP and please accept our gift.

The small key unlocks the gift box.

WARNING! - Doors shut permanently @ 6:15 pm!

Okay, they are very serious about being prompt. This I knew. It said to 'dress accordingly'. Okay, so what does this mean?

I look up on the board and all the numbers have now been removed; not even the small golden screw hooks remain. The Host must have filled the tables. I was wondering if I would know anyone there.

I noticed that I am allowed to bring a guest. Who would I bring? The key was a small platinum, or silver, skeleton key with gold inlay. It was engraved. It had my initial 'E' on it in script. It was beautiful and unlike any key I've seen.

Wow, I wonder if the landlord of the property next to me is the holder of the dinner. I searched for something to unlock with the key, but found nothing there. This seemed odd to me. I decided to proceed to the gate.

The gate was in the exact same spot. I still could not figure out how it stands on its own. I walked to the other side of the door. As expected, it was the inverted moon and star, but opposite.

I move back to the other side of the gate, looking at the door from the path. I somehow felt more comfortable on that side of the gate. Perhaps this was due to the front of the gate having no latch and no entrance to Heaven, only that moon and star.

When I was about to unlatch the gate, I suddenly noticed a 'National Parks DropBox' that almost looked like a day fee box. There on the green steel box was a deep engraving with the word 'TEVAH' etched in it. It had a slot in it and, above the slot, it said, 'Deposit Only'.

This was hilarious to me. How could anyone make a withdrawal out of this? I saw the key hole and a small engraved placard that said, 'Administrators ONLY'. I used the key and the lid popped up. There, inside, was a clear bag that contained a fish net.

The net was composed of jute; woven with gold and silver twine. The jute was no ordinary jute; when it caught the light, the jute itself shimmered with a luminescence, or iridescent, quality, as on a rainbow trout or some salmon. It was heavy, but manageable.

I thought that this was very cool. Hmm, so do I use my priceless million dollar fishing lure to catch the big fish and then use the net to bring it in? This net was large enough for a school of fish though. Maybe I fish with these in two different locations; a lake and the sea?

I look at what else I can find in the box. There was a small vial of oil. I unscrewed the lid to smell it. It was fragrant, like jasmine and olive together. When I went to screw the lid back on, some of the oil got on my skin. My skin became like my Heavenly transformed body where the oil had landed.

Then I looked inside again and there was a small packet that looked like hand sanitizer. The packet read, 'Rain Gear'. Okay, I am not fishing in the rain; I hate that. The fine print read, 'Use cover over your head while fishing'.

I opened up the packet and recognized the intricate covering from what the angel has placed over my head, but it didn't seem like rain gear. This didn't look like it could repel rain. I put all of these items in my backpack.

I saw the three keys in the bottom of the pack. Good thing too. I proceeded to the gate and, just as I went to turn the latch, the small key that I had left in the keyhole of the box was glowing and making a chiming sound. I went back to the box and looked inside. There was now a personal note on an engraved card:

See picture in the reply marked "The Invitation" as uploaded below...

(The above picture is repeated for searching purposes: Erin, Be My Guest for Dinner, You fulfilled the requirements prior to Revelation 3:20-21, I'll pick you up at 6:00pm, Be blessed and dressed. I love you, Jesus)

With tears in my eyes, I knew that my guest would be Jesus. I knew that every one of the 153 would have Jesus as their guest. He is the One.

I lifted the latch on the outbuilding door. I heard the chime and as I walked through. The gate transformed into the large pearl gate.

As I entered through, I was transformed. Two angels greeted me at the gate and, right in front of me, was my Guardian. My Guardian reached over and took my hand. Two other angels came up to me.

One angel put a salve in my eyes and the other put the small ember up to my lips to 'loosen' them. My Guardian had the most kind face. He placed the same type of shawl covering over my head. He smiled, as if he knew something that would make my heart glad.

My white robe was lovely today. It was simple white linen, but there was gold thread woven into the fabric. There was a beautiful tapestry, or embroidery, of gold intertwined with this pure linen. I looked down and was amazed.

The garment should have been extremely heavy, but it wasn't. I reached up to look at the head covering. It was silk and linen with embossed patterns of all of my favorite flowers. I began to weep because this day had changed.

I looked behind me and there were others. I didn't feel as if it were the wedding day, but that it was instead a celebration; maybe the dinner, but I didn't know. My Guardian took me up to the Sea of Glass. The area was abuzz with activity.

There were angels singing and the sound was amazing. It seemed like the great processional from my times earlier in the dreams. There were thousands of angels singing. There was a symphony playing. It was beautiful.

It was like Pachelbel Canon D, but without the sadness, yet it was also like 'The Bittersweet Symphony' but without the sorrowful lyrics. There was a new melody woven into the orchestrated piece. It permeated the cells in my body and, literally, my cells worshipped God because of the glory of a promise fulfilled.

There were roses everywhere; blossoms, grass and the sound of water from fountains. I heard children laughing and playing somewhere, although I was focused on where I was and trying to understand my place.

I was in Heaven, of course, and there were others with me. There was a great celebration. When was this; today, a week from now or a month? I had no gauge. It was incredible. At this moment, I realized that my death would not be a separate event and that my Jubilee year would be for others too. I was glad.

Angel: "Erin, come to the King's chamber."

This was so different for me. My angel escorted me to an incredible palace. It was like the city. It looked like the Golden City. There was a beautiful porch. This was like a guest quarters, or a separate addition.

My angel took me up the stairs into what was similar to a tower above the entire area. I was so excited as we walked the halls. There were fine tapestries that told stories in history. There were golden walls and pearls with marble. My hand moved across the stones and they felt soft.

The stairs leading to this special area were made of gold and jasper. I felt as if I didn't belong here. I knew I was invited, but it was too wonderful for me; it was fit for a King.

The angel took me to the porch. There, I saw the City to the right and left. Where I stood overlooked the Sea of Glass. The entire City faced the Throne as I looked to the left and right. I saw windows to the Throne. The people residing in these homes must be very important.

As I looked over the porch, or deck, there were beautiful gardens, animals, fountains and trees; truly breathtaking. Tears were streaming down my cheeks as I had never seen anything that even compared to this.

I saw the River of Life pouring out from the Throne on the other side of the sea. It was the source and sustainer of all things beautiful here. Hard to describe, but Jesus was in all things here. My Guardian set me on a small bench.

There were some roses there in front of me with a small card. The card read, 'I hope you like them.' They were so fragrant. I quickly looked around to find out who gave them to me.

Angel: "What do you think Erin?"

Me: "Oh, it is so beautiful. I never want to leave."

Just then, a wind came. I recognized it and I dropped to my knees. I put my head in my hands on the bench.

Jesus: "Erin, I'm so glad you came. You will be here very soon. All that you see, you may scribe. There is a new wind; a soft reed blowing. Tune your ears carefully to hear and your eyes clearly to see. Through the noise and chaos, hear my whisper."

I looked up quickly to look for Jesus. I ran around the large porch, looking at all sides, to find Him, but I couldn't find Him. I began to cry.

Me: "How can I see clearly if my eyes are unable to see? How can I hear clearly if my ears are not able to listen? How will I find you?"

I was in tears because I knew I was not there permanently yet. I knew trouble was coming and I needed more of Him.

Jesus: "Erin, your life has a purpose. Beautiful are your feet; beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news."

Me: "Lord, if sudden destruction comes, how will I tell people about You so that they can hear?"

Jesus: "You will hear Me. My sheep hear My voice. I know them and they follow Me. Do not be afraid. In this wind, I will not be a small, still voice."

I am still looking for Him and, in tears, I see a beautiful room above the porch. I run up to the door, open it and enter into the chamber. I'm still looking for Him. My angel is up there too.

Guardian: "Erin, He is not here. Why are you so troubled?"

Me: "I guess I am ready to come Home."

Off to the side of the beautiful chamber were three doors. Each had a lock. I knew, immediately, that the three keys opened these.

Me: "I thought the doors were at the banquet at the time of the feast?"

Guardian: "Erin, do you not know by now about patterns and keys, about doors and paths, about life and death and about darkness and light?"

Me: "I guess I am no further close to the truth."

Guardian: "No, Erin, you are wrong. You have searched for answers and truth your whole life. I have been there with you from before the start of your life."

The angel walks to the beautiful balustrade overlooking the Throne of God, the River of Life and the surrounding gardens.

Guardian: "Erin, your searching took you out of darkness and into Paradise. You are standing at the door of the Promised Land; Heaven. You are in the Wedding Chambers. Your heart desires to run for Him.

"Search, watch and pursue without ceasing has given you access to manna from Heaven. For the gate is narrow and the way is hard that leads to life; there are very few that find it. You are blessed. You are standing on Holy Ground."

Me: "Will it be harder soon?" My Guardian angel didn't answer this.

Guardian: "Erin, He is giving you a gift."

Me: "Where are Enoch, Elijah and Jesus? Where have they gone?"

Guardian: "Do you not know?"

Me: "No. When is this day? I have no sense of time. Where are the others that came with me? What has happened?"

Guardian: "You have many questions. First, the King loves you; remember your place." He then turned toward the garden. "Second, there are preparations here for a celebration and you are here early; this is an Honor. Third, you are in the King's palace and His heart is glad.

"Did you not study Psalm 45? Did you not understand Esther? Did you not look deeper for Him in the Song of Solomon?"

Then I realized I was worried too much about how and why I was here. I was not thankful for my place; my Station.

Me: "Thank you. Now help me. What are these three doors?"

The area around the doors were made of cedar and carved with pomegranates. The wood work was amazing. Each door was coated in silver. I thought it odd as most of what I have seen in Heaven was all gold, precious jewels and pearls.

The locks were incredible. Each was different. Each had a gold handle and were heavily engraved. The keyholes had engraved scrollwork and were inlaid with gems. There were curtains of flowing white silk with embossing of gold. There was a breeze so the curtains moved, yet we were inside.

Me: "Which one do I open first? What does each represent?"

Guardian: "One is the time of Enoch, one is the time of Elijah and one is the time of Jesus. These represent past history that will now have sudden impact. But there is more. Doors can be exits and they can be entries. There are dual meanings.

"This is the past. There are also timelines in the future. These are points of entry and certain groups are permitted to come to the wedding; one is the Groom, another is the Bride and another is the Guest."

Me: "But I thought the entry points were the Bride of Christ, the Church and the 144,000?"

Guardian: "Erin, you are somewhat correct. There will be aspects, or phases:

- The betrothal, or contract;
- The ceremony, or marriage; and
- The feast, or banquet.

Erin, where are you now?"

Me: "I am apart from the others I came with."

Guardian: "Where do you stand?"

Me: "I am in the Wedding Chamber."

Guardian: "Who are you waiting for?"

Me: "Jesus; my Groom."

Guardian: "So you know which door, correct?"

Me: "Yes, I know which door, but I need the time."

Guardian: "Come here." He walks me again to look outside. "Do you see there is activity? Are they preparing for something?"

Me: "Yes."

Guardian: "Erin, how long do you wait here?"

Me: "I think some time about seven Earth days?" He smiled. "What do I do for seven days?"

Guardian: "Prepare."

Me: "How?"

Guardian: "Look."

He takes me to an incredible bathing area; state-of-the-art. There were attendants there, a pool and all these different flowers, soaps, perfumes, powder, creams and music too. All of this was to make me beautiful for the consummation period.

Me: "So I do this first; I consecrate myself and then I wait?"

Guardian: "Yes, there is much to do. Before Jesus began His supernatural ministry, He also consecrated Himself. He was called to be baptized by John. Jesus went into the water. When He came out, the Heavens opened and a dove descended upon Him. The dove represents the Holy Spirit. Then, after this, He went to the wilderness for forty days. Now, where did this pattern occur before?"

Me: "Well, this is similar to the Israelites in Egypt as illustrated by the Passover. After they were marked by the blood of the Lamb, they entered into testing for forty years in the desert. After their wilderness, they came into a time of the 'Promised Land Fulfillment'."

I looked into the door and, there, I saw Jesus performing miracles after the forty days of testing. I saw the time when He fed five thousand people. He looked up to Heaven, gave thanks for the little bit of bread that He did have, and He offered it up.

I then saw Heaven opened. I saw a ladder, like Jacobs. Angels were ascending and descending and multiplying the food at His authority. They were bringing the provisions down from Heaven in the same way that manna poured out from Heaven to the Israelites in the desert wilderness.

Me: "Jesus was under an Open Heaven from His baptism up until He died. At the Cross, Heaven opened and He offered Himself up to Heaven."

Guardian: "Yes. So, what would the Groom want His Bride to know?"

Me: "Well, if I am betrothed, I am in His heart and His is in mine. Then, by the power of Jesus, my Groom, I can give thanks and offer up anything and He can Increase it."

Guardian: "Yes, now you understand Jesus is the open door to Heaven."

Me: "He knocks. If we let Him in fully, we commend our Spirit and give thanks, we can look to Jesus and Heaven will open and we will be like the disciples."

Guardian: "Now, there is more. He gave keys to the kingdom to Peter, but, also, for all. Jesus said, 'I will give you the keys to the kingdom of Heaven; whatever you bind on Earth will be bound in Heaven, whatever you loose on Earth will be loosed in Heaven' (Matthew 16:19). Erin, what were the keys for?"

Me: "Here, the keys were authority, right?"

Guardian: "A key was a badge of authority and is, and was, used to open doors (Luke 11:52). Erin, Who is authorized to grant authority?"

Me: "Jesus, the King."

Guardian: "If He grants authority, then to whom?"

Me: "His followers?"

Guardian: "Then how did He grant authority?"

Me: "Most assuredly, I say to you, he who believes in Me, the works that I do, he will do also, and greater works that these he will do, because I go to My Father' (John 14:12). I am just not sure how to do this. Seven days does not seem like enough time. He was with the disciples for forty days. He gave them confidence."

Guardian: "Erin, what do you see?"

Me: "I see Jesus, right before His ascension, granting the disciples spiritual authority with the Holy Spirit as their guide. The Holy Spirit is equal to God's guidance. Then I saw Pentecost in Jerusalem. There was a mighty wind and the disciples were baptized by tongues of fire, which dropped upon them. Baptized by fire is equal to God's power."

Guardian: "Erin, there was a difference before Pentecost and after. Prior to this, healing and miracles were by faith, prayer and belief. At Pentecost and after, fear spread because the disciples performed instant miracles by virtue of their keys, their authority and their badge."

Me: "So this door, this key to open the door, I, by the authority of Jesus Christ in me, I can heal instantly by the power vested from Open Heaven in Jesus?"

Guardian: "Yes. Study Acts 4. You will understand the boldness and courage."

Me: "So help me with the keys and how I relate to this now."

Guardian: "Erin, there were some more keys that unlock doors and miracles. After Jesus died on the Cross, He offered up His Spirit to an Open Heaven. Where did He Go?"

Me: "He went to Hades."

Guardian: "Yes, but what did He do?"

Me: "He unlocked the chamber below the Earth. Like in Jonah , Jesus was in the belly of the Earth. Then He let the saints out. Right after He died, the Temple veil was torn in two by a great earthquake. The graves opened. He took them to Heaven, but some remained and appeared to many in the city."

Guardian: "There are clues here as to timing that have been overlooked by scholars. Examine this more carefully and dig deeper than the surface. Jesus finally left the disciples with the Holy Spirit. Then there was a waiting period called "tarry"; then came Pentecost. Now, open another door."

I went to the door labeled 'Bride'. It changed, I thought, and the door opened to the times of Enoch. I remembered this particular mountain of God.

Guardian: "First, Erin, do you also remember what the three represent?"

Me: "Do you mean in relationship to the Rapture?"

Guardian: "Not in whole. Remember what you were told in one of the dreams and the symbolism of these three; Enoch, Elijah and Jesus? Who is shadowed by these doors? Jesus said in the book of Matthew that His coming was like the days of Noah. There was a clue on the forestry 'Drop Box'." I was confused.

"There will be one group that perishes in the judgment; the unbelieving world and some of the leftover church. There will be a second group that is preserved through the judgment; the Jewish remnant, like Noah. There will be a third group taken before the judgment; like the true Church and Enoch. What door do you think Enoch represents?"

Me: "Oh, the Bride, the third group, since the Bride was raptured up prior to judgment. But I don't understand why Elijah would represent the second group? I need help here. He still seems like the Bride also."

Guardian: "Okay, for now this is not the focus. When was Enoch born? What relationship does his birth have with another date?"

Me: "I don't believe I know."

Guardian: "Erin, you know this. In Jewish tradition, his birthday shares the same date as Pentecost; although many Jewish people do not see the relationship as profound. This you will come to understand as important.

"Remember that Enoch walked closely with..." Emphasis was placed more than three times on the word 'with' in the vision and writing. "...God so close that even the fallen recognized Enoch's holiness and had him intercede, acting as their 'Kinsman Redeemer'.

"Enoch was kind and merciful. He walked the Earth, walked with God and then He was not because God took him. He appeared after his being taken up. Even the fallen recognized his ability to go back and forth to the Father, God.

"Enoch was beloved and this represents the Bride, who also walks with God; 'and then was not' for God took His Bride. This door represents the bridal door (Hebrews 11:5). Now, one other thing, the Bride is given gifts. Look to Malachi 4:5 and Matthew 10:41. This is evidence to the righteous."

Me: "I am confused. The doors don't align."

Guardian: "You were told the doors had correlating patterns, not that they fit into a perfect box. Erin, stop looking for absolutes in your quest. There are patterns, but also unique separations. These are significant here. Look, if, say, the two witnesses are Elijah and Enoch,..." I could tell that he already knew. "...who are they truly witnessing to?"

Me: "Well, if the Bride is gone, then those who would remain."

Guardian: "Where do they witness?"

Me: "In Jerusalem, I believe."

Guardian: "Who lives there?"

Me: "The Jewish people."

Guardian: "Yes, but do they also not give hope to the 144,000?"

Me: "Yes, but I thought the 144,000 was separated? I thought the two witnesses to those left?"

Guardian: "Do you know the wisdom in what you just said?"

Me: "No."

Guardian: "There is also a separation here in Jewish tradition; circumcision. Go back again and learn about the roots of the 144,000. Will they also not need hope and signs if the Holy Spirit and the Bride is no longer here?"

Me: "Yes, but what about those who are remaining, but believe after the Bride is gone? Are they not able to see the two witnesses?"

Guardian: "Erin, it will be a timing issue, as well as a land separation, or view."

Me: "So, you and Heaven now have the information about what is to come because you speak with knowledge. If you know so much, then so must the enemy?"

Guardian: "Yes, but the enemy will try to confuse even the elect, if that is possible."

Me: "So, the two witnesses might not be seen by the world; only captive Israel?"

Guardian: "Yes. A pattern, but their purpose is to fulfill prophecies for an unbelieving generation, even generations. They also encourage the remnant."

Me: "So, who will witness those who will not be able to see the evidence of the two? The Holy Spirit will be gone?"

Guardian: "Erin, I see you are worried. Do not worry. Remember patterns. There is evidence that Enoch appeared to encourage. There is Scripture to support that Elijah did reappear. There is knowledge in Scripture with witnesses that Jesus did."

Me: "Oh, so Jesus will witness and appear?"

Guardian: "There is more hidden at this time. Remember, the Bride is hated by the enemy. The Bride has a purpose also."

Me: "So as I wait and consecrate myself, I anticipate consummation for seven days here in the Wedding Chamber and then do I wait forty days?"

Guardian: "Erin, I am not your instructor, but your Guardian. I was sent with all of this today to answer your questions. Jesus, your Groom, will take care of His Bride. Here, this is not my role. My assignment is to be with you until you are called up."

Me: "So you go away?"

Guardian: "No. You will have someone better to assist you. I know this seems confusing. The truth is in Scripture. It is right there. Look carefully at the walk of Jesus and the disciples. Examine Pentecost. All will make sense as every piece will fall into place.

"Even Daniel, Revelation and the Song of Solomon will have clearer and greater meaning. There is manna in the Wisdom of Solomon. There will be signs in the Heavens; an eclipse is there even. Look for more. Remember, do not grow weary. Do not be discouraged and remember your place here. Be encouraged and rejoice.

"The prophets hold wisdom now. They are finally being vindicated and affirmed here as history unfolds. They still intercede. There are many here that pray and petition. Many are anticipating as time is moving faster.

"Erin, I will not leave you. This is a Guardian's assignment. Take comfort in the sayings of the wise. Isaiah 40, 17 and 19 have information and wisdom. Psalm 91, Psalm 23 and, remember, Psalm 45 is for you."

"Be blessed. You have seen and know your place. You belong here and have since the beginning and are God's. The enemy also knows this. As God is with you, so are the armies of Heaven. You are loved."

My vision finished at 6:15am on April 6th, 2013...

I pray this blesses you. I don't understand all that was shown. I did my best to write all that I was shown and spoken to me via the Holy Spirit as I wrote. This dream was completed on Easter Sunday.

Yesterday, I thought that the Holy Spirit had changed it because I was given some information out of sequence. Then after I wrote it to type it, the sequence that seemed out of order was actually not.

In fact, had I posted when I wanted to, I would have missed key information about Jesus and His walk. These dreams are prophetic in nature. Although I am no self-proclaimed prophet, they do have prophetic significance. Time frames and seasons are being shown.

However, I do not know for certain that this will be this year, although the signs are there. Until I myself hear it from God, as will many others simultaneously, then I would not be comfortable to speak about this as 'right now'. I would be running ahead of God and looking towards my own heart and longing to go Home.

Please use your own discernment. Please reference the truth which is in Scripture, as well as your personal guide, the Holy Spirit. I pray for all of us to be blessed and I pray that 2013 be our departure, the Jubilee year for the Bride and my year of release.

Love and blessings...sparrowcloud9

Dream 055 – Primary Lessons

Received Tuesday, April 9, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 5)

I was in prayers and devotions after communion this morning. I was troubled about a dream that I had the night before in which I was in the spirit in the great hall of a king. There, I was listening in on three diplomats from a foreign country; one was Asian, one was Russian and one was Islamic.

They were each speaking about tearing down David, which I recognized as meaning Israel. As I stood there, I lifted my arms and appealed to the Great God Jehovah to tear the walls down upon them who would dare to destroy the City of David.

Just then, an earthquake came and tore down the walls of this palace. This dream occurred early Monday morning. I woke up stunned because it was so real and detailed. It was shocking.

Then, this vision came...

I am up at the Portal. I am about age 25 this time. This is unusual as, in past visits, I have only come to Jesus as a toddler, a seven-year old, a teenager or the age I am currently. I am certainly not complaining though as age 25 is a very good age.

As I come out, I run over to Jesus. He is sitting on this boulder by the river waiting for me. I approach Him and He is much larger than I am. He lifts me off the ground, glad to see me and spins me toward the river. He sees that I am troubled.

Jesus: "What's wrong?"

Me: "I am tired."

Then He walks to the stream after we greet each other. He picks up a stone and tosses it across the water. Like before, again, six hops, or skips, and then down on the seventh. He then repeats this.

Me: I had been waiting for a word or lesson. "Lord, what's going on?"

Jesus: "It is I who should ask you."

Me: "I don't know; kids, work and watching."

Jesus: "What do you think of everything?"

Me: "I am tired, but I have learned that I want to be with You even more."

Jesus: "Erin, do you know what I'm doing?"

Me: "Yes. Throwing skipping stones?"

Jesus: "No. I am teaching you something."

Me: "I don't understand. I have seen You do this before."

Jesus: "Come here. Let's eat."

I'm a bit confused, but, when I turned, I saw behind us a picnic lunch. He took my hand and led me to the base of the tree. There was a blanket, wine, two glasses, a warming stone with one piece of flatbread and a picnic basket labeled 'Tevah'.

Me: "So, 'Tevah' means picnic?"

Jesus: "Go ahead; sit."

I sat first. He then starts to sit down, but then He stands back up, reaches for the fruit on the tree and picks a beautiful piece of fruit. I laughed at this.

Jesus: "Why are you laughing?"

Me: "Because You acted like You forgot something and had to go back for it."

Jesus: "Why is this a focus?"

Me: "Because You don't make mistakes and correct Yourself."

Jesus: "Do you see what I did?"

Me: "Well, I know, certainly and without a doubt, that You meant to do this so that my eyes could see it."

Jesus: "Oh, you are learning. Tell Me."

Me: "I saw You come to sit down to dine, but, as you went to sit, You decided to grab a piece of fruit."

Jesus: "Yes and no. What did I do? Tell Me more."

Me: "As You went to sit, You looked up towards the tree, saw a good piece of fruit, stood back up and took it off the tree and sat down to eat."

Jesus: "Did I sit down to eat first?"

Me: "No. You thought about it and began to sit first then looked up. Why is this important?" Just then, I saw that the warming stone now held two flat breads. "Oh, there are two now. Where did they come from?"

Jesus: "Erin, think of this in simple terms. Observe and break things down as if you are a child observing."

I realized that, now that I was around age 25 and was not coming to Him as a seven year old anymore, I was having a harder time. I was over thinking.

Me: "Do I start from the beginning?"

Jesus: "Sure. Start from the Gate."

Me: "Okay. I enter and I see You seated on the rock. I'm so joyful and, even though I am tired, I run to You. You, with welcome arms, pick me up and lift me off of the ground. You turn me, then hug and greet me. Then you proceed to the River of Life. I will follow you there.

"You pick up a stone and throw it; six times it skips and, on the seventh, it drops. You repeat this action of throwing again. You turn to me and invite me to a picnic. You bring me to the picnic area, You sit me down, then You begin to sit, but, just as You begin, You look up and remember to grab a fruit.

"You see the fruit, take it off the tree and then You sit. Right as You are sitting, I notice that the bread on the stone has increased."

Jesus: "This is excellent. Good observations."

Me: "Lord, I watch You because everything You do here means more than what I see and write."

Jesus: "Seeing is believing?"

Me: "No. I have seen things before and then doubted what I've seen and the action of doubt erased my clear memory of the event."

Jesus: "Oh, so something robbed you of the truth of what you have seen."

Me: "Yes. My mind."

Jesus: "No. There is another entity robbing the truth. It isn't always just your flesh."

Me: "Of course; the enemy."

Jesus: "Erin, when I asked you to tell Me the full story, what was I asking you to do?"

Me: "Well, to start from the beginning and walk through, by tracing my steps, but, more importantly, Yours."

Jesus: "Interesting. What were you focused on the most?"

Me: "You."

Jesus: "So you kept your focus fully on Me?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then did you observe the truth?"

Me: "Yes. You are the truth."

Jesus: "So, you focused on Me; the truth?"

Me: "Wow, if I focus my attention fully toward You, my eyes follow the truth."

Jesus: "Now, begin again. What did I do before I sat down at the picnic?"

Me: "You looked up and saw a fruit and reached to grab it."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "You picked it to bring it to the picnic."

Jesus: "Yes, but the source of the fruit was above Me on the branch. I reached up to take it, to bring it to our picnic. Now, you do the same thing I did."

I got up and repeated His same steps.

Jesus: "Remember, I look to My Father, I see what He is doing, I wait on Him for instruction and then I bear fruit, and increase it by My faith. My faith was: I looked up and saw the tree that bears fruit above; I saw that it was good; and I brought the fruit to eat."

Me: "You multiplied it too."

Jesus: "Erin, was I asking for an increase in the fruit of the tree which I knew was there in advance from what My eyes could see or was the tree the source of abundance?"

Me: "Forgive me. I am confused. You reached up to grab the fruit, but the bread increased. Why?"

Jesus: "Because My faith is in knowing that the tree here in Heaven is a source of life and, by My picking the fruit, I know, since the tree would never lack fruit then, there would be plenty. Look."

I saw the tree immediately grow another fruit right before my eyes.

Jesus: "Erin, in Heaven, there is abundance; on Earth, there is lack. Why did I look to Heaven when I broke the bread to feed the multitudes on Earth?"

Me: "Oh, because Heaven is complete and has abundance. You called down an increase of the bread. So how can I do this? I know You are the God of miracles."

Jesus: "So, when My Spirit was offered up to Heaven on the Cross, I offered Myself as a living sacrifice so that the world would have increased, but not all accepted it."

Me: "I never thought of this."

Jesus: "Erin, I came so that you would have everlasting life, so that you who believe in Me, the source of life or, like the tree, should not perish, but have increase and abundance not lacking in anything and have life."

I was in tears. I just heard several passages of Scripture in one very powerful statement straight from Jesus.

Jesus: "Why are you in tears? Rejoice, you now have Me. You lack only what the world claims you lack, aside from Me. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes and no. Help me with understanding the increase of bread."

Jesus: "Erin, the Cross has symbolism confirming the common belief of Me as the sacrificial lamb. Very few, to this day, even saw the parallels. This is spiritual blindness. I walked this Earth fully as God and man, lacking no good thing, yet the ones with knowledge here at My time on the Cross, God's elect, did not recognize Me.

"These elect lacked the ability to recognize the source of life; Me. I came to set these captives free who were bound by their own version of the law, which, by their own chains, not the Father's, kept themselves in darkness and unable to see the light. They were expecting someone greater so, by their own blindness, they could not see the truth: Me."

Me: "So why not uncover their eyes so they could see that You were good and they could turn and be saved?"

Jesus: "I suppose this could have been an easy road, but it is not the road or path of a pure heart, which has high Heavenly value. Accepting Me by faith is one thing, but belief for that which you cannot see or your act of trusting in faith when you can't see Me; this is the highest form of worship to Me and to My Father. These men that were, and are, enslaved by the world; lack. What father, recognizing the voice of his son, who asked upon him for water, would turn and give him a snake?"

Me: "Well, we are growing closer to Your return because many are no longer good fathers and they are giving their children snakes instead of water."

Jesus: "Yes, but Heaven is full of fathers who love their children, as does the Father and Creator of all. He loves His children and He loves His creation. Now ask for anything in My Name and it will be given to you. Remember, have faith like a mustard seed. Now, you try."

I reached up to grab a piece of fruit, all the while praying for the increase in the bread. Nothing happened. I did it again; nothing. However, every time I picked a fruit, a new fruit immediately grew back.

Me: "What am I lacking?"

Jesus: "Your expectations are there, but, now, go deeper than this. Repeat what you saw Me do."

Me: "Oh, You were about to give thanks, You looked up and thanked God in advance for the tree that bears good fruit, but, for me, the tree is You, and, as You reached up or looked up, You didn't doubt the bread would be multiplied, but kept Your eyes focused on Him, God, the Father. You, as the Son, watched and did as You saw Your Father do?"

Jesus: "You are getting closer in your understanding. Now, try."

This time I focused my complete attention on my love for Jesus, and, as I did this, I was thankful to be here and humbled by His presence. I submitted my empty hands, that lacked the ability to bear good fruit without Him, to our Father on the Throne and asked Him to grant abundance and to increase the very little I have, my lack to His glory, in Jesus name.

I focused on Jesus and His love for me. When I reached up in faith, and with my whole heart, I knew that He had granted my request. I offered Him my emptiness. I offered Him my lack. I thanked Him in advance knowing He would do it. I had the fruit in my hand and I turned to sit first, fully trusting that it had already been done.

Then I saw another piece of bread and another stone next to it. I was so excited, I cried. I got on my knees and thanked the Lord. I looked over at Him and He was smiling. It brought Him joy that I did this using my faith. I had recognized my lack and emptiness and allowed the Lord to fill it.

Me: "Lord, I have a question. Why did You need to do this? You didn't need to look up to Heaven, thank the Father and believe."

Jesus: "Oh, this is true, but My Father granted Me authority first. Even I am thankful and rest in Him. He resides in Me and I am thankful."

Me: "I never thought You to be thankful to Him as You two are the same."

Jesus: "Erin, I humbly submitted Myself, subjecting Myself in full service to the Father. I could have done much in the desert against the spirit of darkness and then again on the Cross, but to whose benefit? Do I do this in service of the server of punishment or do I do this in service to the Father?"

"I came in obedience to the Father to serve man. This was an act of love. I could have demonstrated full power and operated visibly in this power, but I was here for another purpose; to save."

Me: "I can learn to increase here with You watching and helping me, but how can I do this on Earth as it is In Heaven?"

Jesus: "Do you realize what you just said?"

Me: "A portion of the 'Lord's Prayer'."

Jesus: "Yes. Who was the writer of this? Who taught him this and how did he learn?"

Me: "By watching You."

Jesus: "Very good. Erin, things will get difficult for some and they will need this encouragement. When the Spirit has left, they will need miracles. They will need this information."

Me: "But this is not a new revelation. We all know this about faith as the Word declares it."

Jesus: "Oh, so you have increased bread?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "I would not give a man weapons for war and then not instruct him on how to use these to fight. I could not just send him in without teaching him how to use these. I would be sending him to his death."

Me: "But we will be called soon. I need to be Home soon."

Jesus: He smiled. "Erin, in Pentecost, the disciples had supernatural ability. This was a fire and new wind sent as manna, as weapons and a demonstration of the goodness of the Fruits from Heaven. There was a purpose. People, by this miracle of these simple men, won over many souls to the Kingdom of Heaven. It was a miracle, but what happened before they were granted this special fire?"

Me: "They trained with You for forty days."

Jesus: "For the most part. They first saw the miracle of My transformation from death. I had risen. Then they went through a period of joy, but also shock and fright. I did not dwell with them as before.

"From there, they tried to understand how this could be. They needed the clarity because the miracle performed prior to the Crucifixion was not enough because it seemed as if the enemy had claimed victory. I then instructed them on true faith.

"They learned about the weapons and the principle of faith and Who I was and Who the Father was. Then they were ready to go out. Do you understand?"

"Without this unshakeable faith, mountains cannot move. When the fire came upon them, I had ascended to Heaven. However, I left a gift, the weapons to fight. They could do even greater things by faith."

Me: "So are You teaching many of us? Are we going Home soon? What will happen?"

Jesus: "Erin, your faith has granted you miracles. Faith comes with practice; belief by seeing and hearing and practicing the Father's Will; not your will, the Father's Will. Do you believe, by faith, that you can take bread and increase it fully, recognizing that you, by your own power, are not doing it?"

"You know a false teacher, healer and miracle worker by the focus on themselves. Listen to the voice. Do they ask in My Name or by their own power? Do they use 'Lord', but call upon a dark lord? Much will be fake, but many will follow and many will stumble into this web of lies and deception.

"You will be protected at this point and not subjected to this, but your log of Heavenly training will be important for those who will need to read this. They will need to know how to recognize a false messiah, a false healer and teacher. They will no longer have the Counselor as the Counselor will leave with the Bride.

"However, I will not leave them with nothing. They will need witnesses to faith."

Me: "Lord, will we help them?"

Jesus: "Erin, there will be help, but this will be difficult. This will be a frightening time for those who remain here in body. Understanding will come with time. You must focus on your course. It will take some time to understand the law of increase and the principles of Heavenly abundance. There will also be a time to heal. This will come. Not all will be as you might think."

Me: "Lord, is this coming now?"

Jesus: "Erin, when these events unfold, you will know. All will be revealed in time. Keep your focus on Me. Keep your focus on Heaven. Listen to the Holy Spirit and read Scripture. The Word will come alive like it has been asleep for more than two thousand years.

"You will find great joy as the Holy Spirit Illuminates these things. There is nothing more for you to do except watch and look to Heaven. Be in fellowship with each other. Love one another. Find joy. Pray for your enemy. Practice the Fruits of the Spirit.

"The answer to your increase can be found here; this is hidden manna, your bread on the stone. Most of all, Erin, remember where your Home is.

Remember and take great joy. You are loved. On your heart is My love letter. Do not forget.”

He reached over and hugged me.

Vision over...

Please use discernment with these dreams. Allow the Holy Spirit to be your guide and, as always, go to Scripture, the Word of truth. Remember to keep the oil in your lamps, watching with faith and holiness. Practice the Fruits of the Spirit. In all things; love.

Love and blessings..... Erin

Dream 056 – Four Rapture Dreams

Received Sunday, April 14, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 6)

Vision Dream #1

The sirens from the Hanford Nuclear Area (the "Area") were on. It was during the day here. The television had just gone off satellite after the warning that several major cities had been hit and details were unavailable. I ordered the kids to gather up their emergency backpacks that had been collecting dust at the front door since October.

I quickly stuffed garbage bags full of pantry items and things from the refrigerator. I was yelling for the kids to grab sneakers or hiking boots for fear that one of them would wear flip-flops instead. I already had a tent and cold gear in the car that I have kept in the car for the last few years for emergencies.

I grabbed my laptop, two lanterns, battery packs, my Bible and a journal. There was no more time. I ushered the kids to the car. To my right was my neighbor, who is high up in security out in the Area. We see him loading up his SUV with an arsenal of weapons.

My neighbor across the street is a physicist in the Area. I saw him loading up his family. Down the street, there was a jeep from the National Guard requiring mandatory return of all Area personnel back to the site. I saw my neighbor, and others that I knew who worked there, disobeying the order and gathering up their families instead.

People were hysterical. My kids were scared. I pulled out my map when I saw that the GPS had no reading. I looked at my map for alternate routes north. I knew that the highways would be parking lots. We drove out of our development.

As we drove, I saw people at their worst; fighting, bickering and even autos driving directly on to the golf course. I was able to get us out to the front gate of the community, which was at the edge of the Area.

There were Military Police and the National Guard blocking all roads leading to alternate routes. Two lanes were used to head out of the Area. It took ten minutes to drive less than one mile.

I turned left down the road to my work. There were no cars or officials anywhere in the business park. I went into my work and removed the water cooler jug, along with the two back up water units.

I left the kids in the car while I looked for anything else we might need. I grabbed rope, duct tape, all flash lights, more batteries and some tarps. If this were a false alarm, all items would be returned. I knew that the owner of our company wouldn't mind me using these items. He lived in another state and wouldn't need these.

As I was rushing out, I noticed a construction radio, so I grabbed that also. I had spent approximately five minutes here. As I locked up the building and looked out at my car, I saw the horror on my kids' faces.

I got into the car and prayed that God would grant us supernatural transport to a safe place or we would not make it. We held hands together and all of us were in tears. I began to speak out Psalm 23 loudly as the nuclear site had just been hit.

Then, by a miracle, our car was suddenly transported to a far off mountain range. We were all in shock. My daughter said, "Mom, is this Heaven? I thought we were..."

I stopped her and explained that we were supernaturally translated from harm. I had heard of this miracle before on a Christian television show, but I myself never considered it possible for me. Everything was transported; the car and everything.

I realized, from my surroundings, that we were located on an eastern mountain range bordering Washington and Idaho. I had only seen it from a distance, so I didn't know exactly what it was called. I looked across the valley and saw the next range, which was toward Seattle.

We seemed to have landed on some forestry, or logging, road. We were safe and I was certain no one would harm us here. Night time began to fall. The sky was a frightening shade of pink. There were fires where buildings and homes were burning, but no electric grid. We were east of the Valley.

We huddled together and prayed. Each of us felt compelled to confess our sins. My one son started this. It was warming my heart to hear my kids confessing and then reconciling everything to God.

Then, they began to ask questions. I told them that I didn't know when Jesus would come, but I believed very soon. We prayed again. I was praying for even more because I realized that I had forgotten my medicine, the matches and some other key items for survival. I didn't mention anything to the kids that might scare them.

I got up to get blankets and food. I put batteries in the radio and received a distant signal. Basically, most of the United States was in chaos. As we looked across the valley, the sky grew dark. I was wondering if I had missed the call. I thought Jesus would have come by now.

I looked down at the time. It had begun sometime between 3:00pm and now, but, according to the clock, we were nearing 6:00pm; late afternoon. The sky was dark; almost black. It was confusing.

I prayed for Heaven, for His Kingdom to come and His Will to be done on Earth as it is in Heaven. I prayed out loud. We looked out toward the valley and I saw something drop from the sky. Then we all had a strange temporary loss of hearing. Then I saw it; a huge mushroom cloud. The Area had been hit by a nuclear bomb, or something of similar effect.

Just then, I saw lights drop from the sky out of the clouds. Right before our eyes, four angels descended before us, grabbed each of us and removed us. We were removed so quickly it was as if they appeared in a flash of light. We rose past the atmosphere.

As I looked to my right and left, there were thousands of people being transported in the same way; by angels. I looked back on the Earth. I saw the grids. I saw fire rain down on the USA. I didn't understand; first bombs, then nukes or both, then fire from Heaven?

I knew it was not the time of the end of the Earth, but just the end of the Earth as we knew it. I saw several large cities burning, or exploding. I saw a portion of land on the west coast breaking off like an island and falling into the sea. I saw the same thing in the lakes near Chicago as the Earth seemed to split. I wondered if the fallen had now overcome the Earth.

Vision Dream #2

I was someone else in another part of the country or world, not me, Erin...

I looked up and, off to the west, I saw a beautiful cloud, unlike any I had ever seen. It was both majestic and ominous at the same time, depending on who your Savior is or is not.

There was a silver and gold line point. It was coming down and as it moved closer. I could see Jesus. I dropped everything. I went out to my lawn from the south and east and I lifted my arms.

Some of my neighbors were screaming. Others were on their knees on their front lawns and praising Jesus for His return. Everyone recognized Him.

Some yelled out, "It's not Jesus, but an alien!"

Those of us who knew the Word knew how to recognize Him. Out of the cloud were streams of light; streams and streams coming quickly like lightning. Some were swirling and others were straight.

One of the light streams headed straight for me. It collected me in a flash and I was gone.

Vision Dream #3

This time I was in another part of the country and again someone else, not me, Erin...

I was shopping in a large metro mall. It was a very high end mall and appeared to be in perhaps Dallas or Houston. There was a central atrium and the mall was two stories.

An announcement had just gone throughout the speaker system in the mall that the United States was at war and the largest cities on the east and west coasts had been hit.

There was incredible fear. People began to loot stores that had survival gear or items that could be used for gear. There were shots ringing out from the Eddie Bauer Store and another like it nearby.

There was a Nordstrom's and several of us ran into it. My car was on the outer part of the store. There were armed men, but I could not tell if they were foreign, American or what. There was screaming.

I ran to the bedding department. Then, off to the side, were some mattresses that were being used for staging. There was a little girl who was lost. I grabbed her and told her she needed to be very quiet. I thought the gunmen would find us with her crying.

She appeared to be about seven years old. I pulled out my iPad from my Gucci tote and all service was gone. Just then, the power went out. I used the light of my iPad to illuminate a path to the exits. I grabbed my purse and gave the little girl a mini flashlight that I had on my keychain.

I also remembered that I had pepper spray if I needed it. I had not gone to the ATM, so I had no cash. With the power gone, I knew both the cash machines and the visa machines would be out.

As I stumbled to find the exit, I couldn't understand why the sky was so dark. It didn't make sense as it was only about 5:00pm.

The little girl was crying again. I reassured her and picked her up, running in my ridiculous Pliner Pumps and my Garfield and Marx suite. I wasn't wearing proper clothing for this scenario. I simply wasn't prepared. We got to the exit finally. I looked up into the sky. I couldn't see anything but black.

The little girl said, "How beautiful, do you see the angels? Do you see Jesus?"

I thought she was crazy. I didn't see anything. I was taught that Jesus was a myth and this was something that gave poor people hope. I was reaching to grab my car keys out of the little girl's hand. In a flash, I saw a glaring white light and the little girl, who was on my hip, was gone; completely gone. Her dress was in my right arm. I was afraid the little girl's mom would accuse me of killing her.

I panicked and my heart was racing. I hit the keys looking for my car. I heard the chirp and started the motor from my keychain. I approached my car. The sky was dark.

I felt the cold round end of a gun right at my temple. A man, speaking a foreign language, forced me to use my thumbprint, biometric tech, to open the door so he could steal it. I pulled out the pepper spray and got the gun from his hand. It took him off guard. I got in the car and pulled out.

As I looked at the sky, there were balls of fire raining down. I could not tell if they were bombs or something else. I looked ahead and saw abandoned cars everywhere. I pulled up and asked a woman what had happened.

Woman: "You don't know?"

'Me': "No, I have no idea"

Woman: "Many people were abducted due to a strange bio phenomenon. We are one of the miracles in advanced science to remain here. Our genetic structure was superior to those who were removed. Count yourself lucky."

I felt bad for the little girl, but I knew that my genetics were superior. I had gone through several treatments. I was very glad to be here and relieved that I wasn't like one of them.

Vision Dream #4

I was me, Erin, again. It seemed possible that this vision / dream was some sort of continuation of Vision Dream #1 above:

I was in a large transport. I had seen this three times before in my Near Death Experiences (NDEs). These were like a train, but yet also like a giant box. I remembered these being called a 'Tevah' from one of my friend's research. I didn't know this before, but I also recognized the word 'Tevah' from the forestry box and the picnic basket. He must have been getting me used to the idea of a Tevah.

I looked around and there were many others from my region. I quickly scanned for my children and there they were. Their angels were telling them funny things, along with the other kids. There was no fear. I was relieved. Everyone was so excited.

The Tevah transport traveled for some time. Maybe it was just the excitement. Looking out the windows, everything had gone from darkness in the cloud at the transport to extreme light.

The Tevah pulled into a type of station. I recognized the horrible imitation of what I had seen here in the tribulation dream where those who chose Jesus, the Tribulation Saints, were beheaded off of the arrival platform that the fallen had set up. I thought it was no accident that the fallen would recreate a similar, but completely opposite, station to 'match' this beautiful Heavenly receiving station just to provoke God.

The platform to receive us was similar to a five star resort, but Heavenly and better. The platform was made of marble that was beautifully translucent, almost like glass. There were red, blue and purple carpet runners on the platform. Beyond the platform was a huge group of saints there to greet us.

There were thousands of angels there singing. There were streamers of gold ribbon and I saw beautiful white doves that shimmered in silver and gold. There were angels with beautiful trumpets announcing our arrival. It was amazing!

Stepping out of the Tevah, I noticed that all of us were breathing very deeply. It was the rarefied air of Heaven. The air was fragrant. I smelled roses, like at the rose parade in Pasadena, CA, but so much better.

People began to run off the platform to greet loved ones. Mothers found their children and children found their parents. There were tears of incredible joy and the sound of laughter with music.

Off in the distance, I saw the massive Golden City. It appeared to be miles away and yet it still seemed massive. Even though it was so far away, I saw the beautiful River of Life coming from the Golden City. The river flowed from God's Throne and even flowed to the platform.

Many of my friends that I had never met, but I knew on Earth, were gathered at the trees along the river. They were enjoying the fruit from the trees; the best fruit. Many of them had jumped into the river and the angels were helping people in and out. It looked almost like a giant baptism.

This river gives life. It washes away stains of all kinds. I saw that skin was being transformed. The river was full of people. It was fun to watch. I began to weep at the sight. It was so wonderful to see such a glorious miracle after so much darkness.

I looked back and saw my kids with some of my family members. I waved at them. As I turned, an angel came up to me. I recognized him as one of the Father's angels.

Angel: "Erin, come to the Gate."

The angel grabbed my arm and we traveled fast. I was so excited to see Jesus. We came upon the edge of the City. There were three gates on the east side. In the distance, and before me, was a pedestal with a huge golden book. It was beautiful.

There was a large angel there and several around him, almost like witnesses. There I was stopped momentarily while the angel pointed to a page on the Book. There, my name was illuminated. It was different that the Book was out now after all the times I had been there.

I thought this occurred at the time of judgment not now? Maybe it was a double check, or symbolic to me, the Bride so that I would know that I was a citizen and therefore allowed to enter into the Gates of the Holy City. I wasn't sure.

This time the gate was open. I saw three large beautiful angels, one at each entrance. I waved and each nodded and smiled. I was ushered in by my guardian and the other angel. I looked back briefly and saw that there were four more angels with us.

Upon entering through the gate, my white robe turned to the beautiful embroidered gown. I walked the beautiful streets of gold. I was in tears. The mansions, the music, the light and the fragrance of this ancient, but modern, City were amazing.

The street we were traveling on curved and it followed the river. The river watered all of the lush flowering vines and trees. There was gold everywhere. There were precious stones; some faceted, some cut, but all were polished.

We rounded down the street at what seemed like lightning speed. They were hurrying me along. Since the City was so large, we had a long way to travel. As we rounded the last turn, the street led to the huge garden with fountains. This was larger than Central Park.

The river of life and the trees were all there. It was the same scene from the last dream, only I had come from the upper east gate this time. I saw the angels and saints preparing for the celebration. I was so excited. I saw the huge Sea of Glass. All around the garden were dwellings that looked like clear glass, yet they were gold.

All could view the Throne, which was the source of light. My transformed body was lovely. I breathed so deeply and my thoughts were expanded. I seemed to have supernatural knowledge. This, of course, I lacked on Earth.

The angels escorted me back to the chamber. There were stairs leading to the porch and, up above this, was a large turret. There were pearl walls inside with jasper stairs. There were beautiful furnishings. It was incredible there. It took my breath away.

The angels took me to the porch. I looked over the beautiful gardens. The smells were incredibly fragrant, the colors vivid and the fountains contained living water. As I stood in awe over this, I thought of more than a dozen Scriptures that capture this scene, yet nothing is like being here watching the Scriptures come to life.

As I stood, a gentle breeze came over the area. I heard Jesus whisper.

Jesus: "Erin everything is ready. All is prepared. Heaven is waiting to receive it!"

I looked for Him everywhere. I thought, "He must be busy right now and can't come to me in body." I rushed around and I still couldn't see Him.

Jesus: "Erin, I am here. My voice is in the gentle whisper."

Me: "But, Lord, are I not Home now? Is this today? I have lost my sense of time."

Jesus: "Erin, the wedding is not today, but the Bride is arriving."

Me: "Lord, today?"

Jesus: "Time is quickening. Are you happy that your friends are coming too?"

Me: "Oh yes, I am so excited."

Jesus: "There are many people anxious to see you. They have interceded for you and love you so much."

Me: "Lord, You brought me back to the Bridal Chamber. Is it that I am now consecrated? Will consummation begin now for seven days? Is this our warning?"

Jesus: "I know you are anxious. I too am anticipating the day when I am with my Betrothed permanently."

Me: "But the arrival was so real. Has this happened?"

Jesus: "No, but it will. You have seen it in advance and can give comfort to those who you will meet that will need this. I too will speak and I will send angels to declare it."

Me: "So, I am showing this to someone that might be discouraged at first, or disheartened, when disaster strikes, that You are not coming right away? But, from what I saw, You are coming at the same time, or right after."

Jesus: "Yes, there will be a sequence. It will be frightening at first, but take comfort, for you'll know that redemption is quickly to follow. I am coming in the clouds."

Me: "I am confused. Are You coming twice on the clouds?"

Jesus: "Erin, the first is to gather My Bride, the second will be to avenge Her and the others. The first is love coming down; the promise of marriage to My Bride. The second is certainly not the same."

Me: "This makes sense. So am I to wait in the Bridal Chamber and prepare for the wedding, seven days more of consecration, then consummation and then the wedding?"

Jesus: "Erin, you are half right. You just had quiet for seven days. Did you not rest and pray?"

Me: "Yes, but I was anticipating Your arrival, so I didn't get much rest."

Jesus: "So you stayed watch even during the night hours?"

Me: "Yes, this is what Brides do. I am ready now."

Then the breeze stopped. The angels came up to me.

Angel: "Erin, don't be discouraged. All is not as expected, but just know that your place is here. Your Home is here and your name is written in the Lamb's Book of Life. He wanted you to see this in case the enemy tried to discourage you."

Me: "I don't understand?"

Angel: "Erin, we are all with you, gathered specifically to help you. All will be okay. When you call upon His Name, the Name of Jesus, we will be there to help. Even when you forget to call, we will be there to deliver you safely Home. You are His and you are marked by the Blood of Jesus. Your children are too and so are Your friends. Do not be afraid."

Me: "But I am here now, my children and everyone else. Why can't it just stay this way? Then none of you have to redo everything."

They all looked at each other. Another angel then spoke whose name is Beryl.

Beryl: "Erin, this was done in advance so that you would comfort your friends that these events will take place. They will occur. Just know that the order will seem discouraging."

Me: "You mean we will suffer? Some of us will have trouble?"

Beryl: "Remember your place. Don't be afraid. You saw the great celebration. You see the joy. Joy comes in the morning. We are there with you to help. Others have help as well; all of your friends and their households.

All is under His mighty wings. You will experience the supernatural and will see it with your own eyes. Soon you will be able to help others by your testimony. The ones left to go through the time of great trouble will need to hear about where you reside.

Soon you will be Home, but will also serve another purpose for a time. Remember that you saw the center when you were up here for three days."

Me: "Where I am, we will see trouble? How do I get my house now? Is there anything I can do?"

Guardian: "You can, but you understand what panic can do to people. People become capable of unpredictable things. Call on the name of Jesus during this. Remember Psalms 90 and 91. You will not experience trouble for long. Do not worry. He is coming at the proper time.

Do not listen to anyone that claims that God carries. He does not. The battle rages. Angels can be delayed as you have seen, but those who are appointed to you as shields are with you. You will need great faith now based on what you have seen. This will help others remain focused on Jesus and the fact that He is coming."

Me: "I'm discouraged now. I was hoping we were Home."

Beryl: "What you experienced is a shadow of things to come. Be encouraged that Jesus collects His Bride. This is coming."

Me: "How soon?"

Guardian: "Now is the time to look to those who have seen the events that are coming unfold. John has information. Look to Revelation. Go back to Isaiah 17 and 19. Remember that Israel is a gauge to patterns and timing. Nothing here has changed.

"You will need to look now to Amos and back to Esther. You are close to uncovering some keys. There is also Psalm 46. Psalm 44 will read as a lament, yet Lamentations has an answer. Psalm 45 is your favor and your place. Timing is in Songs of Solomon.

"Then understand who is coming from the north. Who is that enemy? What will they do? Do not forget Matthew 14:27 and forward. You are loved. Erin, remember you are loved by the King. Call upon His Name."

Dream ends...

Love and blessings... Erin

Dream 057 – Jesus as the Warrior Groom

Received Monday, April 15, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 7)

Thank You for another day here. Thank You for loving us. Lord, You are my portion and my cup. You are my strong tower and my place of rest. I pray that everything that is written by my hands is Your Will and is pleasing to You. It is my offering. It is all that I have.

Father, when men move me above Scripture, then I become an idol. If I am elevated by men to idol status, then I would become a god separate from You and no longer in communion. Father, please let me never fall into the deception of these things. Come quickly so that I am not harmed.

I know that it is better to be one day in Your Courts than a thousand elsewhere. Jesus, let Your cover of protection drop over me, my children and my extended family of fellow Brides. Let Your anointing fall upon us so that we may see You more clearly. Lord, rescue us soon.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I am up through the Portal again. Jesus is on the large rock by the stream. I ran to hug Him. He stands up from His position on the rock to receive me.

Jesus: "Erin, I'm glad you came. What's wrong?"

Me: "I'm scared."

Jesus: "Why?"

Me: "All that is to come; I didn't want to go through this. I want all of us to be safe while we wait for You."

Just then, His white robe and purple sash turned into His warrior gear. His hair became white and wavy. He had beautiful wings. Below, I saw the huge sword on His side. His beautiful breastplate had the stones of the Ephod and He had His magnificent Crown with many crowns.

I began to cry. I am still crying while typing this. I hadn't seen Him in battle gear for a very long time. Tears were streaming down my face.

Jesus: "What's wrong?"

Me: "I am so relieved to see You like this, but, Lord, do you remember when people took controversy in this view of You before?"

Jesus: "Erin, they were reading the Scriptures in part, not in whole. I have warned against this. Am I not also a warrior King, a deliverer, a redeemer and a Savior? Will I not save My children from the fowler's snare? Will I not come as a divine rescuer in the midst of the darkness?"

"Will I need to cut through the thickness of the dark and the lies of wicked men with the sword of truth from My mouth? Will I not be a Groom prepared to fight for My Bride? I don a shield, a buckler, a sword, a breastplate and wings. My wings are here to show you that you rest under them. Please be encouraged."

Me: "When I see You like this, I know that nothing will harm us. When I see You on the rock, I know You are our firm foundation. When I see you in Your robe, I know that You are righteousness, truth, love and goodness. When I see You in a Crown, I know Your position of authority. In all ways, Lord, You are my Savior and my Groom."

Jesus: "Ah, well, today, this is how you need to see Me. I am your strong tower, your mighty rock, your Prince of peace and your deliverer. I am your Groom and you are My Bride. I am coming soon."

Me: "How soon?"

Jesus: "Erin, very soon. What am I wearing?"

Me: "I guess it would be difficult to keep that on for another one hundred years?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, a robe is more comfortable, but I enjoy this also because this brings you another level of peace."

He reaches over and sits on the rock next to me so that I am under His wings.

Me: "I can't wait to see You coming on the clouds like this."

Jesus: "Yes, My Bride will see her Groom. There will be another such time where the rest will see Me also and every knee will bow and every tongue confess, but not before the enemy sends his deception; his elected savior. Many will stumble and fall to this deception."

Me: "How can that happen?"

Jesus: "Erin, those who remain will be void of truth and the vital guidance of the Holy Spirit. They will be void of this and will look for many saviors, signs and wonders. They will look for Me, but they will not find Me. They will long to rewind the clock, but it can't be reversed.

"There will be anguish. Still, in My great mercy, I will not leave them without an instruction manual. They will have the Word and then will remember the words and writings of the Bride. They will search back and recall. You will see this and it will be difficult as you will be in the Eagle's Nest far from the trouble here."

Me: "Is there anything more we can do?"

Jesus: "How long have you witnessed? How long have you warned? How long have you been ridiculed? Do you believe that this too was meaningless? No, they will remember conversations. They will go through the stages of grief and loss.

"Some will be angry and run away to deceptions. Others will lap up every bit of what was said by my Bride like a dog laps up water from a dry bowl. This is a good thing, a very good thing.

"Will I not also find a way to give them hope knowing, even in advance, of what is to come? Would I be such a cruel Savior?"

Me: "I know You aren't, Lord. You are so good in all of Your ways."

Jesus: "Greater is the reward for those who find Me now. Those that chose Me now will have a great celebration and rejoicing and will not be subjected to the wrath of the great deception."

Me: "Lord, so much of Scriptures have been a mystery until this point. You are revealing so much now to so many. I am so honored to be living in this time."

Jesus: "Yes. The Word contains all of the information. When it was written, it was as if it were a good historical read, a log of events and a study guide. Now, you and many others are discovering the real meaning behind the "Living Word". If you hold your hand over your Bible, you will feel something."

Just then, He held a beautiful small Bible. I had never seen Jesus holding one before. He is holding His own Story, 'His-story', History. It was a wonderful little burgundy, navy and gold leather Bible.

It was embossed and engraved, with intricate scrollwork, an absolutely magnificent cover and pages like onion skin, but translucent and alive. He took my hand and placed it in the center of His Open Bible.

Jesus: "Erin, what do you feel?"

Me: "Oh my goodness, the Bible is beating like a heart, but also breathing."

I pulled my hand quickly off of it because I was startled. Then I put my hand back and closed my eyes. I could actually feel the Scripture verses course through my body and illuminate the truth. I opened my eyes and I could see the Scriptures illuminated on the pages where my hand rested. He was smiling and laughing at my new discovery.

Jesus: "Is My Word not the living breathing Word, the lamp to your feet and the light to your path?"

Me: "Yes, but this actually... Oh, forgive me. Of course it is. This is awesome. Lord, can You make my Bibles at Home do this?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, they already are living breathing Words. Do you believe when I take you Home that I won't leave that same breath into the Bibles that remain on Earth? I will and many will take comfort. Bibles will become a pearl of great price."

He was saddened.

Jesus: "There will be very few left to publish them. Because of the demand, the enemy will publish his own version. It will be very similar to a couple published today that reference untruth. Many will stumble into this deception. Sadly to say, many do now."

Me: "I thought that Bibles will be destroyed?"

Jesus: "Oh, the Bibles will be worth a great price. They will have value, as will testimonies of those that are no longer here. The enemy has already exacted a plan in advance of this. It will be a troubling time. Where are you during this time? Remember?"

Just then, He spread His wings out. They were huge. I was under at least a nine foot span, maybe even twelve feet. All I know is that I was safe there.

Me: "I'm under Your wings."

Jesus: "Where is your Home?"

Me: "Here in Heaven."

Jesus: "Remember the season, and know that I am near. This is in your guide Book of truth." He smiled and pointed to the beautiful small Bible in my hands. "Remember, you are My Bride."

He hands me to my guardian angel, gives me a side hug and a kiss on the top of my head. I look back and I see Him walking to His horse under the tree. I wave at Him. He turns and smiles.

He taps His hand over His chest and points at me. I remembered this and began to cry. I curtsied and put my hand over my heart. He began to laugh. I turned to my angel and gave Him a hug. He stopped me before I was about to go back.

Guardian: "Erin, There will now be an uptick in destruction. You will see many events begin to converge. You will encounter warfare also during this time. The angels, all of us, and those who have been appointed also to be your friends, are with you.

"Do not be afraid. He has called us. He is giving you reinforcements; embattlements, ramparts, paths, doorways and keys to open them. You must gear up. Now is the time to rest in Him, yet prepare your house. Do you understand what I am saying?"

Me: "Somewhat. I guess there will be some trouble."

Guardian: "Erin, the Lord Himself showed you the Scriptures. He showed you that the Word will now come alive with meaning, as if it were almost dead before compared to now. Prophecies and patterns are about to be fulfilled. Jesus Himself told you how valued His Word will be and testimonies.

"This is why the Lord has always told you to write plainly, right? You will see the prophets' words come alive. One was very close to Jesus. This prophet, Zacharias, from Luke 1:5-80, was married to Elizabeth and birthed John the Baptist. Time to go to the book of Zechariah for wisdom (NOT Zacharias, this is different).

"Remember the horses, the measuring line, the scrolls and the Seven-fold Spirit. Erin, this will be alive for you now. Go back to the parables of the Bride and the love of Jesus. Look to Ruth, Esther, and Song of Solomon to see your great worth to the Lord.

"Now look as events unfold. Again, in Isaiah, Chapters 16 to 24, you will begin to see the enemy of Israel destroyed. Midway through these chapters is Chapter 21, but before this is Chapter 18. Pay attention to Chapter 18."

Me: "But we won't be here to see all of this, will we? If we are gone, who are the watchmen then?"

Guardian: "No, you will not see all of it, but you will see some things. Erin, the Bride is not the only watcher. This is where deception is birthed. The enemy of Heaven and the enemy of God, the fallen, watch diligently for His return. They even watch you.

"The Lord is showing you your place. He has shown you your name in the Lamb's Book of Life. You rest under His wings and in His cover of divine care. He has appointed a watchman on your walls both day and night; His personal angels.

"He will not let You fall and will help you at break of day. Also, what good is a key if there is no door to be opened by it? Remember, Psalm 34 is about the angels He has assigned to you, us.

"Remember the Psalms. Read Psalm 45 first to know your place. Read Psalms 44 and then Psalm 46 to see what will come. Psalm 47 will show your rescue. This will make more sense when Chapters are read in the intended sequence not jumbled. Remember also that you are loved by the King. Great is your reward. Great will your divine rescue be."

Dream over...

I believe there is 'food' here for studying. First thing I will need to do is hold my hand to my Bible and close my eyes to feel it breathe.

Love and Blessings...Erin

Dream 058 – The Gift

Received Wednesday, April 17, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 8)

One week ago, on April 11, 2013, the Lord woke me out of my sleep with a question. Immediately, I went out to my prayer chair, got on my knees and asked again for clarification. This was the question:

Jesus: "Erin, I have a gift for you. Ask Me for anything, it is yours."

Me: "Lord, is this You?"

Jesus: "Yes."

Me: "Well, can I ask for everyone? Can I ask for You to come for us all tonight so we can celebrate in Heaven?"

Jesus: "Erin, this is personally for you. Don't ask for global things. If I can give you anything you ask for personally, what would that be? Also, know that I am the Father that owns the cattle on a thousand hills."

Me: "So, money is no object?"

Jesus: "Correct."

Me: "We don't have much time left here on Earth. I need to think about this. Can I?"

Jesus: "Of course."

I thanked Him. I really didn't know what to ask for, so I waited. So, let's fast forward to one week later, today, Wednesday, April 17, 2013 at 4:30am. This was my decision:

So I was beaten up a bit this week at work. Really, it was the same story; long hours with no appreciation. I had many needs and a few wants, but I had decided last weekend to offer the gift back to the Lord. Every day, the Holy Spirit would say, "Erin, ask for anything, up to half the Kingdom, and it will be yours."

I chuckled at this, knowing that it was serious, but it reminded me of Esther, Chapter 5. Twice, the king says this to Esther. The king had the power to grant Esther's request and he did.

Yet, here I am being asked by the greatest King, our God, to ask for anything personally. I can't help but think this was somewhat of a test of my heart. At first I thought this Word was just for me, but I quickly realized that it was for everyone. After communion, worship and praise, this was my prayer:

"Lord, You asked me to ask You for anything and You would grant it to me. Well, I'm asking for the gift of my heart to be given fully to You and my life fully to You for Your Purposes. The gifts that I would ask for would be to feed my flesh. I am not King Solomon leading a great nation. I have no assignment other to report from You what You would show Me.

"I have no place in history that will leave a big footprint. Anything that I am given or anything that has happened is only because You grant it. You are the giver of good gifts and only You know what is best, not me. So, Lord, thank You for Your offer, but I will give this back to You.

"I love You and I know Your eyes are on me. The gifts that You would grant me would be far better than any gifts I would grant myself. I love You so much, Lord. You have consistently led me through the enemy's minefields safely.

"There are so many dangers hidden right where it looks safe to walk. Some Christians believe that these dreams and visions are minefields also and that soon the field will blow up; the hidden agenda of the enemy."

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Immediately, I am taken up through the Portal. There Jesus is on the rock in full warrior gear again and His beautiful wings folded. He is an amazing sight. I run to Him. I am about 25 years old. He stood up and gave me a hug and kiss on the top of my forehead. He sat me down on the rock next to Him.

Jesus: "Erin, what gift did you decide to ask for?"

Me: "I had plenty of needs and some desires, but all seemed about the flesh, so I am declining trying to come up with one. I am giving this back to You as an offering. I am giving You my heart along with the gift because I know You are better with me than I am. If there is something that You would like me to have, one that You know is best, than You can give me that and You can keep my heart. My heart is Yours, Lord."

He was happy with my choice. I almost saw a proud look.

Jesus: "So, you trust Me to give you good gifts? You are also giving Me your heart too? This is a great bridal gift for the Groom."

He smiled and I laughed. I had not thought of it that way.

Me: "Yes. You are better at knowing what I really need than I am. I'm giving my whole 'Self' over to You. I could ask for wisdom, but You gave me this. Wisdom is a good gift, but sometimes I long for simplicity."

Jesus: "Wisdom is an excellent gift, Erin, but wisdom, on its own, is just knowledge amplified. Now, divine wisdom leads to divine knowledge, which leads to divine understanding, divine compassion and divine love and then divine peace.

"Great men of wisdom, with great power, have eventually led themselves down the wrong path by their own leading, like Solomon and David. But it is by Godly wisdom and revelation that they hear the voice of God and turn away from this. This road of Godly wisdom leads to good gifts."

During this time, you need to know that Jesus is gentle in speech, with a kind voice of instruction. He is never condemning, but gently speaking with the voice of a teacher who loves his student. All the while He is in full armor and very much a warrior.

Jesus: "Solomon was the greatest, yet he led unto his own understanding and went after the very idols that lack wisdom; the very thing that God hates and finds detestable."

Me: "So, I guess then I would ask for Godly wisdom in all matters. I would ask for You to be the architect of my heart and the builder of my life. I don't believe there is much time to think about earthly things that would bring comfort. So, if I ask for Godly wisdom, then I would also need to ask for Heavenly surrender of my entire life to You."

Jesus: "Are you certain? You have needs, Erin."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I have now served You greater in my time of poverty than in my time of wealth. In my trials, I could do nothing but give them to You. My relationship grew closer to You when I was poor. When I was self-sufficient in my business, I went to You less.

"I miss You when You're not here. I fail without You. Even the things, like a business, that I built up for myself failed too. I never knew an earthly home here. Everything I had was owned by a man and I was a borrower. With my life, I am a borrower and You are my lender and Your note is on my life."

Jesus: "So, you are like a piece of land or property?"

Me: "Yes, I guess so. The thing is; if I am property, then I don't come with much of a view."

Jesus: "Erin, what are you saying? The Holy Spirit inside you sees what you see every day. Is this not a view? A man who sees through the eyes of himself has a blind spot. His view is dim. When you allow the Holy Spirit to see through your eyes then, you see with clarity; full spectrum. This, by far, is the best view. You are seeing others through My eyes when you give your eyes to Me. Your eyes are a window."

Me: "These dreams and visions have given me new eyes to see. From what I see, the view out of my windows, I love."

Jesus: "Anyone who desires to see a Heavenly perspective can. This is your destination, your Home and your Promise Land."

He shows me the land around us and it is beautiful. There is nothing like this on Earth and it feels more and more like I belong here in Heaven. I am tired of going back.

Me: "Lord, this is the best view."

Jesus: "Erin, do you believe I am the giver of good gifts?"

Me: "Oh, yes. Definitely."

Jesus: "Do you believe My Words?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Do you believe in Me and the works of My hands?"

Me: "Of course."

Jesus: "Do I not love you enough to treasure you and take care of you the way that I know will be the best for you on your journey through this wilderness?"

Me: "It is just hard sometimes, Lord. It is like when You showed me the seed on the ground; the birds snatched some of it up and even some were scorched by the sun."

Jesus: "Why do you think I allowed this?"

Me: "I don't know. Well, I know, but I do not like going through them. I want You to keep me out of trouble."

Jesus: "Is this the gift you are asking Me for; to keep you from trouble?"

Me: "No, because every time You've allowed me to go through these trials, I have come out of them better. Therefore, I know that You have sent them for my own good."

Jesus: "Wait, stop, no, Erin! I did not send trouble to you. I love you too much. My Father loves you too much also. You did not deserve the afflictions. The enemy pleaded his case, or charge, against you, but there was a greater plan for you to God's glory than that of the enemy's failed attempts to destroy you. My Father allows refining fire. You are not destined to the furnace, Erin, but you are destined for the Promised Land."

He walked over and grabbed a fruit off of the tree. I watched another fruit appear in its place instantly. This was amazing. He gave one of the fruits to me and then He grabbed another for Himself.

Jesus: "Erin, on Earth, what happens to fruit once you pick it?"

Me: "Well, if you don't eat it, rot will set in over the course of a few days."

Jesus: "On Earth, once you remove fruit from its life source, the tree, it begins to die, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "So, the fruit's days are numbered. It went from having life to death the minute I removed it from the branch, or stem, of the tree, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Better yet, after I pick fruit from the Tree of Life, what happens?"

Me: "Well the fruit never truly dies."

Jesus: "Yes and no. Observe." He picks the fruit and another grows back immediately. "The fruit here is good. When one is taken, another grows. This tree, the Tree of Life, always bears fruit."

Me: "I don't understand."

Jesus: "Erin, life on Earth is different than here; right at birth, death begins. When you are removed from your Mother's womb, there is a feeding tube; the umbilical cord. This is a form of the silver cord."

"As a baby is formed, life comes from this chord until birth. When the chord is cut and the baby begins the process of birth, it is also really beginning death too. The process of life on Earth is contrary to Heaven.

"Now, consider yourself a piece of fruit. Who is your source? Who is your giver of life? Who is your branch?"

Me: "You are."

Jesus: "So, I am the Tree of Life?"

Me: "Yes, but help me to understand the trials and bad fruit."

He pointed off in the distance. I saw angels pulling out the mustard plants next to the grape vines. I saw other angels pruning back a few vines that had begun to grow in a contorted way.

Me: "These have all grown so quickly. I was just here."

Jesus: "Yes, but we know that the mustard served a purpose right?"

Me: "Please explain this again."

Jesus: "These mustard plants provide nourishment to supernaturally produce a better crop of grapes. They gave them all of the vital nutrients to sustain a record harvest. They brought them along. Now, a normal harvest has now become accelerated in a shorter time and produced more grapes. Do you remember how many clusters you thought might be produced from one vine? You said maybe twenty? Well, this way there will be forty. This will produce excellent wine."

Me: "Lord, could You help me understand the grappa on the menu? It seemed odd to me?"

Jesus: "Do you remember about grappa?"

Me: "I remember it is sweet like honey and very rich. It is produced from a very late grape."

Jesus: "Yes. This is a late harvest grape. This is extremely sweet and very powerful. You need less of it because it has more impact. It is highly valued and is somewhat rare."

Me: "Lord, is grappa representing the final harvest, the last group to come Home?"

Jesus: "Interesting. So, you are relating the fruits now to harvest and seasons. Please explain."

Me: "The late grape produced has been on the vine the longest and even endures until the first freeze. In fact, the trouble makes it better. Some call the wine from this grape 'fire water'."

Jesus: "Yes. This is not a typical harvested grape. It produces a wine that is not popular, but rare. It is sweet like honey and its power is like fire. Very few even know about it. Excellent observation."

Me: "Lord, so the mustard is the Bride; the first harvest. The grape vine and normal harvest is the Tribulation Saints and the grappa, or late grape, is the 144,000? Am I correct?"

Jesus: "Well, there is manna here and a great parable about wine and seasons."

Me: "The mustard plants You said are harvested in April. There are only thirteen days left in April (2013). If we are the mustards, then we will be pulled soon by the angels, right?"

Jesus: "You will know by the signs that we are in the season. Now, here is another observation."

He walked over and pulled out a mustard plant himself. The roots came out of the soil. The roots were deep and the soil didn't want to give them up. Some were more difficult to pull from the soil. Then, finally, all of the plant was removed.

Jesus: "Erin, tell Me what you observed."

Me: "You grabbed the plant, but, before the plant could be removed, the roots needed to be pulled out of the ground first. Then the mustard plant was loosened and then could be pulled out completely."

Jesus: "So, tell Me now what must happen before the mustard is fully removed?"

Me: "Oh, the roots in the ground must be pulled. Hmm, this is like the dead rising first and the graves being opened."

He smiled. This was such a simple act that had so much meaning; a parable with depth beyond reason. You could tell He seemed very pleased that I caught on to this.

Me: "But what is the time of this? We are running out of time for this usage of the mustard."

Jesus: "Oh, are you in a hurry?"

He was laughing at me while He was pulling out more mustard plants. Remarkably, I was watching our Savior pull out these plants, prune grape vines and taste late grapes all before my eyes while I walked along with Him. How symbolic.

Me: "I'm ready to come up here now. I am tired. You keep showing me more and more symbols and parables of Your return for us that I can hardly stand it. I am thinking I will not go back to the Portal, but instead cling to the rock. You will have to pull me off of that."

He was laughing. The angels continued to work, but were also laughing.

Jesus: "Time for you to study that silver chord."

Me: "I like the three strands instead. Can we talk about studying that?"

Jesus: "I love that you are so ready to come Home. You know your place and it is getting more and more difficult. Remember not to lose hope. Things must occur in order. There is a process. Do not be deceived by those that would claim that the Father 'tarries". At this point, He does not.

"Things will seem discouraging. Days will come and go. You are now beginning to watch daily. This pleases Me. Do not lose heart. When communication is down or panic sets in, remember your place is here with Me; pulling mustard plants."

He was teasing me. I never thought of Him joking like this. It was priceless. We were all laughing. He took a serious moment when I should be worried and made it light. I had peace in this moment. It was if I knew, no matter what, He would be there.

Me: "Thank You for everything, Lord."

Jesus: "You are welcome in advance, but what are you thanking Me for?"

Me: "So many things; so many."

I began to have tears pour out of my eyes. I never blubbered or sobbed, just streaming tears.

Jesus: "But I offered you a gift and you gave it back. Why thank Me?"

Me: "Because You have given me everything. You gave me life. You have given me the wealth of nations. All this time with You I might not have in eternity without ever coming Home."

He dropped what He was doing and came right over to me. He put my chin in His hand and looked right into my eyes. I saw myself in His eyes. I continued to cry. I could not believe those eyes; more depth than any eyes. He has seen so much and now He sees me! He could read my thoughts too.

Jesus: "Erin, do you think, here in Heaven, that I am no longer capable of being present to each of you? Do you think that I am not able to be near you when you physically walk here with Me? Did I bring you this far so that, in Heaven, I will be hard to find? No. Not possible.

"Erin, you won't believe what I have planned for each and every one of you here. It is beyond the limits of your imagination. Our Father, the Creator, has made a special place for you. You will never feel alone or abandoned, I promise you. Do not allow the enemy to rob you of the promise I have given you, okay?"

I stared into His eyes. The absolute love He has for me cannot possibly be replicated. I am so very blessed; all of us are. He began to walk me past the rock on the way to the Portal. I went for the rock to grab on to it. He reached down and grabbed my hand.

Jesus: "Come now, you will be here soon enough. I'm glad you want to stay. I am also quite pleased at your offering the gift back to Me. I know you could have asked for anything. It meant that you would rather keep your treasures here. Therefore, I have decided to give you a gift anyway.

"You will soon understand this and see it. However, your choice brought you more here than you know. When I bring you Home, you will have so much joy. It will be beyond what you would expect. All of your tears will be gone. I will dry all of them. You will have them no more."

He walks me to the Portal.

Jesus: "My Word is a lamp to your feet and a light to your path. Beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news, Erin. You are loved."

He gave me a hug and I was back down here, in my chair. Wow, I have more and more clarity in these dreams and visions every time I visit Heaven. It seemed so real this time. He is alive! I literally had to pinch myself.

I looked down at my body and age 25 was gone. I dropped to my knees and praised Him for everything. I have so much to be thankful for. I am so blessed. I am ready to go Home now. I am so ready. I feel wealthy today.

Please note that this was a vision. Please use discernment when you read these. Scripture is the lamp to your feet and the Holy Spirit your light to the path. Pray for illumination via the Holy Spirit. I am no prophet, but these are prophetic in nature.

Much love and many blessings...Erin, aka Sparrowcloud9

Dream 059 – The Minefield

Received Wednesday, April 24, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 9)

“The Day of the Dead” dream...

I woke up in the middle of the night deeply disturbed about this dream. It had significance and I went to Jesus with this. I was told in advance that one of my children was going to die. I went to the last place that I had seen him. I was panicked.

I went to my old church in Bend, Oregon. There, wandering around the parking lot, were people I recognized that had died. I asked about my son, but no one said anything. They didn't recognize me, which seemed similar to my dream from yesterday.

The dead were walking around the parking lot. I ran to our old house. There were my parents. My real dad was there. I asked if my son was there and, yet again, I was not acknowledged.

I walked past the front door and saw my son. He was waking up from his sleep. He was okay, but he didn't recognize me. I felt horrible guilt and panic. It was my fault he was dead; my fault.

There are two types of deaths; those I expected and those I didn't. My parents were alive last I checked. I was confused. No one saw me even though I went up to their faces.

I ran back to the church. A police officer was directing traffic to the church overflow lot. These people were going in and out of the church. I walked straight up to the officer to ask him questions. He didn't see me but smelled my perfume.

The woman behind me was a demon. She attacked the police officer. Then darkness came very quickly.

Dream over...

I was startled out of my sleep. This seemed so real. I was exhausted. It was 1:30am. I got up and got on my knees and had a big cry. I had a burden; my son. I was sick to my stomach. I was hunched over the ottoman just like so many times before. However, this time seemed different.

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

Instantly I was up through the Portal. I was about seven years old. I ran to Him. He picked me up and held me. I began to weep on His shoulder.

Jesus: "Erin, what's wrong?"

Me: "Lord, the 'Dream of the Dead' and my son that took place in Bend; why?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am returning you soon."

Me: "Yes, Father, but I am afraid."

Jesus: "I know."

Me: "This is from You, right, Lord?"

Jesus: "Yes, I am showing you kindness. I am leading you out of the desert because it is time and I love you."

Me: "What if?"

He stopped me.

Jesus: "Do not be afraid. You will no longer suffer shame."

Me: "Lord, the dream of my son and all of the dead; this looks soon, but it is Bend. He was the same age. It was warmer; nice weather, like the beginning of summer. I was in the spirit and no one could see me. Father, if I need to stay here in the desert to keep my son safe, I will. I will leave my job. I won't transfer. I must keep my children on course to Home. Father, if we are leaving soon, why move me?"

Jesus: "Erin, to prepare your field. Slowly, you are gathering and cleaning. You must remove the old dead things and the things causing weight; dead weight. I am reminding you to live today. Get rest now and go to sleep."

Vision - over. I go back to bed. I awake on the morning of Monday, April 25th, 2013 and continue...

I felt burdened today. I was still heavy about the "Day of the Dead" dream. In my prayer, I asked God for help.

Me: "Lord, show me what is right and true. Create in me a clean heart. Cover me with Your hand of mercy, God. Grant me compassion, love and fearlessness for the rest of my days. Let my children run after You with full force. Lord, let Your light shine on my face.

"Let me lead these children straight to Your arms. Keep them safe. I cling to Your promise that not one of them will be lost; not one. Father, please find favor in me. Remember my sin no more and remove my transgressions from your sight. Remind me of my place, Lord, even when I sin and come to You in repentance. I love you, Lord."

I was on my knees again on my ottoman. Immediately, I was taken up to Golgotha. An angel greeted me there. It was in a grey landscape literally a hundred shades of grey. The only color was Jesus' blood. The angel walked me to the foot of the Cross.

I was there in the spirit, like a step back in time. It was real time, but in the past. No one there saw me. I knelt at the foot of the Cross. Just then, the Roman Soldier pierced His side. The wind blew as the water and blood from Jesus rained down on me.

This, and the time before like this, was, by far, one of the most gut wrenching. This is my Lord, Jesus, the One that I adore, the One who holds me and tells me it will be okay, the One who called and led me through the desert and spoke tenderly to me there.

There He was now, hanging lifeless on the Cross. The Earth rumbled, the wind blew and the sky grew dark; dark in midday like I have never seen before. I looked up in the sky and the moon was full. It was there showing in broad day light. No, it was the sun showing like the moon; an eclipse?

I was confused. I went back to Jesus on the Cross. The angel spoke with me.

Angel: "He died as a thief really, just as the other two, except He came to set the captives free; He came to steal man from the enemy. He came to capture the hearts of men and the hearts of the chosen people of Israel. Since their hearts were hard, He opened up the offer to all of you."

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I felt the angel take my hand and we were immediately up on the balcony of the Wedding Chamber. I see Jesus looking out over the beautiful landscape surrounding the Throne. I am about 25 years old. I run to Him and Hug Him. He pulled me away from Him so He could look in my eyes. His face was handsome and radiant. I was crying.

Jesus: "What is wrong, Erin?"

He guides me to sit next to Him on a bench, yet facing Him.

Me: "I am relieved to see You here, Lord. I just saw You on the Cross. It was so hard to see You like this. I can barely take it. Having such a personal relationship with You, I could barely take in the sight. It sickened me and devastated me. My knees were weak."

Jesus: "Erin, do you know why I had you revisit this?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "It is to show you My undying love for you. I was a thief that I should die to steal your heart from the hands of the enemy. I love you so much I would die for you. Is this not what a Savior does?"

Me: "Yes. It was just difficult to be there again. This time, I was back there as a time traveler. It was different and I felt a panic as if I would be left there. With all the knowledge I have as a female, I would be shunned and stoned, but, more than anything, to see You there and relive it was horrible."

Jesus: "Erin, would you die for your children? Would you sacrifice yourself without hesitation if I asked?"

Me: "I am not afraid of dying and I would certainly not even hesitate a split second to save them. No hesitation at all."

Jesus: "I am the same. My Father sent Me to save all of you; to steal your hearts. My Father and I am jealous for you. Seeing Israel turning away from this love has been very difficult, but a blessing for all of you."

Me: "Lord, what would have happened if they would have accepted You instead?"

Jesus: "Everything was set forth in advance. You are loved and adored by My Father and Me. I was sent to be the sacrifice for all that would accept Me. You accepted Me, right?" He was smiling.

Me: "Of course. I am sitting here, right?"

Jesus: He laughed. "Yes, you are here; very good."

Me: "Everything that we see occurring now seems like a sign. Please come soon."

He gives me a warm sympathetic look.

Jesus: "Look, over here." He points me to an area where angels are gathered and preparing a large reception. It is over by the receiving dock. "What do you see, Erin?"

Me: "Preparations. When Lord; another year? Was this not the same as before? Are You coming in a year, month, week or day?"

Jesus: "What you see here is real time. On Earth, the clock reverses at birth."

Me: "I don't understand."

Jesus: "Death begins at the same time as life. I know you are anxious."

Me: "I just don't understand. The preparations have been occurring now for six Earth months. How can I know? This is a foreign concept to me. I don't understand Heavenly time. Please don't allow this to continue for another thousand Earth years."

Jesus: He was laughing hard. "Do you understand the wisdom in trusting Me?" He sits me back down. "I know you are anxious. I even showed you Heaven receiving you, didn't I?"

Me: "This is why this is so hard. I already have seen the reception."

Jesus: "Erin, nothing has changed. I cannot tell you an exact time; I won't. However, I have given you manna pointing to a time frame; a season. My question for you is 'what if I don't come when you expect; will you continue to look for Me?' There are many who have set themselves up for disappointment here. Where are you in this?"

Me: "Well, I have had these dreams and visions. Others have had a similar message from You too. You continue to grant me fruits and have showed me this is a gauge to Your favor, which shows me I'm on the path You have set.

"Even my children are having dreams of You. There are signs in the Heavens just as You have shown. There are earthquakes in rebellious areas, such as the USA and Iran. The enemy has stepped up his attacks."

Jesus: "So, where are you compared to a year ago?"

Me: "Well, now I sit in Heavenly place talking to You. It is a miracle."

Jesus: "Erin, am I a deceiver? Am I cruel and misleading? Am I a punisher?"

Me: "Oh no, You are none of these things."

Jesus: "Then are you able to trust Me that I am about to come down and bring you home. You saw it."

He then showed me a bird's eye view of the Tevahs arriving at the docking station, the choirs of angels and the roars of the saints. Tears were streaming down from my eyes.

Me: "I'm sorry, Father, I am rebellious and impatient."

Jesus: "Erin, the enemy is also anxious. They know the season is near. All of you are hated. He has set up a race to the finish line. If he can get any of you veered off course, he will do it now. His goal is that you are not able to finish. Erin, did you see the big race?"

Me: "Yes, the bombing at the marathon?"

Jesus: "This was a message to those that are waiting for My return. This was a blunt mocking to Heaven and a type of sign that My Father allowed. Did you see it?"

Me: "Yes. It was horrible."

Jesus: "The symbolism of that race is a clue of My return; My nearness to coming. When did the earthquakes in Old Babylon occur?"

Me: "Is old Babylon 'Iran'? If it is, then one week before the bombing?"

Jesus: "Yes, I am referring to modern day Iran. This was retaliatory."

Me: "So, You could've stopped it?"

Jesus: "Please understand that God is in control of the events ultimately, not the fallen and not man; God. You must see your nearness and recognize this. There is a war right now."

Just then, I saw the battle at the dome. The mass firestorm was coming; the demons, the dragons, the strange animals and the smell of death. It was coming quickly. I remembered all of it and the horror of it.

Me: "But how long is the battle before You come? I must have seen the battle coming before, but, from what You are saying, this is now; if so, then how long?"

Jesus: "Erin, where are you right now?"

Me: "On your beautiful deck in Heaven."

Jesus: "Correct. Now what do you see?"

Me: "Preparations."

Jesus: "Before, when you saw the dome, perhaps that was a shadow of now. So now you are seeing real time."

Me: "So all of this in Heaven and Earth is real time?"

Jesus: "Look at Me while you wait. You are instructed in the Word to keep your attention on Me, not idols or even time. You spoke of the minefield. What is the minefield?"

Me: "Well, it can just look like a barren field or a meadow, but, where ever your feet step, there can be explosives underneath the ground. Footsteps can trigger explosives."

Jesus: "The enemy's course for a Christian's life is like this: Because of your marks at birth, which show him that you are a member of My flock, the enemy begins his strategy for your demise. The opposite of the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven are at work against you with the goals that you will produce so many bad fruits that you would never think yourself worthy to come to Me.

"Remember, all of them originated from Heaven. They are keenly aware of Heavenly organization. See, God has a plan for your life. The enemy, therefore, has a plan too. You are the battlefield in our war and your heart is the prize.

"The enemy wants you so wrapped up in the things of this world that your heart would not be focused on Me and eternal treasures. If the enemy can draw your attention to earthly things, the things you see with your eyes here, then he has a victory because what you see seems very real, correct?"

Me: "Yes. It is easier to believe what I see versus trusting in what I cannot see."

Jesus: "Yes. This is the lure, or candy, for the eyes. Erin, if you saw in the spirit realm the course and strategies of the enemy and the layout of the minefield in advance, then you could avoid it."

Me: "Yes. I would know where to step to avoid the enemy's schemes."

Jesus: "But, also, you would see much more and it would not be beneficial. If you desire, I can show you or, if you trust Me, then set your eyes on Me and lovely things, thus bringing your attention away from the enemy. The veil is over your eyes so you may live.

"Erin, you are recognizing the enemy's strategies. While you are looking for Me, he has laid out the minefield. This portion of your walk is tricky. Keep your focus on Me and the things of Heaven and I will show you where your feet should step. The difference with this, even if you should step on a mine, is that you run to Me. I will take care of you and nurture you back. Would you like to see into the spirit realm still?"

Me: "No, Lord, I have seen enough with these visions and dreams to know the enemy roars. I have seen them and it is frightening. I have seen the firestorm and I am afraid for anyone left here. I even know when they are pursuing me. I can feel it."

Jesus: "There will be a time soon when it will seem that I am not there for you, but just know that I am. It could be discouraging, but do not lose hope."

Me: "Lord, now You seem to be talking long term."

Jesus: "Erin, you must live your life every day. Remember the Parable of the Ten Virgins. Do not stop doing what is good. Keep your focus on Me. Do not let your oil run out. The Groom seems to take a long time to come, but He does come."

The Parable of Ten Virgins:

"Then the kingdom of heaven will be comparable to ten virgins, who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. Five of them were foolish, and five were prudent. For when the foolish took their lamps, they took no oil with them, but the prudent took oil in flasks along with their lamps. Now while the bridegroom was delaying, they all got drowsy and began to sleep. But at midnight there was a shout, 'Behold, the bridegroom! Come out to meet him.' Then all those virgins rose and trimmed their lamps. The foolish said to the prudent, 'Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.' But the prudent answered, 'No, there will not be enough for us and you too; go instead to the dealers and buy some for yourselves.' And while they were going away to make the purchase, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding feast; and the door was shut. Later the other virgins also came, saying, 'Lord, lord, open up for us.' But he answered, 'Truly I say to you, I do not know you.' Be on the alert then, for you do not know the day nor the hour."

Jesus: "The enemy would have you delayed, beat up and discouraged. What happens when you are tired?"

Me: "I sleep or, if I stay awake, it takes me a long time to focus."

Jesus: "Do you compromise because of exhaustion?"

Me: "Yes. I often give in to other's demands when I am tired."

Jesus: "The enemy would enjoy your exhaustion. Maybe he would try to trick you to give up some of your oil while waiting."

Me: "I never thought of it this way."

Jesus: "Soon there will be a separation. Finish this race ready for service. Finish strong because you have earned this. You have not been lured by the things of this world that feed the flesh. You have stored treasures in Heaven that will not be destroyed and their luster will not fade. Now, the enemy has prepared the minefield as the final tool against all of you. Keep your attention fixed here."

He had me look in His eyes and then toward the massive Throne.

Jesus: "You are looking at the Promised Land. Even though the world would have you focused on what you were not given there, unlike here, you will partake in the Promised Land. Great men and women never saw their Promised Land. Some viewed it from a distance, but were not allowed to enter in.

"Here, your Promised Land waits. Your Treasure is here. There is no death and you will have fullness. The enemy is angry. You will have what he wants. I am jealous for you because your heart is Mine. My jealousy is that I want all of your heart. The enemy is jealous of Me and My place here.

"The enemy hates your heart so, if he can destroy it, then this is a spear in My side. He is not a lover of hearts, but a collector of souls. The minefield is his path; beautiful, but deadly. The path to Me is not attractive, right?"

"Do you remember when you saw it before; the briars, thorns and darkness? This is a way too obvious course for the enemy. If this was his course, then everyone would avoid this, right? You, by faith, have taken the less traveled path. Now, what did you find there?"

Me: "Under the gray ash, a beautiful large diamond."

Jesus: "Right. How is a diamond cut?"

Me: "Only another diamond can facet a diamond."

Jesus: "Yes, this is correct. Iron also sharpens iron. The two are in harmony. We will speak about facets and chords again, but you are seeing that the difficult and narrow path leads to life and very few find it. These people that do not find the right path are stuck in the minefield. Also, what is the only lure in the minefield?"

Me: "The course looks harmless. It is a beautiful meadow; attractive, but really deadly."

Jesus: "What will burn faster; the minefield or the diamond?"

Me: "The diamond will last through the fire and will not be touched."

Jesus: "Very good. Now, let us go back to the offer of your gift. Would you like to reconsider this offer?"

Me: "Lord, I gave this back to You already. I have no offering to give You, so I am giving You back this generous gift. Remember, the time I spend with You is priceless.

"You could give me money, which is helpful, but quickly gone and can be a distraction. You could give me better health, but I would be out of the house more and there would be less time spent with You. You could give us a house, which would be a blessing to me and my children, but there is no time. You are coming soon.

"You could grant me recognition in my field, but this comes with an increase in work load and less time with You. You could deliver my sons from Aspergers, but then they will lose that child-like faith. You could bring me a Husband, but then my attention would be to please him and my duties to You would be divided.

"All that You could give me would be amazing because my flesh longs for earthly blessings. There is nothing I need, so I offer up Your generous gift and the rest of everything that I have right back to You; all of it."

Jesus: "Erin, are you asking Me for wisdom too?"

Me: "Yes. Godly wisdom to have discernment in the minefield that the enemy has laid out for my life, but not earthly wisdom like scholars. I don't want to end up like Solomon." He began to chuckle. "You could grant me a steadfast heart of love to love as You do and to see with eyes as You do?"

Jesus: "This is a good gift to ask for. I am pleased."

Me: "I think, after seeing our Home in Heaven, I would rather save up and invest in that property with a view and great value than the property here that will be burned up very soon. Lord, please cover my children and make sure none are lost."

"Lord, if anyone be in my care whom I have not witnessed to or that You could use me to save, could You show me? After what I have seen coming here on Earth, I never want anyone to go through this. Will there be way I can help? Could this be the gift?"

Jesus: "Erin, you are asking for a very good gift, but one that might not make an impact until later. You are a seed planter right now. You will need to leave the harvest to others, yet you will be instrumental. Then there will be a time when you will be of special service; you and many others."

He waves to my guardian angel and gives my hand to him.

Jesus: "Erin, keep the oil burning in your lamp. Take an extra flask. Live while you watch. Prepare your fields for rain. Do all of this in worship to Me and have faith knowing I will not delay."

He stood up and hugged me while I had begun to walk back with my Guardian angel. I curtsied and put my right hand over my heart. He laughed, bowed and pounded His chest over His heart three times. We both smiled and beamed.

He then turned to look at the beautiful scene of the Throne and the Gardens. I saw a man come up to Him on His left. He looked familiar. They both turned to look at me and seemed to be discussing me. I wondered if this were a distant relative?

My guardian angel drew my attention to him.

Guardian: "Erin, He is showing the minefield of the enemy right now. You are protected, but remember your steps. He instructed you to live and prepare your fields for rain. He instructed you to have wisdom, but oil. The oil of joy must be in your lamp."

"Do not fall for the traps of this world. It will seem like a delay is occurring, then, without warning, events will unfold. Be diligent. You and your friends will be together. Pray for each other in sincerity, lifting each other up. There are things that must occur first."

"The enemy will send signs also, but mostly to mock God. The signs in Heaven are real. The signs in Israel are a gauge. Earthquakes are signs. There are manmade events controlled by the enemy, but God's events are controlled by God. This is a battlefield.

"Do not be deceived by things you see visibly. God is in the wind, yet you know it is Him even though you cannot see Him. Do not worry. Again, look to Israel. Go to Isaiah, same as before. Who is old Babylon and who is new Babylon? These are signs.

"Go to Esther again and Ruth once more. Who is your Kinsman Redeemer? Now, Matthew comes alive as there is manna for now. Daniel is a mystery, but time has come. Revelation will have life. Be encouraged. Your Home is here. Take heart. You are loved by the King."

Dream over...

He is coming soon. I am not a prophet, but these are prophetic in nature. Please use discernment and the power of the Holy Spirit as your counselor. Use the Scriptures also to illuminate what the Lord is saying.

Love and Blessings...Erin

Dream 060 – The Ladder

Received Sunday, April 28, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 10)

Dear Heavenly Father,

You are my greatest gift, my love and my joy. You are my portion forever and my greatest peace. There is no one like You. You care for me and take time with me. You have warmed my heart and taken me on a special journey; a priceless journey.

Lord, let me never forget what You have done. Let me never forget the full course of my journey and the love You have shown me. You are the joy of my heart and the love of my life.

I know I am rebellious. I know that I am not perfect. I know that You have seen all of my faults, yet You love me anyway. You have given me a heart to love deeply and, only through You, is my covering of peace, love and joy.

You have set my sights on eternal things. You removed my vain ambitions and you have created in me a new spirit and a clean heart. I long for You, Lord. I long for the City of Gold. I give my heart to You. Only You can fill the empty vessel of my heart.

If it is possible, I long for Your Courts and even faint for them. As I recognize my iniquities and know that I cannot cover my own shame, if I be just a footstool in Heaven, I would gladly be this and serve You there at Your feet. I would much rather be here than amongst the living dead; those that do not know You.

I love You, Lord, and I will continue on this quest until the day You bring us home or You sever my silver chord. Lord, I would welcome the time I could serve You, bearing witness to the abundant harvest of souls about to take place.

In the meantime, while I wait, Your rod and staff comfort me. Your chastisement proves your love and I am forever grateful for this discipline. May I always be of worth and worthy of Your gentle instructions. I love You.

“Erin, come forth.”

I am in a wheat field. I recognize this place. The soft breeze blows across the top of the wheat, creating a wave of golden light on the sheaves. It is very quiet, but the wheat sings as the gentle breeze blows.

The sky had a purplish blue cast to the clouds. It was extremely dramatic. The light was coming from everywhere. The colors were magnificent. I had just stepped into the real life photo of a friend that used complex filters in their photographs.

Off in the distance, I saw the ladder from the beginning of my journey. It was a long ways off, but I did not mind. It was beautiful where I was and the wheat was glistening. The whispers of the songs of the wheat were incredible.

I was about 25 years old and in top shape. At this age, I loved sprinting, especially after my daily five mile run. I saw the ladder and I heard the Holy Spirit.

Holy Spirit: "Erin, go ahead run for it. It is time."

The Voice coursed through my veins. He was part of me, yet around me also.

I stopped and looked down at my path to the ladder. I was about a quarter mile; a perfect final lap. The wind picked up a bit and it was behind me. The Lord was showing His favor. I heard a Shofar in the distance. I heard, "Run!" Now it was 'game on'.

I had two ridges to the ladder. I ran, but held back a bit until I knew I could finish strong; one ridge down. I was surprised how my lungs had such capacity. It was better than when I was 25.

I was almost to the ladder when I heard another Shofar. I knew I had to run as fast as I could. The ladder looked like it was disappearing. Now I was running faster than I ever had in my life. The ladder began to lift. I was ten feet away and I dove for it.

My hands flew forward as I stretched them out. I closed my eyes and prayed. I caught it. The ladder began to pull up. It was long. As the ladder raised, I heard another Shofar, but did not see the source. I looked up and saw the Open Heaven. It was far away, but I clung to the ladder as it pulled me up.

I looked out over the vast wheat field and I began to cry. It was the most beautiful scene and incredibly breathtaking. I was not on Earth, but I was in another dimension; a place of the Lord's personal instruction.

The detail that the Lord goes through to instruct is incredible really. He is so incredible. I looked up and Heaven seemed a ways off. I decided to climb since I had caught my breath from my epic sprint and ladder dive. I climbed and arrived in record time.

I came through the Portal, but I was inside the Tevah, which was like a large moving craft, though hard to really compare to anything on Earth. There were people all around me. Everyone was excited. I saw the docking station to our right in the distance. All eyes were mesmerized by the scene before us.

In the distance was the beautiful Golden City. I heard cheers and people were crying. I heard over and over, "Praise You, Jesus, praise You." There were all kinds of languages being spoken and not a dry eye. Even typing this brings tears and I can barely type. Even small infants were calling out to Jesus.

Off, in the distance, was a beautiful lake with fountains of living water. I saw flamingos, swans and some other bird that looked like a peacock, only floating on the water. The river feeding the lake was the River of Life. I saw the trees before us with the incredible fruit.

As the Tevah pulled into the dock, the doors opened and the Shofar sounded. This was a great announcement of the arrival of just one of the Tevahs. The choirs of angels were singing. There was the smell of roses, jasmine and fresh rain.

When the doors opened, everyone ran. Some people ran to the saints and some directly to the river. I saw my friends. I stood there circling in 360 degrees. I saw another Tevah behind this one and then another, as far as my eyes could see. All were coming.

Tears just flowed. People that never cried before on Earth were crying and kissing the ground. Behind me was a Russian man and his family. They were kissing the ground, thanking Jesus in their native tongue. One of the children was fascinated because the grass was reacting to his hands.

The grass is alive in Heaven; yes, really alive. I was laughing at the priceless wonder of this little child. Just as I stood there, with tears streaming, I felt a shawl go over my head. I turned and there was my guardian angel and a winged cherub from the Throne. I was glad to see them.

When the shawl dropped over my head, my white robe turned to a beautiful gown; chiffon silk with a shimmer of gold. Raiment came to mind. This must be what raiment is. There was a woven gold ribbon or rope that enhanced my shape. It was completely formed and tailored to me.

I looked down and I had those beautiful sandals on my feet that had ribbons woven around my ankles. There were small pearls on both the sandals and gown. The front bodice was encrusted with diamonds. On my upper arm was a cuff of gold that had twelve precious stones in them, but the beryl was the largest one.

Each of my hands had the golden ribbon over them and it laced up my bare arms. On the top of each wrist was a beautiful beryl or like an emerald. My hair was longer than it is now; thick and beautiful. It was in a very large braid. It came forward on my chest and I saw that it was woven in gold ribbons, diamonds and pearls. This outfit took my breath away.

The angels quickly took me to the eastern upper Gate. The large angel greeted us and the cherub flew us through the City past the mansions. There I was set down on the balcony of the Bridal Chamber. I was so glad to be here. I walked to the balcony and looked over the scene.

I was just in awe. The gardens took my breath away. The Throne was huge and the area around it was grand. The Throne is visible from all points in the City. The light of our Lord God permeates and magnifies the pure gold of the city. Each residence is illuminated from Him and by His radiance. It is very hard to describe, but completely awesome.

I felt a gentle breeze and a whisper in my ear. Jesus called my name. I looked for Him, but He was not here. I looked everywhere. I was just talking to Him a few days before?

Angel: "Erin, you have been consecrated. Soon you will take part in the wedding ceremony, but now you are being prepared for service."

Me: "I don't understand. I am in a wedding gown."

The angels looked at each other.

Guardian: "Erin, this is not your bridal gown, but the gown of royalty. You have been invited into the King's Chambers. You have found His favor. Erin, did you study Esther? Look at the sequence."

I immediately felt bad that I had not studied it. They obviously knew this.

Me: "Forgive me; I did not study."

Guardian: "Yes, we know. The Lord will come to you in gentle whispers today. We will return."

They abruptly disappeared. I was alone for some time. I kept thinking I heard His whispers then I didn't. Finally, after some time and quite a wait, He whispered in a gentle breeze.

Jesus: "Erin, I'm here."

Me: "Why are You in the breeze and not here?"

Jesus: "I am unable to be there right now."

Me: "Okay. I will take your whispers."

Jesus: "Are you ready to come Home soon?"

Me: "Yes. I can hardly stand it. Every day I am more and more ready to come Home."

Jesus: "Yes. I know. Be patient. Just a little longer. Did you enjoy the wheat field and your sprint today?"

Me: I laughed. "Yes, that was fun. It was beautiful there. It reminded me of the beginning just seven months ago, except now I am diving for the ladder."

Jesus: "You have come a long way on your journey. Very few choose to continue."

Me: "Why? Here is my Home. The Earth down below is fading fast. Here, everything is vivid and has life. Down there, everything is dull, phony and dying."

Jesus: "Yes, and each day becoming more so."

Me: "Lord, why the ladder and wheat today?"

Jesus: "Oh, a lesson in Israel. There is something occurring right now that has significance. Do you know what that is?"

Me: "No. I know only that we are approaching Pentecost."

Jesus: "Yes. This is correct. Can you breakdown 'pente'?"

Me: "Well, if there is a deeper meaning, I do not know this. I just know that it is a term for 50, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, 50 days. Where are we today in Israel?"

Me: "Today would be the 33rd day?"

Jesus: "Yes, good catch. It is the time of Omer. Do you know what this is?"

Me: "No, I have not a clue. Never heard of this."

Jesus: "Erin, did you see the wheat and how it formed a wave over the crop in the wind? The Omer is the sheaf of wheat. This is the time of counting."

Me: "Lord, You mean like a census? Are you counting the wheat in the harvest? But most in Israel are not looking for You."

Jesus: "Yes, but this was before I had come. This was a tradition before my arrival on Earth. A sheaf of barley was taken as an offering to the Temple. From the time of the wave offering to the time of the festival in the evening is 50 days. Erin, do you remember what 50 also represent?"

Me: "Yes, my year of Jubilee. You are setting me free."

Jesus: "Yes, 50. The year of Jubilee starts with the Shofar sounding, the slaves go free and debts are cancelled. This is the '7 weeks of counting'. Seven weeks of seven days. Jubilee is the time of freedom."

Me: "This is my year of release. You are coming to set us free. Is this the year?" He did not answer me.

Jesus: "During this time in Israel, it is a time of joy and expectancy. You are doing the same here. In Jewish tradition, the Israelites were told that, when they fled from Egypt, the Torah would come to them in 7 weeks. They longed for written instructions from God. Each day, they waited with excitement."

Me: "I am doing the same."

Jesus: "In Israel, the 7 weeks lines up closely with the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven. Each week has a representation and is highly significant, yet very few put this together. This is somewhat out of order from Heavenly perspective, but nevertheless, is based from this."

Weeks:

1. Loving and Giving
2. Justice and Discipline
3. Harmony and compassion
4. Endurance and Perseverance
5. Humility and Splendor
6. Bonding to God
7. Nobility and Leadership

"Today is a day that the weddings and celebrations can begin again."

Me: "I did not realize that weddings had stopped. So 33 is significant?"

Jesus: "Yes, in Jewish culture."

Me: "So, when you say that You will come on a day like the days of Noah, people were marrying and being given in marriage until it was time for Noah to enter the Tevah. Lord, this sounds like a sign for now straight from Your mouth in Matthew 24."

Jesus: "Erin, yes, this is a sign as it is in the Word. Read the Word, not in part, but in whole. 33 can also be a time for the false messiah. This day represents burning in Israel. This is a type of fire festival, but not for refining and not recognized by God."

Me: "Lord, I don't know about this. I am trusting what You are saying and I believe You."

Jesus: "Soon the 7 days of 7 weeks will be finished and then comes the 50th day; an excellent day! In the days of Moses, the Israelites were freed from immorality and their burdens. This was a time of great celebration. Upon my return to Heaven, the disciples were given a special gift from Me on the 50th day. A new wind had come. A new spirit was upon them from Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I so want You to come for us now."

Jesus: "Soon, Erin, very soon. I am glad you are here. You look beautiful, just as in Psalm 45 and you have beautiful feet."

I was shy and blushing.

Me: "You make me beautiful, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, you ran an excellent race."

Me: "Oh, the ladder was far away..." He stopped me.

Jesus: "No, Erin, your life; your life has been a good race."

Me: "It has been rocky."

Jesus: "You finished strong; very strong."

I was in tears. Just typing these words make me cry.

Me: "I didn't feel like I had run a good race in life."

Jesus: "There will be no more sad tears in Heaven. I am coming for you soon."

Me: "Lord, this year?"

No answer...

My guardian angel walked up to me.

Guardian: "Erin, do not worry about when He will come, but know He will do as He promised. You are nearing the finish line. He has explained some things to you that can be found in Scriptures.

"The weeks, the sickle and the grain is in Deuteronomy 16:9. The offering can be found in Leviticus 23:15. You were shown this before. In Leviticus 25, you will see Jubilee. The counting of weeks is a shadow from the Seven-fold Spirits of Heaven. There is a pattern here, but the order by the Israelites is not in the same order as Heaven.

"In Exodus 34, there is more, but most relevant to you is in Acts 2; significant to the point of counting of the offering of wheat on the second day of Passover. Remember your place the last time at the foot of the Cross? What poured over you? What rained?"

Me: "Blood and water."

Guardian: "Yes, but in John 3:5 is a message; both the same. You were called for a time such as this; a very good time for you to be called. Remember your place. Look where you are now. Do not be discouraged. Do not lose heart. You are loved by the King. He gave you your Scripture, Psalm 45; rejoice in this. Rejoice also and study Esther. There is a message here and the time is now."

Vision over...

I prayed and worshiped for some time, thanking the Lord, Jesus, for my race. I am praying that He comes soon. For the first time, I ended a dream starting from the beginning. Did I run a good race? I still don't feel like I have, but only He knows. Only Jesus knows our race. He has laid out our course.

Please note this is a vision. Please use discernment when reading these. Scripture is the lamp to your feet and the Holy Spirit your light to the path. Pray for illumination via the Holy Spirit. I am no prophet, but these are prophetic in nature.

Much love and many Blessings...Erin, aka Sparrowcloud9

Dream 061 – Jesus is Coming for His Bride

Received Sunday, May 5, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 11)

Dear Heavenly Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for loving us. Keep us pure, holy and ready for You. Let us not fall asleep or be taken off guard. Lord. I believe the confusion of the dates over time and the questions about exactly which day is completely orchestrated by Your Divine Plan. This way, we can only recognize a block or a season, but none of us know for certain the exact day.

We believe though. Please show me what to do to make sure my house is ready. I need Your help. I thank You now for Your divine protection over my life. After all of these years of hammering, I have a small time frame of divine rest from the enemy. This is all praises and thanks to You, Father.

You still remember that I have not run a perfect race, but a good one. As a spectator, someone would actually be on the edge of their seat watching my life. I could imagine, from the observation deck in Heaven, some of my distant relatives would be placing heavenly wagers on me.

I already know in advance from Your Words that people I would never imagine have petitioned on my behalf in Your Heavenly Courts. Lord, I am not sure if they were granted their petitions, but I can clearly say thank You for Your Will over my life.

I had a wonderful trip to Oregon on Friday. You supernaturally transported me there and back in record time. I shaved almost three hours off of my trip, all with receipts to back up Your supernatural work. I am not sure how you performed this incredible miracle, but thank You.

Lord, Your miracles never cease. Your love for me never fails. I know the enemy would like me destroyed. I thank You for the gift of the Holy Spirit because greater is He who is in me than he who is in the world. I dedicate my day to You, Father, with thanksgiving. Amen.

My dream...

I was at an event at my kid's school. It was a beautiful sunny day. It was either a carnival or large barbecue, but I was not sure. We were in an open field. There was not a cloud in the sky and it was a beautiful deep blue.

Person: "Oh my God, look!"

We all looked up at the sky and, over our heads, were at least a hundred planes of different types. I saw mostly fighter jets with stars on them. I saw an older version of stealth and some very large craft that was state of the art, but like a cargo plane. Everyone stopped what they were doing and we all stood there looking into the sky.

Person: "Oh no, this means we are at war!"

Everyone realized that this is exactly what we were all seeing. People were gathering up their children quickly and abandoning their spots to run for their cars. I gathered up my kids. It went from a calm event to a frightening ordeal in mere seconds.

Traffic was extreme everywhere as we obviously were not the only ones trying to get home. There was a type of checkpoint at the main road as police were directing traffic according to the areas in which we lived. When I drove up to him and told him we lived near Hanford, he told me to get into the right lane and, at the light, wait for instructions.

I tried to calm my kids because, of course, they were worried. I heard people yelling from their cars and the front porches of their homes.

Person: "The war has begun! The war has begun!"

I tried to tune into the radio stations, but I got no signal. As we approached the light, there were officers approaching our car. When they got to ours, they told us that we will have only fifteen minutes once we arrive at our home to retrieve essentials and then our area will be under government lockdown, restricted and no longer accessible to us again.

My kids were panicked of course. All of the cars were guided to our development on the edge of the Area. I reviewed with the kids where certain things were and gave each of them an assignment to select a few keepsakes and toys. Then they were help me with the essentials.

We pulled up in our driveway. It was around 5:00pm in the evening. All of a sudden, it turned into something similar to my other dream of an attack on the area. My neighbor was loading his SUV with an arsenal of weapons. I yelled over to him.

Me: "Do you have any extra?"

Neighbor: "If I give any to you, they will confiscate them. Trust me, you do not want to be caught with anything."

He was high up in security for the Area, so I trusted what he was telling me and knew that this was wisdom. I had supplies in the car and we were down to ten minutes. Military jeeps were driving up the road looking for Area employees.

They were calling all personnel into the Area. I had to prove to them I was not an Area employee. I wasted precious minutes digging out pay stubs and a copy of my business card to show them I did not work at the Area.

Military man: "Ma'am, you are clear."

We got our dogs in the car. I loaded my computer, Bible and a current journal. I went to grab my large computer since I would no longer see it again. As I went to grab it, for just a split second, I thought about the fact that my life's work, my entire portfolio was on that computer. I began to go back after it because all of my dreams were also on there, but then I heard the Holy Spirit, "Leave it, Erin."

My poor son was so panicked about not having certain things, he kept going back in the house. The sirens came. I told them to run. I went back to get my son because he ignored me. I realized in this dream that my oldest son was not there.

We got in the car. Since the last dream, thank goodness, I have kept my gas tank full just in case. My kids were crying and so were the dogs. We saw horrible fighting and panic in driveways as the military were taking Husbands, Wives and parents away to the Area.

The military was guiding everyone quickly out of the development. Again, we were not allowed to go left to the shortcut north, but only right. Traffic was literally 'inching' along and I was worried about us being so close to these reactors.

I turned quickly off of the road into the Business Park where my work was. I ran in to use the phone to get ahold of the kid's dad and talk to my son. The lines were dead. No cell service, no land lines and no radio frequency. How is this even possible?

I quickly ran to gather up water jugs, batteries and a couple of flares that I found. I also grabbed ropes, bungees and two flashlights. I walked out to my car and my children were wailing and afraid.

I looked out at the main road and I saw that traffic had barely moved. I knew that we would not have a chance of escaping if the Area had been hit.

So I dropped everything and went to the car to be with my kids. I told them we needed to pray. I looked up to Heaven and this was my prayer:

"Dear Heavenly Father, there is nothing we can do here. As it looks now, You are about to receive our Spirits Home to You. Lord, should this be Your Will, then please do this quickly so that we can all go together and have no pain. Grant all of us supernatural peace so we are able to go to You in complete divine surrender. Lord, if this is not our time, then we need a miracle."

I then looked up to Heaven.

"I have nothing to offer You, Father, but our hearts. We are afraid. We need your supernatural outpouring now. We ask this in Jesus' Name as there is nothing we can do with no possible way to get us out of here except by a divine miracle."

As we all looked up, just then, we saw what looked like a dove turn into an eagle and, within a twinkling of an eye, we were on a far off mountain range. We were in shock and even the dogs were confused and disoriented.

We didn't hear sirens, but we could see everything from a very safe distance. On a far off range, I saw military, not ours, setting up attacks. I knew my son was there somewhere and I was worried. We were crying. I asked again, out loud, that the Lord would send angels to protect him.

I felt an overwhelming peace that my request was answered. We were transported fully, along with the car and even the supplies that were outside of the car. We stayed there for hours. We prayed and cried for friends.

We interceded specifically for others as we could actually see, somehow, in the Spirit, in various places, where they were. This way we knew how to pray. Even my children saw the same things that I did. We were safe.

Dream over...

I wake up. I go to my knees in prayer and take communion.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Immediately, I am up through the Portal. I am again about 25 years old. I see Jesus on the rock. I am crying from the trauma of this very real dream. I run to Him. I drop to my knees in front of Him and bow with my face down at His feet. My tears fall on His feet and sandals.

Me: "Lord, what is coming? All seems fine right now. What about my son? Please, Lord, show me what I can do. We have no time."

Jesus: "Erin."

He stands up, takes a hold of my hand and hugs me. He does not release me, but holds me until He feels me release everything to Him. It took some time as I was still very much in shock.

Jesus: "Erin, you are okay. You are here now with Me. It will be okay. Time has accelerated and you are here."

Me: "What does this mean, Lord? Am I already Home? I don't understand."

Jesus: "You are here with Me now and removed from that place."

Me: "I don't understand. I am awake writing."

Jesus: "You don't understand? Erin do not worry. You reside in Heavenly places."

Me: "But my children..."

Then through a type of window, I see the Tevah and the loading dock. There I see my two children getting off onto the platform. I get up and go toward the window to take a closer look.

Me: "But my son, Father..."

Jesus: "Erin, look."

Just then, I see another Tevah come up to the docking station and, there, I saw him stepping off onto the platform and meeting my other two children and some other relatives near the Tree of Life. I was in tears. I ran to Jesus. I fell to my knees and I put the side of my face on His feet. I was openly weeping.

Me: "Oh, thank You, Lord, thank You. I thought he was not coming until later. Thank You."

Jesus: "Erin, it is because of the dream you had. You saw what could be, but you petitioned and you sought Me. You went to your son with what you saw. When trouble happened, he remembered what you said and made certain he was boarding to Heaven. What you said to him mattered."

Me: "I thought that we could do nothing more than wait. I thought the ark had all but closed and no one else could enter?"

Jesus: "Oh, I guess I didn't get that memo." He smiled. "Erin, what was said to you? There is nothing more for you to do except use the beautiful feet you have been given to spread good news. Those that come to listen at this point were called from the beginning. The rest are not your concern. Remember, the Bride will just wait, pray, look, keep the oil and be wise. Be wise, Erin, not foolish."

Me: "So, my friend is the bluebird. She is showing us the wedding. Should sparrows converse with the bluebird?" He was laughing.

Jesus: "What do you think? Is the Bluebird not as excited as the sparrow? Is the bluebird not also loved and fed by the King? I would take notice when the bluebird has a note that sings to the sparrow. This is more than 'two birds flocking together' is it not? I think you were told to watch Israel for signs; your gauge. Why would I do this?"

Me: "Because they are God's chosen people."

Jesus: "Yes, but even they have only half of the picture. Erin, Heaven is highly precise. Everything here is significant. When the foundations were laid on Earth, it was a small shadow of the Heavenly structure.

"Moses understood this. He walked closely with God. So did Abraham. Both set out rules on behalf of Heaven. Both were Kinsman Redeemers. Now you know about Enoch and Elijah. You know about Me. Do you know about how everything works together? It is all very precise.

"Now, the author of confusion originated and was created here, of course, so he knows just how to confuse patterns, dates, signs, symbols and, especially, truth in Scripture. He takes that which is holy and makes it unholy. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "So, let us look at what our friend, the bluebird, found together with the sparrow. Do you see the two of you in sync with this?"

Me: "Yes. We are both pointing to the same range of time. It makes complete sense but, Lord, is it this year?"

Jesus: "Erin, what if it weren't? Would you still watch and continue to look for Me; your Groom?"

Me: "Yes, Jesus, until the end of my days I would watch for You."

Jesus: "Do you think the Groom would be so patient as to not want to come to His Bride quickly to consummate the marriage? Erin, you were in the Bridal Chamber and so beautiful. You were expecting your Groom and so glad to be there. Do you not know the Groom longs for the same?"

Me: "I guess You know more and You are our Savior, so You know better as to what timing is best."

Jesus: "Erin, Who is My Father? He knows best. He is the author of creation and of all truth. I am truth because I am a product of My Father. My Father is the producer and creator of the wedding. He is the event planner. He is paying for the whole thing. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes. I guess we just show up to the greatest event in the universe."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, you are correct. So, if Israel is a gauge for timing, is it not also the gauge for traditions and possible patterns? Where do all the patterns originate from in the beginning? Now, what of the betrothal, engagement, processional, wedding, banquet and celebration? What of the consecration, consummation and communion?"

Me: "I don't understand, but I know I had better study wedding traditions in Israel. Should I study modern Jewish wedding traditions or ancient ones?"

Jesus: "Erin, who would be the author of modern Jewish weddings? I would look to history first, perhaps closest to My days on Earth as a better gauge for tradition. The enemy likes to insert new traditions to confuse, all under the guise of making things better to distract from signs."

Me: "Okay, so I will study the bride and groom in Your time on Earth in Jewish traditions."

Jesus: "Erin, this is good. There are patterns here. I have another thing to share. When a couple finally spends seven days alone, consummating their marriage, is this not also a beautiful rapture and union of souls?"

Me: "The best, I would think. After all of the long anticipation, seven days alone, after a year of waiting, would be Heavenly."

Jesus: Laughing. "So, now you are beginning to see patterns. Now Song of Solomon will come alive for you like never before. The great Bible mystery is now a divine romance. It is hidden in plain sight. To the wise, this is divinely uncovered."

Me: "Lord, aren't we taken up to Heaven by the Groom before consummation?"

Jesus: "Erin, you have homework. Look to Song of Solomon also. There are also other birds to converse with in the Bible that hold keys. Did you not see an eagle and a dove also? Remember, not even the Groom knows the exact time that His Father will say, 'Go and get Your Bride!' The Groom also knows the season and waits for the call, the trumpet and the Father's blessing, so please keep watching."

Me: "Did the Bride watch all night?"

Jesus: "Erin, the Bride did get rest, but always looked and anticipated her Groom. Often times, the Groom came at an hour you think not; the watches of the night."

Me: "Best to be ready always. Lord, I am not sleeping as well. I don't want to miss one moment. I don't want to miss the trumpet."

Jesus: "Erin, everyone knew when the Groom came for the Bride. There was noise. The Bride had time to jump up and grab her lamp and oil. The foolish Bride was unprepared and the Groom did not recognize her because she was not dressed with her lamp and oil. The Groom saw her not."

Me: "I still am afraid that I will miss You."

Jesus: "So, understand, I love you. You are the Bride. You run after Me and know I am Your love, the Groom. How could I not recognize those who love Me and those that I love in return?"

"How could I miss the Bride that runs to Me full speed? How could I miss the Bride who prays to Me, speaks of Me, thinks about Me with every breath, is thankful for Me and longs to be in My presence daily? Is this not you, Erin?"

Me: "Oh yes, it is, but what if I am not worthy?"

Jesus: "Erin, if you need to ask and you are worried, then you, by your own admission, are running after Me. Are you then not a Bride who wonders if she will please her Groom? Is your heart not set on Me? Do you watch for Me every day? Do you ask Me every night before bed, 'Lord, do not forget the one who loves You so much.'"

Me: "This is me. I always ask this. You heard me."

Jesus: Laughing. "Of course, I hear you, of course. I look through the Heavenly window for the lights. Remember the lights, Erin?"

Me: "Yes, You showed me the lights from the very beginning of the dreams."

Jesus: "Erin, these are the lanterns of the Bride. These are the lights I watch for and see. I see them and I know where to find them. Not one will be lost, I promise you."

Me: Crying. "Good, because, if that nuclear plant blows, You won't see me in the dark cloud."

Jesus: "How could I miss you even in the darkest cloud, the darkest night or the time of no hope? It is not possible. Nothing is impossible with Me. Do you understand this? Now, take comfort, My Bride, I will come soon."

Vision over...

I had a great cry and worship session after this. God is amazing. Jesus is Incredible. I am ready to go Home today, tonight or whenever He is released to come for us.

Love and many blessings...Erin, aka Sparrowcloud9

Dream 062 – June 7th Newscast of Millions Missing

Received Sunday, May 12, 2013

(This dream was not classified as a former dream)

As many of you know, in all of my dreams and visions, I have never been given a specific date other than when I was given December 23rd, 2012.

While I know December 23rd, 2012 was somehow significant, I am still not certain about what the future ramifications are of that date or what exactly occurred in the spiritual realm that made this such a remarkable date. However, the Lord has assured me that it was and somehow is.

As just one of many possible examples, a backroom deal with the ten in the city with the tower, along with some spiritual changes, may have occurred on that date. When this date was given, all the Lord said was that it had significance, but He never said how it was going to be significant, so we will just have to trust God on this one.

If you have a hard time accepting this, then I simply suggest that these dreams and visions may not be for you. If asked, I will not even attempt to make any excuses for why something 'obvious' didn't happen on this date. Yes, I have my theories, but they remain unconfirmed theories until the only Source that can confirm exactly what happened confirms it (other than this date was 'significant' to God).

As many of you also know, I have avoided any type of date setting at all, even though my flesh is so ready to go Home. Seriously, after being in Heavenly places recently, I long for it and my Spirit is making the separation. I can feel it on so many levels. I have been scared about dates because I do not believe that such dates would always be the Lord's Will for us to adjust our lives accordingly. So I went to Jesus with this.

Jesus: "Erin, you will know more and more clearly as every single sign, pattern and prophecy on Heaven and Earth will come together as a huge orchestrated piece. There will be no mistaking it. You will come to watch even the hour and the minute of My coming for you."

I believe Jesus when He tells us this. How could this not be? Will we know exactly when? No, I don't believe so, but all of the signs are no longer as cryptic as even six months ago. History is unfolding right before us. The moon and the stars even cry out for His soon return. Therefore, does it not make sense for an expecting Bride to keep watch for her Groom?

I had a dream last week on May 12, 2013. It was really shocking and I have had quite a few shocking dreams. However, I have always sensed that not everything that I am seeing is beneficial to everyone, but they are shown to me so that I understand the seriousness of the times we are in. This dream I received, this one evening in particular, completely took me off guard because I heard a date.

This is the dream...

I was in the Spirit and was observing. I was looking at some people in the living room waking up with the morning news. A TV anchor was on a special report.

Reporter: "If you are now just waking up on the west coast this morning of June 7th (no year given), you will now come to realize the sad and very tragic event that has just occurred. There is complete chaos. You are to remain in your homes. Do not go outside, but remain where you are. Many people have suddenly disappeared, mostly children. I repeat, do not leave your homes."

We were removed; gone. There was wailing like when I saw the Passover in Egypt or the killings in Bethlehem; chills.

Dream over...

I woke up out of this sleep sitting straight up. A shock went through my body. I looked at the clock. It was time for me to get up. I had a very difficult time with this as I have not ever been given a date for the Rapture, but this seemed ominous to say the least.

I remember thinking, Lord, are You granting me a heads up to share or what am I to do with this? I can't be given a date now and not share this? I am not a prophet, but now this would be prophecy. Is this You, Lord, or the enemy?

I got up per my usual routine; communion, prayer and journaling. I wrote this down. I saw the vision in my head as clear as day. I saw the mother in the house run to her child's bedroom. The child was gone. I heard screaming so gut wrenching that I begged the Lord for this to not be the case. I went to the Lord on this...

Jesus: "Erin, these things will occur. It is no longer a matter of 'if', as this has never been used; it is a matter of 'when'. Do you understand?"

Me: "Lord, is there anything more that I can do? Do I share this information?"

Jesus: "Erin, the date you were given has significance. This is for you to unfold it. Be cautious in doing so. This will not be popular and you will come under great scrutiny for it. This is okay. I am here with you."

Me: "Lord, so this is from You? Is this now? 2013? Help. I am uncertain of the year."

Jesus: "You will know by the overwhelming evidence, Erin. I have given you friends in this season; fellow sparrows and others to help you with what you cannot have time for. These gifts are beyond what I have given you. All of your friends will help. You will know of My coming, along with the timing of the first great distress, by the signs.

"This will require many different gifts from many types of people. These will be music to your ears, but sandpaper for the enemy. You are not the only one. By the Words in Joel, there are others too. Please do not be discouraged. Gather your information first and then release it at the proper time."

The enemy was furious with the Pentecost message in 2013 and with this dream. He kept me in such grief and trouble that I barely got anything out. In fact, I almost quit and stopped everything. The enemy wanted division.

In terms of gifts, God has granted us all special gifts. However, we are not to date setting. I get that. However, I also know that, if it is done with the spirit of research, patterns, findings and gathering data to draft a possible date, I see no harm in this. In fact, it is really interesting to me to watch how the Lord has put all of the pieces together.

Now, if I am setting a date, "Thus sayeth the Lord", well then, this is a slippery slope. God wouldn't be pleased with me. But to get excited about a date based on information, I think this is pleasing to the Lord. Not all watchers can handle this, so great caution is needed.

If I can live through the battles at the 'Dome' below Heaven, then I can certainly stomach some dates coming and going. However, personally, I am scared about giving dates. This scares me. This is new territory for me. We are all here because we are diligently watching. This is what the Bride does.

As a reminder, in a different dream, the Lord indicated that the June 7th date in this dream was 'symbolic'. Quite simply, this means that the Rapture may or may not be on June 7th. That being said, I feel that this date is still something worth researching as He says it is, so I ask that all that look into this do so with this in mind.

Love all of you so much.....Erin

Update on May 21, 2013:

My daughter, age 11, had a dream last night...

California, Oregon, the east coast and the Gulf were being attacked by bombs. She said that the army was forcing people to the middle of the country and Canada had closed borders allowing access. She said that the ground shook and water was going over everything. My thinking is that the enemy was taking out the dams in the Columbia River. She said she was with her friends at camp and she was glad to take them with her.

Dream over...

Well, her wilderness camp is part of her final week of fifth grade in the mountains of Washington State. The camp runs June 3rd to June 7th. I thought she would be home for the last day of school with all the other kids on June 6th.

She wasn't going to go to camp because I didn't have the money to send her. Just yesterday, the school called, pooled their money and granted my daughter with a scholarship for the trip. I was very glad. This was a lot of money, and an unexpected expense, as we didn't apply for her to go.

She asked, "Mom, why are you worried about me going on this trip?" I replied, "One of the possible Rapture dates might be that week." She smiled and replied, "It is okay, Mom, I'll gather my friends and we'll meet you in the sky with Jesus!" Tears; I am crying just typing this.

I am ready to go Home more than anyone, but I don't like my children scattered. I overwhelmingly felt the Holy Spirit say, "Erin, you planned for this. You are ready when it happens."

I don't know what has been going on. I don't feel right in my Spirit right now. I am unsettled, my arrhythmia has been off the charts and I'm exhausted. Thank you so much, everyone, for being so kind and encouraging. Your prayers and love kept me on track to finish the dream.

I pray that I still have a few more. Jesus said He has a couple more things to show me, so I don't believe the dreams are over. Remember, the newscast was confirmed to be symbolic and the year was not given, so we must all keep living for His return and that we still might be here for a while.

I wish I was able to give a giant hug to all of you. You are my dear friends and family. Your love, the love of Christ, has enabled me to go on the heights.

Love you, sparrows, so much; tears, love and many blessings...Erin

Dream 063 – Pentecost

Received Friday, May 17, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 12)

May 12th, 15th and 17th, 2013

This morning I woke up and had prayer and communion.

I am in tears. Today is Mother's Day, 2013. My children are all sleeping. I am overwhelmed that, despite all of my difficulties, the Lord Jesus would spend so much time with me and bless me in so many ways.

I am surrounded by friends that love me and gifts of love from my children. Even though my kids attend secular schools, each one made a gift with a letter thanking me for my love of them and teaching them about God and prayer. One of them said that I pointed them to Heaven.

I felt blessed, truly blessed. I prayed to God that He would come for us before any of my children became older and could be lured away by the things of this world. Just then, when I was on my knees, I heard the Lord.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

Immediately, I was on the balcony of the Bridal Chamber. I still have this beautiful white gown with golden ribbons woven from my fingers up to my arms on both hands. There were pearls on them. This was very pretty.

I had seen something like this on the hands and arms of men at the Wailing Wall in Israel, except theirs were black leather and mine was fine gold, woven into a fabric ribbon. I had the most beautiful woven sandals on my feet, but I felt like I should not be wearing them as I was clearly standing in a Holy Place.

My feet, hands and skin were glorified. I had hoped that, today, might be the day that I see Jesus there. I walked over to the edge of the balcony and looked out over the massive Throne and these vast preparations. I saw the beautiful Gardens of the Lord surrounding the Throne being prepared by saints and angels for the massive celebration.

There was a most incredible scene at the Throne; a beautiful rainbow spectrum of pure colors, colors that I didn't recognize as there were like nothing I have seen here on Earth.

As I stood there with tears welling up in my eyes. I heard the most amazing music. As I stood there listening to the angel choirs sing, every living cell in me cried out in worship to God, our King. I wept.

I unlaced my sandals and stepped out of them as I was on the most Holiest of grounds. Only right in front of the Throne of God was there a more holy place. I knelt down on the balcony and I lifted my arms toward the Throne and, with everything I had and so much thanks, I praised God.

I love Him so much and I still do not understand all of Him. The dark reality and the veil over us on Earth remove so much of the ability for us to love unconditionally. To love what gives no return, from the perspective of God, must be so difficult. Yet God loves us so unconditionally and completely, it is beyond my understanding.

I am supposed to love in all things, but yet, sometimes, I do not feel love for myself. I know this is the enemy and his training, not God's. Here I was worshipping the Lord as Mary; but Mary Magdalene, not the pure Mary.

How do I even comprehend being a pure Bride at this point? How could most men wrap themselves around this concept of being a 'Bride'? There were many questions and maybe, and, really, of course, since our God is so faithful, we will come to understand how much He truly loves us.

As I stood there in the Bridal Chamber in eternity, I was a holy Bride. He removed my stains. I was a virgin bride and only divorced of this world, but pure in the Bridal Chamber. He washed me as white as snow.

If I had not gone through such intense wilderness training, if I had not gone through the divine, yes, divine suffering, then how could I stand near the Throne? I couldn't. If the Lord hadn't called me into the desert where the only voice I could hear was His, then how would I be able to recognize His voice? It would be impossible as there is too much noise.

As I continued to worship, I was in tears. However, in Heaven, tears are joyful. I knelt and thanked the Lord for every bit of earthly suffering. It showed me how much He loved me. My earthly loss somehow proved it; odd, but true.

He called me. As my head was down, there was a gentle breeze. I heard pages flipping. I looked to my right and there, before me, was a beautiful Bible. There was a card also. I reached over to read it. The card said:

"Erin, all of your experiences has followed unique patterns. I have shown you every kind of love in these pages. You are finished with your journey. When you read the illuminated verse, an image will come up, sometimes multiple, but, with each image, you will see how My love for you has come alive in the Word of truth! I am the truth. All the pages will instruct you while you wait for Me! You are loved by Me! Jesus!"

The Bible opened and the Holy Spirit said: "This is where you are and what the Lord has done. He is El Shaddai."

Then I heard a whisper: "El Shaddai."

Me: "What is El Shaddai?"

I heard a whisper: "He prevails and protects at the breast."; Genesis 49:25 and Proverbs 18:10.

Then I heard and saw the pages turn to Hosea 2:14-16 and a whisper: "Therefore I am going to allure her; I will lead her into the wilderness and speak tenderly to her. There I will give her back her vineyards and will make the Valley of Achor, a door of Hope. There she will respond as in the days of her youth, as in the days she came up out of Egypt. On that day Declares the Lord, you will call Me, My Husband."

I cried because I knew He was calling me out of the desert to His bosom. He is safe.

Then the pages turned to 2 Corinthians 1:4, "The God of all Comfort, who comforts us In all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God."

I cried again because I understood. He has given me rest.

Me: "Lord, I understand how much You love me. I am just trying to understand how a woman like me can understand the Bridal Chamber. How can a man understand being a Bride to You? I understand my place here now, but, down on Earth, I feel so unworthy.

"I understand my sins are forgiven, but how can I be loved as a Bride? If I were a man with fleshly desires, how can a man understand this? When You came here as a man, how did You remain worthy? How did You understand men, yet not experience them?"

As I knelt there, I felt a tap on my shoulder. It was my guardian angel.

Guardian: "Erin, He is requesting your presence."

Me: "Am I in trouble? Did I ask the wrong questions?"

Guardian: "No, Erin, these are common questions. It is a good time to ask and understand."

He took me by the hand and we were supernaturally transported to the River. There was Jesus on the rock and the tree was to the right. He smiled and reached out for me. I was still in my white gown and about 25 years old.

I ran to Him. I dropped down in front of Him with my head bowed. I was holding His hands and crying into them.

Me: "Please forgive my questions. Don't send me away. I repent."

Then I began to hear Him chuckling. He stood up, grabbed my hand, pulled me up and gave me a big hug. He is about a foot taller than I am so He kissed the top of my head and blessed me.

Jesus: "Come here, Erin."

He reached out His hand and took me to the banks of the River of Life. He motioned for me to sit. He walked over to the Tree of Life and picked two pieces of fruit. He came and sat next to me. He puts His feet in the water and I put mine in also. The water was perfect. He hands me a piece of fruit and motions me to have a bite. The fruit tasted really incredible, like pear, peach, passion, plum and pomegranate combined.

Jesus: "So, Erin, what is going on?"

Me: "I am glad You met with me. I am sorry to disturb You right now."

Jesus: "Yes. There is a reason I didn't come to you in the Chamber right now. Do you understand why?"

Me: "I am assuming the world is preparing for chaos and Your coming and there is a war or two starting..."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, this is not why. There will always be this. Although we are in the due season, there will always be wars and rumors of wars, do you understand?"

Me: "Yes, but now everything is coming together like never before. It is all falling into place. You coming on the clouds is an unusual event. Oh yes, but You do not know the day or the hour."

Jesus: "I believe that Scripture is referring to a later time and refers to Tribulation. Again, My Father is the holder of the event. He will inform Me when it is time to get My Bride. The Bride also knows that it is one year from the time of engagement, so the Bride eagerly anticipates the return of her Groom.

"All of the signs in Heaven and Earth will begin to pronounce My coming, all will be visible and I will know too. The reason you are in the Bridal Chamber is that you are tucked away. You are in great anticipation of My soon coming. You are ready and dressed. This is a good thing."

Me: "So, did I ruin the surprise with my questions and doubts?"

Jesus: "Erin, what Bride is not anticipating her Groom. Did you study the traditional Jewish wedding? Do you remember the events leading up to the Groom's arrival? The noise was so loud that the bridal party could be heard."

"There are many other things for you to watch for too. I will leave this up to you to study. You were in Heaven as the Bride in the Bridal Chamber. You are in a safe place and, if it were on Earth, you would be guarded heavily until the day of the Groom's arrival."

Me: "So, we are not guarded now?"

Jesus: "Of course you are, but you are not visibly able to see it. Did I not tell you that none of you would be lost? Now, about your questions..."

Me: "I just wanted to understand how You were tempted as a man here on Earth? How were You able to be so pure?"

Jesus: "Erin, I experienced everything that was common to man. I experienced temptations, but I was not subject to them. On Earth, man can become subject to sin; a slave. I was not subject to this. Therefore, sin did not have a hold on My flesh. I didn't sin, but I could understand it because I was in a fleshly form."

Me: "Lord, this makes perfect sense now. You came to Earth as a man to experience the things that we, on Earth, struggle with. However, unlike us, You were never subject to them, thereby perfect, holy and blameless. Wow!"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, are you not studying your Scripture?" He was continuing to smile and laugh.

Me: "Yes, Lord, but I didn't fully understand this portion; how You could be fully God, yet human."

Jesus: "I was sent by My Father, God in flesh, so that I could understand and intercede for His creation. God walked amongst the Garden. God walked on Earth. There was no barrier of sin. God is holy. Erin, what do you remember about the Throne in His presence?"

Me: "Well, it is like I am right now with You, except amplified even more. I have a need to confess and lay out all of my sins so that I can have close communion with You. You take my burdens upon You and Your mercy, truth and goodness removes them. I become new when I am with You. I am alive."

He is smiling and beaming as I speak. I think He is proud of my words.

Me: "At the Throne, right before I even came to the edge of the Sea of Glass, I bowed, worshiped and laid all of my sins out and the angel carried them away."

Jesus: "Let's review this again carefully. Remember, the sin was on paper. From your mouth, the words were transferred. Then, by confession, the sins were removed because of your sincere repentance. The angels blotted out the sin on paper. Then what happened?"

Me: "Each time, a mighty wind blew the sin away."

Jesus: "Who was in the wind?"

Me: "Oh, You. Your voice was the wind."

Jesus: "What does this mean, Erin?"

Me: "This makes complete sense. You interceded, in a way, by taking the sins that separated me from coming to the Throne into His presence. Wow, I never noticed this before. Of course, this is divinely You and perfectly God."

He was chuckling at my discovery of a small detail, but such an obvious one.

Jesus: "Before you confessed, on at least one occasion, I whispered to you in the wind also. I spoke tenderly to you so that you knew in advance of everything and how you are loved greatly."

Me: "You did. I loved this."

Jesus: "When I do this and I am unable to be physically present, although I am always with you, I showed you, via the Holy Spirit inside you, but you also learned to hear My voice so, when I whispered, you recognized My call and the Holy Spirit confirmed it. Now when You hear a voice and you do not recognize it or it is contrary to Me, what does this sound like?"

Me: "Sometimes eerily similar, but I have a different reaction."

Jesus: "Explain this."

Me: "I didn't feel peace inside. The Holy Spirit was in conflict. My muscles tensed. Sometimes, if it is evil, then I get sick to my stomach. When I know that you have sent a sign, message or confirmation, my body is at peace with the Holy Spirit. It is well with my soul, even in great trouble. When You are there, I have divine peace. I love this feeling."

Jesus: "Explain more about this feeling."

Me: "It is like when I feel Your glory present. Of course, now being with You, but also when I am worshiping. Your Glory falls over me like the mantel. When I used to stop worshiping a few hours later, the mantel would disappear too. It left me with a feeling of longing. I missed Your presence."

Jesus: "You were created for worship. Now, many times, it is only through trials that a person learns to be laid bare to receive. It is one thing to have the glory drop upon you temporarily, but it is another thing to be empty enough to allow My glory to fill your emptiness."

Me: "Is this not the same as the Holy Spirit?"

Jesus: "No, Erin. Let's go back to the time of great distress for the disciples. Think about the day when I was crucified. The disciples knew that I was the Son of God. They watched Me perform miracles. They, too, learned to do this. They saw the power of God.

"When My Spirit was offered from the Cross to Heaven, there were several catastrophic events that occurred in broad daylight. The event happened in the day watches and terrified those around the Cross, at the Temple and even in the graveyards. This was an event that stripped the disciples of all vain ambitions.

"God was removed and darkness filled the land. They had no understanding and they were afraid for their lives. Eventually, with the resurrections, they came to understand the gift that I was about to leave with them. I was soon to give them My Spirit to dwell in them; the Holy Spirit. The divine counselor was in those who accepted Me as the Son of God."

Me: "Is this the same as the baptism of the Holy Spirit?"

Jesus: "Erin, you as a believer upon being born again and are given the free gift of the Holy Spirit. Now, there is a difference. When you are in worship and, because of your trials and the depth of your surrender, you have given yourself up to God in Heaven. The symbol is somewhat like when I showed you about the offering of the loaves of bread to Heaven for it to be multiplied. Do you understand how tongues of fire can be dropped upon you?’

Me: “No, Lord, I missed this.”

Jesus: “Let’s back up. In worship, you experienced the divine miracles several times. How did you do this?”

Me: “I am not sure. If I knew, I would do this all the time.”

Jesus: Laughing. “Erin, you have the Holy Spirit in you. Through your trials and because of them, you have run after Me. You have forsaken the world. You came to worship with nothing but yourself. If you had come with sins, walls and barriers, then you could not receive the gifts that are waiting for you.

“So, at the Sea of Glass, you are standing on holy ground. In order to be in the presence of the Lord in the Holy of Holies at the Throne, first you must lay down your vain ambitions and empty yourself, humbly submitting to God. Then you must remove any other barriers of sin; thereby confessing, repenting and cleaning up. Then you are empty, humble and ready to be filled.

“Secondly, now you thank God for your gift of the call on your life. You are to be thankful for your place. You offer up yourself for God to grant you good gifts. You ask for Heaven to come upon you. You might ask for the spirit of Elijah to work miracles. You might welcome the spirit of David for his heart of strength, devotion or passion.

“Finally, you ask to be filled with Heavenly increase. At Pentecost, fire fell upon them because they were emptied. A wind was in the beginning of this move of the Lord also.”

Me: “So, miracles happen when we are emptied of our abilities or desires to be God?”

Jesus: “In this culture you live in, miracles occur all around you, but a veil covers the manifestation of these. In simple cultures, they expect to worship and for God to then come. It will happen and does.

“In modern cultures, many try to bring about, or conjure up, manifestations. This is not good. God cannot be conjured or His miracles brought about through ritual. God comes when there is submission to His Will, His timing and His giving is welcome.”

Me: "Lord, You have come mostly when I am in complete despair. I always know You will show up then."

Jesus: "I am not only coming when you are in despair. This is the time when you recognize Me the most because you are completely empty. This is the time when you, 'the clay', are the most pliable and easily moldable. The Potter can turn you on the wheel into a perfect vessel. Now, what is a Potter's vessel used for?"

Me: "To be filled with something."

Jesus: "Now you have understanding. The vessel knows not what it will be used for. It might have a request, but, typically, clay does not have a voice."

He laughs and so do I.

Me: "Why didn't I see this before? This key is hidden right in Scripture?"

Jesus: "It really isn't hidden, just very few see the perfect analogy of the indwelling there. First, the clay is pliable and ready to be formed and used. Second, the clay is shaped, or formed, but completely given over to the Potter for His Will. The clay has no agenda and just loves to be of use.

"Third, the wheel turns with the clay in the hands of the Potter. The vessel is formed. The shape size and magnitude is up to the Potter for the Potter's use. Now, Erin, you have taken pottery classes. What is next?"

Me: Laughing. "I was a better basket weaver."

Jesus: "Well, you laugh, but the concept is the same. A basket that is useful is made to be filled and carried, but it is not the same with this parable. What happens next with the vessel?"

Me: "The vessel, at the base, is attached to the wheel. A type of wire removes it and the vessel is prepared for firing. It must go into the kiln."

Jesus: "Why does this happen?"

Me: "So that whatever is poured into the vessel, it will hold whatever is taken into it. It can receive whatever the Potter determines."

Jesus: "Now you have wisdom. Sometimes the Potter needs to coat the pot again and re-fire it so it is just perfect. Do you understand the analogy of fire?"

Me: "I understand a kiln and a furnace. I think I have been through this a few times."

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, you have and you sit directly next to Me today. Erin, not all clay is of use to the Potter. Not all vessels make it. Even when being shaped, the clay is stored on shelves until it is re-worked or, even if the Potter believes it is of use, it can be there a long time and the clay doesn't care.

"Other clay cries out to be of use. Then it is shaped, but, when it is coated for the firing, the vessel doesn't make it through the kiln. Some crack and can't hold anything. Some look beautiful, but are not able to be used often because the glazing or covering was bad. Yet, some vessels go into the fire, look beautiful, are coated perfectly covered and can be of great use."

Me: "Sometimes I feel like the others. Sometimes You can use me."

Jesus: "Erin, what do you mean? A vessel is filled and poured out, emptied and then filled again. When you work at the sink, what do you do?"

Me: "I have a glass that is dirty. I wash it, dry it and then I can fill it again and drink from it."

Jesus: "Very good. Is this glass one that you drink out of one time and throw it away?"

Me: "No. It has greater value than a paper cup."

Jesus: "You mean a disposable vessel; one of little worth or a single use cup."

Me: "A paper cup absorbs water so quickly that, when you take a drink, the water tastes like the cup and is not very good."

Jesus: "Erin, you are not disposable. Going back to miracles; a vessel is willing, emptied and ready to be filled. Heaven comes down. Now, think of the filling as a gift. Now what is poured into the empty vessel makes the vessel full of blessings to be poured out and manifested to glorify the Potter."

Me: "So, Lord, is there anything I can do to bring on these gifts? Can I somehow create them?"

Jesus: "Let Me ask you this. Can a lump of clay on a shelf yell at the Potter and say, 'Here I am?'"

Me: Laughing. "No. Clay has no voice."

Jesus: "This is why you are different than clay on a shelf. Let's run through this. You sit there and watch as I create vessel upon vessel, all being used for My glory. As you sit there, you think, every time, 'Maybe today will be the day He comes to me.' I have turned a few times knowing you were there, but I also knew you weren't ready yet."

Me: "Sometimes I felt You let me dry up and become hard with no formability."

Jesus: "You were different than that. I knew in advance just when I was going to use you."

Me: "Maybe, but I think I must have jumped off of the shelf a few times just because I wanted You to know I was there and eager, but then..."

Jesus: "Erin, even if you had rolled under the rack, a good Potter knows where all the useful clay is." He is laughing. "I would have found you and added some life or, in the case of clay, water. I would put you in My hand and begin to bring you back to pliable so I could put you on the wheel."

Me: "Lord, I can think of times, many times, as you finally shaped me into a beautiful vessel, that I began to doubt it and say to You, 'How come You formed me this way? Why not make me like the other vessel over there?'"

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, this is a parable in Scripture. So what did I do in response to this doubt and disobedience? I mean, does the clay really have a right to say to the Potter, God, what are you thinking?"

We were laughing as I realized how ridiculous this was.

Me: "The Potter should throw out the rebellious clay."

Jesus: He was smiling, but became serious. "Yes, this will be one of the most important parts of My Word that you will ever come to know and understand. Erin, when you question the Potter, two things could happen. What are they?"

Me: "Number one, You could take me and throw me into the heap with the other rebellious lumps only to forget me, to be thrown in the yard and turned into mulch or fired into bricks that can't be filled? Or, number two, hmm, I am not sure..."

Jesus: "I could determine that you are still worthy of use, but not ready yet. So then, I could set you back on the shelf for a period of time as you watch others being shaped and used. After a while, you might recognize that the clay that has use is the clay that is eager, willing and ready to be shaped by the Potter. The only voice these lumps have is in worship and praise. Once you are able to 'get this', what did I do?"

Me: "You left me there awhile. I began to dry up. In fact, I had no tears left and then I began to lose hope that I would never be considered again. Then, one day, You came and got me."

Jesus: "I knew you were ready. Now describe it."

Me: "I barely had hope, but, when You came over to me and picked me up, at first I thought You would surely throw me into the brick pile. However, when You moved and took me to the wheel, I knew it was my 'turn' again."

Jesus: "So what happened next?"

Me: "I suppose I was even more pliable and ready than even the good clay before me. I was so grateful that I worshiped You with even greater intensity. I abandoned myself to Your Will, knowing that You could've tossed me a long time ago. Instead, You chose me for this time."

Jesus: "Yes, you were crying with such gratitude that the Potter didn't even need to use water. Your tears were sufficient. Now remember, when I left you on the shelf, were you alone?"

Me: "No. There were thousands of clumps on the racks with me."

Jesus: "So now they are watching Me shape you. Why?"

Me: "I suppose they are praying for their turn on the wheel in Your hands."

Jesus: "So, because of this, they, like you, are witnesses to My good work?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, we all are."

Jesus: "So, what now? Oh yes. I turn you and with My hands shape you. No two vessels are alike. This means you are handcrafted by the Potter. The enemy also knows about this, but has figured out a way of pouring clay into molds using mass production thereby removing the knowledge of the handiwork of God.

"Make no mistake, the enemy's vessels are lovely and have no flaws, yet they lack the true infilling of a vessel designed by the Potter from His Throne in Heaven. Now, after I have shaped you, coated you and put on something like a mark, in order for you to be filled and able to withstand good use, what do I do?"

Me: "You then need to place me in the kiln for firing. I think, unfortunately for me, I went in several times before I came out the way You wanted me to."

Jesus: Smiling. "Okay, yes, there is a method where the Potter continues to fire the vessel. Why?"

Me: "Well, I remembered one was called Raku. The pot would be slow cooked, then glazed and then baked again."

Jesus: "I see two things that the Potter is thinking: First, either He does this too much and then the vessel cracks and weakens; or secondly, the vessel comes out incredibly beautiful, of great value and use and is as strong as if it were iron, right?"

I smiled and laughed. I am amazed that He was able to take such a simple thing like a Potter and clay to speak so profoundly to me about my journey.

Jesus: "Erin, what are you smiling about?"

Me: "I think I remember something like this in Romans, Chapter 9."

Jesus: "Yes, this is good. However, there are many, many references to the Potter, or even the clay. For these purposes though, what I am doing with you today?"

Me: "You have made me like a vessel that is willing and emptied, but I am weak from over firing."

Jesus: "Now I am the Potter that doesn't put a weak vessel into the furnace to fully destroy it. This is contrary to the Word of God. You might believe you are weak from the furnace of affliction, but, in your weakness, I am strong. Now, after you have gone through the process and are created for the Potter's business and ready to be used for His glory, what does this mean?"

Me: "I guess I am ready to be filled with the Potter's substance and ready for service."

Jesus: "Good. So you recognize the need to serve the Potter. Now, what happened at Pentecost?"

Me: "I am certain everyone was a willing vessel."

Jesus: "Yes. None knew what to expect. Two things happened with the Holy Spirit coming upon them. Do you remember this?"

Me: "Yes. This is in Acts."

Jesus: "Erin, do you remember the wind? What was in the wind?"

Me: "You. Your voice was in the wind."

Jesus: "Back up first. What were the disciples doing at the time of Pentecost? Where were they?"

Me: "I believe in Jerusalem, in the Upper Room; there were about 120 people there. They were in prayer and worship."

Jesus: "Yes, it started with prayer. All of them knew that I had been taken up several days before, but the disciples witnessed it. I had told them to go and they would soon receive a gift. This was different from John the Baptist. John immersed in water, this was the Baptism of the Holy Spirit.

"In the room, there was a mighty wind. This represents Me, remember? The wind, or Holy Spirit, blew and it came into them immersing them with the Holy Spirit. Then the gifts, or baptism, of the Holy Spirit came upon them.

"This was the dropping of fresh fire upon them. This fresh fire created a special anointing power that was evidence of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit."

Me: "I have experienced this Lord, but help me to understand."

Jesus: "The Holy Spirit comes to dwell in you, taking up residence because of your faith in Who I am. The Holy Spirit is your gift that comes with accepting Me. The baptism of the Holy Spirit comes as spiritual powers in your heart, not Christian ideas in your head.

"Let's make it simple: The Holy Spirit is in you and this is God in You. You worship Me with your whole heart. Praise and worship when you are emptied of yourself, or your obedience to God's call, means you are ready to be of use and ready to be filled with good gifts.

"In the upper room, when they were all baptized with tongues of fire, they had evidence by the speaking in tongues. They had supernatural ability and were accused of drunkenness. However, because of this manifestation, three thousand were filled that day as a result of the receiving of the gifts."

Me: "So, sometimes I have this and sometimes I don't. Why?"

Jesus: "You have this. You received the Word, My truth. You now have faith. You trust in Me and you believe. You are then called. Now you must repent and come to Me, free from the barrier of sin as an empty and willing vessel."

"Now you become baptized in water as a symbol, not a requirement. Then you freely, in obedience, have offered up yourself to Me as a living sacrifice. You worship in whole with thanksgiving. Then you are given the gifts of the Holy Spirit. You are emptied completely and now willing to be filled."

Me: "Why, after I was saved, did it take fifteen years for me to speak in tongues? Why?"

Jesus: "Erin, every circumstance is different. When did you receive it?"

Me: "I asked for it in 2001, but I didn't receive it until 2008."

Jesus: "Perhaps you had barriers keeping you from this?"

Me: "Yes, I did. I was not emptied. I was dealing with things that I carried. I hadn't fully given everything to You."

Jesus: "You were called to serve many years ago. You carried the mark of the call."

Me: "Doesn't everyone have this?"

Jesus: "No, not everyone. Not all children are children of God. Not all are chosen. You recognize these by their fruit. Erin, these are different times."

Me: "Lord, grant all of us this gift. We all have the Holy Spirit, but baptize us in the supernatural gifts of the Holy Spirit. Rest tongues of fire on us. Open Heaven and pour out these gifts to testify about You. Grant us this power and divine confidence so that we might be used to glorify You, Lord."

"This is a wonderful feeling to walk in such supernatural authority. I know the demons run and scatter. Many of us are tired from this journey, Lord. You, by Your Words, declare that You will pour out Your Spirit in these days. We will dream and prophesy."

Jesus: "Very good and, yes, I will gladly pour My Spirit over you. You just need to ask."

Me: "I thought there were steps?"

Jesus: "Yes. You saw what had happened at Pentecost. I am telling you also how sometimes you have the out pouring and sometimes you don't. It is about barriers."

Me: "Lord, in Acts, it seems like they just showed up and believed."

Jesus: "Erin, they had all witnessed miracles. I had just left them. They retraced My steps. What did I tell them? Do you remember? I appeared to them over forty days speaking about the kingdom of God.

"I instructed them and prepared them for the baptism of the Holy Spirit. I told them they would receive power. Not just the gift of divine counsel, which you received when you were saved, but an out pouring or immersion of the Heavenly baptism by fire. This was a gift from an Open Heaven experience."

Me: "I still don't understand why I don't operate in this all the time."

Jesus: "Erin, technically you do, but you are manifesting different divine gifts. What do you believe I taught during the forty days?"

Me: "You instructed them about Kingdom of God in Acts 1. What did you teach them about?"

Jesus: "Several principles, but mostly about healing, increase and witnessing."

Me: "So You taught them about how to use the coming gifts?"

Jesus: "Yes, and also about mysteries. I showed them about bread, wine and the miracles surrounding these, but more about faith. Remember the mustard seed? Remember about faith. Why did I finally leave them before Pentecost?"

Me: "Because You wanted to leave so they could receive the Holy Spirit"

Jesus: "Yes and no. I left because I had given them all of My instructions. The only way they could fully function in the gifts was by faith on their own, but I left them with the Holy Spirit. Then, even more, I immersed them with the amplification of the Holy Spirit; fresh fire. I left so that My Spirit could be with them. Then, by faith, they could say to that mountain, 'go into the sea.' The disciples learned something. Do you know what this is?"

Me: "About faith?"

Jesus: "Yes, but much more. They didn't ask for divine miracles. They asked Me to teach them how to pray. Prayer is the key that unlocks an Open Heaven in your life. Where do you sit right now?"

I was in tears realizing my place next to Him.

Me: "I am sitting next to You."

Jesus: "Who sits next to Me? Those who reside near My Altar with prayer and supplication, but, when you pray, you must also believe that I will not go against My Word. I will do as the Word says."

Me: "But why am I sometimes not receiving gifts?"

Jesus: "The enemy likes to use trickery. The brass heaven is not an Open Heaven. It is a locked door (Deuteronomy 28:23)."

Me: "I haven't heard about his. So the enemy puts this over our heads to repel prayers?"

Jesus: "Erin, focus on Me, not on the enemy or even man. Come to Me. I will say there are very important instructions in Daniel 9. Oh yes, and I believe this is now also a Book that has been opened, correct? Erin, soon things will change. The Book of Daniel will make sense. I have spoken to you before and showed you the Two Witnesses. There are other important keys within these pages."

Me: "Lord, I know in my heart You are coming soon. My spirit can't rest and the Holy Spirit is in confirmation of this."

Jesus: "I am glad too. It has been a long wait. Are you ready to come Home?"

Me: I began to cry. "Yes, but I want to finish strong. I want to complete my assignment. I tried clinging to that rock a few weeks ago, remember?" He was laughing.

Jesus: "Erin, I have prepared a special place for all of you. You will rejoice and be glad none of you will be lost."

Me: "Sometimes, even I am afraid."

Jesus: "Oh, Erin, if you are to have faith as a mustard seed, you must believe My Words. You cannot doubt. You must pray continuously. This will be the key to unlock the door when you need it. You must believe and do not doubt. Do you understand what I am saying?"

I will repeat this. You must believe and do not doubt. Heaven will be open. Angels, as in the days of Jacob, will bring down resources from Heaven. You reside in Heavenly places. You are citizens. This is your Home. Now ask and believe in advance that you have received. You are loved by Me. I am coming very soon."

Vision over...

Much love and many blessings...Happy Pentecost, Sparrowcloud9

Dream 064 – The Race

Sunday, May 26, 2013
08-09-2016, 01:54 PM

I am exhausted today and completely emptied. I have experienced so much personal sorrow the last couple of days that I now sit in complete shock that I have even awakened this morning. There is a fresh spring rain here and I smell fragrant flowers even though there are no flowers here either inside or outside.

The only sounds I could hear right now were birds singing, a mourning dove giving a mating call, some golfers cheering on a golf green in the distance and an occasional bark from my dog. It was a rough night of sleep and I had gone to bed last night at 7:30pm with the request to be taken Home as I slept.

Well the Lord obviously did not grant me my request, but He instead granted me some of my oddest dreams yet and the content was disturbing. I woke up suddenly from one of these dreams at around 1:15am or so.

As I went out to the living room restless from the dreams, I realized that I would not be going back to sleep anytime soon. I decided to instead kneel in prayer on the floor by my ottoman and wept there for at least thirty minutes. After this, I got up, took communion and worshipped the Lord with all of my heart in anguish.

When I went to my journal, God began to download an open vision and this vision was crystal clear. After I finished writing, I noticed that it was about 4:30am when He released me back to sleep after I had requested that He take me Home again.

At 7:15am, I woke up and God downloaded more to me for another three hours. This download seemed quite personal to me, so I told Him I would keep this to myself. I was shocked when I instead heard Him say very clearly, 'no, Erin, release this today and release it completely.'

Last night before bed, I read through my journal from the spring of 2012 and specifically noticed something at a date one year ago where I was begging God for something personal. I read my dreams from May 25th all the way to the end of the day on June 2nd.

This was quite eye opening for me. On May 25th, I was full of hope, but then June 1st was a day that crushed me completely. I was so grieved over this day that I asked the Lord in my journal entry to either use me now or simply remove me immediately. He did not give me a choice, but in fact I really never got an answer from Him.

I reviewed my entry where I had written His promises to me from seven years ago and noticed that none of these had been fulfilled as at this time. Indeed, I had not seen even one of the three promises being fulfilled. The closest a promise came to being fulfilled was that of my children's salvation. Here I had received a hint, but I still had not received a definite 'yes'.

Then after my time of obliteration from a year ago on June 1st, 2012, I barely even wrote in my journal for about three months. I had been requiring a sign from Him and I was tired of asking for things, so I decided to just stop.

It was painful reading through these journal entries from a year ago as it was before I had understood and before He decided to do something with me. A few months after that horribly traumatic day, I received His gift of these dreams.

These dreams are a great tool and have a wonderful confirming message, but I have learned that they cannot lessen the blows in life as they come. The things I have learned can help, but it does not remove the pain of this life and certainly never remove the trials.

So I prayed this morning that He takes me up to Heaven now, but also for His Will to be done.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am about 25 years old and I run to Him as He sat on the rock. When I reached Him, I fell at His feet as I was broken and in tears.

Jesus: "What is wrong?"

I was crying so hard that I found it hard to even catch my breath.

Me: "Lord..."

Jesus: "Come here."

He stood, walked me over to the river and set me down there. He then walked over to the tree and reached for two pieces of fruit. He walked back to me and handed me one of the fruits as He sat beside me at the banks of the river.

My feet are in the River of Life and I can feel them being healed in the water. As I looked in the water and saw my reflection with Jesus there, He reached over and rested my head on His shoulder. He looked at our reflections.

Jesus: "Erin, do you see what I see? Tell Me what you see."

Me: "I see that I am resting on Your right shoulder and that I am wearing my white robe. Looking at Your reflection, I see that You are looking at me with love and not condemnation. Why do You ask?"

Jesus: "Erin, I love you without conditions and I am the One who knows you."

Me: "Lord, who else knows me as it seems that I really do not even know myself."

Jesus: "Are you glad for these dreams?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, for You have changed my life with them. To use someone like me for such a purpose seems so unexpected and I am still amazed and in shock that You would think me worthy of such a call. However, now I feel that my time is over."

Jesus: "Erin, where are you going and where are you now?"

Me: "Well, last week did not seem as busy with the dreams and it seemed as if You were not speaking to me."

Jesus: "Oh, was I not speaking to you or were you coming to Me less?"

Me: "You are right, Lord, I was coming to You less."

Jesus: "Erin, I will not leave you and I have not brought you this far to abandon you right at the end. What artist does not find great joy in a completed work of art?"

Me: "I am not much of an artist these days."

Jesus: "Erin, I am the Artist and you are the art. From the beginning, your life has been a great work, but I always knew the outcome."

Me: Crying. "Lord, I have been so crushed again that I really do not see my worth here on Earth anymore."

Jesus: "Erin, do you remember the Potter and what is the difference? As a Painter, is My canvas going to talk, My paints dictate or the brush discuss strokes? This would be silly, would it not?"

Me: I began to laugh. "Well, watercolors have their own course."

Jesus: "Not if you understand that the water is the medium and the pigment is at the water's mercy. In this example, the pigment is you."

Me: I was laughing. "Well then I guess that the water is You."

Jesus: "Now in this instance I am actually the Watercolorist. The water is your walk or path and the pigment is you. Everything around you is in succession. In a person's journey, all of life here points Home to Heaven and all things point to God, your Creator.

"Everything is in parable through all the senses and through all the mediums. If you stop to listen long enough, you will hear Me and I am here waiting for you. An artist cannot paint without a canvas and paint. You have already offered your life to Me as a canvas, so now will you not allow Me to create and trust that I will complete a beautiful masterpiece in you?"

I am crying as He motioned for me to take a bite of the fruit He had handed to me. This tasted so wonderful and I felt the complete healing touch of the Lord as I ate this. I also felt this through the water and the partaking of the fruit, but the most amazing healing of all was me simply resting on His shoulder.

Me: "Lord, thank You for the canvas of my life."

Jesus: "Erin, you talk like you are finished. Is life over?"

Me: "I feel like it is closing. I felt a spark, but it was snuffed out in an instant."

Jesus: "What you are experiencing now is just the beginning. Remember that life is but a breath, a twinkle, a vapor and a learning ground. Erin, you were created for an even greater purpose as all of you who believe in Me were."

Me: "I have heard this before, but I still do not understand. Why not just take us all to Heaven immediately and teach us here instead. It is easier to learn from You here and it is harder to hear You down there. I feel so behind at times and I stumble. Others do not even hear from You at all and they look for You through others instead."

Jesus: "Erin, I am always here to be heard as I call to each one of you. I knock and at times I knock very loudly. I use some of you so that others see Me more. This way if they cannot hear Me, I can still be found by them.

"Erin, I will not be silent as I call out in so many different ways. Even to those that seem lost, I send a beacon. Will I also not call in the midst of a storm and even as loud as a freight train?"

Me: "I remember that this was the sound I heard right before You came for me after one of my heart arrhythmias."

Jesus: He became quite serious now. "Erin, not one of you will be lost so let Me now say two things. First of all, I created each one of you for a unique call and each one of you is special. Do you believe this?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Secondly, none of you is so special that one is greater than the next. I show My favor when I choose, but I do not choose favorites, understand?"

I was smiling and joking when I said what's next because I already knew this.

Me: "Lord, I am quite jealous and offended. I thought I was super special."

Jesus: Laughing. "Now let's go back to your crushing blows so you can tell Me about them?"

Me: "You know all of this already. I just was hit with something so hard that I feel I can no longer endure anymore down there. I must have deserved this, but since You are here and still talking to Me I suppose You will find a use for my crushing.

"Lord, I am finally now asking You to take me Home. I love how I feel here and this is a place of peace, joy, love and healing. I know that my children have been given all of the tools to come Home.

"I know it would be painful, but maybe my death would draw them nearer? There might be even greater salvation from my death as I truly have nothing, but yet I have everything."

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "My reflection in the water and Your arm is around me. I also see a very broken child who just had a final devastating loss. I beg You, Lord, please do not allow me to be further crushed. My body will succumb and I will beg You to deliver me Home."

Jesus stepped into the water, reached for my hand and led me into the water.

Jesus: "Erin, do you have a request?"

He went into the river to a deep spot.

Me: "Yes, I have always wanted to have a real water baptism."

He reached out His hand to me.

Jesus: "Come here, Erin".

I began to weep. I was in the River of Life where Jesus had now just offered to baptize me. He saw that I was weeping openly.

Jesus: "Erin, what is wrong?"

Me: "You would not be doing this unless You planned on sending me back this time."

Jesus: "Erin, do not assume to know all things. Based on your circumstances, there is something that I wanted to do for you since the beginning. Do you remember what happened at your baptism from before?"

Me: "Yes, I believe that I was baptized in January 1994. The baptism was to be in our large church and I was the only one scheduled to be baptized that night. There was a woman at the church who had been jealous of me and wanted to humiliate me by putting goldfish in the baptismal tank.

"I was still baptized by the pastor, but when I later found out what had happened, I lost all my joy for the baptism. The elders in the church were quite upset at this woman as she was the pastor's secretary and had expressed interest in my fiancé.

Jesus: "Erin, the enemy has followed you from the beginning and waits to rob you of every special moment that I had for you. Do you remember what happened next?"

Me: "Yes, but it should have been a lesson and a sign."

Jesus: "I remember it like this. You were in choir and, when you saw this woman, you went up and hugged her. Although she never truly apologized to you for this incident, she did end up writing an apology to you. However, she had been forced to write this apology under the threat of the loss of her job. Erin, please know that I have not forgotten those who defended you and I have not forgotten those who mocked you."

Me: "Lord, this was so long ago now. If only I had known then what I know now, so much pain could have been avoided had I not married this man."

Jesus: "Perhaps, but your children would not have been born."

Me: "Lord, You would have created another way."

Jesus: "Yes, but you must know that this was still the best course for your life."

Me: "But, Lord, if the veil had been lifted, I would have seen the enemy and what had really occurred and I could have been saved from so many trials. I would have discovered the darkness in my soon-to-be marriage before I had even gotten married just from this incident alone."

Jesus: "Yes, perhaps, but are you not pleased with your life now?"

Me: "I am pleased at what You have done with me, but extremely grieved at my loss. I thought I had experienced the worst, but what just happened to me is beyond normal. It hurts so much that I am not going to endure it unless You revive me."

Jesus: "Where are you standing?"

Me: "The River of Life."

Jesus: "Do you understand what the River of Life is?"

Me: "No, not fully."

Jesus: "It is full of living water and it is healing water. It refreshes fully as water forevermore springs forth from it." He then pointed to the beautiful Tree of Life. "This tree is watered from this river. Erin, you are in healing waters and I am right here. Are you ready for what comes next?"

Me: "I have nothing to lose as I am really not sure if I could even be in anymore pain."

He reached out and brought me near Him. With His left hand at the small of my back, He tilted me back towards the water.

Me: "Lord, am I delusional or are You really here baptizing me?"

Jesus: "Erin, where is My hand?"

He then placed my hand on my heart and then He placed His right hand over my hand.

Jesus: "Father, I offer up Your child as she is your delight and comes to You as an empty vessel."

He then gently immersed me in the river. As I came out, I looked up, saw the sky part and the glory light with beams coming down over us. I heard choirs of angels singing to the Lord. He stayed this way for a while as I wept at the magnitude of that moment. Suddenly, I heard the Father's voice speaking from above me.

God: "Erin, I love you."

Me: I was crying. "I thought You did not baptize as one becomes immersed just from Your presence?"

Jesus: "Erin, you needed this, but do you know why?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "The enemy has robbed you at every turn in your race and your baptism all those years ago was completely stripped by the hands of the enemy. Although you were still blessed by Me, in your heart you still always wondered. You came today and were laid completely bare once again and stripped of life even. You needed to be filled, but not with the things of this world and not with what men would fill you with, but with what I have to offer you."

Me: "I do not understand?"

Jesus: "Erin, I just filled your empty bucket. I just filled your vessel with living water."

Me: I began to weep as I hugged Him. "I realize that this symbolically years ago left scars. I never realized what the baptism represented for me because the holy proclamation I was making was overshadowed with the enemies plan to destroy me even then. Thank You, Lord, I am overwhelmed by this. I am so amazed by You remembering so many things that I had forgotten."

He was smiling as He knew all things.

Me: "Now, what is next for me or can I come Home now?"

Jesus: "Is this really what you want?"

Me: "Lord, I know not what I want, but I do know that it will take a miracle for me to survive now."

Jesus: "Erin, what just happened here? Did you believe this replaced the baptism with the goldfish or do you believe you were just baptized for an even greater calling?"

Me: "Lord, that is up to You as I am fully surrendering myself into Your hands. All should be for Your glory and certainly not mine."

Jesus: "Erin, I am pleased with your answer, but you still have a few more things to heal from. Do you know what these are?"

Me: "No, I do not understand?"

Jesus: "Erin, there is more and we are not finished as I have seen all that has happened to you. I have also seen what has occurred that is hidden from you and My heart is grieved. You have been kept from these things as the knowledge of much of this would not be beneficial for you. Do you believe I am your protector?"

I knew in that moment that He was referring to something hidden many years ago and the injustice I experienced surrounding this. I burst out into tears at just the thought.

Jesus: "Now come as I am going to do something else that is symbolic."

He then placed His hand at the small of my back and with my hand on my heart and His hand over mine He immersed me again in the water. Again, when I came up I saw Heaven open up and I heard the voice of the Father.

God: "Erin, I am the God of justice and you are loved."

Me: "This confuses me."

Jesus: "Why? Does this not conform to your thinking of who I am?"

Me: I felt horrible. "Lord, oh please forgive me."

Jesus: "Erin, today is about filling you up with living water and God is showing you that He is pleased with you. This is a gift, but now there is one other thing."

Me: "What is that, Lord?"

Jesus: "There is one more hurt."

Me: "There is so much more."

Jesus: "No, Erin, there is one so serious that your body, soul and spirit cannot go there because of the deepest pain. This is the largest of your scars and the most prevalent puncture. Erin, it is why your heart needs to beat artificially as when your mind goes to this your pulse was removed and your heart stopped beating from brokenness. Do you remember this?"

I turned toward the Tree of Life and away from Jesus as began to weep deeply. All doorways that had been opened came at me in this moment.

Me: "Lord, please stop and take me Home now."

He grabbed my hand and turned me to Him.

Jesus: "Erin, look at Me and tell Me what you see?"

Me: "Your beauty."

Jesus: "No, look further into My eyes."

As I stood there, I saw all of the deceptions and deep rejections in my life through His eyes. This grieved me immensely and I simply had to look away.

Jesus: "No, Erin, keep looking."

As I stared, I saw each moment that He was there all the way up to this moment.

Me: "Lord, could You not have helped me? Could you not have stopped it to relieve me? Was I not able to learn anything without the deep hurt? Was it really necessary?"

Jesus: "Erin, are you ready to heal now and be filled with living water? Are you ready for so much more than what you have been reduced to on Earth?"

Me: "I have accepted this as part of my lot and now I expect this."

Jesus: "You shared this with the mantle you were gifted with and you made this part of the mantle that you continue to take up. Do you not understand?"

You were given this by Me even as Elijah told you, yet you shared glory with deep pain. Are you ready now for a complete immersion, once and for all?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, please release me of the deep hurt. I have forgiven the offenders, but I have never released myself to You and because of this I can never be free as this has left me in bondage."

He put His hand at the small of my back, right hand on my heart and He immersed me again. As I came up, I saw the Heaven's open with streams of glorious light.

Jesus: "Erin, you are loved and I have given you 'new life'."

I came out of the water and the Lord hugged me. He walked me back to the banks of the river and sat me down.

Me: "Why did You immerse me three times? Why did You not just immerse me once instead?"

Jesus: "Erin, the first represented you as a child, the second represented you as a believer and the third represented you as a disciple."

Me: "How can I be a disciple when I am nothing but a commoner and a Gentile?"

Jesus: "Time to go to the definition of 'disciple' in the Word. Have you not followed Me, immersed yourself in the Word and spread the good news?"

Me: "Lord, this will surely put people in an uproar and many will have trouble with this."

Jesus: "Do not worry as I will deal with them. However, when you look in the Word, do not just go as far as the twelve and do not believe that this is a gauge for stopping. Did I not also call others? Erin, not everyone accepts with full faith even as a Christian that I truly am the giver of good gifts. Do you realize that very few expect miracles today?"

"Many go as far as the prophets to line this up, yet even though during their lifetime they were publicly afflicted, it is through their death and their Books that you now see events unfolding. Then many look at the Gospels for a record and then they look at Acts and understand or believe that the miracles stopped with the miracle of Pentecost.

"Again, this is the enemy displaying a powerful weapon of lack and the common belief that the miracles ended in the Book of Acts. Even the doctrines of one of the largest churches under great scrutiny will barely recognize the miracles of the life of faith. They diminish miracles so much that demons have entered in to create false miracles.

"This is a travesty and many have become separated because of this doctrine, thereby limiting their access to My gifts. The enemy started with the church to deceive. Do you understand what I just did for you?"

Me: "No, I am not sure."

Jesus: "Soon you will understand fully what just happened, but now it is time for you to rest. Are you ready?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I am ready and I am offering myself up to You for whatever 'rest' means."

Jesus: "You observed something in the Bridal Chamber that you never wrote down. Do you remember it?"

Me: "Yes, but it seemed out of character and out of place, so I did not understand it."

Jesus: "I believe you are talking about another blessing. Let's discuss what you did not write down."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, but I did not write down that the sky over the Bridal Chamber had a cloud. It was overcast and seemed not in place to me."

Jesus: "Was I physically with you there?"

Me: "No, You were in the wind."

Jesus: "What of the cloud? Could I have been there?"

Me: "Well, this cloud seemed out of place and it made the chamber area thick and heavy. Lord, were You in the cloud and not the wind?"

Jesus: "As perspective, will I also be using clouds in ways other than glory clouds? What else does the Word of truth say about clouds and what does a cloud consist of?"

Me: "Oh no, this was not a good subject of mine in college either. Please forgive me." He was smiling because He knew this. "The cloud is mostly water, right Lord?"

Jesus: "Very good. So, if I am in the cloud and it is mostly water, what type of water is it? Where are your feet?"

Me: "Well, my feet are in the River of Life, so this must be living water correct?"

Jesus: "Very good. So if there was a glory cloud over the chamber, this is a blessing. Now before in the Garden, the Garden was watered by the River, but there was a canopy over the Garden. When the canopy was lifted after the fall, the Garden was shut up. The Garden eventually became separated from man. Who walked in the Garden?"

Me: "You, Lord."

Jesus: "Yes, but now where is the most beautiful gardens with fountains of living water?"

Me: "By Your Throne."

Jesus: "Very good. Now..."

He grabbed my hand and, in a twinkling of an eye, I was at the bridal chamber balcony. I had a pretty white gown with beautiful details. It was not a bridal gown, but it had beautiful features. I looked over the balcony as it seemed that the massive preparations of the reception were almost complete.

There was the Throne and my Bible was there to the right, but Jesus was no longer there with me so I felt I was alone. I got on my knees and thanked God for all He has done and yet again asked Him to please let me stay this time. I no longer wanted to write and I no longer wanted to go back and forth like this as I was tired.

While I felt energized in my glorified state and also felt that, after I was baptized, I was consecrated and delivered from my painful state. However, I felt something there that I did not like. I was alone and, as I knelt, I felt the breeze and heard Jesus in the wind.

Jesus: "Erin, you are not alone."

Me: "Lord, I was just with You. Where are You?"

Jesus: "Erin, look at the Garden."

I then looked outside at the beautiful fountain and there in front of me was a stunning woman. She was adorned in an incredible embroidered robe of purple and gold and her hair was long and dark. She had perfect features and was clearly one of the most radiant and beautiful women I had ever seen. I heard Jesus' voice in the wind.

Jesus: "Erin, do you know who this is?"

Me: "No, Lord, not at all."

Jesus: "She is who you have compared yourself to."

Me: "Is she Mary Magdalene?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, very good."

Me: "Lord, other than Elijah, Enoch and some of the other saints, You have never really shown me anyone from Bible History. I do not understand why You did this time?"

Jesus: "At the river, you bathed in healing water, you repented and gave Me your heart of deep grief. You showed sincere repentance and now you beg to have more of Me and request to come Home."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I would follow You anywhere even if I am hurt in the process as I know that my pain and suffering is for a greater purpose. I do not enjoy it, but I know that You are doing a good work."

Jesus: "Do you remember what was said to the Pharisee?" Just then, the wind blew the Bible open to Luke 7. "It was about the Pharisees judging Mary."

Me: "I do not understand?"

Jesus: "Erin, look at the life of Mary Magdalene as she was a traveler in the wilderness that I had delivered from demons. She was so grateful that she gave all that she had to Me. She was at the foot of the Cross, at My burial and the first to witness My resurrection. I gave her back what the stripping locusts had stolen and I restored her."

I looked at her and she waved back to me again as her face shined like the sun.

Jesus: "Do you now understand the definition of disciple? Did you understand who followed Me? Did you consider the cost? Erin, when you drink from My cup, you become filled with Me and there is a price to pay for this."

"You cannot understand everything until you fully partake in this. It is a great honor with rewards untold. Erin, you kneel in the bridal chamber and you are next to the Holy of Holies. You are every bit wanted by Me and you are every bit also a Bride.

"Mary had gratitude as what did I then say to the Pharisee? Erin, like you, she loved much. Erin, you love Me and follow Me. Is this not the very definition of disciple? Although Mary Magdalene was the only one mentioned in every single one of Gospels, she was not named as one of the twelve.

"Nonetheless, she was dearly loved by God and served Him extravagantly until she finally died. After she died, I restored her and removed her shame. Now look at her and her beauty. Is she not absolutely radiant?"

I saw all kinds of people embracing her. I saw children hugging her and following her around. She was simply amazing.

Me: "Oh, Lord, forgive me for only recognizing her sin and not what You did to deliver her."

Jesus: "Erin, I am showing you this in order to show you your place here."

I knelt down with my arms raised, praising and thanking Him. Just then, I felt a tap on my shoulder. I turned to my right and it was my guardian angel.

Guardian angel: "Erin, this was a very important day for you. Now go to Psalm 45. I know you are ready to come Home and your time is not far off. Your separation has been occurring gradually for the last seven months."

Me: "But I just read my suffering from June 1st, 2012. It has been almost a year since I was completely emptied. Yesterday was different, but no less scorching. I am obliterated and do not believe I can continue."

Guardian angel: "Erin, He understands this and delivered you from the final things that you carried. Did you understand what He did?"

Me: "No."

Guardian angel: "You are completely free now as all is made right. There are no more barriers now. Go back to the wheat field and run the race to the ladder now. You are free and clear and this will be different this time. Last time, you barely made it, but now you are Home."

Me: "I do not understand?"

Guardian angel: "When you run through the wheat field the final time, there will be a finish line and stairs and no longer a ladder. When you climb the stairs, it will be the time of no turning back. Do you realize that you started on a dirt path, then you went to the ladder and now there will be a platform and stairs?"

I saw the two ridges of the wheat field and the finish line. Then right after that I saw a stairway of cut translucent marble and a purple carpet. There were two large angels standing there at the base, as well as the angel ready to receive me.

Guardian angel: "Erin, now you choose, but there will be no turning back as this is final."

Me: "Have I finished then and is this over?"

Guardian angel: "Erin, Jesus loves you and you have requested something He will now allow. He is willing to receive you now. Are you finished?"

Just then, I realized that he was giving me a choice as I saw the finish line, the stairs and the angel that would receive me.

Guardian angel: "It is time for me to take you there."

Just then, I was alone and in running gear. I stood on a distant ridge and after the first ridge, I saw that there were two more ridges before me. At the end of this, I saw the incredible finish line and I saw saints that had run before me waiting for me.

Guardian angel: "Erin, run at the sound of the third Shofar."

I stood there with my heart racing and my adrenaline was pumping. The first, then the second and then finally the third Shofar sounded and I shot off like a rocket. The ridges were farther than before and I tried to pace myself.

One ridge was now down as I then moved over the second ridge. At this point, I stopped and dropped to my knees even though the finish line was so close. They were all watching me and cheering as I looked at my guardian angel as I heard a choir of angels.

I was then given a vision wherein I saw my children fighting over something in my living room. They were fighting over something of mine that they all loved. I was already gone and they were packing up all of the belongings from our home.

Guardian angel: "Erin, you can get up and finish this race as we are ready to take you Home. There are some people who are very anxious to see you."

Me: I was agonizing. "I am ready, but..."

The angel reached for my arm and in a flash I was back at the banks of the River of Life. My robe was still soaked from being immersed in the water and I was disoriented.

Jesus: "So, Erin, did you decide to wait for another day?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, while I am not here, I am still mostly here?"

Jesus: "Erin, you did not cross the finish line today."

Me: "No, but I am really ready to."

Jesus: "Yes, but there is something holding you back."

Me: "Lord, You only fulfilled one of the promises You gave me from one year ago."

Jesus: "Yes. I recall that you had asked to be used by Me and this you have been granted. You asked for your children's salvation and this you are unsure of, yet I am here to tell you that they will dwell in Heavenly places. Now, let's talk about your elusive third request."

Me: "I have now removed the third request as I no longer desire this."

Jesus: "Yes, but I have not granted this to you yet."

Me: "I have had a change of heart, Lord, so please just grant this to someone else. It was not for me here on Earth."

Jesus: "Erin, I have not forgotten and you have been told you are in My favor. I have granted you things already and I told you this a few days ago. Erin, your heart will change and recover. I have already granted your request as I am a giver of good gifts, but you must have faith.

"I know you are ready to come Home and you will be well received, but would you not like to see some of your fruits? Would it not be enjoyable to see just what I am about to do and partake in this? There is about to be a record harvest. You know when summer is near, right?"

Me: I was in tears. "Lord, please just come out and tell us when You will be delivering us Home. I am tired of puzzles. I love You and this has been an adventure, but I am winding down."

Jesus: "Erin, did I tell you exactly when the mustard plant was removed? Did I not give you the season?"

Me: "Yes, but now more than ever this seems like a very high watch date."

Jesus: "Erin, continue to prepare your field as this is wisdom, but do not make declarations and proclamations as these are foolish. Promise nothing, yet give everything and keep your eyes focused on Me. Now, do you understand what I did for you today?"

Me: "You baptized me."

Jesus: "Not just that, but I also consecrated you as this is a key. You were immersed in healing water and delivered you from the final barriers. I filled your emptiness with living water. Erin, Heaven opened and you heard the Voice of God.

"This was not just some ritual, but was a very holy work and now you are free. You can let go. When you come, you will be ready. There are preparations, but, just like in Esther, there is a waiting period.

"During that wait, there was deception behind the scenes that eventually was exposed. Not only did Esther marry and become Queen, but she helped deliver the Jews. There is timing required and deception must surface. Then when what is dirty is removed then what is pure can be presented to the King."

Me: "Lord, You are speaking in riddles. Forgive me for my lack of understanding. Are You referring to what occurs first before You come for Your Bride?"

Jesus: "Erin, there has been deception so please do not worry. All will be made right and then you will see Me and understand."

Me: "Lord, will it be on June 6th?"

Jesus: "This is an interesting date with many correlations. Erin, do not worry. Have faith for you are loved so now rejoice."

He stood me up and walked me over to my guardian angel. Jesus hugged me and waved. I waved back and my guardian angel spoke to me.

Guardian angel: "Erin, this was a very big day. You do not understand everything just yet, but you will come to realize this. Please take courage. Now it is the time to listen to older watchers as they have knowledge. Go back to Esther and look at Song of Solomon, but do not forget Hosea and Joel.

"Psalm 91 is important and Ezekiel has something of interest. You had a dream last year about a French School. Do you remember? There are other lessons. There is a unique message in Timothy also. Look at clouds and water. Remember Who was in and on the clouds. You are loved.

Dream over...

Much love and many blessings...Sparrowcloud9

Dream 065 – Faith & Locusts: Chasing Open Heaven

Received Monday, May 27, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 14)

Lord, last night, in the sky, was an amazing sight. I wanted so much to get a photo. If only I had just turned the car around. It was such a beautiful sight. Although I missed the perfect picture, I drove another route to try to get a glimpse again. I chased it. As I drove, it began to fade, but the opening remained.

I began to sing a song from many years ago. I forget the exact title, but I recalled the song, so I sang, "You are awesome in this place, mighty God. You were awesome in this place, Abba Father. You are worthy of our praise..."

I was singing it a-cappella and with my whole heart. To a trained ear, it might not have been perfect, but, for a moment, I sang in my Heavenly voice. It was beautiful and the pitch was perfect. I began to cry because I was ready for Heaven and ready to have this voice in Heaven worshipping God.

As I listened to what was coming out of my mouth, I repeated the chorus at least seven times. After a while, I began to focus on my own voice and how pretty it sounded instead of the full worship to the King of the universe, God Almighty.

When I did that instead, my voice began to fade and revert back to having a lack of breath and lung capacity. Now the pitch was off as well. I wanted so much to rewind this.

Just then, the perfect visual of the 'Open Heaven' I was just chasing to get another glimpse of faded too. My focus has changed. I find myself looking for Jesus everywhere now. I am hungry for signs and desire confirmations in everything.

My dreams at night seem to be about a time coming. I find myself constantly asking the Lord to separate me, my children, my friends and my enemies from the time that is coming; yes, even my enemies. However, based on what I see, I know this is coming as the Bible tells us it is.

All I can do is pray for His Perfect Will to be done and for Him to grant me my request that, one day, I will dwell in the House of the Lord near His Altar. Really, if I could just be in His Bridal Chamber, I would be thrilled.

I read 1 Timothy and 2 Timothy. I felt the Holy Spirit confirm that these instructions are excellent teaching for our times right now. These two Books of the Bible are a complete 'how to behave before Jesus comes so soon' manual.

On Tuesday, May 28th, the sky was just as incredible. I chased after the clouds again as I saw an 'Open Heaven' one more time in the evening. I was late coming out of work and it was about 7:00 pm. This had been perfectly clear day, but, for whatever reason, I did not expect to see this beautiful sight again and didn't bring a camera.

The beautiful clouds that formed the 'Open Heaven' was now right over our housing development. We live on the edge of the Hanford Nuclear Site and at the base of Snake Mountain.

Even in an ugly place, with a stripped bare mountain which bears the name of the enemy, God creates beauty. God creates beauty in a barren land and I will chase after it when I see it. After all, any glimpse of God here on Earth is worth chasing down as it is so rare. Here is the picture I finally took of the 'Open Heaven':

PICTURE OF OPEN HEAVEN IN REPLY BELOW...

I took this picture when I made the wise decision to bring my camera 'just in case'. Again, I worked late and didn't leave work until about 7:15 pm. There I saw the 'Open Heaven' in the sky again. I prayed and asked the Lord if He would let me capture this beautiful work of His art.

Well, He didn't just give me what I was hoping for, but a special treat also. When I got home and enlarged the photo (see picture above), there, to the left, was a silver illuminated path up the mountain. I cried and thanked Him for His love and favor.

On Thursday, May 30th, I brought the camera again. I worked late, ran to the store and then I saw the 'Open Heaven' forming again. It was around 7:00pm. I dropped the groceries at the house and asked the kids if they would like to join me in my cloud pursuit.

I had no takers, so I went up two blocks by myself and sat there for a while at the edge of concrete and desert looking at Snake Mountain. I sat for forty five minutes and just took some time to worship the Lord. It was awesome.

After communion, prayer and thanksgiving, dream begins...

Jesus: "Come up, Erin."

I am 25 years old. I run to Him on the rock. Jesus stands up to hug me. I was happier today. My children were home safely and I got a lot of work done this week.

Me: "I am so glad to see You, Lord."

Jesus: "I am glad to see you too."

He takes my hand and takes me to the tree. There was a beautiful patch of perfect velvety grass at the base. He motions for me to sit and then grabs two pieces of fruit. He took a bite out of one of the them and hands me the other. I was laughing.

Me: "What are you doing? Is that a better piece of fruit?"

Jesus: "I want to make sure I am giving you one that you hadn't tasted before."

Me: I was laughing. "But, Lord, You would know this."

He did not say anything. He had a big smile and a funny way about him. He seemed very happy.

Jesus: "How are you?"

Me: "I have more peace today than a couple of days ago. My dreams are odd, so my Spirit is unsettled."

Jesus: "Why is this?"

Me: "It seems that pain has a stain; a lingering effect."

Jesus: "Why do you think this is allowed? Why is pain allowed?"

Me: "With me, it is to take down the security of my position. Maybe, I am arrogant?"

Jesus: "Do you really believe this in all cases?"

Me: "No. You endured pain and You are not arrogant, but, with people, it seems the pain should be like a compass to submission."

Jesus: "Erin, do you realize what you just spoke?"

Me: "You mean pain as a compass?"

Jesus: "No, why is pain allowed?"

Me: "Well, You just told me a couple of days ago that all things that occur here on Earth are meant to have us point to You and things of Heaven in parable."

Jesus: "Why did I want to give you a piece of fruit that you had not tasted before?"

Me: "I have no idea."

Jesus: "When you were here last, your pain was great. Indeed, your pain was so great that you barely saw the blessing of what had been done for you. If I gave you a taste of the same fruit, you would focus on the pain again and not understand that this is a new day.

"Someday soon, you will come to the Tree of Life. I will give you that fruit and you will no longer feel the pain, but take a bite and smile. You will remember that you are free and were delivered that day. This fruit is good and should not be avoided."

Me: "Lord, this makes perfect sense, but I don't understand why this happens?"

Jesus: "Let me explain. Do you remember when you were eight years old? There was an accident. Do you remember what happened?"

Me: "Oh, I hadn't thought about that for some time. I had just finished a bowling team practice after school. While I was in the bowling alley, I was given a pack of 'sugar babies' candy.

"Then, after having a good score, I was granted another packet of sugar babies. I devoured both packets. I left the bowling alley and began to walk across a six lane road.

"In the crosswalk, on a busy avenue in California, I crossed five of the lanes and the traffic had stopped for me. However, I was small and the last car in the fifth lane blocked the site for the cars in the sixth lane.

"The last thing I remembered, there was a car coming at me as I was crossing the sixth, and last, lane. The car struck me at quite a speed and I blacked out upon impact."

Jesus: "This day was a miracle for you. Your guardian angel was there, along with an entire group of angels. This is what I remember:

"Just as the car was hitting your right side, an angel held back the car from impacting you too much. Your body was thrown up into midair and there was another angel who grabbed you and gently set you down. Witnesses were screaming as everyone thought you were dead, but you did not remember a thing."

Me: "I knew You were there because I never even felt the impact of the car, but I saw it. The witnesses claimed I flew thirty feet into the air."

Jesus: "Well, it wasn't quite thirty feet." He was laughing at the witnesses. "It was about ten feet, but your flute went fifteen feet."

Me: "It was amazing, really. Nothing was broken. I had bruises and scratches and a concussion, but that is it. I was ready to run around a few days later."

Jesus: "So, what was the last thing that you remembered about this?"

Me: "I never ate another Sugar Baby again."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Why?"

Me: "It reminded me of the trauma of that day. In fact, now that You mention it, I have gotten rid of anything that traumatized me ever during any event."

Jesus: "Why do you think that is?"

Me: "Because I don't want to go back there. The bad overshadows anything good."

Jesus: "Do you remember how you acquired the sugar babies to begin with?"

Me: I was laughing. "Yes. I had received three strikes for one packet. I also had three spares, so I received one more packet."

Jesus: "Did it change your love for bowling?"

Me: "No, but it changed my taste for sugar babies."

Jesus: "In fact, the enemy uses that to diminish the joy you had that day. He hated you from the beginning. He had petitioned for your death that day, same as Job, but your assignment, that was greater here, was not to end at age eight. I did not call you Home.”

Me: “Lord, help me with what You did for me. I am already sitting next to You here. Help me to understand.”

Jesus: “Erin, you need to understand, still, even with everything that has happened? Even though this life has brought you more sorrow and lack than joy, there was, and is, a divine plan for each life who is marked as God’s from birth. God, the Father, is in control of your destiny. It has been determined. You cannot change what the Lord has planned.”

Me: “But man has free will. Can’t I change my own course?”

Jesus: “Where is this written? God determines the race from the beginning. He knows in advance of your course. God understands you because He knit you in your Mother’s womb. How much more, then, did He also knit the fiber of your life?”

Me: “This is where I am always confused. Here, I have been given the gift of being here with You and You revealing more and more to me, yet, in an earthly sense, I stumble and fall in the middle of this. How can this be? Why not remove the ministry from me and give this to someone more qualified or deserving?”

Jesus: He is laughing. “Okay, and who would that be? Erin, the stumbling you are encountering and experiencing is things common to man. These are the things that are used for God’s glory. Your heart is sincere with repentance. It is the heart that I look at, not the credentials. Have I already taken you this far on your journey for you to still doubt your place? Are you trying to lose grace?”

Me: “Maybe I am without understanding?”

Jesus: “Grace is not granted by man for man. Grace is granted from God for man. Man cannot dictate God’s grace. Man cannot provoke God unless He sees something in the heart.”

Me: “But man can provoke God to jealousy.”

Jesus: “Yes, by falling away with his heart and chasing after other gods. This is true, but God still uses this for His glory.”

Me: “Lord, I fear Your wrath is coming.”

Jesus: "Why are you afraid? Have I not equipped you in advance with the weapons for wars? Did I not also train you on how to fight? If you have nothing else, then stand and have faith."

Me: "Since I am having more dreams about our Homecoming, You must be coming for us soon? It seems the signs are there."

Jesus: "There are some things that must occur first, but you are seeing the signs around you all pointing to My return. Erin, you had a dream some time ago and you were instructed now to go back to older dreams. There is a particular dream that will reveal something that is occurring right now. Do you remember this?"

Me: "Lord, there are dreams You have given me that have made me sit directly up out of my sleep because I knew that they were more than just a nightmare."

Jesus: "There was one in particular where you were with your daughter in a storm. Do you recall this?"

Me: "Oh, yes; vividly. I thought it was personal though."

Jesus: "In that season, perhaps, but, now, let's review it."

Me: "It was in broad daylight. My daughter, who was ten years old at the time, and I were living in a glass single-story residence on a wide open prairie, or field, with corn rows. It was a beautiful sunny day. The two of us were laughing and singing. Then, all of the sudden, with no warning, a series of seven tornadoes came upon us. We had great fear as we watched them coming."

Jesus: "Why were you afraid?"

Me: "Several reasons. First, there was no basement. It was a glass house. It should have destroyed us. My fear was that there was no cover so all I could do was cry out to You and cover my daughter. The tornados swept over our house, one by one, in succession; each systematically lined up."

Jesus: "Again, tell Me why it was frightening"

Me: "Because we saw them in advance and understood that they would destroy us. It wasn't an 'if', it was a 'will'; an absolute."

Jesus: "Hmm, so, an absolute, interesting; then what?"

Me: "I braced for impact, covered my daughter and prayed. It was the only thing we could do. We had no power. I had no authority here and no ability to protect my household. I had no time to run to the car or flee to the mountains. I was laid bare and I just knew I would die, but, I thought, I could at least attempt to help my child. It was a horrifying dream."

Jesus: "Wait, horrifying? What happened? Do you remember?"

Me: "Yes. The tornadoes went over the house and the house shook. The howling sound was so creepy, loud and deafening. It sounded like a freight train with each tornado passing. I counted them off. I realize that the next one could be even worse and it was. Each was worse than the last."

Jesus: "What happened after the last one?"

Me: "I realized that I had counted seven tornadoes. I touched my daughter to see if she responded. I was afraid to open my eyes to look in case she was dead. I heard her crying and moving. Then I opened my eyes and realize she was unharmed. I was relieved.

"I looked around and the damage was minimal. I looked in the front yard at the direction they came from and there was a path right to our front door. Then I looked behind to the back of the house. The skies were black and the seven tornadoes were obliterating brick homes like they were paper objects."

Jesus: "Why did your glass house stand?"

Me: "Because You covered us. We were divinely protected. However, Lord, there are Christians and those seeking You that fall victim to tornadoes every day. Are they not also covered?"

Jesus: "Yes. Where would they reside?"

Me: "Here in Heaven."

Jesus: "Yes, is this not where you want to be?"

Me: "Yes, of course."

Jesus: "So, is the worst thing here the death of the believer on Earth or delivering that person to the Promised Land of Heaven?" He was smiling.

Me: "Of course, Heaven is better."

Jesus: "So, to Me, it is an act of faith and, without faith, it is impossible to please Me, right?" He was smiling.

Me: "So this dream is significant now?"

Jesus: "You were told to go back to a few of these dreams."

Me: "There is another one from last summer. It was about ten beds and ten kings."

Jesus: "Where have I seen this before?" He was smiling and chuckling.

Me: "Lord, but I posted it and no one saw anything of interest."

Jesus: "That's why you were removed from that place. You were not liked there and easily dismissed. This is now in the past. Look what I did on your behalf. Did I not create a safe place for you amongst friends to help you?"

"Erin, there are friends here and soon to come, friends that have great instruction and divine gifts. They will help. Now, I am never in a hurry. Heaven does not rush, only man scurries because the clock ticks."

Me: "Lord, time is running out here. Forgive us for being on high alert. I know sometimes we let fear reign."

Jesus: "Wait, I never said it was wrong to be prepared, be on watch and to be steady. My Word is clear on where to look for your redeemer. What you must do is prepare your field and plant your seeds. By faith, then see what I will do. There is never an 'if' concerning Me, only a 'when'."

Me: "I must have more faith."

Jesus: "Erin, what have you learned about locusts? You have been asking Me about the stripping locusts."

Me: "Well, let's say I have prepared my field, planted my seed and completely have faith that You will provide the rain, the sun and the favor of a good crop. Well, the enemy hates this and asked You to test me, or sift me, as wheat, like Peter. So then the locusts came."

"With me, it has been very similar to the pattern in Joel 1:4-7. First, the stripping locusts come. Then, these swarming locusts come. Then, the trials overwhelm me. Then, the cleanup crews of the locusts come and steal any remaining provisions. Then, the final group of locusts come and burrow in ground and destroy my roots, thereby obbing me of my faith."

Jesus: "You have kept a great record of the patterns of your trouble."

Me: "Oh yes, there is a pattern."

Jesus: "So, let's review this. The stripping locusts come and devour your new growth. Then the swarming locusts come in and destroy the tender bark of your branches, exposing your covering. Then the next group comes to even destroy the exposed branches and stubs. Then the last group comes and destroys your roots? Erin, you have just spoken as Joel."

Me: "Lord, I am sorry. I did not mean to seem wise in my own eyes. I just recognize the pattern of the enemy in my life. I did not mean to act as an authority like You or even Joel."

Jesus: "Erin, I was not mocking you. I was just amazed that you've grown in such understanding of the locusts, or the enemy, and the patterns of the battles, yet you have failed in one area. Do you know what that is?"

Me: "I don't understand?"

Jesus: "Who is the Author and Finisher of your faith?"

Me: "You. I am sorry, Lord."

Jesus: "Your emphasis is on the locusts, not the God who sent them. There are Scriptures about humbling yourselves, but, more importantly, about faith. Without faith, it is impossible to please Me."

Me: "I focused too much attention on the damage that the devastation caused, not why it came or what You would do to show Your glory."

Jesus: "Erin, this is good. Things will become worse, understand? Even scientists understand this. So, what will you do? Will you focus on the loss or come to Me as the builder of your faith? The locusts of the Bible are desert locusts.

"This has dual meaning. There is much wisdom granted to Joel in this Book. Read through it once again and you will see what is to come. You'll see Me also. I will deliver you to the land of milk and honey. Your wilderness training here is almost complete.

"The enemy would use the message of the locust as a tool to destroy you by focusing everything on the trouble. He would even cut you to the core, by your very roots in the process, thereby destroying your faith in the end.

"If you set your sights on Me, your feet will firmly reside on solid ground. You will be on solid ground and a firm foundation. Do you remember what a capstone does to a heavy stone arch?"

Me: "Yes, the capstone is the headstone and it keeps the arch in place."

Jesus: "See, this is good. What the enemy uses for bad, God will use it for His glory. So, your foundation is the Word of God. I am the capstone over your threshold, or arch, and your house is your body. The dweller in your house is the Holy Spirit, whom I have sent and, over all of this, is God, the Father in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, can I pray for Open Heaven over everyone's house?"

Jesus: "This is a good prayer and this I will do. However, without faith to believe, Open Heaven will only be a picture on a postcard. You will not be able to receive from an Open Heaven unless you believe that the giver of good gifts resides on the Throne and longs to give you what you ask for. You must, without doubt, believe that you will receive it, understand?"

Me: "I think so."

Jesus: "When you are given gifts by faith, you are not to focus on yourself, but on Me and the miracle. If you focus on your greatness to perform them, you will lose your authority given by Me to administer them to others. You must humble yourselves, receive and remain authoritatively humble under the leading of the Holy Spirit.

"You are to be no longer conscious of yourselves, but a willing vessel to be filled with God's glory. Your own glory cannot dwell with God. People will try to glorify you, but you remain only yielding to the Holy Spirit in all things, understand?"

"Do not act on your own authority by faith in yourself as you are not God, but act on the faith that I am the giver of good gifts. Without faith, it is impossible to please God."

Me: "Lord, You have just said that three times. Am I without faith?"

Jesus: "The testing of faith, a life of faith, is patient endurance. Faith is persevering against all obstacles and, despite yourselves, running the good race toward Me. Erin, yes, I am at the finish line, but I also started with you at the blowing of the Shofars and I ran right beside you during it. I even jumped ahead and received you at the finish line."

Me: "Sometimes I think You have left me to run the race alone. I know You were at the end of it, but I didn't think You were next to me."

Jesus: "Erin, where are the Scriptures you have studied? See, this is the enemy at his best in the race. How many spies were sent into the land of Canaan?"

Me: "Twelve, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, ten came back with a bad report, completely forgetting all of the miracles they witnessed God display on their journey up from Egypt. They witnessed these firsthand, so the ten were denied access to the Promised Land and their actions forced the Israelites to wander in the desert one year for each day.

"The spies were in the land for many days and they angered God. Think about this, they were delivered from slavery in Egypt, they saw the mighty hand of God working against Pharaoh, they drank water from a spring that came from a rock and they ate the food of angels from Heaven.

"To bring them comfort in the desert, they saw a pillar of cloud by day and fire by night, yet these miracles were not enough. These are miracles of God's favor, yet they wondered if God was mighty enough to deliver them from some giants in the Promised Land? Years later, even as a young boy, David defeated the Philistine giant with one smooth stone. This was the enemy showing them how to focus on the bad.

"Caleb and Joshua pleased God. Their report of the Promised Land was good. Instead of complaining and grumbling, they focused on thankfulness to the Lord. God, who takes care of His children, is the lover of their souls and their creator; the author and finisher.

"The ten were locusts. Ten men brought down the people by their words of cursing, yet the Lord did not forget Joshua and Caleb and they received their reward. Their thankfulness and faith in God to complete His Word and deliver them to the Promised Land was enough to sustain them while they ran their race.

"Now, where are you, Erin?"

Me: "You were showing me the Promised Land. My spirit is beginning to prepare me for the separation or is preparing me to leave here and come Home. I know the finish line is soon and I know You are there to receive me. Forgive me, Lord, for not recognizing You when I was running this supernatural race."

Jesus: "This is wisdom. First, Who made your body capable? Second, Who gave you the ability to dive for the ladder? Third, Who gave you the wisdom to remain here in Me to finish a strong race, even when you were allowed to stop?"

Me: "Forgive me, Lord. I am guilty of this."

Jesus: "Erin, this was not to convict you, but just to remind you of your focus. You have been shown your place. You were told you finish strong. Now, surround yourself with the likes of Joshua and Caleb. Let the ten locusts, and their group, wander for an additional forty months. You can do nothing for them, at this point, except pray and believe that God will do all things for His glory not theirs

"You will be far removed when they realize their role in the race came with consequences. Let them lead unto their own understanding. Let them follow their own version of Me and My abilities. Let them have only what they have faith for.

"But you; you must place your focus on Me when trouble comes, recognize Who runs with you and who dwells in you. You must recognize the Holy Spirit and Who receives you. Be blessed and take comfort. Have faith. Were you not told you finish strong?"

Me: "Lord, how is the dream of the seven tornadoes significant? You said we are right in the middle of this. What does it mean?"

Jesus: "There are things that are about to occur, Erin, and some have already happened. Now, go back to several of your dreams. Look at these dreams again and examine them. They have great significance now. You always wondered, at the time, what those meant. Now these will make sense. Remember, it takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out."

Me: "But, Lord, there are so many dreams. I have many storm dreams, but I thought those were personal?"

Jesus: "Do you remember your personal sign for when you are going to come into trouble?"

Me: "Do you mean warfare or personal trauma? Yes, you always send me an epic storm dream right before personal trouble, like a death or loss. This has always been seven days in advance of the trouble, I believe."

Jesus: "No, Erin, not always. Sometimes you have been given the storm dreams three days in advance. Now, know that there is a pattern that is coming. This is always also in Scripture. This is not to scare you, but prepare you for what is to come. You have been warned about this for some time. These things must occur. These are signs in Scriptures. These events have been foretold from the beginning. Erin, you have also had dreams of earthquakes."

Me: "Jesus, why not just tell Me what's coming, Lord, so we know what to expect?"

Jesus: "Erin, the dreams of seven tornadoes is very clear. Scriptures show you what needs to occur first."

Me: "So, should we be looking for seven tornadoes before You come, Lord?"

Jesus: "Erin, where does it say that I'll be coming from on the clouds?"

Me: "Lord, I assumed we would be looking in the sky as You are coming on the clouds."

Jesus: "Erin, you seem anxious now. Please take heart and take courage. Look around you. Everything is in parable now. All of it points to My return, remember?"

Me: "Lord, You seem irritated with me. You were smiling. Now, I have bothered You."

Jesus: "No, Erin, but I am unable to disclose the details to you. You, yourself, said that you have always taken comfort in signs. You take comfort in knowing that My Words are truthful and that I am fair and just. So, if I am these things and I am the lover of your soul and your Groom, then this would make you a Bride, correct? If you are the Bride, then are you prepared for Me?"

Me: "Oh, I hope so. I think so?"

He was smiling again and laughing.

Jesus: "Remember, Erin, that a heart of sincere repentance removes the power of the enemy over you. When you speak truth, the enemy has no weapons to form against you. You have been taught many things. Are you better today than one year ago?"

Me: "Oh, yes. Today was the exact day, one year ago, that I was crushed. I thought my life was over, but look what You have done. I am so thankful."

I dropped to my knees and bowed to Him. He stood up and brought me to my feet and hugged me.

Jesus: "Erin, very soon you will see just how much I love you. It is beyond measure. I have so much waiting for all of you. It is far beyond what you have seen or imagined. Remember, what the locusts have stolen, I will restore fully. You will have joy everlasting.

"All tears will be wiped dry and you will bath in the River of Life. Your body will no longer be dying and you will be restored. You will run faster than ever and your feet will never even touch the ground. You will see things that will be so incredible that, when you look at where you have come from, you will be relieved to be removed.

"You will sing like an angel and your face will shine like the sun. You will see your friends and celebrate your new Home. You will have many more surprises that even Paul was not comfortable speaking of. Even you have seen things that you have kept to yourself for good reason.

"This is why you are tired. You see the finish line. You see the events in Matthew. You understand Joel. You see the patterns of the ten and you recognize the season. You have been shown that the calendar has been changed and that things are not always as they seem.

"Now, as you read Scripture and, like no other times before, the Word of the Lord will be profound with deeper meaning and truth. This is a miracle. You have been asleep until now and soon you will be with Me here. You will no longer need to cling to that rock, but you will sit on this and remember our times together in close communion.

"Erin, those who chose not to see Me in these dreams of yours never really saw Me to begin with. This is no longer your concern. You have paid the price and have lived according to My Perfect Will. At times, it has been heartbreaking and more times than not.

"However, now you rest with Me and you have become My friend and My Bride. I know that this life has not been easy and you did not see all that you had hoped for here, but can I tell you that there is something so spectacular waiting for you in Heaven.

"You reside near My Altar, you are under My wings and, there, you will have a Home and rest. There, you will find peace, joy and love everlasting. I love you."

Vision over...

Tears, I have nothing to say, just tears. Jesus is coming soon. Prepare.

Love and blessings...SparrowCloud9...Erin

Dream 066 – Repentance

Received Thursday, June 6, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 15)

Lord, if I have caused any one to stumble and fall away, please forgive me in advance. I never want to make anyone stumble, let alone turn from You. Father, I have seen the balcony of the Bridal Chamber and, there, You have blessed me beyond measure. I have seen the Home coming and the celebration and I am so excited. I pray that I am there. God, I love You.

You have shown me so many things. Who am I, really? Lord, please, Father, show me this is You. Lord, show me I am in Your favor. Speak to me like never before. Rattle me to the core.

Lord, another YouTube prophet declared herself one of the Two Witnesses. Lord, I know this is not true. Father, if I am wrong or I have seen incorrectly, then please punish me here so that I can proclaim it and come clean before You. If anything that I have done has not bared witness then please, Lord, convict me prior to Your coming so that I can be made 'right' before You.

Jesus: "Come up, Erin."

I am a little child; again, around 8 years old.

Me: "Hayah."

He stands to greet me. He lifts me off my feet, picks me up and holds me on His left shoulder. My head lays and I softly began to cry.

Jesus: "Erin, what's wrong?"

Me: "Lord, I am afraid You will come when I am not prepared and I will have no time to make things right. I lied to a client today. If You had come at that moment, I would have not been able to enter near Your Throne."

Jesus: "Erin, why lie? What made it so you lied?"

Me: "To appease them."

Jesus: "Did you do this for their benefit or yours?"

Me: "Mine, Lord, and mostly to make my day go better while I deal with the problem. It was also to ease theirs while I dealt with the problem."

Jesus: "So, you did this for yourself at the benefit of yourself?"

Me: "Lord, forgive me. In my business, I often tell others what they want to hear rather than the reality."

Jesus: "So, now I have spoken to you about open doors."

Me: "Here, Lord, I have come this far. I have worked hard at coming to You with no stains on my garments. I come to You in repentance every day, yet here I did this yesterday."

Jesus: "I am glad you told Me. Let's try an experiment. Each day, I would like you to lay the day before Me: at the foot of the Cross, if you like. Offer Me your day so I might have it and let's see if the flood gates of Heaven don't open for you. Now, today, and for the next 24 hours, hold your tongue if you must, but try, one day, to crucify yourself. Crucify your flesh to Me."

Me: "You are not rebuking me for coming this far and still breaking one of Your commandments?"

Jesus: "Erin, you confessed. You confess before you go to sleep at night; why?"

Me: "So that if You come as a 'Thief in the Night', while I sleep, then I can be 'right' before You."

Jesus: "This is good, but, also, you must not hold anything against your neighbor and forgive them. Pray for them and bless them in My Name; thereby never going to sleep with spite, anger or bitterness. Then, when you wake, your day is brand new. So are you ready to give Me this day of yours?"

Me: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "Now I must have all of it. Yes, all of it. Understand?"

Me: "No, I guess I don't? Help me."

Jesus: "You are holding back something." I thought for a moment and tried to figure this out. "Erin, speak out loud."

Me: "Well, I offer you my day. I have forgiven my trespassers. I have confessed my sins. Oh, wait; I gossiped three times yesterday. Forgive me, I just forgot that."

Jesus: "Erin, you confessed this last night before bed."

Me: "Then I don't know."

Jesus: "The children, Erin."

Me: "Oh, forgive me. Lord, I have been anxious all week about this. My daughter is at camp near Seattle and I have no access at all. This has never happened before. Then my son is at his dad's house, but I was able to see him and help him with a project. We had a great time and became closer than ever this week. Thank You, Father. My difficult child has been with me this week. We have restored our relationship and we have laughed. I see You working here. What have I done?"

Jesus: "Erin, give Me your daughter and do not have fear."

Me: I began to weep as I have been afraid. "Forgive me, Lord. I lay my daughter before You at the Cross."

Jesus: "I will take her as she is mine too. Do you understand that fear has weakened your armor this week? When your armor is weak, it is an open door for sin. You have become tired and even your heart is weak. Now give this to Me too. I would like your heart so that I may heal it. I love you, Erin. Don't covet this. Release it to Me fully so that everyday can be brand new."

Love and blessings.....sparrowcloud9.....Erin

Dream 067 – Stones

Received Saturday, June 8, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 16)

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You that I live like a queen. Thank You for all that You have done. My beginnings are from dust.

Father, forgive me of my sins. There are many this week. I pray that my foundation is still firm as I rest on Your rock of salvation during the week and cling to it during my storms.

Lord, I am still afraid, this very day, that I cannot shake what You show me while I sleep. You instruct me during the hours of the night in the hidden room of dreams. When I wake, You review what You would like me to write as the scene plays before me. I am not always perfect in my writing, but I try my best to only reveal what is permissible.

Lord, if everyone knew the depths of Your love and the incredible way You love us beyond earthly love, they would be amazed. I sometimes forget, with my daily routine, how much care You have taken and how much You long to be in our presence and how You long to be near us and walk with us daily.

If I take the deep love I have for my children and multiply it, times one billion, this still does not scratch the surface of what You have waiting in Heaven for us. If everyone knew it, then there would be less sin and hopelessness.

Here, I have seen and know all I do, yet I fall into sin automatically without a thought. My 'flesh' and my 'self' govern my actions when I don't seek You in all I do. Here, I have gone on this long journey of life. I have gone through the Valleys of Baca and Achor. I have seen glimpses of the Valley of Berakah despite my imperfections.

You saw something in me during my journeys that made me a prize. My heart was on You in the midst of my anguish. My heart failed You in the midst of my prosperity when I became 'self-made', my own god. Now, in my desert existence, when I had lost all hope of ever seeing Your face again and I was at my worst, You called me back.

You spoke tenderly to me. You healed my wounds and You made the Valleys of Achor and Baca doors of hope. In extreme pain, poverty and sorrow, You lifted my head and spoke to me.

Jesus: "Now, are you ready for what comes next, Erin?"

Me: "Lord, I have lost everything and, almost, even my children. What do I have to lose here?"

My broken heart and willing Spirit allowed the Lord to work. I no longer said, 'but', 'why' or 'when'. I just let Him create His story in this season.

At first, I was apprehensive and doubted my worth. At times, when I am weak, this still comes up as the enemy is fighting back. However, the Lord removes this by speaking to me. I always need signs and confirmations from Him to provide me with comfort.

While the Lord should have removed my gift, instead He gave me double the confirmations each time so that I knew His voice within me versus the counterfeit voices from my environment. He took me on a fantastic journey, a living love letter, so I could understand all the ways that our Lord God loves us in the Bible.

He took Words on the pages and illuminated them so that they became written upon my very heart. I learned, through the valuable stories of our patriarchs, prophets, disciples and apostles, just how deep and how wide the breadth of His love is for me. I could not fathom it or contain it.

The greatest commandment is to love the Lord and love each other. This will cover a multitude of sins and is the gateway to the heart of Jesus. Through Jesus, all the other fruits bear witness to our life of faith. How I long to be in His presence, how I long to capture His heart, how I long to reside near His Altar and even in His Courts and how I long to be a Bride in His Bridal Chamber, anticipating Him more every day.

For He has made the Song of Songs come alive for me. His love letter is written in my heart and only He can have it. Our evidence of our life of faith is written here on the table of our hearts and I am just one story; just one.

Jesus, today, I give You my heart and I lay my life and my family at the foot of the Cross. We are Yours to do as You will. When I took communion today, I remembered Your suffering and I remembered that Your blood covers us.

When we give our hearts to You, this is a binding contract. The Holy Spirit reminds me all day long about the depth and breadth of Your love. I love You, Lord, and thank You for the tablet of my heart.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

Immediately, I am up by the River of Life and the rock next to it. I am about 25 years old. I am wearing my white robe; very simple. He is getting up from His place on the rock and opens His arms to receive me. I run to Him and we embrace. I immediately bend down at His feet and feel the need to confess my sins this week to 'come clean'.

Jesus: "Erin, you are forgiven."

He takes my hand and walks me to the tree. He grabs the same fruit as from the day of my river baptism. Then He grabs another after He takes a bite of the first one. I still find this fascinating.

Me: "Lord, I don't understand why You are checking the fruit?"

He is smiling and laughing because He is doing this solely for my benefit.

Jesus: "Erin, I want to make sure the fruit is good now."

Me: "Lord, the fruit here is always good." He was still laughing.

Jesus: "Come."

He takes the fruit in His hand and takes me back over to the river. He removes His sandals and wades into the river. He reaches down and picks up five smooth stones. He waves me to come in with Him.

I never mind because the water is perfect and, when my body is in this water, it rejuvenates my cells. It is incredible really. He has me stand beside Him. He gives me two stones and He keeps the other three.

I notice the stones are precious gems, but polished and smooth. His three were a sapphire, an opal and a ruby. In my hand, there was a beautiful beryl, which is like an emerald, and a diamond with no facets. I was staring at these. They were amazing.

He takes the beautiful ruby and He skips it perfectly on the water six times and then it drops on the seventh. It was incredible because, when it dropped, this small stone formed an almost two foot wake in the water. The water splashed up on the sides of the bank.

Me: "Wow, how did that small ruby cause such a huge wake?"

Jesus: "Sometimes the smallest things cause the greatest effects."

Me: "But, when it fell, the ripple was immense." Then He nodded and motioned for me to skip with one of mine. "Can't I keep mine? They are so beautiful."

Jesus: "Erin, I can fish them back out of the water. Even if I don't bring up the same one, they are still there; 'hidden in plain sight'. Look down."

I looked down and through the crystal clear water. I saw millions of polished gemstones. The entire bottom of the river was covered in millions of earthly dollars of precious gems; here in Heaven, they are common.

Jesus: "Okay, I'll throw the next one."

He then takes the beautiful opal and it skips perfectly again six times, then down on the seventh. This time, the ripple was mid-river and formed a perfect circle of rings; soft ripples, but not a wake. I was amazed because His form was perfect. I never considered Jesus to be an athlete before. He read my thoughts immediately. I was smiling.

Jesus: "So, what, did you not think I was capable of good coordination?" He was laughing.

Me: "No. Of course You are perfect, Lord. I just remembered that You are perfect and I just realized that, of course, You would be the perfect athlete too."

He was laughing as He noticed I was feeling bad about never thinking of Him this way.

Me: "So, do You play sports in Heaven?"

He was really laughing now. I had never seen Him laugh like this before. He was not weak either, but strong. In this moment, I knew there was nothing He could not do.

Jesus: "Okay, I will throw My last stone."

Me: I was cheering Him on. "Make this a really good one."

Jesus: "Okay."

He takes the sapphire stone and, with an amazing side arm, He throws the stone. It skips three times, then flattens out, then jumps up and skips three more times and then, on the seventh, it miraculously jumps up three feet and drops.

There was a huge impact. The ground shook and the stones below my feet all moved. The splash caused waves to move over the banks of the river and our robes were wet. The ripple effect seemed to last for the longest time.

He walked down to the place where the stones entered and found the three stones. He then walked back to me.

Me: "Wow, now that was incredible."

Jesus: Smiling. "Well, you are easy to amuse."

He then showed me the stones:

Ruby: 2½" long by 1½" in diameter.

Opal: 2" long by 1" in diameter.

Sapphire: 1½" long by 1" in diameter.

Me: "How did You make such small stones cause such great effects?"

Jesus: "It doesn't take much. Sometimes the size of the stone doesn't matter and sometimes it does. Now, you go, Erin."

I looked down at my stones. The diamond looked like it would be a good one.

Diamond: 3" long by 2" in diameter.

So, I put it in my hand with my index finger and my hand supporting it. My thumb was the leveler. I envisioned how Jesus had thrown this and, with a less than perfect side arm throw, my perfect diamond 'skipping stone' hopped once and then jumped up into the air so high that I could barely see it.

Jesus jumped up on the edge of the bank and caught it with perfect form in the air. I was clapping and laughing in delight. It was amazing. I had never seen anything like that. The diamond flew up so high that I couldn't see it and Jesus still caught it in the air.

Me: "I never imagined our Savior could do this."

Jesus: "Really? Am I not capable of catching a stone, yet I can catch you when you fall?"

He was laughing, but now I wasn't.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, I didn't mean to reduce You down to earthly levels."

Jesus: "Erin, it is okay. This is good. Now, you won't understand what happened here today immediately, but there is a message here."

Me: "I know that a small stone can leave a big impact."

Jesus: "Yes and no. There is more. You will understand soon."

Me: "Lord, why did June 6th come and go with nothing significant? Why was that a day with many correlations?"

Jesus: "Erin, what were you expecting?"

Me: "Well, the Rapture, of course."

Jesus: "Oh, you are talking about the dream. Erin, it was symbolic though. Remember, I did not give you that date. The dream, however, was not from the enemy. This made you look closely at the correlations of the date. You saw many compelling arguments to this date, correct?"

Me: "Yes, but why give this if You weren't coming?"

Jesus: "Erin, make no mistake, I am coming for you. I told you that things might get discouraging, didn't I? It will seem that I am far away one moment and then, the next, I am close. Just as in the case of the Bride, she knows the approximate block of time and she anxiously anticipates her Groom. Then she hears the noise and knows He comes for her. Sometimes He comes as a thief in the night and sometimes He comes in broad daylight. However, no matter what, He comes and she is ready."

Me: "I was so hopeful."

Jesus: "Yes, I know. Now look at the significance of those days. What occurred that caused huge ripples? What caused a large wake? Remember Israel, the smallest stone; this is the sapphire."

Me: "Oh, so that was Israel?"

Jesus: "It is the smallest, is it not?"

Me: "Are the stones countries, people, or churches?"

Jesus: "Erin, each date coming will have more and more significance. I come not always a day you consider, but you will understand the block or season and recognize this by the evidence. You will recognize this even by the enemy, for the enemy too anticipates My coming. His job is to deceive you and get you off course. It is written that many will come in My Name, yet I have not sent them."

Me: "Lord, don't allow us to be deceived. Our hearts are eager waiting for You. We are tired and hopeful. I am more in love with You every day. Help us to discern."

He walks me over to the banks of the river. He hands me a fruit. He takes His.

Jesus: "Erin, you will know deception by the fruits. Take a bite."

The fruit was amazing, like several different earthly fruits combined.

Me: "This is good fruit."

Jesus: "Do not be misled. Bad company corrupts good character. Motives are weighed by them. Those with pure motives will stand the test of fire.

"Remember the bad fruits in Proverbs 6:16-19. There are seven of them. The fruit can taste good at first, but quickly turns your stomach sour and your heart to spoil. I love a willing Spirit, a heart that is pure and, even in your shortcomings at the end of the day, you pour out to Me.

"Then, while you sleep, you are in peace. When the morning comes, I can speak so that you can hear. When you give Me your whole heart, I can work with this, understand?

"Aaron's head was anointed with precious oil. This was a blessing and this is written. With the blessing of God, you enjoy the good fruits. This is led by the Spirit of God, My fruit. These are love, peace, joy, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.

"No matter what your circumstances are, your fruit shows to others. Will you be perfect? Of course not; but I just need your willingness, remember? Someone operating under a different tree will also show fruit, but the Holy Spirit will counsel you and reveal the hidden agenda of the enemy; make no mistake."

Me: "Lord, I don't always show good fruit in my walk."

Jesus: "Erin, the difference is usually in pride. Do you bring your troubles to Me? Do you run after Me? Are you perfect? No, but do you do your best to make things right with your brother? Do you continue on the race I have laid out, even when you get off course? Did you answer yes to these?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Erin, you already have your salvation. Now you aspire to finish the race strong. There is a reward in this and you understand that I am the giver of good gifts and the author and finisher of your life. You do not need to earn My love as you already have this."

Me: "I know, Lord. I just want to do my best because You have done so much for me. It is how I can honor You the best way that I know. I want to be as holy as a Bride."

Jesus: "Well, then this is done with a righteous heart, but you do not need to earn what you have already received, understand? I require nothing but your heart."

Me: "Then it is Yours, Lord."

Jesus: "This was good today. Thank you for coming."

Me: "Lord, why thank me? I am overjoyed."

He reaches over to give me a hug and kisses the top of my head.

Jesus: "Erin, I'm always here for you."

Me: "Thank You. Oh, Lord, I have one more stone left."

Jesus: "Yes, I know. You keep that. It is your favorite."

I looked at the stone. It was warm and had so much color and depth. He was watching me and smiling.

Jesus: "Erin, listen to it."

I was laughing, but I placed it up to my ear and I heard singing. It startled me. I pulled it away and He was amused by this.

Me: "Wow, I never noticed this before."

Jesus: "Erin, even the rocks cry out here. Look around you."

I was so fixed on talking to Him that I didn't realize, really, that everything is alive here; everything. The grass moved in waves together, along with the trees, the flowers, the river and the rocks. It was all alive; living. Nothing was dead here or stagnant.

Me: "Thank You Lord, I forgot about this. Heaven is so amazing. It is truly beautiful." I was tearing up from the shock of realizing this again.

Jesus: "Erin, remember this is your Home. You were made for more and it is here. Soon the life you currently have will be a vapor. Soon you will see all that I have waiting here for you. You have only seen a small particle of it.

"Now, take courage and have peace. You are loved. You reside in Heavenly places. Down there, you are an alien in a foreign land. You belong with Me. Soon I will wipe those tears from your eyes and you will no longer be afraid. You will have life abundantly and reside in peace; your mantle.

"I will restore all that the locusts have stolen and the enemy plundered. You will enjoy the wealth of nations and you will live in the Valley of Blessings. You will walk the City of Gold and be near My Throne.

"You have not been forgotten and will remember the shame of your youth no more. You take all that I am saying and I offer you even seventy times more than that. This is how much I love you."

Me: I am in tears. "Thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "Now, give Me your day. Give Me each day and see what I will do with you."

Me: "I will."

Jesus: "I love you and I am coming. Be confident in this."

Dream over...

Love and blessings.....sparrowcloud9.....Erin

Dream 068 – The Promised Land

Received Sunday, June 9, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 17)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for Your love. Thank You for my children. Thank You for our salvation. Thank You for Your provisions. This is miraculous as these remove my worries of Your favor.

Lord, I lay my children down today at the foot of the Cross. They are Yours and only mine on loan from You. You have given me patience and joy with my children. Help me to always be a Godly example as a mother; firm and unwavering, yet loving and approachable. Let me always be like You, Lord.

Thank You for the dreams, Lord. My close communion with You is my highlight of each day. Every day, You create something new. Every day, You hold me close and I know that You will come soon and not delay. Psalm 23 comes to mind, but I am anxious for Psalm 45. This is what I dream and hope for. Please, Father, come for us.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am 25 years old again. He is standing at the base of the tree. I run to Him. He gives me a hug.

Jesus: "Glad you have come. You look worn out and you carry something; a burden. What is your trouble?"

Me: "My children are leaving again. Summer has started and they will be far from me. They are not allowed to call me when they miss me. My daughter is going to Portland for one week and I just got her back from Seattle."

Jesus: "Erin, give Me your children. When you worry, it is because you are clinging to the enemy, not Me. The enemy plants the seeds of destruction. You are worried that something will happen to your children because you know the enemy hates you. You are unsure that their destruction might be part of My Will for your life because of what has happened."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, You are not the author of destruction. So much has happened to us. Instead of trusting in You, I trust in the enemy's plans to be successful in my ruin."

Jesus: "So you are admitting to following the enemy?"

Me: "I guess I must be if I am taking stock in his evil plans. I know I think with the wrong attitude here; the 'what if's'?"

Jesus: "There is more to this. You have a secret fear. Today is your day to come clean with this so that you hold nothing against Me. I want to hear this straight from you."

He was very firm and serious, but with so much love for me on His face. I began to hesitate. I did not want to hurt Him.

Jesus: "Please, Erin, come clean."

Me: "Lord, I am afraid You will allow the enemy to test me like Job. I have been afflicted with almost everything in that Book, but I have not lost my children. I am afraid because I know the enemy wants me leveled and this is the way of a parent."

Jesus: "What you are really saying is that You don't fully trust Me with your children because of the power of the enemy to petition for them?"

Me: "Forgive me, but yes."

Jesus: "Erin, would you continue to follow Me just like Job no matter what?"

Me: "Yes, I would."

Jesus: "Then what good would it be for your children to be stripped from you? The enemy is never in control unless he is granted permission. Now, even then he is subject to the laws of the Throne and under God's command. God gives control to no one."

Me: "What about free will?"

Jesus: "This is another matter entirely. Free will is a feeble attempt for a man to be God, thereby removing God from the process. Free will is the 'man plan' to take a feel good shortcut off of the race. Blessed is the man who discovers the wrong turn and gets back on the right path that leads to the finish line, understand?"

"But even the race, like this, is used by God and governed by the Throne. Remember, not even a sparrow falls that I do not know about it. If the sparrow is the cheapest of sacrifices to purchase, then how much more valuable are you? So, I need you to give Me your whole heart, Erin, and your children."

So I dropped to my knees before Him. There were three fruits on the ground next to me. He knew I was going to do this because the fruit was already there. I symbolically grabbed the first; my eldest son, fifteen years old. I gave the fruit from my ground position and handed it up to Jesus.

He was smiling now and quite pleased. I did the same with my middle child, 13 years old, and my most rebellious. I had tears in my eyes from each fruit when I held it. Then, finally, I grabbed the last fruit. It was a perfect fruit; small, golden like a sunrise, ripe and full of life.

I went to hand my fruit that represented my daughter, eleven years old. I was having a hard time. Tears streamed even as I wrote. I handed the fruit up to Him. His face shone like the sun. He was radiant and, for a moment, I could barely take in His glory.

I had nothing in my eyes to make it that I could see Him better. In a moment, I had forgotten Whom I was talking to; this is God. I remembered my place in His presence. This is holy ground. I began to cry because I had treated Jesus as if He were my Father, but not God.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, for forgetting that You are my King and sit beside God on the Throne."

Jesus: "Erin, you are forgiven seventy times seven and even more. I am glad you are comfortable talking to Me. Many who claim to love Me don't even want to really hear what I have to say. I long for them to come, but, because the enemy has instilled barriers, they do not seek Me out. Now, there is another matter here. Do you care to give Me this?"

I thought for a moment and then remembered. Off to my right was a funny piece of fruit. It was heart shaped, red and purple, stem of bronze, gold metallic leaf with green. I knew this heart shaped fruit was representing me. So I reached over and picked it up. I held it with two hands. I looked at it and began to cry.

Drawing of heart shaped fruit in response below...

Jesus: "What's wrong?"

I looked up, but I could not see His face. The glory was too much for me.

Me: "Lord, I am alone when my children are gone. I work longer hours and I don't want to go home. I stay busy. It is the second summer of this. It was very difficult for me last year."

Jesus: "Erin, this was a year ago. You didn't have Me speaking to you daily then. I will be your Husband in this. Allow Me to fill this void. Don't allow the enemy to grab a foot hold. You are experiencing peace and rest right now. Are you not happy?"

Me: "Yes, I am. I am just ready for You to come for us; even today."

Jesus: "Then rest in Me. Let Me be your Husband and Father. Allow Me to take this so you are free!" So I handed Him the fruit. I was relieved. "Erin, soon I will remove your tears and the shame of your widowhood. Here, you will be complete and lack nothing. Now you, yourself, said there is no lack here. Is this true from what you've seen?"

Me: "Oh yes. There is abundance here. There is nothing contrary to truth. There is no lack."

Jesus: "Erin, look, even your body is healthy and restored even better than before. Those that were born with defects on Earth, even that knew no other way but the defect, will be made whole here. Remember, the fruit here is good. Come with Me, I have something new to show you."

I took His hand and He walked me through the vineyard. The mustard plants were gone and, supernaturally, the grapes were just beginning. I paused for a moment to try to understand. He pulled me forward. We walked to what seemed like the edge of a cliff.

There, before me, was the most beautiful valley I had ever seen. It stretched for miles. It was surrounded by seven beautiful mountains. The mountains were perfectly chiseled and glistening from the majesty of the glory light of Heaven. They ranged in colors from purple to burgundy and were high above the valley in the distance. A couple even had snow on the peaks.

I saw rivers and lakes. There were fields of brightly colored flowers. I saw one was lilies. I saw lilac trees. I saw heather and irises. I saw vineyards and workers. I saw beautiful grass covered hills that segued to the bases of the mountains. I saw pine trees and aspens on these hills.

I saw cattle and sheep openly grazing. I saw birds of every kind. I saw incredible farms, all state of the art, cultivating crops on Heavenly pure soil. I saw horses more beautiful than mustangs, running free and playing.

I saw a small town in the distance with shimmering lights. It looked like a miniature version of the Golden City. I looked more closely at the ridge I was on, from side to side, and there I saw country mansions on the hills with orchards, fountains and every kind of abundance. I heard singing when the breeze blew. The leaves on the trees were singing praises. I began to cry.

Jesus: "Erin, you can let go."

For a moment, I didn't realize where I was. The landscape was the most beautiful I had ever seen. My Heavenly eyes could see details for miles, like an eagle, I imagine.

Jesus: "Erin, you can let go."

Just then, I realized I was squeezing Jesus' hand so tightly. I quickly let go.

Me: "I am so sorry, Lord."

Jesus: "Don't apologize; it didn't hurt. I just wanted you to be aware of your grip and I am honored that you would hold Me so tightly."

I was already in tears and so honored to be in His presence like this.

Me: "Lord, this is where I long to be. My very heart breaks every time I leave You."

Jesus: "Erin, I am always with you."

Me: "But when I go back, I can't feel Your hand or Your embrace. At first, I do for an hour or two, but then it is gone; it fades."

Jesus: "Yes. The cares of the world set in and remove the memory of My presence, but make no mistake, I am still with you."

Me: "Lord, this valley is the most beautiful valley I have ever seen. This reminds me of what would be the Promised Land. It is so abundant and beautiful. It lacks nothing but me here in one of these estates."

Jesus: "Oh, you like these? Yes, they are beautiful. I knew you would like this. Do you know why I showed you this?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "This is the Valley of Beracah; the Valley of Blessing. This is the opposite of the Valley of the Shadow of Death or your Valley of Achor and Baca. You needed to know that this is just one of the valleys of beauty in Heaven. There is so much joy in living in a good land."

Me: "I am not a laborer, but this makes me want to harvest and work these fields."

Jesus: "Erin, you have labored."

He takes my hand and walks me to a row of bushes. There I saw what looked like huckleberries. I began to laugh and cry at the same time. He reached down and picked a few of the berries and they were beyond anything I have ever tasted; amazing, simply amazing. I was in tears.

Me: "Lord, they are right out in the open. I don't need to climb into the mountains to find them. Wow!"

I worked a few summers with the Idaho Berry Company, picking in remote forested areas of northern Idaho.

Jesus: "If you desire to find them in the mountains, you can pick them there also."

As I looked down, the berries replenished immediately. As a matter of fact, there were even more berries where Jesus had just picked.

Me: "Lord, I believe that, here, I will never be bored. I will never lack. It is incredible."

Jesus: "Here, there is more to explore than Earth. This is God's pure creation. The Throne of God resides here. I walk freely here. I am present in this land. I am in you and present in other ways on Earth, but here I am visible.

Me: I was still crying. "Lord, I can't wait for the day when I am physically here in Your presence. What an incredible day this will be. No wonder we worship You constantly. How grateful I will be. Just seeing this reminds me that we will worship You continuously.

"How can I not bathe in the river and find joy over all the beautiful stones at the bottom? How can I not be amazed that I once lived in a dry arid land and now I am in the land that I could never imagine, but now I can see? Lord, You are incredible and I am so excited to come Home."

Jesus: "Erin, I have prepared a place for you. You will love what I have prepared in advance for you here. There is so much to look forward to. If you knew everything, the race you are running would be much easier."

Me: "If I was in a real race and I saw even one small portion of this at the finish line, I would finish very strong because I know exactly where I would be."

Jesus: "Well, now you know. You can share what you've seen to encourage your friends in the times to come. I have so much more to show you, but this is something here that is easy to understand. It is like Earth, but vivid and abundant. This is just a small portion of what waits."

I was in tears as I continued with my eagle vision to see beautiful things before me. Each movement of my eyes fixed on something new and different. I saw waterfalls and fountains. I saw an old grape harvest with saints smashing grapes with their feet. They were celebrating the abundant crop. I looked at it and laughed.

Jesus: "What are you seeing?"

Me: "I see people celebrating and praising You by smashing grapes with their feet. It seems funny to me because, from what I have seen here, water turns into amazing wine with a single thought. I do not have to labor."

Jesus: "Oh, one of the mysteries. Do you remember how hard you labored to pick huckleberries? Do you remember those summer days?"

Me: "Yes. I woke up at 3:00am. One of my classmates, Jeff, picked me up on his motorcycle and drove me to the crew. There, we would load into rugged vehicles and drive up into the Monarchs and the Canadian Rockies. We drove up into remote areas.

"We would arrive at dawn's first light. Then we would hike up carrying five gallon buckets through thick bushes and massive spider webs to get to the patches of berries. Then we would pick until the sun would warm the berries and begin to smash them with the picker.

"The sun became too hot, so we would hike with our buckets back down. We were paid by the weight and the money was great."

Jesus: "Okay, but do you remember after you picked and later that day?"

Me: "I have not thought about this in years. I would be dropped off at the lake and I would swim and lie in the sun for an hour and then go to my next job on the bridge as a server in a beautiful restaurant called Henry Villards. My Mom worked there too.

"I worked there until 5:00pm, then my Mom drove me to my job managing a golf range. There, I would work until 10:00p.m. at night and I would do it all over again. However, I remember sitting at the golf range when I was closing it up.

"I remember all that I had done during my day and I felt valued. I was too exhausted to think about, physically, what I had accomplished, but overjoyed at my accomplishments. I remembered how thankful I was, but I didn't know You so I am not sure who I was being thankful to."

Jesus: "I was there with you and I remember vividly what was happening. Why were you working so hard?"

Me: "So that I had no time to be alone with my thoughts. I had someone close die in a motorcycle accident not long before that and I was missing him."

Jesus: "You were seeking Me this summer. You were calling Me, but you fully enjoyed your physical labor, didn't you? You enjoyed serving."

Me: "Yes, I really did. Had I been a believer of You at the time, I would have been praising You and worshipping You in all of my labor."

Jesus: "Well, here the laborers are not laboring. They enjoy serving. Things that once made them slaves for a meager wage, they can now enjoy fully as vineyard owners. They are having fun. Now, look at the horses even."

My eyes looked across to some hills and there were horses chasing each other. One would come up to another and nudge it with its nose. Then the other would turn and chase after it. It made me laugh.

Me: "This is hilarious. I love this. They are free. They are fully acting as wild mustangs, yet they are tame. They almost seem to be worshipping You also." He was laughing.

Jesus: "See, even after a day of work here, which really isn't work, you enjoy yourself. Here, it is honoring Me in constant worship. Service is an honor and great act of love. It brings joy."

Me: "It is hard to imagine work like this. I imagine worship to You fully, but hard to imagine freedom from binding commitments."

I began to cry because I've had an exhausting week; so many people to keep happy.

Me: "Lord, it is hard here on Earth to make time for You. When I was younger, I was rewarded. The harder I worked, the more I earned. Now I make the same, but the work is more taxing. I barely cover my bills. I am a slave to my job and I feel like I have missed half of my children's lives working to live."

Jesus: "Erin, I am here to show you that you are nearing the finish line."

He has me face Him and I break down in tears. His eyes love me so much and I still can't fully comprehend it. I begin to cry even more as I look into His eyes and see my own life. I am now older and my body is tired. I have nothing stored up for old age; no retirement.

Jesus: "Erin, I know what you are thinking. Do you not believe I am capable of taking care of you? Why do you worry about your labor tomorrow? I am here now. You are in the Promised Land. You will enter this valley soon. You will walk the streets of gold.

"You will worship in the Holy City. You are a citizen here. See over there." He points to a massive field of lilies. "One day, you will lie in that field and enjoy a nap. One day, you will swim in the river. One day, you will ride the horses."

I was crying at this point, overwhelmed by this gift.

Me: "Please come soon. This is harder."

Jesus: "Do you still want to come here and spend time with Me so I can show you your Home?"

Me: "Yes, but I am ready to see this permanently. I feel safe so close to You. I love You so much, I no longer want what is in the world. I feel You must be coming soon because You are sounding like the best tour guide in the universe. I feel like You are showing me my new Home like I am receiving a job transfer. You won't tell me though."

Jesus: "Erin, today you are blunt and you lack faith."

Me: "Forgive my arrogance. I am anxious and now, when You show me how incredible Heaven is, how amazing, I am ready to enter in and find rest. I am so ready."

Jesus: "I have always asked that you come to Me as you are. I've asked that you do not hold back. I enjoy that you are able to talk to Me and that you are comfortable."

Me: "Lord, I know full well the power You have. I know full well that I am only one small woman and ignorant and You could easily reduce me to rubble. I don't mean to trust You so casually, or not fully, as my miraculous Lord, God. I never want to consider You on my level. Please forgive me if I have."

Jesus: "I have asked you to be who you are. I've asked you to come in your good and your bad states. The enemy doesn't want you to know that God desires fellowship and deep love with His creation. You were created to worship. Your acts of obedience and genuine love towards Me are highly valued. This means that you don't hold back from Me."

Me: "I guess, technically, You know my troubles in advance. I can't hide things from You."

Jesus: "Although you may be afraid, it is better to confess it out loud. Again, by bringing your troubles before Me, you have trusted in Me and removed the power from the enemy. If you know that you cannot hide things from Me, that I see all things and, since you are transparent to Me, then where can you run to?"

I was shaking my head and smiling. He wouldn't let me look away and kept my focus directed in His eyes. He held my right cheek. Looking at Him, I could see myself so clearly. I focused for a long time into his beautiful blue green eyes. There was also a slight ring of fire in his eyes. It was a fire of passion and love for me that I had never noticed before.

I had tears falling down my cheeks onto my gown, but He kept me there. I began to slow down my breathing and focus on Him fully.

Me: "Lord, this morning in communion, I remembered what You suffered for me and for every one of us, yet You can still love me despite my rebellious transgressions. I am learning to love with no conditions, but I don't even have a fraction of this love, do I?"

Jesus: "Erin, remember My ways are not yours. You see yourself as dirt. You doubt when something wonderful happens that it will last. You find yourself undeserving of anything good. You don't count yourself as worthy, so you don't allow yourself any indulgence without conviction. You are your own judge and jury."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I do this all the time. I don't understand why. I don't want to believe this way. I am used to joy being temporary and pain being permanent."

Jesus: "Erin, I am here to show you that soon your labor will be rewarded. Soon joy and security will be permanent. On Earth, the enemy reduces you to slavery and then loves to inflict guilt when you enjoy the fruits of your labor."

"This is wrong thinking as the enemy becomes My counterfeit in your thoughts. I enjoy that you can take your children to a movie and laugh. It is fun to see your cares leave, even if it is only for three hours. I relish in your peace."

"The enemy is always ready to insert his thoughts. When you went to the movie last time, do you remember what you said?"

Me: "Yes. I felt I should have used the money for tithing instead. Then I felt bad for doing this when others had nothing."

Jesus: "This is not Me, Erin. Let's think of it this way. Your children are your Heavenly assignment. Your goal, as a Godly mother, is to make certain your children have accepted the good news. Now, you decide to fellowship with them by doing something they love. They then praise you for this."

If you represent Me, then Who are they praising? If you are Me, Jesus in person, are you also not showing them the way here to the Promised Land? So, then, you could have done nothing with them and instead given to one of your charities, which also makes Me glad, but does nothing in this for your assignment with the children.

"So, whatever choice you make shows your love for Me, but don't allow the enemy, who longs to see you ruined, strip you of enjoying your fruits with your children. The enemy desires to keep you from sharing this with others. His goal is that you all suffer and believe that I am an oppressor and denier of good things."

Me: "Lord, forgive me of my wrong thinking. I guess I am used to this thinking. I look at what You are showing me here with this beauty and I am having a hard time imagining that this could be a place called Home for me. I am used to helping others realize their dreams, but not my own. Please forgive me."

Jesus: "Then, until I bring you Home, I will continue to remind you of your place here, okay?"

Me: "Thank You." I was still in tears.

Jesus: "Now I have shown you that you have a Home near My Altar. This is good right?" I'm smiling now.

Me: "Yes."

He turned me towards the valley.

Jesus: "Now, look at something right here."

His arm was pointing to a beautiful House miles away, cut into the mountain. It overlooked the hills and valley, as well as the Holy City. There were aspens surrounding it. There was a flat area behind it and the front of it was glass from my view. I am having difficulty writing this as I am crying.

There was a zigzag road leading up to the House with gardens following the path. The path leading up to the House was made of large cut blocks of jasper, or paver stones, in the ground. I saw two water walls flanking the front entrance and the water spilled into channels that followed the zigzag path to the house. There were flowers and vines trailing down the mountain.

Me: "What a breathtaking Home, Lord. This is beyond any homes that I've seen down here. It is truly amazing."

Jesus: "Erin, this is your mountain Home. Do you not recognize it?"

Me: "I have not seen it from the front." I was in tears. "Why do I deserve such a Home?"

Jesus: "Erin, look around you."

Just then, I noticed other incredible homes cut into the mountains. Some were closer to the valley, some were in the valley. Some were very large and others were smaller, but all of them were absolutely beyond this world.

Jesus: "See, your labor will one day be rewarded. You will have a time of rest. You will realize that your labor was not in vain. When I come for you, My recompense will come with Me. You will sing as in the days of your youth and will remember your suffering no more.

"If you decide to labor as these wine makers are, it will be in joy and worship, not as a slave, but as the vineyard owner. When you do things here, you always worship God in thanksgiving. You remember that once you were a slave to this land Earth, but now you are free, understand?"

I was sobbing. I wasn't even in the City. I was just in one valley and here my Mansion was cut into one of the seven mountains. I had a hard time believing this. It was what I imagined winning the lottery would be like, but this was different. I couldn't help the feeling of extreme security, safety and peace.

Me: "Lord, I love You so much. I don't understand Your love for me even still. I can't believe that one day I will have such a place near You. I can't believe how blessed I am. You must love me a lot to give me such gifts."

Jesus: "Do you not see what's in My eyes? I love you. I told you I have prepared a place for you. I told you in Psalm 84. I told you in Psalm 45. What King am I if I would not give even half the Kingdom to My Bride?"

"Who owns the cattle on one thousand hills? Who commands the stars into their places? Who owns the storehouses of snow? Who tore the veil in the Temple in two? Who caused the Earth to quake? Who caused the moon to go dark?"

"If all this is commanded from the very Throne in Heavenly places, then why would I not prepare a wonderful Home for those I love and who love Me? How hard would this be? I told you, one day, I would build a Home for you. Am I a liar?"

I am crying as I write this as I can't believe the God we serve. Really, Jesus is everything to me.

Me: "I love You, Lord, so much. I can give You so many reasons why I don't deserve this gift. I really don't."

Jesus: He was smiling and trying to get me to laugh. "Oh, so you would prefer that I not give you this place designed especially for you?"

Me: Quickly replying. "No, no, I'll take this, please."

He was laughing and smiling.

Jesus: "Erin, seeing your joy is the greatest gift for Me. Do you know that this Home was being built at the time of your birth?"

My mouth opened and my jaw dropped.

Me: "How can this be? I wasn't saved until I was 28 years old."

Jesus: "You were marked from birth. As you developed in your walk, the Mansion was changing and expanding with you. As you went through the trials and continued to follow Me, your treasures were stored up here."

Me: "So this is what that means? Then there must have been years when no construction was happening?"

Jesus: "Oh, so you don't think I knew in advance what your course was? Your Home continued to be prepared. As you are nearing the finish line, your mountain Home is almost complete."

Me: "Can I see it now?"

Jesus: "You have seen some of this in your dreams. For now, you must trust Me in your walk."

Me: "Are You showing me this because I am going to need to remember this? Things are going to get worse here and I'm going to need to remember this, right?"

Jesus: "Do not worry please. This was meant to show you that you have not labored in vain. When I tell you I have prepared a place for you, I mean this. Now, where is that peace?"

He began to tease me and look for 'peace'. I laughed.

Me: "Forgive me, I do have peace with You, Father. I am just not used to personal gifts, especially this magnitude. Wow, it even looks over the City. How are my eyes able to see this well? My house is easily a couple of hours from the City. I can see so clearly."

Jesus: "Erin, when you are here, your sight is restored. You no longer see through a veil. When you focus here, there is no need to adjust your eyes to see clearly. Your eyes here are designed to take in beauty. These are Heavenly lenses; clear windows.

"See, today you have discovered a small glimpse of what is in store for you. You must remember that you are hated by the enemy. He longs to rob you, so be encouraged and share the good news.

"I would challenge anyone who would find a contradiction in what I am showing you. If there are words of truth to support this, then ask who would be against this and where do they come from. The enemy's seed are doubt, discouragement, hopelessness, poverty, depression, degradation and delusion.

"In fact, most of the "D" words are the enemy's words. So, please focus on the good seed of truth that the Holy Spirit plants. I sensed you needed some good seeds today. Now, go back and share this good news for I am about to do something in your days that you wouldn't believe, even if you were told, okay?"

Me: "Please let it be that You will come for us. Please let it be joyful."

Jesus: He was smiling. "You will have joy. I love you."

Me: I was crying again and facing Him. "Thank You for this gift that You have given me. Thank You. I am sorry for working and avoiding You. I am sorry for my doubt. I am sorry..."

He stopped me in a sweet and quiet voice.

Jesus: "Erin, I know, please. You are forgiven. Take courage, have joy and peace. I have seen all that has happened. Those who have shown you kindness have done so on My behalf. I have surrounded you with friends and loved ones. Are you not convinced of My love yet?"

Me: "Oh, yes."

Jesus: "Then take courage and be joyful. You are loved. Have faith knowing where you dwell. Do not forget."

Dream over...

Love and blessings...SparrowCloud9...Erin

Dream 069 – Four Short Dreams as a Remnant Saint

Received Sunday, June 16, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 18)

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Since I have no earthly father to adore today, I choose You. You are the most amazing Father. I love You so much it is beyond description.

Last night a series of dreams and broken sleep. The entire series was in the same genre. The sky and scene around me was very dark and ominous. 'Chiaroscuro' is a painting term to explain this type of oil painting.

Because of the nature of these, I believe there are messages contained in them, but I do not know what they are. The first one happened, I believe, to show me that I was in these in the Spirit, but could appear as a physical entity.

Please pray and discern. These seem to all take place in a maritime landscape and, possibly, another country, but I do not know languages. Maybe I just heard English when I needed to?

1st Dream

I was the only female amongst several troops. I was in uniform, yet as a civilian. I was not carrying anything.

I found it odd that conventional weapons were not accessible to this group. While they had modern guns, the makeshift bayonets at the end of them and the accompanying military gear made this seem somewhat dated.

I knew they were all trained, but I sensed that they had raided a museum or storage locker with old equipment so they could fight. The group I was with lacked all the major supplies that the enemy had. The biggest lack was ammunition. There were no bullets.

They wore boots and everything else you would expect, but no tactical gear. They had dressed me in a camouflage top, pants and boots with a helmet that seemed army issue. They also gave me all of their dog tags. This was odd to me and I couldn't understand it. It was as if they knew in advance that they were going to die.

We had escaped through some rocky cliffs. There were small channels in which we could get down to what seemed like a rocky ocean beach. The tide was in. We had no lights. We were also trying not to be detected.

Suddenly, out of the darkness, three helicopters came down dropping men from ropes. The helicopters' lights lit up our entire area. We were completely exposed and surrounded.

The ocean was not an option because the water was toxic and had a horrible stench of sulfur. The men motioned for me to hide in some rocks, but the enemy had surrounded us. The enemy was speaking in Russian. They began to shoot all of the men in my group, one by one, while on their knees.

I had their tags. I jetted out behind some rocks into the darkness. I heard yelling and there was a spotlight on my back as I lifted my hands in surrender. They were yelling profanities at me.

Just then, I heard a woman's voice in Russian and broken English. She was deranged. I looked up and began to pray in the Spirit. I turned around now to face them. I saw the bodies of all the men in my unit lying dead on the ground. However, I could see that they had managed to go down fighting as several of the Russians were bloodied.

They saw the dog-tags of the men hanging from my neck. They stood approximately ten yards from me. While I could tell that they didn't plan to kill me, I knew they were possibly planning something else nearly as bad.

I began to pray out loud in my prayer language. The men put their hands over their ears. The woman grabbed what looked like an oversized Rugger pistol, pointed at me and told me that I was going to die. I stretched out my arms and I lifted my face and hands up to the sky.

When she tried to shoot me, the gun backfired on her. She kept trying to shoot me, but the bullets seemed to fly around me instead. The men, now realizing that I was different, opened fire. This time the bullets hit me, but they simply passed through me without penetrating anything. I then prayed louder and all but the woman began to weep. I looked down at myself and it was if the bullets hadn't hit me.

The woman began to go mad. She took some gunpowder from the now dead men who were with me and others. I continued to pray in the Spirit and woke up out of this with my lips moving. It was 3:45am. I drifted back off to sleep at around 3:53am.

2nd Dream

I was in this extremely large home, perhaps even a castle. The sky outside looked like the landscape in the movie 'Warhorse'. I couldn't tell if I was in Germany or Holland, but I somehow knew it was one of these two countries. Around me, in the landscape, there were farms and villages that looked like they had been bombed. Food was scarce.

In this dream, I was not visible, yet could still walk around. There was no hope here. I saw people gathering at this large home at approximately 3:00pm for prayer and provisions. The prayer service was to begin at 3:00pm.

I realized that this large home was a former catholic monastery. People were dressed in more modern clothes, but the scene looked very strange. I stood near the double door entrance to this home. People gathered and kneeled.

A type of priest had come out at approximately 2:45pm with a wooden relic on a cart that had wheels and parked it just outside the house. I say 'relic' because I saw an ornately carved cross as the main body, but there were many different relics from all types of religions draped over the cross.

The people immediately bowed down to this in silence. I stood amazed at this strange object. It contained every type of symbol. I looked to my left and I saw another saint in the Spirit next to me who looked upset also. I walked over to him. He knew me and was glad to see me. He was vaguely familiar.

Me: "What is going on here?"

Man: "They have placed a relic with every type of god and are hoping that, if they prayed to all of them, not knowing which one was the correct one, than the real God would answer them so that they might pray the right way."

Me: "Why doesn't anyone have a memory of Jesus?"

Man: "Because all of the believers left so suddenly. The ones left behind knew, but, before they could spread the news about Jesus, they were killed. Then new thoughts were entered by the enemy."

Me: "Why are we here?"

Man: "To appear to three people. Then you must leave."

Me: "Okay. I am going into the house now because I can't listen to this sad prayer and worship display."

He waved me on. I went past the relic and entered the house. There was an extremely large fireplace, at least 20 feet wide and 7 feet high. It was blackened. There was an extremely thick mantle with very ornate clocks all ticking at different minutes. All of the clocks were 'off' from each other.

I overheard men talking behind me about food distribution. I knew they had only three loaves of bread to feed almost a thousand people. I prayed in the Spirit to Jesus.

Me: "Lord, could I multiply the bread for them?"

Jesus: "No. You are only there to appear to three people."

I walked around this living room. I saw something odd. There was a small altar. On the altar was an extremely ornate wooden mini house that was hand carved around a Bible. The carving was so intricate that it went over the sides of the pages, making it impossible to open the Book up to read any truth.

It was dusty. I realized I was most likely in northern Germany because of the ornateness of the clocks and this Bible. Next to the Bible, on top of a Victorian-like table, were rosary beads and some catholic items, all with dust and shoved aside with some household items.

I went back to the Bible. I started taking the weird little structure off of the Bible so all of the people would know truth.

Jesus: "No. They have chosen to worship the relic and the carving around the Bible. They have no use for the Pages."

I then woke up at 4:21am and drifted back to sleep around 4:34am.

3rd Dream

I was in a country somewhere similar to Norway. There was a city near some ocean cliffs. I sensed it was late summer and it was now beginning to get cold. The edge of the city was near the ocean and had makeshift barricades to keep people away from the ocean.

The ocean was contaminated. On the other side of the city, near some mountains, was a fresh water lake. There were still fish in the lake. I overheard a fisherman as he was sorting the fish. I didn't understand the language, but I knew what they were saying.

Fisherman: "Today, we throw out every tenth fish. Only nine fish are good."

I saw him throw back the strange spotted fish. I thought that this was not wise as the spotted fish would breed with the healthy fish and, before long, all the fish would be contaminated. I prayed in the Spirit to Jesus.

Me: "Could I appear to the fisherman and tell him?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin."

I appeared as a ghost in the boat and I could apparently speak in their language. However, all I could hear was the Holy Spirit.

Me: "Collect the bad fish to the side of the boat. Keep six good fish, throw back three good fish and dispose of the bad fish. Tell your friends. Eventually, the good fish will take over from the bad fish."

When the fishermen saw me, they turned as white as ghosts.

Fisherman: "Who are you?"

Me: "I was sent to tell you about the Good News that Jesus loves you. Do not be afraid." One of the men was crying.

Fisherman: "Are you an angel of the Lord?"

Me: "No. I am a remnant of those saints that are called to point you Home in Heaven. I am a citizen of Heaven and a child of God."

I began to speak to them about their loved ones and the place that the Lord has prepared in advance for them. They were crying.

Me: "I must go now, but please know that Jesus loves you."

Fisherman: "How can we know you are sent by Jesus?"

Me: "Who told you originally to throw the spotted fish back into the water?"

Fisherman: "Well, a man appeared just like you, so all of the fishermen have been following that apparition."

Me: "So, which One gives you Good News? Which One is here to help you in the name of Jesus? Now, how did this other man appear to you?"

Fisherman: "He came walking on the water and mimicked Jesus in the Bible. He claimed he was the truth and the power and that, if we obeyed his instructions, we would live. He had us drop nets. We caught a massive amount of fish; half were spotted and half were good. We took the good to feed the village and he instructed us to throw the spotted fish back. Then the villagers began to slowly starve as there were fewer and fewer good fish. People are dying.”

I looked up and prayed to God. I asked for miraculous provision over this city and for Heavenly angels to protect all that dwell here. I asked the Lord to provide a net of healthy fat fish. The men began to laugh, but were hopeful. Suddenly, there was thunder in the sky and a voice from the Lord God.

God: “Place your nets in the water. Then eat.”

They did as He said and they pulled up a record amount of perfect fish. God granted them 153 altogether. I was smiling. The fishermen were jumping up and down. They thanked me.

Me: “I did nothing except spread Good News and intercede to God on your behalf. I am no performer of miracles.” I began to warn them to recognize the enemy. “He comes to kill and destroy, but Jesus gives life. Recognize Him by the fruits, not the counterfeits.”

They thanked me. I told them to tell others about Jesus and what He did here.

Me: “When you remove the spotted fish from the lake, do not bury them as this will contaminate the soil. Instead, take them to the ocean. There, they will already be in contamination.”

This had all seemed like common sense to me that they should have known until I realized that someone had come before me pretending to be Jesus to tell them to do differently.

I woke up at 5:35am and went back to sleep at 6:00am.

4th Dream

Again, I was somewhere in what seemed like northern Europe. There was a village at the edge of a very large lake. It was nearing fall. There were beautiful large mansions surrounding the lake. All of these were abandoned and there was plastic and duct tape over all the windows.

I was there to retrieve and help one of my older son’s friends. I don’t want to say his name, but he shares the same name as a prophet in the Old Testament.

Half the village had been blown up. The sky was faded white, not blue, and the clouds were thick and dark gray. In spaces, there were, what seemed like, flames in the clouds. I didn't understand this. It looked like a war was over our heads in the sky.

I saw what looked like normal people going to all of these buildings where food storage was. They were opening windows and taking off the protective seals. The people had been growing food inside these buildings like greenhouses. I saw that the food supply for this town could be gone very quickly. I saw planes dropping bombs. We were under fire.

In the distance, I saw my son's friend. He had gone to live with his family after his parents were killed. I appeared to him and he became scared. I told him to take my hand and I supernaturally carried him across the lake while the town was being bombed. He was sobbing.

Me: "Do you know who Jesus is?"

Friend: "No one believes in Him because He is cruel. He only saves the good people and hates us."

Me: "This is not true. Do you remember my son? He was not always very nice, right?"

Friend: "Yes. That is why so many people don't like Jesus. He saves people that make mistakes and leaves the nice people."

He was crying. I placed my hand on his shoulder.

Me: "Jesus loves you. If you accept Him as your Lord and Savior and you recognize that He is God's Son who came to die for our sins, and then you confess your sins, He will remember them no more. He loves you."

I then led him to Jesus and walked him through the prayer. He confessed to Jesus what had happened to him by some men. I became sick from the story. He prayed with his whole heart and accepted Christ.

Just then, a plane above our heads dropped two bombs on us. I looked lovingly into his eyes. He and I both knew this was the end for him. I saw two angels lift him up just as the bombs hit. He had died in an instant.

As I ascended, I looked down and the landscape changed. I was so sad for all those who were lost. I prayed that they had salvation too.

I woke up at 9:18am.

My prayer: Lord, I have no idea what these dreams mean, but I just know that I am burdened for those left behind. I felt the suffocating gloom that they must feel. The lack of supplies and resources is global, not just the USA. Lord, please shorten these days as You said You would in Your Word as who could bear this. I love You, Jesus, and I am thankful for my salvation.

Love and blessings...sparrowcloud9...Erin

Dream 070 – Things of Heaven

Received Saturday, June 22, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 19)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Lord, I love You so much. You are so awesome. Lord, let me not slip in my praises to You. I know there are many more than I who are faithful in service to Your Church. There are those with the means to give more than I am able, but, Lord, You know all of my weaknesses and all of my imperfections, yet You love me.

I grant this day to You in whole, not in part, so that You may use me for Your purposes. Sometimes I am afraid to offer this body up as, each time, I run the risk of rebuke, refinement and possibly further trial. However, despite the risk that You might allow more refinement, You just as easily turn and offer me greater love and understanding.

Each day, when I offer myself as a living sacrifice, I fully trust in the God of Creation, the Lord Jesus of my heart and the dweller of my earthly vessel and temple. You whisper to me whilst I sleep and call out Your promises while I am awake. You give me the ability to give You the battle.

The Lions and the Wolves come. They corner me and long to devour me, but You, Lord, are greater than these. You give me the feet like a deer so that I may go on the heights. I thank You, Lord, that You deliver us from the enemy and You do not allow us to go into the pit.

Even if we were to fall, You would pull us out and set us on Your rock of safety, far away from the consuming fire; this is how much You love us. From the beginning of time, and even before, You chose us for Your plan. You wrote our story and set us together for this great time.

We don't understand the complete picture or even the outcome, yet we turn to the Bible, Your Word, for our understanding as we meditate on Your Words. Lord, show Your love and outpouring to those who watch diligently for Your return.

You have quickened our race and brought our attention to a strong finish. We see the finish line and know You are there to receive us. Lord, don't allow our hearts to be troubled about what we have no authority over, but allow us to focus on lovely things. Lord, I fear these times we are in.

You have shown me things to come in the time of great distress that is unlike any other. Lord, my Spirit, the Holy Spirit, confirms something unsettling, yet I see nothing around me. At night, You reveal flooding and fire, yet I wake up to blue skies and celebration. You show me, at night, a devouring entity and sacrificer of children; a lion and a bear.

You show me this, yet my children are safe and my household is peaceful. Then, what is this looming in my Spirit that calls out to me to intercede now? Lord, please grant me revelation so I am able to pray and stand.

Show me these storms coming so we might have a house on firm foundation and we might help those to know of You. You are not the God of fear. You, Jesus, are the God and Prince of peace. I empty myself so that You might fill me this day with Words of knowledge. I love You, Jesus.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

When I go up through the Portal today, I stop and look at my body to see my age. I am about eight years old today. I laughed and ran to Him. He was sitting today at the base of the Tree of Life. I ran to Him.

Me: "Hayah!"

He got up from His position to receive me with His arms open. He picked me up and held me. I was so glad to be in His arms that I began to cry.

Jesus: "I'm glad you came."

Me: "I love You, Father. I'm glad to be here."

He set me down and kissed the top of my head. As He did, and even as I write, I felt a warm tingling rush, or wave, of heat go through my veins.

Jesus: "Come back over here."

He takes my hand and we walk past the tree. We walk down near the vineyards. He then took a small detour and I knew He had planned to take me somewhere else today.

He walked over to a beautiful grape vine. All of the vines were yielding record clusters of grapes. The mustard plants were gone. I noticed the soil was a rich, dark chocolate, almost black, which I thought was not a color in Heaven.

Jesus: "Erin, you have a thought."

I looked at Him. I am amazed every time that He knows my every thought. I began to giggle.

Me: "I am surprised to see this black soil. I never expected to see black as a color here in Heaven."

He was laughing. He reached down and put a clump of rich soil in His hand. He brought it up so I could see it and He moved me in closer. I could suddenly see with my 'super Heavenly eyes'.

Immediately, I could see microscopically. This rich, black soil was actually composed of billions of minerals and precious nutrients! With my 'super eyes, there was no black at all, but rather all cut crystals, emeralds, rubies, silver and gold.

Me: "Wow, this is incredible!"

Tears began to stream down my cheeks and they wouldn't stop.

Jesus: "Why are you crying? Is this not a fun discovery?"

Me: "Jesus, I am constantly overwhelmed by this tremendous place. Everything here is so incredible. I am overwhelmed by the great care You have taken to love us and the amazing gifts You have here for us. It is new here every day. Every time You are new and I grow more deeply in love with You."

I was crying. He was trying to lighten my mood.

Jesus: "Erin, all this over a clump of soil?" He was laughing and gave me a side hug. "I am showing you a couple of things. First, don't take something with the eyes of your earthly lenses. There is always more than meets your eyes!" He points to His right eye.

"Second, the same is true with something as simple as the color black. White is void of color, but black is composed of many different colors. Here, all colors, and especially white, are significant and beautiful. The composition is pure.

"On Earth, the enemy will use both. You see from an earthly understanding. You are assuming that there are still things in Heaven that lurk in 'blackness' or in the 'shadows'. Erin, look around you. Where are the shadows?"

I was laughing because I was searching diligently, but...nothing. He was amused watching me.

Me: "There aren't any!"

Jesus: Laughing. "On Earth, darkness permeates the landscape more than half the time. You have night and day, but you also have areas void of light or shadows even in broad daylight. The darkness either enhances a focused object or it hides something ominous.

"Darkness is void of light and this is where the most evil occurs. Here, everything is in plain sight with your Heavenly lens. There is none of the expected shadows, darkness or evil lurking; I promise you."

I was relieved by His explanation.

Me: "I guess when I saw the rich soil I was surprised."

Jesus: "What color were you expecting?"

With a wave of His hand, the dirt was white like snow. I was laughing so hard and shaking my head 'no'. Then He waved His hand again and the soil became blue. Again I was laughing and so was He.

Me: "Oh please, Lord, put the soil back to how it was."

Jesus: "Ah, yes." Instantly, the soil was back to rich black. "I think this is easier for my daughter to understand."

Then He walked over to the vine. I noticed there were seven different colors of grape clusters all on the same vine. They ranged in color from a translucent white grape up to a rich dark burgundy. He plucked a grape of each color and had me cup my hands.

He gave me the seven grapes and took seven grapes for Himself. Then He motioned for me to try them. I chose the white grape first. It was very sweet. I watched Him. He ate the white grape and then chose the yellow grape.

I looked down at my yellow grape as well and held it up to my 'Heavenly lenses'. I saw how amazing this grape is. It had depth and looked like a jewel. I saw even more. I could see crystals like diamonds, pearl and gold making up the juice of this yellow grape. He knew I was amazed by this.

Jesus: "Erin, it's edible."

He was smiling and watching how amazed I was by just a single grape in Heaven. He was pleased with me and amused by me at the same time. This is how He loves all of us! I popped the yellow grape into my mouth. It burst with flavor and it tasted so good.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

Me: "It is so good I can't describe it. There are no earthly descriptions. It tastes so wonderful that it makes me want to worship You." He laughed quite loudly.

Jesus: "Yes, this is the idea up here."

Me: "Jesus, it takes no effort here. Forgive me, but, on Earth, each day, I am so distracted by the darkness around me and in others. I search for You, but, when I don't see You, I am caught up in the world. It is hard to worship You in a storm."

Jesus: "Interesting. The storm is the time that is most important to worship Me."

Me: "I guess, when a storm hits, I look at You as being there on a 50/50 basis. I am only 50% certain You are there. Up here, You are 100% in all things. Worshiping You here is so easy and not like what I expected. We are to believe, or so we were taught on Earth, that our assignment in Heaven is to be kneeling and worshiping You 24/7 and nothing else."

Jesus: "So, let Me get this straight. God on the Throne created you to be on your face 100% of the time in Heaven and you would serve no other purpose here? This seems like an enemy tactic. What religion teaches this? Are you to kneel continuously chanting or reciting idle words to God on the Throne for all eternity and nothing else? That certainly doesn't sound very productive."

Me: "Lord, is this not what You want here?"

Jesus: "Erin, worship at the Throne of Heaven is always in spirit and truth. You are to come as you are. Now, there is an order. There are events and certain structures to be followed. There are acts of obedience that are very pleasing to God.

"Here, in Heaven, you come with such gratitude that you 'long' to be with God. There is love here. There is order, but Heavenly structure that is completely holy. Worship and praise here has no comparison on Earth.

"Here, in eternity, worship is an experience that is enjoyed so much and is so fulfilling that you will not be able to wait until the next time, understand? Here, it is a longing and desire versus a hurdle and a duty."

Me: "I didn't mean to imply that I wouldn't enjoy this."

Jesus: "I know. It seems that the teaching on Earth is that Heaven is boring and monotonous. Here, there is so much to do. Why would I prepare a place, or Home, for you here if you couldn't enjoy it? You will enjoy your Home so much that you will worship God even more because of it. You are thankful and grateful. You are like you are now."

Me: "Oh, You mean constantly in awe of Your glorious works here?"

Jesus: "God created you for worship, but He also delights in what brings you joy too. He delights in your happiness. Here, in Heaven, you are constantly discovering new things. Each time, you are in greater wonder. Each time, you worship God more. Each time that there is Heavenly worship, your worship is even more fervent than the last time. When you discover grapes or soil, what did you do?"

Me: "I thanked You in my heart more and more; praising You."

Jesus: "Now, this sounds more to Me like God's intended plan for worship, right? Everything you do here worships the God of all Creation."

Me: "Lord, we are taught things about Heaven that I don't understand. I understood from a few people that we float around and there is no gravity."

Jesus: "Erin, where is that written? Did I not just take your hand and walk you here? There is an amazing life to everything here, correct? Those in Scriptures will attest to life more abundant here. Again, if you would like to start from the beginning, go to the Garden in Genesis."

"The Garden was a small replica of here. This can be your starting point. Heaven and the life in Heaven mirrors Adam and Eve. You are hearing accounts of things from others that are best taken from the context of Scripture."

"Remember, when witnesses came back from encountering Heaven, they were not permitted to discuss everything. You do not discuss everything, but you take comfort and you speak with conviction about what waits, right?"

"Now, is Heaven not also productive? Does it not say in John 5:17 that My Father works and I work? In Isaiah, it speaks in 65:21-23 about enjoying the fruits of your labor. Erin, there is so much more."

Me: "So, Lord, there is gravity in Heaven?"

Jesus: "Erin, there is abundance here. There are things that you have no vocabulary to describe and no earthly reference as a vantage point. This is like the grape you just ate, correct? You have heard music up here. There is nothing like this right?"

Me: I became excited. "Yes, Lord, it goes right through my body into my cells and I lose myself in full love and worship for You through the music."

He is smiling and was, again, pleased at my response.

Jesus: "Does Scripture also say that your body is glorified and youthful? Have you not encountered this? Is this not regeneration as in Matthew 19:28? Was not John so overwhelmed recording his accounts that he had to be reminded in Revelation 21:5. So, Erin, be careful about the guess work of imagination. What do you see here?"

He pointed out again over the Valley of Beracah, one of many Valleys in Heaven. With my Heavenly 'eagle eyes', I saw things that would be seen on Earth, yet all enhanced to be a thousand times better, more interesting, aesthetically pleasing, deep, rich, exhilarating, beautiful, flavorful and alive; yes, alive! He was reading my thoughts. I began to weep even as I am writing.

Me: In a quiet voice. "Lord, everything is alive here. Nothing is dead or dying. There is nothing contrary; no shadows and no lurking. Everything is beautiful."

I reached over and hugged Him. The top of my head reached up to around the middle of His stomach. He wrapped His arms around me and held me while I cried.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, you can feel My arms wrapped around you, right? I am not some spirit or ghost that will float away, right?"

He was laughing. I could feel His whole body chuckling. I laughed too.

Me: "Thank You, Lord. I needed to be reminded about our Home."

Jesus: "Erin, this is not some alien starship planet. This is the Promised Land. There are not strange and scary concepts here. Now, your mountain Home; tell me about something there."

Me: "Oh yes; the heavenly technology. I can enjoy cooking, yet I can instantly have a meal. I can enjoy opening my nano doors, like walls of glass, or I can open them immediately. Music plays everywhere and the volume can be turned up by my thoughts. Is this permissible for me to talk about?"

Jesus: "Now don't you wonder, in Daniel, if he had no words to describe it, here was what he was speaking of? You will be productive here. Productive means you will produce here, understand? You will have joy with your labor and will enjoy the fruits of your labor too."

Me: "I don't understand about Daniel here, Lord?"

Jesus: "Daniel saw things he couldn't describe. They were beyond his understanding, like your mountain Home. In Daniel's day, this was frightening, yet you were not frightened by this. Why?"

Me: "I guess because earthly technology now mimics, or is very close to, that now."

Jesus: "Well, it is not like here, I assure you."

Me: "Oh forgive me, Lord. On Earth, I just ordered blinds for a window for a customer that she can move up and down during the day from her cell phone."

Jesus: "Yes, this is impressive, but based on counterfeit technology."

Me: "Technology is accelerating here on Earth at record speed."

Jesus: "Well, it is almost time for Me to come then, right, or else some will believe that technology is their salvation."

Me: "What?"

Jesus: "The Earth has grown dependent on the gods of the world. Remember where they used to reside. Remember, they are now cutoff and unable to come back. They are angry."

Me: "Lord, come soon to rescue us."

Jesus: "Do not worry. This does nothing of any benefit, right? Now, where were we? Ah, yes, come over here."

He takes me to a spot overlooking this beautiful valley. There, I could see ridge after ridge of valleys and beauty. Each area was unique and different. Some dwellings seemed like they were from another time.

Off in the distance, and in the center, is the massive City of Gold. It was so large and layered; in levels unlike anything on Earth. This is just my guess, but when the fallen erected their towers, perhaps they tried to make these similar to Heaven. They were like a glass skyscraper, yet like cut crystal too.

I saw gardens, mansions, fountains and the Throne; the glory light of the Throne. From this view, I am not sure how huge it is. However, when I am close to the City, it doesn't seem like the same scale.

The City is massive unlike any city on Earth. It may possibly be even larger than the state of Texas, but I am not sure. This is similar to how 'time' is not the same in Heaven as it is on Earth. I suspected that the forms of measure are different here also, but, again, I am only guessing. He was reading my thoughts again.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, the City of Gold is very precise and mathematically perfect. The building of this on Earth would be impossible. It is like a perfectly made glass skyscraper, but just as wide at the base as in the sky, like a cube. Despite this, I can still see the Throne of God. How is this even possible?"

Jesus: "Oh, a mystery! Think of it this way; how do you feel when you see it?"

Me: "Amazing. I am in awe. I am attracted to it. My cells are reminded of Your holiness as well as Your strength, but, to me, seeing the City and the Throne, I read it as the most amazing love letter just to me." I am in tears.

"When I hear the Heavenly choirs of angels, I hear a love song. You sing to my heart and I praise You more. I am safe here with You. On Earth, I don't feel as loved as I do in Your awesome glory and presence. I know that I am not permitted to discuss some of what I've seen. However, can I say, Lord, that this is in the Bible, but just hidden in plain sight? Not only that, but this is just one of these."

Jesus: "Erin, soon all of you will be so overjoyed with what I have waiting here for you. You will remember the former things no more. You will have understanding, but will be set free from that which held you in chains on Earth."

Me: "Lord, when You take me to places like this, I only want to be with You more and more. It seems too real. I am ready."

Jesus: "Patience. A few things must happen, but I will come and not delay."

Me: "Lord, from my view point, the City is much larger than I'm describing. Is it?"

Jesus: "Yes." He laughed. "Much larger!"

I realized I was way off in my assessment.

Jesus: "Erin, this is not what you are here for. You are here to share what you've seen. It is not necessary for you to measure off the holy City to witness right now. You are here to write about what you've seen as comfort. Soon things like this will be important to focus on.

"People will criticize you. You will be called names. People will become angry because you do not tell them what they want to hear. From here on forward, you are to focus on the joy of Heaven. You are not to listen to those who claim greater understanding than you concerning Heaven.

"Always check the stories by what you know from the Scriptures. You will be shown other times to come. Write as you are instructed and do not be afraid. Soon you will have rest.

"Finally, remember what you cannot see with your earthly eyes. Remember Elisha; that he learned from Elijah as in 2 Kings 6. This particular story is one that is also interesting for right now. The Syrians had surrounded the city and there was panic.

"What happened when Elisha's servant felt alone? Then Elisha prayed to open his servant's eyes and the servant saw the mountains full of horses and chariots of fire sent from Heaven. They rejoiced as 'They who are with us are more than they are with them'.

So, Erin, remember, what you are feeling is the result of one whose Spirit longs to be Home here. Although you do not see with spiritual eyes on Earth, and this is for your benefit that you do not, please take comfort in knowing that only a third fell to Earth and that, up here in Heaven, the other two-thirds remain.

"There are more for you than against you. To live is Christ and, to die, gain. You gain everything here. Please be encouraged."

He hugged me and walked me back to the Portal. He smiled and put His hand over His heart. I bowed and put my hand over mine and curtsied. We laughed.

Dream over...

I immediately opened my Bible to Philippians 4:6-7. There was no accident here. I realize that I must set my sights on Heaven. This is where I feel the most comfort. We know that our rewards are great as our bodies will no longer decay or weaken.

We will enter a beautiful land with no descriptive Earth terminology and we will forever be with Jesus in worship. There is a well-known author from many years ago whom I hope to one day meet in Heaven. However, I have removed his name so as to not cause division amongst Christians. At the end of his book, he describes the events that occur when the characters enter Heaven, but altered slightly to maintain their anonymity:

"The things that began to happen after that were so great and beautiful, that I cannot write them. And for us, this is the end of all the stories and we can most truly say that they all lived happily ever after. But, for them, it was only the beginning of the real story. All their life, their adventures had only been the cover and the title page. Now, at last, they were beginning chapter one of the 'Great Story', which no one on Earth has read. This 'book' will go on forever and ever, where every chapter is better than the chapter before."

This is the most amazing thing. Nothing I could ever describe is like Heaven. The City of our God is like no other place. Our love is there and our best chapters are about to begin. Our adventure is just the start of what the Lord has planned for those who love Him.

My life has been painful and nothing of great consequence, but I look forward, with such grand anticipation, to the glorious romance of Heaven. The best novel is eternity and, just like my life with Christ, grows deeper and deeper every day like a divine symphony with no end.

What Jesus has planned for us will always be even better than the day before. We will always have a life of continued ascension of joy everlasting. We will always praise God in all we do.

Our lives are soon to come to a close here, for this is small, but what waits for us in Heaven is the beginning of something so incredibly, indescribable, amazingly fantastical and lovingly created by Our Father in Heaven who longs to be with us. We are about to begin the 'Real Story'!

Love and Blessings...Erin

Dream 071 – The Vineyard

Received Friday, June 28, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 20)

Communion

Dear Father, thank You for this day. Thank You for answered prayers. I am sorry, Lord, for not spending time with You. You are blessing me so much and I am not honoring all that You have done for me.

You have gifted me, shown kindness to me and shown me Your love. Lord, You have honored every promise to me here on Earth and, soon, I am ready to go Home. I can even begin to smell, feel and taste Heaven when I am not there.

I do not like how I am here on Earth. I am too human and very vain. Sometimes, I reflect on myself instead and forget how wonderful You are and how magnificent You are in every way. I thank You, Father, for thinking of me. I love You. Dear Jesus, I love You. Lord, I would love to hear from You, in Jesus Name.

After this, I was brought up. In 'Earth terms', I was in the dream for around two hours and forty minutes. The dream I had was the Lord building a House for me. This dream was wonderful, and, even more than usual, as building a house was something I did not get to experience on Earth, but longed for.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

When I went up, I was 25. I had some sort of shoes on. I immediately kicked these off so that my feet were directly on the holy ground of Heaven. When I felt the grass on my bare feet, I knew I was Home.

I have heard that other people who claim to have visited Heaven say that our feet never touch ground here. However, I have only experienced this when near the Sea of Glass and quite rarely at that.

Here, in Heaven, my feet long to touch the ground and they do. I lit up with joy. Jesus stood up from sitting on His rock to greet me. He was laughing and smiling. It seemed like a longer run to Him today, but it felt great. He received me with a hug and my head rested on His upper chest. He kissed me on the top of my head.

Jesus: "Erin, I am so glad to see you today. Oh, how I love you!"

Me: "I love You too! Lord, I am so glad to be here with You. It is wonderful."

I noticed He was smiling at me again with amusement. I kept looking down at my bare feet in the grass. The grass is alive, so it seems to gladly receive my feet. Under my feet, the grass seems to vibrate. I picked one foot up and looked. I then put it back down. It was fascinating.

Jesus: "Why did you take your shoes off with such urgency?"

Me: I was in tears. "Lord, a couple of reasons; I wanted to make sure, when You clarified the issue with gravity last time, that I felt the strength of the Heavenly ground. The foundation of this ground feels better than the ground on Earth.

"I was barefoot on my lawn on Earth this week and I was concerned about where my bare feet touched. The grass felt good, but I wondered about little snakes or other hidden things. Here the beautiful blades of grass are soft, almost like fur, and feel wonderful. My feet don't bruise here and I leave no imprint. I don't damage anything."

Jesus: "So, you are just now paying attention to this? It has been here all along."

Me: "Lord, I didn't feel well this week. It was a good week, full of friends, family, love and laughter, but, when I had some difficult days, I searched for a portion of 'Here'. My mind is here, now, in Heaven. I wanted to remember even the smallest detail. I wanted more of our Home here."

Jesus: "Well, I am honored that, after all this time here with Me, you are now seeing some of Heaven." He was joking with me.

Me: "Lord, it is because I am always so amazed by You and fixed on You that I only look around me if You point to something."

He reaches over with an arm over my shoulder and gives me another kiss on the top of my head. This always makes me tear up. His blessings send an electric charge of love through me that cannot be explained or replicated. The love that He has for us is such that our body only reacts this way to Him. It renewed my strength and brought me joy and love.

Jesus: "This is the answer I have longed to hear."

Me: "Oh Lord, I thought You always knew that it is You that I long to be with, no matter where You take me and what You show me. I am sorry I looked down at my feet and paid attention to my steps instead."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Do not worry. This is impossible here. I enjoyed watching you. This is what I long for. Do you realize that you have come today as a maiden, yet your face was like a child's?"

"You were in wonder. When you ran to Me, you were so glad to see Me that it brought you tears. All the while, you smiled and had so much love and joy for Me. Do you know how much this means to Me?"

Me: "Lord, I can offer nothing to You. I come poor. I have no great thing to bring and nothing of any consequence. I cannot recite Scripture with ease or boast about those I have saved for You. All I have, when I come, is my heart, soul and spirit. All I have is what You have given me, so I gladly offer all that I am. What else do I have?"

Jesus: "You are full of wisdom today, Erin. You make My heart glad. Come, I have more to show you today."

He took my hand and we walked. Both of our feet definitely were touching the Heavenly ground. I noticed that my hand in His was quite small. When He held my hand, it was perfectly designed to be held by His. I never noticed this before. My hand had never felt like this.

I looked up at Him as we walked. He knew what I was thinking. He smiled, chuckled and squeezed my hand as confirmation. We walked by the beautiful vineyard. The light, the glory light of Heaven, seemed to be in the morning hours.

I looked confused. Suddenly, I looked around but there were no shadows. It was a feeling of morning. I didn't understand it. I heard Him chuckling as He was reading my thoughts. Just then, as we walked up a small grass berm, I saw the glory light permeate the vineyards.

These beautiful multicolored grapes became beautiful jewels, or prisms. The entire vineyard danced with color. I gasped with incredible delight. I pulled on Jesus' hand in excitement and then stopped myself. I realized what I was doing.

He was laughing and kept my hand. We went over to the vineyard together. I heard singing. I was looking everywhere, but I couldn't see where the singing was coming from.

There was a layer of dew on the ground and the vines were drinking this beautifully odd morning dew. The dew was like mercury, yet transparent, like droplets of water. It was fascinating.

Jesus: "Erin, we barely go farther than the vineyards. Last time, it was the soil." He was chuckling.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord. This is one of the most beautiful things I have ever seen...oh, next to Your eyes of course."

I giggled and He laughed. He was not surprised by my joke, but enjoyed that I caught Him teasing me earlier and wanted to reciprocate.

I should stop here to note that none of this was ever disrespectful, sarcastic, out of bounds, unholy or me ever trying to upstage the Lord. Instead, He treated me as someone that He knew completely and was enjoying my discoveries. I was never usurping Jesus' holy position!

Jesus: He enjoyed the 'note' I made and smiled. "Yes. It is very good to remember your focus." He was still laughing.

Me: "Lord, what is this? It is like dew. What is this?"

Jesus: "This is Heavenly agriculture. The ground is watering the vines. The dew is both the minerals and nutrients that the plants are drinking."

Me: "Are the vines singing? Is this where the music is coming from? Are they praising You, Lord, for Your holy provision? This is it, isn't it? They are praising You!"

I stood amazed and my 'jaw dropped' in awe.

Jesus: "Remember, Erin, even the rocks cry out and the mountains bow down."

Me: I suddenly began to stream tears. "Forgive me, Lord, for not treating You with even half the praise and worship as these vines do."

Jesus: "Erin, you are heavy today. Do I need to reach for some fruit for you in order for you to lay your burdens down symbolically at My feet?" He was smiling as He said this.

Me: "No, Lord, I am just awestruck. When I see the simplest things here with such beauty, I realize, sometimes, Who You are and forget. When the twelve disciples came up here, they must have completely been humbled? On Earth, they treated You as common; human, yet God. When they came here and really understood Who You are, they must have never left the foot of the Throne, right?"

Jesus: He laughed. "Yes. This does seem to be the reaction of everyone who comes. Do you realize that no one feels deserving?"

Me: "When You show me, Lord, and when I finish my writing, I pinch myself to check my place. You know how I am after these dreams with You. I feel joy, I have tears and I long for You. Then I wonder if I will ever see You again.

"I look for You around me and I watch for signs. I cry when I remember what You have done just for me and I am completely overcome."

I began to put my face in my hands. I am sobbing. He reaches over to hug me.

Jesus: "Erin, today is different with you. What is happening?" Of course, He already knew before He even asked me.

Me: "I am ready to come Home, Lord."

Jesus: "There is more."

Me: "Lord, I need surgery and I don't want it. I want You to heal me. I don't want to be in pain or miss a moment of You. I am tired. I am here and I know You called me up here today. I missed half a day of work. I couldn't bear the pain. Won't You heal me?"

Jesus: "Of course, but let's review what the doctor has told you. Do you remember?"

Me: "Yes"

Jesus: "There are things you are neglecting this week. What happened?"

Me: "When the pain was so great, I dropped to my knees and cried. When I did, You healed me instantly."

Jesus: "Yes, but what caused all of this?"

I paused for a moment and thought.

Me: "My pride, Lord. I didn't come to You when I needed You most. Then, when I did, You healed me."

Jesus: "The doctor says you have stones. Why?"

Me: "I haven't been drinking enough water. I am anemic, low in potassium and vitamin D; these are the simple things."

Jesus: "So, look over here at these vines. Why are they singing?"

Me: "They are praising You for the provision."

Jesus: "So, here they have everything they need. They don't need to uproot themselves, go down to the river and take a drink, then run back up here and take root again, right?" He was chuckling, yet serious at the same time.

"Then why, Erin, if you have access to all of these things, do you not take advantage of them. You have legs and feet...oh yes, and hands, last I checked. Why deny yourself the basics, like water, Erin?"

Me: My head was down. "I am sorry, Lord, I became busy."

Jesus: "Erin, the vines are busy producing a record yield, yet even they find time for nourishment."

Me: "I am sorry."

Jesus: "Do you know why I allowed this?"

Me: "I guess I became overly confident."

Jesus: "Yes. Pride was involved, no question. However, I need you at your best. All of you were called for this special time. You must be at your best in all aspects of your walk. Why is this important? When you were on your knees, finally, and in pain, you were healed. But if you are focused on your own pain, how can you fully believe for the healing of your brother?"

Me: "Lord, You are right. I can't. I can still pray and intercede, but my mind is still on a portion of my pain."

Jesus: "Now, Erin, you have wisdom. Don't come here until you are finished. You made a choice to remain with your children and to stay. I gave you the clear choice a few times to stay here or continue your race. Last I checked, you are still running, but a little more slowly this week."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord." This was a brutal rebuke, but He was 100% correct, as always.

Jesus: "Erin, I say this because your suffering is avoidable."

Me: "I am not having this voluntarily. The pain is real, Lord."

Jesus: "Of course it is. What I mean is, this was unnecessary, but a lesson for many. Watching is difficult. You are anticipating. You come to understand the time you are in and you are preparing. You are doing what you are called to do with these dreams and visions. These will encourage and speak of My love for My Bride.

"However, why would a Bride not be fully ready for Her Groom? Remember, the Groom will likely come at an unknown hour. There might be commotion before, but it will be an event. So, how will you hold up if you are not healthy and well rested for Me and your children?" He was right.

"You have been shown times coming. You might even experience some of this. What good is a full pantry if your very vessel, your temple, is weak? Now please, drink."

He walked me to the river. He had me bend down, cup my hands and scoop the water into my mouth. It tasted so wonderful. As I write this, and I'm not certain how, but I felt the pain of an ongoing problem diminish. Then it was gone. He put His hand on my back. As I drank the water, I began to weep. He brought me up to my feet and hugged me again.

Me: "I am sorry for not coming to You as often this week too. I need to be with You just as much as the water."

Jesus: "This is a good answer. There is a reason for this now that I am allowing, so do not worry about this. The Holy Spirit would notify you. You did learn to come on your knees and that the prevailing power of prayer on your knees is a sincere act of humility.

"Erin, mercy and grace follows humility. This is love. I cannot bear to see you like this. After all, you know I need you to be able to come to Me in all things and in all matters. You cannot create miracles on your own strength. You are not God nor are you expected to be.

"You must be alert. You must be fully in tune with the Holy Spirit. You pray for wisdom in all things. You must grow deeper in discernment and listen. You will hear Me tell you what to do and how to pray."

Me: "Lord, do I need to worry that something is coming? Are You getting me ready for something?"

Jesus: "You are not to have fear. This will do you no good. Fear is from the enemy. Fear cloaks wisdom. Fear breeds more fear and desperation. Desperation leads to sin and then all kinds of things come from this. You must rebuke fear.

"I am showing you something. Take a lesson from Stephen; when you focus on Me, there is no fear. Fear cannot affect you unless you allow it to. You had fear this week. How did it help?"

Me: "It didn't. When I had pain, I had fear because I was praying and didn't see results. I feared my fate and began to lose hope. I quit coming to You."

Jesus: "Yes, you lost hope and your focus on Me and My desire to have you call out to Me to turn and heal you. Now more than ever, you will need wisdom. You lacked wisdom and showed the enemy your weakness; the chink in your armor. You have been told to ready your household. Was I referring to the foundation of your home or your body? Is your body not also a household?"

Me: "You have never been this firm before. You seem quite serious. I am concerned."

Jesus: "Yes, you should be. I love you. I am showing you simple things; basic nutrients and water. When you come to Me, I am here to speak truth to you. I won't always be jovial until all of you are Home and at rest here, understand?"

Me: "Yes. When my children are gone, I feel the same way."

Jesus: "So, with your children, you are stern, but loving, correct?"

Me: "I don't have the beautiful face of love You do and they remind me of that."

Jesus: "Yes, but you do. Your love, care and concern is an example of Me. They are secure in this and listen, even if it doesn't seem like it."

Me: "Lord, I am clinging to everything You say right now; every Word."

Jesus: "Good, this is important."

Me: "When will all of this happen? I will get myself in order. Please forgive me, Lord, I feel better now."

Jesus: "You are loved. I didn't like seeing you in pain. It was avoidable. Now rest, drink and be alert."

Me: "I will resting also in You, Lord. Please show me more of Heaven."

Jesus: "This is enough for today. However, I have some fun things to show you tomorrow."

Me: "I am excited."

I dropped to my knees in front of Him. With my face at His feet, He bent down closer to me. This made me cry.

Me: "Please forgive me, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, I allowed this so we can have this today. You will help others. This is good and will strengthen you too. Please understand your place. Please know that all of you were selected for this special time. More than any other time in history, the enemy knows who you are and has ramped up his troops against you.

"If I have called you and you know this, then why would you wait until now to become weak? Now, Erin, I am with you. Remember Elisha? Who was on the surrounding hills? There is more for you than against you.

"Greater is He who is in you..." He points to Himself. "...than he who is in the world. Erin, the enemy also knows your destiny here and your position. He hates you because of Me. Are you ready to fight?"

Me: "If You require me too. I am a small woman, not a fighter."

Jesus: "No. That battle is later and you will not fight in this. I am referring to spiritual battle as a vessel. Empty yourself and allow Me to work through you." He blessed me and brought me up to my feet. "Tomorrow, Heaven, it's a date!"

He was laughing and so was I.

Me: "Yes, Lord, I always look forward to seeing whatever You would like to show me. I love You."

Jesus: "Great answer. Tomorrow will be an excellent day."

Dream over...

Love and blessings... Erin

Dream 072 – Jesus, Job & Jeremiah

Received Saturday, June 29, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 21)

Communion

Dear Father, thank You. Thank You for Your gentle rebukes. I heard this and will not wander off Your path. I love You.

Jesus: "Come up here."

Immediately, I was up in His arms. This was a first. I was 25 years old.

Me: "Thank You, Lord, for taking the time to show me my own errors. Thank You for allowing the pain so I can remember to run to You and not away from You."

Jesus: "Erin, I was with you always. It doesn't matter where you run, I am always with you."

Me: "Why, Lord, if I know this, do I still lead unto my own understanding and take trouble on? How can I do this when I know better?"

Jesus: "A walk of faith is always a walk of both certainty and uncertainty. Do you understand what I am saying?"

Me: "A little."

Jesus: "It is very unusual that a human can walk in such faith that they are 100% in complete confidence of Me and what I am going to do next. Do you know why?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "This is because you don't know what, or how, I am going to use you at any given time. How long is the Book of Job?"

Me: "Long!"

Jesus: "Here, Job had perfect faith, he was his Father God's delight and he lived in complete favor straight from the Throne of the Father in Heaven. So then, satan comes and requests Job. Now, why did God even allow a little shaking, let alone the major loss?"

Me: "Honestly, I am not always sure why God allowed this with Job. It makes me sad when I read this."

Jesus: "Do you not understand what an honor this is and what the final chapter of Job shows? Is this not the exact example of what God will one day restore here for all of you? Job had a perfect life and walk on Earth; make no mistake."

"Satan's proposal was a way for him to mock God and prove to God that all of you, who love the Lord, will fail. The enemy's goal for Job was to try various tactics and techniques to break Job of his faith. He also worked through those closest to him."

"All of those closest to Job were convinced that Job had sinned. Do you not think Job, himself, wondered about this? Too many, Job's very strong faith became a badge of both honor and pride. Do you understand this?"

Me: "No. If I have faith in You, how can pride be present?"

Jesus: "Erin, think about these last few months. You had some daily trials, the normal ups and downs; really, just bumps in your race, right? But you reminded yourself daily of My promises and that I was covering you in complete confidence. You knew, as long as the dreams continued, your pain was fleeting and your enemies at bay, then you felt secure, right?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. You know me better than I know myself."

Jesus: "However, because of this, when trouble was allowed, you did not do as I asked. Do you know what that was?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "I sent friends in this season to help you. You needed prayer. When you had these tribulation dreams, these affected you. When you became troubled, you went into seclusion. This is the enemy's favorite spot. Then, as you stayed there, things came against you."

"Your sickness was allowed because of your sin of pride. It is one thing to have unshakable faith, but it is another thing, when you are uncertain, to forget Who God is. Do you remember, in Job, when God speaks?"

"No one really reads this often because this entire book seems to be thought of as an 'urban legend' or 'fairy tale'. However, I tell you the truth, Erin, Job is here in Heaven today. This is no 'fairy tale'. Now, Who is God in this?"

Me: "He is everything."

I became, in this moment, very weak. My voice cracked and my body became very pliable. Even my muscles succumbed to this moment. He sat me at the base of the tree and reached up for two of the fruits. He handed me one and He sat beside me at the base of the tree. I had tears streaming down my cheeks. I was in shock.

Jesus: "Why did I talk to you about this today?"

Me: "Lord, I can't claim to know You. You are a mystery and a wonder. Your ways are not human. Your ways are so much higher than ours. I am always a child with You. I am always learning. I know that You have done all of this for my good and, somehow, this will prepare me for something very important that is coming.

"I know that, when I act on my own or do things in foolishness, You still remain with me until I come to You. Sometimes You are silent. No matter what, there is something in me that You find worthy and that something is what the enemy hates.

"Now I must realize that, when I write from my heart, the things of Your heart, I must always show Your love and divine character. Forgive me if I have thought wrong of You or assumed things too wonderful for me. I now know that my sin of pride caused this and I am sorry."

Jesus: "Erin, right now is a time of mourning in Israel. At a time when the great barriers surrounding the city were breached, Jeremiah wept at the gate of Israel. This was all because of their lack of understanding at the time of Who God is and was.

"Remember, fear builds walls, pride causes them to weaken and arrogance causes them to fall. What you experienced was a small illustration; a small parable. Now you are here. You are certainly not arrogant or prideful, so let us go back to running to Heaven in your race instead of running away from Me."

Me: "Lord, why did You suddenly bring up Israel?"

Jesus: "Remember that the pulse of God starts there on Earth. The heart of God beats there. This is a time of mourning; the time of the loss of the First and Second Temples. The Lord has told His people that 'I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you' (Genesis 12:3). Israel is your gauge."

Me: "So, Lord, right now, the nations coming against Israel's walls will bring wrath upon themselves. Lord, the USA has a proposal of peace. This is all right now; right now!"

Jesus: "Erin, 'fear not, for I am with you. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand' (Isaiah 41:10). The battle is the Lord's, Erin. You are to stand firm in your faith and trust in My Word."

Me: "Lord, You reference Jeremiah. His prophecies state that wrath will be poured out from the north with the vision of the boiling pot. In Jeremiah 9, it speaks of sin. Right now, I fear for the USA. Laws were just enacted. God is being mocked. The Commandments..." He felt my fear. "...In Jeremiah 1:14, the north..."

Jesus: "Shh...yes, there is a refusal to acknowledge Me. They delight, no, joy, in their own knowledge, strength, riches, freedom and righteousness. They boast of their high position. There is no repentance. This is Jeremiah 9. The heart of God delights in those who delight in Me. Erin, you are focusing on Heaven, right?"

I was so focused on me that I failed to recognize where I was. It was truly amazing. My entire body changed. I became peaceful.

Me: "Thank You, Lord, for being with me and remaining here with me. Thank You for not punishing me as I deserve, but instead loving me with a love that I am now beginning to understand. I love You."

Jesus: "I love you too. I delight in your heart and your willingness to yield to instruction. I know what people have said about you. I know that this has caused you grief. I am sorry, but you understand how much I love you and you understand that it means you have said things that have been like swords into their hearts. People don't like this. They have an understanding of how I should be, yet none of them I can call 'friend'. You, Erin, are my friend."

He looked at me with eyes of such strength, depth and love that I cannot fully describe it. I saw myself reflected in His eyes. If only everyone saw Him like this. If they did, not one person, not one would deny Him. I began to cry and my lip was quivering. He read my thoughts.

Jesus: "Erin, my friend, Jeremiah 29:10-14 is for you. This is also for you to share, understand?"

Me: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "Now, others will have you focus on believing in the false prophet's section because they haven't taken the time to know Me. So, do not be surprised when horrible things are said of you, understand? They said worse about Me. These are the same people that claim to know Me.

"They write to read reviews about themselves and revel in their great wisdom. I tell you the truth, not one would stand up to their own standards, not even God Himself. These are the ones that, when the trouble comes, will curl up as in the womb and cry out:

"Why? Why, Lord? Did I not point out the false prophets? Did I not publicly rebuke in Your Name? Did I not give to the 'big name' relief agencies? Did I not go to church and worship You front and center and show my commitment to all with my tithes and communion?"

"What will I then say to those who judged My friends using Scripture and My Good Name? I will say, 'I do not know you.' Yes, pray for them, but they will still be unprepared during the time of wrath. Yet they should be thankful that they will still be given another chance to repent."

Me: "Oh no, I will pray. The tribulation, Lord, who can bear it?"

Jesus: "This is why I call to you now. This is good training and good food." He points to the fruit in my hand. "These are lessons that are good. The enemy wants you to believe that good lessons are false and that bad training is good, understand? Now, I know this was a departure from My Heavenly dream plans with you from yesterday, but do you know why I allowed it?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "Last night, you were jumpy while you slept."

Me: "There were thunderstorms and the heat is rising here. I kept thinking Your wrath for America is coming."

Jesus: "Yes, I know. How can I take your focus to Heavenly things and places when you lack faith during a simple thunderstorm?" I knew He was right...of course!

Me: "Wow, You are rebuking me heavily right now. I deserved this."

Jesus: "Erin, this is all part of important training. What does your weather forecast call for?"

I was laughing because He already knew this.

Me: "It's going to be extremely hot by Tuesday, July 2nd (2013); 108 degrees even. There will be storms during the night all this week; electric storms."

Jesus: "So, would you like Me to wait until things cool down to show you more of the Promised Land where you will reside and where I have built a House for you?" He was smiling.

Me: I was laughing. "Of course not."

Jesus: "Then let's not worry and wait for trouble to come. Let's prepare and set our sights on truth. Focus on Me and things of Heaven, understand?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I understand."

Jesus: He was laughing. "I love you. I won't let you fall at this point. You have come too far and you have been appointed for this time; no greater time! You are loved by the King."

Me: "Thank You, Lord." He reaches over to hug me.

Dream over...

Dream 073 – The Storm

Received Tuesday, July 2, 2013

(Formerly known as Mini 22)

I had been in prayer about this prior to releasing this dream. I have not received a confirmation on this from the Lord that this is a three day, or even a seven day, advance warning. I also was concerned that, in my anticipation of future events, that possibly I was influencing the dream.

This morning in devotionals, the Lord confirmed that this dream is from Him and not the enemy. This dream is not meant to scare anyone. We are not to be afraid. Fear is from the enemy. If we are truly believers, with full armor, than I would say this is the Holy Spirit prompting us to ready our houses and go to Jesus. Praise, prayer and preparation is Godly.

On a personal note, there was an interesting turn of events this week. My middle son is in Portland, with his grandmother, and I have the other two children with me. Yesterday, the heat went up to 111 degrees, about five degrees hotter than the weather service claims. Today, it is expected to be even hotter.

Last night, for three hours, we lost our air conditioning unit. Then, by a miracle, it began to kick in again. Now it is back to working. This alone put me on my knees in prayer today as my children are at home during the day in the heat.

Yesterday, it was an unusual day as I seemed to be 'on alert' in my Spirit. The dream from last night, along with the temporary loss of air conditioning, was a Holy Spirit reminder for me to stock up on water and things to eat if we have no power. I failed to do this on simple faith, but I do not want to be foolish when I believe the Lord is prompting me to do this.

The dream...

It was night time and there was no power in the entire region. People had come out of their homes to a parking lot, just a short walk from our home. There were giant floodlights set up so people could see. This was an area set up by local emergency services to either purchase, for those that did not qualify for free services, or get information.

There were purchasing areas set up with pay stations. You could only purchase by using debit cards from certain large banks. Most people's debit cards were rejected. The power had knocked out everything, so only three major banks accepted commerce via satellite.

Mine was Chase bank and was accepted. My two children were with me at the time. I had several large bottles of water and several other items that we needed. The prices were about quadruple of what is normal. I was angry with myself that I had not picked up these items two days before when I was at the store and now it was ridiculously expensive. People were very angry and scared about the power and the heat.

At the pay station, they required me to have a second form of identification. They required a social security card or a birth certificate. I was frustrated as I didn't have these, so I had my kids stay there with my items and purse to guard it. I began to run back home to grab my required identification.

As I was running home, an epic storm was coming in. Everything around me was pitch-black. The wind was ominous and the stars were completely gone. The clouds came so suddenly that I had no time to react. I had to decide between running back to get my children or running home.

We needed the items, but I needed to make sure my kids were safe. I heard people running. I heard people say, 'Take cover'. I turned to run back to my children, but I knew there was no time. Then, everything went black.

I woke up from this dream, but yet I am still asleep and dreaming this too. Now I was in a portion of the Golden City in Heaven that I had not been to before. I was with my son who was not with me during the storm as he was in Portland, Oregon.

We were travelling in a type of moving transport. It was driving with no steering apparatus. There was a huge celebration and bright lights. There were people so happy and buildings of bright color. It was so colorful, in fact, that you could not take everything in. There were street dances and all kinds of things happening.

I saw streets of gold with beautiful cobblestones. My son and I were in complete awe. We kept remarking about how we could not wait for my other two children to see this part. There was music and something like confetti, only white.

I saw, to my right, the most amazing shops. I wanted to go into each of these shops. These shops were unlike anything I had ever seen on Earth; incredible really. This whole area had windows that were really pure colored cut crystals, but you could see with greater clarity than any window on Earth. It was so luminescent and beautiful.

The architecture was phenomenal. I turned to my son.

Me: "Yes, we must come back to this part tomorrow, but with the other kids."

As we drove down the street, the white confetti turned to snow. People were really enjoying this. The snow was not cold. They were worshipping God in this. We heard everyone shouting, 'He is coming! He is coming! He is coming! People get ready!'"

There were loud cheers and this made both of us cry. We looked for Jesus everywhere up here, but He was not here. There was so much joy and anticipation, it was beyond our earthly capacity to feel like they did. I know this might sound confusing, but it was true worship in Spirit and in truth.

Dream over...

Upon waking up, I was very bothered that I had left my other two children for that five minutes or so before the epic storm came. I assumed, in my dream, that I was either killed by debris or something had knocked me over.

I got up and went to prayer and communion. I wanted an answer to what this was. The Holy Spirit gave me Romans 13:11-13, 'And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light. Let us walk honestly, as in the day...'

Please understand that I do not always understand these dreams when they come, but He brings them for a reason. My gift is not that of interpretation, but only as a reporter and scribe.

I pray that this was just a type of lesson, or warning, for us to be ready for Jesus, to be wise in our dealings and to clothe ourselves in Jesus; having our armor fully on. Praise, prayer and preparation is Godly. We do not know when He is coming, but He is coming for us.

Love and Blessings...Erin

Dream 074 – Tour of Heaven Part 1

Received Sunday, July 14, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 1)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for taking the time to love me and care for me. You guard my heart and remind me when my vessel is weak or I have a chink in my armor before going into battle. Lord, I am so grateful for every moment You spend with me. I never know each day what You might have for me.

Your instruction is what I long for. Your confirmation of Your happiness with me is always what I strive for. I know there is nothing I can do on my own strength to capture Your heart. The only thing I know to do is to keep a right heart in me.

Sometimes it means brokenness, sometimes repentance and sometimes grief, but I always know that this is the very "clay" that You, the Potter, request. So Father, I dedicate my day to You fully; my love, my devotionals, my worship, my children, myself and my daily chores.

I will choose to live in this moment and be present with You today. I love You.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I see Jesus near the tree. I run to Him. I am excited today to see more of Heaven. I am about 25 years old. He reaches His arms out to receive me. He gives me the longest hug.

Me: "I am so glad to be here, right now, in this moment."

Jesus: "I am glad you have come to see Me. Erin, you just said something. Do you know what that is?"

Me: "About being glad to be here?"

Jesus: "No; about being here in this moment. Tell Me more about this."

Me: "It was nothing. Let's start the tour of Heaven."

Jesus: "No. Sit first."

I sat down at the base of the tree. I was a bit disappointed in myself. I said something that caused another lesson. I looked up and He was grabbing fruit. I thought, "Oh no, I need to repent of something."

Jesus: "Wow, listen to those thoughts in your head. Yes, you are correct; I might need to have you repent. Let's talk about this. For one moment there, you were disappointed because things were not happening the way you expected, correct? You are excited about Heaven, this is good. However, more importantly, who is steering the boat here?"

Me: "Lord, forgive me. I want so badly to see more. I am like a little child. If You had me come up as a child today, I am sure I would be more compliant, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, this is correct. However, I had you come up at this age for a reason. See, a child lives in the moment; directly in a moment. The older a child becomes then the more anxious; fretting about yesterday and about tomorrow. Now, as an adult, all you worry about is tomorrow as the past is the driving force shaping you. Do you understand?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. But, can I say, when I was eight, and even younger, I always worried. I am not sure if I remember living in the moment."

Jesus: "Yes, you were thrust into adult situations and had no understanding of childlike wonder and peace. I am sorry for this, Erin. There are many just like you all over the world who had to set childhood aside and wrestle life as adults would. The difference is that a child is helpless and there is no control."

Me: "Lord, when I come to You here, I am full of wonder. I am excited like a child and I can barely contain my joy over You and Heaven. Forgive me."

Jesus: "Yes, of course."

He was laughing. He sat next to me, handed me a piece of fruit and He took a bite of His.

Me: "I have spent my whole life in shock over yesterday, fearing today and dreading tomorrow. You have taught me that the events in my life have brought me to this moment. There are some days that I wish I had blocks of time back as a 'redo', like my 30s or 40s, but I know I can never go back. If it were not for my childhood or my teens and 20s, I would never be here with You now, so I will not trade it."

Jesus: "Well, this is commendable, but this is not how you feel. I don't believe you."

Me: "What?"

I paused for a moment to understand His rebuke. I was trying to understand what I said that would make me false.

Jesus: "Erin, you want to say something to Me and you are holding this against Me. You are offended. Come clean."

His face was calm and loving. Here I was, talking to someone, Jesus, who knows me better than I know myself. I had better come clean or I won't be seeing Heaven today. Or, should I say, more of Heaven.

Jesus: "Erin, there is no sense of time here. I have all earthly day and more. We will just sit here."

He was laughing and very certain. I was chuckling and shaking my head. I paused and thought quietly.

Me: "Lord, if I say this to You, You won't call in fire and burn me up or split the ground and send me to the pit, right?"

Jesus: "Erin, if that were My plan, why would I even waste time discussing this if you were destined for this? Seriously?"

I am seeing Him treating me as my best friend would. That is what He was doing. This is amazing really.

Jesus: "Erin, I can hear your thoughts."

He was laughing. I began to laugh so hard that the bite of fruit began to squirt out my mouth. This made Him laugh too.

Me: "Lord, this is how I feel. I covet the lives of other Christians, especially when I see married couples that love each other. I know things are not always perfect, but I wanted to have this here. I believe You could have put me in a better home. You could have given me a good childhood where I could dream at night in safety and wake up each day in wonder.

"You could have given me loving Christian parents. I wanted a father. I wanted a dad. Not a half dad, but a real dad. You could have raised me to make normal mistakes in high school and college. You could have prospered all of my hard work.

"Lord, I worked hard my whole life. I put my all into everything I did. I could have always been like this too. I always searched for You. You could have granted me the love of a good Christian Husband in school and we could have had a normal and 'whole' life together.

"At times, I know things would have been difficult, but You would be there in this. Then You could have still honored me with Your presence. You could have still spoken to me like this. I could still have joy and happiness.

"Could I not have still found You here? Was all of this necessary? Am I that bad that I needed all of this punishment? Lord, I am alone here. I know You have not released me for marriage here now. I know this and I'm at peace with this, but it still is difficult.

"It is hard to live in the moment here. I worry more than most. I made mistakes yesterday that directly affect me now and have future ramifications. I have no one to lift this burden or help me carry it. I have no encourager. So today, Lord, forgive me, but I think to myself, 'Why?'

"You could turn water into wine. You even walk on this, yet You could not have made me have things a bit easier?"

I just sounded off on Jesus. I don't think I had ever done this before and, now, I can't take it back. I began to cry.

Jesus: "Erin, finally, the last wall just came down. Stand up." I was shaking. I set the fruit down and stood up. He reached over and held me. "You don't understand everything right now and you won't until you come Home.

"Do you know I have been with you your whole life? Do you know that all of this was part of a greater divine plan? I know this has been difficult and I understand what the enemy has robbed you of. I understand the pain. I understand your isolation, but do you know what? I gave you dreams. I revealed Myself to you.

"As you have allowed, I have blessed you. I have not allowed you to fall. I know the plans for you in advance. Today, you stand here in communion with Me. We are in Heaven. You are present in this moment, yet not physically here.

"Can you trust Me to tell you or can you open your ears long enough to have knowledge of what I am to say? Can you receive this?"

Erin: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "The footprint of your life, just as it is today, matters. The pain, the disappointments, the trials, the triumphs and your race has a purpose. This was uniquely sewn together for a divine purpose. You won't understand fully of your impact until you come Home.

"You are used to believing the bad things you hear and the memories of past pain. You have every reason to believe that tomorrow will be filled with more of the same trouble. You have conditioned yourself for difficulty.

"Erin, did it ever occur to you that knowledge of pain and your ability to understand how people process this will be of great value or serve a great purpose in the times to come? Would a sinner listen to a pure saint and have understanding or as a witness?

"Is it not more of a miracle to see someone who once had no legs to now stand and walk? People have seen your change. Some will run, but they will see this miracle. A sinner needs to hear from someone who ran the same race and was able to finish strong, understand?

"I know that your life could have been made easier and there are many like you who would like to ask Me why too. So, should the clay be asking the Potter why?" He began to laugh. "I'm not making light of you, but letting you know that all will be clear someday. All questions will be answered. All will be restored."

"You will be made complete here. Do you know that I have such amazing things for you here? You have seen only a fraction of what awaits you. When you discover this, you will be in awe and in praise and worship.

"Others who have seen some of these mysteries are excited about coming Home too. Some reside here now and constantly praise God. So, please, take heart, take courage and continue on your path. You are so close to finishing."

Erin: "Thank You, Lord, for not burning me up."

Jesus: "How can I call you friend if I cannot be here as your friend? Will you allow Me to be your friend?"

Erin: "Yes, Lord. It isn't easy because I see You also as God. You have been my Father. You have also been my Husband when it comes to finances and my children."

Jesus: "A Husband is also to be a friend to his Bride and a leader to his household. This is by God's design. Everything on Earth is a parable or pattern by Heavenly example. All good things originated here.

"The fall of men began in the Garden, but the original plan from the Garden before the fall is by Heavenly example and is what you see here. This is a good land, is it not?"

He turned and I looked over this incredible landscape of Heaven. I was so ready to step in and enjoy this Promised Land.

Me: "Lord, You have prepared an amazing place here and I can hardly wait."

Jesus: "Erin, this is just the beginning. Come with Me."

He took my hand. I trailed slightly behind Him. He walked me down past the beautiful vineyards on our right to a viewing point over a cliff looking out across the beautiful Valley of Blessings; Beracah. I literally lost my breath. Over in the distance, and off to the northeast, was the amazing Golden City.

Me: "Lord, are You taking me there today?"

Jesus: "This is for another day, but you have already seen some of the City. Today, I am going to show you some of the Promised Land. Now, look over there." I looked down and over to a spot in the River of Life with waterfalls. "Come."

He squeezed my right hand slightly and we were immediately there. In front of me was a beautiful area; a pool of water being fed by waterfalls. The River of Life was feeding it. It reminded me of when the Bible speaks of refreshing pools.

In nature, on Earth, even when seeing a sight like this, there is always a flaw or a hidden danger of some sort. However, here in Heaven there is perfection. It wasn't necessarily tropical, but the water was crystal clear and a blue green. The water was similar to Canadian glaciated water, but not as cold.

The sounds of the water and the surrounding plants and flowers made music. It is like praise and worship. The rocks around the pool were made of amazing cut colorful stone. It was naturally polished with a beautiful patina. It is literally like polished cuts of marble and granite in beautiful colors that make up the area surrounding the pools.

Unlike many descriptions I have read of Heaven, I could finally understand this. Others depict Heaven as consisting of cut brilliant precious gemstones everywhere, so I always imagined something I could not understand. This, however, I could relate to.

Beautiful marble and granite come out of quarries here on Earth and most of these earthly treasures are hidden deep below the surface; something we cannot see. Yet in Heaven, things that God concealed deep in mines and quarries on Earth, here in Heaven, these are exposed.

One of my favorite slabs of stone is 'Azul Aran'. It is white with large crystals of blue and bronze. Another is one that I have used before. It is also a deep gray bronze with hidden rainbow bursts of multifaceted crystals. As you walk by this one, the rainbows appear and disappear so the stone seems to actually be alive. Yes, I know; hard to understand.

Well now, here I am. I stand at this pool and the rocks are incredible. My jaw was open in amazement. I must have been quiet for ten Earth minutes. Tears were streaming down my cheeks. I was squeezing Jesus' hand.

Jesus: "Erin, do you like this?"

Me: "Lord, it is breathtaking. I could be here all day. I want my friends to see this."

He was smiling and laughing.

Jesus: "Erin, they will very soon and this is just a small portion."

Me: "God is the most amazing Creator. There is nothing that can stand close to Him." Tears were still streaming down my cheeks. "Lord, if people on Earth even just saw this place, even the people of Islam, they would turn, see You and believe. Why not just show them?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you not think that God has called those who are His from the beginning? Look at what you came through. Look at where your heart was. You were not looking for Me or Heaven.

"For you, it took years, trials and long suffering to bring you here in this moment so you can share in this place. Most don't visit here unless pain or trials come. Do you understand this?"

Me: "Some people have come just as You have willed it; without death or pain."

Jesus: "Yes, this too has occurred, but if I were to bring those who hate Me to show them this, they will only follow their own version of Me in earthly terms, believing they were on the right track to begin with."

Me: "You have appeared to these villages and entire villages have converted because of You, Lord."

Jesus: "Yes, but, if I had brought them immediately here with no communion or relationship with Me, more than likely the enemy would change this to his benefit."

Me: "Lord, can it not be simpler since You can convert someone in an instant. Can You not do this with them and show them this?"

Jesus: "Erin, it took years to get you here."

Me: "Why did You not instantly change me?"

Jesus: "You were changed. When you gave your heart to Me, I immediately removed the very thing you desired with your whole heart. You turned from this and followed me. Then your name was written in the Lamb's Book of Life and here."

He then shows me the palm of His hand microscopically. I saw my name illuminated. It was incredible.

Me: "I do remember this. I had repulsion for all New Age things. My stomach would get sick if it was around me. I still had an unhealthy material issue and some other things."

Jesus: "Yes, but you still clung to these and didn't want to release them yet. This is why the long trials. Your heart was not fully Mine, do you understand?"

Me: "I think so. We can be healed, or instantly transformed, by the renewing of our minds when we no longer cling to things of this world."

Jesus: "This is good. You now have more wisdom. You just quoted some of the Word." He smiled. "When you became saved, your mind and part of your heart became saved, but not all of it. It is unusual for someone to surrender all to Me. If this occurs, then, of course, everything changes instantly. I have a sense you needed to hear this."

Me: "I always wondered about this; why my flesh continues to do things that are contrary to what the Holy Spirit speaks in my heart. Is my constant battle in life because I am unable to fully surrender my heart to You?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, your mouth has surrendered fully and most of your heart, but there is your will and it is a wheel to your body. You, and others, expect supernatural miracles and transformations, yet the element of surrender is not yet there."

"When have you considered yourself closest to Me? Remember, it is during your pain and suffering when you are left with no options of free will. You can still choose to go your own way, but, at this point, you come fully to Me. This is how the miracle began of close communion with Me."

Me: "Lord, some people consider this crazy; my dreams, my communion with You and my new love for all things You. I cannot speak for all people, but I do know that, when the enemy has had a run at me physically, mentally, financially, through family and work, that I certainly drop to my knees.

"You don't always come the way I expect, but You always come. You are faithful. This time with You, I would never trade. I am sorry that I never surrendered all to You."

Jesus: He smiled and squeezed my hand. "It is a very human condition. This is why I search hearts, not mouths, tongues, bodies or minds. In order for a vessel to be filled, it must be emptied. All must be surrendered for miracles to begin.

"Now, this is how you can also spot a counterfeit. I can grant the miraculous in anything, but there is a certain thing that I look for that must be present. Do you know what this is?"

Me: "Well, since I don't have all of these gifts all of the time, I have no clue. Is it to be without sin?"

Jesus: "Who is without sin? What human could have miracles then? Erin, it is the ability to love the Lord with all your heart, soul, and strength. Then it is to love your brother as yourself.

"False prophets, false messiahs and false witnesses have something in common; a hidden agenda that glorifies themselves or another god contrary to truth. They will begin to use "I" in reference to their demonic abilities."

Me: "Lord, I talk about myself a lot. I am guilty of this."

Jesus: "The dreams are not being created by you or your own abilities. You are not making self-declarations. Just relating personal stories is not what I am referring to. The enemy is not patient and drawn out. Red flags are raised immediately via the Holy Spirit.

"A counterfeit says what you want to hear and tickles the ears so much that when or if the truth is mentioned, it is subtle and notably a diversion. At first you note it. Then, by popularity, set it aside.

"Then the discrepancies glare, but pride keeps men from admitting error until an outside source is sent to expose the obvious. This divides churches and destroys ministries.

"It is the same as finding out about an affair in a marriage; same betrayal, same diversion and the same pain. Then, because of the fallout, people move away from God altogether and blame God."

Me: "So there are signs with counterfeits?"

Jesus: "There are always warnings, safety measures and open exits. The Holy Spirit and Heaven's armies will not leave you unaware and clueless. This is certainly not the way of God at all. It is the same illustration for your own children.

"As a parent, you set up a safe household. When something enters that is unsafe, you give warnings of discernment or have it removed with a gentle rebuke. Children learn discernment here to navigate when you are not present.

"The difference is, with you and other children of God, the Gift of Counsel via the Holy Spirit. You have a best friend, parent and Husband inside you and guiding you." He smiled.

Me: "Lord, thank You for this."

Jesus: "One last thing on this matter. Someone void of the Holy Spirit uses 'I', 'me' and 'myself' beyond normal. Humility removes self. A humble heart references Jesus and removes 'I's. When you become a new creation, you run after what is good; things of the Holy Spirit and things that honor the Lord.

"You reference your past errors to testify of God's grace, but always knowing it is by God's grace that you are here to begin with. You have done nothing on your own, understand? False witnesses speak of themselves 80% of the time and reference God 2% because the other 18% is convincing the crowd why they should believe them."

Me: "Lord, I could have used this lesson a long time ago."

Jesus: "Erin, you have this ability to discern. The Holy Spirit is a gift, a life line and a cell phone with unlimited minutes directly to Me anytime. I never left any of you alone without reserves for some will need to hear more clearly soon. False will become more common before My return to confuse."

Me: "This is already happening."

Jesus: "Yes, but this is nothing, Erin. Remove technology from the world and people will need to hear for the very first time. They will need to know the Holy Spirit and discern about counterfeits; wolves."

"Now, let's get back to why I have brought you here. Please focus on lovely things. Your goal is here in Heaven. There will be difficult times, but you have not been abandoned to the grave. I would not do this. You can leave me, but I will call you back, right?"

Me: Laughing. "Yes, and even to the point of pain and knee bending."

Jesus: "Yes. Let's not let things get this far along. Stay with Me and I am with you always."

Me: "I...and Lord, I did say 'I'...am the most blessed woman ever."

Jesus: "Now, let me show you something. Come."

He takes my hand and brings me to a small sandy area like a little beach next to this small lake or pool. The beach had sand like white sugar. I wanted to put my bare feet in it.

Jesus: "Erin, go ahead."

Me: "I always forget You can read my thoughts."

I took off my sandals and put my feet into this sand. The sand was like snow in color. I ran it through my fingers. I was looking at the most amazing slice of paradise. It was somewhat tropical looking in the middle of rich farmland with vineyards.

Me: "Lord, this is so beautiful. I have never been anywhere like this. I will be here all the time, won't I?" He was laughing and happy.

Jesus: "Yes. You will enjoy it here."

Me: I had tears in my eyes. "Lord, this here is more beautiful than any place on Earth. I don't see strange concepts, just beauty amplified. I can understand this place and know it is Heaven. Can I see more?"

Jesus: Laughing. "What did you think things would look like?"

Me: "Well, from all that I see here, it is very similar to Earth. However, the very things that are rare and beautiful on Earth are abundant here in Heaven. Like this..." I point to one of the cliffs near a waterfall. "I recognize this as a stone that is way below the surface level on Earth, yet, here, it is jetting out and polished. It is beautiful.

"Another thing; pearls on Earth are rare. A large pearl impossible to find, yet the very Gates that I have entered through before are made of a very large one. There is more 'brown' on Earth. Here everything is so lush. There is more green than brown. I see very little brown.

"I hear people discuss things here who claim to have been here and there are some very strange concepts that don't even sound normal. Some of it sounded scary to me; like an alien planet. It doesn't seem like You."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, there are things that you have seen that are difficult for some to understand. This is why many who have come have been instructed to remain silent. This is good."

Me: "When You come for us though, all will be so happy. Everything will make sense. I love You, Lord, for making such a wonderful Home for us. I am so excited for my friends to discover all of this."

Jesus: "There are many things that I have not shown you which are not easy to understand as a visitor because there are no words."

He points immediately to some colors that are not on the spectrum of Earth. I also saw a color, like a metallic, yet not an alloy. I can't describe it. The grass, as I look down, sometimes has the appearance, like fur and fine. It is soft like fur and shimmers, yet it is alive and responds to touch. He pointed for me to put my legs in the pool. The water was the perfect temperature.

To be continued...

Dream 075 – A Tour of My Mansion in Heaven

Received Sunday, July 21, 2013

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day and for not giving up on me. I love You, Lord. Forgive me for my trespasses this week. Please forgive those who have trespassed against me too. Lord, this has been difficult as all areas of my life are under attack.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I was 25 years old again today as I saw Jesus in the distance and ran to Him. He stood up off of the large rock He was sitting on in order to hug me.

Jesus: "Erin, I am so glad you came. I have missed you."

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am so sorry that I have not been here. This is where I have needed to be the most."

Jesus: "Erin, never forget your first love."

He reached for my hand as smiled and laughed. He walked me to one of the trees with fruit, wherein there are several of these trees in Heaven at various places. At first I thought that there was only one tree, but right outside the City where the Saints arrive is the River of Life along with rows of these trees. There are regular trees with fruit too wherein these all replenish an instant after a fruit is picked.

Jesus: "Erin, you are thinking." I was laughing and so was He.

Me: "Yes. I was just curious about the location of these trees. I notice they are by the River of Life and the off-shoots of the river."

Jesus: "Well, it would stand to reason that the Tree of Life would always be close to the River of Life. Both work together."

Me: "I notice that it is so beautiful here. I never noticed the large boulder you rest on before."

There were indentations like seating was carved in them. If I could relate it to a stone on Earth, it was like a granite slab called 'Bianco Antico'. It was white with veins of silver bronze and some platinum garnets.

Me: "Lord, this rock seems alive the closer I look and is really beautiful".

He handed me a piece of fruit and I took a bite. It tasted like watermelon and peach with apricot. Wow, it tasted amazing and I had the biggest grin. He was watching me with delight as He knew I would be fascinated with this.

Jesus: "This is good, right?"

Me: "Lord, how do You create all of this? How do You always know me? You introduce me to things up here that I did not even notice were an amplified version of all things good on Earth such as the grapes, the soil and the fruit?"

Jesus: "The difference is that before the fall of Earth the Garden on Earth was beautiful, abundant and perfect. Remember to study the things from the beginning before death. This spot on the Earth was formed by God.

"However, when the sin occurred and Adam and Eve were cast out, they lost their access to the small portion of Heaven on Earth. They lost their ability to eat from the Tree of Life and bathe in the River of Life.

"Slowly, after this, the Earth began to decay. The clock, or sundial, began the reversal of abundant life. With each tick of the clock and each second, there was more death, decay and sickness.

"Here in Heaven, this is nothing like Earth. I am only showing you things that have a relationship to things on Earth. Earth is a small shadow of Heaven, and a poor one at that. You know this.

"Your life on Earth is becoming more difficult because you have seen more and more here. Your dreams and visions that I have granted you have ruined you for the Earth. You have been avoiding Me and finishing this dream."

Me: "Lord, I have? This is my favorite part of the dreams. My time with You in Heaven is my most joyous time. Why would I do this?"

Jesus: "It is simple. You long to be here. There are no words to accurately describe what you have seen. However, you still have a burden to share and relay this to your friends so they too are encouraged. You have been assigned to journalism and this was never your plan"

He laughed. I laughed with Him as really I do not like writing at all.

Me: "I really need classes in basic grammar and punctuation."

Jesus: "You are exactly the right selection, Erin. If just grammar and punctuation are later corrected, then the content still remains unchanged, understand?"

If you begin to think about those things, you will miss the very essence of Me. Continue. If I wanted a scholar, I would call one to service, okay? Now, you have been attacked during this time, correct?"

Me: "Yes. July has been a brutal month. I believed that it was a gentle reminder to get back to my first love."

I laughed, bowed and curtsied to Him. He laughed.

Jesus: "Erin, do you understand the complete patterns of the dreams, the stories, the sequences and why I would do all of this now?"

Me: "I believe the timing is because we are just moments from something that will change mankind. I believe You are coming soon."

Jesus: "I have spoken to others not near you, but in different circles, cultures and countries. There are patterns. The timing is based on a time coming where your focus needs to be Me and here. There have been things in place from the beginning. This is all in your Field Guide, the Word of Truth.

"Remember, Israel is the gauge and the sundial. You have been given the information in advance. Some information is as clear as crystal. Other information is hidden and waiting to be revealed. However, all the information is there. The dreams are a mystery, but there are some things that you have skipped."

Me: "Lord, I was thinking of one the other day that coordinated with Ephraim. I saw the parking lot that was formed over the spot of the Temple. You showed me that, at one point, this was a potter's field or dump site. I then heard the land was purchased.

"The other thing I saw in a dream was some measurements from the City of Jerusalem. Though I am no surveyor, there is something to this, but I don't understand it. There were things in the night sky that I didn't understand. What about the shipwreck and the significance of the number there?"

Jesus: "Are you now asking for help? You have been asking for Me to reveal the three, yet only one came and left. What were you looking for?"

Me: "Lord, as You know, I am no scholar. Please use what we have been given to reveal things to us. Better yet, You can just tell me and then we can know."

Jesus: "Erin, there is a reason for 'a village'. Many people have skills that can help. You must learn to work together. What is there is good, but there is still more. You must recognize help when it comes.

"Wisdom also comes with experience. Too often, villagers want tickled ears daily instead. Sometimes, there are treasures buried in the field. There is a lot of information you have been given in these visits. What would you like?"

Me: "Well, if I have a problem with plumbing, I call a plumber. If I have a pest, I call on an exterminator. If I can't figure electrical on a plan, then I phone an electrician."

Jesus: "Finally, good, Erin. So you would like some help with surveying and perhaps Jewish history, archeology and sites? Perhaps astronomy as well?"

Me: "Is there a way You can send help if You won't reveal it directly?"

Jesus: "Erin, there is a reason I do this. It is for your benefit as well as others. This is good confirmation. Through scholars, you can gain revelation, but revelation, as you know, all comes from the Holy Spirit. It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out. All you need to do is ask."

Me: "Lord, I am asking now for help. Please, Lord, if You are truly coming soon, then open the flood gates and pour out the knowledge that we seek so that we may understand and be encouraged."

He waved for me to take another bite of the fruit. I began to laugh. I did and the fruit was wonderful.

Jesus: "Now, we established that you would like more help. You are going to go back and look for treasure buried in your field. You are going to ask Me when you need help, right?" I nod 'yes'. "Very good, Erin. Then what else am I missing here?"

He was clearly waiting for me to ask.

Me: "You were showing me Heaven."

Jesus: "Yes, your place." He began to laugh.

Me: "I love You so much, Lord. You are so amazing. I am so honored that You would love me so much. You should have been angry with me last time and burned me right up. Instead, You chase me." I began to cry.

Jesus: "Many people do not realize that My Word is based on love; the love for hearts. God looks at the heart. The story of your life is written on your heart and it is a love letter to Me as sure as you stand here today. Do not forget about the heart.

Make no mistake, the Earth could have been destroyed at any given moment, just like Sodom and Gomorrah, but this has not happened yet. People that do not follow Me, and even some who do, believe I am a punisher; a scary, cruel Savior just waiting in the shadows for one false move or sin, then you are erased."

I was laughing and shaking my head.

Me: "Lord, I once thought You were like this."

Jesus: "Yes. If this were My character, you would have been gone a long time ago." We both laughed as He was right. "The enemy is the counterfeit who teaches that good is bad and bad is good, understand? Do not be fooled. However, many will based on their lack of understanding of My love. Do you understand why you are here?"

Me: "No, Lord, not fully. I look around, I see You and then You welcome me even when You should be rebuking me. You do not give up on me when I believe others would. I am used to conditional love. I first learned about unconditional love from the Bible.

"The Holy Spirit would, and does, illuminate the love letter of Scripture so that I will receive it. With You staying with me and revealing the Scriptures in 'almost live' application, it is as if You have given me an advanced holographic experience of You completely.

"I have all the experiences of a fantastic movie, but this is real to me. My body responds and even my pacemaker responds in registered beats. I wish that there was, or is, a way my friends could experience You like I do, Lord. It is a miracle. I am hooked on You and the living Bible like my sons enjoy video games."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, Heaven is so much more advanced than Earth. You cannot even speak of Heavenly technology as it is beyond remote controls, cellular towers and hubs. There is no need for a satellite.

"Technically speaking, the 'satellite center' is the Throne of God. All currents come from it via the River of Life. The currents feed all you see here. There is no need for batteries as nothing ever dies. Last time, I took your hand and we were at the pool. Come here."

I walk over to Him. He grabs my hand and squeezes it gently. In a twinkling of an eye, I am standing on a beautiful cobble path with chiseled jasper stones. There are channels of water flowing on the walls surrounding the path.

There are incredible ivy plants with blooming fragrant flowers pouring off of these walls. I stand in front of a beautiful modern mansion cut into the side of this mountain. I look back and I see the Valley below us.

Jesus: "Erin, look where we just were."

He points to a distant ridge so far away that, with human eyes, I could not see that far. The path meanders back and forth in switchbacks up this mountain. Midway up, I see a garden with a pond. I begin to cry.

Me: "Lord, I have seen this in my dreams. This is my mountain Home."

Jesus: "Yes, very good. The workers are almost finished. Come."

He takes me to the top of the path. There are a series of bowls that pour water into the channels on either side of the path. The sound is amazing and I am in tears. He walks me up some chiseled stone stairs. They were like gold and white limestone, yet with the appearance of concrete, but deeper.

Before me is the most amazing Home, a Home way too wonderful for me. I am crying as I write. The front yard has beautiful grass and is groomed so perfectly that it would be unmatched on Earth.

I have worked on mansions in several areas of the country and I have seen incredible homes designed by the top residential architects in the world, but I have never seen anything like this.

The windows are facing the valley. They look like they are cut from the finest crystal goblets, like Riedel or Baccarat. Here I am, talking windows in Heaven! I see the base of the Home, or foundation, and it is made from a solid rock. I see beams that on Earth would be steel, but, here in Heaven, they are burnished bronze. My jaw dropped.

Jesus: "Erin, do you like what you see?" He knew I did.

Me: "Lord, what do You mean by the workers are almost finished? Could You not wave Your hand and have this complete in an instant?"

Jesus: "Of course, but what does this do for the workers? There are people that have requested to serve on the completion of your Home in the mountain. They love to serve. If I were to have you here today, told you that I need you to work with a team on a mansion with no budget and that the only restriction would be to capture the essence of the person or client who is to occupy it, would you not do this?"

Me: "Oh, how fun. Yes, I would love to. I saw some shops in the City with all kinds of things..."

He was laughing at my excitement.

Jesus: "Erin, the workers on your Home are those who have been given the files from the 'records office'. There have been angels assigned to each of you who record all that you like from the beginning. The records are formulated and then a unique design team is assembled consisting of architects, designers, landscapers, framers, masons, carpenters and seamstresses.

"Oh yes, let's not forget the artists. This team is assembled by Me. Every time you worked on a project that you loved, every time you saw something that made you smile and every dream on Earth that wasn't realized; all came into this great design.

"Erin, this is just your mountain Home. So, from what you see so far, what do you think about the faith in earthly technology?"

Me: "This doesn't compare. It is impossible. It is too wonderful for me. Can I see more?"

Jesus: "You need to have some surprises when you get here."

He was kidding with me. He walked me along some chiseled, large, cut, flat rocks that came out of a shallow pond. We walked from step to step. There were beautiful little shimmering fish that jumped out of the water to praise

Jesus as we walked. It was fascinating. We came to a spot where there were two massive water walls going into the pond. The sound was so beautiful.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, look up."

Above me were some glass windows. Jesus waved His hands and the glass seemed to disappear. He grabbed my hand and we were instantly on the second floor of this mansion, MY mansion!! I still find it hard to believe and call it this.

We were now standing in 'my' living room. There was a bridge that went from one space in the House to another part of the House which crossed over the water walls below. I vaguely remembered seeing a home like this on Earth once and it was incredible.

Me: "Lord..." I could barely speak. I was holding my breath and tears were streaming. "This is like a home I saw once, but You waved Your hands and the glass disappeared. This is similar to a 'nana wall' on Earth, but easily a hundred generations ahead of it in the future."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, I know. Do you know why I put them on this side specifically?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "You have loved the sound of water since you were a toddler. This is so you can hear it upon the entrance to your Home and while you are inside too."

I was crying. How did He know this? I looked around the space and I held my breath. The furniture was just like Kreiss, but custom. I saw before me a sectional that looked just like the 'Kreiss Azul Collection'. Wow, this is so expensive.

Me: "Lord, I see things here that I have specified for clients. Was I coveting, Lord?"

Jesus: "No. You no longer covet, especially the last five years since your first experience of Heaven. When you remarked how pretty something is, you never went further in your thoughts because it was no longer worth the cost. You traded the pursuit of these things for the pursuit of Me and Heaven. Because of this, I rewarded you. Now, go sit in this."

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, it is like sitting in a cloud. This is finer than 'Kriess', and even finer than 'Scalamandre'. The fabric is fine silk chenille and white. How can I own white furniture?"

I am laughing and crying at the same time. I looked at the detail in the seams; such finery. I felt that this was way too wonderful for me. The floor was made from extremely large planks of wood from a very old and tall tree, or trees. These were hand scraped and fit so perfectly, beyond 'Owen' and beyond handmade from the Amish. The wood had so much depth. Incredible!

Me: "Lord, the floor is incredible. What is the story on this?"

Jesus: "This floor is very unique and very special. The design team in Heaven knew you would appreciate it. I call these pieces of wood, 'Pages from My Life on Earth'. As you recall, I am a carpenter." I had actually forgotten. "This flooring is requested by many saints here. You will enjoy this."

"There is memory wood here. There are pieces of wood made from trees since the inception of the Garden on Earth, but in Heavenly terms. So, over here is a plank from the Ark. Over here is a cedar plank from the First Temple. Over here is a piece of olive from Gethsemane. Here is a plank from the House of David.

"These were destroyed on Earth and much burned, but the good memories were salvaged. There are things here that you will discover over time, but look how beautiful it is."

Me: "Lord, how is there enough wood to put in everyone's Homes here?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, on Earth, there were whole forests destroyed over time. Do the math. Surely there will be plenty in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I love this floor. What is the wood species?"

Jesus: "Well, let's see; we have acacia, olive, myrtle, cedar and oak. All of these are mentioned in the Bible. This is just one of the fun items that you will enjoy here. Look, Erin."

I turned and, right before me, was a wall of windows to the back yard. He waved His hands and the windows retracted into the walls. The glass was seamless and impossible on Earth.

The backyard was perfectly groomed. The patio was made of white rock, like limestone and marble, but had no veins and no high polish. It was natural and consisted of very large pavers, like eight feet by twelve feet bricks. This would be virtually impossible on Earth without complex machinery.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, the floor of this patio would be impossible to replicate on Earth. What quarry made this? Oops, sorry, Lord, we are in Heaven and God is the Creator. This is just beyond my understanding. How will this be possible that I will be walking on something this amazing for eternity?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, these are really small things in Heaven that have an earthly concept that you can understand. There is much more. It doesn't just stop here."

Me: "Lord, here I see You in everything. Even serving others is joyful. I didn't slave to work here, yet You have given me a beautiful place, far beyond my idea of what I would deserve. I am so blessed. How can I be this blessed? I will have no choice but to desire praising You constantly here. Since worship is so incredible here, I know that I will constantly praise You."

He smiles and shows me the rest of the area in the back. The grounds are very large. I am not sure how many acres the grounds are, but very large.

Coming outside, there is a very long channeled pool about eight feet wide and thirty feet long. Inside, the walls are lined in, what looks like, a cut sapphire. There are fountains springing up in a line all the way down. Every five feet there are about six or seven fountains. Each fountain springs light green 'emerald' water that shimmers.

There are curved jasper and marble lounging chairs in the pool where you can sit half immersed in the water. There is beautiful patio furniture seemingly of masculine black iron. This had thick cushions of dark gold on it that match the rugged, yet still pristine, exterior of the Home.

I look to the side. There, I began to turn around 180 degrees. The Home wraps around the courtyard. I look to my right and I see an opening where there is the most comfortable bed.

Me: "Lord, is there sleep in Heaven? Why would we need sleep?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Is Heaven not a place of rest and relaxation? Where are you thinking you will spend all of your resting time; eating rejuvenating fruit and bathing in the River of Life? Is rest not good on Earth? Would it not be even better here?"

Me: "I guess? I assumed that, since there is no darkness, we would need no sleep."

Jesus: "I understand, but there is more to this. I know this seems odd, but remember the most restful sleep you ever had?"

Me: "I can barely remember that. I am not sure I have ever really experienced that. I know that, when I sleep without pain, it is hard to wake up."

Jesus: "Think of Heaven as a place where you lack nothing. On Earth, Erin, there is lack and you lack sleep right? You do not sleep in peace. Here, you rest in peace and joy after a satisfying day of service. You then wake, fully rested, glad to wake up and in complete praise, for the Lord is good. When you first have rest here, it will not be an easy concept to understand, but it is also a form of worship."

Me: "I guess I could see people arguing this, but, to me, it makes perfect sense. Lord, I would love to sleep in perfect peace like a baby. I would love to sleep and have no pain upon rising. How glorious, really. The bedroom is so beautiful and I can sleep with open walls. I can hear the sound of the fountains! "

Jesus: "Now come this way."

In the distance, I could see the side of the mountain. There is a large pool with a waterfall coming out of the side of the mountain. The pool is completely illuminated. Surrounding the pool is a large bunch of aspens seemingly forming an arch. The leaves are moving in the breeze and music is coming from them. It is quite breathtaking.

Jesus turns me around and there I see an area where fountains are squirting out from the ground and making large arches about twelve feet high and seven feet wide. Each fountain is illuminated.

Beyond that is the pool and house. Over to my left is a large cabana with a retractable ceiling and a very large chair, almost like a bed. There are pillows everywhere. There are incredible pulley fans; large curved leaves that are attached to the sides of the walls that fan back and forth. I smiled and laughed. I had specified something like this, but not as elaborate, with a client years ago. The fans are made by a company called 'Fanimation'.

Me: "Lord, I cannot believe how amazing this is. How do I deserve a home that, in earthly terms, is priceless?" He smiled at me as I said this with such joy in His face.

Jesus: "Erin it is because you are priceless to Me. Someday, very soon, you will see your friend's Mansions; one they have requested that you design, so they are waiting to have their Home completed until you all arrive."

I was crying. I could not believe someone would wait for me to be here first.

Jesus: "Erin, look over here."

I saw the Home next to mine. It was a beautiful 'Mediterranean style' sitting by the lake. It was incredible. I had worked on a 14,000 sq. ft. home on the river in Portland that is 'Mediterranean', but certainly nothing like this. This was absolutely incredible.

Me: "Which friend is this?"

Jesus: "You will know soon enough. Oh, and do not worry about the friends who are waiting for you. They have another Home. There is no negative waiting or unfinished mansions leaving the client 'out in the cold'. No such thing as construction delays."

He was laughing. I laughed so hard because this is the nature of the home building business. No delays are simply unheard of on Earth.

Jesus: "Are you happy and encouraged?"

Me: "Lord, it was a small concept before and something in my dreams. I thought it was, perhaps, a product of my over amplified imagination. However, this, Lord, this is not even close to what I imagined. I am so blessed."

Jesus: "Erin, you need to know that your pain and suffering here and your perseverance has a reward. You never owned a home on Earth. Do you know how many dreams for others you have helped facilitate on Earth? How many wealthy people have trusted you with their dreams?"

"Yet, while doing all of this, you stood on the outside, knowing this was not likely for you on Earth? Do you think for a moment that I did not want to come right to you and show you the plans I have for you and to show you My love for you?"

Me: Crying. "Lord, I didn't require this. I never even could imagine this. I would still love You even if I had a small home here. This is so elaborate."

Jesus: "I have never forgotten you; not even once. I love showing this to you. I knew you would love this place. Here, you can have rest. Here, there is no mortgage to meet. Here, your debts have been paid. Here, you have no pain. Here, you have no punisher. You are safe with me in Heaven.

"Did I not tell you that you would have a nest near My Altar? I have longed to be able to fully show you what I have here for you. My favor will not be removed. Remember your place and where you reside, okay? Come."

He takes my hand. Immediately, we are at a very high place in Heaven. I see down over the property. It is huge and stunning. I see other properties with many amazing features. I am just in awe and shock. It is like Earth, but only all the good and wonderful things there that are incredible, then these are all perfected here.

Off in the east, I saw the beautiful City of Gold. I could see the Throne. The glory of the Throne reflected a 'Reidel' type crystal light at everyone's windows, flowing a beautiful spectrum of light into each Home.

Me: "The technology here is really incredible. It is so advanced. You are right about the Throne where God sits being even brighter than the sun. All life springs forth from God. Jesus, You are the creator of all things new. You love us so much."

As I look across the landscape, I see mountains, valleys, lakes, rivers, tropical areas and snow-capped mountains. Stunned, I look at something, but perhaps it is a mirage? If not a mirage, I believe that I am seeing a golf course! However, it is the most elaborate golf course I have ever seen. It looked so fun. I looked some more and I also see baseball and soccer fields."

Jesus: He is laughing. "So, you were thinking that Heaven doesn't have fishing, recreation and sports? Really?"

He then points to a large lake. On the lake were massive catamarans with sails. Each of these on Earth would be worth at least a million dollars.

There appeared to be some sort of giant race happening. Wow, I could tell this was fun for everyone!

Me: "I guess we are so engrained with the teaching that leisure activities, such as these, are decadent and not part of Heaven. I was told by a person that supposedly traveled here that all children have to do for fun is spin in the air and play something like soccer.

"Honestly, from what they wrote, nothing seemed like that much fun in Heaven. I guess I expected to come and do nothing but worship and serve and that this was it and that was that."

Jesus: "Erin, think about what Heaven is and not what Heaven is not. There is not one person who is not now residing here that can claim they know Heaven. Look how many times you have been here. Can you claim to be an expert?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "What lines up more with the character of God; that you come here and find joy in slavery or that you find joy and praise God in all things here? So, you wanted to be a professional athlete at one point. Would it not be fun to finally have that hole in one?"

"Can you not enjoy dance or music here? Can you not enjoy going to watch an orchestra or even a soccer game? Who told you that there was lack here? Oh yes, the one who was cast out and perhaps just a 'little' bitter about that." He laughed. "Now, do you believe the punisher or the Lover of your soul on this; the One who delights in My daughter's complete joy over the place I have prepared for her?"

I was crying. I reached over and hugged Him.

Me: "Lord, I know You are coming soon. My Mansion is perfect now and that furniture I saw is current to 'now' time. We are coming Home very soon, right?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am finishing your Mansion. If I have prepared a place for you, why would I put dated items in something you will not dwell in for some years to come? Again, think about this. When you prayed over the dying man in 2003, what did the Holy Spirit say to the man who was hours from going Home?"

Me: I began to cry. "You spoke, through me, the following, 'The finishing touches are almost complete. The angels are hanging your porch swing right now.'"

Jesus: "Then what happened?"

Me: "Apparently, he had prayed to You for this since he was a little boy. He, and everyone in the room, knew You were speaking, not me."

Jesus: "When did the man go Home?"

Me: "I believe he was gone that very day. However, I am not ready yet." I laughed.

Jesus: "I gave you this as a gauge to be on alert because you never know when the final touches are being made. You never know, if you go to sleep tonight, if tomorrow is the day you wake up in My arms."

Me: "Thank You for this blessing, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you, Erin. I delight in you 'Sparrows' and I watch over them."

Erin: "Oh, thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "Now, be encouraged, be strong and have faith. I have prepared a place for you."

Dream over...

Tears, blessing...Erin

Dream 076 – Tour of Heaven Part 2

Saturday, August 3, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:14 PM

Communion

This was a continuation of my Tour of Heaven, Part 1, from almost three weeks ago on Sunday, July 14, 2013. It was an odd dream in that it contained similar, if not sometimes identical, elements of my last two dreams. In other words, some of this may seem like a 'repeat', but there are differences.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I am 25 years old today. I run to Him. He stands up off of the large rock to give me a hug and receive me.

Jesus: "I am so glad you came. I have missed you."

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am so sorry that I have not been here. This is where I have needed to be the most."

Jesus: "Erin, never forget your first love."

He takes my hand. He was smiling and laughing. He walks me to the tree with fruit. There are several of these trees in Heaven at various places. I thought there was only one tree but, right outside the City where the Saints arrive, there is the River of Life and rows of these trees. There are regular trees with fruit too, but these replenish.

Jesus: "Erin, you are thinking." I was laughing and so was He.

Me: "Yes, I was just curious about the location of these trees. I notice they are by the River of Life and the off-shoots of the River."

Jesus: "Well, it would stand to reason that the Tree of Life would always be close to the River of Life. Both work together".

Me: "I notice that it is so beautiful here. This large boulder you rest on. I never noticed this before. There are indentations, like seating, carved into them. If I could relate it to a stone on Earth, it is like a granite slab called 'Bianco Antico'." It was white with veins of silver bronze and some platinum garnets. "Lord, this rock seems alive the closer I look at it. It is really beautiful."

He hands me a piece of fruit. I took a bite and it tasted like watermelon and peach with apricot. Wow, it tasted amazing. I had a big grin. He was watching me with delight as He knew I would be fascinated with this.

Jesus: "This is good, right?"

Me: "Lord, how do You create all of this? How do You always know me? You introduce me to things up here that I didn't even notice were an amplified version of all things good on Earth, such as the grapes, the soil and the fruit?"

Jesus: "The difference is, before the fall on Earth, the Garden on Earth was beautiful, abundant and perfect. Remember to study the things from the beginning before death. This point on the Earth was formed by God, but, when the sin occurred, and Adam and Eve were cast out, they lost their access to the small portion of Heaven on Earth.

"They lost their ability to eat from the Tree of Life and bathe in the River of Life. Slowly, after this, the Earth began to decay. The clock, or sundial, began the reversal of abundant life. With each tick of the clock and with each second, more death, decay and sickness entered.

"Here, there is nothing like Earth. I am only showing you things that have relationship to things on Earth. Earth is a small shadow of Heaven and a poor one at that; you know this. Your life on Earth is becoming more difficult because you have seen more and more here. Your dreams and visions that I have granted you have ruined you for the Earth. You have been avoiding Me and finishing this dream."

Me: "Lord, I have? This is my favorite part of the dreams. My time with You in Heaven is my most joyous time. Why would I do this?"

Jesus: "It is simple. You long to be here. There are no words to describe what you have seen here in Heaven accurately for those on Earth. You have a burden to share and relay this information to your friends so that, they too, are encouraged. You have been assigned to journalism and this was never your plan."

He laughed and I laughed too because I don't like writing at all.

Me: "Lord, July has been a brutal month. I believed that it was a gentle reminder obviously to get back to my first love."

I laughed, bowed and curtsied to Him. He laughed.

Jesus: "Erin, do you understand the complete patterns of the dreams, the stories, the sequences and why I would do all of this now?"

Me: "I believe the timing is because we are just moments from something that will change mankind. I believe You are coming soon."

Jesus: "I have spoken to others not near you, but in different circles, cultures and countries. There are patterns. The timing is based on a time coming where your focus needs to be Me and here. There have been things in place from the beginning. This is all in your Field Guide, the Word of Truth.

"Remember, Israel is the gauge; the sundial. You have been given the information in advance. Some as clear as crystal and some is hidden, just waiting to be revealed; but all is there. The dreams are a mystery, but there are some things that you have skipped."

Me: "Lord, I was thinking of one the other day that coordinated with Ephraim. I saw the parking lot that was formed over the spot of the Temple which, at one point, You showed me was a potter's field or dump site. I then heard the land was purchased.

"The other thing, in one dream, I saw some measurements from the City of Jerusalem, but I am no surveyor, yet there is something to this and I don't understand it. There were things in the night sky that I didn't understand. What of the shipwreck with Paul and the significance of the number on board there."

Jesus: "Are you now asking for help? You have been asking for Me to reveal the three; yet only one came and left. What were you looking for?"

Me: "Lord, I am no scholar, as You know. Please use what we have been given to reveal things to us. Better yet, You can just tell me and then we can know."

Jesus: "Erin there is a reason for 'a village'. Many people have skills that can help. You must learn to work together. What is there is good, but there is still more. You must recognize help when it comes. Wisdom also comes with experience. Too often, villagers want tickled ears daily. Instead, sometimes, there are treasures buried in the field. There is a lot of information you have been given in these. What would you like?"

Me: "Well, if I have a problem with plumbing, I call a plumber. If I have a pest, I call on an exterminator. If I can't figure electrical on a plan, then I phone an electrician."

Jesus: "Finally, good, Erin. So you would like some help with surveying, maybe Jewish history, maybe archeology and sites? Maybe astronomy?"

Me: "Is there a way You can send help if You won't reveal it directly?"

Jesus: "Erin, there is a reason I do this. It is for your benefit as well as others. This is good confirmation. Through Scholars, you can gain revelation, but revelation, as you know, comes from the Holy Spirit. It takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out. All you need to do is ask."

Me: "Lord, I am asking now for help. Please, Lord, if You are truly coming soon, then open the flood gates and pour out the knowledge that we seek so we may understand and be encouraged."

He waved for me to take another bite of the fruit. I began to laugh. I did and it was wonderful.

Jesus: "Now, we established that you would like more help. You are going to go back and look for treasure buried in your field. You are going to ask Me when you need help, right? Then what else am I missing here?"

He was clearly waiting for me to ask.

Me: "You were showing me Heaven."

Jesus: "Yes, your place." He began to laugh.

Me: "I love You so much, Lord. You are so amazing. I am so honored that You would love me so much. You should've been angry with me last time and burned me right up. Instead, You chase me." I began to cry.

Jesus: "Many people do not realize that My Word is based on love, the love for hearts. God looks at the heart. The story of your life is written in your heart and it is a love letter to Me as sure as you stand here today. Do not forget about the heart.

"Make no mistake, the Earth could have been destroyed at any given moment, just like Sodom and Gomorrah, but this hasn't happened yet. People that do not follow Me, yet even some who do, believe I am a punisher, a scary, cruel Savior just waiting in the shadows for one false move or sin; then you are erased."

I was laughing and shaking my head.

Me: "Lord, I once thought You were like this."

Jesus: "Yes, and if this were My character, you would have been gone a long time ago." We both laughed. He was right. "The enemy is the counterfeit who teaches that the good is bad and bad is good, understand? Don't be fooled. Many will based on their lack of understanding of My love. Do you understand why you are here?"

Me: "No Lord, not fully. I look around, I see You, You welcome me when You should be rebuking me. You don't give up on me when I believe others would. I am used to conditional love. I first learned about unconditional love by the Bible. The Holy Spirit would, and does, illuminate the love letter of Scripture so that I will receive it.

"With You staying with me and revealing the Scriptures in live, almost live application, well, it is as if You have dumbed down modern technology and given me a 'holographic experience' of You completely. I have all the experiences of a fantastic movie, but this is real to me.

"My body responds, even my pacemaker responds in registered beats. I wish that there was, or, is a way my friends could experience You like I do, Lord. It is a miracle. I am hooked on You and the living Bible like my sons enjoy video games."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, Heaven is so much more advanced than Earth. You cannot even speak of technology because it is beyond remote controls, cellular towers and hubs. There is no need for a satellite. Technically speaking, the 'satellite center' is the Throne of God. All currents come from it via the River of Life. The currents feed all you see here. There is no need for batteries because nothing ever dies. Last time, I took your hand and we were at the pool. Come here."

I walk over to Him. He grabs my hand and squeezes it gently. In a twinkling of an eye, I am standing on a beautiful cobble path with chiseled jasper stones. There are channels of water flowing on the walls surrounding the path. There are incredible ivy plants with blooming fragrant flowers pouring off of these walls.

I stand in front of a beautiful mansion, modern, cut into the side of this mountain. I look back and I see the Valley below us.

Jesus: "Erin, look where we just were."

He points to a distant ridge so far away that with human eyes, I couldn't see that far. The path meanders back and forth in switchbacks up this mountain. Midway up, I see a garden with a pond. I begin to cry.

Me: "Lord, I have seen this in my past dreams. This is my mountain Home!"

Jesus: "Yes, very good. The workers are almost finished. Come."

He takes me to the top of the path. There are a series of bowls that pour water into the channels on either side of the path. The sound is amazing. I am in tears. He walks me up some chiseled stone stairs, like gold and white limestone. It had the appearance of concrete, but deeper.

Before me, I looked and saw the most amazing Home. It certainly seemed too wonderful for me. I am crying as I write. The front yard has beautiful grass. It was groomed so perfectly, that it certainly isn't one on Earth.

I have worked on mansions in several areas of the country and I have seen incredible homes designed by the top 'residential architects' in the world, but I have never seen anything like this.

The windows are facing the valley. They look like they are cut from the finest crystal goblets, like Riedel or Baccarat. Here I am, talking windows. I see the base of the home, or foundation, is from a solid rock. I see beams that, on Earth, would be steel. Here, they are burnished bronze. My jaw dropped.

Jesus: "Erin, do you like what you see?" He knew I did.

Me: "Lord, what do You mean by the workers are almost finished. Could You not wave Your hand and have this complete in an instant?"

Jesus: "Of course, but what does this do for the workers? There are people that have requested to serve on the completion of your Home in the mountain. They love to serve. If I was to have you here today and said that I need you to work with a team on a mansion with no budget and that the only restriction would be to capture the essence of the person or client who is to occupy it, would you not do this?"

Me: "Oh, how fun. Yes, I would love to. I saw some shops in the City with all kinds of things..."

Jesus: He was laughing at my excitement. "Erin, the workers in your Home are those who have been given the files from the records office (room). There have been angels assigned to each of you who record all that you like from the beginning. The records are formulated, then a unique design team here, consisting of architects, designers, landscapers, framers, masons, carpenters and seamstresses - Oh yes, let's not forget artists, takes this task on.

"This team is assembled by Me. Every time you worked on a project that you loved, every time you saw something that made you smile, every dream on Earth that wasn't realized, all came into this great design. Erin, this is just your mountain Home. So, from what you see so far, what do you think about the faith in earthly technology?"

Me: "This doesn't compare. It is impossible. It is too wonderful for me. Can I see more?"

Jesus: "You need to have some surprises when you get here."

He was kidding with me. He walked me along some chiseled large, cut, flat rocks that came out of a shallow pond. We walked from step to step. There were beautiful little shimmering fish that jumped out of the water to praise Jesus as we walked. It was fascinating. We came to a spot where there were two massive water walls going into the pond. The sound was so beautiful.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, look up."

Above me were some glass windows. Jesus waved His hands and the glass seemed to disappear. He grabbed my hand and we were instantly on the second floor of this mansion; my Mansion. It was still hard to believe and call it this!

We were standing in what was a living room. There was a bridge that went from one space to another, across the water walls below. I vaguely remember seeing a home like this once and it was incredible.

Me: "Lord..." I could barely speak. I was holding my breath and tears were streaming. "This is like a home I saw once, but You waved Your hands and the glass disappeared. This is similar to a 'nana wall' on Earth, but it is like a hundred generations in the future."

Jesus: Smiling. "Yes, I know. Do you know why I put them on this side specifically?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "You have loved the sound of water since you were a toddler. This is so you can hear it upon the entrance to your home and while you are inside too."

I was crying. How did He know this? I looked around the space and I held my breath. The furniture was just like 'Kreiss', but custom. I saw before me a sectional that looked just like the 'Kreiss Azul Collection'. Wow, this would be so expensive on Earth!

Me: "Lord, I see things here that I have specified for clients. Was I coveting, Lord?"

Jesus: "No, you no longer covet; especially the last five years since your first experience of Heaven. When you remarked how pretty something is, you never went further in your thoughts because it was no longer worth the cost. The pursuit of these things you traded for the pursuit of Me and Heaven. Because of this, I rewarded you. Now, go sit in this."

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, it is like sitting in a cloud. This is finer than 'Kriess' and even finer than 'Scalamandre'. The fabric is fine silk chenille and white. How can I own white furniture?"

I am laughing and crying at the same time. I looked at the details in the seams. There was such finery. This was way too wonderful for me. The floor was made from extremely large planks of wood from very old and tall trees, or trees. These are hand scraped and fit so perfectly, beyond 'Owen' and beyond handmade from the Amish. The wood had so much depth. Incredible, really!

Me: "Lord, the floor is incredible. What is the story on this?"

Jesus: "This floor is very unique; very special. The design team in Heaven knew you'd appreciate it. These pieces of wood I call, "Pages from My Life on Earth". As you recall, I am a carpenter." I had forgotten, actually... "This flooring is requested by many saints here. You will enjoy this."

There is memory wood here. There are pieces of wood made from trees since the inception of the Garden on Earth, but in Heavenly terms. So, over here is a plank from the Ark, here is a plank from the First Temple of cedar. Over here is a piece of olive from Gethsemane. Here is a plank from the House of David. These were destroyed on Earth and much burned, but the good memories were salvaged. There are things here that you will discover over time, but look how beautiful it is."

Me: "Lord, how is there enough wood to put in everyone's Homes here?"

Jesus: "Erin, on Earth, there were whole forests destroyed over time. Do the math. Surely there will be plenty in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I love this floor. What is the wood species?"

Jesus: "Well, acacia, olive, myrtle, cedar and oak; all this is mentioned in the Bible. This is just one of the fun items that you will enjoy here. Look, Erin."

I turned and, right before me, was a wall of windows to the back yard. He waved His hands and the windows retracted into the walls. The glass was seamless; impossible. The backyard was perfectly groomed.

The patio was made of white rock, like limestone and marble, but no veins and no high polish. It was natural and consisted of very large pavers, like eight feet by twelve feet bricks. Again, virtually impossible without complex machinery.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, the floor of this patio; this is impossible. What quarry made this? Oops, sorry, Lord, we are in Heaven and God is the Creator. This is just beyond understanding and I will be walking on this for eternity. How is this possible?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, these are really small things in Heaven that have an earthly concept that you can understand. There is much more. It does not just stop here."

Me: "Lord, here I see You in everything. Even serving others is joyful. I did not slave to work here, yet You have given me a beautiful place, far beyond my idea of what I would deserve. I am so blessed, so blessed, how can I be this blessed? I will have no choice but to praise You constantly here. Since worship is so incredible here, I know that I will constantly praise You."

He smiles and shows me the rest of the area in the back. The grounds are very large. I am not sure how many acres, but very large.

Coming outside there is a very long channeled pool about eight feet wide and thirty feet long. Inside, the walls are lined in what looks like a cut sapphire. There are fountains springing up in a line all the way down. Every five feet there are about six to seven fountains. Each fountain springs emerald, light green water that shimmers.

There are curved jasper and marble lounging chairs in the pool where you can sit half immersed in the water. Incredible. There is beautiful patio furniture, black iron, masculine but thick cushions of dark gold that match the rugged yet pristine exterior of the Home.

I look to the side and there I begin to turn around 180 degrees. The Home wraps around the courtyard. I look to my right and I see an opening where there is the most comfortable bed.

Me: "Lord, is there sleep in Heaven? Why would we need sleep?"

Jesus: "Is Heaven not a place of rest and relaxation? Where are you thinking you will spend all of your resting time? Eating rejuvenating fruit and bathing in the River of Life? Is rest not good on Earth? Would it not be even better here?"

Me: "I guess I assumed, since there is no darkness, we would need no sleep."

Jesus: "There are things to be discovered yet. I understand this seems odd, but remember the most restful sleep you ever had?"

Me: "I can barely remember that. I am not sure I ever really experienced that. I know that, when I sleep without pain, it is hard to wake up."

Jesus: "Think of Heaven as a place where you lack nothing; meaning, on Earth, Erin, you lack sleep, right? You do not sleep in peace. Here, you rest in peace and joy after a satisfying day of service. You then wake fully rested, glad to wake up and in complete praise; for the Lord is good. When you first have rest here, it will not be an easy concept to understand, but it is also a form of worship."

Me: "I guess I could see people arguing this, but, to me, it makes perfect sense. Lord, I would love to sleep in perfect peace like a baby. I would love to sleep and have no pain upon rising. How glorious, really. The bedroom is so beautiful and I can sleep with open walls. I can hear the sound of the fountains. Wow!"

Jesus: "Now come this way."

I see, in the distance here, the side of the mountain and a large pool with a waterfall that comes out of the side of the mountain. The pool is completely illuminated. Surrounding the pool is a large, like arches, row of aspens. The leaves are moving in the breeze and music is coming from them. It is quite breathtaking.

He turns me around and there I see the house in the distance. I see an area where fountains are squirting out from the ground and making large arches about twelve feet high and seven feet wide. Each is illuminated.

Beyond that is the pool and house. Over to my left is a large cabana with a retractable ceiling and a very large chair almost like a bed. There are pillows everywhere and incredible pulley fans, large curved leaves that are attached to the sides of the walls that fan back and forth.

I smiled and laughed. I had specified something like this, but not as elaborate, with a client years ago. The fans are made by a company called 'Fanimation'.

Me: "Lord, I cannot believe how amazing this is. How do I deserve a Home that, in earthly terms, is priceless?" He smiles and He has such joy in His face.

Jesus: "Erin, it is because you are priceless to Me. Someday, very soon, you will see your friend's Mansions, one they have requested that you design. They are waiting to have their home completed until you all arrive." I was crying. I could not believe someone would wait for me to be here first. "Erin, look over here."

I saw the Home next to mine. This was a beautiful 'Mediterranean style' Home by the lake. It was incredible. I had worked on a 14,000 square foot home on the river in Portland that is Mediterranean, but nothing like this; absolutely incredible.

Me: "Which friend is this?"

Jesus: "You will know soon enough. Oh, and do not worry about the friends who are waiting for you, they have another Home. There is no negative waiting or unfinished Mansions leaving the client 'out in the cold'. No construction delays."

He was laughing. I laughed so hard because this is the nature of this business really.

Jesus: "Are you happy and encouraged?"

Me: "Lord, it was a small concept before and something in my dreams. I thought from an amplified over active imagination perhaps, but this, Lord, this is not even close to what I imagined. It is so much more! I am so blessed."

Jesus: "Erin, you need to know that your pain and suffering here and your perseverance has a reward. You never owned a home on Earth. Do you know how many dreams for others you have helped facilitate on Earth? How many wealthy people have trusted you with their dreams?"

"Yet you stood on the outside, knowing this was not likely on Earth? Do you think, for a moment, that I did not want to come right to you and show you the plans I have for you and to show you My love?"

Me: Crying. "Lord, I did not require this. I never imagined this. I would still love You even if I had a small home here. This is so elaborate."

Jesus: "I have never forgotten you; not once. I love showing this to you. I knew you would love this place. Here you can have rest. Here, there is no mortgage to meet. Here, your debts have been paid. Here, you have no pain. Here, you have no punisher. You are safe with Me in Heaven.

"Did I not tell you that you would have a nest near My Altar? I have longed to be able to fully show you what I have here for you. My favor will not be removed. Remember, your place and where you reside, okay? Come."

He takes my hand. Immediately, we are at a very high place in Heaven. I look down over the property. It is huge and stunning. I see other properties with many amazing features. I am just in awe and shock. It is like Earth, but all the good and wonderful things there are incredible and perfected here.

Off in the east, I saw the beautiful City of Gold. I could see the Throne. The glory of the Throne reflects the 'Reidel-type crystal' into everyone's windows and gives a beautiful spectrum of light into each Home.

Me: "The technology here is really incredible and so advanced. You are right; the Throne where God sits is brighter than the sun. All life springs forth from God. Jesus, You are the Creator of all things new. You love us so much."

As I look across this landscape, I see mountains, valleys, lakes, rivers, tropical areas and snow-capped mountains. I think, if I am not seeing a mirage, am I seeing a golf course? It is the most elaborate one I have ever seen. It looks so fun. Do I also see baseball and soccer fields?"

Jesus: He is laughing. "So, you were thinking that Heaven does not have fishing, recreation and sports? Really?"

He then points to a large lake with massive catamarans with sails. These are million dollar boats. It appears to be a giant race. Wow, it was fun for everyone!

Me: "I guess we are so ingrained with the teaching that leisure activities such as these are decadent and not part of Heaven. I was told by another person who claims to have been here that all children have to do for fun here is spin in the air and play something like soccer. Nothing seemed like that much fun. I guess I expected to come and worship and serve. This was it and that was that."

Jesus: "Erin, think about what Heaven is and not what it is not. There is not one person who is not now residing here that can claim they know Heaven. Look how many times you have been here. Can you claim to be an expert?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "What lines up more with the character of God? That you come here and find joy in slavery or that you find joy and praise God in all things here? So you wanted to be a professional athlete at one point. Would it not be fun to finally have that hole in one?"

"Can you not enjoy dance or music here? Can you not enjoy going to watch an orchestra or even a soccer game? Who told you that there was a lack here? Oh yes, the one who was cast out and a little bitter about that. Now, do you believe in the punisher or the Lover of your soul; the One who delights in My daughter's complete joy over the place I have prepared for her?"

I was crying. I reached over and hugged Him.

Me: "Lord, I know You are coming soon. My Mansion is perfect now and that furniture I saw is current to 'now' time. We are coming Home very soon, right?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am finishing your Mansion. If I have prepared a place for you, why would I put dated items in something you will not dwell in for some years to come? Again, think about this. When you prayed over the dying man in 2003, what did the Holy Spirit say to the man who was hours from going Home?"

Me: I began to cry. "You spoke through me this, 'The finishing touches are almost complete. The angels are hanging your porch swing right now!'"

Jesus: "Then what happened?"

Me: "Apparently, he had prayed to You for this since he was a little boy. He and everyone in the room knew You were speaking, not me."

Jesus: "When did the man go Home?"

Me: "I believe he was gone that day, but I am not ready yet."

Jesus: "I gave you this as a gauge to be on alert because you never know when the final touches are being made. You never know, if you go to sleep tonight, if tomorrow is the day you wake up in My arms."

Me: "Thank You for this blessing, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you, Erin. I delight in Sparrows and I watch them."

Erin: "Oh, thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "Now, be encouraged, be strong and have faith. I have prepared a place for you."

Dream over...

Tears, blessing...Erin

Dream 077 – The City of God

Sunday, August 4, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:18 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for everything that You have given me. Thank You for Your divine love and Your favor. Lord, if You do not come soon, please grant me peace as I endure this watch. Heaven is becoming so real to me now and my longings are as in Psalm 38:10.

My Lord, all my desire is before You and my groaning is not hidden from You. Lord, You have put a new song in my mouth; praise to our God (Rev 14:3). Many will see it and revere Him and will trust in Him (Psalm 40:4).

Many, Lord, my God, are your wonderful works which You have done and Your thoughts toward us. They cannot be recounted in order to You. If I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered (Psalm 40:6).

I have not hidden Your acts of loving kindness within my heart. I have declared Your faithfulness and Your salvation. I have not concealed Your loving kindness and Your truth from the great congregation (Psalm 40:11). Let Your loving, kindness and Your truth continually preserve me (Psalm 40:12).

Lord, I love You so much. Your ways are so much higher than ours. Your love never fails. You continuously amaze me and I am forever ruined to only run after Your heart.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I come up instantly. I remove my shoes and I run to Him. He is already standing to receive me. He gives me a big hug. I hold Him for quite some time.

I am in tears. Every time I see His welcoming face, open arms, His beautiful eyes and smile and I smell this wonderful scent of Him, I cry.

Me: "I am so glad to see You, Lord."

Jesus: "What is wrong? I sense trouble in your voice."

Me: "Yes. I am afraid that, after I wrote about Heaven and there being night and day here, people would turn away from You because of what I wrote. I am worried."

Jesus: "Come with me."

He reaches out to take hold of my hand. He squeezes it gently and we are instantly on the east side of the Golden City on a faraway mountain. We are on a beautiful overlook and the terrain is like northern Europe.

Although I have never been there, it reminded me of photos I have seen. Everything was lush green. There were rolling hills with massive estates, like castles. The grounds were perfectly groomed with conservatories and arboretums. I saw complex English gardens and hedges like mazes.

I saw acres of roses. I saw the most beautiful horses with braided manes. I saw children running through the mazes and playing hide and seek. They were having so much fun. The horses seemed to be playing also.

The skies were such a beautiful shade of blue and the sound of the laughter, along with the sound of the fountains in these gardens, was so soothing to me. I closed my eyes for a moment to hear something. Tears began to stream from my eyes.

Jesus: "Erin, what is wrong? Is this not a lovely place?"

Me: "Oh, yes, Lord. It is beautiful. It is beyond anything on Earth. I just had a memory, or feeling, for one small moment. I was carried away to a time where I had peace and laughter as a child. It was fleeting.

"I see these children. I hear their laughter and watch them playing. They have no fears, no worries and no time limit in their joy. I hear worship to You. I hear it!"

Jesus: "Do you know that each one of the children you see down there was crippled or had cancer? They were brought Home before their parents and these children intercede for their parents to come to them."

Me: "Who takes care of the children here?"

He laughed and looked at me. I realized that I asked a ridiculous question.

Jesus: "I can assure you that these children are well loved and taken care of." He smiled at me.

Me: "Lord, please forgive me. This is a habit. I am not used to such loveliness and security. I should know that all of these children rest in Your loving arms."

Jesus: "Now, this is what I want you to see." He turned me around and there, in the distance, was the massive City. "Tell me about what you observe."

Me: "Please correct me if my descriptions are 'off'. We must be, proportionately, the same distance away on the east side as my mountain Home on the west side. The City looks so close and I do not have my 'eagle-type eyes' on right now, but, from this vantage point and the scale of objects in the distance, I am the same distance from Washington State to Miami, Florida? I am guessing around three thousand miles, or around five thousand kilometers?"

Jesus: "Actually, this was a pretty good guess. You are actually a bit further than that. How does the City look from here to you?"

Me: "Well, it is shaped like a cube. It is one of the most amazing structures I have ever seen. I cannot visibly see the Gates from here, but I see the jewels reflecting so I know which Gate I am near and which side."

Jesus: "How do you know the position?"

Me: "I just know."

Jesus: He was laughing. "This is not an answer. I will ask again. What makes you believe you know the position?"

Me: "It seems like a morning time. There is fresh dew on the grass. There is the sun behind us and it is just coming up over the mountains behind us. Yet this is so vast, I feel it could be afternoon at another position, but I do not know. I cannot tell if this is round like a planet or flat like a plain.

"I do not know and I do not want to pretend I have knowledge here. The terrain is different from my mountain Home, which was mixed, but very beautiful...meaning there were vineyards, lakes and mountains, somewhat like higher mountains, a Mediterranean, or Californian, type landscape. Here, this is equally beautiful, just different. The Homes are incredible, just different."

Jesus: "Erin, you are avoiding the topic of position."

Me: "Yes, Lord, it is based on the sun and my earthly knowledge that we are in the east and this is morning."

Jesus: "Very good...thank you." He was amused by my reluctance to state what I was seeing. "Now tell Me about the City from here."

Me: "From here, it is illuminated from inside, as if there is a sun within it. I know this is the Throne of God. The glass, really crystal, is showing as the sun is coming up as an even golden color; almost rose gold."

"The bright Throne in the City and the light within it is greater than the light of the sun so the sun is not able to reflect off of the walls. Wow, this is truly incredible. This beautiful City is like a jewel. Everything is built around it. It looks so high tech yet as if it has been here since the beginning of time."

"It is beautiful and the light emanating from it is glorious. The river flows from it and, near the City, it looks like liquid gold streaming from it. The river has tributaries and lakes. These, as they come closer, are a beautiful shade of sea green and light blue."

"As the river is below us on this landing, I see beautiful gemstones, which reflect the light. Everywhere the River of Life travels, even the offshoot of it, there are Trees of Life near it with fruit. The two are together."

"It looks like, no matter where you dwell here, there is a view of the City, a branch of the River of Life and a nearby Tree of Life with fruit. If I would like to travel to the City, I can, in an instant be there, or I can take a longer route. I can even ride a horse if I want to."

Jesus: "Your observations are good. These are descriptive."

Me: "Lord, it is impossible to describe the indescribable."

Jesus: He is smiling. "This is why I am showing you things that are similar to earthy concepts. This is easier to describe."

Me: "I am struggling with what people will say about what You have shown me. I believe many will be angry."

Jesus: He stopped me. "Erin, you were not shown a foreign concept. I allowed you to see this for many of your dreams and visions, yet I waited until now for you to release this information about night and day. Why? There is information in there. If you had started immediately with an exposed mystery, half of the people would not have read these dreams and visions."

"Now look, these are things that do not contradict what John observed, yet, because the enemy planted seeds many years ago, instead of reading the Scriptures and John's accounts of what he actually observed, assumptions were made and doctrines written and taught. No one without humility enjoys correction, right?

"So, they will argue and their understanding will be forever veiled because they refuse to admit a mistake. Remember what is written in chapter 22; there is fear and for good reason. You waited until a recent dream to finally ask Me about the shadows, or shade, you saw on the outskirts of the City because you were secretly wondering if you had been misled all along, right?"

Me: "Yes, I wanted so much to speak about what I have seen, but it contradicts what we are taught."

Jesus: "The enemy will be held accountable for this deception amongst many. This time is soon and he knows this. Whomever chooses to remain in his deceptions by not fully coming to Me for clarity and relying on the Holy Spirit for counsel will be shocked when they find they will only be privy to the limitations they speak of."

"They will not enjoy being apart from Me and they will regret their self-taught doctrine. Please read the truth in Scripture with the Holy Spirit as your teacher and wise counselor. The instruction from Me will dwell in you as if the Word is coursing through your veins."

"You will know a peace that will prevail against any 'outside' teaching or 'voice of reason' that twists Scriptures and is void of counsel. Now, how do you feel today after learning more about daytime and evening in Heaven?"

Me: "Well, I honestly never liked the concept of no night sky and the lights. I never liked the thought of not needing rest, showering or things like eating. The enemy has done a great job at making Heaven seem alien and a place for boredom, lacking in any good and Godly created pleasure on Earth."

"He has painted a picture of lack. Now I am excited. I will experience snow in the mountains without freezing conditions. I will experience shooting stars, aurora borealis, the moon in its phases and the sun. I feel at peace and I am so excited, I can hardly wait for You to come for us."

Jesus: "I am glad you like it here. After all, you belonged here. I am ready to have you here soon too. You have seen your City place and your mountain Home and these are almost finished."

Me: "Lord, I noticed that, in my mountain Home, I saw lamps in the house before You showed me nighttime there. I was so excited and elated. You know how much I love these."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Did you think I would forget about these details? I know how much disappointment you have felt over not needing lamps or lighting anymore. Again, the enemy knew this too."

Me: "I just love lighting plans in houses and lamps. Illumination is part of me!" I laughed and spun around. "I am now like a giant lamp because I am so excited to see the beautiful lighting plans in all these Homes at night here. The technology is 'over-the-top' incredible."

Jesus: Jesus was laughing at my excitement. "Erin, this is a small item here. But I am glad you like the electrical plans here, wherein there is a different Source, or Power Generator. These lights never burn out or surge."

Me: "Lord, will I have a lamp shop in the City?"

Jesus: He was laughing again. "Erin, you will not need lamps in the City. I think business would be better for lamps in one of the towns outside the City, but you will be much too busy serving in a different way here.

"You will have an assignment in Heaven which will encompass all of your skills to serve others. It is a unique assignment, a 'career' designed especially for you and your training on Earth.

"First, when you come up here though, I am granting you a special time of Heavenly rest as reward for your trials. They have been many and your days of suffering long.

"For each of year of these trials on Earth, you will have a time of rest and renewal times seven, all before your assignment begins. You are still able to serve, but you will have an extended time of rest."

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, I am not sure I can rest. This is not possible. If this is the case, I would rest for approximately 350 earthly years."

Jesus: "Do not panic." He was laughing. "You will have much to do and you will have complete joy. Others will rest too. Heaven is a place of rest and all you do here, including resting, is a form of worship to Me.

"I am just letting you know that I have seen all that you have been through and my recompense will be with Me when I come for you. With you, Erin, I am gifting you with love, laughter, peace, security and the ability to worship free from worry or the restrictions of this life.

"You will be renewed and then your assignment will be revealed. Your assignment in Heaven is not labor, but it is service and it will bring joy to others."

Me: "Lord, I am excited to start my assignment. 350 years seems a bit long."

Jesus: Still smiling. "Will you trust Me?"

Me: "Of course. Forgive me."

Jesus: "Erin, allow Me to gift you."

Me: "Lord..." I was crying even as I am writing. "...You have gifted me with salvation. You gifted me with having a glimpse of this and I would not trade a single moment of You for anything. Your recompense came with Your call to me in the desert. You are the gift!"

He reached over and hugged me, giving me a kiss on the top of my head.

Jesus: "This is enough for today. Do not be alarmed by controversy concerning your visits with Me. Anyone can come to Me, yet very few take the challenge of emptiness and a willing vessel. You are unique. There is a reason and a plan behind everything you have experienced on Earth.

"Do you know why you have always loved beautiful things and observed quality and craftsmanship? Do you know why you have a heart for design? Do you know why you are visual and have a memory of what you see?

"Easy. It is because you recognize quality on Earth and then are able to describe Heavenly perfection and details better. You can explain it. There are others like you who can also give accounts visually, but you can recognize a counterfeit. This is via the Holy Spirit in you."

Me: "So, You are actually able to use the fact that my business career centers on earthly materialism? This is shocking."

Jesus: "Why? Think about this. You had to have the separation from the material to find Me. You had to die to yourself and earthly wealth; becoming poor so, when you come here, you actually have gratitude.

"You love Me with no knowledge before of what waited you here. You had lost it all and found Me. Had you not experienced the loss, there would be no need for Me and things here. Remember the eye of a needle and the camel?"

Me: "You are right, Lord. I was 'self-sufficient', 'self-reliant' and 'self-made', yet, in reality, all along, I am completely designed by You for Your purposes."

Jesus: "Yes, of sorts. We will go over that another time. Just know you are loved. This is the year of the Lord's favor. I come and My recompense is with Me. I have prepared a place for you, a place near My Alter. I wipe every tear from your eyes and you will no longer suffer shame. You are loved by the King."

Dream over...

Dream 078 – Year of Jubilee

Saturday, August 10, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:22 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for Your love and kindness concerning me. Thank You for being everything to me. I praise You, times a million, and I cannot thank You enough for what You have done. You take our troubles and turn them into miracles.

Lord, yesterday, I went through some beautiful 'Streets of Dream' homes in Portland, Oregon. I no longer have clients like these or budgets. I no longer have dreams like these or the ability to work on projects like these. My life has gone to a serious downgrade and far beyond normal.

I saw people at the homes that I recognized and who remembered me for my small ripples I caused when I lived there as a fellow designer. Lord, my life and my career technically flopped. How my once status is now but a shadow and a small memory.

I saw designers there who work on themselves and their appearances. It has been thirteen years since I have seen most of them. Here I am now, with nothing to show for my years of trouble, but yet I have everything because I have You.

You Lord are everything to me. Please forgive me for my grief, my longings and deep loss. Thank You for taking me to Heaven. Nothing compares to my Home with You. Nothing even comes close.

Lord, if You decide to wait, or the dreams have been for time off a while, then, Lord, since this is my 'Jubilee Year', will You have mercy on me and my trials and truly deliver me and my children from our oppressors and give us with promise?

Lord, when I see You move mountains on behalf of others, and I have seen Your magnitude of miraculous deliverance, then, Lord, I believe, more than many, will You not please grant this also to me and my family.

You are my Father, my love and my God. You own the cattle on a thousand hills. You calm the seas and bring the rain. You walk on water and turn it into wine. Then, Lord, if not this year, then, please Lord, soon. Come soon.

Jesus: "Come up here, Erin."

I run to Him. I am about 25 years old. He sits up to a standing position from His rock. His arms are wide open. I am crying.

Jesus: "What is wrong, Erin?"

Me: "Lord, You are everything and so much more than even the Bible describes. You are the Creator of the Universe and yet You have patience with someone like me. I am so thankful for Your Words and, after yesterday, more than any time before.

"I watched Your words ring true in an epic way. I was so frightened to give Your Words, but did so in full trust and I saw how quickly, by faith, that You move on behalf of those who love You and whom You adore. I thank You so much that You answered my prayers for this family."

Jesus: "Why are you crying?"

Me: "Because I know all this about You. I come to You daily as a daughter, a Wife and friend, yet I have not experienced this divine move from my oppressor. Every month, we struggle to get by and my oppressor still has control. I have forgiven and handed this to You completely.

"I have prayed on behalf of others, yet You have not allowed my freedom. Now I believe I will not see this until death and I do not understand why? Why, Lord, do You allow me to look through the store windows at the displays, yet You have allowed only scraps to me? I do not understand what I can do. Do I need to repent of more?"

Jesus: "Erin, are you glad that you are able to come to Me?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Are you glad that, when you pray for others, that I answer your calls and I help; coming to their aid?"

Me: "Oh, yes, of course."

Jesus: "When you come on behalf of others, you give Me them completely and you believe fully for them. You write and speak on My full authority, right?"

Me: "Sometimes. I have a family in Australia, one in Illinois and one in Colorado who could use Your divine miracles right now."

Jesus: "How do you know that I am not working?"

Me: "I know You are. I just want everyone to experience what I just witnessed happen to my friend because, Lord, You can. On Monday, they were slaves. By Friday, You delivered them. So, clearly, You were in this completely. So I am petitioning for myself, my children and for my friends. Please do not delay."

Jesus: "I have heard every prayer and petition. Do you believe I have something special planned for you? Do you believe I can move mountains on your behalf too?"

Me: "I guess I have never experienced earthly deliverance, so I assume that my deliverance is for here and for my death."

Jesus: "Then you are thinking as a slave. Slaves would work the fields and dream of the days of death and Heaven. They would sing about their deliverance. Then, when finally free, because they did not understand freedom, it was easier to remain a slave because this is familiar. Could you be doing this?"

Me: "I understand and I agree with what You say, Lord, but I must disagree with Your assessment about me. Please forgive me."

He walks me to the foot of the tree and sits me down. I look at Him and He is laughing. He grabs two fruits and hands me one after taking a bite of it. I instantly know what He is doing.

Me: "Lord, You are wrong about me."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Oh, Erin, are you now able to read My thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, of course not, but I am serious and You seem to be carefree and light hearted about my pain."

Jesus: "Yes, okay. Never mind what I said about you being able to read My thoughts. You are misunderstanding Me completely and you cannot possibly know what I do."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord." I take a bite of the fruit as I begin to cry.

Jesus: "I know you do not understand all of this from your position. I know you do not. I happen to see things from a different position. Each of you is given your portion and your cup to drink."

"Blessed is the man who drinks from the cup which is not empty. Erin, your cup is filled; if you are thirsty, drink." He motions and, beside me, is now a cup of water. I take it and drink. "Erin, you asked to drink from My cup. This is asking for a lot. Did you realize what you were asking for when you did it?"

Me: "I guess not. I do not fully understand."

He brought me back to a scene in the rose garden in Portland, Oregon. The year was 2000. I was dressed in a black suit. I had just come from a funeral of my friend and a customer at my shop.

Jesus: "Now, tell me about this day."

Me: "I looked in front of me and I saw the most beautiful rose; incredible, really. I looked at the label and it said, 'Heart of Gold'. I broke down. I was sitting on a bench. Behind me was a beautiful landscape; downtown Portland and Mt. Hood. This dormant volcano was set against a crystal clear blue sky. It was breathtaking.

"Funerals tend to make you reflect on your own life. I had separated temporarily from my then-Husband and an abusive marriage. I was gifted with status, money, health and my two boys, yet I asked You to do something with my life."

I began to look down. I chuckle and smile.

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, what did you ask for?"

Me: "I asked for a 'Heart of Gold' even if it meant I had to drink from the cup of suffering; Your cup."

Jesus: "Interesting. So, did I answer your prayer?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, but really, look what all has happened. Did I not, with my heart request there, declare my desire. Could You could not have just granted me that then and kept me safe and completely Yours? Why?"

Jesus: "So, I take it you like your relationship with Me now, but you would like Me to remove all the 'messy' stuff, correct?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, the thirteen years of punishment. I surrendered to You there in the garden. I did not know what I was saying. What if I just prayed for a miracle; deliverance and blessing? Could this have removed the unnecessary roughness to get to that 'Heart of Gold'?"

Jesus: He was so lighthearted. "So, are you saying you are wanting Me to remove everything you experienced? What, and miss out on all these great testimonies and stories? Why would you want that?"

Me: "Lord, You are making me cry. I am not able to remove the last thirteen years. I would lose my daughter. I would lose my experiences. I would lose wisdom. I am asking for favor. If You are not coming soon, please just grant me some freedom from slavery. We are not to live as slaves after You have clearly set us free. Please, Lord, forgive me."

Jesus: "Erin, are you believing I can? I mean that I can and will, just for you?"

Me: "You can do all things if it is Your will. I have to believe, at some point, that You would truly grant me a great 'Jubilee Year'. You said You would."

Jesus: "What does 'Jubilee' mean to you?"

Me: "The year You remove me from my shackles and set me free. However, You are already in the seventh month from my birthday and You are not moving that direction."

Jesus: "Erin, You do not know My plans. Are you expecting a takeover?" He was smiling. "Maybe you should go back to Leviticus 25:10 and see what it says about the 'Jubilee Year'. You are to enjoy the harvest of your field, but when does this begin?"

"When does a 'Jubilee' begin? How do you know yours has begun? Do I constantly tell you to look to Israel for your gauge? Is this only globally or sometimes you individually? Please be encouraged. Before you assume to know My ways, please understand My heart and also know the season."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, I lack wisdom. I am arguing with the Lover of my soul and my Deliverer. I am a fool. I am speaking my mind. It is an overthinking rebellious mind, and my broken heart, even more so."

Jesus: "Erin, do you still believe I do not want to bless you?"

Me: "No, Lord, I know You love me. I have seen You sustain me. You show me Heaven and keep me focused on You and I am grateful."

Jesus: "Do you also know what happens during the Jubilee?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "It is a time of travel. You are taken back to your family; the roots of your ancestry. You are united and returned. You prepared your field, the land rests, you no longer labor and you are starting a journey."

Me: "Lord, will I finally be coming Home?"

Jesus: "Erin, what if it is on Earth and soon to be Heaven? Will you enjoy this too?"

Me: "Of course, but it seems as if this is a good year for coming Home. Every year is a good year for coming here. I love You, I am ready to enjoy You and I am ready to enjoy freedom from slavery."

Jesus: "There are still things that must occur. This you know. I know the signs are very strong right now, but they will be even more so as I draw closer."

Me: "But, Lord, You said, 'Sooner than we think'. This means tomorrow."

Jesus: He was laughing so hard at my comment. "Oh, is that the definition of 'sooner'? I did not know that."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, I am pretending to read Your thoughts today. Thank goodness You have mercy and grace or I would be removed from Your presence."

Jesus: "No, I would not do this. You are much too entertaining for Me. I love you too much." He reaches out to bring me up to my feet. I begin to cry because He looks at me as if He is proud of me. "Come with Me, friend." I am in shock by this and completely quiet; 'friend?' "Yes, Erin, I call you friend."

I am crying. Tears are streaming down my face as He walks with me. I can barely keep up.

Me: "Where are we going today?"

Jesus: "A special place here. You will enjoy this." We stand at the overlook over the valley. He points to a small hill near the base of my mountain Home, but, really, miles away. "Erin what did you see in the backyards of these Earth mansions you visited yesterday?"

Me: "Well, I saw something beautiful in each backyard, but nothing even close to the magnitude of the mountain Home You have granted me."

Jesus: "Yes. You should keep remembering this when you decide to long for earthly properties; properties which promote slavery."

He grabbed my hand and squeezed it. Instantly, we were at the most beautiful lush gardens I had ever seen. It was completely supernatural. It had every beautiful feature I had ever seen in different earthly gardens, but well planned, maintained and groomed.

There were acres of roses. There were millions and millions of roses. There were incredible fountains and pools. In one area, I saw children on a waterslide that was cut from crystal and illuminated, dropping into a three level pool. Each seemed to pour into the next, like infinity pools on Earth.

I saw one child laughing as he went down the crystal slide, dropped into the top pool and it forced him into the second pool below and then again to the third. Then the other children and some adults were cheering. He came over and gave Jesus a big hug and kiss.

Child: "Thank You for such a fun place!"

Jesus: "You are welcome."

He laughed, waved and ran back up to the top of the slide. I see, right above this, a beautiful garden; my mountain Home.

Jesus: "Now, look what you will be able to see every day."

He squeezed my hand and we were instantly up on the front balcony of my Home. I had not seen this before. The Valley of Beracah in Heaven was so beautiful. Tears were still streaming down my cheeks. This was like nothing I had ever seen.

I saw the City of Gold in the distance; several thousand miles away. I saw beautiful lakes nearby with sail boats and fishing boats. It looked like a scene from the Mediterranean Sea. He got my attention to where we had just come from.

There, I saw the garden. I saw the millions of roses. It was a sea of color. There were so many, that I could smell the fragrance from here. One area stood out. I saw a beautiful patch of golden roses, but the interesting thing was; they were huge.

Me: "Wow, those are incredible."

Jesus: "Do you know what roses they are?"

Me: "No."

Jesus: "They are 'Heart of Gold' roses."

Me: "Lord, is there no detail in our lives in which You have left out?"

Jesus: "Well, yes. I will not remind you of the bad experiences. This way, there will never be those memories or feelings of grief or loneliness surrounding the bad on Earth. Remember, I make all things new. Here, you are restored."

Me: "Please show me, Lord."

Jesus: "Here, take My hand."

Instantly, we were back at the Garden. It was vast and very beautiful. Everywhere Jesus walked, I heard people say, "He is coming, look, He is coming!" People were so glad to see Him. He waved and greeted everyone.

The people were very respectful of Him and they seemed to know that this was my special time with Jesus. I noticed that people were happy for me; not jealous or resentful, but happy for me.

We walked in lovely places. There were small features; grottos, fountains and marble stones with grass in between forming a beautiful lattice pattern. There were walks of beautiful stone pavers that had bronze lion heads spouting water. There were areas with fountains bubbling from below ground. Children or adults could actually sit on the fountains.

As we walked, I recalled all of the most beautiful gardens I had ever been to; from San Francisco to North Carolina and from Florida to upstate New York. I had never been abroad, but had seen photos of acres of tulips and gardens in Greece and Bali, New Zealand and Japan.

This Garden was vast; miles and miles. It would be impossible to go to every part in even a week's time. The Garden even went up and around a lake. The Mansions along this Garden were breathtaking.

The Lord told me that one of these Mansions was one of my dear friend's on Earth who is anxious to see me. I looked over to see how close to my House.

Jesus: "Erin, she can be with you in an instant. No worries about travel times in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I am not used to this. It is so odd to me."

Jesus: "You will learn, once you get here, that your actions follow your thoughts, not like on Earth. On Earth, your thoughts follow your actions. This is the cause of unnecessary grief and also a part of the sin cycle."

Me: I was laughing. "Oh, Lord, I cannot even count how many times I have done things without thinking and how much trouble the result is."

Jesus: "Here, you will have peace. Come, I have more for you to see."

Near my friend's house was a beautiful vineyard and, in part of the garden, I saw a very long grass area with columns and a pergola with chandelier coming off of it. They were black iron and crystals. The lights were candles that never went out.

There was a long table with a white cover. There was a beautiful setting with wine, food, bread, cheese and flowers. The table was set like something out of a magazine. The whole thing overlooked an olive grove, vineyards and the crystal blue upper lake.

I saw all of these people in white dress; men in pants and shirts and women in dresses. They were out on a boat in the lake dancing. There was amazing music. There were about a hundred people celebrating.

Me: "Lord, how fun. If I did not know better, I would say this looks like a wedding reception."

Jesus: He was smiling. "No, there is no need to marry in Heaven. There is no marriage given in Heaven."

Me: "So what are they celebrating?"

Jesus: "Do you not recognize who is there?"

Me: "No. Vaguely, but no."

Jesus: "No matter right now."

He had a big smile on His face. I did not understand. He walked me back through the acres of vines. I saw grapes, berries, wisteria and olive trees. It was so beautiful. No matter where we walked, I heard laughter, celebrations and music.

Me: "I love it here. Lord, most of all the accounts from people who say they have been here in Heaven say that there is no solid structure and that our bodies are like spirits. They say that we are transparent and so are our dwellings. My understanding is that the Homes are floating and that we float."

Jesus: "Show Me this in Scripture; about no solid rock or no foundation. Again, this City has mysteries as you know, but Heaven lacks nothing. Again, you will not be a spirit or ghost. Remember that part in Scripture, after the tomb, where the women ran to hug Me? My body was not as a physical being. When you have seen Me up here, how have I been?"

Me: "Well, I run to You. I hug You and You hug me. You seem tangible and so do I. This is why the concepts of no solid surface, no gravity and floating bodies seem so different from what I have seen here."

Jesus: "These are the people who have taken the comment in the Word that you are able to be like angels. Sometimes angels are in solid form, sometimes angels are transparent and sometimes angels are invisible.

"In the same way, people have taken the Scripture referring to marriage and said, 'We are to be like angels'. Again, they have taken the Word in part, not in whole. So there is an area of Heaven created for those whom prefer that Heaven is like this.

"They will live as they believe, request and desire. So, yes, there will be some like this because this is the desire of their heart. In contrast, you have requested what I have shown you."

Me: "I did not like the idea of Heaven being transparent and translucent. My love language is touch. Lord, if it was as some have said in Heaven, then You could never be touched. Even the touch would not be a real tangible object, but more like a ghost. This would grieve me as I long to have feeling, such as touching Heavenly grass. I do not want to have walls of jelly or plasma."

Jesus: "Do not worry. What you see here is what you hoped Heaven would be like."

Me: "I do not think I ever thought I would be here, so I am not certain what I expected. I just hoped that Heaven would be a tangible place."

Jesus: "When I took the keys to Hades and brought these saints to the place which had been prepared in advance, My Father's House has many rooms. Do you believe that I made flotation chambers, or rooms, in which to live and worship in the City near the Throne Room?"

Me: "Flotation chambers sound 'new age'."

Jesus: "Yes, they are. Am I holding your hand?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Can you feel My hand when I squeeze it?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Then do not listen to these other Heavenly travelers. Each of these who have claimed to be here wants to be ahead of the other in understanding. There are mysteries here in which you have seen. You have questions. When you arrive, this will all make sense because your understanding will increase. Focus your attention on the things of Heaven that I am sharing with you. Does this bring you joy?"

Me: "Oh, yes, very much. This makes me look forward to Heaven so much more. Before, I have to admit, I dreaded it because it was too cloud like."

Jesus: "Yes. This is a very good enemy attack. Touch the grapes; pick a bunch and eat."

So I did. I felt the stem and put the grapes to my lips. They were very tangible and so was the taste. I smiled and laughed.

Jesus: "See, Erin, Heaven is tangible. Do not be deceived." He hugged me...

Dream over...

Dream 079 – The Storm

Saturday, August 17, 2013
08-09-2016, 03:25 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for loving me. Lord, I love You so much. I bring my friends and my enemies before You and pray for them. Just as in Job 42:10, bless my friends and reveal Yourself to them. I release my enemies to You fully, Lord.

I am Your daughter who loves You so much. Lord, I cannot do anything about the enemy and his schemes. I can only cling to You, my rock and salvation, my mighty tower. Therefore, I would ask for You to supernaturally bless my friends and open Heavens over them and their households.

Let the angels descend and grant them divine provisions from Your special places of blessings. I do not like the punishment I have been subjected to, but I know You work all things together for the good of those who love You and You love.

Jesus: "Come up here."

I am 25 years old. He is right at the Portal today. I ran into His arms.

Me: "Hayah, I am so glad to see You today. I love You more today than yesterday. Thank You."

Jesus: "I am glad to see you also. My love never changes. I love you the same yesterday, today and tomorrow."

Me: "Yes, but Your love is higher than mine."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, I love you with a divine love that cannot be measured in earthly terms. It is greater. Someday you will understand a fraction of this love and it will overcome you. But it is still not like the love I feel for you. I know you, Erin."

I am in tears. He is staring at me and I am looking up into His eyes. We are interlocking our hands by holding each other's wrists. I felt His love for me and I was extremely humbled by this. As I stared into His eyes, I saw a storm. The clouds moved quickly and it stirred up the land. It lasted for some time. I saw the clouds dissipate and, behind them, I saw beams of light, like a thousand suns shining in His eyes.

Me: "Lord, I see a storm coming. You are showing me this in Your eyes. Is this a storm You are sending? Has this arrived? Will it affect me? Is this a real storm or a symbol?"

Jesus: His eyes suddenly reflected me in them. "Erin, calm down. I am keeping you from harm; you, your children and friends. I have put you and your children far away in the trees on a faraway landing. You will watch and see the storm from there. Then, in a time soon after, I will come for you and the others; you will not suffer shame."

Me: "Lord, so this is real and soon?"

Jesus: "There are a few things that must occur first. Do not worry. You saw this and this was My own doing. I want you to continue on your course. Do not put your lives on hold. Live each day fully, giving your days to Me back as a gift, for I first numbered them and gave them to you. You were raised for a time such as this and it is unique. There will be storms. What you saw is the beginning sign of the starting of your divine move."

Me: "Are You speaking of the storm that bears my name?"

Jesus: He was smiling and laughing. "Erin, My love for you is certainly like a hurricane and the aftermath a flood. This is a move of the Holy Spirit; a divine symbol of love for those who hear My call. Man is to fear God, yet love Him and bend to His will.

"All those who fight against God and a hurricane believe that they can harness what cannot be harnessed. Someone who fights against a storm, unless it is out of great love, will lose this battle. It will prove fatal.

"Storms are poured out as a warning and a call for humility. To turn blind eyes and deaf ears to the power of God is foolish. They can be labeled punishment as there is always evidence when God moves."

Me: "Lord, I am scared. You have not even grabbed a fruit off the tree yet. You started right in about the storm. I did not have a storm dream. Is one coming?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Come on, Erin."

He takes my hand and walks me to the overlook. He points to a small, beautiful lake. He squeezes my hand and instantly we are there. I looked behind me and the overlook seemed so far away. He walked me to some rocks that formed a beautiful bench with a back. The rocks were white and polished like from limestone, but not chalky; very soft.

Where we sat on this rock, our feet went into the water. At the bottom of this crystal clear lake, I saw stones of opal; every type of opal. They were beautiful. I saw small, silver fish that jumped out of the water. They were like magnets to Jesus.

They were not skinny little fish, but plump ones. They were shades of platinum. When the sun and the light of Jesus shone, the opal's colors danced in the water. The ripples changed the reflections, but the ripples created music. The fish vibrated and hummed as praise to the Lord. This took my breath away.

Me: "Lord, this is the most beautiful lake I have ever seen. These opals are beautiful. They seem so close to the surface. How deep is the lake?"

Jesus: He laughed. "Erin, this is very deep. Look."

He brought one of the opals up with a wave of His hand. It was huge. The opal came up on shore and it was around two feet in diameter.

Jesus: "See?"

Me: "How am I able to see so deep? From my view, they appear as small cobblestones or pebbles."

Jesus: "Do you understand now about My love? My love is deep. If you search and desire to go to Me at My very heart; well, you will travel to the depths. You can see with your eyes that My love is crystal clear. When you search my depths, you find a treasure there. Here, this is a symbol, but this is no less valuable."

Me: "Lord, I never thought about Your love this way. The enemy wants us to believe that Your love is shallow and the treasure found at the bottom is a pebble. He also muddies the waters so we cannot see Your love at all."

Jesus: "Yes, he is clever, but, ultimately, he is not the victor. Best not to consider him when measuring Me or My love. He never knew it, lest he would have remained near the Throne."

Me: "Lord, the fish are so happy and plump. They sing and they are the most beautiful little fish I have ever seen."

Jesus: "Yes, they delight Me and make Me smile, but they are fish." He was smiling. These fish have more understanding of My love than most who claim to love Me."

Just then, I heard music and humming. There was movement around us. He did not flinch. I looked over my shoulder and several types of animals were walking up to be near Jesus. It was the sweetest thing.

There were bunnies, birds, a deer, a fawn, squirrels, foxes, some animals I recognized in wildlife shows and a lamb. Behind us were hundreds of animals suddenly. They came to lie down next to Him and listen to Him talk about the depth of His love.

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, this is the most amazing sight. My breath is gone. I have lost it."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Where did it go?"

Just then, a small animal, like a koala, came to lie on my lap. It curled up and acted completely at home. I went to pet it and it made the most amazing sounds.

Me: "Lord, are we in a place symbolic of Australia right now? This seems like a koala bear, but the face is perfect and sweet, not like an old man."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, the koala is perfected too here; great observation. Yes, I suppose this place has many of the elements of the land down south of you, like the opals."

Me: "The storm in Your eyes then; did this come from the south?"

Jesus: "Oh, are you not clever these days? I see you are working on putting together symbolism and correlating places and time frames. What are you asking?"

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, I am asking for answers while I am present with You. This seems to be the best time. Then I do not have to guess. You can just give me the straight answer Yourself and then the enemy cannot interject his thoughts at a later time."

He was laughing so hard. When He laughed, and I am not kidding, all the animals rolled around and appeared to play and laugh. I began to laugh.

Me: "So much for my serious moment, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, you are a watcher. This is good. Yes, every time I am with you, I reveal more of Me. You are searching for answers. This is wisdom because you are first coming to Me. I gave you Jeremiah 33 this morning. Why?"

"When you call on Me, I will answer you and show you great and secret things. Do not continue to give the enemy too much thought. He will soon be far removed from you. He is the author of confusion, not the author of your story. This honor is God's, not the enemy. This should bring you great comfort.

"Could you imagine what your story would look like if he were the author? You would not be finishing the race with a Heavenly victory. You have seen how his stories end and there is never a winner.

"He can give you the illusion of money, fame and earthly things, but never true joy, love and happiness. This only comes from the Throne of God."

Me: "Yes, I would prefer that my Creator be the author; the Creator of all of this. I definitely want Him finishing my story."

Jesus: "Good, we have established this. Now, you have some items you need to bring forth. Let's get all of this off your shoulders."

Me: "Lord, You know that I am anxiously awaiting Your return and so are my friends. We see so many signs. We look for these as markers. We see a possible date and then the date comes and goes. I am burdened with how to live and plan."

Jesus: "I see you are troubled. I understand this. Remember all that I have shown you. This, you recorded. The information and ground work is in the Word; My Word. Now look at what I have shown you. Remember the seasons. Measure the seasons.

"Know what is consistent. Do not rely or look for those clues in things that have never proven correct. This is from the enemy. Remember, the answers have been revealed since the beginning. All is hidden in plain sight, not hidden in darkness or hidden within the hidden. Pray for Divine revelation.

"You have the Holy Spirit; the direct line to Me. All things of God work together. There is divine symmetry, orchestration, patterns, numbers, formations and measures that are precise. The enemy has answers and these are complex, confusing, inaccurate, disjointed, miscalculated and create frustration.

"If you start from the beginning again, look at the order of how all things were formed by God. Look at the great miracles through everyday things and occurrences. This is wisdom."

Me: "Lord, when You say go back to the beginning, where do You mean?"

Jesus: "The first Words written, Erin, the order of Creation and the complexity of things that come from God, not from man. There was a time when man did not need correction. There was a time before the fall."

"What you see here in Heaven, Erin, is this time before the fall. You see the beginning of God's love story. You see the depths of understanding and, from this, you are gifted with wisdom. You walked in the Garden of God. Erin, this is a beautiful place, is it not?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, let me tell You how incredible this was..." I became very excited and animated while He smiled and studied me. "...Of course, You know all about this. Forgive me for thinking I can tell You something new, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, you are correct. I know your thoughts." He smiled as if He were proud of me. "I love you."

Me: "I love You so much, Lord."

Jesus: "Did I help you?"

Me: "Yes, but I would just like You to tell me straight what I must do."

He became serious, but very gentle in His tone.

Jesus: "Erin, you must live each day. You must not worry about tomorrow for this will take nothing from you but the hours of this very day. You are a Bride watching for her Groom. This is good. However, also look at the Word in the context of whom and what was written. I am here today meeting with you face to face."

"Now when we are not in this place, you can still call and I will answer always. I do not send you to voicemail. I take the call Myself. Do not be unproductive while you wait. Enjoy life every day and take comfort. The enemy wants you frozen, scared, prepared for wrath and waiting for destruction, which lends itself from fear. All of it comes from fear."

Me: "Help me with getting rid of the noise of the false hope of the enemy and clear my path so I can see only Your depths of love for me."

Jesus: "Oh, very good, Erin. This comment pleases me. So you are asking where to find the truth? Well, here is a clue. Are you ready? Are you ready?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I am on the edge of my seat with the koala." I am anxiously hoping to get a big answer.

Jesus: "Okay, are you sure you are ready?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, go on."

Jesus: "To find truth and the beginnings of all things of God, you must go before the lies began. To find truth, you must go to every instant before the lies clouded your understanding and veiled the truth.

The Word, My Word, is filled with story after story where the enemy spoke lies and veiled truth, but you know this. Now this will help you understand the heart and depth of Me. You too will be hated, understood?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Now, do you do this?"

Me: "Yes. I run after You every moment I can. You are my goal and Heaven is my Home."

Jesus: "So, do you also take care of your family in service? Do you also provide for your children? Are you still hated because of Me?"

Me: "Yes, yes to all!"

Jesus: "So, both times in both instances I required action, not laziness, correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "So, the same truth is demonstrated today then. When you watch, this is a form of worship, but do not fail to have joy and to live your life. The joy of the Lord is your strength and others will want to know more about this joy when the storms come, understand?"

Me: "Yes, Lord."

Jesus: "So, cling to My promises. I love you and I have prepared a place for you. I am with you always. I will come at the appointed time and I will not delay. You will know I am near by the signs and seasons. I will provide for you a clear path.

"I will provide for your needs. I will deliver you out of the desert into the 'Promised Land', Erin, both you and your children. I do not lie. Now, take comfort in this. You already reside here. You have a Home. You have seen this.

"You also have a place near the Altar of God. Where is the Altar? The Altar is next to the Throne. The answers to your questions are there. Knock at the door and search Me. Run after wisdom and see what I won't do.

"If you truly believe I am the God of miracles and you trust in My Words, then believe the miracles are also for you."

Just then the little koala climbed up my gown sleeve and hugged my neck.

Me: I was laughing. "I never imagined I would be hugged by a koala."

Jesus: "There will be many hugs here. Remember, Erin, focus on Me. I will get you through the storms in various ways using many different sources so that one day you will look back and testify to My love, provision and divine orchestrations of many events.

"People will stand in awe. You will be amazed when I fulfill all of My promises to you. Now be blessed. You dwell here with Me in Heavenly places."

He reached over and kissed me on the top of the head.

Dream over...

Dream 080 – Garden of God Part 1

Sunday, August 18, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:28 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for Your divine love and care. Thank You for the blessing of my special time with You. I treasure You so much. I love You so deeply and my gratitude is unlimited.

I could never forget what You have done for me and what You continue to do. You are my love and my life. I am honored to be Your friend. You are my Lord. You are worthy to be praised and adored completely.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am 25 years old. He greets me again today right at the Portal. I run into His arms and He receives me with joy. He always seems so glad to see me, yet I am the glad one.

Me: "Lord, I was just with You, but it seems so long ago; some days even."

Jesus: "Someday soon, you will never feel this way again. You will reside here with Me and you will understand that I am with you always and always have been."

Me: "Lord, this is one of those mysteries which I cannot understand this sense of time, but I know it is perfect. When You speak, I know and take comfort in all these mysteries, that they are divinely perfect and it is because I have been in imperfection on earthly time for so long. My brain does not understand Godly principles like what I see here."

Jesus: "Erin, you seem peaceful today and happy."

Me: "Lord, on weekends I rest, I dream and I laugh more. My children have been here and I sleep better. I work again tomorrow, but I am giving this to You. I cannot control what others do.

"Yesterday, You reminded me that I must pray for my friends as in Job 42:10. I must forgive my enemies as in Mark 11:25. I feel like I keep doing this over and over. It is exhausting."

Jesus: "Yes. It is exhausting to forgive over and over and over." He was joking with me. "Have I not forgiven you like this? How many times? I forget...?"

Me: I was laughing. "Yes, I know Lord. I am to forgive seventy times seven and forget about this, remembering it no more."

Jesus: "No, Erin, look at this again. You are to forgive your enemy and do not hold charges against them if you are truly forgiving them. It does not say that you are to forget or have no memory of the wrongs.

"What has happened to you had a purpose to draw you closer to Me, but you still have an enemy. It is wisdom to remain informed and ready for battle. A thief comes usually at night when you are caught unaware; to kill and destroy.

"Take caution with misunderstanding the context of this. Now, it is God who remembers your sins no more; they are forgotten. When you are sincere and ask the Father for forgiveness, He accepts this and He is glad.

"He then blesses you and removes your stains. You become white as snow. If you are holding something against your brother and will not forgive him because you are acting like God, then God cannot forgive you until you repent of your stubbornness, understand?"

Me: "Lord, seventy times seven; after this, what happens?"

Jesus: "Well, Erin, gain and pray for wisdom because after seventy times seven sins against you by a brother or sister, well, then, I would gain a new family or friends." He was laughing. "You must give Me all your troubles. Let Me plead your case and remove the accuser or the inflictor of harm.

"The enemy is relentless in his pursuit. He will not stop. His time is short. In the meantime, focus on Me and the things of Heaven. Focus on the lovely things on Earth; the things I have created for your enjoyment.

"Do not allow the enemy to rob you of your joy. I know that your job robs you of your joy. Give this to Me. The enemy wants to exhaust you. Do not give him a foothold; not one."

Me: "Thank You, Lord, I should know better by now. The enemy has me anxious about dates, events and storms. I feel vulnerable right now, but I do have joy."

Jesus: "Remember, I have everything planned. It is wonderful to keep watch. This is commendable and makes Me smile. However, remember, the enemy is in control only if you allow him to be or there is something being required of you in your walk as refinement.

"Now, I know you are discouraged about the hurricane. You were hoping for a sign or something. Take comfort, there are no accidents. Who brings the winds, stirs up the waters, shakes the ground and creates the storms?"

Me: "You and God, of course."

Jesus: "Then, Erin, do you trust Me fully?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "How do you know how God thinks?"

Me: "Oh, forgive me, I can't at all. I have no power like God to know this or that."

Jesus: "So, tell Me, what makes a better parent; one that tells their children every detail, which would make yours never sleep, or a parent who shares only that information which is beneficial and gives them peaceful sleep? Which one are you? Which one am I?"

Me: "Okay, I get it. I definitely do not tell my kids about everything. On the finances alone, they would be worried every time the phone rang. If they knew everything, they would be jumpy. Good point."

Jesus: "So, do you really want every detail about God and what He thinks? Erin, sometimes mysteries are good. If you trust God, then you must trust His decision making skills, okay?"

Me: "You are right. Please forgive me."

Jesus: "You are forgiven. Now, you have a place you would like to revisit. This is on your mind. Come."

He took my hand and squeezed it. We were instantly back to the Garden of God. Jesus remained my size walking through this. I lost my breath again.

Me: "Lord, there is not much written about the Garden of God. I am so excited to be here with You."

Jesus: "Erin, there is more written than you know, but let's make this simple. The Garden of God is close to His heart. Here, the Garden is complete, whole and full of life. The Garden of Eden on Earth was created as a mini-version of this so the Lord could walk amongst man and fellowship with Adam and Eve."

As we walked, I could not believe how incredibly lush, vibrant and beautiful everything is. It is paradise in the highest form.

Me: "Lord, I notice there is no death, there are no brown leaves or drooping branches. Everything here is perfect. There does not feel like a hidden danger either."

Jesus: "You mean a spider or even a snake, right?"

Me: "I do not feel like there is."

Jesus: "You are correct, Erin. It is similar to Eden, but no evil enters here; nothing ominous or poisonous."

He walks me off of the path to a floating staircase. We walk up this and come to a separate garden with a beautiful balustrade. The Garden is a complete circle. He walks me to the balustrade and we can oversee the entire Garden from a bird's eye view. It is divided into four sections.

In the distance, I see a vast structure in which a massive river flows from it. There, the river branches off and seems to feed four rivers from it, like a grid pattern from the vast structure. The structure appears to me like a massive crystal and stone palace.

Me: "Lord, I have lost my words again. Is that God's Palace in the distance? The Garden is attached? He actually walks here? We just walked on His walking path. This is incredible."

I began to cry. I reached over and hid my face in His chest. I was overcome.

Jesus: "Erin, do not cry, please. There is no need. You are a welcome guest here in the Garden of the King. Perhaps you should revisit one of your favorite Psalms, Psalm 45, to remind you of some hidden manna there."

Me: "Lord, please do not hide the manna. Share with me this knowledge so I no longer lack wisdom."

Jesus: "Erin, you are to discover these things together with your friends. One day, you will all be invited here as guests and will celebrate the wedding. Together, you will unlock mysteries, okay?"

Me: "Thank You, Lord. Yes, with Your help only will we gain wisdom and understanding."

Jesus: "Now, there are some interesting things here. Look."

I saw the land divided into the four sections. My eyes had now become gifted with a macro-lens feature. I saw that each piece of property was reflective of the seasons. One was winter, one summer, one fall, and one spring.

Me: "Oh, Lord, thank You for this. We are taught that there is no winter here because of death."

Jesus: "Erin, define winter. Winter is a time of deep sleep. The trees do not die. They rest. All was created by God. Even the leaves in fall here do not drop off and die."

Me: "Lord, so is each section permanently the season we see or do they go by cycles?"

Jesus: "Great question. They go by cycles. They rotate in complete harmony. When you walked here the other day, look where you walked."

He pointed to an area that was forming from winter to spring. As I scanned the path, the landscape became incredibly lush. I could not see all of that because I was so small in this and I did not see the larger picture or landscape. I was trying to see the Crystal Palace, but my eyes could not see detail.

Me: "Lord, can we go closer to the Palace? That is God's Palace, right? It looks so beautiful."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Someday, Erin, but what you are seeing is an arboretum and indoor garden. It is very beautiful and looks like a Palace. It is also a type of high-tech planetarium and serves some amazing features in which You would not understand. This is a place that delights God."

Me: "So, His Palace must be incredibly massive. How is it designed and furnished? What would be worthy of God? How does He sleep? He does not, right?"

Jesus: Jesus was laughing so hard. "Erin, so many questions. Enjoy the Garden now. Enjoy this moment and gain understanding as we go. Do not jump ahead. This is enough for today. We will come back and start here. You are loved by the King."

Dream over...

Dream 081 – The Seven Pools

Saturday, August 24, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:32 PM

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for loving us. Thank You for Your care and love. I love You, Lord. Help me if I am holding anything against anyone. I need to be clear of any stumbling blocks or detours by the enemy.

Lord, in my communion with You, I feel that there is something wrong with me if I request prayer. I am feeling as if I should not ask at all for prayers, even when I could use it.

Maybe this shows weakness or a lack of faith? Maybe I should keep all of this to myself? Help me to not be puffed up and full of pride, but to always lay everything before You in all matters.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am 25 years old. Jesus greets me right at the Portal today with open arms. I ran right into His arms. I am in tears.

Me: "I am glad to be here, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, I am glad you are here. Tell Me; what is the matter?"

Me: "Lord, You know my needs. You know my troubles and concerns because I commune with You directly. Am I weak to ask for prayers and help from others? I am feeling like I should not ask, but keep this to myself."

Jesus: "Erin, this is ridiculous and a clear attack from the enemy. I pray. You pray. Others pray. Did I say you must incessantly be watchful and pray so that you would not enter a trial? The Spirit is, indeed, willing, but the flesh is weak (Matt. 26:41). Did I pray even to My Father God to take this cup from Me so that His will be done, not Mine?"

"Erin, you are to pray and ask for prayer even before the need arises. Then your faith will continually be before the Throne. What you are saying is, 'perhaps it is better to just wait until you are in the midst of the trial, and then pray for a miracle.' Hmm, this does not sound like teaching from the Word. Show Me that in the Word."

Me: "You are right, Lord. I just do not want to needlessly get people concerned if there is no real need."

Jesus: "Erin, your problem has always been to remain silent until you need help."

Me: "Lord, as You know, this is how I was raised. There are so many who are worse off than me. How dare I complain? How dare I dismiss my privilege and show a sign of weakness. I was taught to 'suck it up' and get back in there, even when it hurts to go."

Jesus: "Okay, so this is a form of lying and is a symptom of pride. This is ridiculous. Erin, I told the disciples to pray without ceasing. This is good. The enemy wants you and your friends to minimize prayer. You have divine technology right in you, yet you will not tap into this because of the arrogance of fools? Stop this now! Your prayers avail much."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord. Why do I feel my prayers are answered only 50% of the time?"

Jesus: "Oh, you mean because you do not always see immediate results? Really? This is the spirit of unbelief that is at work. Why does God allow trials?"

Me: "To test our level of faith."

Jesus: "Faith in what, Erin? Faith to Hear? Faith to Answer? Faith for Favor?"

Me: "Yes, my level of faith is what heals, right?"

Jesus: "You are missing the point here. Let's look at trust. Come here."

He walks me to the tree with fruit. He pulls down a fruit that I had never eaten before. He does not take a bite of it, but hands it to me and motions me to eat it. I do. It tastes like every berry wrapped into one fruit. I took another bite.

Me: "Lord, this is so good. Thank You."

Jesus: "Erin, you missed the point here. When I hand you something here, it has always been good, right?"

Me: "Oh, yes, wonderful; always!"

Jesus: "So you have complete trust and confidence that what I hand you here is good, right?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Come with Me."

He takes me to the overlook. He points me to the upper river in the valley and squeezes my hand. We are there instantly. The river is wider here; crystal clear and light blue, again like glaciated water.

In the bottom, there were more polished precious gems and polished quarry stones. The colors were incredible. There were large stones and small stones. The river ran over large boulders of picture jasper.

There were actual landscapes I could see immortalized in this jasper. The colors were incredible. The crystal water ran over this and poured over into a pool. Then it repeated itself.

I saw seven tiers or levels of river leading down into the valley. We stood at the upper pool. It was breathtaking. The sounds were like music. The plants and vegetation around this were singing. I began to cry.

Me: "Lord, this is beautiful."

Jesus: "This will be a great lesson, Erin. You will find more here too. For now, take this as a lesson in faith and love, okay?"

I must admit, I was excited by this.

Me: "Okay, yes, let's begin."

Jesus: "Now, pick out three stones and I will do the same."

I looked down into the river bed at the head of the upper pool. I walked into the water. It was the perfect temperature. I selected an odd looking stone. It looked like metal, like solid sterling silver; maybe platinum, but completely smooth.

I then chose one that definitely was gold. It was refined and reshaped into waves or layers and then formulated into a smooth stone. I then had a hard time selecting between one that I knew to be a diamond or one that was copper. I chose the diamond looking one.

I looked over and saw Jesus laughing at this. He had already just picked up three stones with ease; one blue sapphire, one ruby and one emerald.

Me: "Okay, what did I do?"

Jesus: He was still laughing. "Erin, you were thinking in terms of earthly value when you selected these. Funny!"

Me: "Lord, no, I was just picking the shiny crystal ones."

Jesus: "Exactly My point. It doesn't matter." He was in the center of the pool. "Now, let's see what this does."

He skipped the first one. The blue sapphire skipped once in each pool, seven times altogether, and finished on the outer edge of the lower pool.

The ruby skipped once in the upper pool, missed the second pool, skipped on the third pool, missed the fourth pool, skipped on the fifth pool, missed the sixth pool and then made a large splash on the seventh pool, resting near the blue one.

The green emerald skipped once on the third pool, once on the fourth pool, once on the sixth pool and then landed with a plop on the seventh pool near the others.

The skips did not make sense to me.

Me: "Lord, Your throw was the same, yet the results were so different. This doesn't make sense."

Jesus: "You throw, Erin."

I took the platinum stone out. I was careful. I wanted to hit all seven pools. I hit the first pool, the second pool, the third pool and then it landed on the bank on the seventh pool.

Me: "Wait, how could this happen? I don't believe it?"

I took out the gold stone. I was determined to have my stone hit all seven pools. It hit the first pool, the second pool, the third pool and then landed in the middle of the seventh pool. I was frustrated.

I took out the diamond. Instead of one skip in each pool, I saw it skip twice in each pool and then went down on the fourteenth skip in the seventh pool. I had thrown with a perfect side arm, but I didn't understand the result.

Jesus: "Erin, that was an excellent throw. Look at what that diamond did! Now, come with Me."

He reached over and squeezed my hand. We were now at the lower pool. He reached down and handed me all three of my stones and He grabbed his three stones; the same exact ones. He told me to throw up hill. I was laughing.

Me: "How do I skip stones uphill?"

Jesus: "Erin, this is Heaven. If it was on Earth, you would be taking the stones and paying your debts with them; certainly not skipping them."

He was laughing. He was right, too. The value of my three stones alone must be well over several million earthly dollars.

Jesus: "I'll throw Mine first."

He started with the seventh pool and, for each level, the stone skipped up, hitting each pool and landing in the first pool. Each rock thrown went exactly the same as the first rock thrown. He was perfect (of course).

Jesus: "Erin, now you go."

I skipped the platinum stone. It hit every pool and landed on the top somewhere. I then threw the gold stone and the diamond the same way. I could not see where these rocks had landed.

Jesus: "Here, Erin, shall we see the results?"

He took my hand, squeezed it and we were once again in the upper pool. The stones were in the exact same spot.

Me: "Lord, they found their exact place in the upper pool."

Jesus: "Interesting. So, their journey led them back exactly where they originally belonged. Yes...curious."

Me: "So this is their true place; their home?"

Jesus: "Yes, you could say this. Now, there is some hidden symbolism here for those who would like some answers to other questions on timing. However, for your purposes, this is based on trust.

"Now, all of these stones took different paths, or different skips, to finally finish in the seventh pool. However, where did they end up? Tell Me about what you observed."

Me: "Well, Lord, each took the same path back and ended up right where they started; the upper pool."

Jesus: "Any other observations?"

Me: "Yes. They defied gravity in earthly terms. The odds of being able to do this on Earth with one throw, to skip and hit each pool, are infinitesimal. The rocks seem to gain speed going uphill.

"When the stone hit the water, the water acted like a trampoline and did not swallow the rock. Then the rocks landed in exactly the same spot in the upper pool. Well, this is impossible. Going up should have been harder than going down."

Jesus: The Lord had a huge grin on His face. "Did it ever occur to you that it is easier to look up than down? When we skipped at first, looking down, you thought this would be easy. However, you quickly found out it wasn't. Trying to get Home once you knew your place was actually easier to get to.

"Even though you knew your place was actually easier to get to, even though you couldn't see the upper pool, you saw what I did and became confident that what you did could be the same. Skipping down the pools and, seeing that My stones seemed inconsistent, you then had no faith to believe that yours would do as you wished.

"No, you need to know that all of these particular stones and the patterns here all have significance. I will send some help as you have your plate full." He smiled and laughed.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, but did You just give me this today as a lesson in faith, trust or my future? I am confused. Did I miss something here that is obvious? Should I have prayed for the rocks in a different way?"

Jesus: "First, pray without ceasing. Second, put your trust in Me and My Words. Third, the Holy Spirit is the greatest technological advance and the enemy knows this. It is Me in you, the Counselor; your internal hard drive, understand? Erin, tap into Me more. When you have a need, come to Me.

"Now, this lesson in skipping stones: I took you to a beautiful place; this had seven levels; and it is not a straight level portion of the River of Life that is easy for skipping.

"Instead, this had levels and layers. The water was not consistent. Then there is a downflow and an up-flow. In this, you learned that going up and back Home was easier than you thought.

"This is good. This was a more difficult course in the lesson of skipping."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, we were talking about prayers and faith."

Jesus: "Do you not see what is right before you? Erin, here is your Home. You will one day return. The final stone was the diamond. Erin, you wanted that diamond to skip once in every pool and go down. This would be seven.

"Instead of trying to force it, you actually prayed for it. Did I not even give something better? You had two skips in each pool for a total of thirteen skips before going down on the fourteenth. Great job!"

Me: "So, since it was my last stone, I took the time, prayed and You doubled my blessing. I love it. Can I do this all the time?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "It is not about what you might or might not receive. It is about faith. Going back up, you watched Me and believed you could do the same. You saw what I was doing and followed Me. This is also a high form of trust."

Me: "This seems complicated because I know You were showing us more by bringing me here. Lord, You could have pulled out a mustard seed and granted me the same lesson.

"Do the pools represent earthly years? Do the stones represent countries? Do the metal stones represent money? Do the skips represent events and timing, like the first pool? Is this year the first pool, 2013, and then nothing in the second, 2014?"

"There is more here. Please help me, Lord. One thing I know, by faith, is everything You have allowed for me to see has meaning. Lord, is the sapphire Israel; the ruby the United States; and the emerald Islam? Is platinum our salvation? Is gold us refined or world economics?"

He was staring at me and He had a big smile on His face.

Jesus: "Erin, these questions are good. Here I thought this was just a simple lesson in prayers and faith."

Me: "Lord, loving You is simple. You are easy to love, but, make no mistake, Lord, there is nothing simple about You. I want so much to have the capacity to understand just a fraction of Your mysteries. Just Your love for us alone is divine and complex too."

Jesus: "Erin, I will not leave those I love without knowledge to navigate via the Holy Spirit. Please do not forget that your greatest ally is Me in you."

Me: "Lord, the Holy Spirit is my best friend."

Jesus: "Then spend some time with your best friend and in My Word."

Me: "Lord, about prayer; if the Holy Spirit speaks in mysteries, do You not hear these? Does the Holy Spirit not know how to pray before we do? You know in advance when trouble comes. Can You not prompt me, via the Holy Spirit, to pray before I hit the trials and then request miracles?"

Jesus: "Erin, you pray every day for others, but you feel uncomfortable praying for yourself. If you notice, when you pray for others, more often than you even realize, these prayers are answered. Here is a direct example of answered prayers, yet you will not believe this way for yourself. Why?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, for the very reason that I feel bad about not being worthy of these miracles."

Jesus: "Again, this is a lie the enemy would like you to always consider. Please stop. Now, there are some things that you need. Come to Me in prayer. Remember your place. Remember this. I know you don't fully understand this lesson today. It seems a bit confusing, but soon you will look back and understand.

"Do you know that, one day, you will see the dreams completely line up with certain events and timelines? Do you understand that this was not an accident? You are not an experiment. Do not allow the enemy to keep you from praying for yourself. If he can do this successfully, then you will lose faith in Me to answer when you call.

"When you pray, forgive also. Do not forget your place. Be released to receive. Do not keep others from their divine blessings. Remember to build each other up and encourage each other.

"You are to love and then, in turn, be able to receive back what you give. In all things, give thanks; for you were once a slave and, now, Erin, you are free. Your time is coming, Erin. You are loved."

I ran over to Jesus as I was in tears. I have been struggling recently and I have not gone to Him in all matters.

Me: "I love You, Lord, so very much. Lord, will You trust me to grant me the wisdom to discern what the symbolism of this lesson meant for all of us?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, I think you recognize more than you let on. Go back to your questions. Offer them up to Me. Go to your friends and then see what will be revealed. As you recognized, this was no simple lesson, but one with more to be discovered. Remember, your field guide is the Bible.

"Look at this with both a macro lens and a micro lens. See what you can find. This is good. This will be a great lesson in bringing your extended family together. When you become one, all will be in sync and you will consider it pure joy.

"You will be returned and reunited. You will celebrate with new meaning. You will give thanks with such Joy. You will be free, yet safe and secure. You will love your place and call it Home.

"I will provide for you. You must pray and see if I don't open the flood gates of blessing over you. You will have comfort, peace, joy and love like never before. Now, pray and see if I don't move mountains on your behalf."

Me: "Thank You, Lord, for the promise of healing, blessing and provision. I can hardly wait."

Jesus: "You are loved."

Dream over...

Dream 082 – The Lord’s Planetarium Tour

Sunday, August 25, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:36 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another beautiful day. Thank You for Your divine provision. Thank You for Your extreme love concerning me. You are my amazing Lord and King, the One Who answers my cries in ways I never thought possible. Lord, I need divine help from Heavenly resources.

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

I am about 25 years old. Jesus greets me right at the Portal. I ran right into His arms.

Me: “Oh, Lord, I love You so much. You have given me so much promise and favor. How can I ask You for more?”

Jesus: “Erin, I want you to come as you are in all things. Do not delay. Can you do this?”

Me: “Yes, Lord, I will.”

Jesus: “Now, come with Me.”

He squeezes my hand and we are at the base of the walking path that leads to the overlook at my mountain Home. He holds my hand and leads me next to the small brook on our right. The sound is so pretty. There are beautiful flowers, trees and rocks surrounding this. I see a small bridge across it that leads to another groomed trail.

The canopy of trees is thick in this area and, when the sunlight moves through the trees, and by Heavenly design, all of the flowers are illuminated by these beams of sunlight. Even though we are in Heaven and there is no need for healing anymore, there was healing in these beams.

Me: “Lord, this is my property?”

Jesus: “Yes. Is it not beautiful?”

My tears are welled up in my eyes and then finally poured out onto my cheeks.

Me: "Yes, Lord, this is beyond amazing. Truly, I am rich here to have all of this."

Jesus: "Like the stones from the river beds, the beauty here is exposed. It is not hidden underground. There will be things to discover here, but it is in the open; not hidden. Remember, on Earth, to see sights like this, it is rare and a tourist attraction. Here, such beauty is everywhere, yet always surprising so you are never bored."

He does not stop at the brook, but takes me to the overlook area. There is a beautiful beach there. Way in the distance is the Golden City. It is so large, it looks close, yet it is several thousand miles away; truly amazing. Instead of sitting me down on the bench, He walks me around this area. It is like a well groomed veranda.

He turns me to the right and I see this amazing stone building with a glass domed roof. The roof separates and opens. There is a staircase that circles around it and another circular area with a door. It is stunning to look at; truly stunning.

Me: "Lord, this looks like an observatory or planetarium. It is beautiful!"

Jesus: "This is a surprise! Erin, come."

Me: "Lord, I am overwhelmed by all of this."

Jesus: "I know. It is difficult to understand now, but..." He turned and gave me a big grin. "...you are the King's daughter. You are receiving the same treatment here that you would on Earth.

"However, the difference here is that it is perfected and there is never a threat from your enemies to strip you of this. No creditors calling to weigh on you. This is 100% yours and it delights Me to grant you these small pleasures. Erin, now catch up."

I was laughing. He was so excited to take me here. Jesus was excited to show me His gift to me. I am crying as I write this. He takes me to the base of this building.

Jesus: "Erin, do you remember how much you loved the stars and music as a child?"

Immediately, I went to a memory of the California Planetarium. I couldn't remember exactly where it was, but it was incredible.

Me: "Vaguely, Lord. I just remembered that I loved it. It was beautiful and a bit scary at times, but truly amazing."

Note on the following drawing: I drew a rendition of the Planetarium as best as I could. It was beautiful; round, with a circular staircase, bronze railings, roman pillars all the way, beautiful crystal glass ceiling with a couple of types of telescopes:

Drawing of Planetarium in Response below...

Jesus: "This is different. This is something you will really enjoy."

He walked me up the stairs of this beautiful stone building. It did not look ancient. It was a perfect modern building. The stone was like grey limestone, but bluish in cast. The railings are polished deep blue and grey marble and the posts are bronze. The glass was this beautiful cut 'Riedel' crystal.

He opened the door and, inside, it was just as amazing. The inside walls had water trickling down them. The water hit something like metal. There were these amazing seats that completely reclined; like beds, but adjustable.

There was a screen in 360 degrees all the way around the inside of the building. He motioned for me to sit and I did. He motioned with His hand and, suddenly, I was moving across fields as if I were in a hovercraft.

I could see to my sides and my chair turned as I thought about what the screen looked like behind me. Behind me, I could see the scene as if it were really behind me. It was fascinating. He waved His hand again and I could hear music.

The music was so crystal clear. It was composed of some of my favorite parts of different songs, but not the parts that make me sad that the song was almost over. I could wave my hand and be anywhere, yet just relax and be with my friends.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, I had no idea we would enjoy things like this here. I thought You would just wave Your hand here and be where You are showing me. I am surprised and so thrilled. Lord, as we are in here, I smell different smells also."

Jesus: "Oh yes, it is a complete experience and beyond anything on Earth. Now, there is more."

He waved His hand again and, in an amazing canopy over these reclining chairs, were the stars. The upper area was a Planetarium.

Me: "Lord, is this live or a film?"

Jesus: "Both. The image is projected live even when the sun shines. The telescopes go beyond the sun. Also, though, you have another feature where you can play games."

Me: "Like video games?"

Jesus: "Yes. However, I believe you will be too busy exploring. You and your friends will have a lot of fun here. This is somewhat like your version of Google Earth. You will be able to explore Heaven and the stars here. Then, if you see a place you would like to go, you can be there in an instant. Or, instead, you can stay here, recline and listen to music. "

Me: I was laughing. "Lord, since this is Heaven, could we not be anywhere in an instant? Could I not just think it and explore Heaven from here?"

Jesus: "Yes, but here, you can do this in privacy if you wish. There is also privacy as you desire anywhere in Heaven, but in here, this will be enjoyed. It is My gift to you for remaining faithful."

Me: "Lord, this is truly incredible and such a blessing. Thank You."

He begins to take me back to the door. Instead, He squeezes my hand and we are back on this beautiful overlook area surrounding the Planetarium. When we walked to the west, I could see distant mountains and valleys. There, to the left and before us, was a mountain lake with a lake house.

Me: "Why am I so blessed to have all of this? What did I do to have so much favor from You? I don't feel worthy, Lord, of all of this. I didn't do anything to earn this. I certainly didn't save millions, or even hundreds of souls, if this is Your measure. Why, Lord? Could You have made a mistake?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "No Erin, I did not make a mistake. Others in Heaven have equally as much. This is just tailored for you as a gift. Others will have things tailored for them. Things can change too. You might even want to remodel."

Me: The thought suddenly horrified me. "Oh Lord, no. I can't have this headache."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, things are not the same here. There is no need to worry about this here."

Me: "This is more than I could ask for and so much more than I need."

Jesus: "There is a reason I showed you all of this. Do you know why?"

Me: "No, Lord, I have no idea."

Jesus: "Here, Erin, I took things that you wished for and perfected them. I took small thoughts, smells, music and memories and I gifted you. I took all your dreams and things you never realized you wanted and created this place for you. Here, in Heaven, your wants are granted and even the ones you didn't know you wanted. Now, why did I show you this at this particular time?"

Me: "I am not sure, Lord. This Planetarium, Auditorium, 'Visualarium' and 'Smellatorium' is beyond extravagant and way more than I could ever ask for or even wish for. It is the ultimate play structure."

Jesus: "Exactly! Now you understand. Erin, if I have granted all of this here and you reside here in eternity, then why is it so difficult for you to ask for what you need on Earth?"

Me: "Lord, because here, even my needs seem decadent at times. I feel bad asking while others suffer."

Jesus: "So this is truly impoverished thinking. You lost faith even before you prayed. Erin, seriously, why would you do this? You know better."

Me: "Lord, obviously You see things in me that I don't. I can't be a 'name it and claim it' follower of You. This just seems wrong."

Jesus: "I understand this, but this is a principle that has Heavenly roots. The enemy has taken this and made Christian believers look like money hungry heathens. Yet some are, but they are not necessarily dwelling in Heavenly places and walking with Me.

"Now, I am not talking about you asking for a 'Learjet', Erin. You are asking for debris removal, provision, love, joy, peace and happiness. Have I not shown you a portion of this already? I believe so."

Me: "Lord, I am trying not to be hurt and disappointed here."

Jesus: "Oh, then ask for help with your faith. I did not show you all of this to dangle a carrot. You already long for your Home here. I showed you extravagant so you remember Who I am. My love is extravagant and real. Erin, ask. Ask for up to half the Kingdom and it is yours. Now ask."

Me: "Okay, here it goes:

"Lord, I need You to supernaturally remove my largest obstacle. Please, Lord, do this immediately. Grant us supernatural rest from my enemies.

"Please provide for us supernaturally. We will need means, but I would like enough to pay our debts and more. Let me call down some of our provisions from Heaven to here. I would like even just one of those stones from the river bed.

"Lord, make my body healthy again. Rejuvenate my skin so it is youthful again.

"Grant us a home which will be perfect while we wait for You, where you will be my LandLord and I can sleep safely knowing You will keep me safe. Grant us a home of harmony, laughter and joy. Grant joy that defies logic.

"Heal my boys from their afflictions. Grant supernatural healing over all of our children so none are harmed by the enemy.

"This is all I can think of..."

Jesus: "Are you praying for this?"

Me: "Lord, by faith, like the Roman soldier, I trust that You have now heard my requests and You will grant them. I will put them before You every day until You answer, but I know You will do this."

Jesus: "Erin, this faith is good. Now, in your dream last night, what stood out?"

Me: "I kept hearing 21 days. I was getting ready for something in this dream. I was preparing."

Jesus: "21 days is interesting. Let's keep an eye on this."

Me: "Lord, I have no idea what You will do or how. I must believe because, without You, I have no clue at all about how You will do this."

Jesus: "Erin, look back over the last few years. Have I answered your prayers?"

Me: "No, not all of them."

Jesus: "In light of now and where you have come, can you now see the benefits of what I have done for you?"

Me: "Yes, except I still lost everything in the process. It has taken a great toll on me. I do not believe this was necessary."

Jesus: "When you finally look back and play out all of the scenarios in your head, how it could have been, et cetera, I believe you will find that this was divine and good. You also helped others, too numerous to say right now, but know your suffering was valuable to many."

"Please try not to look back. Look at what I am doing now, for I am about to do something in your days that you would not even believe even if you were told. Erin, to you here in Heaven, I have been extravagant and I have given you your heart's desires."

"Was that Scripture only meant for Heaven? No, it was also for Earth too. I have made promises to you that I plan on upholding. I cannot wait for the day when you are in complete awe."

"Instead of waiting for the 'bomb to drop', take a lesson in faith from your friends here. You have seen Me answer your prayers for others. Now allow Me to answer yours. Have you not done everything I have asked or put on your heart?"

Me: "No, Lord."

Jesus: "Please follow My instructions so that I know, when I send in an open door, you will walk through it, okay? Let Me repeat this: If I present the open door and prompt you to walk through it, then walk, okay?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Believe that I love you. Believe that I have brought your friends. You know where you reside. See, I have done a new thing here and it is good. This is good. Even your children will be blessed beyond measure because of you. Others on Earth will stand and be amazed."

"Erin, run after the good. Find joy. It is here right in front of you. Put your trust in the great wisdom of the friends I have sent in this season. The others you cannot trust, but you can choose to trust your friends which I have sent. Can they trust you?"

Me: "Of course."

Jesus: "Erin, I did not set you up here for a fall. This is not a trial and another disappointment, but a victory and a new beginning. You will still watch for Me. You will find joy. Just wait until you see what all I will do. It won't happen as you expect, but will be quite remarkable."

Me: "I love You, Lord. Thank You for my children and my friends. I am blessed to be a part of their lives. I can't wait to see what You will do. I know You love me and I have not prayed for my list. Now I am. Please do everything I request and more. I love You."

Jesus: "I love you too."

Dream over...

Scriptures:

1 Corinthians 2:9: That is what the Scriptures mean when they say, "No eye has seen, no ear has heard, and no mind has imagined what God has prepared for those who love Him"

John 14:2: "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

John 14:13-15: "And whatsoever you shall ask in My name, that I will do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If you shall ask anything in my name, I will do it. If you love me, keep my commandments."

Revelation 2:7: "He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God."

Luke 23:43: "And he said to him, 'Truly, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise.'"

Definition of Paradise: 1. Heaven as the ultimate abode of the just. Christianity; the abode of righteous souls after death; Heaven. synonyms: Heaven, the kingdom of Heaven, the Heavenly kingdom, the Garden of Eden.

1 Chronicles 4:9-10: "Jabez was more honorable than his brothers, and his mother had called his name Jabez, saying, 'Because I bore him in pain.'"

Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying, 'Oh, that you would bless me indeed and enlarge my territory, that Your hand be with me, and keep me from the evil, that I might not cause pain.' So God granted him what he requested."

My Prayer: Lord, thank You for the blessings of what You have granted me. I am so honored that You would spend so much time with me to show us our future place. Thank You that I am an alien here and that I truly belong in Heaven. For I would much rather be a citizen in Paradise by Your Throne than a rich person here on Earth far removed from Your presence.

Lord, You are the giver of good gifts. Let me never forget all that You have done for me as I know one day in Heaven, in Your Courts, is better than a thousand elsewhere. Who am I, and who are my friends, that You, the God of all things, would love us so much? I am always in awe of Your great works.

Thank You for calling me friend. More than anything else, this is an honor beyond any accomplishment here. To be called Your friend is the greatest thing I could imagine. Lord, I come boldly before You in my dreams and visions to intercede for others at the Throne of Grace.

You have made me realize that I have never come to You on behalf of myself because I have left this to others. When I pray in the Spirit, I make assumptions that I am to only pray for others or my situations. You have shown me that I lack the faith to come as I am; boldly before the Throne of Grace for myself.

Today, I will make this change. Forgive me for writing a different version of Your truth in Scriptures about myself; meaning I thought the Words are for others and do not apply for me. I know now that I have prayed as a slave and not as an heir to Your Heavenly Throne; a King's daughter.

Who am I to deny my heritage as the King's daughter and a child of God? Please forgive me, Father. Please grant my prayers and requests. Now I open the flood gates as I have many needs as You know.

I will now stand watch and be amazed by Your provision as you answer my requests. I love You, Jesus, more than anyone and anything.

Blessings...Erin

Dream 083 – Garden of God Part 2

Monday, September 2, 2013
08-09-2016, 03:40 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for Your love. Your love reaches up in me. I feel such love from You, even from the Throne. I am not used to this. You have been kind to me. Every day, even in my trials and my personal pain, I grow more and more in love with You.

You are generous and gracious. You see something in me and my friends, Your children, which makes us worthy of Your extravagant love. I cannot wait to really be Home physically someday as I can imagine the joy of seeing You and being with You apart from this earthly pain.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am about 25 years old. He greets me again right at the Portal. I run into His amazing arms. I weep for a while as each time I am so relieved to be here with Him. I wonder, each time, if I had done things on Earth which would make it that I could not see Him or speak to Him anymore.

Me: "I am so glad You called me, Lord."

Jesus: "From the beginning or 'here and now'?" He knew what I meant.

Me: "After thinking about this...well, both."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Your other thoughts here. Tell Me more about your troubles."

Me: "I forget, every time, that You can read my thoughts. Lord, the enemy hates all of us; Your children. He torments us every day. There are days in which his constant chipping at me 'breaks me' and I do not always act as an heir to Heaven."

Jesus: "Why do you think this is allowed?"

Me: "I guess more refining is necessary."

Jesus: "Erin, refining happens daily. You don't reach your final product until you reside here. Refining is how God now uses the enemy; chipping away and refining by polishing you up. You are in, somewhat, the final stage.

"See, the enemy knows his place. He knows yours. This final process in the refinement is what makes gold have luster. Come.

He squeezes my hand and we are instantly at the path in the Garden of God. I was in awe at how fast our transportation was. He was laughing and smiling at me. We stood on one of the many paths in the Garden. This time we were at the path in which I was walking before.

Me: "That is amazing."

Jesus: "Erin, look where your feet are."

Immediately, I realized I was standing on Holy Ground. I took off my sandals.

Me: "Oh, I am sorry, Lord."

He was laughing at me. Not to be mean, but He found my innocent comments and actions refreshing. He never put me down or was cruel. Even when rebuking me, He was always firm, but loving; like a true friend and Father.

Jesus: "Yes, you are in the Garden; so, you could say you are standing on Holy Ground. Look at where you stand."

My feet were touching some incredible gold cobblestones or pavers. Each one was perfectly level and, because of the Garden being a much larger scale, these were massive.

I am not sure how I know this, but the width was seventeen inches, the length was 34 inches and the thickness was 8½ inches. Each had a two inch bevel. In between each paver was a beautiful green grassy moss perfectly groomed.

Each of these gold stones were so perfect, it would take some very precise complex machinery to create this pattern. The path I was on formed a basket weave. In between each weave was a beautiful bronze brick with names etched on them. This was a stunning sight.

Me: "Lord, I did not notice where I was walking before. This is truly amazing. This design and the craftsmanship is far beyond earthly works."

Jesus: He was chuckling again. "Erin, you are in Heaven. To be a craftsman here is a form of worship to God. It is an honor to serve in Heaven. Now you will go to various places throughout Heaven and you will see something interesting. Look."

I looked down as He pointed to one of the bronze bricks. There, in large etched letters, was my name. I began to cry.

Me: "Lord, why is my name etched in that bronze brick?"

Jesus: "I want you to see something before I explain. Look down the path."

There my engraved brick was; at the point where the path seemed to go through the drier part of the Garden. My brick was right before the scenery of the path became beautiful. The brick was right there, just before I saw myself in a wedding dress in a previous dream. I looked around and the sides of the path and the fragrant flowers were beyond description. It was breathtaking.

Jesus: "Erin, no, look at the path."

I noticed that the bricks of gold and bronze were very shiny in the center of the path. The edges were shining also, but not as polished as the bricks in the center.

Jesus: "Erin, where is your name etched?"

Me: "In the center of the brick."

Jesus: "Where is the brick on the path?"

Me: "Right in the middle."

Jesus: "What is the luster?"

Me: "High luster and very polished."

Jesus: "What do you think that means?"

Me: "Well, stones become polished by friction, grinding, sanding and polishing. So, since my brick, and all the other names on these bricks as well, means we have been trampled underfoot by God on this path."

Jesus: "Erin, no. Repent of that thinking. This is not what that means. I know you think this, but this is not how God sees it. The stones in the center of the path that have gone through the most trials have the deeper luster. Yours is one of the names here and there is a purpose.

"Now, your name is etched here where God himself takes His daily walks. This means My Father walks here. When He walks over your names, the glory of God passes over you. Erin, you are on His thoughts. You reside here because He remembers you daily in your trials.

"You are on His mind and the Garden is where the heart of God is. If He loves His Garden and walks in this daily for His personal enjoyment, He then has put your name where He can think of you. Erin, your name is etched here near the heart of God.

"Craftsmen etched this brick and God told them where to lay this Brick. He knows you will come through this trouble. He has already etched you here. You are here for a purpose. The trials you have been through have a purpose. Now why am I constantly showing you your place?"

Me: "I am not sure, Lord. Would it not be easier to just remove the trials? Should we not simplify?"

Jesus: "Erin, one day, you will walk here, look back and have such joy. You will be honored by His refining. There is something so special planned for those who endure and persevere through many trials and tribulations. You will need to trust Me. Can you do this?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. I am just getting tired of the chipping away at me daily. The enemy just keeps going."

Jesus: "Erin, this is allowed for your patience. Walk with Me."

He takes my hand and leads me beside a beautiful pond with still water. There were beautiful floating fragrant flowers on the water. We continue to walk. There are amazing meadows, which I believe are Heavenly pastures. I see sheep grazing there.

Tears begin to stream down my cheeks. It was the most beautiful sight I had ever seen. Over, under a tree, I saw a huge lion. The lion was napping. There were lambs lying on top and next to the lion. I was chuckling.

Jesus: "What are you chuckling about? Oh, you are crying too."

Me: "Lord, in God's Garden, Scriptures are alive here. You just led me beside still waters after this the lion lays down with the lamb. The first is Psalm 23 and I believe the second is Isaiah right?"

Jesus: "The heart of God is here in this place. The Word of Truth is Me, His Son, but I must give you some clarity here. Technically, there is no Scripture about the lion and the lamb. It is divinely implied when read."

Me: "Oh, it seems like all of us do this."

Jesus: "Yes, but, as you can see here, the same instincts on Earth you do not see here in Heaven. There is no blood spilled. The lion does not eat the lamb. There is no devourer here, especially in the Garden."

Me: "This is so strange for my eyes to look at. I fully expect, at any moment, for that lion to wake up and have a lamb banquet."

Jesus: He chuckled. "Originally, in the Garden of Eden, there was peace, harmony, joy and love; great love. After the fall, man went to work the field for his food and hunt. Women struggled greatly too. Both became slaves to their daily routines.

"Before, in the Garden, man was created to delight God and worship Him. Man was created for worship. God loves His creations. Animals, plants, insects and other things were there along with man. Adam named them.

"Adam interacted safely with all animals. God saw that Adam became lonely after he had done this and then created Eve for Adam's companionship. All was good. Here, it is even better. Here, in this Garden, sin cannot enter. This is safe here."

Me: "Lord, I do not understand why God put the Tree of Knowledge, and of good and evil, where man could eat it. It is right in the center of the Garden as a temptation. Why do this? All would have been perfect."

Jesus: "You speak with no knowledge here. Erin. God tested their loyalties and obedience to Him as another form of worship. All saw that the Tree was pretty, with ripe fruit, yet neither Adam nor Eve went to eat of it because their hearts were not corrupt.

"It was not until the snake led them to it. The snake was in the Garden and confined to the Tree. You were shown this earlier. The snake was bound here and his motivation for release was granted by Eve's temptation.

"When Eve took a bite, and then Adam, the snake was granted the permission to be released upon the Earth. Read the Scripture again and understand who all left the Garden when the sin occurred.

"The snake was under God's watchful eye and confounded here. His motivation for getting Eve to sin was his ticket to be free to slither."

Me: "It just seems as if God planned and knew the outcome from the beginning. We ask why."

Jesus: "Sometimes wisdom is in knowing that God is in control. He loves you. Everything He does is with a divine purpose and plan. No detail is left undone. He is precise in His planning and knows all things in advance.

"There is an order to all that God does. Be thankful, Erin, that you are His child and in His favor. See your name here. Be encouraged that your trials are divinely orchestrated with a heavenly purpose. Give Me your hand."

Immediately, we are on the platform over all of the Garden. There is the beautiful Arboretum. In the distance, I see an incredibly long banquet table. It is set so beautifully.

Me: "Lord, I remember this scene from my first dream. This is just from a different angle."

Jesus: "Erin, the Wedding Banquet is extremely large. You are here, along with your friends, in the Garden section. This is delightful and you are in one of My Father's favorite spots for your wedding. Now, look, way off in the distance."

There, I could see a majestic mountain, higher than all others. At the top of this, I saw an incredible castle; unbelievable, really. It was immense and stunning. There were walls of water that poured out into channels. There was lush greenery.

I saw angels everywhere. There was music and every type of majestic bird, including peacocks, cranes and swans. There were trees groomed perfectly and walls of gold and pearl.

There were also walls of crystal and incredible gemstones. There were rainbows of light coming from the gemstones. Tears were streaming down my cheeks. I was looking at the Mansion of God, His personal chambers.

Me: "Lord, then we must be inside the City, right? I am confused. Is this the top layer or does God have His throne in the City, yet His home here?"

Jesus: "I know. This seems a bit difficult to comprehend. Do you recognize the hill?"

Me: "Would this be Zion?"

Jesus: "Very good. This is where the highest Court is also. There was a reason you were shown this recently. Now look."

As I looked around me, I saw other mountains much lower, with what looked like Courthouses on them.

Me: "Am I seeing Courthouses?"

Jesus: "Somewhat. These are regional leaders, or officials, and where they dwell. They oversee their part of the Court System of God."

Me: "So this is really like that pastor said."

Jesus: "Yes, very similar. You have been to one of these before many times."

Me: "Oh, the Throne of Grace, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, and I have gone to Court for you many times as the enemy requests you often."

Me: "Oh, thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "You have friends who work in these Courts and their jobs are very important."

Me: "Lord, I know the enemy is also there accusing. What will happen when, one day, the Courts will be obsolete? Those are beautiful places."

Jesus: "Who knows, maybe God has something amazing planned for them. Erin, you are skipping over something you wanted to say."

Me: "Yes, Lord. I am frustrated that I dwell here, yet the enemy is still allowed to plead against me. I know he is granted permission by my own actions. Then I know he uses these obstacles as a weapon against me. There are hierarchies in which I see him operate during the day. I get so frustrated."

Jesus: "Do not give the enemy tools to use against you by your own admissions? Erin, thoughts are in your mind. The enemy has studied you. If he can draw them out of your lips or into action from your mind to your body, then he can win the case against you in Court. You tie the hands of God because of your actions. Do not give the enemy a foothold."

Me: "Lord, I thought I had been pretty good about this recently."

Jesus: "The enemy, like a good attorney, will look for 'just cause' and good legal reason to bring charges against you in Court. Now, how does he do this? Easy! If he can get you to sin, then he can bring charges against you unless you recognize your sin and bring this to Me.

"Repent, renounce, break the enemy's authority and bless. Now, the enemy starts his day using tools. All is planned so that you become angry, depressed and discouraged. Hopefully, he can have you accuse God.

"Thereby, he becomes the controller. His tools are from his shed. It starts small. Then he throws one weapon after another until he can get a reaction."

Me: "Lord, I sin every day because I get impatient, angry and frustrated."

Jesus: "These are not sins. Sin come after these take root and become something more. Do not worry. However, add this to the trouble you are under and you see the enemy chipping away at your faith. God uses the chipping as refining. This is good, but, I know, irritating."

Me: "It seems like there are levels of tools. My three obstacles are tools, but larger ones. In one online dictionary, these would be called 'sheds', or 'a higher form of toolery'."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, the enemy certainly uses tools and they are stored in sheds. There is an order, but this is predictable. You are not alone here. Your friends, and those whom God loves, are subjects to the enemy's shed. Be thankful that the Lord God finds you worthy of trials, knowing that these will grant perseverance. This is all God."

Me: "Can I see the Courts?"

Jesus: "This is for another day. Now look over this beautiful sight and know that one of those bricks has your name on it."

I looked over this landscape for what must have been an hour. I saw such beautiful parts. There were art sculptures which moved with no gravity. There were water spouts coming from the ground and balls spinning at the tops of these spouts. There were beautiful lights and flowers. There were all manner of animals. Then my eyes scanned back over to the banquet table.

Me: "Lord, when is the banquet?"

Jesus: "Erin, soon. Be encouraged. I love you."

Me: "I love You too."

Dream over...

Dream 084 – The Harvest of Grapes & Dining with the King

Saturday, September 7, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:44 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for this beautiful day and so much promise. I am overjoyed by Your love and generosity. I am so blessed by my immense amounts of friends and overwhelmed by Your love.

I have been struggling this week with the news from the doctor when I learned my pathology reports came back positive for cancer. I guess I knew a while back, but I did not want to believe that something was wrong.

Lord, my request and petition, as they are running more tests and I go through these surgeries, is that You would supernaturally provide as I have no idea what we will do. Lord, You and I walk closely. You could heal me prior to all of this, but I need to know why You are not.

Why have me run the race just to allow this before the final 'leg' of my run? If I have granted the enemy a foothold, I know You would tell me. I know the Holy Spirit. You would have warned me. Because I feel no warfare around this, I must believe this is being allowed by You for a Divine purpose.

So, because I love You and I know You love me with even a higher love, then I will gladly take up Your Cross and run after You to complete this. In other words, wherever You go, Lord, I will follow You. If You are using me for Your glory, then I believe You will do something amazing with me.

Maybe this is a call to action for others. Maybe we will be granted such a strong Open Heaven that all of us will be able to walk in miracles, heal each other in Jesus' Name and display awesome deeds. Lord, I know that I am close to my Jubilee year in terms of Israel as a gauge, but, if You could set me free this day, this very day, I would be so grateful.

I have not felt well this week. My Spirit is up and down as my own body wars against itself. I declined an invitation to the awards banquet at the 'Parade of Homes'. I did not feel like going to this. It always stresses me out.

I seem to work so hard at the interior design of these things and I get no credit publicly at all. I am there to watch some builders take full credit when they even rely on me to even design their exteriors and lighting plans down to every detail.

This year was no exception. I worked on four homes. It was months of work for two of these. Last night, my coworkers texted me to say that these two homes had won best interior design. My largest of these two homes won 'Best of Show'.

Since I was not there, no one would have felt obligated to thank me; so, chapter closed. Father, forgive my pride here. How prideful I am. I know that You know all of the work I have done. This is all that should matter.

Here on Earth, I am a slave to man, but, really, they cannot have me as I am forever Yours, Lord. Secretly, I cannot help but smile that You would have allowed me to win awards right at, what might be, the time of Your coming for us.

I must laugh, though, that it mattered so little to me that I did not want to participate in the folly of the awards. I really had no desire to go.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am 25 years old. My hair is very long, blonde and wavy. I could see my hair over my robe. He greeted me at the Portal today with open arms. I ran right into them and my face was buried in His robe. I was crying.

Jesus: "Erin, I am glad to see you."

Me: "Lord, I am so glad to see You too."

He held me and seemed to sway back and forth. I felt such love and comfort. It was immense. I felt so safe here. I loved being here in His arms.

Jesus: "I love having you here."

He pulled me away so He could look into my eyes.

Me: "Lord, I forget You know my thoughts." I was laughing while crying.

Jesus: "Now, you have much on your heart today. Come with me."

He walks with me. He took my hand and walked over to the tree. There he grabbed the 'berry' fruit that He knew I liked and He took the same. Then He took my hand again and walked me down to the vineyard.

Me: "Oh, I love this place."

He took me over to just one part of it; the southeast side of the vineyard. This is in relationship to the valley, not to the City. If it were in relationship to the City, we would be southwest, but closer to directly west. This is how large this place is.

He walked me to this portion. The grapes were beautiful shades of red, purple and blue. The soil was dark brown and black with diamond chips. The soil was loose and aerated. He knew I was fascinated with this last time.

He reached down and grabbed a handful, motioned for me to cup my hands and He placed some in my hands. The soil smelled fragrant, not like manure on Earth. It smelled like sandalwood and spices. It was soft and fine. I had held some fine espresso grounds a couple of days ago and it was very similar to this.

Me: "This soil is quite soft and so light and airy. I love the sparkles."

Immediately, my eyes went to microscopic lenses again. I could see millions of crystals of every kind; mini jewels.

Me: "Wow, Lord, this is beautiful."

Jesus: "Rub some of the soil onto your robe."

I did and it did not stain like earthly soil. It was fascinating.

Jesus: "Do you know why I have taken you here again?"

Me: "Maybe because I am so fascinated with this?"

Jesus: "Yes, I know you enjoy this here, but there is another reason. Look around you."

We were on beautiful steep hills at the base of steeper mountains. I have never been to France or Italy, but I would imagine this was very much the same. These rows of vines were perfected. I saw groves of white grapes that shone like diamonds in the light.

I saw green that shone like a field of emeralds. Where I stood, the reds, purples and blues were like rubies, amethysts and sapphires. I saw workers harvesting with great joy. Angels were conversing with them.

There was humming coming from the grapes and singing coming from the harvesters and angels. It was so amazing to hear and see this. They seemed to be harvesting the light colored grapes; yellow and light green.

Me: "Lord, this is amazing. They are harvesting the light colored grapes. In earthly terms, this would be late summer, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, grapes on Earth are harvested all year, but this would be the first harvest."

Me: "So, what comes next? Is this a parable or sign?"

He is laughing as He knew I was hunting for symbolism.

Jesus: "Okay, so, in earthly terms, we are in the harvesting season for most things. In terms of grapes, the lighter wines come from the grapes of August; the richer the wine, the later the harvest."

He turns to take off a bunch of red ruby grapes. He pointed His finger at the stem and they dropped off. He handed me some to eat and He ate some too.

Jesus: "These are harvested in October to November..." Then He pointed to a far off vineyard. "...and those are the late grapes. These can be harvested even near Hanukkah in December. So, all of this is only in earthly terms. This is in relationship to Harvesting.

"What you see here..." He looks around and I see a vast number of harvesters. "...the workers are many. On Earth, the harvesters are few. So yes, you could say this is a parable of sorts."

I looked down and saw the cluster of grapes where Jesus just clipped with His finger had already grown back.

Me: "Lord, why have seasons here if the fruit grows immediately? Why does God go through the trouble of harvesting?"

Jesus: "Erin, look at the joy of the harvesters. Why would Heaven be filled with a lack of worship? Do not worry. The harvesters will allow these grapes to reach their growth so the wine is perfect. There is no death here. All vines have produced, understand?"

Me: "Lord, are we coming Home soon? You are showing me the harvest?"

Jesus: "Yes, the parable of My coming will be a form of harvest and will likely follow this pattern. However, even I do not know the day. You can know by the season. You can know by the grape if it is ready to be harvested too."

Me: "I do not understand. If I am a grape, can I determine when I am ready for harvest? If this is so, then, please, Lord, I am ready."

Jesus: He was laughing so hard at this. "No, Erin, the Vineyard Owner determines the time of harvest. Then He hires the workers to begin. Some are permanent workers for the Vineyard Owner,..." He points to some angels and they wave and smile. "...but most harvesters are hired by the Owner and are seasonal workers, hired specifically to handpick the grapes."

Me: "Lord, on Earth, there are so many grapes."

Jesus: He knew I was talking about souls. He smiled. "Yes, and the harvesters are few. This, you know. Do not worry, the Vineyard Owner will hand select them. Each harvester will know by the fruits which grape is good for harvest because the harvester is hired by the Owner."

Me: "So, Lord, is this the season? Is this the year? It seems like it should be."

Jesus: "Erin, your job is to remain harvesting. Work in your field. You can be responsible only for what the Vineyard Owner has granted you. This means you are managing your field, the vines, the grapes and the workers within. Do not worry about the Vineyard Owner and His plans for the harvest. You are safe in His care."

Me: "Lord, is the Vineyard Owner making me a manager?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Erin, you are a parent, but also you are in a circle of friends in your field. If the Vineyard Owner requires you to leave your field and tend to another one, then it is His right. You just need to be obedient as He requests. This is a valuable harvester to the Owner; one who is eager, willing and able to go where the Owner says."

Me: "Lord, now we are talking personally, right? About this cancer, correct?"

Jesus: "Erin, I will address this. Be patient. Look what else I am showing you as this is important. Most grapes on Earth are grown from clay. Did you know this?"

Me: "No. I would assume it was grown in rich soil like You have shown me here."

Jesus: "Yes, Heaven is rich with minerals and perfect in all things, but this is different. Think about Earth. Is it not interesting to you that I form grape vines with the best wine from clays and minerals?"

Me: "What does this mean, Lord?"

Jesus: "Am I also not the Potter, Erin? Do I not also shape your life, your very vessel to receive new wine? Do you not see the parable here? Who can dispute it?"

Me: "Wow, I never thought of the two as being related."

Jesus: "There are so many patterns. Look around you everywhere; the Holy Spirit will illuminate these. Now look at Scriptures. Are there not hundreds of parables there? Yes, so now, Erin, let's look at you. I have shaped your vessel.

"I have taken the time to fire you, glaze you and then fire you again so that you would be able to contain what I have for you. Your vessel is good. Sure, you have a few bumps, this cancer, but now I will put you into a different furnace and your glaze will be artistic and beautiful.

"You will not only be a vessel of great use to me, but a vessel to behold. Do not worry about this furnace; this new trial. It is one of the final stages before you are beheld. I am pleased. Now, think of the new wine that I will pour into you. Think of how pleasing the taste will be? This is good, so be encouraged."

Me: "Oh Lord, this furnace might crack my glaze and break me if the temperature is too high. How will I survive it? How can I afford it?"

Jesus: "Erin, repent. Did I not just finish telling you that your vessel will receive new wine? How can a cracked vessel receive new wine? This is silly."

Me: "Lord, forgive me. I just feel that, when You told me You would take me Home three months ago if I wanted to, then I decided to stay; I thought You might find favor and take it easy on me. I was hoping for rest."

Jesus: He was chuckling. "Erin, wait, did I tell you the race would be easy to finish? Did I say that? What your race becomes is up to you. You know the outcome. You were told you finish strong, yet here you are again with this doubt." He was being so patient with me.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, You are right and I know better. I gave You my life. I handed myself to You knowing my place and my outcome. How dare I doubt Your course for my race? How dare I? I just had expectations..."

Jesus: "Erin, expectations are like hope and this is good. Just remember, you must trust Me that I will make your race good. Now, come with Me."

He takes my hand and squeezes it. We are immediately at the banquet table in God's Garden. I am in shock. He motions for me to sit at the table. It is beautiful. The table is set for a King. The linen is incredible and woven with such finery.

There are wine glasses set before us. These wine glasses are hard to describe as I have never seen any earthly ones like them. The stem is gold with a golden rim. The glass itself is fine crystal and it is the same as windows in Heaven. From Jesus' magnificent presence, the crystal becomes a rainbow and all of the crystal emanates from His light.

Jesus stands next to me as I sit. He pours me a glass of red wine. He pours Himself one too. He served me and then Himself. He then sat at the head of the table and I was at the right side of Him. He pointed to the beautiful gold wine carafe, like a bottle, yet a vessel. It had an amazing, rich, golden luster.

There were all manner of jewels on this, encrusted into it. It was Heavenly engraved. My initials were engraved. I looked down the length of the banquet table and I saw others too. I began to cry.

Jesus: "Do you see? You are not the only one, Erin. There are others and this is good. You have company here. Now let's look at where you are now. How do you feel?"

Me: "I feel like Jehoiakim, King of Judah from the Scriptures. I feel like I have been let out of prison, as if You have found favor with me and I am now dining with You (II Kings 25:27-30)."

Jesus: "Very good. There are a few interesting Scriptures related to the same. Look at Mephibosheth and the trials he went through. Let's not forget Job. David understood faith also. More than most. You have surrounded yourself with friends like David.

This is good. Now tell Me more about what happens in that Scripture you speak of, but first let's try our new wine. Oh, do not worry, you are not subject to drunkenness here. This is Heaven and not subject to the enemy and his curse."

I waited for Him to drink and then I did. The wine was amazing; very sweet, but full of flavor, like lingering spices. However, make no mistake, it was not too sweet and overbearing, but wonderful. Like nothing I have ever had.

Me: "Lord, this is amazing; incredible, really."

Jesus: "Now, where was the vessel this new wine came from? Oh look, yes, there it is. Oh, Erin, it is engraved with your initial; interesting. Now, I do not see any blemishes from that furnace. Sure looks intact. Look, there are jewels encrusted into this, too.

"Oh, this does not look like a sad, cracked up vessel, does it? As far as I can see, this is fit for a King on His very table in His very Garden; His joy."

He was jovial, poking loving fun at me. I was completely embarrassed; almost ashamed. I began to cry.

Jesus: "Erin, do not cry. Now, tell me the story of what the king did for Jehoiakin."

Me: "Well, in the 12th month, on the 27th day, the king lifted up his head and brought him out of prison. He spoke kind words, set him next to kings and even made his place higher. He changed his prison garments and he ate continually before the king all the days of his life. His allowance was continual and given to him by the king at a daily rate all the days of his life."

Jesus: "Well, Erin, this is a very good day indeed. Can you receive this?"

Me: "I am uncomfortable sitting above kings. This is hard."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, this is a symbol of love and honor when a prisoner, someone undeserving, is seated above an expected king when being released. On Earth, a prisoner can barely support himself when released from prison.

"No one would hire him, yet this King showed kindness and set him above the deserving kings and He even gave him a regular place to eat at His table and was welcome there. He then had status.

"Then, just because He can, the King gave him recompense, or an allowance, for his entire life. This is very good news; very good. Let's eat."

Jesus waves to some angels. They come up with a serving cart. They serve both of us plates with the most amazing foods. There was a rack of lamb, figs, cakes, something like mashed potatoes, salad greens, some egg dish, like a flan, olives, cheeses and breads. Jesus waved. The angels served up more wine from the vessel. The vessel was bottomless. It was always full. I was so overwhelmed, I was crying.

Jesus: "Erin, what is wrong? Do you not like that which is being served?"

Me: "Oh, goodness, I love it. I am glad there is this food in Heaven. I am so happy. I am just amazed to be worthy to sit with You like this. I am dining with the King before the banquet."

Jesus: He was laughing. "What? Did you never expect to dine with the King daily? What did the Scripture say? What have you prayed for? Did you not receive it?"

Me: "I mean, are we not seated here at the wedding banquet table?"

Jesus: "Yes, but that time has not come. Can we not still enjoy being seated at this table?"

Me: "Lord, there is deeper meaning here. I can feel it."

Jesus: "Your friends will find this. You will all be seated here together some day. Is this not beautiful and the food wonderful?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. The food is perfect. I am so honored. I am excited to have meat, but how does this work?"

Jesus: "Oh, a mystery, based on there being no death in Heaven. This is good, right?"

Me: "Yes, but surprising."

Jesus: "There is more symbolism today in this time with Me; more than any other so far. This is good. To those who walk with Me, they will see more within this than most. Some will see patterns also. This is good. This leaves you with time to worship Me and enjoy rest."

Me: "I thought I was harvesting?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Well, follow the instructions of the Vineyard Owner and King. Dine here at My table. You will still be compensated."

Me: "But, Lord, this is an honor and I wanted to work while I can. I want to earn my wages."

Jesus: "Then obey what your King is saying. If I am requesting your presence, do not argue with Me. If I am showing you an Open Door, then walk through this. If I am saying, 'Stand up and carry your mat', then do this, understand? You are rewarded by your obedience and not always as you expect. You are now out of prison. The King requests your presence."

Me: "Yes, Lord. forgive me."

Jesus: "Now, enjoy what is set before you. On Earth, occasionally, you will dine before your enemies. They will hate you because of Me. Do not worry. I will send help. Do not be dismayed. You will not suffer shame. You are loved by the King. Soon, there will be a wedding. Do not worry. You will know by the season. Take heart. Take courage. Be joyful and ready to receive."

Me: "I love You, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you too, Erin. Do not give this cancer consideration or worry. Trust that I have you. Trust that, whatever happens here, I am in control and you are being refined. I will take care of your needs also. Please do not worry, Erin. I will remove your obstacles."

Dream over...

II Kings 25:27-30: "And it happened in the 37th year of captivity of Jehoiakim, King of Judah, in the 12th month, on the 27th day of the month, Evil Merodach, King of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiakim, King of Judah out of prison and he spoke kindly to him and set his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon and changed his prison garments, and he ate continually before him all the days of his life. And his allowance was a continual allowance given him by the King, a daily rate, all the days of his life."

Blessings...Erin

Dream 085 – The Blacksmith

Sunday, September 15, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:49 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for all that we have. Thank You for Your outpouring. You grant me love and mercy straight from the Throne of Heaven. You treat me like a true daughter of the King as in Psalm 45 and You honor me as such.

Who am I, and who are my friends, that we would be favored by You? Lord, even in Psalm 46, You speak of mountains falling and the Earth quaking, yet You are there to help and we should not fear.

Lord, I have come to realize that I cannot worry about tomorrow, about Your coming for us and the time for this as You have set up the seasons. So then, we know how to look. We know that You will come in the 'due season', but I am still uncertain about the year.

I have thought, 'Surely, Lord, this is the time.' You have repeatedly told me that there are events which must happen first. Are these delayed? Then You remind me that You are faithful and You will give us warning. You will command Your angels concerning us and we will be protected.

However, until then we are to live each day looking for You, but be present to live each day fully. This is not an easy thing to do. I have only begun to look for You about eighteen months ago, but it seems like years to me; many years.

When the dreams started, I thought You would come quickly and these were a sign, but I really did not know. Now, Lord, You speak in divine parables. You have made Your written Words come alive for me. Yet even these leave us guessing as to the timing of Your Coming for us in the Rapture.

You are a great mystery. With You speaking in parables, patterns and prophecies, I have learned to seek answers and turn to You. I run to You because I know You have all of the answers, Lord Jesus, and that I am but a 'guesser'. You hold the keys to these wonderful mysteries.

You are not a God of confusion, but a God of perfection and perfect order. Therefore, I know that, if I remain steadfast, then You will honor me with wisdom and knowledge. You will provide me with the ability to 'know' Your heart and 'do' Your Will. We are so close to the finish, I must remain encouraged.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

He was once again standing at the Portal to receive me. I run into His arms and He wraps His arms around me.

Me: "I love You, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you, Erin."

I was anxious today and worried about tomorrow.

Me: "Lord, why am I battling so much right now? I have no cause to be so worried. Death greets us all. I do not believe You will harm me or allow me to suffer. Lord, You can remove all of this right now and, by my faith, I can be healed. I can have faith like a mustard seed, right?"

Jesus: "Oh, so much going on inside you right now. Have you so quickly forgotten yesterday?"

Me: "No, but I am with You only a few hours a day. The enemy roars during the majority of my day on Earth. He sometimes is very loud and I need You to 'roar' much louder."

Jesus: "Erin, wisdom is proved right by her actions. How are you acting? Do you lack wisdom?"

Me: "I have been going through bouts of depression. I am tired and unsure of my course or even some of my decisions."

Jesus: "This is understandable given the circumstances. I worry not about this. What concerns Me is that you so quickly become depressed when you need to have joy. This will not do."

He takes my hand and walks to the tree with fruit. He pulls down a fruit which looks exactly like an apple. Before He pulled it down, He looked back at me to see if He was taking the right fruit. I heard Him say quietly, thinking out loud...

Jesus: "Hmm, let's see."

I was laughing because He was examining me like a doctor. He then handed me the apple. He motions for me to take a bite. It was the perfect taste.

Me: "This is wonderful. It is a perfect blend of tart and sweet. I love this."

Jesus: "Now take another bite."

He was staring right at me. I looked into His beautiful bluish green eyes and, there, I saw myself reflected in them eating my apple. The apple in his eyes was gold, yet, in my hand, the apple was red. I began to laugh.

Jesus: "Erin, why are you laughing? Do you not see yourself as the 'Apple of My Eye'?"

I was laughing and He was smiling.

Me: "Lord, You are so wise and funny too. You have every right to throw me right down that Portal for my lack of faith and my ridiculously fickle thoughts."

Jesus: He was smiling and quite jovial. "What? And miss out on all this fun with you here? Never! This is much too entertaining."

Me: "Oh, now You are making fun of me."

Jesus: Smiling. "No...well...yes, somewhat. I am calming you. I am not surprised by these thoughts you are having. I am not surprised about your lack of faith. Each day, remember to lay down your burdens and say goodbye to the weight of this world and follow Me. I know this is not easy."

Me: "Lord, while taking communion this morning, after the bread, I could barely help. For a moment, I became the man who helped carry Your Cross. It was so heavy; I mean, the weight of railroad ties! Who could carry this Cross to the Crucifixion?"

"How were You able to do this after being beaten? Then, when I partook in the wine at the foot of the Cross; well, it is a difficult sight to see. Then to know that You did this as a sacrifice for us, as we should have been there on the Cross instead of You; well, I need to be reminded of this."

Jesus: He holds up His hands and I see scars. "Erin, I would do this for just one of you; just one. Remember what you are to Me and how much I love you. I am here with you. Focus not on what your trials are and the magnitude, but focus on what the trials are asking of you. Erin, what am I asking of you?"

"Now, what do you see in My eyes? My Father fashions the tools the blacksmith uses because the outcome is to God's glory, remember? The blacksmith is not in control of your outcome. As you know your place is here, why are you so downcast?

"This seems counterproductive to you having an abundant life while you wait for Me to return for you. Things will, at times, be difficult. I have sent friends. I have sent you help. Now, can you be patient while you wait to see what I will do for you?"

Me: "Lord, there are a few blacksmiths in my life. Can You please put them out of work right now? I mean, with the furnace heating up and, since You are the Potter, please remove the blacksmiths. I am being hammered here."

Jesus: "Yes, I will remove the obstacles. I believe they have run their course. I already told you that I was releasing you from prison. The blacksmiths had built the bars, the locks and the weapons against you, but I hold the keys."

Me: "I would be so grateful, Lord, as it would make things easier while going through this refining. I know that they were used to draw me closer to You and this is good. My burden, my head, would lift if I knew they were no longer a consideration."

Jesus: "Erin, because you know Me and even seek My face, I will do as you ask. Now, when I do this, whatever will you do with your new found freedom?"

Me: "Live and live free!" I began to spin around and dance. He was laughing and had a huge smile. "I am excited to remove the blacksmith and his weapons. I have been tired and defeated. Can this be right now, Lord?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you know how to live free?"

Me: "Well, I am a slave to my situation, but I can choose to recognize who I am as a child here in Heaven. I can think 'free' first and then maybe I will learn to follow my thoughts with actions?"

Jesus: "Remember what I showed you about slaves when they are not truly released, but held prisoner only by their own comfort? They are never really free because they have never released their freedom to Me. The blacksmith made them comfortable with slavery."

Me: "Lord, if You give us freedom, then set us free in all things so that we have mobility."

Jesus: "This was an interesting thing you say. Is a slave who is released from prison not mobile?"

Me: "Well, what I gather from Your Words, Lord, is You can grant freedom from our afflictions, the blacksmith, but we must realize our new found freedom and remove our slave thinking and release ourselves also."

Jesus: "Very good. Let's say you were sound asleep and your Savior unlocks your prison cell, as well as the cells of others. You wake up and are told by a guard that you are now free to go. You, still being inside your prison cell, remain waiting there behind the bars."

"You see other prisoners walking about free. You see there is no blacksmith taunting you daily with despair and discouragement. Then what has happened here? You were told you are now free."

Me: "Lord, I don't know. I would wait."

Jesus: "Why?"

Me: "I am not sure."

Jesus: "Erin, go to the bars. Now try the latch. Does the prison gate to your cell not open after your Savior unlocked it?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, can I possibly be this dense?"

Jesus: "Let's go to the man, the paralytic, who sat on the mat begging for food. What did I say to him?"

Me: "You told him he was healed. Something like, 'pick up your mat and walk.'"

Jesus: "So I gave him mobility. Did I say, 'Your faith is poor; sit there until you decide to get up and try to walk'? What does 'try' even mean? Then, what else? Oh yes, I told him to pick up his begging mat. Why?"

Me: "Because he did not need this. He is now free."

Jesus: "Yes, but more. He no longer would be coming back to this spot as a lame man and beggar. He was set free from this situation also."

Me: "I never thought about such a small detail before. I never considered his mat; only the miracle."

Jesus: "His mat was a marker to the place of his prison sentence and a reminder. He could have left it there so it could be erected in memorial, but this is silly. He was not to take his belongings, get up and walk about. He was free to go."

Me: "Lord, You are amazing. How can I truly be content in my prison cell?"

Jesus: "After a while, you begin to adjust to your conditions. You become comfortable."

Me: "Today, I began to look around at all of the different things that have bars. I realized something. I have a photo of my child in her crib. It, too, has bars, but it was for her safety."

Jesus: "Yes, this is interesting in modern times. Now even babies are starting in prison cells."

Me: "Lord, this kept my children safe. These are good today. This made me sleep soundly."

Jesus: Laughing. "You are right. In ancient times, the babies stayed with their mothers during all the watches. Children felt secure. Now this culture teaches you to make the baby secure without the mother. This culture teaches you that this will help the baby become independent and will fall asleep 'securely in their cells'."

Me: "Lord, I did this. I let my children cry themselves to sleep."

Jesus: "I am not here to condemn you for modern parenting practices. I am just letting you know the origins and beginnings of where warfare can start; the prisoner mindset."

Me: "Lord, You are right. My daughter is well behaved today. I knew when she would wake up. I would come for her immediately when I heard her. She would chirp and giggle like she was entertained by angels. I was literally excited when she awoke.

"I took her with me everywhere. When I would come for her, she had the biggest grin. She was never afraid. I was always there for her."

"With my boy, I was very sick; my middle son especially. If I could not get to him fast enough upon waking, he would panic, cry and then try to escape. A couple of times, he even tried to crawl out of his crib on his own. I guess He did not like the prison cell of the crib.

"Lord, now I feel bad. The enemy must have been working on him. He has some insecurity, defiance and independence issues that my other two children do not. They like to be near me, but they also feel okay by themselves too. Did I do something wrong here, Lord?"

Jesus: "The enemy starts from the beginning. One day you will be free from this."

Me: "Lord, do You mean that, when my children were out of my sight, the enemy was constantly working on them? Since the covering over our house, at that time, was only, at the very most, half Godly, then were they completely exposed."

Jesus: "Erin, you gave your children to Me. You interceded for them. Everything that is allowed is for Kingdom purposes. This is difficult to understand, but important."

Me: "Lord, when the enemy was allowed to test my children, and even now, especially with my sons, is this all for Kingdom purposes? Is this truly the Will of God? When you test them, then you test me and the enemy has a 'field day'."

"When it comes to my children, I feel as if the enemy has fashioned them as tools against me some days. Since You have granted all these angels to our household; then please, Lord, release them to minister to my sons in their ears while they sleep."

Jesus: "I know this part may be difficult to understand. I know that you still hold charges against yourself for what happened to the kids when they were small, even though such charges rest entirely on the cover back then and NOT you. Erin, the blacksmith, is active here. Do you understand how?"

Me: "No, I guess not. I am relieved when they are all under my care because you always reveal to me hidden knowledge with what they might be doing concerning technology. I keep a close watch, but so much gets through as it is impossible to see everything."

Jesus: "Erin, if you want to have peace, release everything to Me. You are compounding worries. Your children sense your lack of peace. Do not lack wisdom because of your lack of faith. The two work together and you need both. Now, why do you think all of this is being allowed right now and why all the hammering?"

Me: "This is the question I long for You to answer, Lord. I could list everything. On Saturday, during a call from my employer, I learned that my largest account is going in-house and will have no need of me soon, but yet I am still to train this young designer to essentially replace me. This keeps happening."

Jesus: "Erin, first of all, when in war, the enemy fashions different weapons. You have studied your warfare manual for keys. Now there are important points to learn from My Word and the course of history.

"All is accelerated today, understand? All is planned and strategic from both the Heavenly realm and the dark realm. Remember patterns and understand the order. There is nothing new under the sun; nothing. Come with Me."

He walked me to the tree near the overlook. He grabs two fruits that are exactly the same. They were shaped exactly like the human heart and were red and juicy. The taste was both sweet and tart; my favorite combination. It tasted like a plum and peach combined. I smiled and thanked Him.

Jesus: "Yes, good fruit, right?"

Me: "Lord, everything here is good. All fruit here is perfect and every human here even bears fruit."

Jesus: "Now you understand why the testing. This is so, when you finally arrive here, and, yes, even your children, you will lack nothing. Give Me your hand."

He grabbed my hand and walked me to the overlook. He pointed in the far off distance to one of the small villages by one of the lakes. He squeezed my hand and instantly we were there. It was not too far from my mountain home. It was a beautiful little village.

If I did not understand Heavenly architecture, I would have a hard time comprehending the perfection of tongue and groove joinery here, the fact that there is no real need for nails and the amazing cut stones. These stones were precise.

I would believe I just walked back 800 to 1000 years in time to Northern Europe. This village appeared fashioned after a 'European village'. The cottages and shops were mostly single story.

There was a beautiful herringbone patterned, jasper brick street right down the center of the village. The homes were beautiful. Some had golden, yes golden, thatch roofs.

Me: "Lord, this is so quaint and beautiful. Are those roofs gold?"

Jesus: He smiled. "No, they are bronze thatch."

Me: "That is impossible. They are so beautiful!"

As I looked around, the people there were so excited to see Jesus that they dropped what they were doing and greeted Him. They all were shouting praise to Him and thanking Him personally for various things. He was laughing.

They were all so kind and respectful to Him, even the children. They did not rush Him and overwhelm Him. They were just so glad to see Him. He waved me on to look around while He spoke to the villagers. He waved someone over to me.

A beautiful woman came up to me. She had beautiful blue eyes and such a warm smile. Her hair was like spun gold; wavy and very long. She seemed to have an accent; like German, but I am not certain.

Woman: "Hi, the King would like me to show you our village."

She looked so familiar to me, but nothing was said.

Me: "Thank You. Pardon me, but Jesus has never had anyone but angels and the Heavenly prophets Elijah and Enoch speak to me, so I am a bit surprised today. Do I know you? Who are you to me?"

Woman: "Erin, this is not important now. You will come to understand this someday. I am only here to show you the village for a few moments. You and I have connections and you will understand this soon, but, for now, let's have some fun."

Me: I was too curious. "Forgive me for pressing the issue, but you are too familiar to me. Are you my grandmother? Who exactly are you?"

She stopped me and looked back at Jesus. Jesus smiled and laughed at us while He was having conversations with the villagers. She turned and faced me. She had a perfect face like an angel. Her eyes were piercing blue like crystal.

She was demure and a bit shy; very humble. She smiled at me with these beautiful doe eyes and her smile was breathtaking. Any earthly man would easily give up everything he had just to follow a woman as beautiful as this. Her teeth were perfect and her smile contagious.

Me: "You are so beautiful."

She became a bit shy by this and it was so sweet.

Woman: "Our Lord knew you would ask questions. I am not permitted to instruct you or give you information; just to show you the village. Someday soon, we will laugh together about this when you discover who I am to you. Just know that you will look very similar to me in Heaven and maybe even more beautiful.

"Do not envy me as I went through a lot to get here. Just know you have people here waiting to see you. I was so excited when Jesus told me He would bring you here today." She became giddy and I knew instantly that I was connected to her somehow.

"You are not to speak to saints who have gone before you. You are not to call upon the dead. Just know that we intercede for you to our Lord Jesus every day. We can see what happens to you and we ask for provisions for you too. Know that your prayers are heard here, as well as your praise. Jesus hears all of it."

Me: "Wait, you just instructed and informed me..." She began to almost skip down the street ahead of me she was smiling and laughing. I ran to catch up with her.

Woman: "Erin, I just told you not to call upon the dead, understand? This is directly from the Bible. This is all." She was laughing. "Now, come let's see what's here. You will love this!"

She showed me all these beautiful homes. I thought they were small, but they are all quite large. The small shops were incredible. There was an art gallery with paintings made by the villagers. There was a bread bakery that smelled heavenly. There was a millinery making clothing, fabrics and such.

She took me through the door and, inside, was the finest fabrics. There was every gauge of linen. There were beautiful gowns on dress forms. There were incredible seamstresses there sewing by hand. There was a machine there, but most of it was by hand.

I turned and looked at the dress this woman was wearing. It was made from three gauges of linen. Her chest and sleeves were like a cloud linen and silk woven together with a pearl thread which made the raiment shine in the fabric.

Her bodice to her waist was another gauge of linen and form fitting to accentuate her figure, but it was not showy; modest and beautiful. Her gown from the waist down was light grey blue and was wide, but not like a bubble. It draped beautifully and was woven with silver thread. I wanted to look at the stitching closer.

Woman: "Go ahead, Erin, it is okay to look."

I saw the stitching and the finery was not possible on Earth. I actually got tears in my eyes. It was amazing.

Me: "I can hardly believe this is hand sewn."

Woman: She smiled. "Yes, this shop is mine. Well, we all work together".

The other women were singing. The music was beautiful.

Me: "Would it not be easier to wave your hands and complete your work?"

Woman: "I suppose so, but this is much more fun. What value is that? This is so rewarding. Erin, our Lord told you that you might design here. I guess you could do this from the mountain; wave your hand and not have to lift a finger. Will you be doing that then?" She was laughing.

Me: I was laughing too. "Of course not; what fun is that! Your shop is beautiful and you are amazingly gifted. I have never seen work like this on Earth; nothing even close to this."

Woman: She curtsied. "Why thank you, Miss Erin."

She was laughing. She took my hand and walked me outside. All the little storefronts had these beautiful crystal glass windows. Ever since Jesus arrived, the window glass emanated rainbows of colors. The streets and buildings seemed to have a gentle hum, or vibrating motion, that was so relaxing and so calming.

I heard music everywhere, laughter and celebrations. These were the different shops we walked by: a bread bakery, a pastry Shop and some restaurants of all types. The smells were incredible. There was a candy store and even a chocolatier.

There was a glass blower, a potter's shop, a musical instrument shop and an antiques shop in which everything was new. Yes, this is odd, but I was fascinated. There was a jeweler and a furniture maker.

Then I saw a blacksmith! I stopped dead in my tracks. Just then, Jesus was there. I reached over and hugged Him.

Me: "Lord, this is so beautiful. I am so excited to see all of this and meet..." I turned to the woman.

Jesus: Addressing the woman. "Did Erin question you?"

They were both laughing. It made me laugh too. He knew me so well.

Me: "Okay, stop that. Lord, You know me. I had to know who she is to me."

Jesus: "Erin, you will know so many people here. You have many friends. Did I not tell you that people intercede for you here even now? I met you here for a purpose. Let's go see what a blacksmith does."

We walked to the front of the shop. Jesus turns to the woman and she comes up to me.

Woman: "Erin, I must go, but, first, I want to tell you 'thank you' in advance for something." She hugged me and kissed my cheek. "I will continue to pray for you and I will see you before long. I cannot wait to tell you everything. I love you."

I am not sure how I know her, but I felt a deep connection. I knew not to ask. I hugged her and told her thank you for the prayers. I am not sure why, but I told her I loved her too. She was so beautiful. I wondered if she was my grandmother.

Jesus: "Is she not wonderful?"

He has such a bright smile on His face. He was so proud of her, like a Father, and had a deep love for her.

Me: "Lord, I love how You are. You are so amazing. You know all of us. We bring You joy. You bring us even more joy. I am so glad You allowed me to meet her even though I do not understand who she is. It seems that my roots are in Northern Europe?"

He was smiling and laughing. He knew I was hoping for more answers.

Jesus: "Erin, be at peace. You will spend a lot of time here. There is a great farmer's market here too. You will enjoy this. This is like a big celebration here every day, but there is a day of rest too."

Me: "Why would there need to be rest here?"

Jesus: He was laughing again. "Erin, there are different forms of rest, but, on the seventh day, there is a time to rest and worship at the Throne."

Me: "Oh, of course; so sorry Lord." I was embarrassed that I forgot the Sabbath. "So we still practice this? We worship here all the time."

Jesus: "Yes, there are still celebrations and festivals. There is still a time to worship God at the Throne in His Temple too, although you will always worship."

Me: "Lord, I cannot help but want to praise You always here. On Earth, I am distracted. On Earth, I have trials. I cannot wait for the day these are removed so I can be set free and praise You."

Jesus: "Erin, you are to praise Me even in your trials." He knew what I meant, so He was smiling.

Me: "Oh, Lord, of course; what I mean is to praise You with no heaviness or burdens."

Jesus: "Lay your heaviness and your burdens at my feet." He was laughing.

Me: "Okay sure. Can you remove the blacksmith then?"

Jesus: "Ah, very good. Let's see what a blacksmith does".

Me: I stopped. "Lord, is a blacksmith not dark and ominous? Why would You have a blacksmith in Heaven; a punisher?"

He turned me across the street to a whitesmith shop and, then, the other direction to a goldsmith shop. He laughed.

Jesus: "Erin, look up blacksmith. He works in darker metals, the goldsmith in gold and the whitesmith in pewter and silver."

Me: "But they all require fire. Why is there fire in Heaven?"

Jesus: He again was amused. "Erin, was there no fire near the Altar? The fire here is not a burning flame. This fire is used for Kingdom purposes. There will be no hot eternal flames here. This is different. You will know better one day. Be encouraged."

Me: "So, why show me this here?"

Jesus: "So you have understanding. Come inside."

There in front of us was a very handsome man with blue eyes and chiseled features. He was very muscular and young like the woman; around 25 years old. He immediately bowed to Jesus. Jesus waved him up and told him to continue.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, watch."

I saw the hot metal being turned as it came out of the forge or furnace. It was placed on something that looked like an anvil. The man began to hammer it. It would normally be loud, but it wasn't.

Jesus: "Do you know what the furnace here is called, Erin?"

Me: "No; a forge?"

Jesus: "No; a bloomery. The hot ball of metal is called a bloom. The platform he is hammering on is an anvil."

Me: "The anvil is shaped like a horn on one side."

Jesus: "Oh, you picked up on that; good. The metal is tempered also. Then it cools and rests." He was smiling. "Take My hand".

The handsome blacksmith waved at us. His smile was beautiful and his hair jostled a bit. He had long hair. He knew my name too.

Blacksmith: "Erin, we are praying for you."

I said thank you and we were gone in an instant. We were now on the bench in the back pool of my mountain Home. I smiled and laughed. I loved being here.

Jesus: "Do you understand a bit of what I have shown you, Erin?"

Me: "I am amazed, yes, but I need help to understand. The blacksmith here is good. The blacksmiths on Earth are hammering me. Here, he hammers metal. On Earth, he hammers me."

Jesus: "The blacksmiths are not the same. Do not be afraid. You have many friends here and the blacksmith is one here too. Now let's address your hammering and your obstacles. This is the Jubilee, right?"

Me: "I think so."

Jesus: "Yes, so this is good. We know you are loved. We know your children are citizens here, as are you and your friends. Now what? Hmm..."

Me: "Lord, my obstacles on Earth."

Jesus: He was smiling and joking with me. "Oh yes... so, let's review the tools of the blacksmith. This is a perfect pattern of warfare also. The metal gets heated up in a bloomery. So why?"

Me: "I am not sure why it is called that. A flower couldn't bloom there."

Jesus: "A flower is here today and gone tomorrow. This isn't lasting. Yet if you represent metal, this lasts correct?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "So, the metal blooms in the bloomery. Then it is turned and goes to the hard place, the anvil with the horn; interesting symbolism. Then the molten metal is pounded and shaped; hammered and hammered."

Me: "Jesus, I know what You are showing me and I understand. Is it okay if I do not like this? Because I am not going to lie and tell You I enjoy these trials; I just don't. I don't, so please have it stop."

Jesus: "Erin, this is your time to blossom. Your hammering is almost finished. Even blacksmiths have a saying, 'A job well done is never seen again'. This means that the quality of the craftsmanship is so good that their work will never break or crack under pressure. This is good. Once complete in you, you will lack nothing; so be of good cheer. Be glad you are that bloom."

Me: "Lord, I love You. You are remarkable. Once again, the Bible comes alive through You and You through it. Incredible, thank You, but what do I do about my current warfare and obstacles?"

Jesus: "Easy, give them to Me. Also, remember the enemy and his schemes. Understand that no weapon formed against you will prosper. This is good now. Remember that the enemy comes up and whispers in your ear."

"There is even a name for the insides of the ear, 'anvil and hammer'. This is no accident. Much punishment and afflictions come through our ears through harsh words. The mouth of the enemy speaks horrible things as if its mouth is a hot furnace of lies."

These lies go into you through your ears; the anvil and hammer. It can cause you to be 'hot tempered'. The brain is where things that the enemy does take shape. Do not allow the blacksmith in here, understand?"

Me: "Whoa, Lord, I never thought about this ever; amazing!"

Jesus: "Allow the Holy Spirit to squelch the enemy at your ear. Now, your current trials; give your worry to Me. This is good. Remember where the enemy originates from. Remember who originally brought down knowledge to train the blacksmith on Earth. Remember the enemy showed the Hittites."

You have been taught this. Now, where does the best blade metal come from? This is for weapons."

Me: "Lord, I do not know."

Jesus: "Damascus; this is where the enemy taught men to fold over the hot bloom compound, making metal even stronger. There is a hidden meaning here also to do with Israel. All things work together for good. Erin, remember, it is all fashioned for kingdom purposes."

He reached down and picked a budding flower. He handed it to me.

Jesus: "Erin, you are the bloom. Soon you will blossom. Soon you will reach your full potential. Please be encouraged. You will be removed from the hot furnace, the desert you have been in, and taken to a place far removed.

"The desert is where you blossomed. Your birthday this year was 40 months since moving to the desert. Yes, you stepped into the 'Promised Land' six months ago and did not realize it. Now, do not confuse this with the other 40 months I gave you. This is not the same."

Me: "Lord, this is amazing!"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, be encouraged. Please be happy. You are no longer in prison."

Me: "Lord, how do I get up and walk if You don't show me? How do I know You have unlocked the prison cells if I have not heard You, Lord? Show me the way. Lead me and my children far from here. Let Your Will be done, not mine."

Jesus: "Erin, I will. I love you."

Me: "I love You too, Lord."

Dream over...

Dream 086 – Garden of God & the Blacksmith

Saturday, September 21, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:54 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. I love You so much. You have done so much for me in just one year. How can this be? How can these miracles occur? Only You can do what You have done. I can claim nothing on my own. I have done nothing to deserve Your outpouring.

I have changed. I am forever ruined for an ordinary life. Lord, You have ruined me to exist here. When all looks bleak, You remind me of my Home in Heaven and the place near Your Altar. Surely, I am blessed.

Who are we to deserve a God like You? Who are we that You sent Jesus as a sacrifice for us; to correct all the wrongs and point us to You by the Cross? Who are we now to live in this time? I do not assume to know You, but, the only glimpse I have of this feverish love for us, is the love I have for my own children and friends.

This love makes me want to stand, fight, shelter and protect. It is all I know to do. Yet here I know that You even love me more. You call me at night whilst I sleep. You speak to my heart during the day. You correct me gently so as to not bruise me, but to instruct.

You gently guide me as a toddler learning to walk. You remind me to stay with You and not get ahead of myself. You shelter me in a safe place. You keep me in the cleft of the rock, from Your Mountain on high. You gently cover me and hold me close under Your wings. I love You so much.

In Psalm 27, You hide me in Your tent and keep me safe from my enemies. Lord, I love Your shelter more than any place here and I long for Your presence day and night. Thank You, Father, for the glory of Your presence.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

He is right at the portal to greet me with open arms. I run right to Him. I am around 25 years old.

Me: I was in tears. "Thank You, Jesus, for all You have done. I am so blessed in every way by You. I love You." My head was buried in the side of His chest.

Jesus: "I am glad you have come. You know you can come every day to see Me here. I am here to listen and show you great mysteries."

Me: "Lord, I am sorry. I have been so busy with life that it is hard to come to You sometimes. There are so many distractions that it seems that I cannot get to You. I miss You."

Jesus: "Erin, I am always with you. Please do not worry. Do not be dismayed. I know you are going through a lot. It is okay."

I looked at Him and He had an interesting smile on His face; an all-knowing look. He could tell I was studying Him.

Me: "Lord, You know things about me and what is coming, yet You smile. What is going to happen?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am not smiling because destruction is coming. Do you not know Me by now?" He was laughing and shaking His head.

Me: "Lord, all this stuff that is happening does not seem so funny. Please help me understand while You sit and laugh about it."

I was hurt. He reached over and gave me a hug around my shoulder with His arm.

Jesus: "At this point, you should know Me a bit better than this. I am not a mocker or spirit breaker. I am not, nor is My Father, deceptive to set you up for a fall and joke about it. However, I am smiling because I do see a different picture than you do.

"See, humans focus on their immediate circumstances; things that are local or around them, things that are visible in front of them. They fail to see the Creator. They fail to look up or focus on the horizon to put things in perspective.

"When you do not come to Me as much, then you tend to act on your own understanding. Remember, the enemy absolutely loves when you are distracted. If he can fill you with doubt and discouragement, he will. Your ear has an anvil and a hammer where all is fed into you."

Me: "Lord, forgive me for misspoken words to You and for failing to see how much You love me."

He takes my hand and immediately we are in a giant botanical garden. It was the Garden of God. I began to cry. It is the most beautiful spot in all of Heaven and Earth. Nothing compares to the beauty of this place; absolutely nothing.

I saw a beautiful forested path that had all manner of trees, bushes and greenery. Then I looked down and to my right and there was the massive banquet table and the beautiful Glass Conservatory. Beyond that were the Botanical Gardens.

It took my breath away. The scale of everything had changed and it was now scaled to my size. Before, everything was massive and I was small.

Me: "Oh Lord, this by far is the most beautiful place I have ever seen. It is so glorious. My cells and body react here just as if I am near the Throne in the Golden City. Why?"

Jesus: "This is easy. It is because God delights here. This is where God walks. You are standing where God has walked. You are on Holy Ground, Erin."

Immediately, I dropped to my knees. I became afraid God would see me and that I would not be appropriate.

Me: "Oh Lord, I have not honored Him. He will surely not ask me back here."

Jesus: He was laughing so hard. "Erin, you were invited. You are the King's daughter. You are welcome to walk here."

Me: "So, Lord, are we all free to walk about here when we come into Heaven?"

Jesus: "There will be times for special celebrations. This is God's personal 'yard' and His house is high up on the mountain. When you come here, you will change and you will be respectful. There will no longer be a sense of entitlement that humans have."

Me: "I do not understand what You are saying, Lord."

Jesus: "One day, God will form the new Earth and it will be as this; paradise. There, He will walk freely amongst you in fellowship. Until all of this is completed, He walks freely here and the mountain."

"He also resides on the Throne. So this here is by special invitation. It is not as if you can purchase a 'Day Use' ticket for three dollars and come here and roam freely."

Me: I was now laughing at this. "So, once we are in Heaven, will there be restricted areas?"

Jesus: "Well, yes and no. Let Me explain. Not everyone, upon arrival, will be ready for all parts of Heaven. At first, some will have permissions that others will not. Much of this is because of your walk on Earth."

Me: "I thought we did not earn things. 'Once saved, always saved' is very popular."

Jesus: "Okay, perfect example. Erin, when you saw the Tevah's arrive, did you notice a large first batch of them came, then there was a delay and then others came?"

Me: "Somewhat. They were very close together. My one son was delayed."

Jesus: "There was some reconciling to do. There is also an even later batch and another. There is a reason. This is hard to understand right now. There is a reason for your earthly trials. You are told to be thankful for your trials. Now, remember, it is not for you to ask why the trials, but what the trials are asking of you.

"Now, very few take the time to praise God during suffering and focus on things of Heaven. Instead, many focus on themselves; what their material resources can do or what their own strength can do to move them through the trials. This is a test of faith, which is a display of maturity.

"Those who let go and let God will experience the City here and walk the streets of gold to the Throne. Others will need to go through some training."

Me: "It seems that, when they get here, all will submit. Look at the joy when they all arrive."

Jesus: "This is true. All will eventually be ready to go before God, but not immediately. On Earth, Erin, you answered God's voice...finally. When you did not hear from Him on your timing, you kept at Him; never stopping." He was smiling and laughing.

Me: "I am sorry, Lord. I did not let up. I recited every promise out loud from the Word every day until Your ear turned and You showed mercy to me."

Jesus: "Yes, I know, but this was good. Do you realize that five years ago you would not have been ready for the first group of Tevahs?"

Me: "Really? I was saved. I was active at church. I looked to You. I recognized Your voice."

Jesus: "No, Erin, you would not have been ready for the very first group."

Me: "I would have been a Tribulation Saint? Seriously?" I was in tears.

Jesus: "No, Erin, you do not understand who is in the first grouping. Remember, I told you that none of your children go through the Tribulation, but that they reside here. Now, I have understanding. I want you to remember back when you saw a small Tevah in the mountains in the year 2000. Do you remember?"

Me: "Lord, yes. I had a desperate need. It was so severe and so shocking that only You could answer me. It was my turning point and the one part of my life where I was finished with the material world. I wanted to either be used or just forgotten.

"There was much more. I called upon You. I consumed no food or water for three days. You woke me up on the 73rd hour of my fast and told me to drink. It was early in the morning. I went down on my knees and cried out to You. I swore I would not drink until I heard from You.

"Then, instantly, I was caught up into the vision. I could not run from it. I was in it, but seemingly wide awake. In this, I was on a beautiful fast motorcycle. I was weaving in and out of traffic head on, going about eighty miles an hour.

"Around one corner, I clipped a branch on a gravel patch of the road. I saw before me, in the distance, the most incredible mountains. They were so majestic, like Whistler in Canada or other places I have seen on postcards.

"I looked and said, 'Oh, good, now I am going to see Jesus. He is on that mountain.'" Then my motorcycle lost all control. I could not get it back on the road. Just then, I went over a sharp drop on the pavement and I saw the pavement approaching my face.

"I had no helmet, but I was wearing riding leather. I was obviously reckless and arrogant. I died in my vision and was caught up to the mountain on a dock-type platform. The small Tevah pulled up and there were two men.

"These two men were ancient, yet young at the same time. I somehow recognized them as Enoch and Elijah. They spoke with no words, as if I was not there at first. They discussed that I was not ready. Then, they both turned to me and said, 'Erin, you must die to yourself first.'

"The other one said, 'You are of that world, not the things of God. To be here, you must die there. You will be here.' Then, immediately, I was back on my knees in my living room. I was disappointed. I wanted to hear from You."

Jesus: "Do you understand the significance of what you did? Erin, there are a billion people on Earth. You called Heaven and you met with Elijah and Enoch. Why did they come?"

Me: "I do not know as I asked for You, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, the material world veiled you. The enemy did his level best to keep you from your call. There is much more to this. Enoch and Elijah themselves knew in advance from God that you have a purpose and it was coming.

"Erin, you are able to help your friends and others who have been called to turn their ears to God, to dive into the Word of Truth, to tap into the Holy Spirit and to run after Me.

"Now, I know you were discouraged here, but what did you do? Did you run or did you recognize My still small voice?"

Me: "Then began the hammering. Lord, it was a slow, painful process; ridiculously unfair, really. You could have just scourged me and allowed me to hang on the Cross and get it over in one day."

Jesus: "Okay, but, at that point, would your death be beneficial? I think not. People would have been at your funeral saying nothing about your life of significance. I believe they would say, 'Too bad. She never really realized her potential.'

"You would not have given birth to your daughter and your sons would have grown up under a bad situation. Erin, Elijah and Enoch called in the blacksmith; your refiner. This is good."

Me: "I do not like the blacksmith. I much prefer the Potter." He was laughing.

Jesus: "I think both use a furnace, Erin. You are being silly. We will come back to this later. I will take you back to the little village. Now, let's have a look inside the Crystal Conservatory of God."

He took my hand and walked me down the most beautiful path. There were platinum cobblestones with saints' names etched into them. It had the earthly time period of their life and these were etched.

Me: "Lord, there is a date of birth, but no death period. What is the number next to them?"

Jesus: "That is years they walked on the Earth. Over here, this path is the path of current saints."

He showed me the gold path that my brick was on.

Me: "So, the platinum path are the saints who are dead?"

Jesus: "Yes...and no. The years of their Earth walk are listed, but they are free. They are not dead."

Me: "I am confused."

Jesus: "They no longer live and walk the Earth, understand? Those are their years of refinement."

I saw some with short years and some with long ones. It was interesting.

Me: "So, the first batch of Tevahs I saw was those of the saints from the graves. Did I die then? Oh...what of my youngest son and my daughter before you Raptured us; did they die?"

Jesus: "Erin, no. Look back to the Scriptures. Do you remember that, after My death on the Cross, the graves opened from a great earthquake? Do you remember about people being terrified? It was like an army. I was seen, at one point, with them."

Me: "Lord, is this in John 5:17-26?"

Jesus: "Erin, read the Scripture. There is present and continuing work of raising the dead and quickening them in 24-25 and the future work in 28-29. The hour is coming."

Me: "But, Lord, you are describing the spiritually dead, not the dead in graves, right?"

Jesus: "Yes, you are gaining understanding, but you must read the Scripture in full, not in part; John 6:39 to 44, as well as 54. Erin, John walked closest to Me. Look to, and have understanding from, those who walked with Me and were closest to me when I resided on Earth for answers to your questions.

“There is much about your Tevahs there and the order. Right now, I am not instructing you about Tevahs, but I am showing you the first call.”

Me: “I understand, Lord, that I was spiritually dead then. I gave my heart to You, but I was not worthy to be walking here.”

Jesus: “Now look where you will dine.”

I looked to the table where Jesus had served me and I remembered my place setting. Without realizing it, I had begun to cry.

Jesus: “Erin, why do you cry? Rejoice, you are dining at the King’s table in His Garden; the Garden of God.”

Me: “Lord, whatever trials You must have me endure, then fine. If I will not be lost and I dine here, then please keep sending them.”

Jesus: “You are almost finished. This I promised you. The major trials are almost complete. Now, let’s go inside.”

As we spoke, we walked along this incredible little path. It was lined perfectly with perfectly groomed boxwood hedges. There were fragrant, white ginger flowers coming from these hedges, unlike the strange, urine smell that earthly boxwood gives off.

Me: “Lord, this is all so beautiful.”

Jesus: “Erin, I heard your thoughts on the boxwood.” We were both laughing so hard.

Me: “Lord, I always forget that the Holy Spirit hears every thought too. Oh, goodness, thank You that my thoughts do not condemn me.”

Jesus: He was smiling. “Yes. However, take every thought captive before your tongue or your actions condemn you.”

Me: “So, I can still be condemned?”

Jesus: “Relax! Take your thoughts captive so the enemy does not gain a foothold in the battlefield and so that you are not led into temptation, understand? Temptation can lead to sin. Sin then lends the way to spiritual death unless there is repentance. Erin, these are the basics. Now, where am I taking you? Oh, yes...”

Just then, we walked through a glass crystal arch. The arch was seamless with no glass crystal seams, as if it were fused at the edges. The entire arch appeared to be hand blown. Inside the arch were glass blown bubbles in colors. These bubbles appeared to be moving inside the crystal. It was incredible.

We walked into the beautiful conservatory. All of a sudden, a symphony began to play. The sound in this palatial conservatory was incredible. It was Pachelbel in Canon D and the Divine Bittersweet symphony from the beginning of the dreams. This was amazing.

There were platforms and stories in this building of crystal. We were walking into the top level from the banquet reception area. There were so many flowers there. The air was so fragrant and so incredibly wonderful; it would be a scent worthy of God.

It was an aroma so incredible that I was driven to sobs. I did not say much as I had no words. My tears were speaking words. I saw flowers that did not exist on Earth. I saw colors that did not exist. The sound quality in this 'Crystal Riedel' palace was acoustical perfection.

Everything was so precise and perfect that I can barely write a description of this. If only all of you could see my thoughts and, through my eyes, understand fully what I am describing. Really, without seeing it, it would be impossible to draw a picture of this.

Me: "Lord, this is the most beautiful place I have ever been. I could live right here forever."

I was sobbing even as I wrote this and saw it. Jesus walked me to the balustrade of the top tier level. I looked over layer upon layer of flowers and, at the very bottom, was an orchestra of children. Children were playing the instruments.

There was a choir of angels there also. I cried. The song was so incredibly beautiful that every single cell in my body cried out. Each one responded as if there was a dance happening in my body. My heart was singing.

My hand must have been squeezing Jesus' hand tightly as He was laughing and squeezed my hand tightly, but still gently, back. I released His hand.

Me: "Oops, sorry, Lord."

Jesus took back my hand and smiled. This was just so like my Lord, Jesus. His eyes looked loving toward me, as always, even though also stern at rare times when I was lacking understanding through my words. Regardless, He always showed me love.

Me: "Lord, who are these children?"

Jesus: "Erin, look up the history of the conservatory. This is interesting. These are orphans, but God is here. Do they not make the most pure music? Is their tone and clarity not perfect?"

Me: "Lord, it is so superior to anything on Earth."

Jesus: "Children are not ruined by the world until they are forced to become like adults. Each of these orphans has stories that you would not be able to hear without great pain, Erin. It is more horrendous than you have ever heard.

"With these children, only God, the angels and demons know about what has happened to them. Of course, because of their extreme act of service, they now reside with God Himself and are a special group.

"Their music is so pleasing to God and so pure that even God is moved by them. They are so grateful to be here. You have a friend whom you have not met yet that is close to one of these. Yet even they did not know about the enemy.

"This will one day make sense, but, for now, this does not. It matters not except to show you a few things here. Erin, there is an aroma here pleasing to God and made especially for Him. There is music which is pure here. The anvil and hammer is not a factor here. Now look."

I looked down and there was the most amazing flower in front of me. The flower was like an Iris in color, yet it shimmered with gold as it danced with the music. I looked around and realized that all of the plants and flowers were dancing in waves of color; some were even changing colors.

The flowers even opened and closed to the music. I was crying. Jesus directed me back to this flower. It actually looked like a purplish blue lily. It smelled like jasmine and white ginger. It was like a hybrid of sorts, for lack of comparison. Regardless, it was the most beautiful flower I had ever seen.

Jesus: "Erin, is it not beautiful?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, incredible."

Jesus: "Erin, if God cares so much for these, will He not also care for you?"

Me: "Yes." I was crying heavily now. "Lord, there are no lilies like this on Earth."

Jesus: "Erin, there are definitely none like this on Earth, but there is also none like you on Earth. All of you are unique, Erin, and special to God. Now, I am going to take you back to the village."

He squeezed my hand and, instantly, we were back to the little beautiful village. I was in the middle of the cobblestone street of jasper. Back, and to my right, was the seamstress' shop. I looked back and she was standing out front. She was so beautiful. She smiled and waved.

Then Jesus pointed towards the blacksmith's shop and He took my hand. I looked back at the beautiful woman. She jokingly scolded me with a smile and pointed me to look forward, motioning with her hands to pay no attention to her, but to Jesus instead. I laughed and Jesus laughed too.

Me: "Lord, who is that? I am curious."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, it doesn't matter right now, but you two are friends. You will love spending time with her. She was a tough one, but, in time and through much, she came with the most humility. Now she resides here in Heaven. This is her mansion."

Me: "Lord, do You mean the whole village is hers? Does she live in the shop?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "No, she has a mansion, but this was her dream and what she loved. This little village consists of her family and friends, where they all fellowship and worship together."

Me: "It is quite beautiful and everything is state of the art. Nothing is old and antiqued."

Jesus: "Technology here is different and Heavenly."

Me: "Lord, why did she stitch by hand and not by machine?"

Jesus: "Yes, she could have something stitched by her command, but why would she want to do this? When machines were invented for things like sewing, were they not using models of humans to perfect the machine?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "Humans create by hand that which is pleasing to God. If man decides to fashion machines to model after this seamstress, then why would she want a machine? That would not be authentic. She is authentic and this is a craft. She can do things machines cannot. This is pleasing to God."

Me: "I see and understand."

Jesus: "Now the blacksmith."

We began to walk to the front door of his shop. I saw him take a bloom out of the bloomery and turn it. He was rolling the hot bloom. We walked inside this shop. I saw amazing work there. I saw bronze and iron gates. I saw baskets woven of bronze fit for God.

I wondered how they were used. I saw the same iron accents here that were also in my mountain Home. I saw these large, scrolled ribbons that were made into wall sconce lights. These were the base and there was a glass blower down the street that I bet made the glass.

Me: "Lord, this is beautiful work. I work with metal fabricators quite often and none is like this. This is amazing."

I then saw the handsome blacksmith smile. His teeth were so perfect and white that they were like snow or pearls. His arms glistened with sweat and they were quite muscular. He had veins that were prominent and I saw a scar on one of his arms.

I looked at the scar and then it suddenly disappeared. I found this really strange. I know that, in Heaven, all is perfected and only Jesus has visible scars. I rubbed my eyes and looked again. It was still gone.

I saw his piercing blue eyes and the whites matched his teeth. I noticed everyone in Heaven is taller than me, except maybe the seamstress. The blacksmith looked as if he had been working all day. However, he did not look tired at all, but quite relaxed and jovial.

He took pride in his work. He rolled the bloom of molten metal back and forth until a substance came off of it. It looked like sludge or blackened waste. Then he began to hammer and shape it. It began to cool and the metal was shaped around the anvil, which is shaped like a large horn. He was making another wall sconce.

Jesus: "Do you know what he removed?"

Me: "No. I'll guess he was removing impurities?"

Jesus: "Yes, dross. Dross is seen in Scripture quite often, just as lilies are mentioned. Erin, research both in the Word. This is good."

Me: "Lord, do you know it has been almost exactly one year to the week in which You began to speak to me? It was September 30th, 2012. Then the dreams began on October 7, 2012."

Jesus: "Yes, but what happened on September 23rd, 2012?"

Me: "I had finally had it. People were accusing me of being possessed by some demonic, victim spirit . So, I thought all of this was self-inflicted and an open door from the demonic."

Jesus: "Well, they were incorrect and many were furious that I began to use you. You do not know this, but many were convinced you were being led by demons. This was actually my process of removing the dross in this situation also.

"Remember, I removed the dross by not allowing the enemy to destroy your dreams. The enemy was not granted permission. God used the blacksmith. Do you remember?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. On September 30, 2012, You told me about the blacksmith."

Jesus: "Good, you remember. Now did I not also tell you this was your Jubilee year?"

Me: "Yes. I think You started it on September 30th, 2012. Then, if we use God's calendar, 360 days from then, right?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Others will help you with this. Erin, my point is now you can enjoy your freedom. You will have rest. You are ready for the call."

Me: "Lord, I have one more surgery left and this last one will require that You either perform a miracle or I will need a plastic surgeon. I would prefer You to make me like a lily."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, but now the cancer is removed there."

Me: "Why not heal me instantly? Certainly You could have as You are God and You are my healer."

Jesus: "Erin, is your life more than a scar here? Really? If man pays attention to that superficially, yet fails to see the battle that left it; well, then they are at risk of not arriving on any Tevah, right? Please let Me take care of you."

Me: "Lord, why this final stuff? It seems senseless to me."

Jesus: "Erin, remember earlier you were hurt because I see a different picture of you than you see?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "It has been a year; your Jubilee year. Erin, you walked in Heavenly places. You realized miracles. I showed you secrets in which you cannot reveal. You have seen your place. You are loved by the King. Rejoice! Rejoice!"

Me: "Lord, there is a discrepancy on this being my 50th or 51st year."

Jesus: "Erin, this does not matter. It is what I declare for you. Your dreams began September 2012 and you were 49. This is one year later and you are now 50. Can this be disputed? No, it cannot. Could it be any clearer? No, it cannot. I have spoken it.

"Now, go to Scripture for answers on Jubilee. Go to the Book of Jubilees if you wish. I only tell you the truth. Now, tell Me about the 'dross' of the final fear you had of cancer and dying from it."

Me: "Yes, it is not death which scares me; rather it is the fear of dying slowly and not reconciling all to You because I am diminishing."

Jesus: "Is not life about you becoming diminished? The more you diminish yourself, the more I can shine. With the dross removed, I can shine."

He looked at the blacksmith. The blacksmith had finished his scroll work. It was beautiful.

Jesus: "Well done. Nice work."

The blacksmith had the kindest eyes. They were so sincere. I saw tears in the corners of his eyes reflecting a level of pride and humility, both at the same time.

Blacksmith: "I am glad You like it."

Jesus: "There is none finer than you here."

I saw the blacksmith grab a white towel and wipe his eyes with it. He was a very strong and stout man with a face like Jesus. His smile lit up the room. As tears seemed to stream down his cheeks, he reached out with his hand and Jesus pulled him in for a hug and pat on the back. Jesus whispered something I could not hear to him. I heard the blacksmith's reply.

Blacksmith: "Thank You, Lord." The blacksmith then turned to speak to me. "Thank you, Miss Erin, for what you have done. You have healed and mended hearts."

Me: "You know me?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin. One day, you will see. For now, it is not important. You have many friends here in Heaven."

Me: "Lord, I am so blessed by You."

Jesus: "Erin, it is time to go today."

I waved to the blacksmith. He waved back with his handsome features. I giggled. I went outside and waved at the seamstress too. Jesus waved back to them both and then turned back to me.

Jesus: "Erin, you are now being prepared for what is next. This is good. I will restore you. Understand dross and lilies. Know that I will continue with you. I am always here for you, Erin. Do not worry when trouble comes. I will remove it, but you must give it to Me and surrender.

"Do not cling to illness, but cling to Me instead. All of this is to equip you. Find it pure joy when I am burning off dross. This is good. At least you are not beginning from the dregs. This is the bottom, whereas dross is the top.

"Erin, you have come a long way. Favor is upon you. Live as in Heaven. Live as a free prisoner. Live as a child of God and the daughter of the King. Remember, you are loved."

Me: "Lord, will You stop these dreams on September 30th, 2013?"

Jesus: "No, silly, I am here always. Are you ready for what is coming next?"

Me: "Yes, I think so."

Jesus: "Good. Then rejoice and find peace. I love you."

Dream over...

Dream 087 – The Arboretum

Sunday, September 29, 2013

08-09-2016, 03:58 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

I have never been so thankful to You. I am so overwhelmed with love for You, I just cannot contain it. Thank You! Thank You for all that I have. Maybe, from a worldly standpoint, I do not have much, but, because of You, I have gained the world.

Lord, I love You more than anything. I love You deeply and I meditate on Your Words. Your Words in the Bible sing to my Spirit. The joy of Your Words come alive for me. I know them even more deeply because You show me You are alive through them.

The Scripture now whispers to me and Your Words jump off the pages straight into my heart. Your Words are a lamp to light my path. Lord Jesus, You are my light and I am forever grateful for You.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

He is greeting me at the Portal today. I ran straight into His arms.

Me: "I love You, Jesus. I thank You so much for breathing life into me. I thank You for making my life into something useful. I thank You."

Jesus: "Erin, you are welcome."

He takes my hand and walks to the beautiful tree with fruit. The temperature is about 72 degrees. There is a slight breeze. The sun seems to come from everywhere, but I know that is because Jesus is with me. His light was shining on these glistening fruits. He reaches up for a fruit and then looks back at me.

Jesus: "Which one would you like today; a new one or one you have tasted before?"

He was smiling and laughing. He is always in such peace. Even when I sometimes irritate Him, He is always in control.

Jesus: "Erin, you do not irritate Me."

Me: I was laughing so hard. "Sheesh, Lord, I must hold all my thoughts captive as You can hear every one of them." He was laughing. "Lord, I notice You always comment and point out my errors when I think wrongly of You."

Jesus: "Erin, above all things, My love for you is so much greater than your mind can understand. You only understand the basics. Love is a much deeper concept. When you say I am irritated by you, do you really believe this?"

Me: "Lord, I have seen you angry. In the Scriptures, You flipped tables outside of the Temple."

Jesus: "Erin, yes, this is true, but for good reason. They did not walk with Me and made a mockery of My Father. This is referring to the religious; those who are spiritually dead. They lead others away from God, even breaking their own laws.

"However, and more importantly, they are not even adhering to the laws they have yoked others to in Scriptures. This angers God. What angers My Father also angers Me. This should also anger you.

"However, this is different. What you call 'irritating' is simply Me trying to instill in you My love for you. I am trying to reverse the damage the enemy has done here by your thinking.

"Understand that I can remove it in the blink of an eye, yet I prefer that, by your learning to love Me, that you might learn the truth about Who I am and how much you are loved."

Me: "Oh, please forgive me, Lord, for thinking badly of You. I can think of countless times where I have thought, 'Oh, surely now the Lord will open the ground and send me into the abyss.'"

Jesus: "Okay, this time I rebuke you. You are a child of God, not one of those. Please do not let your words be idle. Your expression can be condemned by your mouth. Do not allow yourself to be condemned by your words. This is a form of bondage. These are chains the blacksmith can forge to keep you tied."

Me: "I am so sorry, Lord. I joke and speak for You misguided thoughts all the time, so today I will tame my tongue. Please pick a fruit for this!"

He was laughing and shaking his head. He reached up and grabbed a fruit that looked translucent, like a giant grape. It was golden and I could see small veins and juice in it. It was beautiful. He grabbed two.

He bent over slightly, knowing the juice would pour out, so I mimicked Him while He took a bite. As we both bit into this, the juice burst out. It did not explode all over, but it did inside my mouth. It was incredible. I cannot even describe the flavor. It was Heavenly and wonderful, like every fruit juice here on Earth.

Me: "Lord, this is amazing."

Jesus: "Now, this fruit did not do as you expected, right?"

Me: "Yes. It surely looked like it would burst and go all over. Instead, it did the opposite of what I expected."

Jesus: "Remember this, Erin, this fruit is good. Take things into your mouth which are good. Let also those things which are good, like this fruit, come out of your mouth. The power of life and death are in your tongue.

"Therefore, speak life and blessings over your life, your children, your friends, your family and those you love. Words are powerful and are medicine with healing qualities, understand?"

Me: "Yes, Lord. Please help me here. I know You are preparing me for something, but, really, all of us. Please show me more of You so that I never doubt and I only see You and follow You. I only want to do Your Will in my life."

Jesus: "This is good. Part of doing My Will starts first with understanding Who I am and not misrepresenting Me."

Me: "Have I done this, Lord?"

Jesus: "No, but, in your thoughts, you wonder all the time if I am angry with you or punishing you for this or that. Do you not know Me by now?"

Me: "Pardon me, Lord..." I suddenly became very shy and quiet. "...but going through these trials, this 'cancer-dross stuff', as well as all of the stuff in my life, all of the bad trials have patterns.

"I am continuously battered. The enemy is granted permission. Now, forgive me for this, but I am going on my new understanding of Your love for me here..."

Jesus: "Go ahead, Erin, say it; out with it."

Me: "I meet with You in Heavenly places. I take communion with You every day. All my thoughts are constantly on You. You have called me friend. You have told me I am loved by the King and I have worth and that I am a daughter of the King, God, my God Who owns the cattle on a thousand hills.

"You have told me You love me, yet why? Why more stuff and all the trials? We have been over this before, but, at some point, when do I have a reprieve? I am to be finishing this race strong and I am to be joyful in suffering. I am to be able to trust fully in You, right?"

Jesus: "Oh, this is a lot of 'I am's for one little daughter of the King." He was smiling. "Come, take My hand."

Instantly, we are on the path going through God's Arboretum, the Garden of Trees. I stood there stunned as it happened so quickly.

Me: "See, Lord, You can do this in an instant. You could heal me, turn my life around and bless me in an instant. You could even make all the Israelites follow You and recognize You in an instant too...if You wanted."

Jesus: "Erin, you have a lot to say today." He was smiling. "I am glad you have taken this off your shoulders. Do you feel better?"

Me: "Not really, Lord, because I did not have answers to my questions."

Jesus: "Erin, in order to have a close relationship with Me, you must be honest, not withholding anything for fear I will allow the blacksmith's furnace to be turned up on a higher setting. What you have said about Me is also the dross which is on your mind about Me.

"I am a mystery because My ways are higher than yours and My thoughts are higher. Do you not understand Me by now? Do you not know your love and your worth by now? I am with you always.

"I will not stop coming after you because I love you. I want you to come to Me with all of this. You must come to Me with the good and the bad so that I can help you. You must remember to lay down all of your burdens, even those things that you are holding against Me.

"Now, why did I bring you here? Hmm, oh, that is right...I called you, Erin, you and your friends are here with Me. Anyone can come to me if they wish to know me more, but they choose not to. This is their choice.

"They can believe about Me the way I am truly in the Word or they can read parts and formulate their own opinion of Me. However, I cannot call them friends as they do not run after Me and spend time getting to know Me. You, Erin, have petitioned to know Me and you ran after Me."

Me: "Lord, I stalked You, I recited Your promises in Scriptures daily. I also cried, complained and became demanding of You."

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, you did. Then, finally, you gave up, remember?"

Me: "Yes, I finally said something like, 'I guess I am not worthy of hearing from You, so I will try to hear Your voice in my silence. You can say nothing and you can even make me deaf, but I will still love You.'"

Jesus: "Your heart was ready to learn. You were finally prepared to listen. This was your 'Job Moment'. Erin, this was one year ago, remember?"

Me: "Lord, You are right; it has been one year."

Jesus: "Now, look back; do you see it? Do you see what I did? Do you see how you were called from your cave in the desert? Did you see Me spoon-feed you?"

Me: I was in tears. "Lord, please forgive me. If it is Your will to test me further, and since I have surrendered to You, then who am I to question the Lord, Jesus, My God on the Throne, the King, even?"

"I am certainly worthy of a few more trials. I can certainly make it through these. You are my strong tower. You are my fortress. You are my shelter. You are my shield. You are my buckler. I love You so much. Who am I to question my Lord?"

I immediately knelt on a beautiful, golden brick path in the Garden of God. I put my face right over His feet and my hands on His sandals. I wept there. I noticed my tears were making His feet wet, so, with my long gold hair, I began to wipe them off.

My tears did not seem to stain His leather sandals. As my hair wiped the tears, I would see a small electric spark in my hair with each swipe. His feet were the most beautiful I had ever seen. They are a golden-bronze color, like His skin.

His skin is not white, but a beautiful golden bronze color. His toes are completely perfect. His nails looked like pearls of bronze and were hard to describe. I put my cheek on them and my eyes looked back on the path toward the huge glass Crystal Conservatory. I felt His hands pull me up. He was smiling, and looking right at me.

Jesus: "Erin, I was expecting you to pull out a bottle of perfume, but your tears are even better. Thank you."

Me: "Lord, You are so perfect. Your ways are perfect. Who am I to question You? Please, please forgive me."

Jesus: "Erin, you are forgiven. Now, are you ready to see some more of the Garden?"

Me: "Oh, yes, please."

He takes my hand and we begin to walk the path. There were golden cobblestones with names etched on them. We were walking northerly in relation to the conservatory. The path ahead was lined with trees.

This first area of the path contained large oaks, or something like oak trees. These trees lined the path perfectly and formed a beautiful, canopied arch over the path. The ground was lush with green grass and some flowers.

The air was fragrant. This path was breathtaking. I was so fascinated with everything I was observing along this beautiful path that I had not noticed we had gone some time without speaking.

Me: "Lord, do You spend a lot of time here?"

Jesus: "Yes, this Garden brings peace; watch. Erin, tell Me about the most beautiful tree you have ever seen."

Me: "Lord, there are so many actually. I love aspens. I love the white trunk. They maintain beauty even in winter. As a watercolorist, they create such drama in every season. I love pine trees too, though maples are also amazing. The leaves of maples have the most amazing colors in the fall."

Jesus: "Do you have memories of a tree?"

Me: I was thinking back. "I have two tree memories, but maybe there are more."

Jesus: "Explain the first and tell me about this."

Me: "I was five years old and my brother was three years old. We lived in Reno, Nevada on Bell Street. We had a huge yard. We lived in a very tiny, white house. There was an apple tree that I would climb. My brother could not climb, but I could.

"If we could get high enough, I could get an apple. My brother and I spent a lot of time in the yard. We were not allowed to come into the house; sometimes for hours. We even napped under the tree, but we always stayed in the yard."

I became quiet. This was not a happy memory. There were things that happened in that house.

Jesus: "I can tell you are troubled."

Me: "I was told that I could not possibly have a memory before I was nine years old. However, Lord, I remember so much. It is quite painful."

Jesus: "Erin, you and your brother were divinely protected. You even fell out of that tree and the angels assisted you every time."

Me: "Yes, I remember. The ground was hard. When I fell, no one heard. My brother did, but no one knew. I even flung myself out of that tree on purpose, but no one came." A tear rolled down my cheek as I thought back on these memories.

Jesus: "There is more and I know all of it. This was a difficult time for you. The enemy was roaring in full force here."

Me: "Yes, my real dad had left and he never came back."

Jesus: "Erin, it is okay. You were under God's protection from the womb and even before. Here..." He waved His arm "...Erin's apple tree."

Then, right before me, appeared this familiar tree from my childhood, even with its twisted trunk. However, here in Heaven, it was now beautifully made; lush and perfect. The trunk had silver accents. I ran off the path and right over to that tree. I had not seen this tree for 44 years, but here it was.

Immediately, I began to climb it. For each one of my steps up the tree, my feet knew on their own where to place themselves. The tree seemed so small compared to when I was little.

I sat and put my cheek on the large trunk branch. I put my ear up to it since I believed, when I was a child, that I could hear the tree talking. I put my ear over the part that I leaned on as a child. I thought I heard the tree whisper and say something to me.

Me: “Lord, did I hear something?”

Jesus: “Listen closely.”

I heard the tree. It told me that it was glad I returned to climb. It said it missed me and my brother, but it was glad I came Home. I began to openly weep. As I write, I am weeping openly. I sat there awhile and listened to that tree.

Jesus: “Erin, are you okay?”

Me: “No, Lord, it makes me sad. I am so glad to be here and see this tree, but my childhood was not a joyful one. My pain runs deep. Years later, we drove by this home and the tree was cut down. Thank You for bringing this here. I had no idea I was so fond of this tree.”

Jesus: “There is much to see. Do not dwell on what once happened. Remember where you and even this tree reside. This is good. Erin, one day you can bring your children here, and even your brother, to see the apple tree perfected and certainly alive. Now, listen one more time. Then I have more to share.”

I placed my ear back on the trunk and the tree told me that it loved my laugh. It said it was so glad to see me and that I have the same angels with me today as when I was five and seven. It said, “Erin, please take an apple from my branches.”

I was crying like a baby. I reached up and took a beautiful red apple, completely perfected. I gave the trunk a kiss and I climbed down. There was a beautiful, golden glow on the tree and around it. I was so glad it was here. I told the tree that, someday, I would be back.

The branches seemed to wave. Tears were streaming down my cheeks. I reached down and took a bite of the apple. The apple was perfect; completely perfected. I ran back to Jesus so He could taste this. He took a bite and was smiling.

Me: “It is good, right?”

Jesus: “Yes, Erin, very good fruit. I know that fruit with bad memories does not taste the best, but I pray now that, when you take a bite, it will no longer be bitter fruit and bitter memories.”

Me: “Lord, this was hard because I realized that my parent might never be here. I felt like an orphan much of my childhood, yet, because my mom was one and was adopted, she experienced much worse so she did not know about how to be a mom."

Jesus: "Erin, please do not make excuses. Release your parents to Me. This is all you can do. Let Me take this burden. I remember everything. Every hair on your head is counted for. This means every memory, too. The Garden is also a place of healing and new growth."

Just then, a warm breeze, like summer, began to blow. The trees and greenery were so lush.

Me: "Lord, there is everything here. It is so beautiful."

I saw butterflies of every color. I saw dragonflies, lady bugs and some other colorful beetles in rainbow shades. Some had golden shells and looked like jewels. They made a humming sound, like music.

Jesus: "Look, Erin."

He then spoke the word 'Evening' and the trees were instantly illuminated. There were fireflies and beautiful, illuminated leaves of every color. The crickets sang and I heard birds singing. I heard a choir of angels.

I began to cry as this was the most beautiful sight I had ever seen. As we walked, I saw cypress trees with Spanish moss that formed green lanterns of light. I saw everything worship Jesus. It was all so alive in color and shapes, sounds and smells. I am ruined for the ordinary.

Jesus then spoke the word "Morning" and then, suddenly, it was cool and the sky was now dawn. The dew on the grass was a shimmering silver and opal. The smells were incredible. It was a perfume which could not be captured in a bottle.

Me: "Oh, Lord, You speak and everything obeys You. The branches of these trees bend toward You as You walk. They all bow and worship You. This is incredible. This is surely like the Garden of Eden."

Jesus: "Actually, this is much better. God has added species and perfected things here. There is no need for snakes or foreign objects. There are no 'temptations' in Heaven. This is perfect."

I could tell that He seemed so content in, and with, this Garden.

Me: "Lord, Your face lights up when You walk here. You really love it here."

Jesus: "Yes, I suppose I do." He was smiling. "Erin, I love walking with you here. It is fun to see you have joy walking down this path."

Me: "Lord, this is by far the easiest path I have walked. I am not alone. You are here with me. I am so blessed."

Jesus: "Now, what season is your favorite?"

Me: "Oh, I love spring, but fall is so pretty."

Jesus: "Fall it is."

Then, right before my eyes, were every color of deciduous tree. I saw maple, birch, oak, elm, aspen, walnut, pecan, almond, cherry and apple. Each one had a different color. I smelled eucalyptus in the background. It was amazing.

The sky turned to 'crisp' autumn; blue and crystal clear. There was a slight coolness to the air, but it was perfect. There were squirrels running to grab pecans and walnuts. They chased each other and rolled around. I saw flying squirrels too and I heard birds singing.

There was a river that ran next to the path we walked. I knew it was the River of Life. We walked over to it and Jesus cupped His hands and took a drink. I did too. The stones in the bottom of the river bed were every type of gem. It was breathtaking.

I saw large rainbow trout in the crystal clear river and began to cry. Jesus pointed ahead and there was a beautiful lake the river streamed into. As we walked, sporadically, I would begin to cry.

Jesus: "Do you like it here, Erin?"

Me: "Oh Lord, it is Paradise. I am close to You here and so blessed by Your presence. I never want to leave. I have never walked with You like this. I am so amazed by You. I love You, Lord."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, you have walked with Me for many years. I have been here right beside you, but You just did not recognize that I was there."

Me: "Forgive me for failing to see You for how amazing You really are. There is none like You, Lord. Who are You that You can command light and seasons? You are the God of impossible miracles." I began to cry.

Jesus: He reached over to hug me. "Soon, you will be here and we can have communion here daily. We can speak."

Me: "Lord, this will be glorious. I might be struggling on Earth and poor there, but, here, I am wealthy and surely to be in the presence of such a King. Lord, I would not trade one trial if it meant I would be in communion directly with You. I am blessed to have You with me. I love You more and more every day."

Jesus: "All things are in due season. There is a purpose for everything you are experiencing. With each new season comes another; one fades and another begins. After fall, there is winter; a time of sleeping, not death. I'll show you."

Immediately, the snow began to fall. The snowflakes were huge; about five inches around and each with a unique design. Each shined like crystals and cut glass. They were absolutely incredible.

Each branch of every tree was covered with snow, but each tree illuminated a different color so that the snow on the branches became that color. The path we were on was never covered with snow so the bricks of saints could still be read.

It was funny as not one thing came between Jesus and His feet on that path of saints. He could always see the names etched there. I realized that this also meant that nothing could come between Christ and His love for us; absolutely nothing.

Jesus: "What do you think?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am so glad there are seasons in Heaven. I thought the Garden of Eden maintained one temperature, was watered with ground mist and had a cloud canopy over it to keep it lush?"

Jesus: "Yes, you are speaking from Genesis. You are going back to the beginning. This too is good. You will find the same examples as in Heaven, only there will be no tests, temptations or sins. You have now gone through the trials and you will stay on the path.

"When you finally arrive, you will be so glad to be here, you simply would not dare, or even think to, defy instructions. There will be no need to even think this way. You will have so much joy.

"Those who have arrived and did not expect to be here will stand in amazement. There will be much to do, and a different process, but all will not be invited here. Now, are you ready for spring?"

Me: "Oh yes, please."

I was jumping up and down. The snow melted and there were blossoms everywhere. It was so beautiful. There was dogwood, magnolias, figs, olives, gardenias and cherry blossoms; so much, it was incredible.

We were now at the lake and there were babies everywhere. Baby birds were chirping. Rabbits and bunnies were hopping around. None of the animals or birds had any fear of being eaten.

There were ducklings on the lake, as well as other little animals. They seemed to all be singing. It was so funny. They made little sounds and formed a singing choir.

Up ahead, I heard music. I saw the conservatory and heard the symphony of orphans playing.

Me: "Lord, we came full circle? How is that possible?" He was smiling at what I had said. "Oh, of course it is possible."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, you will go through some more seasons, and even up to a full cycle, but you will not go back the same way you have come. Once you arrive here, you will be transformed. It is a time away."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord. You brought me through each season. Are You one year away from coming?"

Jesus: "You are told to look for signs when summer is near. Did you see signs?"

Me: "Yes; every year, more and more."

Jesus: "What did I show you today? Give me the order."

Me: "You started with summer, then fall, then winter and then spring."

Jesus: "Okay, but I also showed you evening and dawn."

Me: "It is too much of a mystery. I have no idea."

Jesus: "On Earth, has summer passed?"

Me: "It depends on where you live, but, yes, for us, it has and falls right now."

Jesus: "So, perhaps this is not the pattern of seasons. Maybe this is for another time."

Me: "Lord, please be more clear."

Jesus: "Erin, I have told you that you will know. Did you see the events happen that must occur first?"

Me: "No, they have not."

Jesus: "Then perhaps this is your sign for patience. Do you want to continue on your journey with Me?"

Me: "Oh yes, of course. I would just like some help with this."

Jesus: "Erin, when the season is upon you, you will know and will have no doubt. Your prayers and speculations will not bring about my Father's actions. These actions come in due time and process. Please be patient.

"Things will not be as expected, but this too is good. Please rejoice and be at peace. These Words are pure; purified seven times, like silver tried in a furnace on Earth.

"Erin, surely goodness and loving kindness will pursue you and remember you dwell here. You are loved. The secrets of the Lord are with those who revere Me (Psalms 103), understand? Erin, walk in truth and stay on the path."

Me: "Lord, when I read Psalms now, after what You have shown me, I weep. Psalms 103 and 139 brings me to my knees."

Jesus: "Erin, while you are reading, remember Psalms 23 and 45. Do not forget. Now, be encouraged. Everything will come in due season; not prior and not later, but right on time. Do not try to declare dates or proclaim them.

"However, do keep watch and speculate as this is good and keeps you sharp. You will know in advance of My coming. Live in the meantime.

"If I come next season, or the season after, what does this matter? Prepare your household. Prepare your hearts to receive that which is good. A Father always gives good gifts to His children."

I could still tell He had so much more to show me here, and soon...

Dream over...

Dream 088 – Psalm 23

Saturday, October 5, 2013

08-09-2016, 04:04 PM

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for bringing me through this time of trouble. I know You are not yet finished, but I can feel Your presence upon me. I had felt something that was only for a small period of time in January and February, but now I feel Your mantle upon me this very day and the divine blanket from You again.

With tears this morning, I thank You for showing me so much divine love that I can scarcely write. No earthly words can even contain one ounce of Your divine love and I am so humbled by Your presence today.

My children are away this weekend, my house is in shambles and my physical body is battered. I was feeling exhausted when I awoke last night in a panic about all that I saw coming. I then heard You talking to me in a gentle voice.

Jesus: "Erin, I am here with you. Do not worry. Will I not deliver you from all of your troubles or just a portion of them? Do not take on any portion, but give this also to Me. I will deliver you in whole, not in part. Will I only complete half of the good work? Who am I that I would be a God of halfway?"

I found myself drifting back to sleep with a smile on my face as I talked to Him.

Me: "Thank You, Jesus, for You are the God of the impossible and the God of complete work. I thank You that You take special time with me. Thank You, Lord, that You are with me during all the watches of the night. Thank You for answering my cries, even in the darkness. I hear You when You say to me, 'Erin, this is the way; walk in this.' I then hear Your voice and I know You are here in my heart."

I drifted off into a dream...

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Today, I was eight years old again. I had not been young like this for quite a while so I was excited. Jesus was sitting on the rock and an angel was handing Him a platter. I started into a full sprint right from the Portal straight to Him.

I had barely given Him enough time to stand up from the rock to greet me. I almost knocked Him over as I gave Him a big hug around His waist. His face lit up as I hugged Him.

Me: "Oh Hayah, I am so glad to see You."

Jesus: "Erin, I am so glad to see you."

Me: "Thank You for calling me here today."

Jesus: He was laughing and teasing me. "Oh, did I call you or did you call Me?"

Me: "It does not matter, but You are right, it was probably me."

Jesus: "Erin, you seem very happy today. What is going on with you?"

Me: "Lord, You are kidding with me as I know that You already know. You are curing me of the stuff in my body which wanted to kill me. You are healing me though it is a bit slow."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Oh, you are acting as if the cancer has a mind of its own."

Me: "Well, yes, it kind of does. It is like an invading army into a peaceful land."

Jesus: "Oh, was your land peaceful?"

Me: I was laughing and shaking my head. "No, Lord, it was not. My body is not like it is here in Heaven. On Earth, it is dying, old and saggy."

Jesus: "Wow, little one, you are painting a grim picture of yourself. We will come back to invading armies later, but right now you seem to lack color here."

He pulled out a beautiful pewter platter and it was one of the prettiest pieces of pewter I had ever seen. I saw story images printed on it. I saw a shepherd and some sheep by a tree. However, the scene at the end of the platter was blocked by fruit.

On the platter were sliced fruits of every kind. They looked like sugar encrusted fruit or candied fruit with the small sugar crystals seeming to catch the light.

Me: "Oh, can I have one?"

Jesus: Laughing. "Am I a cruel God that I would bring you all the way up here and not allow you to sample the tray of beautiful fruit? Yes, this is for us to share."

I took something which looked like a red candied apple. I took a bite of it and the outer shell was cinnamon and spices over a type of apple. When I bit, it cracked and then in my mouth I systematically could taste every flavor. I even tasted something like butter.

Immediately, I wanted more. With each selection, I asked Jesus to pick the matching one to mine so that we could experience the flavors together at the same time.

Me: "Again, again! Can I have another?"

He was delighted by my exuberance. I surveyed the lot on the platter and I saw something that looked like a berry; perhaps it was a strawberry. It was dipped in chocolate and it had something like candied crunch sprinkles.

I picked it up, examined it briefly and then I plopped the entire fruit into my mouth. Oh my goodness, wow! Jesus was laughing as He could tell I loved the taste of these.

Me: "Wow, this is the most incredible thing I have ever tasted." I began to cry.

Jesus: "What is wrong, little one?"

Me: "Lord, I am excited that there are things like this here. I never imagined something like this and I want my children to try these as they simply must. Lord, if You went down to Earth with this platter of Heavenly treats, people would be saved and follow You around based on these alone."

He was laughing so hard. Even the angels off to my right side seemed to chuckle at this statement.

Jesus: "Sadly, wee one, you are probably right. I should have gone to Israel years ago with a platter of these and I probably would have gained some followers."

Me: "No, Lord, forgive me, they still would have jumped You on Earth, stolen the treats, sold the platter and then left You for dead. They still would not have seen You as the 'giver of good gifts'."

Jesus: Still smiling. "Yes, Erin, you are correct. Once the treats were gone, there would be no memory of them or Me."

I then turned to look at the platter again. As I did, I tilted my head a bit in wonderment as I noticed the platter had a story on it. I noticed that one of the fruits off to the right looked as if it were on the edge of the platter and was far from the other fruit.

Curiosity got the best of me and I picked up the 'lonely' fruit. Under the fruit was a small lamb that was alone and off from the others and looked sad. As I looked down at the platter, the stamped images suddenly became animated.

I saw the shepherd running after the little lamb and my jaw dropped as I watched the platter move in a story. With the candied fruit in one hand, I rubbed my eyes with the top of my hands to make sure I was not 'seeing things'. I heard the Lord laugh at this.

Jesus: "Erin, are you not going to eat your fruit? It is good."

I saw Him pop the fruit slice into His mouth. I looked back down at the platter and the figures were standing still. I saw the Shepherd holding the lamb in His arms and cradling it. The lamb looked at Him with relief and love.

Tears were streaming down my cheeks as I became relieved for the lamb. I then put another fruit into my mouth. Amazing; my eyes got so big as the taste in my mouth was a cross between a dried apricot and a peach. However, I could also taste various layers of crème Brule, caramel and a coating of burnt sugar.

I had never tasted anything so amazing in my mouth. Unlike on Earth, each flavor told a story and here in Heaven my mouth tasted the fruit first and then the outer layers surrounding it. This would be impossible on Earth.

Me: "Lord, how can I taste the fruit first if it is coated in all of these wonderful flavors? This seems to be reversed on Earth."

Jesus: "Oh, you caught this! Yes, on Earth you search through the layers to get to the center and the main attraction. However, in Heaven the center is the beginning and then you enjoy the layers. Erin, you just discovered a hidden parable of sorts."

Me: "Oftentimes on Earth I would bite into something and the layers were tastier than the center and I was left wanting more. However, this is simply wow right from the beginning and seems to work backwards. This has perfect taste as I do not miss a single flavor, but instead can truly enjoy the whole thing."

Jesus: "This is how it was originally intended. Remember, the Garden was the center of Earth, but really God is always the center. God walked closely with man back then. Indeed, God was freely walking amongst Adam and Eve in the Garden as God is always at the center of all things."

Me: "Lord, now we struggle because we must cut through the layers of life and trials to get to You. Sometimes it even seems that You are not even there."

Jesus: He became serious, though still light-hearted. "Erin, I am always there and I am always with you. Who resides in your heart?"

Me: I put my hand over my heart. "Lord, You do and You are in me."

Jesus: "Am I not in the very center of you then?"

Me: I was laughing as I knew He had 'got me' on this one. "Yes, Lord, but my layers are not as tasty."

Jesus: He was smiling and shaking His head from side to side. "Oh, little one, you are making Me delight in your presence. You are even making the angels smile today."

Me: "Lord, I must have made them frown recently as I know my faith has been weak. They are probably tired of my worries. In light of my time with You, they must have grown really exhausted by me."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, this is nonsense as they have a job to do and assignments. They are warriors and soldiers and wait for orders which come from the Courts. They are activated in your life and they do an immense work for My Father. They do not sleep when you do, understand?"

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, for I am wrong in my thinking. Lord, You are good and since the angels work on Your command they too must be good."

Jesus: "Erin, let's go back to layers as there are dual meanings with layers. Heaven has many layers and so does the Earth. However, the two are the reverse of each other wherein Heaven is perfected and the Earth is certainly not perfected."

"On Earth, there is a constant struggle and an imbalance and angels are activated to cut through the enemy lines. On Earth, there are layers and layers of unbelief and the victory only comes when the unbelief is removed and God is revealed as the center of all Creation.

"All tongues will eventually confess that God is the center with their mouths. You know what this is like as your body will confess it as well as every cell at the center even before your own head catches up to it."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I remember I had no control over my cells at the Throne of God. My cells bowed down and confessed. The center of my body and my own blood even knew Him before my own will could command it."

Jesus: "It is physically impossible not to come before the Throne of God without confessing with your mouth that He is God and buckling or bowing down before Him. This is good, right?"

Me: "Lord, if people knew how powerful God is, they would never go their own ways."

Jesus: He smiled and looked at me. "Yes, but God must be the center first and God must be the very first flavor you taste." "Then you can begin to bite through the layers that prevent you from tasting the fruit of God. Now come, I have something fun to show you."

He set the pewter platter down and pointed to it for me to look at. The handles were of carved acacia and I saw that the carvings were so intricate as to be both geometric and perfect. This acacia wood was supposedly the wood in which the Cross of the Crucifixion was made from.

The grain of this had a patina of shimmering golden honey and was truly like nothing I had ever seen before. The wood seemed to still be alive, yet it was old. The pattern was almost like a Greek key pattern.

However, this platter was clearly not machine made as no machine could produce something like this. Well, perhaps one that was laser cut could, but I knew that this just had to be made by hand. It was both incredible and impossible at the same time.

Jesus: "Erin, are you looking at the story on the platter or the hands holding it?"

I realized the handles formed into hands. He was laughing when He saw that I finally noticed this incredible detail.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord, I just have never seen something so magnificent before."

Jesus: "Yes, you have, Erin. Remember the village you previously visited? This village has many artisans just as gifted and there are many more like them all over Heaven. Indeed, this platter was made by a whitesmith and a carver working together and they were delighted by the commission of this just earlier today."

Me: "So, this platter was commissioned by You just to serve me this fruit today? Wow, I am not worthy of such finery, Lord, as who am I?"

Jesus: Laughing, He put His hand on His forehead and jokingly looked up at Heaven. "Oh, Erin, do you really still not know your place by now? Oh Father, what more must I do here?"

Me: "Oh, Lord, You are joking! Okay, I am sorry."

Jesus: "Erin, Heaven is about worship and great care is taken to serve each other. By doing this, you are giving your whole heart to God. By your loving craftsmanship, you are worshipping the King as serving is another form of love. Through giving, you honor God and He delights in this."

"Remember that everything in Heaven is done well because hearts are willing and good. The candied fruits were also handmade by a confectionary artist. This is another specialist and another form of worship."

Me: "Oh yes, Hayah, when I bit into these, I certainly praised You and so did my cells on my tongue. I just had no idea that we would have such wonderful things here."

Jesus: Laughing. "Yes, Erin, but you must always start from the beginning."

An angel came over from my right with a beautiful Bible. The Bible was opened to Genesis 1:1 and the words illuminated as the angel pointed to the open page: 'In the beginning, God created the Heavens and the Earth.'

Just then, another angel brought the Jewish Tanakh and opened it to Genesis. The following Words illuminated in silver liquid, like mercury: 'When God began to create Heaven and Earth...'

Me: "Lord, everything begins with God."

Jesus: "Yes, you are correct as the beginning was God. As such, He then should be at the very core of all we do, right?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, He has earned the right to be since He is God and it is only fair."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Now you have some understanding. Now come along as I am going to take you somewhere special now."

He reached for my hand and squeezed it gently. As He looked into my eyes, we instantly were in the Garden of God. We were standing on the golden brick path over my name.

Me: "Hayah, there I am and there is my name! I am so excited to see these bricks again as they are so pretty."

There in the center of the path was cobblestone brick made of shining bronze and gold. The cobblestone was framed by meticulously groomed and cut grass. Then I looked ahead where the dry patch was on my last visit. However, I noticed that this time the dry patch was beginning to become green.

As I looked around, I saw that indeed all of the desert patches were starting to be overtaken by lush growth. I saw ahead and off to the side a small lake and that the water was calm as glass. The River of Life was feeding into it.

Beyond that, there were pastures of green with various rare beautiful stone outcroppings coming out of the ground. They seemed to form places to either sit or pray to God.

This was all so beautiful and reminded me of several of the very best places I have been on Earth combined. However, these were just small pieces of paradise compared to these in Heaven. I felt at peace while being near these Heavenly places.

Me: "Lord, could You please bottle some of this up and release them on Earth to give us small glimmers of Heaven?"

Jesus: "You have a memory of these because they did have a relationship. When you would experience things on Earth that gave you closeness to God, a pleasant memory or a snippet of smells and sights which evoke feelings or longings, this is because Earth is a small shadow of Heavenly things.

"Your longings on Earth are because the Holy Spirit has a relationship with Heaven. You are experiencing a slice of Heaven just as you experienced slices of fruit today that were Heavenly in origin. Earth imitates Heaven, but it pales in comparison."

Me: "Lord, do You know that I do not even like candied fruit? Yet when I tasted these candied fruit in Heaven, they were perfect."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Why did you taste it then?"

Me: "Because I know that Heaven is perfect and therefore I knew I would love them. They were perfect and not too sweet, but just Heavenly balanced. Lord, You already knew that I did not like candied fruit on Earth, but You made these so beautiful, how could a child resist trying them?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "You are right so it is good that these candied fruits are from Heaven. Erin, do you recognize this place and see what is happening here now?"

Me: "Yes. It is where I walked before, but it is now growing green again. I am so glad as before it did not look like it belonged in God's Garden or even Heaven at all."

Jesus: "The desert is not typical in Heaven nor is the adverse things that result from the desert. You are right that barren land is out of character for Heavenly places. Why do you believe these dry patches were allowed by God?"

Me: "In Heaven, we do not forget where we came from as everything here makes me worship God so much and love You as well. You show me the Promised Land here and You remind me that I was born of dust on Earth and there I return if I do not love You and God with my whole heart and soul."

Jesus: He smiled and seemed proud of my answer. "You are right of course, but some sleep in the dirt."

Me: "Are You speaking of the dead, Lord? Who are the dead who rise? There are people here..."

Jesus: "There are things you do not understand fully yet. This will one day make sense. Yes, you have seen people who have gone before you here in Heaven and this is true, but you are missing some parts of the mystery. When, finally, I am called to come for you, you will understand this mystery fully.

"Be encouraged though because those reconciled to Me are not asleep in the dirt but instead they are here in Paradise. Erin, be forewarned that you are not to listen to those who reference Paradise with a portion of Hades as this is the truth only in part. One has only to study the full Gospels to see the truth from My very mouth."

Me: "Lord, You are being very serious all of sudden. This is exactly what some people say to me when I tell them that Heaven is like Paradise, but greater than an earthly copy. In comparison, 'paradise' is a vacation spot on Earth that has all the amenities, good food and beautiful scenery.

"It is plentiful and you never want to leave, but Heavenly Paradise has You and therefore Heaven has so much more. Heaven is better and greater than our own imaginations can even conceive it to be. I am often rebuked by theologians who claim that Paradise is in the underworld, but this just never seemed right to me at all"

Jesus: "Erin, when I was on the Cross, did I say to the thief next to Me, 'Today you will join Me in Paradise, a section of Hell. I have the keys and there I will leave you where you belong?' No, instead I said, 'Today you will join me in Paradise!' So, what was I talking about then? Am I a liar that the thief that called to Me would not be here in Heaven?"

Me: "Oh no, Lord, are You mad at me?"

Jesus: Smiling. "No, Erin, I am not mad at You at all. However, I am bothered when people think with no understanding. They have to look at the patterns in order to solve the puzzle. Tell Me, Erin, what do you think?"

Me: "Well, Lord, I will do this with simple thinking as a child. What You say is what You say and You make it plain when You speak or write so that even I can understand and this I now know.

"I also know that You like patterns, just like the handle was carved like a hand and had an amazing platter. I knew it was from Heaven and not from Earth. A handle also represents a hand so a hand is for holding another hand and a handle is made for a hand to hold. This seemed simple and in plain sight.

"Okay, so, Jonah was in the belly of the whale for three days when the whale finally spit him out. Jonah now also had the keys to turn all those Ninevites towards God. However, Jonah had to first be reconciled towards God in the belly of the whale before He used him.

"With You, You suffered the very worst of deaths. Then You were in the tomb for three days where You were dead, but not really dead. While no one saw You on Earth during this time, You were actually very busy doing anything but sleeping. You went down with the keys to let out certain of the 'prisoners' below.

"You had these 'prisoners' in an area in the belly of the Earth that was near Hell, but not Hell. You now had power over death, so You took those who were below ground and You raised them up. Some graves were opened after the earthquake and the dead arose.

"You then took all those who had died up to Heaven with You, which is the true Paradise. Again I am just a child, but I see You being like a 'knight in shining armor' saving all of those who wondered if and when You would come. Lord, there are days I feel like this too as I sometimes feel like a Christian Earth 'zombie Bride' waiting for my King Jesus to rescue me."

Jesus: He was laughing so hard. "Oh, Erin, I must say I have a soft spot for you. I enjoy that you trust Me enough to know I love you and that I will not open the ground and throw you in. You fear Me, but you are not afraid of Me because I love you and you know it."

Tears were streaming down my cheeks as I released my hand from His in order to hug Him.

Me: "I just love You so much, Jesus, please never leave me or forsake me."

Jesus: "Oh, Erin, I will not. Now tell Me some more about these patterns."

As we are talking together, we continue to walk down the path in God's Garden.

Me: "Well, if Jonah's three days was a pattern and then there was Your three days, then there must be another 'three day pattern' coming, right?"

Jesus: "You are very wise and that was a very good observation. Now let's see what this would mean? Do you have any ideas?"

Me: "Hmm, I will guess, however this is just a guess though. What if You see the Earth as a belly once the fallen comes out of it? If we must mingle with them until You rescue us, then we would be dealing with them in darkness for three days, but we would not be dead. Instead, we will supernaturally be shining like beacons of light to shine for those who are lost.

"We will then tell all of those who are searching where to find You. Then some might turn and come with us to You when You meet us in the sky. You will then come and take us to Heaven, the true Paradise. Then I think You will send a few of us to witness to the Tribulation Saints so they might know You too? Could this be possible, Jesus?"

Jesus: "Erin, when you say darkness, what do you mean?"

Me: "Lord, I do not know, but I do know that Jonah was in a dark whale belly for three days. Similarly, You felt forsaken by God and were dead or away for three days. Then You came back and appeared for forty days before ascending to Heaven permanently, so really I am not sure what this means?"

Jesus: "Well, what was the possible pattern in what you just said? What if, for those three days, you instead were given gifts and training and then you appeared for forty days to minister to the lost?"

Me: "Well, I know that You will make it the best pattern and You will make us all very happy as You will make all the arrangements."

Jesus: "Erin, you are wise as a child. Do you realize what you just said? You deferred to Me and My Will, not your own will. This is very good. Now where were we? Look where we were walking."

I noticed we were now next to the perfectly still lake and that beyond this were the pastures of green.

Me: "Lord, this is from the Bible (Psalm 23)."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin. While we went in reverse order, where are we now?"

I was laughing because He knew where we were. There is a flock of perfect sheep with black ears right in front of us. The wool on these sheep were whiter than snow and I could see that these were perfect sheep and like nothing I have ever seen on Earth. I was running around with the sheep, but they did not run from me and instead let me hug and kiss them.

Me: "Lord, these sheep are beautiful and incredible really. Lord, they run around everywhere here it seems"

Jesus: "Well, these sheep have no worry of the wolves here in Heaven. They are safe to lie down in green pastures as this Garden is safe for all."

All of a sudden, He whistled a firm 'wolf whistle' and the sheep immediately ran and gathered up as a flock in a perfect circle. They then all laid down before Him as if to worship Him. I had never seen anything like this!

Me: "Lord, this was almost exactly what I saw on the pewter platter earlier except that there are no wandering sheep."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, in Heaven there is no wandering and no need for aimless direction as here there is perfect rest."

Me: "Yes, Lord, the 'Promised Land' is truly restful."

Jesus: "Erin, why did I bring you here as a child today?"

Me: "Well, probably because my faith in You is better as a child. Through my sickness, my aloneness and my increasing debt because of the illness, I am beginning to lose heart again. Lord, the pattern in my life even as a Christian shows that adding punisher, punishment, poverty and powerlessness equals to 'poor me' as this has always been the pattern and is easy to fall back to this."

Jesus: "I understand this, Erin, as I know where you have walked and I have not forgotten. You, Erin, were a wandering sheep until I called you out of the desert. You come to Me daily in communion now and where two or more are gathered, I show up. Now You know by faith that I will come."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I do. I just do not always know what I will learn, but I always learn more about You. My heart is repairing as I am falling more in love with You and Heaven. I am glad You found me in the desert. I am glad You met me here. I am forever grateful."

Jesus: "But just as you saw a three day pattern with Jonah and Me and that these stories had the same outcome and similar circumstances, there were differences. Jonah lacked faith and he also hated those he was to help save. With Me, I love like a Shepherd with His Sheep and I run after the lost and will leave the flock to run after just one to bring him Home.

"Erin, the pattern of your life is about to change, you will see the Promised Land and you will soon enter it. Now, let's take a lesson from Noah as his name sake even means rest. Noah had full faith and only eight humans were worthy to be saved back then.

"Now look at how many animals were even more worthy than humans. Remember, there will come a time like the days of Noah and the Teva, which is like an Ark. When you see a rainbow, you remember the promises that I have given you and this is wise. Remember also that the Ark saved their bodies, but was not a guarantee of salvation.

"When I came to Earth, I unlocked the enemy's hold of the prison cells of man's hearts as I had the keys to death. After I appeared for forty days, what did I leave behind as the greatest of gifts?"

Me: "The Holy Spirit and our Counselor and now He is in us and dwelling in us."

Jesus: "Erin, is this not interesting as your body is like an ark too?"

Me: "Lord, will we be void of the Holy Spirit for the three days of darkness?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, when did I say I will leave you? I did not."

Me: "Then, Lord, I am having a tough time understanding. Show me."

Jesus: "Erin, your searching is good. Remember where you are on the path. What did you see beyond the desert?"

Me: "Me in a wedding dress."

Jesus: "So let's put our hope in this and Heavenly places as this is healthy. Then you will not wake up in a panic which does nothing but grant the enemy a foothold and power in your suffering and worry."

Me: "I am sorry for my lack of faith sometimes, Hayah."

Jesus: "Erin, be careful as sometimes this lack leads to disobedience and thereby a lack of rest."

Me: "Lord, I so want peace and rest."

Jesus: "Erin, you shall have this so please be encouraged as you are loved. The invading armies will soon be gone and the victory will be yours."

Me: "I love You."

Jesus: "I love you too."

Dream over...

Dream 089 – Patterns, Obstacles & Obedience

Received Sunday, October 6, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 15)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for all that I have. Thank You for my children, my friends and loved ones. Thank You for my trials and transformation. You have forever changed me for the better. I live and breathe Your divine Words.

I love You, Lord, with all of my heart. Although I am in a dying body, I do not love my job, I do not have a home of our own and I am always one paycheck away from trouble. I know You are here with me and You will not let me go.

Even though I might not experience what most take for granted, I can rest in knowing that You have prepared a Home for me. I am certainly not King David, Lord, but I am thankful to You like he was.

Lord, I cling to Your promises that You have prepared a House for me and my children so we can be safe near Your Altar.

Lord, I love 2 Samuel 7:1-29 and I cry every time. You did not grant David his request in an expected way, but instead You did this in a far greater way. David was thankful, Lord, and I am so thankful. I love You.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

Today I am 25 years old. He greets me at the Portal and I instantly drop to my knees in thanks when I see Him there.

Me: "Oh Lord, I love You so much. You are my most amazing Husband, Father and God. I am forever blessed by Your love and I am so grateful to You for Your love of me. How can I thank You?"

Jesus: "Erin, you just did." He brought me up from my knees and hugged me.

Me: "Lord, I do not want to boast, but I have never been through a time such as this. I thought You had left me."

Jesus: "Why would you think this?"

Me: "Because I grew up expecting the worst to happen."

Jesus: "Yes, but now you are a grown woman. You cannot look back and be upset about the path in which you were allowed to travel."

Me: "You are right. I often do this. My past becomes a part of me."

Jesus: "Erin, the trials are part of history and a story. You are to learn from these trials. The trials are a type of training; like sparring in boxing. Do not let the trials, nor the bad memories from them, keep you frozen."

Me: "I think I have done this from time to time."

Jesus: "When you had your first experience coming before Me back in November 2004, do you remember what I told you?"

Me: "Yes. You took me to an area that I did not recognize. I could not see You, but I recognized the voice of God. I was in the hospital at the time. My heart had stopped for only a few seconds of Earth time, but You took me up to Heaven for these few seconds and made it feel like a few hours."

Jesus: "Do you understand what was said to you and the timing of this?"

Me: "I had just discovered something so shocking that I was broken. My heart was so broken. I was numb. My focus then went to looking back to find the clues that were actually hidden in plain sight the entire time. I was mad that I had been so oblivious to the signs."

Jesus: "Yes, but do you recall what I was telling you? Look back now and see what developed during this first visit with Me."

Me: "During this time; I had awoken in a city I did not recognize. I was staying in a small hotel room above a theater. My window was right above the Marquee, which is a flashing sign for a theatre. I had a small piece of luggage which contained all that I owned. It was about 3:00am."

Meanwhile, Jesus had taken my hand and He walked me to the tree with fruit. He pulled down two fruit. He sat beside me while I was telling the story and handed me a fruit.

Me: "I began to pack my belongings in the dark while the lights from the city flashed outside my window. I finished packing, looked back as I went out the door, scanning one last time to see if I had forgotten anything and then I left. I walked out to the street.

"It had just finished raining. There were sounds and no sign of life. The city was asleep. I began to pull my luggage on wheels down the side walk on the left side of the street. I went for some time and walked out of the city to the base of a mountain.

"In front of me was an outhouse door with a moon and star. The handle was on the left side and the door opened out; not in. To my right, was a forestry bulletin board with pieces of paper on it. I do not recall what any of them said."

Jesus: "Erin, as you remember, look at the paper in the center. As you relive this in detail, review the green paper."

Me: "I looked and the paper had writing. The writing said, 'Walk through this door and you will be forever changed.'" I began to cry. "Lord, I did not see this before."

Jesus: "Erin, you did see it, you chose not to remember it. Now go ahead, tell Me the rest."

Me: "I hesitated at the door. I thought, 'if I walked through this, I would never see my children again.' Then I heard Your voice say, "Open it, Erin." So I did.

"Dawn was beginning to break. There was the smell of wet grass and pine trees. There was a layer of fog and clouds above me like an umbrella. It was getting lighter and it must have been about 5:00am.

"When I walked through the forestry door, I stood at the base of a steep mountain. There was a path before me about four feet wide. It was lined with green grass on either side. The path had powdery tan dirt. It was a fine grain, like nothing I had ever seen.

"The powdered path was stamped with such an intricate geometric pattern that it would be a physical improbability that any human could even fashion an embossing stamp to create this pattern. I looked at it and then I looked at my feet.

"I was wearing impractical shoes; high heels to be exact. I was still carting this rolling luggage. I was afraid I would mess this pattern up if I walked on it. In fact, I knew I would."

Jesus: "Then what happened? Go ahead."

Me: "I heard You say, 'Erin, climb.' Then I began to wrestle with myself. I set my right foot down, then my left and then I began to walk up this path. I was still carting this rolling luggage. At some point, I let the luggage go. I do not remember when I let the luggage go, but it was becoming just too burdensome.

"As I climbed this path, the cloud cover was moving at the same rate as I was, so I never appeared to be gaining anything from this climb. I began to look over my right shoulder to see how far I had come.

"Then I heard Your voice say, 'Erin, do not look back to see how far you have come.' I then thought of Lot's wife turning into a pillar of salt and I continued to climb. Then I said, 'But I can't see where I am going. I am destroying the pattern with my feet.'

"Then I heard You say, 'Erin, sometimes you must change the patterns to get to where you are going. Do not look back to see where you have come from and allow Me to carry you. You must trust Me to carry you.'

"Immediately, I woke up in the hospital. There was a whole new crew working on me to bring my heart back. They were so glad I was alive. That is it, Lord."

Jesus: "Well, this was just the beginning."

Me: "Lord, looking back at what happened to me and my kids is too painful. I am not to look back, remember?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am pointing out a few things to you to encourage you. You were being prepared in advance. You were warned that this journey would be a difficult one. You were given choices along the way."

Me: "Lord, I was not always obedient to You. I did not give You all my troubles. I kept some."

Jesus: "People tackle their troubles independently. You did this because you did not trust Me then. You were experiencing trouble and you watched your enemies get rewarded from an earthly standard. You were taught to control your destiny. How did this work for you?"

Me: "Lord, You know...not very well. There were no life cases as examples on how to come through this great calamity. I became angry at You and felt that You had deserted me. I felt that You left me in my trouble. You did not carry me."

Jesus: "Did I say, 'Allow Me to carry you?'"

Me: "Yes, Lord, you did."

Jesus: "You never let go and let Me carry you. Erin, trials are like detours on your path that the enemy creates. He petitions the Heavenly Courts for your trouble. He presents his case. The blacksmith petitions and then God decides the boundaries and rules.

"Once set, the blacksmith must then obey the perimeter of tests as set by God. The enemy then sets out with barriers which say, 'Road closed ahead – detour!', 'better route this way', or 'scenic overlook ahead', etc., understand?

"The blacksmith creates diversions on your path. Now when these occur and they seem attractive or uncharacteristically out of place, one must stop and pray.

"You must drop to your knees and say, 'Lord, God, please show me signs that this is from You. If I am to travel this road, it must be for my own good.'"

Me: "So, please help me here. Is this best to follow the enemy's course or Yours, Lord?"

Jesus: "You are to ask for clarity. Perhaps it is God's Will for the trial as you are being refined as gold or silver in the furnace. This can be good, but a longer course."

Me: "So, if I had seen those obstacles and knew they were detours and traps, I could have altered my walk?"

Jesus: "Both yes and no, but this is the difference; you now know My voice. You recognize My voice as One calling out to you in the wilderness. I am the good Shepherd and My sheep hear My voice. I say, "This is the way; walk in it, understand?"

Me: "Lord, You are right. I did not know it was You then. I thought it was an angel or even a dead relative."

Jesus: "You did not know who to look for."

Me: "Why could You not have been clearer? Why not just appear to me? I could not see You. Where were You, Lord?"

Jesus: "Erin, seriously? I was right above You in the cloud moving with You as You walked."

Me: "Oh, this was a glory cloud."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, Erin. Why did you not allow Me to carry you?"

Me: "Lord, You were a voice in a cloud to me and You had no arms." I was laughing as I said it. He was roaring in such a laugh...

Jesus: "I delight in you. Come, I have more to show you."

He stood up and took my hand. He gently squeezed it and we were immediately walking in the Garden of God again. We were walking in perfectly groomed green pastures. The closest on Earth would be like a golf course, but perfected.

There were beautiful flowers in the pasture that bowed down as Jesus walked by. Come to think of it, even the grass we were walking on bowed down.

Me: "Lord, this is the prettiest meadow I have ever seen in my life. It is breathtaking."

He smiled and seemed so content. He pointed to a clearing by some trees. The trees were in beautiful fall colors. I saw colors I did not recognize, but others I did. I recognized the colors purple, red, gold, orange, metallic bronze and gold.

Below one of the trees was a family of deer. There was a large buck; a perfect stag with a rack of twenty points easily. In comparison, an eight point buck would be exceptional on Earth.

I have never seen an animal so majestic before. His muscle composition was awesome. Next to the buck was a beautiful doe. The doe was the buck's complete equal and made from him. She seemed humble and demure, yet very strong.

Between both of them was a little fawn. I was surprised as I thought fawns were born in the spring season. Well, this was Heaven, so I am sure it matters not the season. As we turned to look, all of the deer bowed on their front hooves to Jesus. This brought tears to my eyes.

We seemed to walk a very long time in this beautiful meadow. Ahead of us were a series of mountains, a beautiful valley and a river running through it. Jesus grabbed my hand, squeezed it and we were at the banks of this river.

The River of Life at this point was rapid. It was raging. Out of the corner of my eye, I saw Jesus stirring up the river to do this. I looked around and I recognized this place from a dream. To be exact, the dream was in 2003. We had just moved for a new job offer from Portland to Bend.

I was excited, but I was very sick. I had learned that I had a condition that was causing me to be anemic. I was dangerously exhausted. I was so weak, I could barely walk six feet without sitting to rest. I had no color in my face.

I fell asleep one night when I was in Bend. At this time in 2003 when I had this dream, my two year old daughter and my four year old son were asleep in their rooms.

My dream from 2003...

I was at a park with picnic tables in a beautiful harbor with boats of all kinds. I had brought a picnic for me and all three of my children. There were people all over. Families were everywhere enjoying the day.

An ominous storm started to roll in. The sky grew dark and the wind began to blow. I suddenly heard screaming as huge demons were trampling the crowd and devouring the people. The demons were at least eight feet tall and muscular.

I gathered my children and began to run. I carried two and had my older son hold on to my shirt. All of a sudden, in my right ear, I felt hot breath. I smelled a stench like a decaying animal, sulfur and human excrement all mixed together. In my ear, I heard this entity talk to me.

Evil entity: "Ooooh, I would so love to devour you and your children, but I am not allowed. I would just like to eat your ear and at least cause you to bleed, but I can't. You are lucky. Just know, I will always be here waiting for that opportunity and, if I get it, you are mine; and your children too."

I immediately told my kids not to listen. Their eyes were already covered as the scene here was horrible. I looked back and this evil entity dropped away and, standing there, was something so large and horrific. It was satan himself. I will never forget the look he gave me. I ran fast and what seemed like forever.

There were several families who escaped. Many had trickled off. There, in the distance, was a large white banquet hall. There was a sign which said, 'Divine help here!'

My kids wanted to stop, so we walked into the hall. There was a large table set before us and it had the most amazing food. Everything you could imagine was there to eat. It seemed almost too perfect. As I was still holding them from our escape, my two younger kids wiggled out of my arms and began to run to the table.

Just then, I noticed the ceiling had mold on it; black mold. I then looked around me and the people did not look right. I screamed and quickly gathered all three of my children, telling them that the food was poisoned.

As we ran for the exit, some of the people tried to stop us in order to warn us that there would be no more food and that this would be the only help. At this point, all of my kids were crying. I ran and ran, again for what seemed like hours. By the time I finally stopped running, I could barely see anyone else near us.

Then we came to this rapid raging river. We had to cross the river, but it was chest deep. The sky was growing dark and we really needed to rest; I needed to rest. I began to break down and cry on the bank of the river. Finally, I cried out in anguish to Jesus to help us.

Jesus: "Erin, you just reviewed your entire dream. Do you know why?"

Me: "No, Lord, except, I recognize this spot. I recognize this spot exactly." I began to cry. "Lord, I was so scared."

Jesus: "Yes, but do you remember in the dream what happened? I carried you and your children safely across this river. What happened next?"

Me: I was in tears. "Lord, You took my hand and picked up my children in Your arms. We walked for miles and miles. You fed us and protected us. You made my kids smile. Eventually, You took us to a bend in the river.

"There was a beautiful meadow with a rock. You sat there and spoke to us about how very few made it, but we did. As You sat and spoke, little by little, more people trickled in to hear You."

Jesus: "Erin, do you recognize this place?"

Me: "No, Lord."

Jesus: "Surely you do. Look."

Just then, I saw the river, the rock, the pasture and the tree. I saw the overlook in the distance. I saw beautiful vineyards. I saw the area of the Portal.

Me: Crying. "Lord, when I came up to You, I am coming to You in the Garden of God?"

Jesus: "Yes. You did ten years ago in your dreams also. It was three years after you were called up to the mountain to see Elijah and Enoch, remember? This was in the year 2000."

Me: "Lord, I could not have even imagined that this was so divinely orchestrated!"

Jesus: "One day, you will and this will all make sense. Now look at the raging River of Life. Shall I carry you through this or shall you try to enter it on your own?"

Me: With heavy tears. "Oh no, Lord. You, Lord, only You can carry me. I cannot attempt this. I trust You."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin. You have grown so much. I reward you with wisdom as in 2 Samuel 7:1-29. I will build a house for you. Your walk has been different from David's, but, nonetheless, an excellent journey."

Me: "Lord, it sounds like You are wrapping this up, almost as if this is all soon to be over?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, you just hit a milestone of trust; obedience and trust while facing your detours. Now I will remove these. I will give you rest from your enemies. They have run their course."

Me: "Lord, so You will remove these final obstacles for me?"

Jesus: "Yes. As I said it, so it will be."

Me: "Oh, thank You, thank You."

Jesus: "Erin, now find joy. I will deliver you and your children. Now find joy."

Me: "But, Lord, are You not coming soon?"

Jesus: "Erin, whether I come for you now or at another time, you must obey. You are to shine and be obedient. You are to love and find peace. This is healing."

Me: "Lord, is this the end of the dreams?"

Jesus: "Wait, did I say they were? No, I believe I just gave you the answers to some questions you had. Did you learn something today?"

Me: "Oh, yes, Lord, I did. I learned many things."

Jesus: "So this is wisdom. Wisdom is proved right by her actions. Gain wisdom and be obedient. Learn to recognize the enemy's patterns and schemes. Ask what I might be calling you to do here. Come to Me in your good times and bad.

"Lay your burdens down, along with your questions and concerns. Learn to hear My voice. This is the voice of truth. The Holy Spirit in you is your divine counselor and ally; use this.

"Pray without ceasing and let the Word of truth, the Word of God, guide you on your journey. The Bible is your lamp and the Holy Spirit is your guide, understand? This is wisdom. I love you, Erin."

Me: "I love You, Lord."

Dream over...

Dream 090 – Training & Elijah

Received Saturday, October 12, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 16)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You, thank You, thank You for delivering my children safely on their trip. Please continue to protect them so they arrive safely home to me. Lord, I have felt burdened this week. I have had uncharacteristic attacks and I sense they are mini-versions of larger ones to come. They have been systematic and organized.

Please forgive me as I was expecting rest, not more attacks and trials. I am in some holding pattern for Your divine purposes and I ask for Your soon release over this stronghold. I know these trials are doing something big toward my faith walk with You.

I know there is still a bit more dross with me, the residue on the surface, since I yelled at my children on Friday afternoon. Shortly after, I cried when they left for the weekend. It was emotional for me. It seemed as if all the attacks converged and that the effects manifested openly.

I am so moved by Your grace and instruction and so very humbled at Your presence. Lord, Your ways are a divine mystery. I am forever grateful for these trials, but I grow weary at myself. I know You could heal me of my afflictions instantly, but You choose a slow process.

Not to compare myself with Job, as I am quite certain he was faithful in his walk, but I study the length of his trials and the length of his text. It is long and there is a battle afoot in the Scriptures there. My Hope in You starts in the beginning as I battle with Job through the voices of his friends, the world, to the final promise of restoration You have granted him.

Lord, You are so very gracious and so faithful. Thank You, as I cling to being made whole, whether here or eternity. I cling to Your promises for me.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am about 25 years old today. Jesus greets me at the Portal and pulled me up using His right hand on my left hand. He hugged me and had me sit next to him. As I sat, I rested my left cheek against His chest for some time.

As I gently wept there, I felt the tears roll down my cheeks and drip onto Jesus' robe. However, the incredible fabric of His robe seemed to absorb the tears; absorbing them, yet repelling them at the same time. In other words, His robe remained completely dry despite my tears.

His robe is amazing and is made of a truly incredible fabric. His white robe has woven bands of gold, bronze and blue braided cloth or gimp. The gimp then has an outer edge of three inches of tassel fringe and each strand was braided with three cords.

The intricate weave of the gimp seemed hand-loomed by the finest Pasementaries, more commonly known as 'fiber artists'. The geometric weave was beyond anything made here on Earth. I began to cry again just at the sight of His incredible robe.

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, why cry over embellishments on My robe?"

Me: "Lord, I am just amazed by the details. Even the tiniest detail here in Heaven is well done. Everything is fit for a King and completely perfect and Heavenly."

Jesus: "Erin, this robe and the details are handmade by the most amazing craftspeople and artisans. Each thing you see around you is made with love and care. Nothing here is done 'half-way'; everything is made as if the King will see it and be glad. It is all a form of worship and brings joy to God. Is a Father not pleased with the good works of His Son?"

Me: "Of course, Lord. It just seems like even the smallest of things, like the gimp and fringe of your robe, the vessel on Your table and the silver platter with candied fruit; all these items are highly symbolic and divinely commissioned. You are most right that no thing, nothing, is done 'half-way' in Heaven. Lord, You are incredible. Look even at the hem of Your robe!"

He was laughing as He knew I was completely enamored with these details. I reached over and lifted the left sleeve of His robe. Then, I flipped the sleeve, folding it back to inspect further.

As I did, I saw the scar from the Cross nail on His wrist today instead of His hand. I quickly put His sleeve back over His wrist and began to weep silently.

Jesus: "Erin, what did the hem of My robe look like?"

I was still remembering His scar. Then I went back to the robe and the scar was now back on the palm of His hand instead of His wrist.

Me: "Lord, why did You do this? Why does Your scar move back and forth from Your wrist to Your hand?"

Jesus: "I will come back to this. First, tell Me about the seam or hem of My sleeve."

Me: "It is seamless. There is no stitches and no frayed edges. On Earth, this would really be impossible. Your robe is made of linen with weave of something iridescent, seemingly like pearls with gold. Your robe is fine and pure.

"The edges are fused as if the robe is made of a substance that, when singed, it could melt and make an edge. However, what I am seeing has clearly been made from a divine serger. It is impossible to have linen with no frayed edges on Earth, yet here, in Heaven, nothing unravels."

Jesus: "Erin, this was observed with a keen eye. Now, let's think about this further. You have learned that everything of Heavenly Origin is divinely orchestrated, meaning that not one detail is left undone, correct?"

Me: "Yes, definitely. Everything You do here is perfect, Lord."

Jesus: He was laughing so hard. "Come, Erin."

He reached for me with His right hand and walked me down the slope. Now, as I look around again, I now know for sure that this has been the Garden of God the entire time. I am smiling and shaking my head.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts?"

Me: "Lord, of course You can hear my thoughts. Well, this whole time, we have been meeting in the Garden, yet I did not know this until I saw this from last time we visited. You have taken me here even in my old dreams. Lord, You are so amazing."

Jesus: He was laughing at what a silly thing I had just said. "Oh, so I even speak to you in your dreams?"

Me: "Lord, You have used parts of Your Garden as inspiration straight from the Psalms in Your Word."

Jesus: "Don't you instead mean that the Psalms were a result of inspiration that David had from Heaven?"

Me: "Oh, David came here and walked here?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, Erin, many have come here to talk with Me. Each visit has been inspired, God-breathed and infused from Heavenly places for divine purposes. Erin, Scriptures were divinely inspired. Do you not know this?" He was joking with me.

Me: "Of course, Lord, it had better be."

Jesus: "Now, Erin, I am going to show you a sign, a mystery hidden in plain sight, so you become keenly aware of right and wrong. Are you ready?"

Me: "Lord, I believe so. Is the Holy Spirit in me for discernment?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, of course. Now, what did you observe on My robe?"

Me: "It was divinely loomed, perfect and had no flaws."

Jesus: "Yes, but there is more to this. First, you recognized that it is divinely Inspired and of Heavenly origin. This way, you know that it was not made by man. Then, you noticed several things. Your tears soaked in, yet did not leave My robe wet.

"I accepted your tears upon My heart. You noticed the soft texture of My robe, the intricate weave and the way in which it was finished at the edges. You remarked that it was seamlessly perfect and that there were no frayed edges, correct?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, Your robe is divine. It is made of natural and supernatural materials, divinely inspired and perfect craftsmanship. There is nothing synthetic in Heaven. No Polyester."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, this is good. Now, touch My robe again. Tell Me what you feel."

I went to touch His robe with my hands. I felt His covering of divine warmth like a blanket go over me even as I write. I began to have tears stream down my cheeks again.

Jesus is just so powerful and amazing. He permeates love and gentle care in everything He does. Even when I am being rebuked, He is never harsh with me, but gentle and all encompassed with love for me instead.

Me: "Lord, the robe is heavy. The robe is not lightweight, yet it is still light as a feather. When I feel my robe, it is made of the same material. It is almost alive and moves with me perfectly."

He was clearly getting a kick out of my fascination with the fabric.

Jesus: "Erin, there are so many parables here. Do you see them? Do you understand the complex weave of your life? Do you understand the magnitude of details and their significance to Me? Do you understand that I care about every detail in your life? Do you know, if I dress the lilies with such care, won't I dress you with even greater care; and cover you too?"

I dropped to my knees. My face met His feet and I wept there.

Me: "Lord, there is none like You. You are the Alpha and Omega; the beginning and the end. I am honored as I would never think that You hear me or even care about me as I am of no real significance on Earth.

"I matter not to anyone except my friends and children. I have done nothing that should count. I am not like Job, yet I am tested in a similar way. I hang on to the hope that You will find mercy, turn and find a measure of good in me.

"This week, I felt helpless. I felt I should have been released instantly. You can do this, yet, instead, the war ensued. Every aspect of my life, once again, was attacked; work, family, health, finances and then my faith. Why, Lord?"

Jesus: "Erin, did Job have an easy walk?"

Me: "Yes, prior to the enemy successfully petitioning God for him. After that, Job's testing was relentless and there seemed to be no end to it. His testing must have gone on for many years."

Jesus: "Why do you believe that stories like Job are in the Word? Are they not also there for instruction and training? You see every example there. There are messages of faith, healing and love.

"If the Lord allows suffering, it is never without reward on Earth or in Heaven. Just as the details on My robe, all details are considered in the lives of those God loves and calls.

"Erin, when I tell you the obstacles before you have run their course, I mean this. I do not lie. It does not mean I will always remove them immediately. There is a measure of faith and trust you must have in Me that I will do what I say, but on My terms, not yours.

"Unless, of course, you have now decided that you could do a better job than Me." He was joking with me. "You could even go to Court before God on the Throne and plead your case." Now He was laughing.

Me: "Oh no, Lord, I would never consider this. Please forgive me."

He was laughing. We approached the beautiful vineyard. There were some beautiful golden green grapes on the vine. The leaves were various shades of purples and reds, but with yellow as well. Then, I saw a vine with burgundy and yellow leaves and deep purple grapes.

Me: "Lord, both of these seem late season."

Jesus: "Yes, you can tell the season by the colors of the leaves, not necessarily the fruit."

He reached over and handed me some grapes from each of the vines. I watched Him intently. He ate some of the red grapes first. I followed and ate the same grapes. It was wonderful. They were slightly tart, but then turned sweet.

Then He put the green grapes in His mouth and so did I. These were extremely sweet, but very good.

Jesus: "What did you observe?"

Me: "Both seemed very sweet and were very good."

Jesus: "Notice the fruit."

From what I could see, both were luminous, had depth and an iridescent quality. Then Jesus pulled out two more bunches of grapes. He handed me one of each.

Jesus: "What do you see?"

Me: "From a distance, they look the same. However, up close, they lack the same qualities."

Jesus: "Explain."

Me: "There is no depth. The feel is different."

Jesus: "Okay, now eat one."

I put a purple grape in my mouth and it tasted like rubber. Indeed, it was rubber! I immediately spit it out.

Me: "Lord, why would You have me put this in my mouth? Yuk!"

He was laughing. I was laughing and somewhat hurt that He even would allow this.

Me: "Lord, You tricked me."

Jesus: "No, I did not. Erin, this is training. Do you know that I would never harm you, point out your weaknesses or make fun of your shortcomings?"

"I did not do this to harm you. I am showing you something. Now, would you like to continue or would you like to get roots and dwell in such details? This would be the enemy's plans."

Me: "Lord, I want to learn. I just never expected you to do something like this. This does not seem to be in Your character?"

Jesus: Smiling. "Oh, is it not in My character to lovingly instruct? Erin, how does a child learn to walk?"

Me: "A child stands up and then learns first about balance and strength. Then he cruises around, using other things for support. Then, finally, he walks when he feels he can."

Jesus: "Yes, very good. However, does he not also learn by falling down a few times also? Like when he goes from cruising on furniture straight to running, thereby forgetting to walk first?"

Me: I was laughing. "Yes, Lord, my kids all did this. I did not always keep them from falling when I knew the landing was soft. Okay, I get it."

Jesus: "Was the grape that painful?"

Me: "Yes, it was horrible tasting and not what I was expecting."

Jesus: "Erin, in the coming seasons, there will be great deceptions. You must learn how to recognize deceptions. This is wisdom.

"Now, why did I show you this? Erin, do you remember your dream of the enemy at what you thought was safe harbor? Do you remember the banquet hall?"

Me: "Oh yes. The harbor was so pretty. The boats, the temperature, the sunshine and the laughter of all of us picnicking with our families seemed so perfect. It was in summer or late fall. Then the sky suddenly grew dark, the wind blew and then the evil came."

Jesus: "Remember what blows in with the wind? Continue."

Me: "Then the enemy devoured people as we ran. There were very few people who made it to the banquet hall. Once we did though, the hall was so inviting. We were hungry and tired. I wanted a safe place to lay my head. I was also pressured by my children to go in the hall."

Jesus: "Then you entered. What did you see?"

Me: "Amazing food on a banquet table. Everything was white, which highlighted the beautiful array of food. My mouth was salivating."

Jesus: "What happened? Why not sit and eat?"

Me: "I looked up and, in the corners of the ceiling, I saw black mold. The mold was alive and spreading. I then saw one of my children pick up a type of cupcake. I quickly ran to him and whispered that it was poison. I then gathered them quickly to leave."

Jesus: "Erin, but the food seemed good. Not only that, but some of the others who had made it out of the harbor and survived were also eating. So why not eat and relax?"

Me: "I saw the mold and I knew that, if this were from divine origins, it would be perfect with no flaws; not even one flaw and certainly no mold."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, this is good. Do you understand what I have shown you?"

Me: "I think so. However, Lord, won't the Holy Spirit grant us discernment?"

Jesus: "Erin, sometimes your senses and pressure from others cloud your judgment. Sometimes the Holy Spirit is silenced by your hunger, your ears to hear what tickles them and your eyes to see what is pleasing.

"Now the Harbor was horrible, dark and scary. The enemy knew some would make it this far to the 'safe' banquet hall. Some people were so exhausted that they only wanted rest, food and fellowship with others.

"They were looking for light; the light of accommodation and false hospitality. This was an easy deception and set up by the enemy."

Me: "So we need to be cautious in all things and keenly aware of our destroyer?"

Jesus: "My sheep hear My voice. Humans even like what is said so much that they present My voice as their own. This can have dire consequences for many. Many could be lead to the banquet hall of deception and eat there. You, of all people, know what happens when food is tainted."

Me: I began to cry. "Lord, this is a harsh lesson. I am not sure I won't be deceived, especially when it comes to my children. Please do not allow this testing."

Jesus: "The enemy is all around you. You matter to him, but you matter more to Me. He hates you and will stop at nothing to destroy you. Now, this week; why did I allow you more medical, more trouble and more bills?"

Me: "I do not know?"

Jesus: "Erin, so you do not let your faith shield down. You must, through the storms, consider Me and Who I am; knowing that I am with you.

In Heaven, you obey Me completely. However, on Earth, you obey Me a good portion of the time, but there is still the enemy setting a table, a banquet table, before you, understand?"

Me: "I think so. Is this why You allowed my eye infection this week?"

Jesus: "Yes, you let your guard down because you expected instant deliverance from your financial and personal obstacles. I can do this, of course, but this is an important lesson of faith in Me. It is darkest before the dawn. If I would allow trouble, won't I also call others, and even the angels, to help?"

Me: "But, Lord, You sent legions of angels to surround us so none of us would be harmed. I thought You left me out. I thought I was exposed."

Jesus: "Erin, you will be protected supernaturally on the day of trouble, but what comes is a true test of faith. You must love and recognize the voice of the Shepherd, the One calling in the desert. Do not be insecure. I have not retracted My promises to you; not one.

"Erin, I will keep you safe and you and your children will be delivered. Remember, there is deception everywhere. Even Job's friends had a voice of the accuser. Now the things of Heaven will not be contrary to each other. Remember: a house divided against itself will not stand.

"You have been given several gifts. The Holy Spirit is your counselor; God in you. If you are unsure, wait on the Lord; wait on Me. I will lead you in the way you should go. When things originate from the Throne, these things will work together harmoniously; all things will work together.

"Where there is envy, strife, boastfulness, jealousy, hatred and other such things, this is the fruit of the enemy; a fox, bat or wolf. These devour. I will ask you to stay on your course. Do not veer to the left or the right.

"You have been privy to the sights of what army is coming. You have seen it, smelled it and know to keep the words from your mouth few. This is wisdom."

Jesus reached out His right hand towards my left hand. He squeezed my hand gently and we were now standing in a barren land in front of a cave.

Me: "Lord, this does not look like Heaven."

Jesus: "Erin, it is not. You are correct. You are in the land of Canaan."

Me: "Why?"

Jesus: "Erin, I am taking you on an adventure from the Scriptures. Are you ready?"

Me: "I think so."

Jesus: "Do you remember the story of Ahab, Jezebel and Elijah?"

Me: "Some; please show me."

I saw with a bird's eye view from the top of a mountain. Elijah had just slain the prophets of Baal. It was atop of Mount Carmel. Then, after Elijah had obeyed the Lord, Elijah said 'get up, eat and drink. There is abundant rain.' The land had been in severe drought.

Elijah then told his servant to get up and look to the sea six times. Then, on the seventh time, there was a tiny cloud which came out of the sea. Then Heaven became black with clouds and wind and there was a great rain.

Me: "Lord, this is incredible."

Jesus: "Yes, but, before the blessing of rain, the sky grows dark and there is a mighty wind. God brought rain upon the barren land. Then do you recall what happened?"

Next, in an instant, we were in a fortified city. I saw a beautiful, but frightening, woman; Jezebel. She was ordering Elijah's death. Elijah then fled. I saw Elijah exhausted under a tree and he begged the Lord for the mercy of his death.

He fell asleep and an angel told him to rise and eat. The angel provided fresh bread and water. The angel woke him up and gave him some meat. He traveled for forty days and forty nights.

Then he came to a cave. There, the Lord spoke to Elijah at the cave and asked him why he was here and Elijah told him.

Me: "Lord, you are showing I Kings 18 and 19 live. This is incredible."

Jesus: "Erin, do not be so fascinated with the surroundings that you fail to see the message and the patterns in this, understand?"

Me: "Yes, I think so."

He redirected my attention and immediately I saw Elijah climbing the mountain. There I saw a wind blow that brought rocks down the mountains. Elijah could not see God there. Then an earthquake came and shook the mountain, but still no God. Then a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire.

Then I heard, as I cried and watched, a still small voice. Elijah threw his mantle around his face and stood at the entrance to his cave. Then God said, 'Elijah, why are you here?', or 'what doest thou here, Elijah?'

Elijah began to explain to God what was happening and God directed Elijah to return via the wilderness of Damascus. God gave Elijah instructions. He also told him that there were seven thousand others like him whom had not worshiped Baal. He proceeded to do as the Lord instructed.

Me: "Lord, why have You shown me this? I do not understand?"

Jesus: "Erin, go back now and look at the hand of God upon Elijah. Even Elijah was discouraged, but this is also meant to show you the enemy and his deceptions.

"Jezebel's deceptions lived on through the generations, even amongst Christians. These are wolves in sheep's clothing. There will come a time where you will need an extra measure of faith. You must hear the still, small voice of God."

Me: "Lord, am I coming into trouble? You promised me rest and the removal of Jezebel and Ahab in my life."

Jesus: "Yes, I did, Erin, and this is true. You will come into a time of great joy."

He reached out and grabbed my left hand. Immediately, we were at the little lake. There were vineyards around a long banquet table and a boat on the water with dancing.

Jesus: "Do you recognize anyone?"

Me: "No, Lord. I see it looks like a Bride and a Groom and everyone is celebrating. In Heaven, we are not given in marriage."

Jesus: "How do you know this is Heaven?"

Me: "Because this is the lake..."

Just then, the landscape changed. It was still very beautiful, but just not the lake from Heaven.

Me: "Lord, where is this? I do not recognize where this is."

Jesus: "Erin, you are loved by the King and you are His daughter (Psalm 45). Be Blessed."

Dream over...

Dream 091 – God’s House, Elijah & Warfare

Received Sunday, October 13, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 17)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You, thank You for all that You have done for me. I can barely grab hold of all of it, You have blessed me so greatly. You have held out Your right hand for me to take. I am forever changed by Your presence and grace. If I was called Home tomorrow, I would feel complete.

My current battles have significance though and I know that You would not call me Home in my depression and discouragement, but only in full victory. I cling to You, Father, and I ask for victory over this darkness that has left me uncharacteristically in fear. I should know better, but I am afraid at times and, lately, often.

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

I am 25 years old again. Jesus is standing near the Portal with His arms held out to hug me. I run straight into His arms. He put one of His arms around my back and used the other arm to support my head in the palm of His hand against His chest. I am so overjoyed as I fit perfectly in His embrace as if I was molded to Him. I cry out to Him.

Me: “Here I am; Home!”

Jesus: “Erin, what a heavy heart today. Come, I have something so beautiful to show you that it will make you cry. Are you ready?”

He was exuberant, but in complete control. He is never ‘silly’ as in weak, but, instead, excited to show me something. He reached down, took my hand and squeezed it. We instantly went somewhere else, but He kept my eyes closed with His hand so I could not see where.

Me: “Oh, please, Lord, can I see? I want to see.”

Jesus: He was chuckling. “Are you sure? You must use your eyes; your windows, okay?”

He then moved His hand and we were standing on a ridge looking out into this beautiful valley. It looked like a scene from Yosemite National Park, but with the rocks and mountains made of 'picture jasper' in shades of greens, deep blues, purples and reds.

There was a rock which looked like a half-dome, but all white. I saw amazing waterfalls everywhere I looked, some falling into lakes and others falling into streams. I saw sailboats on the lakes. I saw meadows with an animal, like a bear, and she had cubs. I saw small animals playing with the cubs as the mother bear napped. I saw acres of orchards and pastures of green with a multitude of flowers.

I saw berry patches, like blackberries, raspberries, huckleberries and blueberries. Tears were streaming from my eyes. I had truly never seen such a beautiful place in all of my life. It took my breath away.

Me: "Lord, besides seeing Your face when You one day take me Home, I want You to take me here. If I die on Earth, I want to be here as I say goodbye to my loved ones. This is Paradise, Lord. This is my dream.

"How can Heaven be even better than what I have seen with each passing day? This must still be part of God's Garden as I see no homes here?"

Jesus: "I knew you would like this. Look."

To my left, at what would seem to be east on Earth, I saw the top of a mountain. However, this was not just any mountain; this mountain was so majestic that I felt that very few would be privy to ever going there.

At the top of this mountain was God's Mansion. It was clearly a 'castle' of epic proportions. The Mansion was made of gold, jasper and bronze chiseled bricks. Each brick was perfectly hewn and so precise in execution that no mason could cut this.

Indeed, each brick fit so perfectly, it was as if it had been set in a mold. The entire line of each row of bricks was so perfect that the foundation was 'impossibly' plumb. On Earth, this would have been so completely level and exact that it would have been impossible to recreate there.

There was a beautiful path of gold leading up to His Home. The path was illuminated from a hidden light source, but not the sun. The foundation of this Mansion had all the manner of stones from the City of Gold and was an exact replica.

I saw a gate and two large columns that looked like clear crystal glass. The gate itself was made from a pearl. It had no seams and seemed as if it was made of a pearl the size of the other half of the 'Half Dome' in Yosemite.

At the top of the crystal columns were two carved golden cherubs. I recognized these cherubs as being exact replicas of those I pictured to be on the Ark of the Covenant.

There was a style to this Mansion that makes it very difficult to describe. In essence, the Mansion has no architectural period of history to even match it. For example, it had stylistic features of design of the Temple that Solomon had built, but this Mansion was so much more grand than even the Temple.

The Mansion seemed almost square in shape. There were layers of tiers, perhaps even terraces. Each of these terraces had water pouring out into the channels of water below. This was an architectural feature on the next terrace below.

At the very top, there was a square terrace that served as a balcony. The balcony was open air and had no obstructions on any of its sides.

I saw silk drapes of pure white flowing in the wind. I could tell this was either God's bedroom or His personal sanctuary at Home. From this high position, I just knew that He could see all over Heaven and, I believe, over the Earth too.

As I write this, I found myself holding my breath. I knew that my hand could not sketch nor could a computer generate a replica of what I was seeing. I was crying.

Jesus: "Erin, what do you think?"

Me: "Lord, I am speechless. You have brought me to God's House and His front yard. I am in utter delight. This is much too wonderful for me."

Jesus: "I knew you had wanted to see this. I read your thoughts many times, but you were too afraid to ask because you thought I would say no."

Me: I became shy. He reads my thoughts; all of them. "Lord, forgive my thoughts."

Jesus: "Your thoughts do not condemn you. Only your actions could do this. Why do you think I really brought you here today?"

Me: "Lord, I do not know? I certainly do not deserve it. I was mad at You when I went to my mailbox and saw a fresh batch of medical bills. Not only that, but these medical bills were not even the ones I know are still coming. I keep having warfare and I feel defeated.”

Jesus: He was smiling and laughing. “Erin, I know this. I brought you here by invitation. God wanted you to see His Home. One day, you will be His guest and you will dine there. For now, you will need to settle for dining with Me.”

Me: “Lord, just give me a spot at Your table and I would be delighted just to sit there. Even allow me to be a server of Your food and drink. I would even scrape Your dishes and clean for You. It would be an honor just to be near You. There is no greater honor.”

I was crying. Tears were streaming down my cheeks, yet my speech was not broken.

Jesus: “Erin, you make me smile. It is fun to share things with you. You notice the details, not just the big picture. You appreciate all that these artisans do, as well as the architects. You treat them with equal importance. This brings honor to the big and the small.”

Me: “Lord, no man could do it all. Only God can do all things. However, I must admit that You do everything too. You are His Son, a divine architect, lawyer, physician, designer, builder, gardener and friend. You are perfect.”

He walked me to a different area. There, we sat on a bench overlooking this incredible scene.

Jesus: “You were looking yesterday at My scars. Tell Me about that.”

I reached out and took His right hand. I flipped it over and back. He was laughing. Today, the scar was on the palm and it was about three-quarters of an inch in circumference.

Me: “See, this is what confuses me. I saw this on Your wrist yesterday. You are not a God of confusion. Lord, please help me here with this.”

Jesus: “Erin, this has been a topic of debate amongst the brethren for a couple thousand years now. This is My point:

“Those from both sides of this argument, both sides are those whom God has called and will one day dwell in the City of God, both sides have hearts of gold and both sides run after My heart; yet have made this an issue.

"At the same time, both sides agree that I died on the Cross and was crucified. This will not be argued, and even the enemy and his cohorts agree with this, yet they still argue about this.

"What happened that day was the most significant day in the history of creation. Do you know why?"

Me: "I thought I did. It means our salvation, right?"

Jesus: "Well, yes, but more than that. It meant hope. Here, hope was born."

Me: "How was hope born here and not at the resurrection? Most look at hope beginning at Your empty grave."

Jesus: "Okay, yes, and this is true for some, but look."

Immediately, I saw through an open window looking down at Golgotha. The Spirit of the Lord was no longer there. I saw the Roman soldier pierce Jesus' side (John 19:31-37). I saw the sky grow so black that there was no light.

There was a great earthquake. I saw, from a birds-eye view, the Temple veil being torn in two and the graves of the dead opening. I saw sheer horror as people screamed out, 'He WAS God! God, help us!'

Me: "Lord, this is much worse than I have seen. This is even much worse than I imagined. People were scared and they lacked hope. I do not understand. Lord, did I see things out of order. What if I miss something?"

Jesus: "Erin, please do not worry about the details. You are seeing parts of the day. This was a day of hope unseen. This day was the beginning, even for many of the Jews there.

"Everyone that day knew Who I was; both the enemy and the children of God. This was a victory as this is the point of the unseen battle and the power of God. This was good. So, now, why do you think My scars change?"

Me: "Because this detail matters not! The bigger picture was the victory over darkness that day and the beginning of hope."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, very good. I am not a trickster, understand? Tricksters and Illusionists are not a thing of Heaven here. There is no need for such entertainment."

Me: I kidded with Him. "Oh, You mean like rubber grapes?" We laughed.

Jesus: "Yes, but only as 'safe' instruction. Now, tell Me about your trouble."

Me: "Lord, I am not sure why You have not delivered me completely. Why these trials? Last night, I had fear as my infection had come back. I expected You to heal me. I was crabby and upset with You. I am sorry, Lord."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, you are forgiven. Do you believe I am good?"

Me: "Of course. No question!"

Jesus: "Then why do you believe I am so quick to dismiss you when you need Me? You have fear and panic."

Me: "Lord, I am human. I am a sinner and subject to a sinful nature. I am not holy. When You work through me, I am only a vessel You pour in and then You pour out, remember? I am nothing special. We are all equal in God's eyes; all the same."

Jesus: He quickly reached for my hand. "Hold on one moment. Wait. Let's discuss this. You are a mother with three good children. You love them equally the same, yet you trust and share differently with each of them, correct?"

Me: "Oh, yes. My younger son's special needs are difficult to work with. Nothing I say to him seems to hit home. I cannot always reach him. Sometimes he says things so Godly and profound that I try to share more and then stop myself as he simply cannot comprehend it.

"Same with my older son; this is '50/50' at best. However, I love them and You have showed me they will dwell here, so I have hope. My daughter is still young, but I can trust her with many things."

Jesus: "This is a Word, not only about finances, but about your walk with God. If I can trust you with a little, I can trust you with much. Also, remember then, much will be expected. Do not bend from this.

"Erin, I have called you friend. I have shown you things. People will come forward and claim you are nothing. They will answer to Me for this. The enemy is a deceiver. He loves to neutralize you and keep you lukewarm.

"Many people in the ministry who will reside here will come to repent of this. What I mean is that the danger, or slippery slope, is adhering to popularity and a need to be acceptable to all.

"This is a church in Revelation; popular and afraid to say truth, yet truth, as unpopular as it is, has the ability to unlock prison cells."

Me: "Lord, are You saying I am trying to be popular? I can barely get to my friends, with all of these trials, to even converse."

Jesus: "Erin, let's take a look at Elijah."

Me: "Lord, I am no Elijah. I have seen..."

Jesus: He stopped me as He was laughing. "Erin, Elijah was called for a purpose and has not died. This you know. This was not popular amongst you and even the mention of Enoch, yet you felt their blessing upon you while you were shown the Throne and God. This was an honor. You were and are a seer and a friend."

"Now, you and Elijah, in this instance from the Bible, are dealing with warfare. Remember one key thing; Elijah was not afraid to be used of God. He did not veer to the left or right. He even slew the false prophets of Baal and was unafraid, yet he feared one thing and it led to him asking for his death. At what point did you notice it?"

Me: "I noticed it odd that Elijah went to the City of Jezreel and stopped at the gate. He would not go in there as Jezebel was there. He seemed afraid. He went from victory and security to insecurity and asking for death. He was horribly afraid of Jezebel."

Jesus: "Her fate lies in Revelation, as do those who bend to her. This Scripture is a tool to show you that God hold the keys and that there should be no worries."

Me: "Then help me, Lord, for I too do as Elijah. Every time You reveal more to me and every time we draw closer, I am victorious from Saturdays to Tuesdays. Then, on Wednesdays thru Fridays, war comes. Why? Elijah saw visible miracles and he even called them down from heaven. He was so confident, but then he went to running from one single woman."

Jesus: "She was not just a woman, but an extremely powerful demon. You have seen this before. Now, what am I showing you? You, yourself, are up against obstacles you called Ahab and Jezebel. This I agree with."

"So, why do I not remove them? Hmm, what might I be asking of you? You have seen what I can do, yet you sit here next to me and profess fear. Let's conquer this."

Me: "Lord, I feel like Elijah at the gates. You know, Lord, I cannot even get to my friends. I sit outside and I can barely get to them. Then, when trouble comes, I go through others to convey messages.

"My friends are there, but You have also shown me the spirit of Jezebel working there. What do I do if I cannot get there? I am dealing with this in other areas too. Have I sinned?"

Jesus: "Oh no, Erin, this is not because of sin, but a call to repentance is good. Cleaning house is good. However, remember, a house divided will not stand, let alone prosper.

"I desire to bestow My gifts on all of the children of God. Gifts are wonderful. Do you remember this at your son's birthday? You gave him what he asked for. He was happy until he saw your daughter with something he also wanted. So he began to take her joy and strip her of her favor. Then, you decided you must take his gift away, right?"

Me: I was laughing. "Yes. This is why I was yelling on Friday. They were fighting in the car. I was taking them to their dad's. When we were waiting, I could not take the bickering, so I left the car and sat on the lawn to remove myself from them. They continued to fight until they became tired. Once they left, I cried as I missed them."

Jesus: "This is an interesting parable for gifts, is it not?"

He was smiling. I was laughing and my head was shaking from side to side.

Me: "Lord, did You orchestrate this event? It fit perfectly into all of this." He was smiling. "No detail is missed, Lord. You are incredible. So, help me. The gifts are good, but we are dealing with Jezebel here. Jezebel is the spirit of witchcraft. Lord, expose her."

Jesus: "This spirit is popular and, right now, makes people feel good. Then comes division. You, yourself, have been kept away and under warfare so you cannot get there to see the operation of this."

Me: "What do I do? I have at times thought of leaving altogether. How do I know where it is coming from?"

Jesus: "Erin, you know."

Me: "No, Lord, I really do not."

Jesus: "I will send you help. Erin, I have allowed this for a reason. This is part of a bigger picture. This is a plan with a valuable lesson in repentance, humility, faith, hope and love. Now you have friends who recognize the spirit and now this.

"I plan on releasing more gifts as soon as I am able to see change. Mind you, I am not concerned with Jezebel. She will come to nothing.

"However, I am concerned with the hearts of My beloved. This is a trial of humility. Remember, on Mt. Carmel, Ahab repented and God spared him."

Me: "But, Lord, You activated Jezebel against Elijah. Why? Why did God allow this?"

Jesus: "So Elijah would draw closer to God. Read the story after this to see the amazing faith of Elijah. Elisha and, even someone by faith, John, brought Jezebel to the ground. Erin, Elijah blessed you.

"Even John the Baptist was afraid when confronted with the spirit of Jezebel. She lived on in King Herod's wife. John's head was served on a silver platter. Was not King Herod even an Ahab?

"Erin, fear can grip you when you give your authority of who you are in Christ away. When you lend it out, fear grips you and warfare ensnares you. Now, why have I allowed such a thing? Because I love you. You must recognize lies.

"Let's review. Elijah believed Jezebel that he would be killed by her hands, yet she held no power over life or death. This is ridiculous.

"Now, when he weakened, he was ready to hear from God. However, God had to ask him several times to say what was on his heart. What do you think that was?"

Me: "I believe it was exactly what is on my heart now. Lord, this testing seems senseless. You have thrown all these obstacles at me. Each one I have overcome with faith, save the two that work together.

"You said You would deliver me and You call me friend, yet, last week, You kept me without joy and gripped with fear. You even sent more bills in the mail. You hammered me and there is no removal of these obstacles in sight. Sheesh.

"Even some of my friends prayed collectively, yet I still had to go to the pharmacist last night for antibiotics for the infection. You healed the cancer, yet left me infected. Why? You are not a God of 'half-way', so why? This seems senseless."

Jesus: "Wow, you had a lot on your heart building up there." He was not surprised by my rant. "Now, do you not believe that the enemy will build ramparts to get into your cities? Do you not back down when faced with the enemy himself?"

"Erin, the one obstacle in your life is the enemy you flee. You do not stand. Why? It has cost you almost everything and even your very life. STAND! What happened to Elijah?"

Me: "God instructed him in the way he should go. So, Lord, I am going to meet You at the front of the cave and I will wait for Your instructions. You must help me. I cannot do this alone. I need You!"

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, spoken with the true Spirit of Elijah! You will take back the ground you have lost, understand? You are being trained on how to stand directly against the devil himself, when, and if, you come face to face with him.

"It is one thing to battle in warfare, but it is another thing when you are directly against him in battle."

Me: "But, Lord, I am to have rest. I do not want to battle the devil."

Jesus: "Erin, I understand. I dealt with him in the desert for forty days. You, too, have done this in a different sense, but you must know how to stand. You have fled to the desert for forty months. Now it is time, okay?"

Me: "Lord, show me. Give me a fresh anointing so I may stand. I am weak and I need Your help here. I do not want to be gripped in fear."

Jesus: "Lay this down and let Me renew you."

He wrapped His arm around me and put His hand on my right shoulder. I immediately had a download of all of my fears. I saw the devil ordering more and more chains or grips. They held me tight like hands and arms.

I saw each of these break off of my body. I saw them leave my eyes, my ears, my mouth, my neck, my hands, my feet and my heart. I saw the Lord diminish, break and remove all authority of the devil over me.

I saw the Lord pleading my case in Court to God. I saw the hand of God silence the devil and release his grips over my life. As I write, I am light like a feather with a warm blanket over me. I began to weep.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, Elijah didn't weep. Go by way of Damascus and hurry."

Dream over...

Dream 092 – Faith & the Gate

Received Saturday, October 19, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 18)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for walking this road in front of me. Where You go, I follow. Where You take me, I will venture out. Please forgive me, Lord, for avoiding You all morning. I am not sure why I would do this.

I was reminded about the double-minded man in the Book of James and remembered how I once was. I prayed this morning that my avoidance was not an old habit. This was how I seemed to be when I first declared my heart to You. I wonder if I really did.

My head caused doubt, but my heart was certain. My body waged war. Funny; even my walk back then was like a house divided.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I was around 25 years old. Jesus was sitting on the rock today. He was gazing out over the valley. It was as if I had taken Him off guard. He turned, saw me and stood up to greet me. I ran to Him and straight into His arms.

Jesus: "Erin, where were you? I have been waiting."

I looked at Him to make sure He was not disappointed in me. He had kind eyes and a beautiful smile. He seemed very glad that I was here.

Me: "Forgive me, Lord. I do not know why, but I have been avoiding You today."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Well, I am certainly glad you decided to come out of hiding. I was surveying this valley and thinking about expansion."

Me: "Yes, Lord, You seemed focused on something out there. It was the first time You did not greet me right away."

Jesus: "Hmm, this is the first time you have avoided Me like this. Why?"

Me: "Lord, I pray I am not double-minded, but..."

Jesus: He stopped me. "Erin, have I blessed you?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, so much."

Jesus: "Then no more talk of double-mindedness. A double-minded man cannot be blessed from on high because he is not led by God, but by himself. The Lord cannot bless a wavering mind simply because he lacks faith to receive. He is tossed back and forth by waves of doubt. He would fail to see where the blessings come from."

Me: "Lord, I have been like this. I have lacked faith like this even during this season of communion with You."

Jesus: "Then you must always defer to the Holy Spirit in your daily walk for wisdom. The enemy studies you. When he sees you waver, then he begins his attack."

Me: "Lord, the enemy is right over my shoulder and breathing into my ears."

Jesus: "Erin, this is the blacksmith using the course of entry through the tools of the anvil and the hammer in your ears. If the enemy's voice can break through, permeating into your brain, then he can have hold of your thoughts. The Holy Spirit is here."

He put His hand over His heart first and, in a circular motion, over His whole torso, including the belly. Then He went back to rest on His heart.

Me: "Lord, then You see my dilemma. The two are at war when You begin to turn your ear and bind to the enemy's planting of thoughts."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, but you have the ability to refuse to receive this knowing the source from which it has come, understand?"

Me: "Lord, the enemy cannot read my thoughts. How does he know when to strike?"

Jesus: "This question is good. The enemy uses his tools. The best tool is from the years he has studied you. There is a funny Christmas song that actually rings true here. Do know what I am referring to?"

Immediately, and for some reason, I went from having no clue as to what song to singing it.

Me: I was laughing. "Yes, Lord...he knows when you are sleeping, he knows when you're awake, he knows when you're bad or good – so be good for goodness sake." We were both laughing. "Lord, you do not believe in Santa, right?"

Jesus: He became quiet. "Erin, this is not the time to discuss this, but this was created originally to take the attention away from God, the true gift giver.

"The enemy always has cheap counterfeits available for humans to follow. Some who do not know God certainly put their hope in Santa. God will give gifts that are lasting, not those scheduled to burn up and decay."

Me: "Lord, I have so many clients who put their hope in things like this."

Jesus: "Then, Erin, pray for them because, when true gifts will be needed, I tell you the truth, they will not want to receive what Santa has to offer." I knew what He meant.

Me: "Lord, we are taught at such an early age about Santa. We are taught that he brings us gifts if we are good and believe."

Jesus: "Therein lies the trouble. This is taught when children are young and looking for hope. Then children are taught to look to Santa for gifts. Then they are instructed that they must be good to get gifts."

Me: "Wow, Lord, I was taught this as a Christian from the pulpits of our churches."

Jesus: "Yes. This is upsetting and a departure from truth. What little child can remain good all the time? This is teaching that you must earn your ability to receive fellowship and favor by God. This is misleading."

Me: "I never thought something as subtle as Santa would bring so much trouble."

Jesus: "It does not trouble you or your children because you understand Who I am. You know that good gifts come from God Who sits on the Throne. Erin, who does God love? Where does He look?"

Me: "God loves His children. He looks to those who have hope in Him."

Jesus: "Yes, this is true, but there is more; obedience and perseverance to run after that which you seek. To run after God's own heart, you must do so in humility."

Me: "I go too boldly sometimes, Lord."

Jesus: "Sometimes you do not come also." He was giving me a gentle rebuke. "Erin, to come boldly before the Throne is good, but your heart is what is examined. Your heart is what the Lord seeks. A heart of gold is a tall order and a long call. Let me explain. To request this, as you once declared in high school, you must understand that this comes as a line drawn. Just as in the Book of Job, he first petitions for your life. Remember pain is his best weapon. Your pain and reaction to this can be gain to God or the enemy."

Me: "So is this where the term 'no pain, no gain' came from?"

Jesus: "Not really, but there is truth there. Now, the enemy's first order of business is through the opposite of the fruits of the spirit. Through the use of your ears, he can move and enter you. Through your eyes, he can seduce you.

"Now, it is through your other senses which can cause you to sin. Jealousy, envy, strife, bitterness, hate, revenge, imaginations and fantasies; all these things can build up in your mind.

"These things can then incite you to act and do things against your character. He looks for your weakness and appeals to this.

"If you are prone to gossip, then he can bind your ear and feed you the fuel to spout with your mouth that which is displeasing to the Holy Spirit. Then the enemy has a doorway by which all else can enter by legal right."

Me: "This is so clever. How can any of us win such a battle? It is constant, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, a good heart is not earned through acts. It is earned through testing."

Me: "Lord, I do not understand. If I am good in my behavior, should this not win God's favor?"

Jesus: "I understand what you are thinking, but why was Job tested in the first place? God had the perfect example of a good heart in Job right?"

Me: "Yes. Job did everything right."

Jesus: "The true test of a good heart is one that remains good even during the refining and the tests. The refining is defined in the trials. Everything Job lost was restored and even much more was given to him on Earth. This was just his visible reward on Earth."

Me: "Lord, Job's mansion here must be massive."

Jesus: "This should not be the focus, Erin. God is the giver of good gifts. He will do all He promised in due time. Job's trials are there for you to read and understand his battles.

"Job, from a human perspective, should have turned from God. Job 'earned' his course and favor in life according to worldly standards.

"Yet God used Job to show you and others what happened with trials and testing. This is in the Pages of your 'Survival Guide'. You have good food; fresh water in a parched land."

He walked me over to the beautiful River of Life. He motioned to me to bend down at the river bank with Him. The water is so beautiful and crystal clear; the color of glaciated water. The stones in the river bottom sparkled with the light of Jesus.

We bent over and I could see my reflection next to Him. Just being in His glorious presence meant I too had light, but light from Him, of course.

Tears came automatically as this experience of Him, with Him and being here in His Garden is forever etched in my being.

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin you are thinking. What is there on your mind?"

Me: "Lord, Your beauty is magnificent. Just being near You gives me some of Your light. I wish I looked like this on Earth. In such a superficial world, I would have people come to You just based on Heavenly appearances.

"My clients, who spend so much on their appearances, would surely give their hearts to You based on what they would receive here in Heaven."

He was smiling because He knew this to be true.

Jesus: "Erin, you should not base your salvation on gifts and rewards. You give your heart to God not knowing what you might receive eventually for gifts."

Me: "But, Lord, the greatest gift is to live here with You and to have eternal life. This, all of this, is just a bonus beyond our imagination."

Jesus: "Salvation is a matter from the heart. God looks at the heart first. After the heart is examined and then refined; God can begin a good work. Now drink."

He reached down and scooped water from the river to drink. I watched exactly how He did this and followed Him. He began to laugh.

Jesus: "Erin, what are you doing?"

Me: "Lord, You told me to drink, so I am following You."

Jesus: He was still laughing to Himself. "Erin, watching for Me and following instruction is good. Continue to do this."

Me: "Lord, did I do something wrong?"

Jesus: "No, you did not. Just remember, there is no hidden secret about how I took a drink; scooping water with my hand versus if I lapped it like a dog." This time He dipped His head in the river and drank. "Either way, did I not just drink?"

Me: I was laughing. "Lord, I think I like it when You scoop it with Your hands. I recall there is something like this in Scripture."

Jesus: "Yes, you are correct. Remember, I look at your heart, not the way you drink from the river. Now, are you not refreshed?"

I sat for a moment because I realized there was an important piece of 'hidden in plain sight' information here that I might have missed. Jesus already had gone to the tree to reach for fruit for us.

Jesus: "Erin, come and have some of this. Then I have some more to show you."

He saw that I was still at the river bank. I turned to look at my reflection and there was still an amazing glow around me. My face was beautiful and my skin perfect. I began to cry. Even though He walked off, it was still there.

Jesus: "Erin, come."

Me: "Yes, Lord, sorry"

I seemed to awaken out of shock or something. I turned, stood up and ran to Him.

Me: "Lord, I am amazed by what I look like here. I have perfect skin. I glow. I am alive here. It is not like the desert, where everything looks dead."

Jesus: "Erin, I understand your struggles. I know your fears. Please lay these down. Now, come out with what is troubling you so we can work on this."

Me: "Lord, I am trying to gain back lost years. I have been in the desert. In fact, on October 26th, I have counted forty months here. I do not have forty years, but these forty months seems significant.

"I have been sick. The stress, the lack and these trials continue. I am parched. Lord, I see this here as my promised land because, on Earth, I am a prisoner in this desert. If You do not deliver me somewhere else supernaturally, I will remain here and wither.

"Please, Lord, You are sustaining me barely, but I do not see the Promised Land. Please forgive me in advance. If I do not see it in the distance, then I do not have a way to go and look around to report back.

"It is not even visible on the horizon. Every time I feel I am cleansed and healed by You; then more comes. Is my heart this bad, Lord? I cannot go back. I cannot heal myself. I have a set wage. I am alone here. Please, Lord, help."

Jesus: "Hmm, this seems to be a reoccurring issue. Are you holding this against Me?"

Me: "No, Lord, just tired of it all. I was hoping to be set free from these obstacles by now. I must lack faith."

Jesus: "First, has everything not been made beautiful in its time. Eternity is set in the human heart; yet no one can fathom what God has done from beginning to end (Ecclesiastes 3:11).

"Erin, look at the final chapter in the story of Job. Was not everything, and more, restored to him? Was he not also granted beautiful daughters? Was he not also shining brightly?

"Second, You are correct; you are a seer. You expect to see the Promised Land on the horizon. Then, at least, you can think about entering, but are we not doing this now?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, and I am so excited. Please forgive my rant. I was just hoping, if You are still a time off from coming, then is it necessary to continue my refining?"

Jesus: "Yes, I understand your request. Erin, I just finished telling you God knows everything from beginning to the end. Now, do not revert back to double-minded thinking. Either you believe I am who I say I am or I am not. Either you have faith or you do not.”

Me: “Lord, please forgive me for I am most certainly a whiner. Please have mercy on me as I am most certainly a complainer.

“I am so excited to see what you are going to do next that I set days in my head and hope for them. When they come and go, I feel I am either out of Your favor or forgotten. Some days my faith lacks. Please help my faith.”

Jesus: “Take my hand.”

Immediately, we were in the Garden of God. Before us was a beautiful tree. It had birds of every kind on it. It looked like an oak tree. Jesus had His hand in a fist.

Jesus: “Erin, open My hand.” I reached over and opened it. There in the center of His hand was a tiny seed. “Now, tell Me about this seed.”

Me: “Lord, this is a mustard seed. I recognize this.”

Jesus: “Good. Now, do not the smallest of seeds become the largest of trees?” He points to the mustard tree. “Here, this massive tree had the most humble of beginnings, resting right in the palm of My hand. Now, take My hand.”

Immediately, we are in the field of lilies. There are beautiful colors. Every type is truly breathtaking.

Jesus: “Now look around. Are these not beautiful? Consider these, Erin, consider these. Now open My hand.”

I reached over, opened His hand and there was an unattractive little seed; brown, with a flat skirt around it.

Jesus: “Amazing that this would make something so beautiful and fragrant, right?”

Me: I began to cry. “I have been foolish. I have been arrogant. I have been prideful. Even in my sickness, I have whined to You.

“I was told to let my words be few, yet I failed. Lord, I cannot even be like dirt because, here in Heaven, even the dirt has diamonds in it. So it is painfully obviously that I am sometimes more of ‘the world’.”

Jesus: "Erin, it is okay. Your thinking is the same as others. Not one of you is immune from doubt. My instruction is good. Your complaining will, one day, turn to rejoicing. I can see beyond your current circumstances."

"The word is clear, 'if so much care is taken with a lily, then how much more care will be taken with you' (Luke 12:27-40)? Remember, you will be taken from the desert, but, while you are there, find joy."

"Now what else is said here? Ah yes, do not worry. God knows your needs, Erin. He knows this in advance. He blesses those who bless you. Would a mother not be grateful to anyone showing kindness to her child?"

Me: "Oh yes, definitely."

Jesus: "Then remember to seek first the Kingdom of God and all these things shall be added unto you. Your heart should be where your treasure lies. Now take My hand."

I reached over. Immediately, we were back in the Garden of God. We were at the dinner table again. He pulled out a chair for me to sit. Then He waited for me and scooted me in when I sat. Then He sat at the head of the table.

An angel had attended to Him. Another angel came to pour from the vessel which had my name on it. He poured some first for Jesus. Jesus tasted it and nodded His approval.

The angel then poured some into my crystal and gold glass goblet. Then he filled Jesus' glass. Then an angel served Jesus some warm flat unleavened bread in a type of towel. He took out a piece and broke some off for me.

Jesus: "Erin, I know this time has been difficult for you. I know you are searching for answers to your questions. I know you were betrayed by friends who were stirred up against you. Just know that all things hidden are seen. Man can only hide from man."

"Even the enemy can see things hidden in secret. You must understand that exposure of these things are important. It is important because, when all is exposed, then God is free to work."

"This is also the case in repentance. You are forgiven for your worries and lack of faith. Thank you for letting Me know. Now, is there anything else you would like to reconcile?"

Me: "Lord, forgive me for entertaining trouble for so long. You gave me signs of the under workings, yet I did not see clearly enough to finally do something about this."

"I was horribly hurt by what was said of me. The very source the enemy was trying to have removed was the very thing that tripped them up."

Jesus: "One of your friends gave a bit of wise advice, 'Be careful not to startle your enemy in the act of wrong doing as it will attack in full force.' Instead, take notice, wait, pray and see if I do not order the enemy to the gallows they had built for the innocent to hang on. See if I do not order them to go to this themselves."

"In other words, Erin, vengeance is Mine. Give this to Me also. Now, you must forgive as those whom the enemy has used have no idea that the voice in their ears is nothing more than the enemy using a voice like a shepherd."

"Remember, the enemy is cunning. The enemy is a scholar and a graduate in the fine art of deception. My sheep hear My voice. Let your words be few. Remember, the tongue can serve two masters also. The power of life and death are in the tongue."

"Speak life for this is wisdom. Now, do not beat yourself up for what has occurred. Understand the timing of this. This too is divine. Do not be afraid to come to Me in all matters. This is good."

Me: "Lord, I need help with spotting counterfeits. I need wisdom and discernment. Somewhere, I let this slip."

Jesus: "Remember, the enemy is not omnipotent. He cannot be at multiple locations at the same time. He has an army with ranks. His army is who you battle against by his command."

"Recall when I told you that you have a guardian angel from Heaven assigned to you. This angel and others are with you from Heaven. They assist you in your daily walk and, by God's command, keep you from harm."

"Now, there are the rabble and hoards. The enemy's assignment against you is carried out by using these. The enemy sets up regional princes against you. They all work in unison. They have studied you and they know you. They know how to affect you; setting you up."

"Right as the enemy is about to strike, you are given warnings to let you know this is coming so you can prepare in advance. These are your Heavenly hosts helping you."

"Then you pray when the signs come. Now, with this trouble, you saw this. You were shown, but it is hard to act when someone calls you friend. I understand this. Do you remember the story of David and Absalom?"

Me: "Very well. David did not act accordingly when his daughter was raped. He did not punish Amnon for what he did to Tamar. Absalom took matters into his own hands and killed Amnon."

Jesus: "Yes, this is the story, but look how patient Absalom was in executing his plan for vengeance? Not only did he commit murder and lead unto his own understanding, but he quietly worked behind the scenes."

"He sat outside the gate of the city and ministered to the people. He was stealing their hearts against David. He acted as judge for the people and made it seem as if David was too busy and did not care about them."

Me: "Lord, I forgot all about this."

Jesus: "Everything is in Scripture. Every pattern of the enemy lies in the Pages. You will find it there. Now, do you recall a glass of spilled water in October 2000? Your son was three years old. Do you remember this?"

Me: "Oh, this is odd. Yes, I recall it as if it was yesterday. We had just come back from a day at the pumpkin patch. My sons were ages fourteen months and almost three years old. My son had a glass of water he was carrying and he tripped and fell."

"The water poured on the concrete. He completely melted down. He wanted the water back in the cup. He screamed and panicked, begging me to make it happen. I was helpless. I could do nothing except get him a new glass."

"We both cried. I had never seen him in such pain. He was panicked. It was the first time I knew he had special needs."

Jesus: "'The women from Tekoa, a wise woman, said to David, 'like water spilled on the ground, which cannot be recovered, so we must die.'" (2 Samuel 14:14). But that is not what God desires."

Me: "Lord, I had no idea this was in there. What are You saying?"

Jesus: "The deed is done. All have fallen short, but, even though a person is banished, they remain in Him. They are banished, but not banished from Him, understand?"

Me: "I think so. This has layers of meaning. When one sins, the sin is done. It cannot be poured back into the glass like water on the ground. Even though the sin has happened, God loves the sinner. Unfortunately the sin has effects. Those effects can be like ripples."

Jesus: "Yes Erin, keep going..."

Me: "So, my testing and my trouble is because of my sin of disobedience years ago?"

Jesus: "Yes and no. Do not misunderstand the intention of this message. You were a victim of sin back then. I met you here in this desert place and began, little by little, mending your heart and reconciling you back to Me.

"Things that have happened to you and your children cannot be undone here, but, nonetheless, vengeance is Mine. You must understand that you do not know when, but just take comfort in this.

"Now, I have taken down your enemies. A few remain, but they too will go. You must trust in Me and remember My promises. Now, there was something else shown in Scripture that will help you with heart issues. Here, first take some bread."

He tore a piece of His bread and ate it. I took a piece of mine and ate it. Then He took the crystal and gold goblet and took a drink. I then followed. It was wonderful.

Me: "Lord, this is amazing. The bread is perfect and the wine is the best I have ever had. Everyone is so hospitable here."

Jesus: "There is such joy in service. Now let's discuss gates. Look at what the enemy enticed Absalom to do. Before the good people could enter into the City, Absalom stopped them and spoke words of love, compassion and care.

"He listened to them and planted seeds of doubt and discord. He was jealous of his father, David. Now, Abraham sat at the entrance to his tent daily. He did not want to miss a stranger and an opportunity to show hospitality.

"In the desert land, usually if a stranger approached, they might need water or food. This was a heart the Lord seeks. Abraham was willing and able. Then he even entertained three angels.

"Lot did the same. Lot greeted two of these 'men', really angels, at Sodom. Lot was there to warn the visitors of the pervasive evil in the city, inviting them into his own home. The desert was the least of their worries. Both Abraham and Lot entertained angels unaware.

"This kindness brought miraculous events. Abraham, one year later, bore a son from Sarah in her old age. This is impossible in earthly terms. Lot was removed, along with his family before God rained fire from Heaven on the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah.”

Me: “Lord, I am not understanding what You are saying here.”

Jesus: “Erin, when you visit Me, do I not greet you at the gate?”

Me: “Yes, Lord, except this morning.”

He was eating something like olives, cheese and lamb with His bread. He stopped and looked right at me. He had a big grin.

Jesus: “Erin, when I call you to enter in, then please enter in. You ignored My call, so I began to make other plans.”

Me: “Oh no, Lord, were You downsizing my property?”

Jesus: Laughing. “No, Erin, I am not double-minded. I do as I say. I have promised and shown you your place. I am not a cruel God that I would remove favor so easily. Even if you were to run from Me, you still remain in My heart.”

Me: “Lord, if I have ever run from You, it has only been a couple of city blocks, short ones at that. I run back to You every time. I love You too.”

Jesus: “Good! So, we have now established this. Now, let’s go back to faith. There are so many cases of faith in the Bible. Without faith, it is impossible to please God. You have faith for everyone else except for yourself.”

Me: “Then, Lord, forgive me. Let me tell You, I love You so much. You allowed me to meet You in the desert. You met me here and gave me water and food when I was clearly lost. You called to me.

“You gave me water for my thirst and a full belly. You have spoken tenderly to me. I hope that I have helped others to know You. I love You so much.”

Jesus: “Then, Erin, be patient a little longer. I will move mountains on your behalf. I promised you I would give you back what the enemy has been stealing from you and I will. The locusts have run their course.

“Now, these lessons will help you and others. Remember to focus on the Kingdom of Heaven. This Scripture has all the manna you need. Remember the lilies. Watch what I will do through you. You are loved by the King!”

Jesus motions the angel to serve more wine using the vessel with my name on it. I laughed and He did too. I knew what He meant.

Jesus: "Oh, Erin, one other thing; study gates. Even your eyes are a type of gate, as well as your mouth. Understand this."

Dream over...

Dream 093 – Gates & Keys

Received Saturday, October 26, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 19)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for my children and the blessing of our surroundings. Father, I cling to Your gentle instructions while I sleep. I thank You for Your kindness and care. There is no God like You.

I adore You and love Your ways. Lord, You take me ever higher to where our treasure is stored in Heaven. However, what I have learned is that the real treasure is You. Lord, I will store up the treasure of You in my heart forever.

Father, last night as I slept, Your instructions were painful, but necessary. Thank You for running after me and never giving up on me.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am about 25 years old. He greets me with open arms right at the Portal. I was so glad He was there. I ran right into His arms and began to cry. Tears streamed down my cheeks.

Jesus: "Erin, I am so glad to see you today."

Me: "Oh, Lord, I am so glad to be here. I am so sorry for my behavior last week. I was running from You. I did not feel like dealing with what had just happened. I did not want You to tell me it is for my own good. I was secretly mad at myself for not addressing important business."

He was smiling. His eyes studied and searched me. I could tell He saw everything in me. Through my eyes, He knew everything.

Jesus: "Erin, remember about gates. Take into the eyes what is good and leave the rest out. A gate is a welcoming entrance to our city. A gate shows an intruder that there will be judgment there.

"The gatekeeper chooses if he will allow the enemy into the city or not. A gate is a filter of sorts. With no gate, then anything can come and go with no discernment."

Me: "Lord, I never thought about the eyes as a gate. Our city must be our thoughts. Our thoughts must be guarded. My mouth is the same."

Jesus: "Come, Erin."

He reaches down and takes my hand. My hand is so young looking. However, as I write here on Earth, my skin on my hands is old, scarred and battered, both from work as well as from age.

My hands in Heaven are full of life. My skin is supple and rich. There are no lines or crevices of wear and age; no lack of moisture. I was fascinated with this. I was still dealing with a wound from the cancer scare which just finally began to heal after infection had set in six weeks ago.

Here in Heaven, my skin was flawless. As the Lord shows me this, I am in awe comparing the two.

Jesus: "Erin..." He knew my thoughts. "...did I not say that you were dressed better than one of the lilies?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, but, really, I did not know it meant only in Heaven."

Jesus: "It applies to both. One day soon, the Scriptures will come alive for you when you are fully reconciled and restored. Even that brain of yours will be renewed and refreshed. You will see the prophecies fulfilled and the pages of My words come to life.

"You will, one day, say, 'Ah yes, I always wondered what He was speaking of there.' or 'What, a dove with silver?'" He was laughing.

Me: "Lord, why did You not have more in the Bible about Heaven? Why not allow more details so people would run after You?"

Jesus: "It is a measure of faith."

We had walked down to the tree and He pulled down some familiar fruit that I really enjoyed. I was glad He remembered. He handed me one and He took a bite from His. It was amazing.

Jesus: "You must have faith in Me and love Me enough to know I have prepared a place for you and this is good; Paradise, right?"

He was smiling. He stretched out His arms and slowly turned in a circle, surveying this portion of the Garden. Truly what is before me is a landscape which is brilliant and alive; lacking nothing.

The colors are vibrant. It is as if I was looking through a different lens. I began to cry as I realized my focus was not to look around me here, but to look right to Him and study Jesus. I was actually focused on Him.

Jesus: "If I had showed you your place here, you would focus on your destination only and not the One who provided a way for you to get here, right?"

Me: "Lord, are You the gatekeeper or the gate?"

Jesus: "I am more so the Gate. I am glad to refresh you today, Erin."

Me: "Lord, You see something that I do not. Help me. I had a horribly confusing dream last night which woke me. I know this was from You. I am going to bring this to You."

Jesus: "This is good. Let me take you somewhere first."

He takes my hand, squeezes it and, immediately, we are just inside the gates of the Golden City. It takes a bit for me to adjust when we arrive quickly at these places. I was laughing.

Jesus: "Yes, arriving at a destination with no knowledge of where you are going will disorient you."

Me: "Lord, this has more meaning. I can tell." He was laughing in a kind way. He seems proud of me when I pick up on His words with more to them for me to later discover. "Lord, this is referring to Heaven or hell right?"

Jesus: "Both are destinations; this is correct. Many know exactly where they are going; it is a choice. Many still will be disoriented wherever they arrive; either here or there.

"Many will weep both good and bad tears. It will be a very sad day indeed for many. We must know which gate we are destined for and who truly holds the keys, understand?"

Me: "Lord, of sorts. The key holder ultimately is God, correct?"

Jesus: "Technically yes, but the true key to unlock either gate resides in your heart. I could physically give you a key."

He then pulls out the beautiful key which I recognized from seven months ago. I lit up with a huge smile.

Me: "Oh Lord, that key was Yours all along!"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Let's see what key this unlocks. Hmm."

He goes outside the entrance to the City. Before us were two large angels, extremely handsome and strong. Both had beautiful smiles. They were completely in awe of our King Jesus. They let Him take the lead.

The gate was made of one large seamless pearl. It was as if a blacksmith, a 'pearlsmith', fashioned the most amazing saltwater pearl. There were golden etched embellishments on the gate. I was laughing to myself and Jesus knew my thoughts.

Jesus: "Erin, what are you thinking?"

Me: I was laughing so hard as I talked. "Lord, forgive me. I see a golden etched 'kick plate' at the base of the gate. I pray this is for aesthetics and not a real kick plate." Both Jesus and the angels were laughing.

"Lord, why would the City of God here need a gate? Why would the gate need a kick plate? Will someone want to get in here that is not welcome? I am confused."

Jesus: "These are good questions. Much will be revealed soon and then you will understand. Heaven is Paradise, yet there is order, respect, comfort and love here. Erin, do you feel safe here in Heaven?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, completely."

Jesus: "Now, what if God had no rules as a Father sitting on the Throne. In other words, what if there was no gate at the City, angels guarding it or even anyone from Earth could come up and do as they please. How would you feel then?"

Me: "Well, I would wonder about safety as the enemy too would be free to come and go as they please. He would be there to corrupt Heaven. It would be unsettling."

Jesus: "Now imagine your household. Let's say you left both your front and back door open all the time."

Me: "Oh no, that would mean my children would be free to come and go with no leading, even wandering in the dark of night."

Jesus: "Well, they might have the good sense to be with the safety of their parents, but, more importantly, who would be free to come and go in and out?"

Me: "Oh no, bad men, animals and even bugs. Anything could happen. Lord, with the power from the Throne, none of this could happen. This would not be possible, right?"

Jesus: "You are not fully understanding what this is for. Study gates, Erin, from the beginning. Start where the Scripture begins. Now sometimes your true enemy uses another method than the boldness of the gate, but, nonetheless, the enemy enters through something."

"Now, back to you as a parent; to keep your household safe, even if there is no threat of harm, you have a door that swings open. You have a lock and you hold a key, correct?"

Me: "Yes, now I think I understand."

Jesus: "Your children feel secure as you are in the safety of your place. The enemy and others pass by and say, 'Oh, she is home, but her door is closed and locked. I could try another way, but she is wise. I will not gain entrance. I must find someone foolish so I might enter in and ravel the fool's house.'"

Me: "Lord, I have never heard the word 'ravel' before."

Jesus: "It is also related to unravel. You can look at this, but it is an enemy tactic; always working. Now, as a parent, you take comfort, and your children too, when the front door is closed and locked. This is good. Why have I brought you here today?"

Me: "To show me that the City of God is safe?"

Jesus: "Well, this is a safe place. The angels here assist in keeping it this way, but come look."

He had His beautiful key out. He put His hand out for me to come to see this. He pulls out the familiar key, puts it in the gate, but it does not work!

Jesus: "Hmm, did I get the wrong key? Hmm."

He looks at the angels and then He looks at me.

Jesus: "Oh, this key does not fit this lock. Wow, you would think I would have the key to this?"

He was smiling and laughing too. I know He was joking.

Jesus: "Hmm, Erin, what lock does this key fit. Hmm."

He walks over and hands the key to one of the angels. The angel was examining the key and, without words, one of the gates to the city opened inside, almost pointing to a direction.

Me: "Lord, You are joking with me. You knew this key did not fit. You know all things."

He was laughing. The angel handed Jesus back the key and Jesus then hands me the key. I was confused.

Jesus: "Come, Erin, let's open the door that key belongs to."

He takes my hand, squeezes it and we are immediately in the center of the Golden City. I recognized this beautiful type of townhome overlooking the Garden in the center of the City and the Throne of God over and to the east of the door. I begin to weep as the tears drop down my cheeks.

Jesus: "Open the door. Use your key."

Me: "Lord, this key goes to this lock? This is the bridal chamber."

Jesus: "Erin, the key; try it."

I took the key and placed it into this beautiful gold etched key hole. There were rubies and diamonds set in the lock. The door was beautifully carved either in cedar or acacia. I was not certain.

There, on the outside of the door, was carved a beautiful tree. I recognized it as the tree in the Garden with fruit. It was also the tree where Jesus and I had communion a year ago. I placed my hands on the carved tree. It was so intricate.

The wood was so detailed that it appeared almost laser cut instead of hand carved. The trunk itself was overlaid in bronze. The branches were overlaid in gold and the leaves were silver. The fruit was gold, but with a precious stone in each one.

I smiled when I recognized that each stone from the Ephod, or twelve tribes, was represented there in fruit on the Tree of Life. Down next to the tree was a river.

This was the River of Life. It was composed of something like glass crystal and aquamarine beryl in what looked like an illuminated moving overlay. My hand moved over this.

Jesus: "Erin, the key; unlock the door."

Me: "Oh, Lord, this door is so beautiful beyond description. I am captivated by this piece of art." I turned the key, heard a funny chime sound and the door opened. "Lord this is the same sound from the forestry door."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, why did I allow you to open up this door? Is this not also where you reside?"

Me: "Lord, You are truly amazing. Yes, I am near Your Altar and near the Throne. I dwell here in the City; the City of God."

Jesus: "Now you hold that key to the bridal chamber. Why?"

Me: "Lord, is this a trick question?"

Jesus: "I do not resort to trickery. Erin, you reside also in the bridal chamber. This is where you wait for your Prince and your marriage."

Me: "Lord, You are the Groom. I am confused."

Jesus: "Why is this not one and the same?"

Me: "Lord, would not my Groom, You, hold the keys to the bridal chamber? This is the key to my heart, correct?"

Jesus: "Awe, wisdom. Remember who a bride is and whom she waits for. She prepares herself to be pleasing to her groom. She is first given the keys. She must make the decision to first be a bride. She must unlock the door and enter in."

Me: "But how will the groom get in if the door is locked?"

Jesus: "Oh, is she planning to lock out the groom. I did not see this coming. This is not good." He was smiling and kidding. "Look, Erin."

Around the inside of the door, there is only a latch, the handle, but there is no key.

Me: "So, Lord, will the groom lock the bride in as a prisoner until He comes?"

Jesus: He began to laugh. "How can this be if she holds the keys? This is not possible. She would have to lock the door from the outside and scale the walls, entering the chamber from the balcony. Then the groom would have to stand outside and yell up to her for her to throw him the keys to unlock the door. This seems like a lot of work.”

Me: I was laughing. “Lord, You have had to work this hard in pursuit of me and of my heart. I have seen You and You are relentless.”

Jesus: “Yes, but, ultimately, as a respectful Groom, My bride has a choice to turn and go or stay, right?”

Me: “But, Lord, if I am chosen from the beginning, I cannot fall, right?”

Jesus: “Erin, yes, but if you were chosen, eventually you would recognize the voice of the One Who loves you. Erin, you recognize My voice. I am the One calling you in the desert. I am the One who calls out in rough seas. I am the One who knocks.

“I am standing at the door. Remember, you recognize Me. I also open doors you cannot shut and shut doors you cannot open. This too is good. Sad, sometimes, but beneficial to those who love Me and hear My voice calling.”

Me: “Lord, Your voice is music to my sad heart.”

Jesus: “Your heart is the center. The heart, your heart, is good, Erin. God looks at the heart. He takes notice of the other parts too. These work together, but the heart is what the Groom pursues!”

He takes my hand and immediately we are on the balcony of the bridal chamber. I could write an entire book on what I see before me. The beauty and intricacies of the area in the center of the City of God is beyond earthly terms. I began to laugh. I became excited as I looked over the Garden next to the Throne Room.

Me: “Lord, I know that we are at ground level and that, above us, were layers of more chamber and mansions, some very high. I have heard that, the higher up, the closer you are to God.”

Jesus: “Interesting. So you are saying there is greater favor the higher up you go? Hmm, this seems like a type of truth I cannot dispute.” I just realized what came from my mouth was not what I meant.

“What you are wondering is if you are in a lower position because your chamber is at ground level? Erin, really? Let’s leave this idle speculation for those who would like a level of higher status. I have heard this murmuring, but can I tell you, all will be fair and you will find great joy when you see how God works.

"You will be glad for your brother and sister and there will not be one example of bad fruit anywhere. Do not worry. Now, you have had a troubling dream. Tell Me of this."

Me: "Yes, Lord, I know this is from You. You are working on something; I can feel it."

He was smiling and sat me down next to Him on a lovely bench overlooking this Heavenly landscape. We sat on cushions that were something like down, but with a fluffy soft fur-like substance. I cannot describe it, but it was so comfortable that I longed to be in this very spot with Him always. I felt safe, comfortable and so joyful.

Jesus: "Erin, your dream?"

Me: I laughed at my wandering. "Yes, Lord. Well, in this dream, I ran into my first boyfriend. I was the age I am now. I had somewhere really exciting to be; my wedding. I needed to pick up my children and arrive at a certain time in another place for the ceremony. I could not be late.

"I was loading my belongings in an old Chevelle. It had an amazing motor, like a hot rod. The car was painted gold metallic and had white leather seats. As I was loading the luggage, this man approached me. He convinced me to sit with him a while and talk. I had some time to spare but not much.

"We walked to an old coffee shop. After a cup of coffee, he asked if I would like to see where he lives. I looked at the time. Then time everywhere around me had stopped. We were frozen in time. I walked up the dark staircase to an upper room.

"There were ten beds there. He had roommates. Each of the men looked down and out. They were all reminiscing about old times. Each of the men looked like wounded veterans. Each of them had a young woman.

"I wanted to be polite, but I did not want to stay at this place. I finally told him I had to leave. He tried to coax me to stay. Then I remembered what I had written in my yearbook and why. I began to leave.

"I noticed that there were no stairs back to the ground, only an old grain elevator. It was hard to see. It was extremely bright outside, but they had covered the windows with dark sheets.

"Despite the protests, I went down the grain elevator. Finally, I was outside in the light. I was sad that I even stopped to go back there. I got in my car and drove off to the wedding. What does this mean, Lord?"

Jesus: "I am glad you asked. Now, what caused you this week to go back to a painful time?"

Me: "I had to prove the part about the 'Heart of Gold' and the mention of this. When it happened and when I asked for a heart of gold."

Jesus: "Remember, do not look back to see how far you have come. Stay the course. Now, how is this dream related?"

Me: "This was a person who caused severe pain."

Jesus: "Let's look at the symbolization. He appeared, as the enemy likes to do, at a time of great joy in your life. You were traveling, packing and leaving to be married. Even your children were coming.

"The sky was clear and bright and you were leaving. He turned and smiled in a chariot of God." I was cracking up and He laughed. "Now, what does this man do right as you are leaving? He tries to convince you to stop and fellowship with him for a while.

"Notice the surroundings. It was an old dark coffee shop; not pleasant. He then convinces you to see where he dwells. You notice time has stopped. Now he walks you up a dark stair case. You follow him upstairs. There are beds.

All of these men dwell together in one room; like a flop house. They even go to bed openly with virgins in full display of each other as if these are trophies. Now no light can come in because there are dark sheets, or 'veils', over the windows or eyes. What was the temperature?"

Me: "Oh, it was neither hot nor cold."

Jesus: "Oh, interesting; lukewarm. So these men had been through wars too. Interesting battles, battles of all kinds and deep scars only reconcilable by drinking spirits. You decide to get anxious and leave. There are no longer stairs to leave.

"The only way down is a grain elevator; an old one. The virgins have no way out because, since they are no longer virgins, they are convinced they cannot leave the same way they came. With no stairs down, there was no way out.

"They see you leave this way, yet they know you have children and are therefore not a virgin. Your presence there showed them a way out. Now you leave and make it to your wedding in time. This is good. There is more here. Listen close." I was still fascinated by the grain elevator.

"Now, this upper room is a chamber in your head. This is the part in which the enemy has activated through trauma. Erin, the enemy gained access here and he works against you from this part in your head."

Me: "Lord, I do not understand."

Jesus: "You must shut this down. You are free, Erin. The enemy is banned. Do not go back to the room there. I will now shut that door for you."

I was in tears. I knew what this was about.

Me: "This was by far the most painful thing. This was where the enemy was able to work on my head with words from the anvil and hammer in my ears. The enemy caused me to doubt, to fail and to feel insecure from this part.

The enemy could convince me I did not deserve to make it to the wedding. The enemy convinced me that I could never be of any use to You, Lord. Every bit of happiness was destroyed here when I began to dwell here. Then this opens to other rooms."

Jesus: "It is finished here, Erin. I am shutting that door permanently and setting you free."

He faced me and stared right into my eyes. He grabbed my head, placing each of His thumbs over my eyes and His hands over my ears. He then blew on my face. I felt a warm rush like fire, wind and cooling rain. A wave washed over me.

I heard Him call up to God and He spoke in another language. I guessed that maybe it was ancient Hebrew, but I am not certain? Immediately, I felt light, like weight was removed. I cried as I even write this.

He reached over and gave me a huge hug. He grabbed my hand, squeezed it and we were instantly at the aspen grove in the back of my mountain Home.

Me: "Oh, Lord, I love being here too. Thank You. Thank You for bringing me here when I forget my place."

Jesus: "Erin, you are free. Now I live like this. I have closed a door that no man can open. I have the key to this. Now live. You know your Groom comes soon. You are ready for Him, yes?"

Me: "Oh yes, Lord, I have Psalm 45 almost memorized."

Jesus: "Good. You have been told of this. Be encouraged. Now forget about the former things. I am doing something new. You are loved by the King and He holds the keys. Rejoice and be glad. When you have sorrow, fight it with praise and worship.

"This is a tool to use against the blacksmith. Worship confounds the enemy and drives him away in confusion. The basics hold power; praise and worship Our Father in Heaven. Your time is coming, Erin."

Me: "Lord, are You bringing me Home soon."

Jesus: "Erin, it takes the glory of God to conceal a matter and the honor of kings to search it out. Psalm 45 is good. Psalm 46 is also good. Take courage. You are loved."

Dream over...

Dream 094 – Switchbacks & Faith

Received Sunday, October 27, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 20)

Communion

Dear Father,

I thank You for the blessings You have bestowed upon me. You have poured out love upon me. You have blessed me when I worry or fret. You remind me about the lilies of the field and how beautiful they are, yet You say I am dressed better than one of these.

You remind me not to worry, but I do. It is not that I lack faith as I have this and I know that You will carry me and my children through any raging river, but I just do not want that feeling again of when all our resources are gone.

It is the roller coaster ride of life. Just when I can finally rest and breathe, there is another hill and another wave comes. I know that everything You allow brings us to You closer until finally we are with You always. What a joyful day.

Lord, I thank You for using me to experience such amazing things with You. I am forever changed by Your presence and so deeply in love with Your face. When I look into Your eyes, they are filled with knowledge, love and mercy.

When I look upon Your face, I see how You love me. I see how You know every part of me. I see how Your love rises above this and, in spite of all You know of me, You embrace me. There is 'no thing', nothing, I desire more than making Your heart glad I am Yours. I love You.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

I am 25 years old. He is right at the Portal and I run into His arms.

Jesus: "Oh, back so soon? I am glad you have come."

Me: "Oh Lord, I love being here with You. Your presence in my life is the greatest gift. I love You so." Tears stream down my cheeks even as I write.

Jesus: "I love you."

Me: "Lord, thank You for spending so much time with me. I know You have so much to do and so many demands. There are people crying out to You all over the world. Everyone here in Heaven all want to be in Your presence too.

"Lord, when I do my earthly calculations, You have spent many days with me."

Jesus: "Erin, time does not count when you are with those you love. Here, time does not matter, understand? Tell Me what you were doing last night and then I will remind you of something."

Me: "Well I drove my son and his friends to a party. I worried as they were all in my care, so I spoke to the parents and they felt I was safe for them to be with.

"I then took my other two children to the mall because my daughter was celebrating her twelfth birthday and there was a bracelet she wanted. I was stressed."

Jesus: "Why?"

Me: "I hate the mall. My kids change when we go there."

Jesus: "How do they change?"

Me: "I call it material courage. They feel they can 'name and claim' anything they want. I am not able to meet their demands. My wallet is technically empty. I want to give them things, but I have no ability."

Jesus: "Why does this stress you?"

Me: "Because my kids are good kids and I want to be able to treat them when I can. I hate seeing their disappointment. I also know that giving them too much anyway leads to the wrong message."

Jesus: "Come."

He walks me to the tree. Today, He pulls down a new fruit. I was laughing as this fruit looked like a golden apple. He gave me one that was a little bigger than His.

Me: "No, Lord, please, You should have the bigger apple."

Jesus: "No, Erin, I must insist." I took the apple, but I did not feel I deserved this. "Okay, Erin, I am beginning to shut doors of wrong thinking in your walk. You must remove those obstacles the enemy has placed in your head. This part is in another portion of your brain. Do you understand this part?"

Me: "Lord, no, I do not. Please help."

Jesus: "Why did I give you the bigger and larger apple? Did I not say that you could ask for up to half the Kingdom and it is yours?" He was smiling as He knew I would not want to take it. "Why would I say this to you?"

Me: "Lord, I do not know, but I would rather just have the apple."

Jesus: "Why, Erin? You are a child of the most High God. You have an inheritance here, along with your brothers and sisters. You are also a Bride to your Groom. Are the two not joined and share together the wealth of the household?"

Me: "Lord, I know there is a greater message here. What am I doing wrong in my thinking? Please help. You also said that there will always be the poor amongst us. Maybe I am one of these?"

Jesus: "What loving King would have His daughter be poor? Certainly not God. Please, perhaps there was more to that Scripture than referring to a money purse. There is also the poor in Spirit. I also see this in your thinking. Why?"

Me: "Lord, I go back to the stripping locusts. In 2007 and forward, we were stripped of resources. I was hammered wave after wave after wave. I could not breathe between the hits. It was a relentless and long storm. I was, and have been, upset with You."

Jesus: "So last night, you had no joy there. Your daughter knows that her gift came with a price. She felt your weight."

Me: "Oh Lord, I feel awful. I did not mean to do this. I am not a joyful giver anymore. What has happened?"

Jesus: "It is difficult to find joy when you think with lack. It is also difficult to receive gifts of joy if you cannot receive them with joyful acceptance."

Me: "Lord, I love gifts."

Jesus: "Yes, but what happened when I handed you the larger apple?"

Me: "I felt bad. I wanted You to have it. I do not deserve the bigger apple."

Jesus: He was laughing and joking. "So now you are God? Seriously? Okay, am I no longer capable of making sound decisions? Is Heaven about to be overcome?"

Me: I was embarrassed. "Of course not. You are my Lord and You know all things."

Jesus: "Go back to the words of John. He was closest to Me. Did I not say in those Pages that they would do even greater things than I? Do not let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God and trust also in Me."

Me: "Yes, Lord, but I am like Thomas. Lord, we do not know where You are going, so how can we know the way?"

Jesus: "Okay, knowing is through experience. Erin, you know Me. You have been here. Why are you troubled?"

Me: "Lord, You have said 'In this life, we will have trouble.'"

Jesus: "Yes, but I have overcome the world."

Me: "Yes, Lord, this I know, but I will still experience trouble here. I am a single earner."

Jesus: "Erin, you are erecting a barrier. The blacksmith has fashioned a tool here. Let's examine this further. Now this is not just about shopping for material items and the ability to pay for them. This is enemy territory.

"It is about overcoming your wrong thinking in this battlefield. Do not fail to walk My way, trust My truth and fail to experience Me and My life. My life is one with the Father God. My life is abundant and purposeful.

"Why am I different than you if you are a daughter of the King? Erin, you are one of My witnesses."

Me: "Lord, I lack. Help my lack. My thinking is impoverished. When I receive these bills in the mail, I wonder if I am out of favor. When I receive help, it goes quickly. I am afraid.

"I get bothered when I am here with You, yet I cannot bring others help. There are resources here that could help so many of us. How can I be free to minister to the poor if I am held prisoner by poverty?"

Jesus: "Then you must ask, Erin. Ask and you shall receive. Do not make more of it than it is. One day soon, you will reside here, but will I not I also give you an outpouring to give to others. As you give joyfully, you can also receive joyfully.

"Now, this barrier of thinking; it is pride, plain and simple. You will not accept seed before planting it and multiplying a harvest. You give it away or allow it to be stripped. Here is a parable of sorts.

"A traveler comes upon two farms with two farmers. Both fields are perfect for planting. Both fields are prepared for harvest. Both farmers love their work. They love to farm. The traveler approaches both farms. The traveler presents two bags of seed.

"The traveler blesses the seed and freely gives it to the farmers. Both farmers accept it, but one is hesitant. He tries to give the traveler the seed back. The traveler says 'no' and leaves.

"The one farmer gladly accepts the seed and joyfully plants it; praising God for the gift. This farmer reaps a record harvest which produces three times the seed as the other farmer.

"This farmer is able to give away a third of his provision to other farmers and he praises God. He is able to give even more than he received and he is quite comfortable."

Me: "Oh no Lord, what of the other farmer?"

Jesus: "Ah yes. He felt so bad about receiving free seed that he planted in fear. He did not praise God. First the crows came and stole his seed and then the sun scorched it. Then with the last bit of it he was afraid to plant in fear of it being lost. So the seed became bad."

Me: "Lord, this must be me."

Jesus: "Yes. I have watched you and you are rewarded for this, but I am referring to something else. It is your lack of faith. Look at that farmer. His crop and seed were stripped twice. He could not take that heartache again.

"So he sat in his home and imagined his stripping a third time and decided to do nothing. He did not think he had the favor to receive the good gifts of God. He did not even look at the faithful farmer's field for fear of seeing his own lack in comparison."

Me: "Help, Lord, what do I do?"

Jesus: "Erin, come with Me."

He takes my hand and gently squeezes it. Immediately, I am at the base of the switchbacks leading up to my mountain Home. I was crying. He was giving me such a blessing here.

Me: "Lord, I do not deserve even this with my thinking."

Jesus: "Erin, stop. Do not allow the enemy to remove this blessing too. He is a thief and destroyer of all that is good. You have already received this. I do not take back returns. This is yours. Accept this and rejoice. Now, why did I bring you here?"

Me: "To show me my place here?"

Jesus: "Yes, but look at the road leading to your Mansion. What do you see?"

Me: "Switchbacks. However, they eventually lead to my Home."

Jesus: "What else?"

Me: "It is a long journey. Halfway up, there is a small lawn area with a brook, a tree, a view and a place for communion. Then the journey continues with more switchbacks."

Jesus: "Good. Now take My hand." Immediately, we are on an eastern ledge type overlook. "Tell me what you observe."

Me: I was laughing. "Some Mansions near me have the same feature, others have stairs and a climb and some have a beautiful curve, but all are very amazing. The Homes are incredible here in this Valley."

Jesus: "Now take My hand." Immediately we are at the base of the mountain where God's Mansion is. "What do you see?"

Me: "A straight golden path. The path is not wide yet not narrow. It is beautifully lit with lanterns at the foot of the skirt of the path. The path is completely illuminated."

Jesus: "Do you understand what I am showing you?"

Me: "About paths?"

Jesus: "These ways are a road map of your walk on Earth. These roads, or paths, to your Mansion are a record of the type of journey you had on Earth. Your switchbacks are long, but you still arrive at your blessing."

"Some of your friends even had more difficult journeys. Each one, each switchback, rises higher. You even have a lovely place to rest and have communion."

Me: "Lord, when I finally am Home and I take this journey here for the first time, I will cry and praise You the entire time."

Jesus: "Let's go now." Immediately, we are at the base of the switchbacks on my horse. Jesus holds the reigns. I am crying. "Erin, each switchback is a measure in your walk."

He took me all the way up and, as we took each switchback, He explained the timeline of my life's journey. I cried almost the entire time. We finally came to rest at the lawn by the tree there. He pulled down another apple; a larger one. He handed it to me.

Me: "Thank You, Lord."

Jesus: "Now take a bite." It was wonderful. "Accept this, Erin. Remember that when I left the disciples, I had just performed miracles everywhere. I was preparing them for the departure. I told them they were to be given the Holy Spirit and that they were to perform greater miracles than even I did."

"Does this also not apply to you and your friends? First, you must study this portion of Scripture and look at the evidence of miracles. Then you must remove the barriers the enemy has erected in your mind, the ones where he reminds you of your lack and your poverty."

"Please give this to Me. Erin, here, you are wealthy. There on Earth, you are too. Please focus on the good farmer and not the ways of the discouraged farmer. Now come here."

He takes me to the river. He dips my hands into it. He makes my hands scoop from the sandy river bed. He pulled my hands out. There, in my hand, was a perfect Tahitian pearl about three to four inches in circumference. The sand I scooped out with this was actually diamond dust.

Jesus: "Now, if I am giving you this, will you accept this with joy and praise or will you make excuses of why you cannot possibly accept this?"

Me: "Oh Lord, it is amazing. I will gladly take it. Thank You, thank You! Lord, I cannot wear this. What shall I do? You must give me instructions then. I cannot plant it in a field."

Jesus: "Erin, do not display it. Sell it, pay your debts and live free. It is a miracle. Do not bury it in your field. Do not allow the enemy to steal and rob"

you. Allow others to help when I have called them to. Soon you will be able to help others as I will call you.

“Then all will be multiplied. You will be set free. Now, while this is occurring, do not allow the lies of the enemy to lay a foot hold of entrance. Take a lesson from the good farmer. This last barrier of wrong thinking prevents you from receiving as an inheritance all that is promised.

“You are promised to do even greater things than I did here on Earth. You will spread good seed. My Word is good seed. Now multiply it and praise God for His provision and a record crop in advance. Do not refuse what is good. Accept the good gifts by faith and all else will be multiplied unto you.”

I got down on my knees in front of Jesus. I bowed before Him and I repented for my lack of faith. I repented for my lack of joy and praise to my Father in Heaven, the King.

I repented for entertaining the enemy and siding with him against myself and the Holy Spirit. I repented for accepting poverty and not receiving that which the Lord has granted, thereby squandering my own inheritance.

Me: “Please forgive me, Lord.”

Jesus: “Erin, you are forgiven and loved.”

He put His hands on my head and He prayed up to God and offered me to our Father. I did not know what He was saying, but my lips automatically thanked God.

Me: “I receive the blessing.”

Then I felt something pour over me and it was thick like honey. I saw it drip to the ground. It was gold and illuminated and tasted like honey also.

Jesus: “Erin, I will now close a door no one can open and I will open a door no one can close. It is over. Your poverty is gone. Now be blessed and do not fear as it is finished. You are a daughter of the King and He owns the cattle on a thousand hills.”

He brought me to my feet. I was in tears.

Me: “Thank You, Jesus.”

Jesus: “Be blessed. You are welcome.”

Dream over...

Dream 095 – New Wine

Received Sunday, November 3, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 21)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for the love You overwhelm me with. Your mercies are new every morning. Lord, the storms still continue to come. You gave me a dream over a great wind that had come upon our area.

The wind started small, like a breeze, and it blew a small important bill out of my car. Every time I bent down to pick the piece of paper up, a breeze would move it. Every time I reached to seize the paper, a bigger breeze came and swept it up until it was no more.

Then I watched the breeze become a mighty wind, 'hurricane force', until I had a need to run for cover. I began to worry about the people. I could not see my children. Where were they during this mighty wind?

This dream occurred during the night as I slept between 11:30pm on October 31st, 2013 to the morning of November 1st, 2013. Lord, You instruct me as I sleep and show me amazing things. Help me with this.

The next night, as we slept, a wind blew through the Tri-Cities. The leaves were just at their peak. The wind usually comes this time of year to remove the leaves before winter sets in.

My mother was in town visiting and we had planned a day trip to Walla-Walla with the kids. The timing of this every year coincides with the wine country 'fall release', a time when the wineries give a preview of their new wines that are scheduled for introduction in the spring.

We piled into the car Saturday morning with my mom for our road trip. It was an uneventful day to say the least, but any time with my children a road trip becomes an adventure. As we were coming home, the winds picked up.

There were cross winds hitting our car as we drove at gusts of up to 50 mph. A family pulling a trailer lost their battle with the wind as the suburban they drove and their camper both had flipped off the side of the road. Trucks had pulled over and cars looked like they were being piloted by drunken drivers.

There was epic dust and debris everywhere. Visibility in places was horrible. I was praying to myself that the Lord deliver us to our earthly home. Of course You did, Lord, and I thank You.

My mother cut her visit short as she had reports that the first snow fall was coming today. Lord, deliver her home safely today.

Father, I cannot help but believe that the timing of the dream and this epic wind were somehow related. I am not sure how, but I have come to know that You do nothing randomly.

I love Your ways, Lord. Is there nothing hidden for You? You weave all things together for the good of all of us who love You. Thank You, Lord, for Your love and Your safe delivery.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

He greeted me at the Portal with open arms. I was already in tears. I missed Him so much.

Jesus: "Erin, what is wrong? There is urgency in your embrace."

Me: "Lord, yes there is. I am so glad to be here with You. I was exhausted this week. It was a busy and complicated time."

He reached down, took my hand and walked me to the right of the tree in the Garden of God. He motioned for me to sit and He went to pull down two fruits. I looked over and watched Him.

He examined which one to pull down. He took something like a plum. I smiled. He came back over and handed me the plum. He then sat down next to me in the grass.

Me: "Thank You, Lord, but I have a question."

Jesus: "Yes, go ahead, but take a bite first."

He took a bite of His plum. I then followed His lead. This plum was several shades of purple. The skin, or casing, around it was illuminated with a golden shimmer. It was one of the most beautiful plums I have ever seen.

I took a bite. Wow, the plum was both tart and sweet. Immediately, I felt renewed, strong, energized and alive. I watched as my skin became supple and young.

Jesus: "Erin, now go ahead and tell Me about the fruit."

He was smiling and laughing. He was glad to see me. I watched Him and I could tell He was really glad I was there. I have tears even as I write.

Me: "Lord, why do You love me so much? What is it in me that is any different than anyone else?"

Jesus: "You were going to ask Me a question about fruit. What was your question?"

Me: "Lord, I thought there were twelve different fruit on that tree, but, as of today, I think You have easily brought more variety of fruit than just twelve."

Jesus: Laughing. "Erin, this was a great discovery. Who said there are only twelve different kinds of fruit in Heaven? Where is this written? Again this puts limits on God here. These limitations, or sensibilities, are hidden agendas.

"You know, by sight, the gates of your eyes, what I have allowed you to see here. The enemy would love for you to tell others, 'Oh Heaven is beautiful and it has twelve fruits.'

"Yet is it not better to say 'Heaven is wonderful and, each day, there are new things to discover. Each day is new. Great is His faithfulness. Great is God. Who can match Him?

"Who can out create Him? So, Erin, yes, today, you have discovered there are certainly more fruits than twelve."

Me: "Lord, is this an even deeper parable of sorts than just eating new fruits here?"

Jesus: "Hmm, interesting. Scriptures are good fruit. My Word you must eat from daily. This is good food. If you are meaning that, each day, in the Word there is a new fruit to discover and a new mystery to unfold, than have you not eaten that fruit which is good? Each day should be a new adventure."

Me: "I never thought of the Scriptures like this fruit, but, Lord, You are right. The Pages contain daily food."

Jesus: "People forget this. Now, you said something else. Let's discover what, like all of these different fruits, should make you unique."

Me: "Lord, I feel that people are murmuring that I believe myself to be higher or 'more qualified' than others and that perhaps I am jealous of others and spiteful."

Jesus: "Interesting. So at this point in this long race, let me understand this; am I a God who would take you down this path and then deceive you? Would I remove your gifts immediately without warning to give you a chance to reconcile your heart?"

"Am I also then a liar too? I have told you of your mantel and how that, by having this, comes at a price. You know this already, but why would I give you such a mantel. Hmm."

He was thinking. He stood to His feet and took my hand, bringing me to my feet. He began to walk me to the vineyards. The landscape was a wave of color. The grape leaves were all different colors. We came to a batch of white and gold grapes.

The leaves here were green with yellows. The underside of the leaves were a beautiful purple cast. Jesus reached down and pulls off a grape to hand to me. The grape itself was small. It looked like a jewel or a small pearl.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, eat this."

I put it into my mouth and it was almost like honey, butter and a grape. The taste was so full that it was difficult to describe. It was wonderful. I reached to grab another one and Jesus stopped me.

Jesus: "Erin, this grape you just ate was unique, right?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, but there are more of these; like thousands more. There are plenty here."

Jesus: "Yes, here there are. If you had a vineyard like this on Earth, the yield from one acre of harvest would be priceless. Now, why are you being represented by this grape? Why you? Any ideas?"

Me: "Lord, first I love You with every ounce of my being. I ran after You, yelling at You, until You turned. I heard the enemy mimicking You, but I knew it was not You. I would not let up until You did something. Is this why?"

Jesus: He was laughing and nodding in agreement the whole time. "Erin, it actually started longer than this. It started when you were young; from your earliest years. You were given stories. Things happened to you. You had things to share. You had a heart for others who were going through the same thing.”

Me: “Lord, I remembered. I was alone in my suffering. I was jealous of other kids. I had such an abnormal childhood and I pretended to hide it. People did not know about me. I was a loner at times and I was angry.

“I was mad at You for my life. I thought You abandoned me and, like others, that I could not trust You. All I knew was not to depend on others.”

Jesus: “Erin, you believe there are no accidents, correct?”

Me: “Yes, but why me?”

Jesus: “Why not you?”

Me: “I can think of many reasons.”

Jesus: “Then I have made a big mistake. Oh no, this is the first. I had better hand the Throne right over to others. I am no longer a capable God!” He was laughing the whole time.

Me: “Lord, You are so funny. Of course You are perfect. Please forgive me.”

Jesus: He was smiling. “You are forgiven. Now, why did I choose you? Oh yes, I chose you because you did not seek me for any other reasons except for love. You wanted to fall in love and learn about this.

“You wanted a heart of gold. You wanted me to show you My love and, in turn, you wanted to fall in love with Me. You had many reasons not to try. You had not felt love before.”

Me: I was in tears. “Lord, I remember when I was eight years old in my grandmother’s church. They sang ‘Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so’, but I did not understand this. If You love the little children, why allow them to be hurt so badly?”

Jesus: “Erin, I know you were hurt. This was allowed so you are able to be here with Me today. Why is this good?”

Me: “Lord, I would go through all of that again if I knew I would end up here with You. You are the best part of my life. Being here with You is a gift and a treasure. Please forgive my doubt in Your abilities to choose.”

Jesus: “Erin, you were called slowly after you were stripped of ‘yourself’. You let go of your personal ambitions and allowed Me to take you places.

Yes, Erin, the dreams were no accident. You are the small paper and 'the bill' in the breeze.

"You have been swept up with Me as My love is like a hurricane. Now there is more than one grape on a cluster and one cluster yields toward a record harvest, yet not all grapes are made into the choicest wine.

"Remember, it is the vineyard owner who determines when the grapes are ripe for picking. Even then, all those which are ripe are not always produced into the choicest of wines. Some harvests produce better wines under all types of conditions."

Me: "Lord, I want mine to be of good use to You. I want my wine to taste sweet."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Very good, Erin, now you understand. Under all circumstances and in all conditions, you must put forth good fruit.

"There will be a time coming in which there will be testing. The times are changing. There is a new wind. Now those I have called will produce a good harvest. How?"

Me: "By the fruits of the Spirit?"

Jesus: "Yes. Actually, these fruits are good, but it is the vineyard owner's choice who is used. Now, operating in your fruits produces gifts, but there is more. When all seems dark, praise! Do not forget this. Praise and Worship is a weapon.

"Reading the Word of God ingests good fruit. Your Counselor and guide, the Holy Spirit, instructs you. All of this works together. Focus on Me and focus on your place here."

Me: "Lord, I am coming into trouble? I thought I was released and free?"

Jesus: "Erin, you asked, 'why you?' I am telling you. These trials have all come so you lack nothing. You will experience great joy very soon. The enemy hates you beyond reason and is in relentless pursuit of you on all fronts.

"You know your place with Me. Focus on this and focus on Me. God looks at the heart. God pursues hearts. If there be anything bad in the heart operating, then fruit cannot be seen."

Me: "Lord, can I not operate on 50% fruit, yet I am still holding something against someone, You can still use me right?"

Jesus: "A lamp with 50% power is a dimmer light. A lamp with limited oil will soon burn out. How can this be good? Is it not better to replace the oil in the lamp with fresh oil and fill it up? Is it not best to put full power in the lamp?"

"To be used fully from God, you must not have a small level of bad fruit in you. Secretly envying your brother, not forgiving your mother, holding a loan payment against your neighbor or being prideful and bitter is not a vessel of good use.

"Then repent where you must. This is good, but you must come before Me in all things. You have learned this. Nothing is beyond My grace and mercy."

He reached down and squeezed my hand. Immediately, we were by the lake near where I had seen a celebration on a boat. It was so beautiful here.

Me: "Lord, who are these people and what are they celebrating?"

Jesus: "Erin, you still do not know?"

Me: "Know who?"

Jesus: "Erin, there are many celebrations in this valley today. Many people are being reunited with those who were lost."

Me: "Lord, this is in a vineyard by this beautiful lake and this Home is a beautiful Mansion. The music is incredible and the wine is good, yet I still do not know."

Jesus: "These people are rejoicing the new wine from the harvest. Erin, one of your grapes went into the new harvest. You and your friends produced good wine. There is a celebration here in Heaven with rejoicing over your good fruits."

Me: "I do not understand here. Lord, whose House is this?"

Jesus: "A friend of yours, but neither of you dwell here yet. This Home was just finished. Yours is almost complete and there are many others. Soon this entire valley will rejoice when you all come Home."

Me: "So, Lord, are these relatives of ours?"

Jesus: "Finally, yes! Erin, these are friends and relatives of those whom you have touched on Earth by your story."

He gave me zoom lenses with my eyes. I recognized the blacksmith, the seamstress and a few others. Tears began to stream down my cheeks.

Me: "So, Lord, these people know me?"

Jesus: "Yes, they are rejoicing with you. Your time is nearing completion and they have received more good news. More have come."

I saw laughter and dancing. Everyone was about 25 years old. They looked like something out of the pages of a magazine. All of them were dressed in white, but special occasion white. They were not in robes for worshipping, but more like wedding reception attire.

There were dresses, hats, suits and beautiful beaded hair. They were all perfected. They had just finished dining together in the vineyard and now they were celebrating something.

Me: I was crying. "Lord, are You coming soon? I am ready. I want to celebrate as I have not felt that I have done much to help others. People still think I have an agenda hidden and bad."

Jesus: "I was treated the same. This I understand well. You do not always feel the effects or visibly see them here, but, make no mistake, there are effects. Erin, does the Word not say, 'Heaven will rejoice'? Now the angels rejoice and so do the saints when just one who was lost comes Home."

Me: "Oh Lord, I have done nothing to further the Kingdom like this. These are just dreams and visions."

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, you have friends here rejoicing when you rejoice. They petition when you are in the battle. Heaven rejoices. This is just one of the celebrations."

He takes me back to the ridge. There, we look over the Valley where I will someday be Home. Jesus waived His arm. From all areas of the celebrations in Heaven rejoicing, I saw the night sky and it was clear and beautiful.

Then I saw candle lit lanterns, paper lanterns, go up into the sky. From my spot, there was maybe a million. I sobbed openly at how Heaven rejoices when we rejoice. I gripped Jesus' hand.

Me: "Lord, I have never seen anything more beautiful in my life next to Your face. I have no words. It is beautiful."

Jesus: "Erin, you have friends everywhere and your story matters. I give each of you a story; your life to share so others may be blessed by your victories through your suffering. Did I not also endure the same? Soon you will be here and you will celebrate.”

Me: “Lord, are You coming soon?”

Jesus: “Erin, you are being prepared to look for Me and at Me in every type of battle and every circumstance. You have almost completed the task I set before you. You will soon be able to share your mantel with others. You will help others as I gift them. During this time, you will have rest.”

Me: “Lord, am I to die then?”

Jesus: “Oh, is there only rest in death? I have not heard of this. No, Erin, your jubilee will be a time of joy, peace and love; a time of great blessing as I will restore you and keep your enemies far from you.

“I have set up those who I have called to bless you. This willingness to bless you will gift them. You too will be a blessing to others. Now, hand Me those who have cursed you. They are a burden and reproach. I will take these cares from you.”

Me: “Lord, thank You. I do not know what You have planned as I do not see an end in sight. However, I will trust You in all things.”

Jesus: “Erin, I love you.”

Me: “I love You too.”

Dream over...

Dream 096 – God’s Backyard

Received Saturday, November 9, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 22)

Communion

Dear Father,

Lord, I love You. Thank You for being my rock and a solid foundation. Thank You for speaking to me daily. Lord, if there is anyone whom I have offended, please forgive me. I pray You reveal them to me so that I can try to make things right.

Lord, I find myself working all day to please man, but the One I want please the most is You, Father. We are like vapor here. Our lives are short lived for certain as death overcomes us all. As You know, Father, I am a bit worn out. The daily hammering is taking a toll on me.

Just as some people are kind, there are ten who are not. What does this teach my children? Father, You vowed to protect Jacob. You let Jacob climb the ladder to see You, but I am certainly not Jacob.

I am at a crossroads right now. I have to decide between two possible answers to the same question. Both answers lead down a dark path, wherein one of the answers leads me closer to You and the other answer does not.

Lord, You have promised to remove two of my obstacles. Please, Lord, show Your favor and remove just one of these now. Please, Father, I know my wrestling with You, like Jacob, has resulted in my illnesses, but I am asking for a miracle.

Perhaps I am to remain in my current state in the desert longer, but I do not believe this is what You would want for me. I have faith and believe You will do as You have promised here. I love You, Lord, and I ask for Your help.

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

I am 25 years old. Jesus is at the Portal to greet me.

Me: “Lord, I am so glad to see You.”

I run into His arms and rest for a while. For a time, we say nothing to each other as Jesus simply holds me in comfort. After a while, He talks quietly to me.

Jesus: "Erin, you have something to say."

Me: "Lord, according to some of the prophets, You have apparently told them that no one is to speak on Your behalf from this point on. These same prophets are also saying that You are now going to speak to everyone individually instead as You are coming for us now."

Jesus: "Erin, I have been coming since the beginning. This is written, but I will not come as a thief in the night for you. This was meant for those who choose to live with arrogance up until My coming. These are people caught unaware, who are doing as they please and have not prepared their hearts.

"In the instance of a 'thief', well this is due to their heart being a door left wide open in their home. They are so confident in their own understanding that, if a thief were to enter while they were sleeping to rob, steal and destroy, they are surprised. These are the same people who say, 'Look what I did for You, Lord, in Your Name.'

"I tell you the truth, these are the same people who use the name of God in vain and operate in the opposite of the fruits of the Spirit. These people will be kept in darkness because they are void of light."

Me: "So Lord, we will be given a warning?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin. Remember, you are not one of the ten virgins. This was another reference to Israel later, but this parable is a very good one. You are wise to ready yourself and prepare your household as always. This is wisdom. Now you have a lock on your front door, correct?"

Me: "Of course."

Jesus: "Why do you do this?"

Me: "To keep out men intent to harm and to keep my children secure."

Jesus: "Then should you not also use the same principle with My coming? Remember, we have gone over this. This is a good time for review and reflection. I have given you much. Now, will not much be expected with this?"

Me: "Lord, You seem calm. I see no indication that You are coming tomorrow or even next week for that matter. How will I know?"

He reached to take my hand and walks me to the tree with fruit. He carefully examines which fruit to pick and then pulls down the one that is like a plum.

Jesus: He smiled and laughed. "This is one that you really like, right?"

I laughed. He always knows which ones I am thinking of.

Me: "Lord, You are funny. You know me so well. You study my thoughts and even search them while I sleep"

He hands me the 'plum' from the tree.

Jesus: "I am taking you somewhere. You will enjoy this."

He squeezed my hand and, instantly, we are at a type of stone bridge. Below us are waterfalls that are greater than the Niagara Falls. These waterfalls seemed to flow directly under the bridge we are on.

Behind me is a calm quiet lake, perfectly square with the fountains. There are buildings around it, but, more incredibly, God's Mansion is there. I have never seen a more beautiful structure in my life.

The structure of His Home is crystal glass, bronze and gold. It is so majestic and so incredibly powerful that it must surely contain things worthy of God.

Me: "Lord, this is incredible. It takes my breath away."

I looked around. There was a Garden so beautiful and perfectly groomed that it did not even look real. It was just that incredibly perfect. Tears started to roll down my cheeks. I simply could not believe where I was.

Jesus: "Now, there is a reason you are here. I have something to share with you."

Me: "Lord, God's House is amazing. It seems even more massive than all of New York City. The structure is unlike anything I have ever seen on Earth."

He was smiling. He knew I would not be able to even describe this.

Jesus: "Erin, in My Father's House there are many rooms."

Me: "I guess I had always thought that this was a metaphor. There is water flowing from His House that extends everywhere."

Jesus: "It would stand to reason that living water would begin with God. Now I have something for you to see."

As we look around in a full circle from the bridge, it seems as if I could see all of Heaven. It is so vast, I cannot give a measure of it. I saw, in the distance, the Golden City of God. I saw different mountains, valleys, seas and lakes. There were some unusual things, but all of this was so beautiful.

Then Jesus drew my attention to something below the waterfalls. He waved His hand and, there, I could see Earth. Earth was very small in comparison to Heaven. I was gasping as I could see at different magnifications from where I stood.

Jesus: "Erin, what do you think?"

Me: "Lord, this is phenomenal. I can view different perspectives, yet all is in front of my very eyes."

Jesus: "Now you are seeing what God sees."

Me: "Yes, but He can see more because He can see even into our hearts and any evil therein."

Jesus: "There is nothing hidden from God."

Me: "Lord, does He come here often and observe?"

Jesus: "He has several vantage points in which to see at any given time or even any given period of history. If He ever needs to reference to something, it is always there."

Me: "Lord, but God is all knowing always?"

Jesus: "Yes, you are correct. This is good. However, this is to show you in a way you can tangibly see for yourself. Now, let's zoom into your home."

Immediately I could see my region, my city, my neighborhood and then my room. There, I saw myself sitting in my chair writing in my journal.

Me: "Lord, at any given second, God could take us Home. He could literally pluck us out of our earthly home. It is amazing how big God is and how small we are."

Jesus: "You are correct, Erin. God is God, My Father in Heaven and the Creator of all of this. He is interested in you and watches for you to seek

Him. He commands angels concerning you and has appointed watchmen on your walls."

Me: "Lord, as I see this, I am speechless. Nothing is impossible with God if you are in His favor. I knew this before, but now I see. We are so small. Our lives are but a breath; just a vapor. We clearly were created from dirt."

Jesus: "Do you see though how much the Father loves you?"

Me: "Yes, because, surely, He can remove us in an instant. He can bring down mountains and do whatever He pleases. What stops Him from just eliminating us after what You came to do for us?"

Jesus: "Erin, love; a far greater love than man has the understanding for."

Me: "Who are we, Lord, to play God with each other's lives? We are arrogant. I see, from this point, such defiance and darkness. How could the angels fall when they knew they could never be like God? The enemy came to destroy man from the beginning in the Garden. When, oh Lord, will He allow You to come for us? How much worse must it become?"

Jesus: "Until God sees that each man has heard My Name and when He has called all those to Him, when they are ready and when the Scriptures are fulfilled as written, with Israel as the gauge."

Me: "It seems soon then, Lord?"

Jesus: "You are to continue on your course. You are to live each day knowing your Father in Heaven sees you and knows your heart. The voices will stop as the Lord works in you to create a good work."

Me: "Lord, what do You mean by 'voices'?"

Jesus: "They, themselves, have declared it. There will be no more Words. Look at Scriptures carefully. You sons and daughters will prophesy; your old men will dream dreams and your young men will see visions."

Me: "So will it be children who will prophesy?"

Jesus: "Will an adult not take notice then when a child speaks? This is more likely."

Me: "So my dreams will not stop nor my visions?"

Jesus: "It is wisdom to study Scripture, Erin. There will be many voices when My Spirit is poured out. You will know who is false as there will be a wrong spirit within them.

"There shall be no more Words as the Lord will speak clearly to sons and daughters and while you sleep in the watches of the night. Visions will come in the light of day, understand?"

Me: "Thank You, Lord. I was hurt that You had not talked to me about these prophecies of others. I was not jealous; I just felt left out."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, you know the Voice calling to you. You know the dreams you have and the visions. I promised to protect you in this. God has silenced voices so that many will now look for the Spirit of the Lord instead of looking to man.

"Each of you will now share and help each other. No man is a god. This is reserved for those who are meant for destruction and those who do not hear the voice of One calling in the desert remember."

Me: "Lord, You have had me review old promises and Scriptures. What is happening?"

Jesus: "Erin, old dreams of yours will be activated also. What have you been dreaming last week?"

Me: "Oh Lord, I have been brought to my knees. I have had dreams of evil dark children. They look so innocent on the outside, yet they murder. I see them in every dream. I feel the world ignored them and now they will be activated from the enemy."

Jesus: "Erin, the enemy knows Scripture very well. Children have been ignored as having no consequence. Just as the Lord uses this and My Spirit pours out on the children, so will the enemy try to pour out on the children. What were the ages of the evil children?"

Me: "Usually thirteen years of age or older."

Jesus: "Time to go to cultural studies throughout history. Look at rites and passages. Look to Israel here. You will come to understanding."

Me: "Father, You must be a ways off as You are just beginning the outpouring now?"

Jesus: "Erin, look back to your dreams from one year ago. There is prophecy hidden here. I gave you two of the fleeces you laid out for Me.

Remember the dome and the five inches of snow. Remember your prayer. Now, what was that again?"

He was smiling and gentle, yet serious.

Me: "Yes, Lord, forgive me. I said, 'If these dreams are really from You, then I would like to see five inches of snow fall in Jerusalem.'"

Jesus: He was laughing. "Interesting, hmm, and did this happen? This was a bit of an extreme fleece based on the temperature just a week before?"

Me: "Nothing is impossible with God. Lord, was the timing of that snow fall significant to this coming January too? Are there events coming? You did not give me the five inches of snow in Jerusalem until some weeks later."

Jesus: "Okay, research this, Erin. I also know your other fleece, which is personal. Have I fulfilled this?"

Me: "Yes, and in a truly miraculous way."

Jesus: "Yes, and I am not finished."

Me: "Lord, I also have my largest fleece. This has not come yet either. When this sign comes from You, the world will be in deep distress."

Jesus: "Again, Erin, Israel is your gauge. What is happening with your sister?"

Me: "Oh Lord, the USA is abandoning our sister, Israel, and arming her enemies against her. Jerusalem will soon be divided and the enemy wants to make Jerusalem its capitol. What do we do?"

Jesus: "Then prepare. I told you in advance in Scriptures for it is written. This is no surprise. Whoever hurts Israel will suffer and whoever blesses her will be blessed. There will be a great divide coming.

"There will be earthquakes and shaking unlike anything the world has ever known. What you have seen is only labor pains; small signs here and there."

Me: "Lord, I am scared. One of the dreams I had again was of the Hanford Nuclear Site and what is to come? I need to get our family out of here."

Jesus: "Erin, do not be afraid. Fear of God is good, but do not have fear as this will render you ineffective. Now, how should you prepare? Turn to God and not to man. This is wisdom. God has power and dominion over all things. You can do nothing except live until that day."

Me: "Lord, please keep Your children safe."

Jesus: "Erin, I told you that you will be far removed. There will be a time when there will be no access to connect by modern methods. This will create darkness and chaos. It would be wise to prepare for a time like this. Do not rely fully on the tools of the blacksmith."

Me: "So is our technology governed by the enemy?"

Jesus: "Yes, he uses this. Are you not dependent on it?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, I am."

Jesus: He began to laugh. "Erin, look."

I saw, in broad daylight, something like a war in the Heavens. Gabriel and Michael were fighting against the dragons of red and black and the spider over her web. I saw Michael cut the spider's web and Gabriel gave her a nearly fatal wound.

Immediately, I saw financial districts globally shut down. There was no commerce and no communication. Then, with the internet down, there was no communication with loved ones. Those addicted to social media of any kind had no access.

Then there were no cellular phones and no service. Whole businesses had no way to function. Only satellite TV, radio and land lines worked. There was some cable working, but most of it was out.

I saw looting by the third day. There were also blackouts in some areas.

Me: "Wow, Lord, You would think it was the end of the world."

Jesus: "Last night, I had you recall when Mount St. Helen blew and the fallout of the grey ash. Remember how long you were stranded over just the ash?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, we did not have technology then, but we could not drive because the ash clogged the air filters in our autos. The ash in our lungs could cause a collapsed lung, so we did not leave the house. As a family though, we pulled together."

Jesus: "This is good. Erin, once the Scriptures are fulfilled, then you can look for Me."

Me: "Lord, but there has been quite a few close calls this year."

Jesus: "Yes, and wars and rumors of war. However, whoever divides God's land, they too will have theirs divided. You can expect this. Now look at something else."

Immediately, I saw darkness cover the Earth. I saw lights all over the Earth like lanterns. I saw a ton of these lights in Indonesia, many in India, some in Israel and some even in Palestine. I saw some in Islamic communities too.

I saw many more in Europe, especially northern Europe. I saw very few in Russia, Japan or North Korea, but I saw so many in China. I saw many in Africa and a huge amount in Australia. I saw more in South America and an even disbursement in the U.S. and Canada.

Me: "Lord, is this all of us; Your 'lights'?"

Jesus: "Yes. Is it not beautiful? Many are quiet. I have appeared too many here. Under threat of Jihad, many will worship in secret, but God hears them and sees their tears. All is recorded.

"Erin, please take great joy and pray for all of your brothers and sisters. You will be surprised whom God will call."

I fell to my knees on the side of this golden bridge. My head was between two ballasts. I began to weep. I felt the Lord's hand upon my back.

Jesus: "Erin, rise up!"

Me: I stood to my feet. "Lord, I am excited and afraid at the same time."

Jesus: "I understand. I will be with you always, Erin."

He had such a love on His face for me.

Me: "So I will continue to dream?"

Jesus: He was jokingly began to tease me as He replied. "Hmm, I don't know here? Did someone here in Heaven say to stop? Earth will say it, but it did not come from Me and it certainly was not from God.

"Do you want to stop? Are you wrapping these up and placing Heaven on a shelf or under your bed? Oh no!"

Me: "Lord, You are so funny. Okay, I will continue. I love that I come here with You. Please do not stop calling me."

Jesus: "Okay, just remember, where is it written that, when I pour out My Spirit, your sons and daughter will stop, that your old men will stop and that your young men will stop?"

"What kind of outpouring from God does this sound like? This sounds condemning. Erin, continue your course and be prepared. I have good things planned as you remain in Me and I in you. I will bless those who bless you too."

Me: "I love You, Lord."

Jesus: "I love you too. Oh yes, I still need to remove two obstacles for you. This can also be a gauge. So be encouraged and take heart."

Me: I bowed with my hand on my heart with a curtsy. "Thank You, Lord."

Jesus: He began to laugh so hard. "Erin, you have not done this in a while. I delight in you."

Dream over...

Dream 097 – Wrestling with God

Received Sunday, November 17, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 23)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You, Lord, for the light at the end of the dark tunnel. Thank You for the dry patches in my life. Lord, the desert is passing. This earthly desert will pass and You will be there with open arms.

Lord, You have reminded me in Hosea 2:14-23 of how You restore me. I felt so unloved and deserted, but You, Lord, have given me back my vineyards and I will sing as I did in my youth.

I felt You had forgotten me and my children, yet, instead, You gave me much more than all of this. You gave me a blessing which will last for all eternity. You showed me love. You showed me what I did not believe possible; that I was worthy of a Father's love.

In Joel 2:18-23, You show me that restoration of dormant things are renewed and produce fruit. You instruct me about my enemies and that they will be far removed. Oh Lord, You do answer prayers, but not always how we expect. Instead, they are much greater when You are allowed to work.

You remind me to be glad and rejoice. Just when I believe it is not possible to be blessed anymore, You continue to show Your love to us. In Joel 2:24-32, You take it even farther as I was ready to stay and enjoy my fruit.

You lead us farther down the path of blessings and outpouring. You reminded me during my suffering over the years, when I thought I was cast off by You and forgotten, that, one day, You would come.

In Isaiah 61, the year of the Lord's favor, Your recompense will be with You. In Joel, You have paid me back what the stripping locusts have stolen. You are now beginning to save me from the swarming and the desert locust too.

I see an end to my desert place. I see You coming soon. You continue to remind me of something I never imagined; that I am royalty. I have been set free. I am given a victory. You will use us to shape history.

I am a daughter of the King, not an orphan as the world would have me believe. I am very wealthy because I am Yours. Lord, Your praises will be forever on my lips as I will not stop thanking You for Your love for me.

I was once an orphan only to find out I am really royalty and I belong under the King's covering in His Courts and forever in His favor. How can it be? How is it possible? It is not possible by man's plans, but only by God's.

I love You, Lord. Each day, You gently lead me. You hold my hand and lead me and my children through raging waters. You set my feet in a dry place. You even make my feet like a deer and enable me to go on the heights.

In Haggai, You remind me that Your promises are sealed with a signet ring and cannot be revoked. You remind me that You will never remove Your love from me, a girl who was called 'not loved'.

You will do what You have done for me also with others and, one day, we will all rejoice when we are restored and dwell in Your House. I continue to pray for those who hate me for the enemy still stirs like a sleeping dragon.

Jesus: "Erin, come up here."

I am 25 years old. I run straight into the arms of Jesus as He waits with an open embrace for me. Today was a very tight hug.

Me: "Who am I to You, Lord, that You would love me, my children and my friends so much?"

Jesus: He was smiling. "Erin, You are always amazed. Why?"

Me: "Because Your love is far greater than anything I ever imagined and even greater than I prayed for. You are so beyond our comprehension, it is beyond measure. I cannot use any form of measuring device and I cannot even calculate a figure to put to it. You should, by all accounts, give up on us and go, but You do not. You love us despite us."

Jesus: "My way is not yours. My Father loves even beyond comprehension."

Me: "Lord, how can God love even more than You? The two of You are made from the same DNA."

Jesus: He was laughing. "DNA? Oh, this is funny, Erin. Now you have understanding. This is good. Just as I walked amongst you on Earth, one day God will walk with you again. There will be such a day."

Me: "Lord, I am already so blessed by Your presence. I am so amazed and overjoyed by You, Father. You are a miracle. All week, I would cry. I had to stop myself several times when worshipping You so I would not break down at work and appear to be unstable to others around me.

"I had Chris Tomlin songs going through my head during the day and I would begin to get tears as I thought back over this path You have taken me on."

Jesus: "Yes, it is a good path, right?"

He was laughing and smiling because He knew the end of it in advance.

Me: "Lord, tell me there must be more." I became excited and began to jump up and down. "How can it be possible? Oh how You love me, Lord."

Jesus: "Erin, there is still more to your story. Are you not glad you did not stop almost five months ago?"

Me: "Lord, I would already be here with You. I would be a winner either way. I am so thankful for this race. I am so thankful that You have found something in me worthy of such a wonderful form of daily communion. I feel so loved by You now."

Jesus: "Ah yes, because at one point you did not feel this love from Me, correct? Please explain."

He walked me over to the rock in God's Garden and motions for me to sit.

Me: "Lord, You understand. During my darkest times and during most of my life, I felt You were absent. I did not know love, but I knew I wanted my Father's love. I sought to know this.

"I remember back when I was first saved in church. I raised my hand in church to confirm to others that I made the commitment to give You my heart, but I did not feel any different. It seemed that there had not been a change in me."

Jesus: "Erin, I remember this. How many times did you raise your hand in church?" He was smiling and bending His ear toward me by cupping His hand behind His ear. "Go ahead."

Me: I was laughing. "Lord, well, You know all things. I must of taken that salvation prayer and raised my hand at least a dozen times because I did not feel anything."

Jesus: "To be exact, you did this every other week for about a year. What were you hoping for?"

Me: "Lord, everyone said there is an immediate change and that we are transformed. The pastor came up to me and said 'Do you not feel changed?'"

"I would nod my head 'yes' because I wanted to be like the others. One woman immediately began to speak in prayer language, another said they felt a warm blanket fall over them and one man could not stop crying. I was stunned."

Jesus: "So what about you, Erin? Please tell me what happened to you."

Me: "Well, I am a bit embarrassed because You know. However, now I must confess this to You. I was jealous of these others. It was now six weeks later with no visible change.

"I began to search for what I was doing wrong. One believer told me that, perhaps, I was still living in unconfessed sin because of my new age practices."

Jesus: "Erin, you had one of the most important changes. Please remember back to the day you were saved in 1993. Remember back."

Me: "I cried. I had people come up and congratulate me, yet I did not know any of them. I felt numb. When I went home, I immediately threw away all of my new age stuff. I had a lot of money in this new age stuff.

"I smashed crystals, I tore up books and then I cut up my tarah cards. I then used a hammer to crush my other divination devices. I remembered things jumped up and cut me. I was bleeding.

However, the tarah cards were the scariest part of this exercise. Very strange things happened when I was destroying them. I was breaking a covenant with them."

Jesus: "Do you want to see something? Come with Me, I have something that will make you smile."

In an instant, I was with the Lord across the street from my old house in Portland, Oregon. He then moved his hand and, instantly, He took me back to another time. It seemed around 1993 or maybe 1994, but my time frames may be a bit blurry here.

Over the house, I could see in the Spirit. There were a huge, very dark group of demons over my house. Then the Lord opened my view into the basement to where I was smashing these articles.

I saw Heavenly angels with large swords battling these demons that were determined to stop me. There was one point in which I held my most powerful tarah deck. I remember this as I had hesitated.

I put the deck back in the silk, very ornate box it was kept in. I kept this to the side while I destroyed more. In the spirit realm, each time I destroyed one of these articles of divination, one of the demons were destroyed by a Heavenly angel's sword.

Many, many demons of all shapes and sizes were removed that day. At the end, I saw one extremely large demon. I was surprised as this one looked more like a very ancient female queen. She was almost Egyptian in origin with makeup, ornate jewelry and large weapons.

When I put the tarah deck back in the box, this 'queen' seemed to slay two angels. I did not see bloodshed, just them disappearing. This made the battle more difficult for the remaining Heavenly angels.

Then I saw myself look at the box. I quickly took out the deck and, with a very long cutting shear, I began to clip the deck in half. Once I did, I remember becoming quite sick to my stomach and I even thought I had heard these cards screaming.

As I kept cutting the deck into pieces, the large demon started to become smaller and smaller until she was finally gone. The angels were then victorious.

Since I had hundreds of these items, I went back through my house just to make sure I did not miss any. Then I saw myself run to the toilet and vomiting. From my view here though, I vomited so much and so violently that I clogged the toilet. I was free!!

Me: "Lord, I had no idea this did all of that. I had no idea there was a struggle in the spirit realm. I had no idea at all."

Jesus: "Oh yes, Erin, there is more. Come."

He squeezes my hand and, instantly, I saw the angels returning to the courts in the City of God. There was a celebration, music and cheering.

Jesus: "Erin, I will rewind this a bit and show you a different view."

I saw two scenes. He walked me over to the Balustrade and I looked over. I saw a group of people here in Heaven cheering me on with every break of the items. The saints were hugging each other and rejoicing with me. They were cheering on the angels in the battle too. It looked and reminded me of the Super Bowl. I began to cry.

Me: "Oh Lord, I had no idea that I was doing anything significant at all. Wow, if I had known, I would have cut up my idols of materialism at the time too."

Jesus: He was smiling and laughing. "Erin, sometimes the race is a process. Sometimes, with certain strongholds, a slow approach is more effective for your walk.

"God is in control and He always knows what is best. Now how do you feel now? Would you have rather manifested visible signs on the day of your salvation or results such as this?"

Me: "Lord, of course this. However, at the time, I just thought it did not matter to You. I needed a sign. I needed to know You were there. From what I recall, the demons seemed to regroup, strategized and came after me time and time again. The battle had really just begun at that point of my salvation."

Jesus: "Oh no, Erin, the battle began way before this. There was a bounty on your head because you were from here to begin with. You were marked as God's."

Me: "Lord, why have You made it so hard to run after You. Can it not all be a bit easier? You waited until my 50th year to deliver me; seriously? And, Lord, forgive me, but there is still a battle. I am still not cured."

Jesus: "I will revert back to something about David now. Why was David punished and what were the choices God gave David for his punishment?"

Me: "David was being punished for taking the census. The choices God gave David for his punishment were either seven years of famine in his land, flee for three months before his enemies while they pursued him or three days of plague in his land.

"David was in complete distress and said, 'Please let us fall into the hand of the Lord for His mercies are great, but do not let me fall into the hand of man.'

"As a result of the three days of plague, thousands of his men died. Lord, why would You mention this when I was not given a choice by You to decide my punishment?"

Jesus: "Erin, you misunderstand here. What did I show you from God's backyard? I showed you that God can see the end from the beginning. If you truly trust Him, then you must also understand His ways are much higher than yours."

Me: "Lord, why has my punishment continued? It is much longer than seven years; try seven times seven."

Jesus: "Erin, I am being patient here with you. Why do you wrestle with Me?"

Me: "Lord, because like David said, 'You are merciful'."

Immediately, we were at a river in the desert or some barren land. It looked like somewhere in the Middle East, but I could not tell. It looked familiar, like somewhere in my dreams.

Me: "Lord, where are we?"

Jesus: "Erin, look."

I saw two men wrestling for some time near the river. I recognized this as Jacob.

Jesus: "Now go and study what Jacob was dealing with. How long has your punishment been since you destroyed your idols?"

Me: "Well, Lord, twenty years, but, before this, the twenty years I was under Your care."

Jesus: "Interesting. Erin, do you know Jacob served under a punisher for around twenty years too? Was he not constantly promised this or that and then deceived? Was this not always by the hands of man, not God? Then what of this wrestling?"

Me: "Well, I guess I am like Jacob here then. I will not let You go until You finally bless me, just as in Genesis 32:26." Jesus was shaking His head and laughing. "And, Lord, I am only a small female. Jacob and this angel was huge in comparison."

"I looked at my life as me suffering for what I thought had been an unreasonable amount compared to my sins. I have watched You pass me by time and time again and then blessing my enemies and my greatest punisher.

"I thought to myself, 'well, surely, since You claim to love me, surely in the pockets of Your robe, You might have a small blessing in there for me?' Gosh, Lord, even dogs at the table get scraps, so why not me?"

He was laughing so hard at this that it felt like the ground was shaking at this river.

Jesus: "Erin, very good. This is very good. This is a day that, I tell you the truth, God Himself is smiling down on you from His Throne. Now, why did I show you all of this?"

Me: "Lord, I am no Jacob. He becomes Israel here. I cannot be compared to anyone in the Bible. I am just me."

Jesus: "Erin, why do you think the Scriptures were written to begin with?"

Me: "For laws and rules to live by."

Jesus: "Correct, but this is only half of the story. The Word of God is truth and truth dwells in the Pages. Your trials can be referenced by reading the trials of those who have gone before you. These are stories of others and their mistakes and it is all divinely appointed.

"You see yourself through these men. You walk the steps they do and even Esther. Erin, look at Esther. You have seen Elijah and his struggles. You have not stopped running after God because you demanded a reason for the trials.

"You have wavered between faith like Job's and fear like Elijah. Even Jacob had fear. He was afraid of his brother, Esau, too. Esther was married to the King, yet even she approached him in fear. David was fearless against man at times, yet realized he would much rather be under God's wrath rather than man's. Where are you at?"

Me: "Oh Lord, no question. I would prefer to be under God rather than man."

Jesus: "So then, God gave you promises. God has promised to bless you. Why, then, do you wrestle? Why wrestle with God's promises?"

Me: "I guess when I do not see results from the promise instantly; I assume I am out of Your favor. I discovered another possible cancer spot; a lump. Am I to constantly deal with this?"

Jesus: "Look down over here."

I saw a grassy area along the banks of a river. It was dark, so I mostly heard the wrestling. Occasionally, I would hear a small splash in the river or a break of a branch from a bush. Then I heard a yelp, a moan and then it stopped.

After I heard the angel say 'let me go', Jacob refused and asked for his blessing first. All this happened even after Jacob was hurt. I saw dawn beginning to break.

Me: "Lord, there is so much symbolism here that the words from Genesis does not even expand upon. This is amazing."

Jesus: "Go ahead, Erin, explain."

He was smiling. He knew everything as He had been there from the beginning, yet here I am telling Him as if I could tell Him something new.

Me: "Well, Jacob crossed the river and began to wrestle with either an angel or You. They wrestled all night until dawn began to break and You or the angel said to stop. Oh yes, but before that, You or the angel put Jacob's hip socket out of place, giving him a disability as a reminder his whole life of this night.

"Then Jacob refused to let You or the angel go until You blessed him. Now, it must have been You Who blessed him as, technically, an angel cannot bless as they are messengers. They only bless at the command of God Himself, right?

Jesus had His arms crossed, His legs extended and His feet crossed at His ankles. He was enjoying my commentary.

Me: "Then dawn breaks. There is always darkness before the break of dawn. Then the angel changes Jacob's name and blesses him too? How can an angel do this Lord? It was You Who was wrestling Jacob, I just know it."

Jesus: He was laughing at this. "Erin, your conclusions are good based on wisdom. Now let's go back to your illness and your wrestling. Is this your thorn? Hmm, let's really look again.

"You are still alive today. That is good. You are crippled from your neck, yet you are rarely feeling the pain you once had. Hmm, you only feel pain from this when you do not take heed of warning or decide to wrestle with God."

Me: "Oh yes, and then I am in bed for days."

Jesus: "Erin, your heart is steadily beating. It has not stopped right?"

Me: "Oh yes, my pacemaker keeps me steady."

Jesus: "The cancer; was this removed?"

Me: "Yes, I believe so, but..."

Jesus: "So why was all of this allowed?"

Me: "I am not sure."

Jesus: "When you gave your life to God, you also gave Him your heart, your neck, your head and all of your parts. Now you must allow God to work. If He truly knows and sees all, then, if He loves you, will He not, as your Father, stop at nothing to make sure you are well? Even you and your children too?"

Me: "Yes."

Jesus: "So be glad and rejoice. I tell you the truth, if God had not planned to use Jacob and his story here to help others such as you, well God certainly would not have needed to wrestle Jacob all night. He could vaporize Jacob in an instant, split the ground open and remove him and his descendants, right? Is God not capable of outwrestling man?"

Me: "You are right Lord. You could have pinned Jacob down immediately and brought him low."

Jesus: "I could have done this to you as well, Erin. Instead your walk and your race is to help others who are struggling too. I could bring you Home today, but will you not be more effective by trusting God's plan here?"

"If you were to go now, people would question your abilities to meet face to face with God. There is more to the story as well. You would leave some people hanging with questions. Now why do we not we continue on and build your faith."

Me: "Lord, can You remove these obstacles?"

Jesus: "You must trust God, Erin. You are being shown the great love of friends. You have been told that your enemies will be removed and so will your obstacles. Stay with Me and let Me complete a good work."

Me: "Forgive me, Lord."

Jesus: "You are forgiven."

He takes off His sandals and has me remove mine too. He walks into 'Jacob's river' and He reaches for my hand. He brings me to Him. I knew He would baptize me here.

I began to cry. He lays me out by the small of my back and lets me know I am a new creation. He dips my head back. When I come back up, I am face to face with Jesus. His eyes are looking right at me.

Jesus: "You are blessed, Erin. Your children and friends will also be blessed. You will be a blessing. You will pray for your friends and they too will be blessed. You are loved by the King."

Above Jesus, there was an open Heaven with healing beams descending. There was sun so bright behind Him that I am not even certain if it was the sun but rather Him.

I heard a choir of angels singing, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lamb!" I was so blessed. The Lord brought me up and kissed the top of my head.

Dream over...

Dream 098 – Late Grape Harvest

Received Saturday, December 7, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 24)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for this day, the home we rent, the safe neighborhood we live in, my children and their good health and for my job. Lord, I have been tested this last week. I have been taken from a high position at work and have been brought low.

I am reminded by man that my worth is nothing to them. I had worked hard always, being watchful and careful and putting my needs aside for the sake of this company. In America, it is called protecting your job security.

Instead, Lord, I failed once again to come to You in all things. I failed to work for You and not for man. I answer to my oppressor here, but, ultimately, I answer to You, my King and Lord.

Father I made an error, a very small one, one I overlooked. I left a document unprotected and someone intent on evil changed it. I was rebuked more harshly than the person intent on doing the evil. I was told to not speak when I tried to defend myself against what this person did.

Oh Lord, You removed two of my obstacles and with only one left, You added another. I am speechless today, so let my words be few. In 1st Samuel 3:10, Lord, You stood there calling. Then Samuel said, "Speak, for your servant is listening."

So Lord, I have been brought low this week. Just when I believe I have achieved a measure of earthly breakthrough, my enemies are there reminding me of my smallness.

Lord, You called me. You whisper to my heart, 'Erin, I am in you and I am here.' Lord, I pray for my enemies and I can do nothing about their intentions. I do not seek the favor of wicked men, but I run after the love of my life, my Lord Jesus, my King.

Jesus: "Erin, come up."

Jesus is standing with outstretched arms. He is wearing a white robe today and He is also wearing a crimson red sash about five inches wide. There is embroidery on the sash itself, along with Hebrew letters. I run into His arms as, here, I am Home with Him.

Me: I wept openly. "Lord, I am so grateful to You for being here with open arms. I became so busy again that I failed to come to You when You called me.

"When I did, I was so focused on the trouble that the blacksmith covered my ears with lies and I listened. Lord, will I ever learn? I cannot be in Your favor when my own thoughts are treacherous. Where do these thoughts even come from?"

Jesus was consoling me and listening intently. His eyes were so kind and His shoulders broad.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts; are you not to take them captive?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, but how can anyone claim to be humble or have humility, really? I cannot, nor will I, as surely as my enemies would troll around looking for mistakes. They would surely see my weakness and ask to bring me low, Lord. I can never be humble as my very thoughts remove this."

Jesus: "Study humility and the meaning of this. This is not something given to you as a gift or a badge of honor to wear. Humility is a reflection of a price you had to pay which brought you low.

"No man who stands on a pedestal that he himself has erected has humility. Surely this is an idol erected to commemorate his actions. Well who does this?" He was serious yet somewhat cavalier. "Worry not about striving to be humble. You cannot obtain this without trials. Now what did you learn?"

Meanwhile, He walked me over to the beautiful tree with fruit and pulled down two golden pears. The pears glistened as He took a bite and then handed one to me.

Jesus: "Erin, you will like this."

I laughed at Him as He clearly was comforting me. He was and is in complete control. I reached for the pear and took a bite of it.

Me: "Oh, this is wonderful. This is the most amazing pear I have ever eaten. We are so close to Christmas; is there a partridge in the tree too?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "No, Erin, you do not want to bite into a live Heavenly partridge. They are very lovely here. Now continue."

He began to walk me over to the vineyards. He held my hand as He ate His fruit. I am very small in stature compared to Him. I was so glad to be here. I was so glad He loves me.

Me: "Lord, please forgive me. Please forgive me. I listened to these men curse me and then a woman cursed me and my children. How do I pray when my thoughts are treacherous? How do I forgive senseless attacks?"

Jesus: "Erin, you have studied your enemy. You understand that his job is to bring you low, exhaust you, make you ill and then insert his thoughts. His job is to separate you from Me. His job and number one strategy is to divide and conquer.

"In the Word of God, the enemy's strategies can be tracked. Remember, there is nothing new under the sun. The enemy did not fall from grace in Heaven to Earth and then was given new revelation and new gifts apart from God.

"Therefore, the enemy has no choice but to use these same strategies over and over again, yet cloaks these by venue only, understand? You are hated because you have Me in you.

"Is it not written that I left those who love Me with the divine Counselor, the Holy Spirit? The Holy Spirit is God speaking in you. You must learn to tap into this. Now, tell Me what occurred, how it occurred. Tell Me about your week."

Me: "I was beginning to get sick after a productive trip. The trip brought me great joy and I was highly productive. However, when I came back, I was exhausted. I then was hammered with this and that; a sick dog, trouble with one of my children, a breach of trust was broken, more bills came unexpectedly and finally trouble at work."

Jesus: "Yes, Erin, same strategy; divide and conquer. The enemy seeks to keep you from Me. He will use every tactic to cause destruction, doubt, discouragement, delays, debts and devastation. He delights in your trouble."

Me: "Lord, it is amazing how relentless he is."

Jesus: "Erin, his time is ending soon. Do not be surprised at the attacks. Count this as good as it always causes you to run to Me." He reached out and squeezed my shoulder. "I have not forgotten the promises I have given you."

“Two obstacles have been removed. The last seems as if it has increased to two, but is really one and the same. As soon as the one is removed, the other will follow. I am here and with you. Hang on just a bit longer.

“The very gallows they built for you, they themselves will hang from. Pray for them as this short smug victory is an illusion. God sees all things. You have seen yourself that nothing is hidden from the sight of God; nothing.

“Remember too that the Holy Spirit, and the other saints who have gone before you, intercede for you. Know that all of your prayers are heard so be of great courage and be glad.

“The Lord God on the Throne takes no delight in allowing the enemy’s petitions to be granted. Just know that God will not allow you to be tested further than what you can bare.

“Remember what God is asking of you through these trails. Stop asking why and instead ask ‘what can I do to change, Lord?’”

Me: “Oh no Lord, are You saying there will be more? Did You not just promise me I was finished with these?”

Jesus: “Yes, Erin, but do you see yourself completely dross free now?”

Me: “No, Lord, I cannot be free from all of this. There is always residue.”

Jesus: “Now I hear a level of humility, Erin. This is good. Now let Me delight in you. You delight also in me. Remember your place here in Heaven. Remember where you will dwell. Please also remember that these trials will grow more intense, but the Word of the Lord is true.

“The Scriptures will give you comfort and sing to your soul during your trials. Erin, if the enemy has separated you; you still have the Holy Spirit. The Pages are filled with love; love to call you Home to Heaven.

“Memorizing these promises will keep out the enemy’s lies. This is wisdom. However, know this; that I am with you always. Call upon Me and I will answer.”

I reached over and, in tears, I hugged Him. I dropped to my knees and bent over to put my wet cheek on His foot. He bent down, reached for my hands and looked me in the eyes.

Jesus: “Erin, you belong here and I will not leave you. I will not abandon you. I love you.

Me: I was crying. "Lord, You have done so much for me. I am forever grateful and I will spend an eternity expressing my praise and gratitude to You. I Love You.

Jesus: "Now, come up. I want to show you some things. Are you free to move forward or is there something else?"

Me: "Lord, please do not delay long. Please come for us soon; or remove my obstacles so my children and I can be free. I would like to leave this desert place. I do not mean any disrespect, but I will continue to be relentless in prayers and petitions to be set free from here."

Jesus: "Erin, I tell you the truth; as surely as I stand here with you now, I will not let you remain where you are and forget what I have promised. I will remove you and your children to safety. Please be patient and continue to allow Me to work. However, it is good for you to continue to pursue Me in prayers."

Me: "Lord, Thank You. I will continue to petition and pray, but I will also praise You. I love You tremendously."

Jesus: "Now, let's see what the harvesters are doing."

I saw vast rows of grape vines. The rows alternated between purple leaves, red leaves, green leaves and yellow leaves. He walked me over to a hill of green leaf grapes. There was a coolness and crisp feeling in the air.

Me: "Lord, this is so beautiful. I did not know grapes had different colors in the fall. They are so pretty. I feel like I am looking at tapestry."

Jesus: "Hmm, interesting choice of words. Yes, all of these are in different stages. Some have produced their harvest and the grapes have been made into wine. Some of this wine is even enjoyed at weddings. Others have not matured or are close to maturity. When the grape is mature, the vineyard owner will call the harvesters to bring in the grapes."

Me: "So Lord, this is a giant live parable. Please make this so I might understand. Please grant me wisdom to write what You are showing me so that those whom You have called to discern and interpret can clarify the deeper meaning."

Jesus: He began to laugh. "Erin, just ask! You are funny."

Me: "Lord, You leave much open for interpretation? Who can know Your thoughts? Who is worthy?"

Jesus: He is laughing. "Yes, I understand, but wisdom will reveal that there are levels of meaning and layers of wisdom in My Word. Only those whom diligently seek wisdom and knowledge will find it. This means you must run after Me. You must do some work here.

"Are you not told to study Scriptures, listen to the Holy Spirit and love Me with all your heart, soul and strength? Are these mutually exclusive of each other?"

"Will I not, however, have special grace for the latter and not give even the simplest of men or child who loves Me with all they have special wisdom, even with a lack of knowledge of My Words? What fool can say all is available to everyone apart from Me?"

Me: "Lord, please forgive me. Are you saying that You know some will not have access to basics like a Bible, but, if they seek and love You, You will grant them even more than boastful scholars?"

Jesus: "Yes, of sorts, but all are equal. Now try this."

He reached and gave me a grape cluster containing sparkling green, white and pale yellow grapes. It looked like the grapes were rolled in sugar. I took a bite and the grape was sweet and tart. It was wonderful and the skin of the grape was thick.

Me: "Lord, this is amazing. This is a thick skinned grape, yet it has the juiciest center."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Have another."

I noticed they were cold to the touch. I put another grape in my mouth. It was cold at first, but the center was warm.

Me: "Lord, this reminds me of how I used to be before I knew You; thick-skinned and cold."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes. What a blessing you answered My call or you would be maturing very late on this very vine. And yes, you would need thick skin."

Me: I was laughing. "Lord, the grapes taste so sweet. It is wonderful. Is this to be grappa, a late grape harvest?"

Jesus: "We have spoken of this before, but you missed some things about this which are rather important. The sweetest grapes stay longer on the vine, even into cold temperatures. However, the danger is that it could easily die or ferment. It is touchy.

"Now the sweetest wine is made from the grape which stays on the vine the longest. This is what you taste. These grapes have not gone bad."

Me: "They taste wonderful. I cannot imagine that there would be any bad grapes in Heaven."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Yes, you are correct. All is perfected here. The grapes do not go bad nor does mold ever appear. Now, why did I show you this? The sweetest wine comes at a price and is the most difficult to make. Come with Me."

As we walked, I noticed the field of vineyards we were walking through was higher up on the mountain. It was interesting because I noticed that many of the harvesters seemed European, but I could only see from a distance. I wondered if some of them were from the little Austrian-like village.

We walked down to a beautiful looking Mansion with French-style architecture. It was more like a small castle; really huge, but not over the top like many on Earth. It was made of large, chiseled stones and the finest limestone; like pavers, but perfect and extremely large.

The Home had chiseled corner stones and capstones over the windows. There were hammered metal pewter awnings over each window. The windows seemed to be made of the finest ebony wood with all beveled 10/crystal glass panels; impossibly expensive in earthly architecture.

The windows opened out, which is not even allowed anymore for insurance purposes. All the windows were open and each had flower boxes of stone and bronze with beautiful trailing succulents and flowers.

The front of the Home was made of perfect chiseled pavers of gold jasper. There was a large fountain in front and even more fountains at the entrance.

Me: "Lord, this Home takes my breath away. It is exquisite and unlike any home I have ever seen. Who lives here?"

Jesus: "They are friends of yours. You will know them quite well once you arrive. Now they have taken an interest in harvesting the late grapes. There are others too, but some like different wines. Each of these is housed by a different wine maker. Look."

I saw these beautiful hills, mountains and valleys, all with beautiful Homes. Some of these Homes were Italian like, some country French, some Spanish and some Tuscan Californian. They were all amazing estates. My eyes began to well up with tears.

Me: "Lord, some of these are waiting for the saints to arrive. I see angels and workers finishing these Homes. Lord, You are coming very soon, aren't You?"

Jesus: "Erin, why are you so scared and worried? Celebrate!" Then He stopped walking, turned to me and became quite serious. "Erin, you will not know the time of My coming until it is almost upon you. You will be granted the warning to ready your households, but remember that wisdom is proved right by her actions.

"It is wisdom always to prepare your house, but you must not be afraid. Now, just as the finishing touches are being prepared on your Mansion, the place that you dwell by My Altar is ready for you. This is for you and your young ones to be near Me and at peace. Do not be afraid."

Me: "Near Your Altar is the bridal chamber. I know this part is complete. I have not seen any new construction in the City other than decorations being placed. I saw this in my dream and a passerby asked me if I was ready for the great celebration."

Jesus: "You are correct. The City of God is ready to receive those who dwell there. You are near Me, do not worry. Your neighbors consist of those you think not and some who are the very least on Earth. Those who love the most are nearer to the Throne."

Me: "Lord, I do not feel worthy of this. Remember, my thoughts are treacherous at times."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, do you not think God on the Throne has anger and thoughts? Has He not shown His strength before? Remember, in My House, there are many rooms."

Me: "Lord, I just had a thought. There is multiple layers to this. I can visibly see the chamber apartments in the City and that the City of God is like a House. The architectural layout of the City is like the original layout of the Temple and its grounds. Yet all who have sought Your heart and persevere through their trials dwell there."

Jesus: "Erin, I can assure you that there is much more to the City that you have not yet seen. You will understand more when you come and finally dwell here. Some saints have requested a Home in the City, so the Estates which you have seen surrounding the interior section are like sub-divisions.

"There are beautiful Mansions here. Also, you love your mountain Place, so you come to the City for work. The work is something you will very much enjoy. You will also have a place here to stay and visit with friends and family. You have not seen everything.

"Now, some reading this might wonder if they will have favor to dwell in the City and may even doubt their place as the blacksmith speaks evil and doubt into them. Well, chances are good that, if the enemy is talking to them, it is because they already dwell here and the enemy knows this.

"So please encourage your friends and assure them that some might even have a better view of Heaven than even you do."

He smiled, bumped my shoulder, smiled again and laughed.

Me: Joking. "Oh no, how can this be, I have been robbed! I put my wrist over my forehead and acted dramatic. He lit-up and laughed at me. "Lord, I do not feel worthy when I hear some of the stories of the incredible faith of so many believers.

"Well, many did not even have Bibles or even have the ability to worship You openly in public. Many have been beaten, raped and robbed. Even many still have never had a home like me yet. I live like a queen compared to most of the world, yet, through all of their suffering, they had unwavering faith unlike me."

Jesus: "It is very rare for a man who has been stripped of every earthly thing, and even his own manhood, to not waiver in his faith. There is a price to pay, right? These trials, and the perseverance to go through them, are sweet desert wine to My Father God.

"Erin, it is still about the heart of the man. It is not about the measure of trials, but the heart which is refined through them. No matter how hot or cold the furnace is, it produces in you a heart which I seek."

Me: "You are right, Lord, I cannot compare my walk to others as this is not right. I have met someone who has not been through many personal trials, yet the faith of this believer and the ability to always rely on Your words is truly remarkable. I have never, in all my life, seen such Godly faith."

Jesus: "This is good, Erin, that you would be near such a believer as this faith is sent from the Lord Himself into your life. Faith like this, if a man were to possess, can move mountains. Faith as small as a mustard seed can do much as it is written.

“Unshakeable faith will cause the enemy to flee for his life as he will surely see the Lord behind such a believer. Now this will help you. Ah yes, why did I take you to this Estate? Right, come with Me.”

I was laughing. He acted absent-minded, yet everything with the Lord is planned perfectly. We walked around to the back of the Estate. It was all windows and so beautiful.

It looked over across the valley. I saw all these vineyards. It was a sea of color and incredibly beautiful. I saw two buildings. The harvesters were carrying in grapes to the one building and harvesters with buckets were going into the second building.

Me: “Lord, what are they doing?”

Jesus: “The first building is producing the sweet wine. Let’s go see.”

He takes my hand and instantly we are inside. There was a huge party there. The building had glass windows everywhere. There were workers pressing the grapes with their feet and rejoicing. It looked like so much fun.

When Jesus appeared, the whole place bowed to Him and praised Him. Many went to run to Him. Then they continued to celebrate while Jesus looked on smiling and laughing. I gazed at Him. He truly is so amazing. I love Him so much and so does everyone here.

Praise is always on their tongues and lips day and night for what He has done. As the whole place began to celebrate even louder with His presence, I noticed that a harvester had dropped his bucket to run to Jesus. The bucket consisted of the skins of the downtrodden grapes after all the juice was removed. Jesus then placed His hand on my shoulder.

Jesus: “I will show you this next. Come with Me.”

As the celebration continued, the Lord walked me through the door of the second building. There, the leftover skins and pumice was being put into a giant vat and pressed further. This was then cooked, or so it seemed.

Me: “Lord, what is this?”

Jesus: “Erin, this is what you call grappa.”

Me: “Forgive me, Lord, but I thought grappa was the final late grape.”

Jesus: “Well, you are correct, but it is more. It is the remnants of the crushed late grape and, yes, a parable and mystery in which you will be far removed from. However, you will still see this from the vantage point of Heaven. Take My hand."

He reached for my hand and gently squeezed it. Instantly, we were in the Garden of God and seated at His table.

Me: "Lord, this is incredible when You do this."

I am no longer disoriented, but immediately aware of my surroundings. He was smiling and laughing knowingly. He waved and two angels approached the table. Each of us was given two glasses; one was very small and the other was a normal wine glass.

The angel poured wine into Jesus' larger glass. Jesus smelled it and then took a sip. He then waved for the angels to pour some more into our glasses.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, try this. This is sweet wine from last year's harvest as the grapes from this year will not come into fullness for at least another year."

I took a drink and it was amazing. It was not too dry and not too sweet, but perfect and unlike anything I had ever had.

Me: "Wow, Lord, this is incredible."

He waived His hand and the angel poured wine from a very small bottle into His small wine goblet. He smelled it, tasted it and nodded for me to try this.

I tasted it and it was strong and compact. It cleared my sinus passages, even though they seemed to already be clear. This is hard to explain. It was surprisingly very good.

Me: "So the crushed and pulverized grapes produce this? This is amazing."

Jesus: "Yes. This is the strongest tasting of the wines; the latest and the strongest. Now let's continue with communion, Erin."

Just then, the angel brought two more goblets. I recognized these; they were incredible. Then the angel brought the vessel with my name on it and some warm bread, as well as some other items. I was crying.

Jesus: "Now, Erin, why are you crying? I know you were thinking to yourself that God's favorite wines are these, from the late grapes, but this is not necessarily true."

The angel poured red wine into Jesus' goblet. He first tasted it and then had some poured into mine. It was a red wine.

Jesus: "You should see the estates which produced this wine."

Me: "Lord, I cannot believe how many vineyards are in the valley. Do I just befriend winemakers here?"

Jesus: He was laughing and so were the angels. "No, Erin, there are so many crops of all kinds here and farmers to enjoy producing them. They too have beautiful properties. Many have endured extreme loss on Earth; some through famine or drought and some even by tornadoes or floods.

"You are also friends with them in the valley of Beracah. I am showing you grapes and wines. This is a significant parable. Now, we will take communion."

He broke off a piece of warm flat bread and handed this to me. I was crying, as per usual it seems. I was just so in awe of my time with Him here. For me to first to be baptized in water by Him and then to now sit at His table was simply amazing.

Me: "Lord, I am overwhelmed by Your presence. I am amazed by Your beauty and enthralled with everything You do."

Jesus: "Erin, take My hand. Let us thank God for this day and the blessing of it."

I saw Heavens part above Him. I realize this is difficult to understand as it is almost impossible to capture this in writing, but I saw Him offer up the bread to God in Heaven. I then too did the same with mine. I felt a rumbling of our chairs and table like an earthquake.

It was easily an earthquake greater than a '7.0', but Jesus sat there uninterrupted. He then took some of the bread and waved to me. I took some. It melted in my mouth.

He then took a sip of wine. However, instead of waiting for me to drink, He instead handed me His goblet from the very spot He drank. I partook in the wine. I felt a warm rush as the wine flowed into my blood and through my veins. It was amazing.

Jesus: "Is this not the most wonderful of wines?"

Me: "Lord, it is sweet, mild, smooth, rich and really light. What harvest is this?"

Jesus: "Erin, one in which you were a worker and a harvester. This is good, right?"

Me: I was crying. "Yes, Lord, this is a wonderful wine for a wedding."

Jesus: "Very good, Erin, very good. Now, why are you crying?"

Me: "Because, Lord, it has been two thousand years. You are coming now very soon, but I do not know when. I feel that You now know, which means any day. Lord, I am afraid for my country, America. Lord, I am frozen and afraid."

Jesus: "Erin, you take communion and dwell here. Why, then, are you afraid?"

Me: "Please forgive me, Lord, as I mean no disrespect. It is just that You have now shown me what will soon happen on Earth and I am frightened. I saw in a dream, just over Thanksgiving, that many Christians will come Home when America comes under judgment. This event will devastate so many of us."

Jesus: "Historically, Erin, in war, both sides sacrifice. This does not mean that God was not in favor of them. Look around at the beauty here. Would you rather be here or there?"

Me: "Lord, You are right. It is better here. It is just that the loss will test those of us who will remain."

Jesus: "Perhaps, but you will witness miracles far beyond what you could imagine. Do not worry, Erin, please. I have given you promises. Now, go to your friend with unshakeable faith to remind you of your place here."

Me: "Yes, Lord, You are right. When America comes under judgment, will this be the beginning of tribulation?"

Jesus: "No, but close. It is close at hand, make no mistake. Now prepare to release this information, but do not be afraid. Let Me do the rest. You are loved, Erin. I know the questions and concerns many of you will have. You and your friends should not be afraid. These messages were given to all of you. Now release this. It is time."

Me: "Lord, are You coming by the end of 2013?"

Jesus: "You must continue to look to Israel. Watch for signs there as to My timing. Please, be at peace. I am still not coming for a time for you. There is more to do."

Me: "Lord, but You told me there is nothing more for me to do."

Jesus: "You are correct, but there is still more to do on God's timing, okay? Please pray for your loved ones. Pray for your sister. You are loved by the King. You reside here. You have taken communion in high places.

"Do not worry when men seek to hurt you. You will be far removed from this soon. Pray for them for mercy as, when they realize the error of their ways, for many, it will be too late. It would be better for them to be crushed and pulverized from the grappa grape vineyards then to be thrown into the fire."

He saw that I was still crying and worried. He reached for and squeezed my hand gently. Instantly, we were by the pool on the bench by the aspen in my Heavenly backyard. I was in tears.

Me: "Thank You, Father, oh thank You."

Jesus: "I could not leave you while you looked so worried. Remember, I have sealed the promises I have made to you with My signet ring. A decree sealed by the King's ring cannot be revoked.

"You are Mine, Erin. I will remove your obstacles and your children will be safe, but I cannot say the same for those who have cursed you or your friends."

Me: "Oh Lord, they do not know. Please let me pray for them for mercy. Lord, bless my enemies so none of them perish, Lord. What is coming will cause hearts to fail. Please, Lord, hear my prayers for those who curse all God's children. They lack understanding.

"Please, Lord, of those whom You have called, grant them wisdom. Grant them supernatural knowledge so that they turn from wickedness and find You before it is too late."

Jesus: "I have heard your cry, Erin. You have forgiven your enemies. This is good. Now, give them to Me. I will take this from here."

Me: "Thank You, Lord, I love You."

Jesus: "I Love you too."

Dream over...

Dream 099 – God’s Crystal Conservatory

Received Sunday, December 15, 2013

(Formerly known as Heaven 25)

Communion

Dear Father,

Thank You for another day. Thank You for the roof over our heads. Thank You for the basics such as heat, electricity, water and also food. This is the first year in years in which I have not worried. Thank You. Thank You, Lord, for removing my worry for the basics.

This was a difficult last two weeks as I watched the enemy trolling around looking for ways to attack. Work seems to be my target as I see the enemy ramping up here. Lord, You have allowed this. I know full well that the security I feel at home can be lost in an instant with the loss of my job.

I saw attacks in areas in which I did not even know I was weak. I did not feel I let my guard down, yet I was helpless against my enemy and his reinforcements. I have now become ill and I am fighting a fever and cold.

Lord, I still cling to Your promises as I know You are my only hope. There is no other beyond You. There is nothing greater than You. There can never be anything to come against You with success.

You are the Creator and Author of us all; every living thing. Not one thing occurs without Your knowledge. You are amazing. I Love You.

I can do nothing against a strong enemy for I am small, but, Lord, I am Your daughter and I put myself in Your care. I am safer under Your wings than anywhere else. Better is one day in Your Courts.

Jesus: “Erin, come up.”

Me: “Oh, I am so glad to see You.”

I run to Him as He was walking toward me.

Jesus: “I know things have been difficult for you, but you are safe here.”

Me: I was weeping. "Lord, is there more to what You say? Are things to get worse?"

Jesus: "How should I answer this with wisdom?"

Me: "No need, Lord, as I know things will get more difficult. I can feel it in the air everywhere. There is a sense of false security right now amongst people"

Jesus: "Erin, I was speaking of you."

Me: "Lord, You will not go back on Your promises. Did I do something wrong?"

Jesus: "No, Erin, I am referring to your trouble. The enemy has asked to sift you more as wheat."

Me: "Lord, he is always asking for me. Why is God allowing more? What can I do? Can I go to Court here?"

He was laughing as He walked me to the tree with fruit. He pulled down two pears and handed me one.

Jesus: "I know that you liked this pear from before."

Me: "Yes, I love this amazing pear."

I bit into it and I was reminded of my last visit.

Jesus: "Now, you ask what you can do. The enemy was granted the ability to attack areas that you had forgotten protocol on. Remember, you left the locking mechanism off of a document. Although the testing was minor, the ramifications for you have been measured by those involved.

"Then two more exposures came. Both were not your fault, but, because you allowed the one, the other two are amplified. Now, the main question: 'Why was the enemy allowed the attacks?'"

Me: "I became too comfortable in my position? Was I arrogant? Maybe I was too trusting."

Jesus: "Erin, look at the methods the enemy used. Electronics, correct? Technology. Now I told you to guard your household and I reminded you about open doors."

Me: "Lord, I thought You were referring to getting our homes ready spiritually and protecting our thresholds against the enemy, not leaving our doors open."

Jesus: "Yes, but listen to what you just said. Please repeat this."

Me: "About thresholds and open doors?"

Jesus: "Yes, Erin. Remember, the strategy of the enemy follows the same pattern, but he just uses different means. What did he use?"

Me: "Technology through computers."

Jesus: "How does the enemy network using computers?"

Me: "The internet? My job was jeopardized by an open internet door?"

Jesus: "Very good. Now, the enemy is farther ahead of most of you because he is constantly looking for open doors to attack."

Me: "Lord, I just want to throw away all my technology. I hate this."

Jesus: He was laughing. "Erin, in a day like this, you cannot function without it. How would you communicate?"

Me: "You are right, Lord, it is not possible to function in a work environment without phones, computers, faxes and the internet. Most of us even exchange money this way."

Jesus: "Now the enemy has used this as his domain. He is the ruler in this earthly format, but God is in control."

Me: "Lord, at times this is confusing. God sees all of it. He could stop right now and end this. I wish He would."

Jesus: "Erin, be patient. There was a reason you were shown this, as well as other things. I want you to remember back a time."

I saw my old shop. This was my very first store back in Oregon. It was 1996. I had just got back from a buying trip to a market in North Carolina. I had a delay in the airport in Chicago.

Immediately, I was standing there simply making a phone call from a pay phone. I saw a man of Middle Eastern descent stand near me, but thought nothing of it. I used my phone card to call my family in Oregon. I laughed and had a great conversation.

When I got off the phone and went to my gate, I saw myself walk away with my luggage. My phone card was safely in my purse. Then I saw the man take off a type of metal disc attached to the pay phone and use it on a different pay phone.

Me: "Lord, what did he do there?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you remember what happened?"

Me: "Yes. Three days later, after I was back in Oregon, I received a phone call from my now ex-husband that the card was being used by a terrorist group to make calls from the USA to Iraq. There had been over three thousand calls made by many people. The phone company knew it was stolen, but how could I have stopped it?"

Jesus: "You could not, but it was a violation of trust, remember?"

Me: "Yes. I knew about phone fraud because, just a few years before this, I worked for a telecommunications corporation."

Jesus: "Erin, the enemy watched and waited for the right opportunity. You were a victim in this scheme; nothing more. The enemy was smarter here simply because he was one step ahead of you."

Me: "Lord, this is why You are here. I cannot keep up with the enemy's schemes. Only You can keep up with the enemy."

Jesus: "Erin, the enemy is bombarding you to try to confound you. If you are confused, then he can attack. This is a lesson in doors.

"Now, I have more to show you, but this is so you are not caught unaware by the enemy's trouble. There is wisdom here and you are a daughter of the King. You are not lost, but found, understand?"

Me: "So are you comforting me, Lord, or reprimanding me for my foolishness."

I was pouting a bit as knew I was wrong. He reached over and gave me a hug.

Jesus: "Erin, I did not bring you here to rebuke you, but you and your friends must understand portals of entry, or 'open doors', as this is wisdom."

Me: "Lord, forgive me, but I would much rather learn from You than the enemy."

Jesus: "Erin, look at the history of war and the strategies of war. It is good to know the enemy's schemes. Just keep yourself far removed from participation in them, understand?"

"It is one thing to study and know your opponent as this is wisdom, but it is entirely another thing to sit down and socialize with him. The enemy will win every time when this line is crossed.

"Now, sharing concerns and information with friends about wolves is good, but just do not wander off at night from the sheep fold as this is foolish."

Me: "There is more to this, Lord. So should I be careful not to share or over share information with my enemy and also with my friends too?"

Jesus: "Erin, information is power. The Bible is filled with information on how to fight against the enemy's schemes. The Holy Spirit will guide you in the way you should go.

"This is divine wisdom. Remember, the Bible is also studied by the enemy, but the enemy is void of the Holy Spirit and the ability to activate the Words. He can only speculate."

Me: "Lord, I forget to go to You in prayer over technology. I do over my doors and windows, but I forget about technology.

"The enemy paints himself to be modern, updated and forward thinking. We often leave technology out of our prayers to You because the writing in Scripture does not seem to reference it."

Jesus: Laughing. "Oh Erin, this is the last stand of the enemy. Look at the evil in which the enemy has brought even into your own living rooms and right under your roofs."

Instantly, I saw this replica of Earth appear, but then realized He had taken me to the Balustrade in the City. I looked over the side after I had recognized where I was. There I saw the Earth.

Me: "Lord, You moved me here so quickly. I am used to You squeezing my hand first."

He was to my left. He smiled and reached down to squeeze my hand. I laughed.

Jesus: "Erin, I reach to squeeze your hand in preparation so that you know we are about to move. I will continue to do this if you would prefer this?"

Me: "Lord, I love knowing that You are guiding me. When You take my hand, I know You are taking me with you. Then I feel dearly loved.

"When we are about to go on a journey, I love when You squeeze my hand in advance so I am ready to go and greatly anticipating the place of Your leading. Lord, I want to follow You, but I like it best when You hold my hand"

Jesus: He smiled. "Okay, Erin, I promise to do this, but know I am always with You. Know I am always with You and that I will never leave you or forsake you."

Me: "Lord, even when I felt lonely, I know You were right next to me. I remembered back a year ago or more, when I went to church, it was always packed and seating was very hard to find. I was always late because I took the kids to various Sunday school classes.

"By the time I would get to the church service, there were virtually no seats, but some in the front. I would always ask You to sit beside me because there were couples everywhere and I felt lonely.

"The seat next to me was always vacant for some reason and no one ever would sit there. This happened the last 8 years that I was going there. I would pray that the person that would sit next to me would only be there because You divinely sent them.

"Only a small handful of various people sat in the empty seat next to me over the years. Sure enough, it was always someone the Lord, You, had sent. Most of the time I was sad and I wondered what was wrong with me. I would look around and I thought I was like everyone else, so I wasn't sure what it was about me.

"Then, one Sunday about a year ago at Christmas, again it was packed for service at this massive church. The seat next to me again remained open. I saw people come, look at the vacant seat next to me and then go somewhere else to sit.

"By the time worship started, I would have tears forming in my eyes. As the music started and the lights dimmed, we would all stand. The songs were perfect. I felt something like a hand around my arm at times.

"As we stood there, I often felt a hand on my shoulder or back. When 'Holy Night' played, I felt a hand on my head. I knew that this was either my guardian Angel or You all along, Lord. I felt Your presence there with me."

Jesus: "Erin, God knows your thoughts. The Lord knows your deep longings and the sorrow you have felt. You were never alone, even when you tried to push Me away. I knew your heart. I felt the times when you would go to church.

"At first, you were afraid to go alone, but you still went. People did not always treat you kindly and you were the subject of mocking and rumors, but even in this you went to show your love and gratitude for Me."

Me: "Lord, I knew You have always been here. I know You see all things. I know the Angels keep records. Lord, forgive me as I was severely hurt at church. People are not always nice and they often do mean things in Your Name. Lord, I was treated cruelly at times.

"I have learned more about You since then. Now I worship You even deeper in my own living room on my knees than when I went to church. I thank You, Lord. If I had remained the way I was, I would never know You. It is hard to be a woman alone at church."

Jesus: "Erin, the Lord is about the heart. Remember the widow. I tell you the truth; that the simplest things, acts, on Earth, are the ones long remembered here. Things insignificant on Earth are significant to God on the Throne. Now, about Your worship; why is it that a man is shunned for openly worshipping Me?"

Me: "I assume it is like David with Saul's daughter, which was also one of David's wives. Maybe because some people present themselves as being more Holy than others, it becomes about showmanship and not about worship to You.

"I found out quickly that people do not like raising their hands, praying or bending their knee out of order in service. Dancing seems to be only for Saturday night services with Christian rock worship bands and the youth.

"Lord, I loved to go to these night services and sit in the back to watch. The kids seemed to worship You in both Spirit and truth. They seemed more thankful and pure."

Jesus: "Perhaps, Erin, but do you know where you worship the Lord the most?"

Me: "Besides in my living room, perhaps in my dreams?"

Jesus: He was laughing. "No, Erin, in your car." I became embarrassed. "Erin, why are you embarrassed?"

Me: "I do not know what it is about my car, but it is like a sound proof booth. I sing at the top of my lungs. I think about You in Heaven and I am so thankful, but I fear my singing could use some divine help. Perhaps You could grant me the gift of a singing voice before I am perfected here?" I was laughing.

Jesus: Now He was laughing too. "Erin, are you asking and praying for this? You are welcome to ask, Erin, as I love to grant good gifts and God on the Throne grants good gifts to those who love Him."

Me: "Oh Lord, yes, of course. If you are handing out gifts today, then, yes, I would love to have a beautiful singing voice, but there are other things I need."

He was smiling and laughing. He is so beautiful and He has such compassion in His eyes.

Jesus: "Are you saying there is a limit to how many gifts a daughter of the King can receive? Where is it written that there are limits on gifts from God? Where is it stated that there are boundaries concerning Heaven? Erin, if you need something, ask and you shall receive it. However, when you ask, do not doubt, okay?"

Me: "Yes, Lord, it is not that I doubt You can do anything, but it is more a matter of when and how."

Jesus: "Yes, a mystery." He was laughing because He already knew when and how. "Now, you spoke of things under your roof and how the praise in your living room is open and better than elsewhere.

"I want to show you the severity of the enemy's schemes in living rooms on Earth. This goes back to the 'open door' by which the enemy comes and goes freely. Some doors are obvious and some are subtle and change over time."

Immediately, I saw the Earth rotating on an axis. I heard an immense amount of noise. I saw satellites rotating around the Earth and I could hear the information coming from these satellites. I saw this familiar grid of light, like a web, over the entire Earth.

I saw a giant spider weaving and spinning thicker and thicker strands around the Earth. The major cities were spun up, like coiled flies in her trap. In remote places, there was either no web or just a very faint web.

I saw, with enhanced vision, into one of the cities. It was in Asia. I saw young girls being mistreated. Film was spun out into living rooms from all over the world. I saw men performing evil all over the world with children. Much of this was filmed and sent out.

I saw deception and money exchanging. I saw evil of all types occurring under quiet roofs. The more evil, the tighter the web became around a house. I saw children being abused and then leaving the home for the day; boarding buses and going to school.

I was in tears and I had become angry at the sight of all of this.

Me: "Lord, why are You not stopping this? This is everywhere; boys, girls and even babies. These parents are participating or ignoring what is happening. Lord, how can I be normal after seeing this?"

"Please, Lord, remove these treacherous people from the face of the Earth. I make this my request. This is stuff done in secret in the dark, but, Lord, You see this all. Please send Angels to cut them down."

Jesus saw how upset I was by this, but He still had more to show me. I saw the murder of innocent children, all for the profit of perversion. I saw countries allowing girls too young to marry with old men who would rape them.

This was different as this was happening everywhere. This was happening in America, Mexico, Europe, Russia, China, Japan, South America and Africa. I became angry. He held me as I wept.

Jesus: "Erin, there is a reason I showed you this today. Now take my hand."

I felt Him reach for my hand and gently squeeze it. Instantly, we were in the beautiful conservatory in God's Garden. The children were playing Christmas music with their instruments. The entire place was decorated for Christmas.

Through the glass, I saw children playing outside. There were Angels everywhere. I had never seen such a beautiful sight in all my life. I was crying and I even cry as I write this.

Me: "Oh Lord, this is beautiful. The music is amazing and perfect."

I heard something like the Bittersweet Symphony mixed with Pachelbel in Canon D. There was such joy, but, for me, it was bittersweet. I knew what had happened to so many of these orphans and 'throwaways' on Earth.

Jesus: "Erin, your thoughts."

Me: "Lord, help me please. How can You not do anything when You see such things? How can God not be angry? How can this evil continue?"

Jesus: "Erin, do you think God only loves the victim or do you not think that the Lord will do everything to His glory and according to His plans? Do you not believe that this injustice is not counted and weighed on a scale? Do you not think that God is angry? Blessed is the man who turns from evil and is repentant on Earth."

Me: "Lord, please forgive me, but it is hard for me to see the evil firsthand. I did not realize how serious it is or how bad it is becoming with every second. Technology has given evil the ability to accelerate. Lord, there is no protection against this unless You are here. What can I do?"

Jesus: "Erin, pray. Pray for your children. Work together against this. It is a devourer. What 'bug' can always squirm in and spin a web? A spider can find its way in, even up through the plumbing, but especially in plain sight. What you have witnessed was the event occurring now in the spirit realm."

Me: "When will Gabriel, Michael, and Uriel cut the web?"

Jesus: "Do not focus on this. Ready your households as if they will do this at any time."

Me: "So, Lord, You are showing me a celebration of Christmas here in God's Garden. Would God not follow Hanukkah too?"

Jesus: "Erin, what is more important; the miracle birth of His Son or the miracle of oil and a candle?"

Me: "Lord, for a moment I forgot it is nearing Your birthday."

Jesus: "While this time and day was set by men and not God, this is still good as the children love this."

The children began to sing "Halleluiah, King of kings and Lord of lords!" As they sang, the music started to overlap. It was so beautiful. The children's voices made me cry. These children were like lights and the glory of God was on their faces.

I have never felt the presence of God more greatly than in this very place other than at His Throne. I felt God Himself here and I was weeping. Jesus continued to hold my hand. I will always remember this day here in Heaven as one of the most amazing ever.

As I listened, the choirs of children, the symphony of orphans and the chorus of Angels above went into my very body. The music ran through my blood. I was almost not able to contain the presence of God there. I dropped to my knees.

I realized that they were all worshiping Jesus, the very One Who was holding my hand right now. I dropped to His feet and wept. The entire Glass Crystal Conservatory had the most perfect music.

The songs of those who had suffered so much will ring forever in my ears as the most beautiful praise music to God ever. The music was so pure and innocent and the love of Christ was so overwhelming.

I spent some time there listening. Jesus put His hand on my head and then bent down at His knees to reach for my hands. As He did, the choir began to sing "O Holy Night." It sounded much the same as the song sung by the children of the King's College Children's Concert I saw once on YouTube, but this was even more beautiful.

As they all sang, Jesus led me by my hand on into God's Garden. The snow was now falling there and the children were playing in the snow. They played with each other and with the Angels. When they saw Jesus, they ran to Him and He was laughing.

As I watched all of this, I just knew that God Himself had adopted each of these children. They were very blessed. Off to the side, there were some beautiful young teenage girls who sang together and sounded Celtic.

As I looked around me, I was fascinated. I saw every nationality here. I know that many of these children came from different eras in time, yet they played along with children who had just come Home to be with our Lord even a day before.

I was remembering what Jesus had shown me that these children had gone through. I was delighted by what Heaven had done for each of these children.

Jesus: "Erin, come over here."

I looked over and I saw that He was playing and laughing with the children. These children loved Jesus with absolutely no conditions. It was so wonderful to see. As the children play tackled Him, Jesus waved to one of the Angels to come over to me. I recognized this Angel from a long time ago.

Me: "Hey, you were from the path! I recognize you from the dome, along with Breakthrough. You kept me focused on getting up the ladder to Heaven and to Jesus."

Angel: "Yes, I was there at God's command to keep your focus on your destiny and not on the trouble immediately before you and coming your way."

Me: "Oh, did you help the children here focus on Jesus too?"

Angel: "Yes. My assignment is to draw the attention away from evil and to focus on good."

